"I don't vote for candidates because I like them, but because of their qualifications for filling the office as brought out in their platforms."

Anne Widerquist, senior

"You go up and pull the little lever for the person you have heard the most about and whose names you have read most often"

Betty Bell, senior

"I read the platforms in The Flambeau and by personal knowledge of their general awareness of campus conditions, I vote for the candidates up for election."

Myra Jean Bates, sophoomre

"I vote by what I see of the candidates, how they act when I'm around them, and by what I think of their ability."

Lucille Ossenkop, freshman

INSIDE RED BRICK WALLS

Covered by Ivy

With due apologies to the illustrious "Sharpie"
And to the short, but brilliant reign of "Harpie"
This epistle is begun in all of its glory
And we truly hope that it won't bore 'ya (Silly thought)
You got the joke of course?
Inside red brick walls?

Covered by me? Ivy? I'm not a vine, I'm a reporter! Get it—Get it? Well, get it!

Ivy decided that since Sharpie was so loaded down with fan mail this week (Sharpie is so popular—oh, me!) that she, being a loyal supporter of our beloved school paper, would rise to the occasion and help her sort the mail!

The first letter (and there were two big tear splotches on it) was signed, "Bewildered". Bewildered writes: "a number of us on campus thought of a darling (at least we thought it was darling) title for our spring performance. We were going to call it "Junior Mixtures" and have the dances centered around songs denoting the names of cocktails, such as "Manhattan Serenade." Our plan, of course went through the "proper authorities" but was rejected because they said it was risque! What did they mean?"

Ivy had to think on that one for quite awhile, but she finally decided that there can be but one explanation. The "proper authorities" just don't know how to spell. Undoubtedly they meant that such an idea was too "risky". You know, "risky whiskey"?

A freshman was responsible for the next letter which Ivy tore feverishly open. She says, (and I quote her verbatum) "We're tired of it all. We just won't stand for it any longer! We shall rise up as one, and demand our rights! "Damn the torpedos, full speed ahead!"

The next letter was written in French (imagine!) but Ivy herself being a student of French (and an ardent admirer of the French, I might add) was able to translate it. The letter stated that the author believed herself to have a "B" average in French. On checking with her teacher, she discovered three zeros on her record, and learned that her average was a "D." "But how did I get those zeros, "cried the distressed girl? "Those", said the teacher venemously, "are the days you cut!"

Ivy can only suggest that the student in question try to obtain possession of said roll book in some way and to erase the zeros. After all, it seems that anything goes!

The last letter is from one who signs herself, "Outraged". She claims that she has been locked out of Gilchrist's dining hall seven times now, and she's getting pretty outraged about it. How would you like to race madly up two flights of stairs with 25 other girls behind you, only to have a closed sign slamed insulting in your face? And two minutes early too!

Ivy suggests that Outraged try some of the other dining halls. It is rumored that they don't close before the scheduled time, and also that they don't slam a closed sign in your face when they see you coming!,

And that seems to be all the mail for now. Disappointed? Oh well, tomorrow is another day and who knows? We might see you tomorrow—you lucky, lucky people! And so, (as we say in French) this is "finis". N'est-ce pas?

Remember...

Dead Week Begins

Dead week will officially begin tonight at third light flash according to an announcement from Ann Carolyn Allison, president of College Government Association.

Grades Withheld!

All library books must be returned by Tuesday, March 19. No student will receive her grades until her library record is clear, announces Miss Louise Richardson, librarian

Candidates Note

All candidates who entered double petitions must enter two campaign pictures, this week, announced Ann Carolyn Allison, president of College Government.

The pictures cannot be annual pictures as some candidates turned in, but must be snapshots. Ann Carolyn said that the pictures could be exchanged in room 229 Landis

Pay These Fines

Madelyn King, treasurer of CGA, has announced that grades will be withheld of those who have not paid their convocation fines by March 16.

Rule Reminder

Arrangements for formal social affairs must be registered with the Dean of Students office two weeks in advance. Alice Walton, chairman of the Social Standards Council, reminds organizations planning events that may come under this classification.

Informal affairs should be registered in the same office two days in advance of the date planned. All social affairs scheduled for week nights, that is, Monday through Friday, should be informal and must end at 9 p m. according to the Social Standards Council.

Staff for a Week

Positions are being held on the Flambeau this week by the following:

Shirley Rodgers — editor
Betty Dowd — associate editor
Evalyn Shea — managing editor
Alicia Armstrong,
Jackie Nevers — news editors
Mary Jane Sherman,
La Ferne Quinn — copy editors
Barbare Lanford — society editor
Paulette Blank,
Jean Douglas — feature editors
Barbara Farrar assistant managing editor
Barbara Beckman,
Marjorie Clark — columnists
Jean Bess — sports editor
Eileen Perry — assistant sports editor
Kay Van Deurs — art editor
La Ferne Quinn — opinion editor

MAGAZINE JOTTINGS

By CATH J NOLLMAN

Russia's In a Tight Spot Toe

In the current issue of Harper's Peter F Drucker, author of The End of Economic Man and The Future of Industrial Man, points out clues to an understanding of future Russian policy as revealed by a new Five-Year Plan which Russia formally announced at approximately the same time as the Japanese surrender.

This is Russia's fourth Five-Year Plan and Mr Drucker says that if the "plans before the war aimed at making Russia economically strong enough to withstand a war, the new plan proposes to make her economically strong enough to play the role of a superpower." As in the other plans the country's needs are placed above the individual. The goal is to industrialize the country; the main emphasis is on building up the capital-goods industries. By doubling the prewar rate of steel production, the plan provides for the production of 35 to 40 million tons a year by 1950. Second in importance is the building of a powerful navy and naval bases, especially in the Far East.

"Official comments insist that Russia, by 1950, should be able to supply all her peacetime and wartime needs in the basic products of an industrial civilization." Moreover, Russian policy considers it necessary for the security of the Soviet Union that countries in the Soviet zone of influence be dependent upon her for capital equipment. The plan is flexible, but its very existence shows Russia's determination to become industrially powerful.

Since 1928, when the first plan started, the Soviet Union has been living in an extreme war economy, promising the people that once the country was strong enough greater economic improvements would be made. Russia's investment of national income in capital goods and war supplies rose as high as 75 per cent and never sank below 40 per cent. In comparison, the U S, in the peak years of the war, never allocated more than 50 per cent. Because there were so few consumer goods for the Russians their money income surpassed the supply of goods. To prevent this surplus income from wrecking the economy rationing, sales taxes concealed in the retail price of commodities, and taxes concealed in the fee that the government charged the collective farms for the use of tractors, were used.

When the plans were started Russia was mainly an agricultural country. Between 1928 and 1941 at least twelve million men were added to the industrial labor force. Since these men came from farms, which farms now had to supply the additional food for the new industrial workers, the system of collective farms was devised. The majority of Russian peasants bitterly opposed the system, but collectivization, which provided better equipment and less manual labor, was the cornerstone of the Russian industrialization program. The plan almost broke the regime and the ruthless methods used for its accomplishment coupled with the non-admission of immigrants made Russia a totalitarien nation. The aims toward which she was driving were being accomplished when war largely undid her achievements.

At present Russia is faced with an industrial labor and agricultural shortage plus mechanized equipment shortage. Not until 1947 is Russia expected to be able to supply even the minimum consumer needs of her population.

The great question behind the new Five-Year Plan is whether or not the people will be willing to continue making incredible sacrifices.

Mr Drucker says that the only real hope for the consumer goods problem is a large American loan to buy consumer goods in America. Russia has officially announced that she is about to ask for such a loan in the amount of six billion dollars. To go through with the deal would be contrary to Russian policy for it would bring Russia into America's economic zone of influence and control and establish th USA as the superior power.

At present the Soviet Union stands facing the alternatives absolute autarchy of a police state and the risk of endangering her industrial expansion or the attainment of industrial goals through dependence on the capitalistic world. The introduction of the Five-Year Plan, says Mr Drucker, shows that the basic trend in economic policy will continue in the direction of autarchy and industrial self-sufficiency and anything else will be a concession to the needs of the moment. The final indications are "that she will combine with a concern for world peace an insistence on going her own way . . . keeping herself to herself, and so far as possible bending her immediate neighbors to her will."

The Wee Small Voice

of an LWOC

Being an LWOC does have its advantages, I keep telling myself. Anyway, the BWOC's feel free to talk before me and sometimes I get the inside dope about what's going on on campus.

Like this morning at breakfast I rolled myself into a wad of gum and stuck myself under one of the tables in the dining hall. And this is what I heard.

Quote: (Conversation overheard at breakfast.)

"Have you heard of the new Citizen's Committee?" queried the blond one with the blond sweater.

"No. What is it?" responded her dark companion obligingly as she took another bite of cantaloupe.

"Well, I don't know that I have it straight, but I think it's a committee of students who are going around interviewing all the candidates for College Government Association offices and asking them to state specific platforms," the blond one explained. She smiled a thank-you at the girl who had just brought her a plate of steaming waffles and country sausage.

"Good Lord!" exclaimed the dark one. "I'm just running to do what a second vice should do—you know, what it says in the book. Well, maybe a little bit more. What shall I say? Mumble off something about trying to improve the school?"

"I think it's a good idea—if it's worked out unbiasly. It's stirring up more interest in the elections, at least."

See how wide awake our candidates are, girls? And so early in the morning, too!

Teachers always have a way of making me feel so inferior. Take for instance in class the other day, there was a sign on the blackboard that suggested, "Think for yourself—your teacher may be wrong."

Our teacher was so considerate. Fearing that we might be confused and upset by such a statement,

Continued on page five

The Florida Flambeau

1945 1946 STAFF
EDITORIAL STAFF

JANET ROGERS — Editor
ANNE GAITHER, PEGGY KAY — Associate Editors
LOIS SYRO, JUDY PEPPER — Assistant Editors
SHIRLEY RODGERS — Managing Editor
MAY ALEXANDER, PEGGY LU THOMSON — News Editors

Copy Editor — Lola Bee
Society Editor — Madge Pilcher
Feature Editor — Betty Jo McLeod
Assistant Managing Editor — Bobbie Bell
Columnist — Anne Hutton
Assistant Society Editor — Madge Pilcher
Sports Editor — Betty Dowd
Assistant Sports Editor — Evelyn Shea
Outside News Editor — Gloria Reed
Literary Editor — Catherine Nollman
Opinion Editors — Jerry Crume, Barbara Wickham
Picture Editor — Dee Gardner
Art Editor — Lucy Felden
Assistant Art Editor — Jean Sharer

REPORTERS: Alicia Armstrong, Alvera Ashe, Jacelyn Ayers, Eleanor Bayer, Barbara Beckman, Jean Bess, Paulette Blank, Virginia Budd, Laura Lee Butler, Jean Douglas, Marthe Jo Dunagan, Barbara Farrar, Dorothy Fouts, June Orndstaff, Winifred Lane, Barbara Lanford, Jo Mingola, Jacqueline Nevers, Eileen Perry, Joyce Petty, Ferne Quinn, Mary Jane Sherman, Evelyn Shea, Frances Trasler, Kay Van Deurs.

BUSINESS STAFF

Helen Parapeau — Business Manager
Sally Watson — Assistant Business Manager
Kitty Chaires — Advertising Manager
Dorothy Bloodworth, Vivian Scheaffer, Faith Adams — Advertising Staff

Entered as second class mail matter January 30, 1915, at the post office at Tallahassee, Fla. under the act of Congress of March 3, 1879.

Member
[illegible]egiate Press

It is the policy of the Flambeau to grant equal space and prominence to anyone wishing to present a contrary opinion whenever opinions on controversial questions are voiced in its columns.

Athlete's Feats

Evelyn Shea

The Even teams surely did make a clean sweep of the dd-Even games this sport season but some of the games ere so well matched that only time and events decided the ser and winner.

For example, in the Odd-Even swimming meet, although e Evens captured first places in all events, except diving, e Odds tallied second and third positions in every event ept one. Because second and third place combined add up s one point short of a first place the Evens were declared nners by a narrow five point margin.

However, the most exciting game of the weekend, was e Odd-Even volleyball match and this game left your correspondent weak. I wonder how it left our guest writer last eek, King Volleyball. He certainly was right about being ruised" when the game was over because from the way ose two teams passed the ball and spiked, struggling to n, it's a wonder he's not in bed with a hangover. The final ore as most of you know was 22-21 and that doesn't mpletely tell the story. The Odds had a comfortable four int lead at half time but after the intermission, the Evens ttled down the lead and the score stood 16-16 for several change of serves. Then the Evens pulled ahead in a rally at netted them four points. They added two more on ter serves and appeared to have the game well in hand en the Odd team staged a comeback which brought them thin one point of a tie and two points of victory. Time n out as PEGGY BECKNELL, Odd, was serving.

AA NEWS . . . .

Wednesday at WAA meeting, sports leaders for next ar in swimming, basketball, and volleyball were elected.

CLARICE TRUEBLOOD . . . Odd basketball leader is year . . . re-elected as leader . . . a junior now, she'll be senior next year . . . vice-president of WAA . . . plays ard . . . tall enthustastic Odd . . .

JOYCE GARMAN . . . newly elected Even volleyball ader . . . she will take senior Sarah Bennett's place . . . yce will be a junior next year . . . a quiet yet outstandg player . . . member of Sophomore Council . . .

B J SINGLETON . . . Re-elected Odd swimming leader r next year . . . although B J did not swim this year she oduced a cracker-jack team . . . she'll be a senior next ar . . . tall brunette . . .

CAROL CLAUS . . . she took Skooks Lester's place as ader when Skooks interned this quarter . . . a sophomore, rol produced a winning team . . . besides being an excellent swimmer she maintains excellent grades . . . she'll e leading the Even swimming team next year as a junior . . .

MARLI RICHARDSON . . . Marli didn't play this year t as I said above her team came close to victory . . . she'll e out next year to score a triumph for the Odds . . . Volleyball is her game . . . She to was re-elected . . .

ROSA LEE DAVIS . . . Elected Even basketball leader . "Davie" didn't play this year but she knows and loves sketball . . . She'll be stepping into Babe Evans' and Mart ilson's shoes . . . a sophomore now she'll be a junior next ear . .

ORCHIDS TO . . . .

MARTHA TWITTY and EVANS, former graduates f here refereed the basketball game last week and they oth did a grand job. Here's hoping they'll come back again.

ID YA' KNOW . . . .

That CORRINE JOHNSTON, our star tiddle-winks layer is back on campus ? ? ? ?

INIS FOR NOW . . . .

This is the last issue of the Flambeau until next quarter nd quite naturally this is the last column so we'll see you ll next quarter when badminton, softball, and tennis are n season . . . and that's thirty for now.

Gator Talk . . .

By Johnny Walker and Tom Henderson

After an absence of several eeks due primarily to mid-term ams—rush week—and the sudden seizure of one member of this steemed writing team by the Ts, we now return to you with e same brilliant, scintillating mmentary for which we are renowned.

Tearing ourselves away from e decadent delights of our voluminous library of pornographic terature, we shall proceed to the ore wholesome task of plagiarizg copy fit for the tender ears f innocent young maidens.

A PEEK INTO THE NEWS OF THE WEEK — 100 veterans and amilies moved into a governmentally constructed village of wo room lean-to's this week—at one-man menagerie, "Bear" Wolf, took over the reins of the Gators head football coach with e full support of the student ody—following a general assembly to introduce Wolf, our old iend J J (known in some quarters as Dr Tigert) threw his annual reception for new students Florida Union, at which sloe n and other undargraduate nectars were conspicuous by their absence — fraternities cleaned out eir bear traps last weekend and ported that 262 new men had een taken. . . ATO hotel led the eld with 38—a survey of Gainesville reveals that all hotels and oming houses are booked solid take care of dates for Spring Frolics, March 8 and 9 (incldently, the IFC revived an old le last week which says that tes are to pay thir own room ll —the Tally Glee Club has been scheduled to perform here the weekend before Spring Frolics.

FLASH — We, your correspondents, are branching out. After long deliberation, we have decided to turn our talents to writing for the "pulp" magazines. Our first masterpiece, now in the throes of creation, is entitled "Lurid Love" or "Come Into The Cornfield, Esmirelda." Our story deals with the great lovs of a buxom country lass, Esmirelda Twaddle, for the lattern-jawed, honest-grey-eyed bucolic, Zacharias Snatch.

The scene opens on a happy agrarian setting. Esmirelda, her hair shinning in the early morning sunlight like shredded wheat, sits milking the family bovine, Lotus Blossom, and humming a few snatches of the latest song hit, "I Found A Great Big Kiss Right Under My Baby's Nose." Hear heart was light. Zacharias had asked her to the corn husking bee.

That night when Zacharias arrived, Esmirelda was sitting on the porch, resplendent in her Pillsbury party dress and a pair of sneakers. They set off, Zacharias happily humming that rustic favorite, "Redskin, Why are You Blue?" This is the first time they have ever been alone together. Zacharias gently takes her hand and remarks, a throaty catch in his voice, "Plowed the South forty today." Esmirelda, not possessing his suave command of language and almost overcome by love, contents herself by gurgling. As they walk by Zacharias's North Northeast forty, the waving green stalks of corn beckon to Zacharias. He turns to his beloved and says huskly "Come into the corn field, Esmirelda."

This is as far as we have progressed in our narrative. Will Esmirelda enter the corn field? Will we ever get out of the corn field? Frankly, we don't know yet ourselves.

In our last column wa initiated a drive to procure tonsorial attention for our shaggy roommate. This drive was known as the "Bostwick Haircut Fund." To date, we have received two contributions — the first, a razor blade, which the sender claimed was the instrument she always used in shearing her locks—the second, a five cent piece to go toward getting the young man a haircut. This generous gift was received from a group of concerned FSCW girls who called themselves "The Suffering Spinsters." If these young women will make themselves known, we shall take measurses to alleviate their suffering. Donations are still being accepted. What about a Delilah oext time?

Annual Swim Meet Is Held

Record Set Up Last Year Broken by Horne

The results of the Southern Intercollegalte Telegraphic Swimming meet were announced last night, by Miss Margaret Stanion, referee of the meet at Florida State College. The timings this year were relatively the same as last year except for the 40 yard back crawl and the 100 yard front crawl, both of which were broken by Anna Horne.

The records set in last year's meet at FSC came in first place in the Southern Telegraphic and second place in the national meet for women's colleges. Miss Stanion hopes the team will place about the same in this year's meets.

When asked what she thought of the meet, Miss Stanion said, "The girls have worked hard since the first of this quarter, and I am completely satisfied with the final results. Of course I can't make any predictions as to how we will rank in accord with the other colleges but I do hope we will do as well as last year."

Other colleges participating in the Southern Telegraphic are: University of Alabama, University of Louisville, Oklahoma College for Women, William and Mary, University of Oklahoma, Duke University, Sophie Newcomb, Carson-Newman, Woman's College University of North Carolina and Winthrop College.

The nine girls entering the meet at FSC swam Monday and Thursday afternoons and were timed both times. The best timing of the two days will be sent in to headquarters, which is at the Farmville, Virginia.

The results to be sent in are as follows: individual 75 yard medley swam by Carol Claus in 57 second, 40 yard crawl by Anna Horne in 25.1, 40 yard breast stroke by Carol Claus in 31.4, 40 yard back crawl by Anna Horne in 29.5, 75 yard medley relay in 51 seconds, 100 yard front crawl by Anna Horne in 1 minute 10.7 seconds, 100 yard free style relay in 1 minute and 100 yard back crawl by Carol Claus in 1 minute and 24.9 reconds.

The girls entering ni the meet were: Carol Claus, Anna Horne, Nancy MacEdwards, Joan Boucher, Amelia Pavese, Doris Dubois, Pauline Tuttle, Margery Holm and Joanne Zewadski.

Femmes de F Fight Fierce Forest Ferns

The F club project for this year, desirable place for outings, which was decided upon at an F club meeting several weeks ago, is now under way, Barbara Irving, acting president of the F club, announces.

Mickey Chambers was appointed chairman of a committee to secure a blueprint of the Games' Woods area to determine tha boundaries of the land included in the Florida State College campus. Mr Herbert D Mendenhall, resident engineer, has supplied the needed blueprint of FSC property, and for the past several weeks regular crews from F club have gone out on Saturday mornings to cut a path from the area between the tennis courts to Games' woods. They are using tools made available to them by the carpenter shop, Barbara said.

While the college has long intended to improve the section of land leading to Games' woods by making a regular road, and has offered to build a bridge across the creek, and supply barbecue pits, tables and benches for picnicking, the members of F club decided to hurry the process along by cutting the path to Games' Woods themselves.

The task is a long and arduous one and will probably take tha remainder of the year to achieva completion. Some of the F clubbers, states Barbara, have in their all-out effort to beat a path to Games' Woods, encountered poison ivy and suffered the consequences which the annoying little plant metes out to all who touch it.

Another Victory Won By Evens In Volley and Basketball Games

With the scores of 22-21 and 22-16 the Evens claimed victory over the Odds in last Saturday afternoon's volleyball and basketball games.

Elaine Gavigan, Even player, served to the Odds to start the game. The Odds held a steady five point lead throughout the first half of the game. At the beginning of the second half the Evens rallied and gained the starting points. The Odds lost most of the serves until the last few minutes of the game, too late, however, to make up for the lost points, and the game ended with a 22-21 victory for the Evens.

The Evens hung another victory on the Odds in the basketball game with a score of 22-16. Members of the Even basketball team rode in on the basketball court on a cart decked out with green and gold streamers.

The Evens started the game off with forward Amarene Thompson in with the ball. They were ahead in the game throughout the first half. Anna Geise made the highest number of points during the whole game with a total of 10 points for the Even team. Amarene Thompson, also an Even, followed with 9 points. Odd forward, Sis Miller, was the high point man for the Odd team with 6 points.

The game started off with the following Even lineup: forwards—Anna Geise, Amarene Thompson and Mart Wilson; and guards—Catherine Barrs, Bopie Whitaker and Betty Kennedy. The substitutes were: forwards—Grace Hayes, Juanita Krentzman and Catherine Sullivan; guards—Evelyn Shea, Jean Filess and Alva Ray.

The Odd team was composed of: forwards — Nancy Ward, Lucille "Sis" Miller and Elaine Brown; guards — Betty Jane Gardiner, Clarice Trueblood and Ethel Clann. The substitutes were: forwards—Betty Schwarta, Lucy Harding and Shirley Hargroves; guards—Rachel Chambers, Jane Nightingale and Mary Louise White.

The referees were alumnae who are nationally rated officials. Helen Evans, class of '35, and at the present a teacher of physical education at Orlando High School, Orlando, Florida, and Martha Twitty, class of '44, and physical education teacher at the P K Yonge Laboratory School, Gainesville, Florida, were the refarees.

Peggy Becknell and Frankie Hall were the score keepers for the team. Eloise Boyles and Enid Sandler were the time keepers.

The Odd captain for the volleyball game was Mae Manning, who had as her beginning lineup: Angie Marino, Sarah Lou Wells, Virginia Palmer, Peggy Becknell, Jo Peters, Joyce Benton, Lois Meriwether and Mae Manning. The substitutes were Virginia Goodell, Mary Nell Goldman, Ann Seward and Inez Augustine.

The Even captain, Sarah Bennett, had as her starting team: Elaine Gavignan, Jeanne Koesey, Joyce Garman, Jean Bennett, Candy Jones, Marian Ployd, Dink Ashton and Sarah Bennett. The substitutes were Dorothy Mims, Jo Story, Pep Stanaland and Mary Louise Van Natta.

The gymnasium was decorated with streamers of red, white and purple and green and gold on respective sides of the balcony. Members of Spirogyra and Esteren were seated on their corresponding sides in their traditional dress. Odd and Even cheerleaders led the yells of the spectators during the halves and throughout the games.

Two FSC Students Attend Performance Given By Fritz Kreisler in Jacksonville

By ELEANOR BAYER

The concert of Fritz Kreisler, eminent violinist, which was given in Jacksonville several weeks ago was attended by two Florida State College students, Rachel Crotwell and Frances Duckworth.

Tickets for the concert were not available to the girls since only members of the Jacksonville Civic Music Association were permitted to attend. Miss Olga Eitner, associate professor of violin, who accompanied Frances and Rachel, is a friend of Mr Kreisler's personal representative, Paul Stoes, and with the aid of Mr Stoes the three ladies from FSC obtained seats near the stage, and heard every note that the great virtuoso played.

This was the first time the girls had ever heard Mr Kreisler, but this was not the case with Miss Eitner. "I saw Mr Kreisler first in Omaha, Nebraska, several years ago, and since then I have heard him twelve or more times, aud each time his playing seems more exquisite," said Miss Eitner.

Having talked with Mr Kreisler on several occasions, Miss Eitner has become familiar with many of his little habits and idiosyncrasies which have always been amusing. Miss Eitner said that once she was backstage during a concert at intermission, talking with the famous violinist. As he talked, he kept pushing his hair out of his eyes, and finally he turned to her and confided, "I just wgshed my hair and can't do a thing with it."

In his possession Mr Kreisler has three Stradivarii violins, but on this tour he carried a Guarerius, which is of equal value as a Stradivarius but is not quite as well known. Violin students here at colleg will be interested to know that tha super-sensitive steel strings available at thg College Bookstore are the same kind that Frits Kreisler always uses.

"It is amazing to me," said Miss Eitnar, "that a man seventy years old is able to make extensive tours of the country, traveling all day, and yet giving perfect performances in the evening upon arriving in another city."

It has been more than fifty years since thirteen-year-old Fritz Kreisler played his violin for the first time in America, and over the decades he has held his place in American hearts as the greatest violinist of all. Friends have suggested that he might want to retire, but he scoffs at the notion. Since last year he is more active than ever, having added radio appearances to his already crowded concert schedule. Though he has been heard by countless audiences in concert halls everywhere, he is the only great living musician who, until last year, had never been heard over the radio.

Miss Eitner said that she heard Mr Kreisler saying after his concert in Jacksonville, "I look forward to my recitals, now more than ever, with a special feeling of happiness, for after all these years of faithful support, I regard the people who come to hear me as my friends"

Mr Kreisler, known and loved the world over for being as great a humanitarian as a musician, went on to say, "My great hope is that my music may help my friends to foregt for an hour or two the sad memories, or the fears of what may be, that beset us all today."

Club Honors Lester With A Breakfast

Gladys "Scoots" Lester was honored by the members of the Life Saving Corps with a breakfast in the Sweet Shop last Wednesday morning at 8 o'clock. "Scoots", president of the Corps, has just returned from internship in Pensacola where she worked with the Girl Scouts.

During the meal the girls sang, in honor of Scoots, "Put Your Foot on the Loud Loud Bang Bang Pedal", and for Mr L G Blount, owner of the Sweet Shop, they sang "For He's a Jolly Good Fellow" since he had gotten up especially early to prepare sausage and pancakes for the girls.

Scoots made several important announcements. One was that one of the girls would have to take care of the signing up of members of the Corps for teaching swimming and life saving classes during the next quarter. The other concerned the election of someone to taka care of the swimming and life guarding demonstration for the freshmen.

Miss Margaret Stanion, Corps sponsor, was there also. The group broke up about 9 o'clock in time for classes.

Bowling Alley Open For Afternoon Use

The bowling alleys, under the direction of the Outing Club, are now open for student use every Thursday afternoon from 2 to 6, announces Amarene Thompson, president. The bowling center, which is located on the Wakulla highway just beyond the overpass, was formerly closed to college students.

The hamburger fry given by the Outing Club last weekend at Camp Flastacowo proved to be a great success, said Amarene, and I think everyone enjoyed herself.

She urges students to plan on joinging the Outing Club in some of its future activities, which include a weekend at camp during the first of next quarter and a hayride.

Evens Are Awarded Top Honors In Class Swim Meet This Year

Evens were pronounced victors in the final out-come of the Odd-Even swim meet held Friday afternoon at 5 o'clock, after winning first place in the 25 yard back stroke, 25 yard crawl, 50 yard crawl, 25 yard breast stroke, 75 yard relay, 100 yard free styla relay and placing first in the form swimming.

The Odds took first and second places in the diving meet, being represented by Sis Myers, Joanne Zewadski and Dusty Rhodes. Betty Burch dove for the Evens.

Carol Claus, captain of the Evens, expressed her opinion of the meet by saying, "I was real glad the way it came out, since the team worked so hard and the Odds handed out such keen competition."

Captain B J Singleton of the Odd team said, "I was very pleased with the team, especially since it was the first time they had swum together. In my opinion it was the best meet in the past three years and certainly the best organized."

A good laugh was added to tha meet when Miss Margaret Stanion, referee, gave the swimmers three false alarms before she was successful in making the gun go off. Each time the girls would do their racing front dives only to be called back to the starting point. When the gun did finally go off on the fourth time several swimmers were so unnerved that they were seconds late in starting. Other referees helping out besides Miss Stanion were Miss Jayne Medlin and Miss Matilda Willibrand.

In the 25 yard back stroke Anna Horne took first place with a 17 second time record and Margery Holm, second. Carol Claus' timing for the first place in the 25 yard crawl was 13.8 while Nancy Edwards came in second. Anna Horne nosed out a winning in the 50 yard crawl over Margery Holm with a timing of 31.15. Placing first and second in the 25 yard breast stroke were Carol Claus and Sis Myers, with a timing of 18.4.

Even winners in the 75 yard relay were Doris Dubois, Amelia Pavese, and Joan Boucher against Margery Holm, Jane Carol Levy and Joanne Zewadski of the Odd team. Clearing a large marginal victory for the Evens in the 100 yard free style relay were Anna Lou Rivers, Anna Horne, Amelia Pavese and Carol Claus. Odds competing in this relay were Pauline Tuttle, Camille Batten, Nancy MacEdwards, and Joanne Zewadski.

Taking top score in the form swimming for the Even team was Joan Boucher, while Barbara Jane Lindsey and Ann Richardson, Odds, placed second and third.

Collegiate Comebacks

By Paulette Blank and Eleanor Bayer

There are probably very few here at Florida State College who hava already committed to forgotten recesses the struggle carried on last spring for the much coveted co-education. At the time the campaign was waged, Gainesville was still in its sparce days, and its voice was consequently rather weak; however, at this late date echoes about the great scheme are heard from the halls of our Florida brothers. Some very disillusioned lad voiced his protests against the existing setup in the column, "What Others Say." He expresses his consternation over the fact that the existance of veterans' wives around the campus only serve to remind the single fellows of the missing element all the more.

Another gentleman from Gainesville voices his opinion on the attractions of a Tally visit. He says that after hearing of the charms which a Tally visit holds, he decided to take the journey upon himself, but evidently returned with quite a different view. "All I ask is that they show us—when we go to see them—a bit of the consideration we give them when they come down here. Until then, the publicized beauties of the place remain but a lot of drivel." —An Indignant Student.

Florida Alligator
University of Florida

• • •

If anyone would take the trouble to glance over "Crimson-White," the University of Alabama paper, she would discover that Alabama has a place they call the browsing room. This term when used around FSCW usually causes some confounded looks of "What in the World?" As no one ever seems to trouble herself to explain the two word phrase, maybe the following about the Alabama browsing room will help shape notions on this subject, that is on the Alabama browsing room.

"Everyone knows the record players, listening tables and classical records are found in the browsing room. But everybody doesn't know that the people who enjoy classical music are not the only ones who can make appreciative use of the records found there."

Does this sound familiar—no? On examining the paper further, it is discovered that they too are to be privileged with a concert this week. While the Baltimore symphony orchestra was the great event here at FSCW, they had the Minneapolis symphony orchestra.

• • •

"Dig up the curlers, bring out the face creams, lower your voice and start being agreeable—it's almost that time again. Pres Hubard has designated March 11 through 16 as Self-Development Week. New plans and ideas are being compiled but the traditional Red Bud Festival will conclude the week's activities." This brief exerpt comes from our sister college, Texas State College for Women. Perhaps you think FSC lassies could do with a charm week.

The Lass-O
Texas State College for Women

• • •

"If you think it's taking you a long time to read this, just think bow long it took me to write it." Could these be my sentiments? Evidently the author of "It's Our World" in the Technique felt a little worried about the attention of his reader at this point. He goes on to say, "Dear friend, and you are my friend if you've read this far, hang on, for we are at the end of the tale." Feeling that this is also quite appropriate, I leave you with these thoughts from—

The Technique
Georgia School of Technology

• • •

"Wish I were a little rock,
A-sitting on a hill,
A-doing nothing all day long,
But just a-sitting still;
I wouldn't eat, I wouldn't sleep,
I wouldn't even wash—
I'd sit and sit a thousand years,
And rest myself, b-gosh.

University of North Carolina

• • •

Blonde: "Is it proper to hold a sailor's hand in the dark?"

Brunette: "Yes, and often necessary."

The Technique
Atlanta, Ga.

The biggest problem that colleges seem to face right now is housing facilities. This is particularly true of men's schools and co-educational institutions, if their papers are true.

Georgia Tech announces history is repeating itself in that over a thousand students entering the Spring term are going to have to live off campus. A similar condition occurred in 1907, the Technique pointed out.

The Campus Veterans, or Cee Vee's as they are called, of the University of Utah are working with both the school and the city to try to provide rooms and homes for returning service men who wish to attend that University.

And the University of Wyoming has ordered thirty-nine pre-fabricated houses and fifty trailers to house the veterans. That's one problem we at Florida State College for Women aren't having to face, girls!

The Vermont Cynic has set up a platform for the yearly elections at the University of Vermont that might be worth repeating.

Cynic Platform

1. Democratize fraternities.
2. Rescind the drinking rule.
3. Make Student Government a truly representative body.
4. Investigate student pleas for senior privileges.

The Wee Small Voice

Continued from page four

she assured us, "Maybe soma teachers—but not this one!" as she started a lecture on our glorious victory.

In my wanderings this week, when I was trying to discover the place of the freshman in Student Senate, I came across this sign on a door to one of the inmates —excuse me, I mean inhabitants— "FSCW, the only lighted cemetery in the world." This pleased me so. I always knew that our alma mater would win recognition for its uniqueness in some way.

A unanimous vote of the eight sororities on the hill against discrimination on the campus has resulted this week in a drive against quotas, backed by the Greek Letter Reform Movement. Sororities voted three weeks ago to rid their chapters of written or traditional policies of discrimination for racial or religious reasons.

The Vermont Cynic

READ THE ADS TO FIND WHAT YOU WANT.

BOTTLED UNDER AUTHORITY OF THE COCA-COLA COMPANY BY TALLAHASSEE COCA-COLA BOTTLING COMPANY

Glass Slipper

Here is a "glass" slipper that Cinderella couldn't buy! Made of translucent plastic. You may have it in white or red. Gives as you walk, relieving any strain, yet holding your foot firmly. Made with a real leather sole. It sells for only $2.75

The SURPRISE STORE

Class in Criminology Tours Raiford Prison

Students Obtain Impressions Unavailable in Books

Florida's state prison at Raiford was inspected by the criminology class recently in the day spent last week observing conditions at the institution. Dr Paul W Shankweiler, associate professor of sociology, said that by means of this tour "the class obtained a more vivid impression of prison life than books alone can afford, enabling them to see with their own eyes conditions read about in the course."

The tour was personally conducted from gate to gate by Rev L A Shepherd, chaplain of the prison. The principal points of contact during the tour included the hospital, death house, women's quarters, tannery, various workshops and the administration offices in the main building. The schoolroom was visited when a geography class was in progress. Punishment cells were viewed, and some of the girls sat in the death chair.

Handicraft articles made by the prisoners were exhibited to the visitors, and reports have it that the girls were impressed favorably with the leather articles made in the tannery.

At the end of the trip the class went to the office of Superintendent L F Chapman for a question and answer period, and Mr Chapman summed up the main points of prison administration.

Lunch was eaten upon arrival at the prison, "a fine meal especially prepared for the visitors," described Dr Shankweiler. The girls paid for their luncheon by singing some of the superintendent's favorite songs along with some other selections which included college songs. A light supper was had in the canteen before final departure.

In summing up the trip Dr Shankweiler went on to say, "All members of the party seemed to think it was quite worth the long trip to get a close-up view of the structure and function of Florida's state prison and especially to recognize the social attitudes of an administration seeking to rehabilitate the state's prisoners, which is to say, trying to provide as far as possible individual guidance of the inmates of the prison proper."

Botanical Order Takes Four Candidates; Unique Club Is Only Chapter on Earth

In the primitive wilderness near the St Marks Lighthouse, a ceremony was conducted recently for the initiation of four candidates into the Chapter Saururus Cernuus of the Primitive and Botanical Order of Renales. The candidates initiated into this unique chapter were Catherine Davis, major in biology; Miss Carolyn Trump, instructor in zoology; Dr Raymond Bellamy, head of the sociology department — members in consequence; and Mr J D Hopkins, Game Warden—member in recognition. Members conducting the ceremony were: Dr Ezda Deviney, professor of boology; Dr Irene Boliek, associate professor of zoology; Dr Ruth Schornherst, associate professor of Botany; Dr Mary Noka Hood, instructor in Bacteriology; Dr Myrtis T Kurz, Elizabethan herbalist; Dr Herman Kurz, professor of Botany; Miss Betty Linthicum, instructor in Botany; and Ruth Mary Sturrock, major in Botany.

The Primitive and Botanical order of Ranales is unique in that it is the only chapter on earth. This 18-year-old chapter recognizes not only superior work and interest in the field of biology, but also indifference to poison ivy, red bugs, ticks, briars, mud and moccasin snakes.

In past years, this chapter has had six initiations. The class of 1929 had the name, Class Horridus; 1931, Class Scabrous; 1932, Class Sporadic; 1935, Class Ascendens; 1941, Class Ambigua; and 1945, Class Osteophilous. This year the chapter has chosen the name, Class "Clausa" with the motto: "Watch the fur fly." Each new member has been given a nickname and a scientific name. The names given to Catherine Davis are Cat's claw and Doxantha unguis-cati. Miss Trump's names are Pussy willow and Salix humilis. Dr Bellamy has the names Catalpa and Catalpa speciosa. And Mr Hopkins is called Cat tail and Typha latifolia.

The chapter key bears the emblem of Pi Epsilon Pi, meaning to them, "Work well done." On one side of the key is the letter "O" for orchids which signifies culture; "R" for buttercups, etc. which signifies great adaptability; "C" for sunflowers, etc, meaning cooperation; and "F" for oaks, etc, which stand for strength and sturdiness.

Dr and Mrs Herman Kurz entertained the members, initiates, and departmental student assistants with an outdoor steak fry, the menu consisting of steak, fried potatoes with onions, pickles, cole slaw, buns, doughnuts, chocolate marshmallow cookies, preserved pears (courtesy of Dr Bellomy), coffee, and Coca Cola (courtesy of Mr Hopkins). The student assistants invited to this annual event were Ruth Mary Sturrock, Catherine Davis, Rachel Chambers, Joan Kingsbury, Dorothea McRee, and Jacqueline Fosdick.

Organ Recital First In Concert Series

An organ concert, featuring compositions by Bach and Mendelssohn, will be presented Sunday, March 31 at 4 p m in Westcott auditorium by Mrs Ramona C Beard, associate professor of organ. This program will be the first in a series of annual spring concerts presented by members of the music department.

Claude Murphee, organist at the University of Florida will be featured at the second spring concert, Sunday, April 7. The last pre-Easter concert will be coralevesper program presented by seven student choirs and Tallahassee church choirs. This third program, to be presented April 14, will be sponsored by the American Guild of Organists.

Mendelssohn's "Sonata VI" and "Come Blessed Rest" and "In Thee is Joy" by Bach will be played at the first spring concert. Other compositions to be presented at this time include "Psalm 19" by Marcello, "Echo" by Yon, Sibelius's "Finlandia" and "Electa ut Sol" by Dallier.

READ THE FLAMBEAU ADVERTISEMENTS.

New Course Offered By Geography Dept

Includes Study of Resources In Community Survey

A new course will be offered next quarter, "Community Resources Education" by the geography department, and will count as credit in the departments of geography and education, Mr H F Becker, professor of geography, has announced.

During this quarter a course called "Resource Use in Florida" was given by the geography department, and with the new course it has been established as a part of the Florida Resources Education Project of which Dr M W Carothers, registrar, is coordinator. The project is part of a sorthwide movement to improve living through better use of human and natural resources, Mr Becker said.

The "Community Resources Education" cour will require a study of her home county by each class member, said Mr Becker. The student will gain information through census studies, interviews, and first hand studies of the chosen county as much as possible. She will try to answer questions as to whether good use is being made of the community's resources, whether the county can support more people, what its major importance in relation to the future of the states is, etc.

Miss Gladys Fawley, assistant professor of geography, and Mr Becker drew up the curiculum for the two courses, and Mr Becker will teach the new one.

DIAMONDS IN FOOD

Benvenuto Cellini related how he was given ground diamonds in his food while he was a prisoner in Florence. His enemies went to such expense to kill him because they feared he might be able to digest ground glass; so they chose the harder substance.

The richest woman in the United States and probably in the world is Hetty Sylvia Howland Green Wilks, daughter of Hetty Green, Wall Street tycoon of the nineties. Mrs Wilks has more money than Doris Duke and Barbara Hutton combined.

LOOK'S RECORD REVIEW

BY SAM ROWLAND

TOPS IN WAX—Love Me and I've Got The World On A String. Woody Herman and the Herd, band poll winners of 1945, usher in their first pairing for the year with these titles. The former shows the great Herman trumpet section of Candoli, Berman, Hefti, Lewis, and Rogers in rare and frantic form. Gold Award winning "Flip" Phillips tanors through both sides, Frances Wayne sings Love Me, and Woody handles both vocals and the clarinet in the latter (Columbia).

Woody Herman

BOOGIE — Decca features the powerhouse trumpeting of "Little Jazz" by Roy Eldridge in a Buster Harding tune, Little Jazz Boogie. Dynamic Roy reaches for his bag of tricks in his trumpet rides and uses punching riffs, trills, and some stratospheric notes. His high ones into the fade-away are always exciting, and an Eldridge trademark. On the reverse he solos to the Gershwin oldie, Embraceable You.

VOCAL STANDOUT — The "Voice" has a pair of winning titles—Oh! What It Seemed To Be and Day By Day. Both are sugary with sentiment in a strictly wistful vein. Frank Sinatra's handling of the lyrics, and backed on both sides by some truly fine orchestrating by Axel Stordahl, will make his fans shout with glee, and others, fans or not, nod with approval (Columbia).

Frank Sinatra

DANCE DISCS—Charlie Spivak runs the gamut of his famed "sweetest trumpet" style in The Bells of St. Mary's, from the RKO picture of the same name. His muted trumpet is supported by soft brass which establishes the theme. Throughout, all effects are highly pleasing, and are handled with excellent taste. Jimmy Saunders sings the vocals, and, for the fade, the band resolves into the tones of the Great Organ. On the flipover Jimmy Saunders sings, You Can Cry On Somebody Else's Shoulder, which is done at a lively and easy dance clip (Victor).

Harry James gives an expansive treatment to the Chopin adaptation, I'm Always Chasing Rainbows. Here the James horn is heard in a groovy, open style that is lifted by a highly danceable beat that the band drops in for support. Buddy Di Vito sings the vocals to an all-out sweet James arrangement. The platter-mate, Baby, What You Do To Me, has a lusty dance kick, screaming brass riffs, and vocal by chirper Kitty Kallen (Columbia).

Harry James

Carmen Cavallaro turns in one of his best performances to date with a dance arrangement of Warsaw Concerto. His flying fingers round out a type of piano technique seldom heard in a dance band. Throughout there is exceptionally good taste in the handling of muted brass and strings with unusual responsive effects. On the backing he plays, A Love Like This, and injects a buoyant Latin rhythm to support his piano and band, and also has the vocal sung by Gloria Foster (Decca).

NEW AND WORTHY IMPRESSIONS IN WAX

- SYMPHONY — Bing Crosby, Vocal (Decca)
- WE'LL BE TOGETHER AGAIN — Les Brown, Dance (Columbia)
- SOME SUNDAY MORNING — Louis Prima, Dance (Majestic)
- HUMORESQUE — David Rose, Concert Dance (Victor)
- I'M THROUGH WITH LOVE — Dick Brown, Vocal (Guild)

Specific Platforms Is Committee Aim

A group of student voters who call themselves the Citizens Committee for Better Government have started a campaign for specific platforms in the coming CGA elections.

The idea of the Citizens Committee is to eliminate the usual manner of electing people on a personality poll basis rather than on the issues and ideas they represent. Several candidates for major offices have been interviewed by the committee concerning their opinions and platforms. After quarters, they hope to stir up more interest in political issues on campus. A town meeting has also been planned.

If anyone interested in working with the committee, send your name to the Citizen's Committee, Box 614, Campus Mail. A chairman will be elected later.

FSC Audience Hears Rubinoff Play on Famous Stradivariu

By Paulette Blank

A little man with a twinkling smile said, "I've enjoyed this hour with such an enthusiastic audience. How do I know they were enthusiastic? Oh, I could tell by the move of their heads and the sparkle of their eyes." This man was David Rubinoff, world famous violinist who played for the Florida State College students and faculty Wednesday afternoon in Westcott auditorium. In answer to the question if this was his first appearance before a completely feminine audience, the little Russian declared that he had played for numerous women colleges in the past, but he seemed to approve of the practice.

Mr Rubinoff, who played a m iature violin at the age of five a graduated from the Warsaw Co servatory at 14, was introduc to America by Victor Herbert. the course of his career in th country, he has become known millions of radio listeners by performances on the Eddie Ca tor program.

Holding his famous Stradivar violin very tenderly, Mr Rubino said, "This instrument is 250 yea old, and if you take as good ca of yourselves as I have of this vi lin, you might last as long." T precious Stradivarius, which is in sured for $100,000 early passed in to the hands of the Romanoff the reigning family of Russ however, during the revolution disappeared and later turned in Paris in the possessioo of former Russian prince who ha taken the instrument before h flight from the country. T elaborately engraved coat of arm of the Romanoff family and identification mark of the Str divari with the date, 1731, appe on the violin. Mr Rubinoff sa that the instrument, a product the lost art of Antonio Stradiv who lived in Cremona, Italy. rare because of this fact. He e pressed his graditude that the s cret was buried with the originat since the result was somethin priceless which the world c nsver reproduce.

Mr Rubinoff came from Ru sia to the United States in 19 and when asked if he intended return he said, "I hope to som day if they're still on the go side."

Fencers' Foiling Found Frightening

"Don't Fence Me In," but if it's fencing you like . . . then Florida State College is your place. Yep, the classes have been clashing, apparatus and all. Fencing is in full swing, and if you're not careful in the gym these days you're liable to get a full swing! Ooooh, look teacher, no head!

If you happen to be strolling around and hear a voice crying out "lunge," it's not lounging hour or lunch hour, it's just the battle cry. "Touche" is the victor's cry ("touch" to you if you speak English—but in French it's "touche").

Say, maybe we had better look into this fencing deal, who knows, maybe if we're good enough we can bout with Flynn or Henreid, or does the competition run that way? In short and sweet, these gals that go around foiling people are in it with a will—they took it on purpose. The name of the class is Sports Survey, and some of the other things they've done lately that sound like fun are stunts and tumbling, which entails the art of the good old-fashioned monkey-pile, bowling, and for next quarter, softball.

Caught a spectator's view the other day of a blonde and a short brunette having it out. I almost swallored my teeth and my gum popped completely out when one of them stumbled. Ugh, I couldn't look. Visions of blood and brains dashed before my mind, but alas, they don't use swords. The blade bends double, and acts more like rubber, thank heavens. When honest-to-goodness steel is used, take me back to the movies!

MOST USED WORDS

According to a psychologist, the 15 most frequently used words in the English language, are in, and, a, that, the, to, with, be, of, as, all, at, not, for, on. These words are said to comprise 25 per cent of all the words used in the average modern book.

PATRONISE OUR ADVERTISERS.

You've been at his side...

Don't leave him NOW!

ALL the long, bloody way from Tarawa to Tokyo—from the Normandy beachheads to Berlin—your generous support enabled your Red Cross to stay at the side of your fighting man.

He still needs you. As he idles away the long, lonesome hospital days and nights, he dreams of home and the future . . . of Mom and Dad . . . his wife and child. Your Red Cross cannot—must not leave him now.

Put yourself in his place. Then decide how much you will give to the Red Cross. Let your dollars follow your heart!

YOUR Red Cross MUST CARRY ON GIVE!

★ Prepared by the Advertising Council in Cooperation with the American Red Cross ★

"I now pronounce you . . ."

A ring for the man . . . a matched ring for the wife . . . in 2-toned 14 kt. gold. Pink gold blossoms laced with green gold leaves.

REGISTERED JEWELER
AMERICAN GEM SOCIETY
UNITED STATES AND CANADA

Moon's

AIR CONDITIONED
FLORIDA
PHONE 166
TODAY — TOMORROW
IT'S LAUGH LOADED!
FRED MacMURRAY
PARDON MY PAST
MARGUERITE CHAPMAN

SUNDAY — MONDAY
SAN ANTONIO
FLYNN · SMITH in
IN TECHNICOLOR

TUESDAY & WEDNESDAY
with
'Miss Susie Slagles'
SONNY TUFTS

THURS. - FRI. - SAT.
'The Harvey Girls'
with
JUDY GARLAND

COOL WASHED-AIR
STATE
FRIDAY & SATURDAY
'Million Dollar Kid' plus
LONESOME TRAIL

SUNDAY & MONDAY
'Hit the Hay'
with
JUDY CANOVA
Also Shanghai Cobra

TUESDAY & WEDNESDAY
Jennifer JONES
Joseph COTTEN
in Love Letters
with Ann RICHARDS Cecil KELLAWAY Gladys COOPER

COOL WASHED-AIR
RITZ
PHONE 987
FRIDAY & SATURDAY
Abbott and Costello
in
'HOLLYWOOD'

SUNDAY & MONDAY
Robert CUMMINGS · DeFORE
You Came Along

TUES. - WED. - THURS.
'God Is My Co-Pilot'
with
DENNIS MORGAN

Sorority Chit-Chat

s Spring Frolics roll around s week-end, it completes an- r week in the sorority circle ffees, informal parties and eals.

The Kappa Delta's elected new cers Monday night at chapter ing. They are as follows: Mar- Miller, president; Iris Parsons, -presiden t; Louise (Bookie) Michael, secretary; Mary Anne ring, treasurer; Catherine an, assistant treasurer; Nancy ght, editor; Anne Holton, house rman. These officers will be lled Monday night.

Betty Herring was selected by Rose for the feature section the Seminole. Speaking of the ersity of Florida, Sara Jane ington, Liz Conant, Betty Lou , Nancy Lee Streater, Pat- Polson, Mary Nell Thrower, y Herring, Dorothy Martin, rlotte Healey, Bookie Mc- hael, Lois Wilson, Joan Spark- , Jeannette Chapman, Jo ell, Evelyn Marie Badcock, Benedict, Jean Thomas and y Reid are invited to spend weekend with the Gators at ng Frolics. Joan Cramer is ing her way to the University Alabama for a wonderful time!

• • •

The Zeta's have a new addition their chapter—a black Persian en named Lodestone, a gift Evelyn Johnson of Quincy.

Mary Nichols, Colista Hatcher, Ervin and Jackie Belcher spend the weekend in Gaines-was "Coffee Time" at the Gamma Delta house Mon- night. They entertained pa- patroness, alumnae, faculty mbers, sorority chaperones and udents.

• • •

Coffee, cake, and nuts were red with Betsy Bird and Clara Carroll in charge of the func- . Soft music was played dur- the coffee by Ella May Quinby, Lee Barrington, and Jesse ott.

Something new will be added to sunken garden at the Gam se—a red brick "outdoor grill" be completed by tomorrow . This is a gift of Mr and J T Budd of Quincy.

Fifteen of the Alpha Gams will off to G'ville today for Spring lics. They include: Virginia , Carol Abrams, Lil Ergle, nie Hunt, Shirley Rodgers, Miller, Eileen Sayers, Mag- Swanson, Ella Jean Turaville, et Rogers, Kit Land, Ruth rott, Stella Barrineau, Mac an, Patty Evans and Gin Budd.

• • •

Last week the Pi Beta Phi chap- was visited by Mrs Robert S ld, the assistant to the grand -presideot of the fraternity. visit was for the purpose of ng the chapter as a whole, new ideas and suggestions and interviewing each newly elected officer of the chapter. Mrs Wild was entertained by the respective classes fc breakfast, luncheons, dinners, and also a midnight cocoa party following the weekly chapter meeting during her stay there.

Theresa Monroe, of Tallahassee, is the proud owner of the new member of the Pi Phi house. This member is "Dunroe", a blond, three month-old cocker spaniel.

Friends of the Pi Phi's enjoyed a coffee Sunday at the house from 4:30 to 6 o'clock. The afternoon consisted of serving coffee and cookies and singing songs.

• • •

The Tri Delts weekend started with a bang last Saturday afternoon. They decorated all afternoon with a coke party combined with the putting up of yellow moons and red devils. Their dates enjoyed both the cokes and the fun of decorating.

That night they had their annual dance with the theme of "Heaven and Hell" used throughout the decorations of the dance. Sunday morning the entire chapter and their dates had breakfast at the house. Then that afternoon they had a picnic in the back yard.

• • •

Elections rolled around to the Alpha Xi Delta house Monday night at chapter meeting. The new president of the sorority is Jo Dawkins. The other officers include: Billie Kacinski, vice-president; Mary Ann Hobson, corresponding secretary; Verna Rogers, rush chairman; Nita Nord, chaplain; Emily Dawkins, treasurer; Grace Hays, recording secretary; Kathleen Hamilton, historian; Mary Mims, marshall; Maude Mims, panhellenic representative.

It's off to Gatorland this weekend for Mary Hobson, Verna Rogers, Kathleen Hamilton, Mary Mims, Mervin Thomas, Sally Joyce, Pat Tays and Jackie Nevers.

• • •

At the Alpha Chi Omega house last Friday night the members had a Hera Day program with Margie Austin in charge of it, and Helen Atwater read some of the chapter history. Hera Day is annually kept for the purpose of accomplishing some altruistic work.

• • •

During the visit of the Baltimore Symphony to this campus, the Delta Zetas were proud to have one of its members and a Delta Zeta sister visit them. She was Mrs Dorothy Taylor of Philadelphia formerly of Columbia, South Carolina. During the period between the two performances, the Delta Zetas entertained a number of the musicians, including Arnold Black, assistant concert master.

This past Saturday night an informal party was held for members and friends. During the evening the group was entertained with a Spanish dance by Ramona Rodriquez to the music of "Tico-Tico" and then Alec Templeton's recordings of "Rhapsody in Blue" were played. Refreshments were served by Sarah Griffin, Anne Singleton and Sallie Briles, who were in charge of the party.

Monday the chapter was delighted to have their Province Director, Mrs Odis Johnson, of Thomasville, Georgia, pay them a short visit.

Among the girls going to Spring Frolics at Gainesville will be Betty Jean Phillips, Ramona Rodriquez, Gloria King and Joy Schoedler.

The Sigma Kappas also elected officers, which include the following: Dorothy Hahn, president; Charlie Thorpe, 1st vice-president; Edna Earle Baker, 2nd vice-president; Bebe Winter, recording secretary; Joyce Ayres, corresponding secretary; Aurelia Stewart, house chairman.

Mrs Peg Taggart, national traveling secretary, arrived Tuesday, and the chapter had a coffee in her honor Wednesday night.

• • •

Sunday night the Alpha Delta Pi's honored their two graduating seniors, Mamie Hedgepath and Catherine McKinnon, with a coffee.

The new officers of Alpha Delta Pi are: Doris Corry, president; Sara Corry, vice-president; Betty Bazemore, recording secretary; Mary Kathryn Kluttz, corresponding secretary; Jane Bryson, treasurer; Jean Simon, rush chairman; Frances Wesson, social chairman; Rebecca Routon, house chairman; Barbara Mann, chairman of executive council; Sarah Routon, executive council representative; Idella Parker, historian; Shirley Stephens, guard; Anne Stinson, chaplain; Ann Cox, panhellenic representative; Gertrude Corry, athletic manager; Sidney Connor, music chairman; Faye Hall, scholarship chairman; Anne Fielding, Adelphian reporter.

Those A D Pi's who will attend Spring Frolics in Gainesville this weekend are: Bettie Bazemore, Jane Bryson, Doris Corry, Anne Fielding, Flossie Givens, Mary Kathryn Kluttz, Joan Massie, Frances Procter, Bobbie Lee Rice, Rebecca Routon, Jean Simon, Shirley Stephens, Frances Traxler, Sarah Routon, Margaret Treisback, Henrietta Trezevant and Frances Wesson.

• • •

The Phi Mu's observed their 94th anniversary Monday and held an annual Founder's Day ceremony at the house early that morning.

Miss Mary B Merritt, National Pan-Hellenic Congress Delegate, and Dean of Women at the University of Miami, is a guest of the Phi Mu's, having arrived Wednesday.

In honor of Miss Merritt, a coffee is to be given Thursday evening at the chapter house. Around 60 guests, including Dr and Mrs Doak S Campbell, Dean Olivia Dorman, Dean Katherine Warren, faculty members, dormitory counselors and chaperones and presidents of the various sororities, have been invited.

Phi Mu's going to Spring Frolics this weekend are Laura Bentley, Laura Simpson, Katherine Donohoe, Jean Leslie, Margaret Leslie, Yvonne Boatright, Nancy Hazard, Ann Bridges, Fay Irving, Hazel Clarkson, and Fran Ewart.

Graduate to Marry

Lucy Lee Ward, graduate of FSC in 1945, was married to the former Lieutenant Jaques Barr-Nason now an American citizen, on March 1, at 7 o'clock in the Church of Our Lady of Londes, Bethesda, Maryland.

Lucy Lee had been working for the War Map Bureau in Washington, D C, and was recently promoted to Map Researcher. The couple will make their home at 1501 Key Boulevard, Arlington, Va.

SLICK SLACKS—Slick slack outfit, shown above as pictured in an issue of Junior Bazaar, includes a top of green and white striped jersey and tight black wool slacks with drawstrings at waist and ankles.

Vance Reads Theme At Reynolds Tea

Reynolds girls heard Mr Earl L Vance, associate professor of journalism and English, yesterday at the weekly tea. Mr Vance read one of his articles from the Distaff of '41, a faculty edition. Marian Trice and Jayne Zeigler were in charge of the program.

Sally House heard a number of piano selections by Jackie Storrey, and Pat Heisler sang a solo, "Blue Skies."

Gilchrist tea began with the reading, by Audrey Evans, of two selections, "Don't Quit" nad "The Touch of the Master's Hand." Landis and Magnolia heard piano selections throughout the tea hour.

Tea To Be Given

Omicorn Nu, national home economics honorary, will entertain at a scholarship tea this afternoon at 5:30 in the clubroom of the Longmire building.

According to Carolyn Flewellyn, president of the organization, honored guests will include approximately 50 home economics majors who had a B average either last semester of last year or first quarter of this year.

The home economics department faculty as well as other faculty members and guests will be present.

READ THE FLAMBEAU ADVERTISEMENTS.

Fashion Flashes

By Barbara Lanford

Can Spring be far away? It doesn't seem to be for in every store we see the new spring styles and it makes us anxious to get out of wools and into cottons and printed crepes. Easter is not far away so let's look ahead and plan to be the best dressed college girls in the Easter parade.

For dressy wear, navy blue, with accents of white or a bright color is still a spring favorite but bright printed crepes are always tops, especially with the new matching gloves. Eton suits, with either tailored or frilly blouses, seem to be very much in the spotlight for the coming season—so if you're looking for a suit keep this in mind. They're very nice in blue or light grey or in pastel light weight wool. The skirt is made very slim and the jacket is very short with long tight sleeves.

Accessories are getting brighter all the time. Why not use green, red, or even yellow shoes, hat and bag? They'll be useful all through the summer, and they're definitely smart. Ballet shoes are still going strong and are now available in gold and silver kid for evening.

In the hat department we find that small, flower bedecked bonnets are in order but the straw sailor is still to be found among the favorites. These little hats and bonnets are especially designed for girls with short hair, which is coming back into fashion. Together the hat and hair style tend to give the wearer that new "little girl" look.

For evening dresses, which some lucky girls may need for Spring Frolics or for dances during our quarter vacation, why not try an evening skirt and blouse with a wide, bright belt? They are a little on the gypsy side and very practical, especially for travel.

But now for some fashion fads from other colleges. According to the Associated Collegiate Press, coeds at the University of Houston, Texas, have started expressing their personalities through their shoes. One girl was seen at a recent basketball game with high laced ballerina shoes and at the dance afterward they sparkled, for she had sewn multi-colored sequins on them. At the same school, saddle shoes are being dressed up with campus stickers from many colleges as well as personal signatures and messages.

Tri-Delts, Magnolia, Reynolds Held Annual Formals Saturday

Dances held last week-end by Reynolds and Magnolia Halls, and the Tri-Delts are claimed to have been hugely successful by guests and workers on dance committees.

Mary Lynn Bell, social chairman of the Reynold's dance, announced with great enthusiasm that the orchestra, entertainment, refreshments, and decorations were thoroughly enjoyed by over 250 guests, including faculty sponsors, Miss Helen D Cate, associate professor of foods and nutrition, Miss Grace I Fox, instructor in Physical Education, Dr and Mrs H F Becker, professor of geography, and Mr and Mrs Earl L Vance, associate professor of English and journalism.

Pat Small was in charge of the entertainment which featured singing by the freshmen trio, Laura Simpson, Ruth Kennedy, and Hazel Clarkson, who sang their "Hawaiian War Chant," "Are You Kidding?", and "Tabby, The Cat" to the great delight of the company. Pat ave a ballet dance for the group, and Alice Stalmaker sang "Here Comes Heaven Again," and "It Had To Be Yon."

Harry Shepherd's band from Chattahoochee provided music for the dancers from within an enclosure of a little white gate garlanded with yellow sunflowers.

With Alice Stalmaker in charge of decorations, Marilyn Karp chairman of the refreshment committee, and an all-male stag line the dance came up to the expectations of all who attended.

The Tri-Delt dance, which was given the same night, Saturday, with its theme of Tri-Delt Heaven and the Den of Iniquity was original as well as fun, many of the guests related. In the Tri-Delt Heaven room there were golden-haired angels floating on cotton clouds beneath a star-spangled blue heaven made of blue-dyed tobacco cloth. Over the piano hung a large replica of the Tri-Delt pin. Devils and spirits lurked in the Den of Iniquity with red cardboard flames leaping from the baseboard. Each girl in the chapter was represented by a red devil hanging from the wall. From the ceiling dripped red crepe paper streamers to heckle passing dancers. The punchbowl was presided over by chaperones, Mrs Olive Cross, Miss Katherine Montgomery, Mrs John Berry, Miss Agnes Gregory, and Mrs W W Crume.

Betty Ann Shiver, Betty Shirley, Jean Ann Ramsdell, and Franklin Smith worked together on the decorations committee.

Special guests at the Magnolia Hall dance included Dr Claude R Flory, professor of English, Miss Dorothy I Brown, instructor in English, Miss Estelle David, secretary of the Dean of Students, and Miss Delores DeWitt, counselor.

MISPLACED

A silver identification bracelet engraved to "Nenee" was placed in the wrong post office box last week and has been turned in at the Lost and Found office. The owner can call for it there.

War is Never Over for the RED CROSS

They need your Red Cross today —and for many tomorrows!

THEY lie in hospitals, thousands of our finest—sick, cruelly maimed. Who is to write their letters, hear their troubles, answer when they call for "Mom"? Mom can't be there. But your Red Cross can, and must be there.

Many thousands more Americans, still overseas, must count on the Red Cross for comfort and cheer. So won't you give to the Red Cross? This is your chance to say, "Thanks, Soldier, for all you've done!"

YOUR Red Cross MUST CARRY ON . . . GIVE!

Prepared by the Advertising Council in Cooperation with the American Red Cross

TOO FAT? TOO THIN?

Do you know that your weight has a lot to do with your health? Weigh daily on your own

PERSONAL SCALE

Inexpensive, small . . . an asset to your room.

Also We Have

Scales for the

- DOCTOR
- GYMNASIUM
- PANTRY

Seek it First at YON'S HARDWARE

Blessings from the Land O' Cotton

You'll look a way . . . a far way before you find another such collection of cottons. Our designers and manufacturers worked with the pick of the crop from our sister states down South. We bring the results to you in summer styles worth many times their weight in comfort and good looks. You'll bless our buyer's little 'ole heart when you see them!

P. W. Wilson Company

Harvard Report Is Discussed at Mills

Professors Voice Opinions On Educational Study

OAKLAND, Calif (I P)—Educators at two recent meetings held at Mills College discussed the "Harvard Report of Education in a Free Society."

President Lynn T White made the first speech. The Mills College president praised the remarkable degree of committee cooperation in preparing the Harvard Report, which outlines a program for the improvement of high school and college education. A "core curriculum" is their proposed recent trend toward special education; this core curriculum would include required courses in humanities, social sciences, and the natural sciences.

The Harvard Report stresses the need for new studies for broadening the individual. In the humanities a required course called "Great Texts of Literature" is proposed. Eight books are suggested chosen from Homer, Plato, the Bible, Virgil, Dante, Shakespeare, Milton and Tolstoy.

A social science course, "Western Thought and Institutions," is also proposed. Another course in this area suggested was "American Democracy," aiming at a mature consideration of certain of the problems which confront an American citizen. In another direction the committee suggested a special course in "Human Relations."

Both President White and Dean Anna L Rose Hawkes brought up the fact that Mills and Columbia University had done experimenting in general education before Harvard, who claims it an original idea In her introductory speech Dr Hawkes stated her "first reaction is the slight irritation. Harvard is so sure it is right and that it has all the answers."

Dr Frank Wesley Pitman of Pomona College brought out his opinion that Harvard is concerned with the establishment of a system of education which will produce better citizens. "There is a decay of the family life and a social wave of vulgarity beating upon youth through the screen and radio; our system must check this deterioration and prepare citizens better equipped to meet the world. This is a vital challenge to American colleges" he said.

Dr Pitman brought out that the trend in American education is utilitarian but that it has failed to cultivate the qualities needed in men today. In our modern [illegible] but the teaching of science must be better balanced with that of humanities and political science.

Dr W H Cowley of Stanford [illegible] general education. The Harvard Report advocated differential education on the basis of whether or not the student is going to college and on the basis of his intelligence and aptitudes. He presented a schedule for high school education which would revolutionize the present day system.

Dr Frederick Hard, president of Scripps College, in his address on higher education criticized the Harvard Report in that the art of teaching was not emphasized.

Another criticism that the Harvard Report is overlaid with generalities although its aims are laudable, formed the basis of the speeches by Dr Herbert Graham and Dr Sabin Smith of Mills College who looked at the report from the natural and social science angle. In Dr Graham's opinion it is impossible to draw boundary lines between sciences. Dr Smith stressed the importance of the continuation of material from high school throughout college years.

Anonymous Interview Presents Views of Average FSC Student

By BARBARA LANFORD

Little did they realize that they were the chosen ones . . . the boy and the girl who were sitting on the sofa beside the juke in the recreation room of the Longmire buliding. On this unknowing couple I descended and began my battery of questions. They looked bewildered at first but after a hurried explanation they were very helpful and we began to talk.

She had on a pink sweater and a blue skirt. Her hair was a light brown and she had very pretty blue eyes.

He was a tall brown haired fellow clothed in tan slacks and a brown sport coat complete with discharge button.

Immediately I discovered that he had been in the Navy and was recently discharged. He was passing through town and stopped over for a couple of days to visit with "blue eyes." He said that he was going to school next fall but he thought he'd just take it easy until then. His favorite sport is baseball but he likes swimming too. When asked how he liked FSC our male subject remarked that we had a very pretty campus, and, after glancing at "blue eyes," he added, that we also had very pretty girls on campus. His favorite food is steak but he also likes apple pie. As for the future, our former Navy man said he wasn't sure just what he wanted to study in college. "Maybe I'll be an engineer," he said.

Then I asked "blue eyes" a few questions about herself. She said she was a freshman and liked Tally all right but would like it better if it were coed. She likes to play tennis and loves football games. Her favorite food is, in her own words, "anything my mother cooks." As for her major she is undecided but she has narrowed her choice down to either speech or home economics. When asked how she liked college rules and regulations, "blue eyes" said she thought many of our rules were unnecessary but she guessed there must have been some reason for them when they were made.

"Blue eyes'" boy friend said he didn't understand all this rule business. "It's too complicated," he said.

After all of these questions it suddenly occurred to me that I had kept "blue eyes" and her boy friend long enough so I thanked them and told them to get back to their dancing and I'd get back to my typewriter. I lost sight of them on the crowded dance floor as the juke played "Come To Baby, Do."

Spring Lines Will Be Slim According to Fashion Experts

PARIS— Two of the greatest names in French dressmaking—Lucien Lelong and Elsa Schiaparelli—agree that spring lines will be slim, but beyond that they don't see eye to eye.

Schiaparelli, whose establishment was packed to the walls with a cosmopolitan crowd which included the Duchess of Windsor, presented a large, extremely colorful collection along lines which she introduced last fall

Very much in evidence were tiny bowler hats, in candy-striped stains and worn with matching blouses. Present on almost all of her suits was the high-throated directoire collar motif. Where the high collar almost touched the nose several months ago, it has been modified to snuggle comfortably and less sensationally under the chin.

Lelong's clothes are definitely longer—sometimes suit skirts drop to the mid-calf. Most of his street clothes come well below the knee.

His neck lines are low—lower than anything seen around here lately—and most of them are off the shoulder or strapless, saved from indiscretion by touches of lace at the bosom.

Lelong has gone for prints strongly. Schiaparelli is lavish with them. Some of her costumes remind one of an artist's palette. There are combinations like a chocolate brown, full-draped coat worn with a trim, miniature top hat of navy blue bound with a red and yellow figured band of kelly green.

Mme Schiaparelli keeps her skirts at about the spring length, fairly short and about at the bend of the knees. She is doing a lot with shoulder lines and with huge fluted stand-out collars. Nevertheless, the Schiaparelli shoulder carries less padding than Lelong's, which tends toward a broad, square line.

Much emphasis has been placed on utility and the ease with which the new spring clothes can be packed. Many of the hats are collapsible and fold flat as envelopes. One costume consists of a reversible coat, six dresses and three crownless hats, all of which weigh less than 12 pounds and are ideal for air travel.

BURDENED

TACOMA Wash — Jane Bradley, Tacoma police court clerk received this note from a violator of parking regulations, along with a $1 check:

"Attached parking ticket and my check Excuses? 1. My watch is in the pawnshop. 2. My wife is expectant. 3. My son knows more than his schoolteacher. 4 I have just lost my job.

"With no complaints — the cops have treated me fair in my 25 years in Tacoma."

NO ALIBIS, PLEASE

CHICAGO — Dave Mill, a mounted policeman whose assignment includes keeping autos from parking in front of central police station, says he hasn't received one valid excuse from any of the 12 policemen he gave tickets for traffic violations.

Mill said when he tagged a policeman's car yesterday, the officer explained "some other driver pushed my car into the no parking area"

"Tell it to the judge," was Mill's reply.

OATH ON FOREIGN SOIL

When Franklin Pierce was inaugurated as president of the United States on March 4, 1853, his running mate, William R King, was residing in Cuba for his health. William Sharkey, U S consul at Havana, administered the vice presidential oath of office to King by special act of congress.

READ THE FLAMBEAU ADVERTISEMENTS.

Members of the newly installed Florida Beta chapter of Alpha Epsilon Delta, the pre-medical honorary, are pictured above. Back row, left to right, Dr Emmett B Carmichael, national AED councilor who installed the chapter here; "Teeney" Langston, Sarah Stewart, Marilyn Sumner, Marion Ferraro, Jacqueline Partine, alumna member, and Dr Viola Graham, honorary member-head of FSC physiology department. Front row, left to right, are Jo Ann "Bopie" Whitaker, vice-president; Peggy Limroth, treasurer; Joyce Funke, president; and Ella Mae Baer, secretary. Missing from the picture are Betty Jean Giberson and Carmen Gomez.

Freshmen Are Secretly Busy Making Plans for Big Carnival

"Each year the freshman class members spend long and exciting hours getting ready for the carnival, and we are no exception," said Polly Tuttle, freshman class president. "The theme of the carnival is not going to be announced until the night of the big show. It is a secret, but we guarantee everyone who comes will have a good time."

The Freshman Carnival at Florida State College will be given in the gymnasium on April 13 at 8 p m, Polly Tuttle announced.

Anne Carter, Mary Calley, Patricia Yates, and Marjorie Norris are directing a skit for the event with Patty McColphin, Laura Simpson, Maggie Flynn as coworkers.

Several unique dances are being cast under the supervision of Jane Carol Levy and Dossie Martin, with Betty Jane Phillips, Virginia Wilson, Bertie Loftus, Pat Small, and Christine Stasinos collaborating.

Colorful decorations are being planned at secret meetings of Jean Furman and Shirley Palmer, as their assistants Marjorie Mallard, Lucy Harding, Charlotte Snyder, Martha Jane Byrd, Shirley Logino, Arabella Allen, Art Skevakis and Beverly Beardon bring them to reality with every clip of the shears.

Music bearing from the drifting dreamland type to that of the juke-box tempo seems to be the major concern of Joyce Stroburg, Dallas Stever, Carmen Peeples, Bradley, Judy Courtney, Jeanne Bagley, Joyce Hansen, Lei Marshall, Betty Loy, Emma Jean Smith, Virginia Swicord, Juanell Bailey, Artye Futrell, Margaret Braun, Betty Ann Brown, Arlene Love, Joyce Williams, Margaret Swanson, Elizabeth Greene, Betty Houlihan, Sarah Breameister, Anne Leach, Mary Margaret Davis, Anne Grant, and Beverly McCollum.

Hammers and paint brushes are meaningful symbols to Winifred and Virginia Anthony and Sis Miller as their set contsructions get under way.

Helen Looby and Lucille Osenkop promise "almost anything and everything" as their plans for various games begin to materialize.

The originality displayed by Virginia Goodell and Joy Harker in their costume designs prove to be constant amusement for the skit cast composed of Dorothy Borbridge, Mary Philpot, Rosemary Cieman, Joyce Williams, Frankie Hamilton, Rosemary Fleming, Catherine Gallagher, Verna Rogers, Judy Courtney, Ruth Ellen Olsen, Betty Jane Cargill, Laura Simpson, Colleen Kenney, Francene Dunning, Lucille Davis, Faith Adams, Terry Johnson, Lou Shonter, Ann Teague and Vivian and Dot Bloodworth.

The freshman class sponsor was elected yesterday afternoon in lower Yestcott, with final results not yet available.

FAMILIAR GROUNDS

CHICAGO — Four lawyers representing either landlords or tenants in renters court became speechless, momentarily, yesterday when their own names were read off as defendants in an eviction suit.

The attorneys occupy a suite in a loop building. The building corporation seeks to evict them, but none had been served with a summons. The case was not scheduled and Judge Samuel Heller set it for Mar 11.

"We want a lawyer," chorused the lawyers and named H B Ritman to represent them.

CURED CROAKING

Guests at a California hotel were bothered by the croaking of bullfrogs at night. The hotel manager rigged up a powerful searchlight system, bathed the nearby pool with light, and the frogs stopped their nocturnal music.

Was or Wasn't She Lucky?

An icy wind whistled over Landis arcade a few nights ago at 1 a m as two pajama-clad girls crept stealthily across. On the other side a bluish blur gradually materilizes into the seated figure of a girl who was calmly smoking her nightly weed. She raised one blue slippered foot, took a long drag on that Luckie and surveyed us coldly. Everything was cold, especially us.

Shivering as we spoke, we told her that she was the lucky person chosen to be interviewed for the Flambeau this week. Running stubby fingers through her short, dark hair, our interviewee replied, "Senior Hall!" We whirled about just in time to catch a glimpse of Mrs Ballinger sailing by and then resumed our vertical positions.

As the atmosphere grew definitely warmer, we learned that Miss Insomnia's major is chemistry. Her favorite occupation, she informed us, is playing bridge, but sleeping through those 9 a m classes runs it a close second. To complete the list of favorites our scientific-minded friend told us that the place she likes best on campus is the physics lab.

When asked about her views on co-education, Miss I leaned forward and virtually roared at us, "I'm 100 pereent for it!" When we had collected our wits enough to continue with the conversation, she informed us that it makes for a well-rounded education.

From then on the conversation drifted, as conversations hereabouts are prone to do, to the subject of the honor code. We rather hesitantly broached the subject of reporting ourselves, and again received a ready reply. Lighting another cigarette and giving it a few tentative puffs, Miss I remarked, "It just isn't consistant. If I do a thing and think it's all right one minute, I'm not very likely to decide I have done wrong and therefore should report myself the next minute," she explained.

We then talked of many things—to quote a truism—of convo and elections and things. In regard to the first, our blue-clad friend made only this comment, "Why in the heck does it have to be compulsory?" She feels that if the programs were of more general interest, we, as intelligent students, would want to attend them. As for elections, well, Miss Insomnia just wasn't interested. "Being a senior," she said, "I just don't care. Besides I have never been able to learn from the candidates' long flowery speeches what they really intend to do"

From speeches we returned to the subject of food Waving her half burned cigarette in our eyes, Miss I demanded, "Why can't we have seconds on fried potatoes at lunch?" As we were puzzling over the answer to that one, she sighed and continued, "And as for steak and French fries — well what wouldn't I give for some now." As we collected paper and pencils preparatory to that arctic trek back to our room, an approaching voice was heard to echo, "Wouldn't we all!"

Simplicity and Originality Keynote to Co-Ed Charm

(Associated College Press)

Many coeds have dashed blissfully to their classes at the University of Wisconsin this past week unaware that they were being watched by a board of judges.

The judges noted what they lik and disliked to see coeds wear classes, and on dates. The find ings proved to be unusually co sistent among all judges.

First on the list of what th coed shouldn't wear came slack snow suits and navy pea-jacket However, scarfs are all right; t poor girls can't freeze their ear

It's not what they wear ofte but the way that they wear The main thing is to be neat an clean and dress simply. "A happ medium is the best practice," ac cording to Joe Melli. "Sweater should not be baggy, but on t other hand do not look very goo tucked inside skirts."

"Make-up is my pet peeve, Melli continued. "A girl shoul wear no make-up except a litt lipstick. The clean face is far the most attractive. Further more, there ought to be a la against applying make-up public." Hair should be combe neatly before 8 o'clock classes. H favors the feather cut hair sty

"Compared to what I saw England, I'm perfectly satisf with the way the Wisconsin co dresses," remarked Len Roboc Cardinal columnist and boxe However, the English had to dre that way, and the American co lege girl does not need to wea slacks and sweatshirts. Perfum is all right, but most girls wea to much make-up. Except fo lipstick, the least make-up is th best."

Neatness, simplicity and orig nality keynote the judges' like while too much jewelry, pancak make-up, blue jeans, and swea shirts are frowned upon.

Spirogyra Is Guest At Esteren Outing

Esteren and their guests, Spirogyra, rode the rails to hobo heaven Wednesday night by walking the railroad track out to Game's woods.

Sarah Bennett, president of Esteren, said that the food was chile served in tin cans and eaten around the campfire. Favors of miniature knapsacks were given all the members of the organizations—Green and white for Esteren; black and white for Spirogyra. Esteren gnats under the leadership of Catharine Sullivan, chairman, had charge of all arrangements for the party.

Last Sunday night Esteren held an informal meeting in the Sweet shop to welcome back the Esteren interns. Babe Evans, Jo Guthrie, Skoots Lester, Corinne Johnston and Frankie Hall returned for this meeting. Anne Widerquist, another member, returned later in the week.

So They Say . . .

Most folks would rather meet a girl with expensive scents than million dollar airs.

• • •

Bareness from the waist up is the threatened fad for men. We're warning somebody—they better bring shirts back!

• • •

Most women have a keen sense of humor. The more you humor them the better they like it.

• • •

The Japs launched 9000 balloons against the U S during the war. And collectively, they proved one grand bust.

• • •

The means to a man's ends often mean the end of a man's means.

• • •

A cab company official says taxi drivers lead a monotonous life. Perhaps because they never have any change.

• • •

Don't complain too much about poor ventilation in your office. You may get the air.

• • •

Connie Mack has picked the N Y Yankees to win the American League pennant this year. Well, bring on the football season.

• • •

Get eight hours sleep, eight hours play and eight hours work and you won't have any time left for worry.

CATASTROPHE

SACRAMENTO, Calif —Because his coffee was hot, Fran Taylor, 49, wound up in emergenc hospital for lacerations of h right ear and lower lip. This how it happened:

Taylor's coffee was so hot h choked. His false teeth turne crosswise in his mouth and c his lip. Unnerved, he fell off h chair, struck his head against th table and cut his ear.

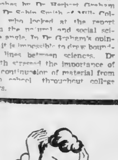
HALF WERE SOLDIERS

Half of the 32 presidents of th United States were soldiers durin their careers: Washington, Monroe, Jackson, W H Harrison Tyler, Taylor, Buchanan, Lincoln Pierce, Grant, Hayes, Garfield Arthur, B Harrison, McKinley, T Roosevelt, and Truman.

VOLCANO CAUSED COLD SPEL

The eruption of one volcano ca cause several years of cooler temperatures over the entire earth Dust particles in the air impede the heat rays coming from th sun. In 1783, Mount Asama, Ja pan, erupted, and the three fo lowing years were very cold throughout the world.

PATRONISE OUR ADVE- TISERS.



STOP FRETTING!

Here is your headquarters for every ARTIST'S need. . . .

- WATER COLOR PAPER
- PASTEL PAPER
- CHARCOAL PAPER
- TEMPERA SETS
- OIL PAINT SETS
- WATER COLOR SETS
- PHOTO OIL SETS
- CHARCOAL AND BRUSHES

You'll Find What You Need at

WARD'S PAINT STORE

204 South Adams

Turner's Spring Showing

Ranchera

COBBLERS

Made in California

For the young in heart—a clever little shoe that's flattering to the foot. In Sierra White. Sizes 2½ to 10, in narrow or medium.

Turner's

Doorway to Fashions

My best wishes Perry Como

A Brilliant Combination

LISTEN TO THE

Chesterfield Supper Club

5 Nights a Week... all NBC Stations

7 PM WJAX

A ALWAYS MILDER

B BETTER TASTING

C COOLER SMOKING

THE RIGHT COMBINATION OF THE WORLD'S BEST TOBACCOS

Free — Send a post card for large portraits of Perry Como and Jo Stafford. Address: Chesterfield Studio, Box 21, New York 8, N. Y.

Copyright 1946, Liggett & Myers Tobacco Co.

Schwartz Out

Z 106

The Florida Flambeau

Petitions In

Published by the Students of Florida State College for Women

VOL. XXXIII, No. 19

Tallahassee, Florida

APRIL 5, 1946

Faculty Group Bars Schwartz WTAL Reports

Candidate For Judiciary Head Disqualified Due to Views

udents Begin Movement To Reinstate Candidate

Yesterday at 1:35 p m the fol wing news broadcast was re ved over WTAL, the Tallahas e radio station:

"The Florida State College for omen's Faculty Committee on udent Affairs has disqualified a ndidate for a major student of e on the grounds that the opin s she has clearly expressed do t coincide with the existing col e policies, and that she has lged information regarding diciary matters which the an's office considers confiden l. This leaves only one candi te for this major office, which chairman of Judiciary. Stu nts of the college have begun a vement to reinstate the candi te Betty Schwartz of Miami, on e ground that the Faculty Com ttee's action is undemocratic, d that the students, by their tes, should have the power of termining the capabilities of the ndidate."

There has been no statement atever from any official sources. Betty Schwartz, the candidate, s declined to comment.

A special closed meeting of Ex utive Council, Judiciary, and wer Court members was held t evening at 5 o'clock. The eting was not open to the press, according to information

Continued on page two

Degrees Conferred On FSC Graduates

v Pendergrass Addresses Seniors in Exercises

Degrees were conferred on the second quarter graduates of orida State College by Dr Doak Campbell in the Augusta Con d theater March 20. Rev E J endergrass, district superintend t of the Methodist church, de ered the address to the grad ting class.

The ceremony was opened by El r's Pomp and Circumstance, ayed by Mrs Ramona Beard, ich was followed by the invoca on. Miss Olga Eitner, violinist, ered a musical selection, "Hymn the Sun," from the opera Le q d'Or by Rimsky-Korsakoff, ccompanied by Mary Winslow the piano. Margaret Emma ayton graduated with Cum ude honors, and Betty Mae ll with Distinction in Social ork.

Other graduates were Margaret n Dugger, Evelyne J Eldridge, ary B Geiger, Shirley Lucille rube, Caroline Louise Avery, ne Gladney Widerquist, Mary zabeth Dancy, Florence Eliz eth Herndon, Catherine McKin n, Bessie Angie Rhodes, Rose en Sherrod, Gladys Silverblatt, ldred Ann Turner.

Margaret Ruth Bishop, Joenell lkinson, Ella Mae Baer, Ruth more, Eddie Sue Harrison Eng-

Continued on page two

inguists to Have Spanish Home Soon

A Spanish house will be opened s summer through both sessions summer school, Miss Lucy Les r, head of the modern language partment announced. Parkside l be used to accommodate the 5 to 30 girls who are expected apply for residence. It will be house where all occupants will required to speak only Spanish their daily routines.

The director of the hall will be bi-lingual instructor who will ide the girls in the use of the nguage. It is also hoped that rangements can be made in the ning hall to have special tables the girls that live in the house that they will be able to take vantage of every opportunity of red in putting their knowledge Spanish to use.

The Spanish department will e the applications that will be ade upon qualifications that ave already been established. e girl must have completed all mentary work in Spanish and st be an upperclassman.

Reservations to live in the house y be made with Miss Edith Mc llum, director of residence, by e student specifying that she shes to live in Parkside. Hopes r its continuation will be based on the success of this first trial.

Returned Seniors Favor Intern Period

Forty-five seniors have returned to FSCW after having spent two months in various parts of the state interning in their particular field. From those interviewed the opinion seems to be in favor of interning as a necessary and valuable experience.

Jo Guthrie, who interned in Physical Education at St Petersburg high school states, "Interning is better than practice teaching on campus because you are placed in an entirely different situation. You get the feeling of being a part of the school and have an understanding of its problems."

Elizabeth Bregger, a Spanish major who interned in her home

Continued on page two

New Members Are Announced

16 Seniors Are Elected To Phi Beta Kappa

Sixteen seniors have been elected members-in-course of Phi Beta Kappa, national scholastic honorary for students in the School of Arts and Sciences, according to Betty Hatch, secretary of the Alpha chapter.

The new members are Ann Carolyn Allison, Lake City; Martha Jane Brown, Lake City; Margaret Emma Clayton, Haines City; Virginia Dickinson Collins, Umatilla; Letitia C Croom, Jacksonville; Joyce Funke, West Palm Beach; Ann Gaither, Mexico, D F; Carmen Gloria Gomez, Puerto De Tierra, P R; Emma Jean Hackle, Winter Haven; Mercedes Hernandez, Tampa; Elizabeth Johnston, Lakeland; Eleanor Cordez Law, Jacksonville; Jean Victoria Marani, Sarasota; Peggy Jean Pearson, Jacksonville; Martha Louise Powers, Glen St Mary; and Peggy Lu Thompson, Gainesville.

Dr Olive Schornherst of the

Continue on page two

Final Registration To Total Over 2250

A total of 2,153 students registered before noon last Friday, but according to Dr Milton W Carothers, registrar, the final number of students should be between 2,250 and 2,300 when registration is completed.

Deadline for registration was Tuesday, March 26, and late registration began the following day. Last Monday was the last day for class changes. A student may now drop a subject, but she may not change classes, according to Miss Eva May Atwood, assistant registrar.

Also from the office of the Registrar this week comes an announcement that all students who are to graduate in June must make application for their degrees immediately. These applications should be received by the Registrar before April 27, states Miss Atwood.

Glee Club Will Sing Tonight In Spring Concert

Annual Entertainment To Be Under E Robertson Club Director

Five Selections to Be Sung By the Entire Group

The Glee Club will present its spring concert tonight at 8:15 under the direction of Miss Etta Robertson in Westcott auditorium.

The program will consist of "Holy Lord God" by Cain, "Sea Moods" by Typon, "American Lullaby" by Row, "Oh, What a Beautiful Mornin' " by Rodgers, and "Sibony" by Lecuona. These selections will be sung by the entire group.

"Agnus Dei" by Bizet will be sung by Anne Lindsey, soprano, the Glee Club, and a violin obbligato by Rachael Crotwell; "Lauterbach" by Reutter by Mary Hart, soprano; "Kom Kjyra" by Trone and "Italian Street Song" by Victor Herbert by Paula Teagarden and the Glee Club; "Hungarian Dance" by Haesche by Raechal Crotwell. Eleanor Bragg, pianist,

Continue on page two

Organ Vespers Will Be Given

Claude Murphree Presents Pre-Easter Program

Mr Claude L Murphree, Fellow in the American Guild of Organists, from the University of Florida will present an organ program as the second in the series of pre-Easter Vesper Services on Sunday, April 7, at 4:00.

Mr Murphree has taught at the University since he finished his formal education. After graduating from the University, he went to New York where he received private instruction and became a member of the AGO. The guest organist has a wide background of international training and experience. He has played in recitals in this state for over 20 years.

The program will include: "Thou Art My Rock" by Mueller, "Two Classic Preludes on Old Chorals" by Edmundson, "Rejoice, Ye Pure in Heart" by Diggle. Chorale—"Prelude on Lux Benigna" by Schmutz, Purvis' "Carol Rhapsody," Hymn-tune fantasy," St Catherine" by McKinley, Toccata on "Nassau" by Edmunson, "Sonata in G Minor, No 5" by Guilmant.

Last Sunday Mrs Ramona Cruikshank Beard, associate professor of organ and theory, presented her faculty recital for the year as the first of the series of Pre-Easter Vesper Services. Mrs Beard's program included: "Salmo XIX" by Marcello, "Come Sweet Rest" by Bach-Fox, "Fantasie and Fugue in G Minor" by Bach, "Bells of Arcadia" by Couper-

Continued on page two

Election Calendar

April 8th—5:00 p m—meeting of all candidates in Longmire Auditorium.
Qualifications and snapshots will be posted in Lower Westcott.
April 9th
13th—Candidate's Booth in Lower Westcott.
April 12th—Statements of candidates in Flambeau.
April 15th—Forum, 7:30 p m, introduction of candidates and short speeches by major candidates not speaking in Convocation.
April 16th—Compulsory Convocation. Major offices, Primary elections; speeches by candidates for President of CGA, Chairman of Judiciary, Freshmen Advisor and Editors of Distaff, Flambeau, and Flastacowo.
April 17th—Final election of major offices.
Voting machines in Lower Westcott.
April 18th—Compulsory Convocation. Minor offices, Primary elections.
April 19th—Final election for minor offices.
Voting machines in Lower Westcott.

FSC Girls Tour New York And Washington in Spring

By LEI MARSHALL

"Wasn't it wonderful!" "I had such a good time!" "Miss Rogers is a perfect chaperone!" These and other comments were heard as 25 weary girls and their chaperone, Dr Carmen Rogers of the English department, returned to college after a glorious week in New York City and Washington, D C. The party made the trip to New York by plane except for four girls and Miss Rogers who, because of limited plane space, had to go by train. On the trip back places were exchanged in order to give all the members of the party a chance to ride on the plane.

The first night in New York, where they called the Edison Hotel home, the girls dined at Lum Fong, a Chinese restaurant. They were a bit disappointed to have no chopsticks but they did have genuine Chinese food. Other famous restaurants that the party visited were The Stork Club, The Russian Bear, the English and the French grills at Radio City, the Sert and Wedgewood rooms at the Waldorf and Castleholm, America's most popular Swedish restaurant, where they ate smorgasbord. The girls who dined in the Sert had the orchestra play "Sewanee River" for them.

Places of interest that the girls saw included Chinatown, Greenwich Village, the Bowery, Wall Street, Hell's Kitchen, the Little Church Around the Corner, Fifth Avenue, Brooklyn Bridge, Cathedral of St John the Divine, St Patrick's, the church and cloisters associated with Going My Way, Metropolitan Art Museum, Columbia University, Mrs Roosevelt's penthouse, the Statue of Liberty, and Bridal lane, a block long street of stores displaying beautiful wedding gowns.

In Chinatown there was a sign "Black eyes made natural-looking—20c" on a barbershop. The girls found a temple there which turned out to be a shop. In it they found little magic Buddhas, all kinds of jewelry, what-nots and a magic drum which they all beat to bring riches, health, and marriage.

Several of the girls went to the Village Barn in Greenwich Village because it was the only nightclub

Continued on Page Two

Thirty-One Seniors Proposed for Queen

May Queen Candidates Will Be Introduced in Convo

Thirty-one seniors have been nominated as candidates for May queen and her court of 12 maids who will reign at the May Day Festival to be held May 4 on the archery field. The candidates will be introduced Tuesday night in convocation and voted on for beauty in the primaries to be held then, having been chosen in the senior class meeting held Thursday afternoon.

Those nominated include Mary Stallings, Dink Ashton, Lillian Rhodes, Janie Redfern, June McCurdy, Pattie Lou Hill, Esther Kerr, Kathryn Jackson, Bobbie Sweat, Betty Parker, Eugenia Avant, Martha Jane Brown, Corinne Johnston, Joan Gentry, Betty Ann Shiver, Jean Ann White, Claire Cashen.

Trig Thompson, Betty Touchton, Betty Jean Welles, Lois Wilson, Margaret Baugh, Bonnie Hunt, Ann Bridges, Carolyn King, Ruth L'Engle, Jane Waldo, Stella Barrineau and Frances Traxler.

Miss Nellie Bond Dickinson, instructor in physical education, will assist in the program of dancing, with other committee heads being as follows: assistant chairman, Marion Moorehead; publicity, Jean Bess and Aileen Sayers; costumes, Franklin Smith; decorations, Marion Floyd; properties, Harriet Kirk; flowers, Ann Parker; programs, Jean Sharer; finance, Sarah Jane McKelvy; music, Eleanor Bragg; and dance, Ina Jo Wrench. Committee chairmen are holding a meeting this afternoon at 3 o'clock.

Education Theme Of Spring Distaff

Education will be the principal theme of the next issue of the Distaff, which will make its appearance in two weeks. According to Winifred Meldrim, editor, this will be the last issue for the year.

Principal aspects of the articles concern the problems of negro education, progressive education in the United States, and problems of education on campus.

Spring is in the air, for this Distaff, with twice the usual number of short stories. They are: "Tears" by Bobbie Bell, "It Will Be Different" by Peggy Lu Thomson, "Alcestis" by Frances Traxler, and "The Child and the Atom" by Winifred Meldrim.

"Cinquains," written by Miss Mildred Henry's class in contemporary poetry, is one of the many poems that will appear. Winifred promises a multitude of gems along poetic lines. One of these is written by Eason Cross, serviceman, son of Mrs Olive Cross, instructor of English. Mr Cross is guest poet for the Spring issue.

The Distaff goes south of the

Continued on Page Two

20-Year Growth Culminates in Today's Campus Student Houses

By BARBARA FARRAR

It was "way back when" that the first religious student house appeared on campus to begin a series of organizations that have left lasting impressions on the lives of many FSC students.

On a humid summer day in 1926 a small group of men from the local Methodist church decided to construct "a little hangout" for the Methodist college girls. It was just a one-room, unsealed camp shack, with roughly hewn floors, but the numerous unique parties and felllowship gatherings that ensued transformed it into a "second family" for many a homesick freshman. The only equipment was a badly tuned piano, several lamps and a few pieces of the roughest of camp furniture. The hilarious plays, however, with the makeshift stage sets and faculty "talent" and wiener roasts all added to the colorful past of what is now the Wesley Foundation.

When it became necessary to utilize the bared rafters for seating space, additions were made resulting in the present building with its spacious living room, adjoining game room and convertable chapel.

"In spite of the modernistic changes," said Miss Alpharetta Leeper, student secretary, "we try to maintain the same homelike atmosphere of the old days. No one will ever know how many girls have departed as changed individuals merely through the informal fellowship gatherings here at the house."

In September of 1927 Miss Hope Baskette arrived as the first Episcopalian student secretary. The massive structure now known as Ruge Hall was a mere pipe dream at that time. Miss Baskette's small cottage on Copeland avenue, surrounded by spreading pecan trees, and commonly known as the "Nut Basket," served as the only meeting place for the 200 students for four years.

In 1931 the former John G Ruge, of Apalachicola, financed the present edifice on Jefferson street. "Mr Ruge took a great interest in college girls" said Mrs Frances Luce, student secretary, "and thought it should be everyone's privilege to seek a college degree. It is not known just how many girls he has put through college since he requested it kept secret but numerous girls have expressed their gratitude in later years for his financial support."

At present Ruge Hall consists of a chapel which has a seating capacity of 200, a library, kitchen and office and living accommodations for the student secretary and her assistant. "The next construction will include an additional wing to house a much larger chapel," Mrs Luce asserted, "but this plan is far from materialization at present."

The Methodists and Episcopal-

Continue on page two

Pan-American Week To Begin April 15

Pan-American week will be observed on the campus of Florida State College and throughout the state from April 15 through 20, as announced by Governor Millard Caldwell.

During the week Pan-American activities which are to take place on campus will be open to all students. These activities will include a Mexican painting exhibition, an art lecture on Mexican and South American architecture, a lecture on current political issues in South America, a Latin American music recital, and a closing lecture on "North and South America Look at Each Other."

The library will have a Pan-American exhibit in its information center during the week, while the Demonstration school will take part in these activities with several plays and a program presented by the seventh grade pupils as a feature of the "Garnet and Gold" radio program.

YWCA Plans Drive For More Members

The Young Women's Christian Association is planning a membership drive to be held next Wednesday and Thursday in lower Westcott, according to Joyce Petty, president of the organization. Members of the organization will be at a table from 9 am to 3 pm to accept membership dues and to answer any questions regarding membership and the Y.

Membership dues are $1. Those who would like to contribute but who do not have time for active participation in the "Y" may join as associate members. As associate members they give only their financial and moral support.

Dr Boliek Elected

Dr Irene Boliek, associate professor of zoology, was elected an alumna member of the Phi Beta Kappa chapter at the Womens' College of the University of North Carolina at the March meeting of the chapter. Dr Boliek received her doctor's degree in zoology from the University in 1935.

Announcement Of Candidates Made Today

Students Urged to Vote In Elections Coming April 16-17

All Grades Not Yet Cleared For Completad List

Election procedures for the coming weeks were outlined at house meetings Tuesday night, and students were urged to participate in all phases of the election program which begins today with the official announcement of candidates in the Flambeau.

The official list of candidates for elections was announced last night by Ann Carolyn Allison, CGA President, with the exception of a few names whose grades have not been cleared through the Office of the Registrar.

Candidates for the office of president of College Government Association are Jean Cole and Sarah Lewis.

The single candidate for Chairman of Judiciary is Rosetta Carver.

Barbara Mann, Juanita Nord, Cora Lee Wells and Mary White are running for the office of Freshman Advisor.

Chairman of Residence Halls Committee candidates are Anne Hunter and Ann Parker.

Harriett Kirk and Barbara Wickham are candidates for Chairman of Off Campus Committee.

First Vice President of CGA: Jimmie Rogers and Dalia Santos.

Second Vice president of CGA: Doris DuBois, Jo Ann Long, Ida Lee Rentz and Jean Sharer.

Third Vice-president of CGA:

Continued on page five

Goal Not Reached in Drive, Says Kelley

Contributions to Red Cross Fall Short by $432.57

The total contribution from students and faculty at Florida State College to the annual Red Cross drive which ended March 31 amounted to $1317.43. Although the set goal of $1750 was not reached, Mr Jerry B Kelly, faculty administrator for the drive, attributed this fact to the general reaction to the end of the war. Mr Kelly also stated that further contributions will probably be made in the near future.

During the drive, which began March 1, the faulty was solicited by the Emergency Finance Committee, a group of faculty and staff organized on campus for such purposes. Direct contact by appointed committees was used to approach the students. Students were divided into five divisions under the leadership of: Miss Virginia DeGarry, off-campus house; Miss Barbara Wickham, sorority houses; Miss Ann McDonald, freshman dormitories; Miss Martha Peacock, Landis, Gilchrist, and Broward halls; and Miss Betty Jane Wright, Magnolia and Village residences.

New Frosh Begin College Career at FSC in Springtime

Nineteen new freshmen arrived on campus this quarter to begin their college careers in the spring season. The majority of these girls are housed in Jennie Murphree, Reynolds, and the Lodge. These new freshmen are dispersed over the campus so that they may have an opportunity to intermingle with those who know their way around campus and can afford helpful advice.

At a coffee given for the freshmen in Bryan sun parlor on March 26, Miss Olivia N Dorman, dean of students, and Miss Katherine Warren, assistant dean of students, welcomed them to FSC.

Boredom, loneliness, and nostal-

Continue on page two

Creative Arts Field Widened

Awards in Art and Music; Journalism Included

Creative Arts Week has been set for April 2 through May 3. Deadlines and final instructions for the AAUW contest have been announced by Mrs Cynthia Reeves Snow, chairman of the contest committee. Additional awards are offered in the art and music fields, and journalism is now included in the writing division. Mrs Snow emphasized that all entries must be labeled as to type and classification.

The dance contest is to be held at 8 p m on April 25 in the Augusta Conradi Theatre. Title of compositions as well as the entrant's name must be turned in by April 20 to Miss Ernestine Troemel for tap dance or Miss Calliope Papatsos for modern dance. The dances will be judged on the following points: the composition itself, which includes degree to which there is coordination of theme and floor and space patterns, coordination of theme and movement, and coordination of theme and music; skill of execution which includes degree of skill used in transitions, integration of individuals in the dance; and synchronization of the whole.

Manuscripts for the writing division should be placed flat in envelopes addressed to Creative Arts Contest, Box 984, and left in the college post office not later than April 15.

Music compositions are to be submitted to Miss Gladys Koch, chairman of the Music Division, Studio 236, Westcott or Box 956, by April 15. The American Guild of Organists has offered a prize of $5 for the best piece of secular music submitted. The composition selected will then be held in reserve until the meeting of the Florida Composers League in May for the opinion of Percy Grainger and any other judge selected at that time.

Deadline for the Arts and Crafts Division is April 18. Entries are

Continued on Page Two

FSC Freshman Describes Work At Oak Ridge Atom Bomb Plant

An intricate maze of levers and tiny knobs, the steady drone of electric machines, the silence among workers who performed their respective tasks steadily, methodically day after day—this is the way of life at Y-12, a building where Eloise Moore, FSC freshman worked for nearly three month last summer.

Eloise sat before a huge machine twisting and turning knobs, knobs which produced important changes in "the stuff". Everyone here was working on "the stuff" — electricians, control operators, chemists. These men and women came from all parts of America to work for the American government. They lived on "The Project" in Oake Ridge, Tennessee. Eloise Moore was among these workers who produced the first atomic bombs.

She was one of many young girls just out of high school who boarded a bus for the "secret city" last June. When the bus stopped at Elza Gate, the most famous of the gates leading to Oak Ridge, big, burly MP's checked their identification and finding no passes would not allow them to enter. Later, the girls were given temporary passes and sent to the personnel offices of the company for which they wanted to work. Eloise chose the Eastman Corporation, and after waiting four long hours, she was interviewed and hired as a control operator. Then, she says, "Feeling like an arch criminal, I was photographed and fingerprinted. I had to sign endless papers swearing that I would not reveal anything that I would subsequently learn and that I wouldn't discuss the work with even my closest relative." Eloise's cousin also worked at Oak Ridge.

The next day, Eloise was in a group of new employees who were sent to the administration building for primary training. She listened to six lectures a day on such subjects as fire prevention and pay-roll deduction. But the most important lectures were those emphasizing the need for security, a security afforded only by the maintainance of strict secrecy. On the last day of her primary training, a company representative showed the class a pamphlet of plastic materials the Tennessee Eastman Corporation had manufactured before the war, and says Eloise, "Some people were actually gullible enough to think we were going to make plastic gearship handles."

Next, she was sent to the training school, affectionately termed, The University of Tennessee Eastman Corporation. She went to school from 7 a m to 3 p m. After class, their textbooks were carefully checked in the library and even their scratch paper was numbered, taken up after class, and

Continued on Page Two

Jr-Sr Dance To Be at 8:30 Tomorrow Nite

Perry Watson's Orchestra To Furnish Rhythm For Dancers

Prom Theme to Be Revealed During Intermission

"The biggest and the best Junior-Senior Prom," says Shirley Rodgers, chairman, will be held Saturday night from 8:30 p m until 12 p m, in the old dining hall with Perry Watson's sixteen piece orchestra furnishing the dance music. These musicians are coming from Gainesville, where they are students at the University.

As is customary, the theme of the prom remains secret to all but a select few until Saturday at 8:30 p m. But the moment the ticket table is reached the secret will be no more, for Sophomore Council girls, dressed to carry out the theme of the prom, will check tickets and act as hostesses.

Nell Clark and Nancy Wright are also secretive about the presentation of the prom court, of which they have charge, saying only that "You'll find out during intermission, which is from 10 p m until 10:30 p m. We can't tell you any more."

Everyone is urged to attend the Prom as it not only promises to be "the most gala affair of the year," to quote Shirley, but as she also explained, "the cost of living and dancing is now so high that it has been necessary to charge $1 for the tickets in order to cover the cost of the orchestra, etc." Tickets will be on sale in lower Westcott until 5 p m tomorrow afternoon. All those who want tickets must get them by that time. Those who wish to ask more than one date will have to purchase a ticket for each extra boy.

"It is hoped that all juniors and seniors will attend their prom for the committees have worked long and hard to make this a stupendous dance," Shirley said.

These are the committees that worked on the Junior-Senior Prom: publicity, Aileen Sayers, chairman, Nancy MacEdwards, Betty Johnston, Eileen Murinson, Polly Marks, Ester Argintar, Irene Gross, Lavonne Black, Phyllis Singer, and Sherlee Barish.

Decorations, Cora Lea Wells, chairman, Margery Holms, Sara Ellen Glenn, Nancy MacEdwards, Ann Hunter, Helen Stowe, Barbara Lindsey, Marjorie Potter, Nancy Ware, Barabara Wickham, Virginia De Garry, Joy Knipe,

Continue on page two

Chemist Addresses National Honorary

Miss Marie Hines, head die-

The local Branch of the Florida Academy of Sciences and Gamma Sigma Epsilon, national chemistry honorary, met jointly Thursday evening, April 4 in the chemistry hall.

Dr Garland E Lewis, retired research chemist, spoke on "Industrial Chemistry at the Niagara Frontier." Dr Lewis occupied the chair of Industrial Chemistry at Rutgers University during World War I. Later he accepted a position as research chemist with DuPont Company in their Niagara plant. He is the brother of Dr Leland J Lewis, of Florida State College.

Dr and Mrs Garland E Lewis and Dr and Mrs Leland J Lewis were the guest of the chemistry majors, in the dining hall Thursday night. After dinner coffee was served in the Rowena Longmire Building.

FSC Faculty Attends Recreation Meeting

The national convention of the American Association for Health, Physical Education and Recreation, which is to be held April 6 through April 14 in St Louis, will be attended by 18 members of the Florida State College physical education department.

The six faculty members who will represent FSC are Miss Grace Fox, Miss Matilda Willebrand, Miss Callope Papatsos, Miss Henrietta Greenberg, Dr Katherine Montgomery, and Miss Margaret Stanion. Senior physical education majors that plan to go are Babe Evans, Frankie Hall, and Dot Tucker; juniors, Nancy McEdwards, Clarice Trueblood, Nancy Ward, Gloria McVey, Margery Holms, and Mary Nell Goldman; and one sophomore, Anna Horne. Martha Twitty, an alumna, is also planning to attend.

The group will leave tomorrow and return Sunday week.

Reasons Given For Light Bill

Committee States Present Rule Too Inflexible

Specific reasons backing the present form of the light flash recommendation made by the Student Senate to the Executive Council of the College are now being drawn up by the Executive Council of College Government association, according to Sara Lewis, first vice-president of CGA.

The inflexibility of the present rule which states that lights must be turned out at a specified time is one of the main reasons to be advanced, she stated. 'If a student has 15 more minutes of work to do at last light flash, it is better for her to finish it than to turn off the light and wait until morning when the subject will be cold," she contends.

Enlargement of the school is another reason to be presented. The committee feels that each student will have to take more personal responsibility for herself under present conditions. The ineffectiveness of the present rule due to the impossibility of proper checking is also on the slate.

After analysis of the reasons given by the Executive Council of CGA, the Faculty Committee on Student Affairs will forward the recommendation for final decision to the Executive Council of the College. This council includes President Doak S Campbell and various deans and officials of the college.

The recommendation now pending states that all upperclassmen be allowed the use of their lights at their own discretion. The original recommendation was that all resident students be allowed the use of their lights at their own discretion, but the Faculty Committee on Student Affairs, when discussing the merits of the original resolution with the Executive Council of CGA, voted to exclude freshmen from the bill. The proposal was then sent back to Senate for discussion.

Suggestions for a trial period were attached to the revised proposal by the Executive Council of CGA and sent to the Executive Council of the College. Because the resolution concerns a matter of health, only this group has the authority to make it a rule. This council has now turned the recommendation over to the Faculty Committee on Student Affairs for further deliberation.

A committee from the Executive Council of CGA has now been asked to render definite reasons supporting the resolution.

Jr-Sr Prom

Continued from page one

Marjorie Browne, Shirley Dorr, Jean Sharer, Barbara Owens, Alice Phillips, Frances Myers, Geneva Bettie, Ann Colvin, Betty Lee Norman, Leta Rae Glasscock, Kay Moore, Sadie Louise Campbell, Roslyn McGee, Jane Arnold, Mary Nell Coleman, Aileen James, and Sara Corry.

Invitations, Rebecca Routon; chaperones, Jean Ann Graham; spotlights, Ann Nicholson; and refreshments, Coline Gunn, chairman; Patricia Millican, Edna Payne, Billie Martin, Doris O'Neil, and Chris Morrison.

Everyone is asked to remind their dates that the prom is a formal affair and to ask them to dress formally if possible.

20-Year Growth

Continued from Page One

ians were not the only "forgotten fold." The Baptists, too, were also having their difficulties. Their first meetings were held in a small bedroom on College avenue where Miss Margaret Stem, student secretary at that time, resided. The girls held their teas and group meetings perched on bedposts and dresser drawers while the tea cups and other equipment rattled precariously on a makeshift "legless table."

Shortly afterwards the girls rented a room in the old Spic 'n' Span but their Bible classes were often interrupted by the juke box blaring forth the latest hit tune. "The fumes from the oil stove often sent us gasping to the window for air," remarked Mrs Ida Simmons, secretary to the Registrar, who formerly held classes with the girls.

It wasn't until October of 1937 that the present Baptist Student Union was ready for occupancy. It had ample accommodations for the small groups who then utilized it. Now, however, plans are in the making for a larger building to serve the increased number of recently enrolled Baptist girls.

Faculty Group

Continued from page one

gained immediately after the meeting, all members unanimously declined to comment.

According to a Judiciary member who asked that her identity be withheld, Miss Olivia N Dorman, dean of students, reiterated the following reasons for the request that Betty withdraw her candidacy:

"She has divulged information regarding judiciary matters which the Dean's office considers confidential;

"She, in her position as junior counsellor, has influenced freshmen by belittling the rules to them; and

"She has openly opposed existing policies of the faculty by her publicly expressed opinions."

Miss Dorman stated that these reasons are based on evidence collected throughout the year. The Judiciary member went on to say of the meeting that no defense of the Committee request was allowed and that there was no discussion among the group present. It was also stated, however, that Betty is allowed to run as candidate for senior representative to Judiciary.

A mass meeting of students was held last evening at 7:30 in front of the new dining hall, which was attended by about 200 students. B J McLeod spoke, urging student cooperation and coordinated action toward their aim, which was an explanation of the situation as it stood and the reinstatement of Betty Schwartz as a candidate. She emphasized that the signing of petitions would reflect the degree of student interest in the matter. She continued that the petitions would be collected and turned over to student officers for action. In case this fails, the petitions are to be given to a specially selected representative student committee.

Approximately 75 petitions have been circulated among students. The petition is quoted as follows: "We, the students of Florida State College for Women, hereby petition the reinstatement of Betty Schwartz as a candidate for the office of Chairman of Judiciary. We, as citizens of the State and of this College, should have the right to select candidates for student offices in order to preserve some vestige of democracy."

Three-Act Comedy Presented by Holt

A series of spring recitals, presented under the auspices of the speech department, began yesterday with the senior recital of Barbara Holt in the Augusta Conradi theater, announced Mrs Mary Buford, associate professor of speech.

For her recital Barbara read "Mrs Moonlight," a comedy in three acts by Benn W Levy.

Mrs Buford stated that Barbara has participated in some of the major productions on campus. She took the part of Carol in "Time and the Conways," and assisted Mr W L Dingwell, assistant professor of speech and dramatic coach of the recent production of Noel Coward's "Blithe Spirit," when this play was presented on campus.

These recitals will be presented at intervals during the spring quarter, and the dates will be announced later.

FSC Freshman Tells

Continued from page one

destroyed. Eloise recalls having taken three tests in one day. She worked hard to make a good grade because each member of the class was "merit rated" at the end of their training period.

Next, Eloise went to Y-12, the secret place about which she had heard so much. "I was a little disappointed," she said, "for the only difference between it and the training school was that Y-12 was larger and had twice as many guards." Here she was issued her uniforms, assigned to a rotating group, and told in which building she was to work. "The gods must have been smiling on me that day," she exclaimed, "for I was assigned to the same group, department, and building as my cousin." The exact nature of Eloise's job must, of course, remain a secret. But Eloise says that, "With one wrong turn of a knob, one could easily ruin thousands of dollars worth of material," and she added, "I know because I did it."

Describing the reaction of the atom bomb workers V-J Day, Eloise says: "We got the news of the war's end about six-thirty. As soon as we heard it, we all gathered in little groups to laugh, or cry, or just talk. Our foreman let us talk for almost ten minutes while our machines operated as best they could. Then he brought us back down to earth with a quick joke, 'Say, you kids had better get back to work. Uranium is running out on the floor'."

According to Eloise, most of the men and women at Oak Ridge were not as unaware of the nature of their work as the first newspaper accounts would have the public believe. Oak Ridge had a splendid library with an excellent science department. Most of the books were well used. There was even an article about splitting the uranium atom on the front page of one of the Knoxville newspapers. "Naturally," said Eloise, "when our foreman brought the clipping to work with him, we got an idea of what we were doing."

"When my parents learned about the atomic bomb, they regretted having given me permission to work at Oak Ridge. But I shall never forget my good friends there and the fun we had while working on "the stuff." Next summer, I'm planning on returning." On the third finger of her left hand shines a diamond in a ring given her by Oliver C Yonts, experimental physicist working in Y-12 for the Tennessee Eastman Corporation. Yes, Eloise Moore may well return to Oak Ridge, Tennessee.

Degrees Conferred

Continued from page one

lander, Margaret Dale Hathaway, Mamie Wilson Hedgepath, Eileen G Davis, Eleanor Cordes Law, Jessie Reba McCalla, Alice Elizabeth Neef, Nancy Rose Otto, Lola Anne Sparkman, Carol Bradford Stevens and Naomi Ruth Williams.

The program was closed with the benediction and the recessional.

FSC Girls Tour

Continued from Page One

they could find that didn't require a male escort.

The girls went on the subway to the opera and some got lost in the rush. They were found later though—they came dragging in to the opera after it had started. The girls attended performances of both Tannhaeuser and Gioconda, in which Rise Stevens was starring. They also saw quite a few plays, among them: Maurice Evans' GI version of Hamlet, Antigone starring Katherine Cornell, Frank Fay's clever characterization in Harvey, Life With Father, I Remember Mama, The Lute Song with Mary Martin, Ballet Russe de Monte Carlo, Hats Off to Ice, Song of Norway, Anna Lucasta, and the Lunts in O Mistress Mine. Some girls liked the operas better than the plays.

The girls had a friendly chat with Miss Cornell after her performance. She had written in advance that if girls were interested enough in the theatre to fly all the way from Florida she wanted to meet them. She told the party about several of her experiences overseas while playing in Antigone. After Mr Evens' play the girls went backstage to meet the distinguished actor. He was very gracious and teasingly asked if they were the children who laughed at the wrong time during the play.

Betty Blake rubbed shoulders with Raymond Massey in the crowded lobby of the theatre where he was appearing. The girls missed Van Johnson by only a few days. They met and talked to Agnes Moorehead, but didn't recognise the actress at the time. Three of the girls went to see Benny Goodman's orchestra after Tannhaeuser and reported that there are as many people on Broadway at 3 a m as at any other time.

The girls left La Guardia field at 8:30 a m Tuesday on the return trip. When the plane landed in Washington they got off and directly onto a sight-seeing bus. They went first to Alexandria and then spent the rest of the morning at Mount Vernon. Lunch was at a little colonial restaurant down the road from Washington's home. The waitresses were all dressed in colonial costume and the interior of the restaurant was furnished in colonial style.

After lunch the girls toured Washington itself. They saw the Pentagon building, General "Ike" Eisenhower's house, the birthplace of Francis Scott Key, Jefferson Memorial, Washington Monument, the White House, the Presbyterian church that Lincoln attended, Ford theatre where Lincoln was assassinated, the Old Battery where Jenny Lind sang, Archives Building, Lincoln Memorial and the National Cathedral of All Faiths in which Woodrow Wilson is buried.

Most of the girls sat in on a Supreme Court session and then ate dinner in the cafeteria in the building. Some went to the Library of Congress and some to sessions of the Senate and the House of Representatives.

On Wednesday the party visited the Folger Shakespearian Library which houses copies of first editions, the quarto, and folio. There is a special music exhibition which includes the lute, the bass viol, and other instruments of medieval times. The library also has a replica of the Fortune Theatre, and some Elizabethan songbooks. Because the girls constituted a special party and because he was a former teacher of Miss Rogers, Dr Joseph Quincy Adams, director of the Library, allowed them in on Wednesday when the public is excluded.

Three alumnae of Florida State College sent their best wishes to friends here. They were Delia Perez, who is working for her masters in social work; Sarah Callison, who is associated with McGraw Hill Library; and Elizabeth McFarland, last year's editor of the Distaff who is now poetry editor of Scholastic Magazine.

On the return trip the plane was delayed 14 hours at Greenville, South Carolina by bad weather and a flat tire received on landing. The girls spent the night on the plane and had breakfast in town in the morning.

Carolyn Taylor said that "being stranded in South Carolina was most fun of all." Betty Steele and Sally Slater were very impressed with Washington because it was so clean after New York and you could see green grass and flowers there. Betty remarked that "there was such a vivid contrast between the two because Washington is more old-fashioned and spread out."

Miss Rogers commented on the "wonderfulness of the girls." She said that she was extremely proud of them and they were so nice that everyone just "got out the red carpet for them." She hopes to be able to take another group next year.

Possessions Left

A list of articles that girls have left in the infirmary is now posted on a bulletin board in the front office of the infirmary, according to Miss Flossie Riley, head nurse. If the objects are not claimed within two weeks, Miss Riley says that she will dispose of them.

Creative Arts

Continued from page one

to be taken to room 311 Westcott between the hours of 3 and 5 p m. The college library will select from the entries in this contest a book plate for gift volumes, announced Miss Haughton, chairman of the Art Division. The size of this book plate should be two and three-fourths inches by four and one-half inches.

Rules for the Dramatic Division were announced in the March 8 issue of the Flambeau. Entries in this division may be addressed to Box 1022 not later than April 16.

All students interested in entering any division of the Creative Arts Contest may secure a list of regulations from the chairman of each division.

All students interested in entering any division of the Creative Arts Contest may secure a list of regulations from the chairman of each division. These chairmen are: Miss Helen Haughton, Art; Miss Louise Gehan, Dance; Miss Mary Tom Colones, Drama; Miss Gladys Koch, Music; Miss Mildred Henry, Writing.

New Freshmen

Continued From Page One

gia were evidenced by freshmen who arrived on campus before the return of upperclassmen.

Freshmen's first impressions of FSC express both delight and doubt. Margaret Handberry said, "I love it so far but I do not know how I will like it two weeks from now." Marion Greene said, "I love the campus and all the girls are so nice. There is just one thing wrong. I am afraid I am gaining entirely too much weight." Another freshman giving her first impression of Florida State College said, "The campus is much prettier than I expected it to be. As far as I have gathered everybody certainly loves to loaf."

The new freshmen are: Marilyn F Burckel, Sara Louise Carter, Dorothy Christie, Mattie Ruth Crim, Evelyn E Dyess, Mattie Ruth Ervin, Billie Galloway, Beverly Green, Marion Greene, Margaret Ann Handberry, Suzanne Harris, Dorothy Horne, Henrietta Michael, Idema Monroe, Hasel Ann Nelson, Nina Nelson, Selene Ross, Billie Stephens, and Nancy Thomson.

Organ Vespers

Continued from page one

Clokey, "Noel" by Daquin-Watters, "Sonata VI" by Mendelsshon, "Electa ut Sol" by Dallier.

Third on the Pre-Easter Vesper series is the Community Choral Program to be held April 14, in Westcott Auditorium, under the direction of Mrs Beard. This program is sponsored by the American Guild of Organists, Tallahassee Branch Chapter. The Community Choral Program is held annually on Palm Sunday.

The following choirs and their directors are included: St John's Episcopal Church Junior Choir, Miss Marguerite Henry, Presbyterian Student Choir, Miss Dalia Santos; Methodist Choir, Mrs H Caleb Cushing; Baptist Choir, Mr H Caleb Cushing; Hillel Choir, Sarah Ann Braemeister; Methodist Junior Choir, Mrs H Caleb Cushing; Baptist Student Choir, Miss Patricia Millican; Methodist High School Choir, Mrs H Caleb Cushing; Baptist Senior Choir, Mr H Caleb Cushing; Methodist Student Choir, Miss Madge Clayton; Episcopal Student and Young People's Service League Choir, Miss Sarah Lewis; Baptist Youth Choir, Mr H Caleb Cushing; St John's Episcopal Church Senior Choir, Miss Florine Marlett Presbyterian Church Choir, Mrs W R Latham.

Spring Distaff

Continued from Page One

border to give us translations with little of the Mexican touch in poetry, and also delves far into the past to give a glimpse of the ancient Greeks' style of poetry.

The fourth issue of the Distaff will not be published this year, due to lack of funds. "We hope that sufficient funds will be appropriated next year so that we can go back on our schedule of four issues per year," said Winifred.

Glee Club Will

Continued from page one

will play "Concert Etude" by MacDowell.

Members of the Glee Club are; Jane Gaertner, Margie Pussell, Virginia Gallemore, Ann Wiggins, Annie Stringfellow, Annette McClelland, Marna Smith, Emmalee Worn, Myra Russell, Virginia Thompson, Calista Hatcher, Jacquie Belcher, Phyllis DeKalb, Marion Welch, Nan Durrance, Doris O'Neill, Margaret Wooten, Johnnie Mires, Constance Bradley, Hazel Clarkson Laura Simpson, Anne Mustaine, Jackie Fodstick, Dot Hewitt, Cunthia Merrin, Sarah Brown, Renie Hedgecoth, Peggy Pearson, Jeannelle Brown, Nancy Lee Wheeler, Martha McCormack, Ann Townsend, Ruth Wilkie, Joyce Williams, Evelyn Johnston.

Betty Houlihan, Mavis McMillin, Virginia Dergarry, Doris Lamb, Mary Nichols, Dixie Ruth Kennedy, Anne Daniel, Ethel Chyna, Billie Bogley, Billie Armistead, Betty Barber, Mary Jane Kirst, Edith Smith, Grace Bryan, Sarah Brameister, Anne Lindsey, Helen Bright, Christine Stasinos, Joyce Carlton, Lois Hyde, Marjorie Headley, Mary Pat Warner, Lois Merewether, Mildred Robson, Sylvia Meish, Katherine Gremil, Dolores Clausen, Dawn Shirah, Virginia Serell, Martha Westberry, Mary Lois Conn, Alice Phillips, Priscilla Clark, Celia King, Ruth King, Alice Wheeler, Paula Teagarden, Artie Flanders, Daphne Rowe, Fawn Trawick.

Ruth Ervin, Jeannette Chapman, Helen McCann, Mary Davis, Emily Bridges, Mary Louise Morris, Doris Musselman, Sara Lee Williams, Barbara Fennell, Pat Thomas, Betty Owen, Eleanor Bragg, Melba Smitzes, Shirley Glover, Joyce Funke, Mildred Mann, Lucy Joyce Airth, and Mary Hart.

READ THE FLAMBEAU ADVERTISEMENTS.

Returned Seniors

Continued from Page One

town of Belle Glade believes, "You gain a great deal of experience from interning that you cannot get from purely theoretical college courses."

"It is the best way to learn to teach," according to Beulah Ann Fletcher who interned in mathematics at Memorial Junior High School in Orlando, "because you are in the situation of a teacher without full responsibility and yet in the situation of a student observing experienced teachers."

Shooks Lester and Eloise Boyles agree that, "You learn to know what to expect from your job after a brief period of internship. You meet the public and change your outlook." Skooks who is going into Girl Scouting, worked with the Girl Scout Office in Pensacola. Eloise, a Physical Education major, interned at Robert E Lee High School in Jacksonville.

Frankie Hall, who interned in Physical Education at Mainland High School in Daytona Beach says, "Interning is a good and necessary experience because you are confronted by actual problems such as discipline or lack of equipment which you will meet later."

Elizabeth Aard, a commerce major who interned in her home town high school at New Smyrna Beach says, "Interning is the only way to decide if you want to be a teacher."

Babe Evans, another Physical Education major, who interned at P K Yonge High School in Gainesville, adds, "The chance to observe progress within the state, to evaluate this progress during the seminar, and then to set up one's own type and kind of program is extremely halpful."

Ava Lura Jones who taught the first grade in Orlando says, "Up to the time that I interned I had the materials and methods for teaching, but didn't know how to put them into practice. I think that every girl should have the opportunity to intern in her field."

Madge Overstreet, an English major who interned in Gainesville says, "Getting a glimpse of the profession from the teacher's angle has proved both interesting and valuable."

Lonnie Friday taught the third grade at West Riverside school in Jacksonville. She found that, "It was an illuminating experience in more ways than one to see how children react in different situations and how the teachers handled them."

New Members

Continued from page one

botany department was elected an alumna member, and Ellen Louise Whitman was elected as the only junior-member-in-course.

Membership in Phi Beta Kappa is awarded to students in the School of Arts and Sciences who have a 2.5 average for all four years of college work. Only a certain percentage of the eligible seniors may be elected to membership each year. Phi Beta Kappa is the oldest scholastic honorary, having been founded in 1776, and the highest scholastic honor is attached to membership.

Dr Andrews to Talk On Graduate Wor

"Beyond the Bachelor's Degre is the main subject of a discuss on graduate work to be held Dr Elizabeth G Andrews, direc of personnel, for all students ne Wednesday, April 10, at 5 p in 303 Westcott

Fourth in a series of vocation guidance lectures sponsored ea year by the personnel office, Andrews' speech will specifica concern qualifications for grad ate work and also the consider tions that students must keep mind before pursuing furth studies.

Miss Agnes Gregory, instruct in library science, is to speak "The Opportunities in Libra Work" in this same vocation guidance series later in April.

Contract Granted

Dr Doak S Campbell, preside of Florida State College, repor that a contract has been gran ed for a new dormitory, to be co structed by the Beers Constructi Company of Atlanta.

DOROTHY GRAY "COLOR CUE"
Usual $300 value, $2.00*

Just whet you need for that Spring look, and such a bargain! Famous new "Lights Up" Foundation for a glowing make-up, harmonizing Dorothy Gray Portrait Fece Powder— a megnum size Lipstick in post-war metal case, your choice of Right Red, Portrait Pink, South American, Siren or Ripe Cherries.

BENNETT'S

COLLEGE INN PHARMACY
PHONE 800

MONROE ST. PHARMACY
PHONE 93

PRETTY AS THE PICTURE

Is Our Beautiful Picture Framing

We Also Specialize in Framing
- DIPLOMAS
- PORTRAITS
- MAPS, Etc.

TRUE ESTIMATES GIVEN ON ANY SIZE, COLOR, OR PATTERN

Ward's Paint Store

304 S. ADAMS

BOTTLED UNDER AUTHORITY OF THE COCA-COLA COMPANY BY TALLAHASSEE COCA COLA BOTTLING COMPANY

Eat the Best
And Tell the Rest
—Watsonspeare

Our Steaks, Chops, Spaghetti and Chili are worth telling about, too!

M & N CAFE

Basic Figuring at Junior Lev
Power Miracle
MISS SEVENTEE JR. FOUNDATION NEW YORK
by Miss Seventeen

THEOREM: Unruly tummies and backward bulges needn't mean despair

PROOF: Power Miracle's curve-coaxing ways. Bi-directional stretch belittles hips, whittles waists . . . controls with a caress. You'll wonder that a mesh so gentle-light could be so firm. Power Miracle...in junior panties and girdles

We are glad to announce our appointment as authorized distributors for

MURA

Perfumes, Sachets, Bath Powders and Toilet Waters They are imported from France and are nternation ally known for their fine quality

W. W. PUTNAM
Registered Jeweler
AMERICAN GEM SOCIETY

308 SOUTH MONROE

All Our Diamonds Are Diamondscope Tested

Odd-Even Sports Season Opens With Spring Expectations High

Spring brought along with it this year four new sports. The Odds and Evens will contest this quarter in golf, badminton, softball and tennis.

Nancy Ward, Odd badminton leader, said that there were sixteen players out for practice. These players were mostly freshmen, Nacy said, but she believes there will be more people out next week. Each pleyer must attend two-thirds of the practice periods to qualify for the badminton tournament. The Odd coach is Miss Henrietta Greenburg.

Seventeen Evens were out for badminton practice Tuesday. Jean [illegible], Even leader, said that "All Evens are cordially welcome to come out for practice as it still isn't too late." Miss Matilda Wilbrand is the Even coach.

Golf practices began Tuesday when seven Evens and five Odds came out to play. Both Odds and Evens will practice on Monday, Thursday and Friday at 5 p m. Miss Grace Fox will coach both teams.

Even leader, Catherine Jackson said, "I think we have the makings of a good team this year. Everyone that has ever held a club, come on out. We would love to have you."

Rachel Crotwall, leader of the Odds said, "We have promise of a good team this year. Everyone come on out. You still have time to make your practice points."

To be eligible to play in the tournament a girl must have 12 practice points. The tournament will be eighteen holes, but will be divided into two nine-hole games, played on different days. The tournament will last a week and the players will play at their convenience.

Monday, the first day of softball practices, 30 Odds turned out to show their coach, Miss Callope Papatsos, what kind of ball they could play. Odds practice on Monday, Wednesday and Friday at 5 p m. To be eligible for the team a player must have 11 practice points.

Rachael Chambers, Odd leader, said, "The Odds have promise of the best team that either Odds or Evens have put out in many a year, although most of the girls out are freshmen. We want everyone who is interested to come on out, for you still have time to make your practice points."

Even practices began Tuesday with 25 players coming out to practice Tuesday, Thurday and Friday at 5 p m.

Frankie Hall, Even leader, said, "We have a lot of the girls that played for us last year back out this year. Anna Giese and Sara Bennett are interning this quarter, but nevertheless we have good material."

The softball class games will be held May 8 and 16. The Odd-Even game will be May 17.

The odd tennis practice began Monday and will continue until May 7. Practice is every Monday, Wednesday and Friday. Ten students were out for practice Monday, but Enid Sandler, Odd leader, believes that there will be more students out later. The coach for the Odd team is Miss Lois Ver Hoeven.

The Even tennis practice began Tuesday with practices every Tuesday, Thurday and Friday. Eleven Evens were out for practice Tuesday and more players are expected. Miss Ernestine Troemel is the Even coach.

Talk Postponed

An art lecture with slides, which was to have been presented by Professor Joseph Algers of Black Mountain College Tuesday night has been postponed for approximately two weeks. This talk, which is under auspices of the Artist series and the American Association of University Women, will be held in the Augusta Conradi theater.

This postponement was necessitated by the illness of Professor Albers, according to Miss Helen Haughton, assistant professor of art. The exact time and date of the talk will be announced within a few days.

Dance Instructor Returns to Classes From Coast Guard

From uniform to leotard was the quick-change that had to be made by Miss Nellie-Bond Dickinson, instructor of physical education, who has just returned to FSC after serving as a lieutenant (jg) for two and one-half years in the SPARS, the woman's division of the Coast Guard.

Miss Dickinson who had anticipated a painful readjustment to civilian life remarked that she was quite surprised to find it a very natural change. Resuming her position here as an instructor in modern dance, the native North Carolinian says that her readjustment may have been made easier because she began studying dance again under the supervision of Martha Graham while stationed in New York before her discharge.

Receiving her commission upon enlistment, she went directly into officer training school at the Coast Guard academy in New London, Conn and, on her designation as an ensign, became a batallion commander in Charleston, S C, and later in Manhattan Beach, N Y. "Ensign Forever" became her pet name as she had given up all hope of ever receiving further promotion after 19 months in the same rank.

Although she feels right at home again at FSC, Miss Dickinson is surprised to see so many new faces emong the faculty and student body. A graduate of the University of North Carolina, the 5'6" dance instructor has also studied at Columbia University, New York University, and at private studios.

Stomp-Court Brawl to Be Presented For Promless Sophomores and Freshmen

Among the names contemplated by the Playnight committee for the program Saturday were crawl, wiggle, brawl, pram, and bounce. Then like a bolt out of the blue, they had it! It was sheer genius that made them think of stomp, meaning to strike the foot against the floor noisily and with pleasure.

A "stomp-court," which may or may not have anything to do with hosses, is to be the idea behind Playnight this week. Shirley Duggan, chairman of these goings-on was positively shrouded in mystery about the whole thing, but she did utter such nebulous and glowing phrases as "bet yet," "on the beam," and "superoo," to describe the program.

Three freshmen and three sophomores make up this—ahem—court. They wish to make like Greta Garto and remain strictly incognito until the big moment Saturday. But you can be assured that they are extremely capable of such a feat as stomping (joke). They are endowed with extraordinary, and to say the least, unusual talents. Duggan said so.

This week's Playnight is to be manned entirely by freshmen and sophomores, since the juniors and seniors claim they have more important things to do. They keep raving about some little get-together they're having Saturday night.

Those whom Fate has decreed not eligible to go to this other shindig may come on to Playnight Saturday. And in case the court isn't sufficient enticement to drag you out, there will be the usual dancing, swimming, and table-tennis. Men? Of course! There's always at least one. At any rate you're assured of a stomp-down good time. Duggan said that, too.

Large Enrollment Brings New Sports

Team sports will be offered next year among the courses for sophomores according to Dr Katherine Montgomery, head of the Physical Education Department. Dr Montgomery said that increased enrollment in Physical Education classes this quarter has necessitated changes and additions to the department.

New sections have had to be created for swimming, golf, and archery; and a course in tests and measurements, offered for the first time last quarter has almost doubled its enrollment. Classes in team sports will give instruction in soccer, hockey, basketball, volleyball, softball, and speedball. The sports taught each quarter will be those which are being played in the inter-class tournaments during the same quarter.

Three Saddle Horses For Rent at Dairy

Riding horses can be rented now at the college dairy, reported Dr Katherine Montgomery, head of the physical education department.

For the past few months three horses have been in training at the dairy farm and are now available for rent at the rate of $1.25 an hour. Although these horses are not college property, they may be rented by FSC girls any time during the day.

The owners said that the three horses, Dolly, Annie and Rusty, are in good condition for riding, but a groom is there who will accompany beginning horsewomen. The college dairy is the place to call for reservations.

FSC Represented At Education Meeting

Florida State College was represented by six faculty members at the annual meeting of the Florida Education Association in Tampa, beginning Wednesday, April 3, according to Dr Milton W Carothers, registrar.

Among those who attended this meeting were: Dr Doak S Campbell, president of Florida State College; Dean Ralph L Eyman, of the School of Education; Dean Margaret Sandals, of the School of Home Economics; Prof Henry F Becker, of the geography department; Miss Marjorie Judy, instructor in modern languages; and Dr Milton W Carothers, registrar.

Cotillion Initiates

At a banquet given by Cotillion members on March 7 at the Three Torches Tea Room, Anne Shull was chosen as the outstanding tap for the year and awarded a sterling silver bracelet. Prior to the banquet, formal initiation services were held in the Kappa Delta House where the new taps were given their top hat pins.

Taps entertained the members in Landis on February 22 when they presented a program depicting all types of dancing, from the Roman slave dance to the modern jitterbug.

Cotillion has announced that dancing classes are being held this quarter in Reynolds Rec on Thursday nights after dinner.

Ernestine Troemel Is Tarpon Sponsor

Miss Ernestine Troemel, associate professor in the department of physical education, was elected the new Tarpon sponsor for this quarter at a meeting held last Thursday night, March 28, in the Rowena Longmire building. Miss Troemel succeeds Miss Margaret Clements, who was the Tarpon sponsor for the first quarter.

Plans are well under way for the forthcoming spring performance. The Tarpons are quite pleased over these plans and are raring to get "the show on the road." Formation committees were appointed. Persons included are: Committee 1 Carol Claus, Nancy MacEdwards, Marjorie Holm and Anna K Horne; Committee 2 Anna Lou Rivers, Sis Meyers and B J Singleton.

Training classes prior to Tarpon try-outs were held Friday, March 29, at 5 p m, Saturday, March 30, from 3 p m until 4 p m and from 8 p m until 5 p m. Tryouts were held Tuesday, April 2; Thursday, April 4; and Friday, April 5. The new minnows will be chosen today.

FSC Swimmers Take Top Place In Southern Telegraphic Meet

Florida State College topped the score of eleven other entrants to win first place in the Southern Intercollegiate Telegraphic Swimming meet, announced Miss Margaret Stanion, referee of the meet at this college. For the second consecutive year FSC score came out on top, this time with 44.5 points, followed in second place by Women's College University of North Carolina with 31.5 points and William and Mary in third place with 20 points.

Timings of four FSC entries won first place in their classifications. These were: 100 yard front crawl by Anna Horne in 1 minute 10.7 seconds, 100 yard back crawl by Carol Claus in 1 minute 24.9 seconds, 75 yard individual medley relay by Carol Claus in 59 seconds, and the 100 yard free style relay in 1 minute with Carol Claus, Anna Horne, Nancy MacEdwards, and Joanne Zewadski on that team. Anna Horne broke her last year's record in the 40 yard back crawl and the 100 yard front crawl.

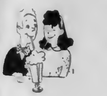
In the 40 yard back crawl Anne Horne took second place and Margery Holm took third place. Carol Claus tied for second place in the 40 yard breast stroke.

Carol Claus, Anne Horne, and Joanne Zewadski were on the team which won second place in the 75 yard medley relay. The team that took third place in this was Joan Boucher, Margery Holm, and Nancy MacEdwards. In addition to the FSC team that came in first in the 100 yard free style relay, Doris DuBois, Marjorie Holm, Amelia Pavese and Pauline Tuttle were on the team which took fourth place in that relay.

The scores from the Southern Telegraphic have been sent to the national sponsor where results from all the regional meets will be compiled to get the national winner. FSC came in second place last year in the national meet for women's colleges.

Other colleges participating in the Southern Telegraphic are: University of Louisville, Oklahoma, Duke University, Sophie Newcomb, Carson-Newman, Women's College University of North Carolina, and Winthrop College.

PERMANENTS
COLD WAVE MACHINE
Three Torches Beauty Shop
Across from Education Bldg.
PHONE 856



IT'S SOLID!
You'll Scream After Eating in Tallahassee's Only
Air-Conditioned Fountain-Cafe

After a rugged day at school with chemistry and math and you are about to pass out from the heat, meet with the gals in cool comfort. Not only do we serve yummy sundaes and sodas, but also delicious meals in our Air-Conditioned Fountain Cafe.

Your Gainesville man will go for clean, comfortable, cool

Martin & Dalton
DRUG STORE
218-212 SOUTH ADAMS

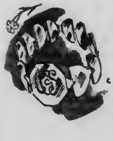
TAC

Approved for F. S. C. W. Students
By Board of Control

Learn to Fly the ERCOUPE
A Spin-Proof Plane Requiring Less Than One-Half the Usual Flight Instruction

- Learn fundamentals of Flying in a ground school to be held in Room 134 Westcott Bldg., beginning Monday, April 8, at 8:00 P. M. FREE OF CHARGE.
- YOU may get 1 hour of Flight Instruction FREE. Numbered cards will be passed out on the campus. A drawing will be made and the holders of the lucky numbers get the free lessons. Get a card and keep it.

Tallahassee Aircraft Corporation
Phone 2565 ⋆●⋆●⋆ Phone 2565



The magic spell of Spring manifests itself in our beautiful collection of jewelry.

HOLLY'S
Jewelry Store
COLLEGE & ADAMS
PHONE 202-K

ANNOUNCING...
THE FORMAL OPENING OF
THE MECCA
Formerly Known as the "SPIC and SPAN"

FRIDAY, APRIL 5TH
at 8:30 A. M.
Complete Fountain and Luncheon Service
Plus - - Magazines and Sundries
OPEN FROM 8:30 A. M. TO 11:00 P. M.
Under the Management of L. G. (Mr. Sweet Shop) Blount and Terry Gilchrist

SPIRIT OF THE WEEK

Squelched!?

• IN THE NAME OF JUSTICE

By WINIFRED MELDRIM, Editor, the Distaff

When will justice come to this campus?

To one whose heart has grown weary at the miscarriages of the embryonic attempts of the student body to attain popular sovereignty through Senate throughout this entire year, it seems that it will never come. To one who has seen the popular will of the people demonstrated clearly, as in the voting on the light restriction bill in Senate earlier this year, only to be frustrated by the inability of the thought of the faculty committee to penetrate to the desirable fundamentals as even a large mass of the student body has done, is so discouraging as to create a great and dangerous bitterness.

The short-sighted inability of the faculty committee to observe our desire for the recognition of these fundamentals—broadly, the attainment and working through to responsible and absolute self-government, via the mechanism of the suggestion of awareness of real responsibility and the recognition of its value, already has begun to create—I feel, I see, I hear everywhere in popular and thinking student opinion on this campus—a mood of frustration so serious as to deal a crippling blow to our faith in the Democratic Way. The constant reiteration of this dangerous and consistent suggestion both in attitude and in action serves to keep some of us pessimistic and fatalistic—to prevent us from the achievement of our miraculous and real potentialities for Enlightened Self-Leadership. Is not that the frustration of the growth of the Democratic Ideal? Whence can Democracy grow? Surely not out of the rigid, selfish, established, conventionalized world of trade and competition. Whence, then? Why not here, where there are the intelligence and training which might first offer the proper background for its first success?

I beseech you, whoever you are who read this, to demand and to maintain what stands yours—not as privilege but as birthright! I beseech you, in the name of liberty and justice, to protest the continued suppression and minimizing of the free and rightful voice of the mass in its vain attempts to achieve a true and honest representation!

The last bit of flagrant tyranny stands, to me and to practically every other student I have seen, a monstrosity. I refer to the disqualification of Betty Schwartz as candidate for the office of Chairman of Judiciary, by the vote of the faculty committee. The basis of disqualification, the dean states, is that: she wields a great influence on campus which the faculty committee feels that she will not use in the proper way as Chairman of Judiciary. This assumption is based on information which they have been, they say, collecting from all available sources over a period of time.

Let us examine this "information."

One of the principle accusations is that: she has from time to time expressed her own opinions upon judiciary policies when these opinions were not in accordance with existing policies; another deciding factor has been: the fact that she has divulged information about cases that was considered secret.

I shall now proceed to show that the reasoning of the faculty committee upon the issue demonstrates a shocking lack of critical and scrupulous thought.

In the first place, that is, the differing of opinion with existent policies, I protest the fallacy that, abstractly considered, the existent orders are necessarily the correct ones, to be rigidly adhered to without change, throughout the constantly changing and fluctuating course of human affairs. In addition, to consider the existent order in this concrete case, I question seriously, along with many other of my fellow-students, that the existent policies of Judiciary approach the absolutely logical or the infallible. A notorious example of the error of judicial thinking si the outmoded and intrinsically uncorrective concept of "shipping," one of the more flagrant evils of the judicial code. Examined psychologically, its uselessness and vanity as a technique is soon apparent.

In addition, in the Democratic Ideal, the rigid adherence to "existent policy" is in conflict with the premise that if the government no longer fits the need of the people and the times, the people have the right to modify it. Inelasticity in government is no less tyranny than absolute rule. Therefore to disqualify Miss Schwartz on the basis that her opinions differ, is to admit that one has no faith in and is not in concurrence with the basic democratic ideal—government determined by representation of the people and modified according to the changing needs of the people. I deny anyone to challenge the truth of this statement, anyone who professes a faith in Democracy.

As the second basis of disqualification, that which involves the divulging of information about cases that was considered secret, there is a great deal to be said.

First, the idea of the appropriateness of secrecy itself is a grave mal-assumption on the part of those in the administration above who say what is and how shall operate our so-called "Student" Judiciary. Why, I ask, the assumption of the necessity of secrecy? If, as it has been said time and again, one of the purposes of judiciary is to prevent by example further "transgressions" (behavior errors), why not disclose the full case, the totality of details, in order that the students might understand? In civil law, such is recognized as desirable, isn't it? Is not justice in our student cases as important in its own way—more important, even!—than in those of the outer world?

Furthermore, and this is the more important argument, there is danger in this "secrecy" because it does not permit of a check of the processes and basic assumptions by examination by the thinking section in the populace to whom the justice or unjustice of such processes in human affairs is of utmost importance because of their humanitarian desire for fair play. It does not admit, either, of the opportunity for the mass of people to bring into employment the "natural, normal, common-sense" popular opinion, or their reaction to fairness or unfairness. That, too, is basic, is important, in human affairs. I think that perhaps it would be a great stimulation to court members if trials were made public and they recognized that any unfairness or weakness would be picked up by the public.

We may question seriously their implied verdict that Miss Schwartz is incompetent, either by the now-existent or on fundamental grounds. She has been on the court for two years, and has given up all kinds of other activities—week-end trips, movies—even sleep and study time—in the interest of the court. If they think her incompetent to serve in student government as Judiciary Chairman, then why are they allowing her to run for Senior Representative, which is an important representative duty in itself? How are we to reconcile these two factors into a consistent pattern?

Miss Schwartz's statement of platform and policy, as given in the Flambeau, is neither detrimental nor revolutionary. It is somewhat desirably liberal, to be sure.

To quote the statement in the Flambeau of March 1 is appropriate, so that you can examine it for yourselves now:

. She thinks that one of the two primary functions of Judiciary should be to interpret rules and regulations of the college for the students as a whole. She further states that Judiciary should not wait until a student commits an offense and then interpret the rule only to the individual, but instead should keep the student body well-informed. One way to incorporate such a policy, suggested Betty, is to give more facts of a case in the convocation announcements; not, of course, to the extent of offensiveness to the individual, but so as to give other students a better understanding of a particular case.

A second function of Judiciary, continued Betty, should be to give more thought to the individual case. Judiciary should have knowledge of the student's background in order to make a just decision. If possible, the personnel records should be used in investigating the student's past record.

In Betty's opinion, a case should not be completely dropped on merely stating the verdict, but there should be follow-up on the case in some instances. By this she means, for example, if a student is on restrictions for a quarter and it is observed that she conforms strictly to her restrictions for six weeks, then her restrictions may be lifted on certain conditions.

To the question of what she thought about shipping, Betty replied that it was necessary in some instances, but that the phrase should be adhered to but not interpreted to mean definite suspension in every case."

Surely in the above there is evidence of some careful thinking about these problems. Surely it contains nothing which will—(the constant actions of the faculty committee lead me to suppose that they base their thinking on the assumption that we girls are in some way by nature quite depraved and unstable!)—nothing which will allow the controls to be lifted so much that we will demonstrate and liberate such naturally base instincts and general malevolence.

I protest the pessimism of the administration.

I protest the disqualification by the dean and the faculty committee of Betty Schwartz as candidate for Chairman of Judiciary. I protest it on impersonal grounds, as a disinterested thinker. I protest it in the name of justice and democratic freedom, on the grounds that they have come to an erroneous conclusion through mis-application of logic and lack of critical facilities in their reasoning in this unit, and that the assumptions upon which they base their values are fallacious and do not represent the will of the people—the student body.

• CALLING ALL VOTERS

As the time for election of major officers draws nearer and nearer, it is, and should be, brought more to the attention of the students the importance of their exercising their right to vote for the people who are to be a part of their governing body. It is essential that the women of Florida State College carry their full share of responsibility after they graduate from this school and to do this they must take it upon themselves as they learn and as they mature before that formal training period has ended to take part in this type activity.

Sarah Gibson Blanding, who holds the distinction of being the first woman president of Vassar College, succeeding Henry MacCracken when he retires July first, is convinced that colleges and universities must prepare America's young women to shoulder civic, national and international responsibilities. Miss Blanding says, in stressing the need for women's participation in the political life of this country, "Colleges and universities do well to encourage their young women to become active in local political organizations; to get a step higher and participate in state legislatures; and to enter the national legislature."

It has become a habit with the students, as with citizens in their local communities, to assume a defeatist's attitude when the calendar swings around to election time. "Oh, that faction will get in anyway. My vote doesn't count" or "Her platform is about the same as her opponent's."

What any responsible person has to realize is that her vote does count and that if she reads over those platforms she might know more fully what she is voting for and why. It cannot be stressed enough that after we have assumed our position as voters we must assume the role of interpreters, not of what is just as good, but what is best for us as a group.

As we prepare ourselves to become useful intelligent citizens in the outside world we have to be reminded that we are living in a small world here on this campus. What we do here at school; what we allow others to do in the offices we place them in; how complacent and lethargic we find we have become in our political activities; how much we exercise that "inalienable right" at school will give us a picture of what sort of citizens we plan to be when we take our position in the communities in which we are to live. It will give us a good picture of what our future locality, nation and world is to be like—a group of people indifferent to the society which surrounds them, or an energetic, alert people in a progressive thinking and acting world.

Which picture do you plan to help draw? Begin the preparation which Sarah Blanding believes to be so vital to us all. Don't make it necessary for the people at the el tion machines to stop you and ask you to vote on April or at any other election. Make it a point to vote, just you make it a point to attend a class. One is as important the other in your education which you now strive to atta

• IT'S THE TALK OF THE TOWN

"Why do we ship girls?" was the first question Beverly Burhan asked in her article, "Ship Them?" in the April, 1945, issue of the Distaff. The question still remains one to be solved technically and practically for the benefit of the students at Florida State College.

In some cases it is logical that shipping is the only means of justly disciplining a girl who commits a major offense against the rules and regulations that have been set up to govern us. Laws are necessary to every community, local and national, big and little. Punishments are also necessary to enforce the laws, but how much capital punishment is necessary and for what?

In the campus sense of the phrase, capital punishment would be shipping, and it should be treated as such. The offenses liable for capital punishment should be major enough to warrant the most severe penalty. They should be those actions that endanger the communal reputation and safety of the student body. They should be clearly defined by the law making groups and understood by the students themselves.

Because suspension is a severe measure it carries with it an indelible mark that affects a girl's personality and attitude in future life. We, the students now in school, have a more sympathetic understanding of shipping and suspension than the people outside of our community, the general attitude being that a girl who is incorrigible or wild enough to be suspended from college is a social failure.

This stigma attached to a girl by her home town and by people who have only a gossiping knowledge of her case will last many years after she has "served her time" and is re-admitted to the school. Gossips will supplement their knowledge of what caused suspension with imagination, and leave out the truth that takes away the flavor of a juicy, malicious morsel.

In an open letter to the student body from a former member of judiciary in the summer issue of the 1938 Distaff, Mickey Conn reviewed in part the duties and actions of judiciary. She stressed the fact that judiciary thoroughly investigates a girl's background to seek factors which might have influenced her irregular actions. But along with this investigation, do they examine the effects of shipping on the girl's future in the proper prospective? "Reputation is a fickle lady," it has been said. "After long years of wooing, you can lose her in a second."

In consideration of the weight it bears on a girl's reputation, shipping is a situation that should be handled with the utmost discretion. For first offenders, full restrictions and judiciary probation would be an equally severe and more just punishment. It would bring to the offender a realization of the paramount importance of her offense and protect her reputation at the same time.

Only those acts which in life outside of the college community are held to be socially unacceptable, such as extreme drinking, immoral actions, and stealing, should be liable for suspension. Drinking and immoral actions cast a reflection on the entire student body, and stealing is a civil crime against the community as well as individuals. These acts are justly penalized by shipping, and other offenses coupled with them only build a stronger case for suspension.

Acts that are now termed liable for suspension that do not reflect on the entire student body could be straightened out here on campus rather than outside of the college community. Anyone who has been campused for any length of time can testify that it is a severe punishment in itself. A sufficiently long period of full restrictions would have an equal effect on the offenders as the more drastic action of shipping.

Shipping is termed "disciplinary action," but in reality it throws the discipline on the outside society that does not understand its place in the governing of the college. This is the easy way out for the college, but it is the most detrimental and most negative treatment for the individual concerned. As Winifred Meldrim phrases it in her "Argument Against Severity," "One who engages in anti-social conduct needs information and motivation, not punishment and rejection." Aren't the college officials more prepared and in a better position to give the erring students sound guidance and advice than a gossiping public?

It would seem that shipping is not a corrective measure, but one to aid in damning the misguided individuals in the cases where the collected security of the student body is not concerned. There should be some way to tame this vicious monster that can devour a girl's future and perhaps leave her embittered. There should be some way to make college punishment fit college offenses.

—B J McLEOD

• LET US BEWARE

"I hereby promise to fulfill this office to the best of m ability."

This statement is probably the oldest, most well mea and most meaningless of all campaign promises. When som one accepts candidacy for office the voters should be a to assume that the candidate expects to do the work as w as he can. When voters are interested at all, they usually a interested in knowing just what the ability of the cand date is.

The matter of ability, however, is not the only generali which the judicious voter should heed. There are abstra tions, personifications, and symbols used notoriously distant "bad politicians" but sometimes used more subt (or even unconsciously) by those closer to us in proxim and ways of thinking.

Stuart Chase, in his book, The Tyranny of Words, h shown how the excessive use of abstractions and genera ities might, as he sees it, give rise to fabulous concep Through some exaggeration Mr Chase makes the point the following sketch that abstractions are sometimes p sonified to the extent that the abstraction assumes almo physical characteristics for the interpreter.

"Let us glance at some of the . . . queer creatures creat by personifying abstractions in America," says Mr Cha "Here in the center is a vast figure called the Nation majestic and wrapped in the Flag. When it sternly raises arm, we are ready to die for it. Close behind rears a sinis shape, the Government. Following it is one even more si ister, Bureaucracy. Both are festooned with the writhi serpents of Red Tape. High in the heavens is the Constit tion, a kind of chalice like the Holy Grail, suffused wi ethereal light . . . Below floats the Supreme Court, a bla robed priesthood tending the eternal fire. The Supreme Co must be addressed with respect or it will neglect the f and the Constitution will go out . . . Somewhere above t Rocky Mountains are lodged the vast stone tablets of t Law. We are governed not by men but by these table Near them, in satin breeches and silver buckles, pose t stern figures of our Forefathers, contemplating glumly t Nation they brought to birth. The onion-shaped demon co ering behind the Constitution is Private Property. Highe than Court, Flag, or the Law, close to the sun itself a almost as bright, is Progress, the ultimate God of America

In an institution of higher learning it is hardly nece sary to beware of such lively personifications as Mr Cha creates, however, his illustrations might serve to sugge the existence of other "creatures" which might be on a co lege campus.

—MAY ALEXANDER

Papatsos and Preu Freshmen Sponsors

Pauline Tuttle, freshman class president, announced at the class meeting held last Tuesday in the Augusta Conradi theater that Miss Caliope Papatsos and Mr J A Preu are the newly elected sponsors of the class. She also introduced the question of a freshman class project. A discussion was held and a committee to investigate the matter was appointed. This committee is made up of Marilyn Bassett, Bobbye Bradley, Priscilla Carter, Floy Jean Pflough, Jean Furman, Shirley Longino, Esther Rasmussen, and Jane Ziegler.

Final plans for the forthcoming Freshman Carnival were also discussed and the decorations committee was formed. This committee consists of Jean Furman, chairman, Shirley Palmer, co-chairman, Lucy Harding, Margie Millard, Charlotte Snyder, Dot Aberle, Shirley Longino, Martha Jane Bird, Beverly Beardon, Arabella Allen, and Art Skevakis.

Flunkies Assist

Supplying help for the secr tarial work of the Flambeau bu iness staff is the newest job Freshmen Flunkies Pat Dilla president of the organization, securing girls from the appro mately 75 members for the wo which includes typing busine letters and business records. Ea girl will work three hours a we during the week which is assign to her.

STAFF FOR THE WEEK:

Editor — Bee De
Associate Editor — May Alexa
Assistant Editor — Evelyn S
Managing Editor — Joyce Pe
Feature Editor — Alicia Armst
News Editors — Mary Jane Sher
Jackie Ne
Sports Editor — Jo Duna
Columnist — Marjorie Ca
Literary Editor — Barbara Beck
Copy Editors — Laura Lee Bu
Jean Dou
Picture Editor — Jean De
Art Editor — Frances Tra
Society Editor — Eleanor Ba

The Florida Flambeau

1945-1946 STAFF
EDITORIAL STAFF
JANET ROGERS — Ed
ANNE GAITHER, PEGGY KAY — Associate Ed
LOIS BYRD, JUDY PEPPER — Assistant Edi
SHIRLEY RODGERS — Managing Ed
MAY ALEXANDER, PEGGY LU THOMSON — News Edi

Copy Editor — Lois R
Society Editor — Madge P
Feature Editor — Betty Jo Mcl
Assistant Managing Editor — Bobbie
Columnist — Anne Ru
Assistant Society Editor — Madge Pri
Sports Editor — Betty D
Assistant Sports Editor — Evelyn
Outside News Editor — Gloria
Literary Editor — Catherine Nalu
Opinion Editors — Jerry Crume, Barbara Wickn
Picture Editor — Dee Garo
Art Editor — Lucy Fe
Assistant Art Editor — Jean Sh

REPORTERS: Alicia Armstrong, Alvera Ashe, Jocelyn Ayers, Eleanor Baver, bara Beckman, Jean Bess, Paulette Blank, Virginia Budd, Laura Lee Bu Jean Douglas, Martha Jo Dunagan, Barbara Farrar, Dorothy Fouts, June Gr staff, Winifred Lane, Barbara Lanford, Jo Mingola, Jacqueline Nevers Perry, Joyce Petty, Ferne Quinn, Mary Jane Sherman, Evelyn Shea, Fran Traxler, Kay Van Deurs.

BUSINESS STAFF
Helen Tarapani — Business Mana
Sally Watson — Assistant Business Mana
Kitty Chaires — Advertising Mana
Dorothy Bloodworth, Vivian Scheaffer, Faith Adams — Advertising S

Entered as second class mail matter January [illegible] 1915, at the post at Tallahassee, Fla., under the act of Congress of March 3, 1879.

Member
Intercollegiate Press

It is the policy of the Flambeau to grant equal space and prominence to anyone wishing to present a contrary opinion whenever opinions on controversial questions are voiced in its columns.

r Forever Hold Your Peace

the Editors:

dent-faculty cooperation is s shimmering, intangible ething to be spoken of ir abactions. It could exist, but re mu.' be a willingness to promise on both sides, with e a little more democracy m the faculty itself. Even ance is admittedly necessary the delicate task of shaping lives, but perhaps there is a erence in "shaping" and lding." Could it be that bee we have had so little of this onal control that we so jealy cling to its remaining ves-s?

Universal student opinion is ally seldom voiced, and its assurance of being heard has in election of offices for colgovernment. But of what to us even this privilege if are not to be given our choices spoon-fed babies? Why go rough the sham and pretense elections in the first place? not just spend our time ing ebout democracy so that we ever stumble on it we'll not to appreciate its blessings?

Elinor Chisholm
Roberta Whitfield
Mey Jo Whidden

Editor.

is whole mess about disquali- one of our qualified candithrough the Dean's office, rageous. Naturally all thinkstudents are enraged and ined We did consider this privi- our own—that is, the right to us in our constitution of ng qualified candidatee for nt offices.

t seems about time for the stus to stand up for the few s given them. Can't somebe eccomplished by united nt action?

Signed
Beryl Taylor,
Margaret Nasrallah,
Nancy McFarland,
Dorothy Crotts,
Gracie Myers,
Mary Philpot,
Alice R O'Brien,
Eloise Rollins,
Geraldine Sullivan,
Elizabeth Breggar,
Judith Alexander.

Editor,

Now thet the Spick is closed, nt by a Mr Sweet Shop we heard, the Sweet Shoppe ms to be taking advantgae of near monopoly. Things are from bad to worse.

There are too many tables and rs for the amount of space, there ere too many people dirty dishes for the number ables and chairs. If you can a vacant chair, the table is ed with sugar, ashes, and ck stained straws, piles of s or boxes of aged, multied 69c stationary.

es wander through this gar- but thet doesn't matter since food and money are hundled the same unwashed hands. We to pay the cashier, but now walls are plastered with new that say, "Please pay when ed thanks". "Please pay served, thanks". "Please take magazines from stand ut purchase". "Please pay served, thanks".

e scoops of ice cream are er, the quality worse, in cones are no longer crispy—cones cardboard.

ere is no service.

Sundays we usually have to the mob at the counter for hour to get two orders of h toast; they are cold on acquistion. My friends tell me that the hamburgers are also cold, but I cannot vouch for this since I am afraid to taste them.

Conditions have always been bad, but I can remember when for coffee at least we did not bave to wait since we were trusted to turn the spicket for ourselves. Now the Sweet Shop has a counter around the coffee and the cups. I euppose this is to make it absolutely necessary for students to pay when served. There are also new coffee cups, smaller than the old ones, with coffee slopped in the eaucers but little in the cups.

Prices are high. Toast alone is a dime; toast with two slivers of bacon, half gristle, is a quarter. A "strawberry sundae" (two etrawberries and one measly scoop of ice cream) is a quarter.

There are many other complaints my friends want me to add for they all go there when we are desperately hungry and the Soda Shop is closed. There is no other place to go. Can't something be done? How about e cooperative students' store? We could have a branch of the Soda Shop, run by the students on a non-profit basis, in Landis Rec. Other students have suggested the Library basement, where we could smoke and eat while studying in peace and quiet.

Sincerely yours,
Sally Whitehead
Merinel Worth
Erlynne Douglas
Harriet Boltin
Barbara Owen

Dear Editor;

"The time has come," the senior said——

From time to time during my three and one-half years here on campus I have been tempted to take pen in hand and express my opinion on current political and social questions. I was able to curb that impulse until now.

The issue which has been made known very recently to the student body is undeniably felonious. How can we be taught to live in a democratic way if we are not allowed to use democratic processes in our campus activities? Students have been asked to eign a petition requesting the reinstatement of Betty Schwartz'e name on the ballot for Chairman of Judiciary. Many students have signed eagerly, others willingly, others hesitantly, and still others have refused to sign at all; mostly the girls in the last class stated that they did not wish to sign because they did not know enough facts on the case.

That, in my opinion, would be sufficient reason to want to sign such a petition. Why? Because, we, the so-called members of the so-called College Government Association, have rarely, if ever, been presented with an adequate number of facts on any case that has come to our attention.

The few reasons that have been made known to us for the requested withdrawal of Betty's name from the ballot are to me, and to many others, decidedly lacking in conviction. I have found no one of the reasons sufficiently capable of making the accused appear unique or any different from any one else on campus. I ask that I be shown any more than just a few Judiciary members who have now or do not discuss judiciary cases with students not on the court. I ask that I be shown one student who has not or does not think she is, or should not be, entitled to voice her own opinions on any matter whatsoever.

As to the question of Schwartz's having too much influence over too many people and that she would use this influence disadvantageously in regard to the school'e policies, I say that no one who knows her at all would claim her capable of such an act. Apparently people are not aware of her store of common and moral sense. Nowhere on campus will you find anyone with a stronger sense of responsibility. I ask that Betty be given a democratic chance to exhibit and utilize these commendable potentialities.

—Catherine Gallagher.

To the Faculty Committee on Student Affairs:

It has come to our attention that Betty Schwartz has been disqualified as a candidate for the office of Chairman of Judiciary. The Faculty Committee has given as its reason for disqualification insufficient ability for holding such a major office. In this action they have ignored or waived the fact that Betty'e experience on judiciary surpasses that of any member of her class.

The Constitution, as presented in the Gold Book, lists grades and class standings as prerequisites for holding any major office. Betty Schwartz has maintained a high scholastic average during her three years at Florida State College and she is a bona fide member of her class. The Constitution further states, in section 4, Article XIII, "Before the nominations are made public the names of candidates for nomination shall be sent by the chairman of the nominating committee to the offices of the personnel director, the registrar, the infirmary, and the dean of students in order to determine the eligibility of each candidate." This does not imply any action by the Faculty Committee, and none of these offices could disqualify Betty due to a lack of the previously stated qualifications.

It is possible that the faculty committee has found its authority for this measure in the agreement between the faculty and students concerning College Government Association which states:

"The authorities of the College reserve for themselves the regulation of the following:

"All matters pertaining to the public health an public safety of the students.

"All matters pertaining to the household management of the college residence halls, and to the housing of students off-campus as well as in the college buildings.

"All matters pertaining to the use of college property and equipment; the grounds, the gymnasium, and apparatus of every kind."

However, Betty is not college property or equipment, and neither she nor the office of Chairman of Judiciary has any anthority in the household management of college residence halls. The Faculty Committee has often found legal loopholes in the ambiguous statement regarding public health and public safety. If this is the authority on which the Faculty is basing its cancellation, and Betty as Chairman of Judiciary would be injurious to the health and safety of the students, then her mere presence on campus is having the same influence and she should be asked to withdraw immediately. However, Betty has not the reputation of Typhoid Mary, nor the criminal tendencies of John Dillinger.

In the past, two candidates for the office of Chairman of Judiciary have been rejected. The first of these had a decided mental quirk, and the other was on full restrictions at the time her petition was submitted. Their ineligibility is obvious. Betty's is not.

Beneath the faculty committee's reason for disqualification lie a number of small offences, apparently accumulated and recorded over a period of time for the purpose to which they are now being utilized. All of these minor offences have been committed at some time by many members of the student body, and by most present and past members and chairmen of Judiciary. These offences in themselves do not seem sufficient to warrant disqualification.

As further reason for Betty's disqualification is given the fact that she has not maintained the ethical silence demanded of Judiciary members. In one case which was brought to the particular attention of the Dean of Students, the girl in question reported to the dean that Betty had revealed the facts of her case at large on the campus. This is only in part true. Other judiciary members have been responsible for general knowledge of cases in numberous instances. If Betty has at any time revealed information concerning Judiciary it has not been of such nature as to interfere with the operation of Judiciary and has in no way been detrimental to the character of any girl who has come before judiciary.

The only logical conclusion which can be drawn is that you, as members of the Faculty Committee on Student Affairs, do not want Betty to run for some unrevealed reason which surpasses the comprehension of the student body.

Betty has unofficially stated her platform as a candidate for the office of Chairman of Judiciary in a previous issue of the Flambeau. There was nothing in that platform which opposed college policy. It would seem, therefore, that the Faculty Committee has disqualified Betty with no obvious reason, and has, in doing so, overstepped the powers reserved by it in the agreement between the faculty and students concerning College Government Association. Our purposes in this letter is to ascertain wherein lies the authority of the Faculty Committee in this action.

Respectfully,
Teresa Myers
Mary Kathryn Beazel

Broward "At Home"

The girls and counselors of Broward hall will entertain next Wednesday afternoon, April 10, from four thirty until six with an informal reception in Broward parlor.

According to Mrs Ray M Warner, Broward counselor, there will be no formal receiving line but all the Broward girls will be on hand to welcome their guests.

Ruby Grace Daniel, Broward social chairman, is being assisted by her committee in making all arrangements for the reception.

Elections

Continued from page one

Beth Fuhrer, Enid Krouse and Martha Peacock.

Secretary of CGA: Mary Ann Berry, Katherine Cooper, Pat Dillard, Margaret Flynn, Catherine A Gallagher, Margaret Graydon, Margery Mallard, Margie Norris, Esther Rasmussen, Ann Seaward, Charlotte Snyder, Sarah Lou Wells.

Treasurer of CGA: Eleanor Bragg, Betty Redd.

Senior Representative to Judiciary: Gloria Basila, Rosetta Carver, Marjorie Holm, Harriet Kirk, Marjory Potter, Betty Schwartz, Betty Speer.

Junior Representative to Judiciary: Doris DuBois, Beth Fuhrer, Barbara McCarthy, Janice Richey, Dalia Santos, Irma Lee Shepherd, Franklin Smith, Amarene Thompson.

Sophomore Representativa to Judiciary: Faith Adams, Inez Angustine, Martha Jane Bird, Nancy Boggs, May Calley, Gladys Clark, Betty Dickson, Gwendolyn Fitzgerald, Jean Furman, Virginia Houlihan, Florence (Terry) Johnson, Jane Carol Levy, Bertie Loftus, Shirley Longino, Helen Looby, Margery Mallard, Cynthia Merrin, Mavis McMillan, Valda Mock, M Turner Nicholson, Pattie Odum, Louise Shorter, Frances Smithers, Louise Smith, Betty Stokes, Violet Walters, Sara Lou Wells, Pat Yates.

House President: Charlotte Bouland, Reynolds; Evelyn Johnson, Broward; Juanita Krentzman, Jennie Murphree; Anne MacInnes, Bryan; Betty Moody, Gilchrist; Roberta Perkins, Broward; Alva Ray, Broward; Neva Delgado, Gilchrist; Dorothy McKirnon, Landis.

House Vice President; Carolyn Flint, Broward; Enid Krouse, Jannie Murphree; Mary Monaco, Landis; Betty Mowat, Reynolds; Gwendolyn Ramage, Landis; Jane Ann Ranson, Gilchrist; Marie Ratliff, Jennie Murphree; Eddie Faye Stokes, Reynolds.

Editor of the Flambeau: May Alexander, Betty Dowd, Betty Jo McLeod, Shirley Rodgers.

Business Manager of the Flambeau: Vivian Schaeffer, Sally Watson.

Business Manager of the Distaff: Kitty Chaires, Hascia Levine.

Editor of the Flastacowo: Louise Sims.

Business Manager of the Flastacowo: Margaret Johnson.

President of WAA: Betty Gardner, Mary Nell Goldman.

Vice-president of WAA: Anna Horne, Amelia Pavese, Jo Anne Whitaker.

Secretary of WAA: Esther Miller, Evelyn Shea.

Treasurer of WAA: Elaine Brown, Lucile Harding.

Senior Intramurals Manager: Ann Stambaugh.

Full opportunity will be given to students wishing to vote for an "accomplishment" instead of a "name." Beginning April 9 and ending April 13, each candidate will be available in a booth in lower Westcott for an hour each day, to answer questions concerning her platform and ideas.

Primary elections of major offices will be conducted in a compulsory convocation, Tuesday, April 16, and on the following day the final voting will take place in lower Westcott. A second compulsory convocation will meet on Thursday for primary elections of minor offices and on Friday, students will cast their final vote for these offices.

Voting machines, transported from the state capitol, will be used in the final elections of both major and minor offices, it was announced at the meeting, and miniature machines will be on display in Westcott next week to familiarize students with the correct voting procedure.

Catherine Barrs, chairman of judiciary, announced at one house meeting that freshmen can sway the election if they want to, and emphasized the importance of voting conscientiously and influencing others to do so.

"Pictures and statements of the candidates and their qualifications will be posted on the bulletin board in lower Westcott and announcements of their platforms will also be published in the next issue of the Flambeau," stated Catherine.

FSC Radio Program Altered for Mutual

Garnet and Gold Held During Recent Spring Holidays

"Garnet and Gold, Florida State College weekly newspaper of the air, was 'published' last night from the college' studio at 7:45 instead of the usual 7:30 hour because of a conflict with the San Francisco Conference, a Florida Mutual Broadcast," said Miss Bertha Bloodworth, publicity manager for FSC. "Last night'e change was the second time that the program had yielded in the 18-month's lifetime of the program," added Miss Bloodworth.

Betty Shirley as news editor and Mildred Mann and Esther Brinkman as music editors, the program was em-ced by Miss Bertha Bloodworth, coordinator of radio. Mildred'e music feature was a piano rendition of Debussy'e First Arabesque, and Esther played Schumann's Important Event and the adagio movement from Beethoven'e Moonlight Sonata.

Activities Slated

A tentative schedule for the activities of the Classical Club for this quarter has just been announced by Elizabeth Hunter, program chairman. All members of the club are asked to pay their dues of fifty-cents by Wednesday April 10, to Ruby Pate, 322 Broward.

The agenda will include a weekend at Camp Flastooowo featuring Roman and Greek games, as well as a Roman Banquet, and a Mother's Day program parallel to the Roman Festival of Mothers. The program will center about myths and legends connected with famous mothers. The final dates for the above activities have not yet been announced.

Ahlsweh Marries

Vivian-Marie Ahlsweh, graduate and former instructor at Florida State College, was married at her grandmother'e home in East Orange, New Jersey, on March 23 to Roy Raymond Williams.

Mr Williams is awaiting discharge from the army. He and his wife will make their home in the Bronx.

Mrs Williams taught journalism here the first quarter.

Outing Committee Makes Spring Plans

"Bowling intramurals will be sponsored this quarter by the Outing Committee," said Amarene Thompson, president, concerning the plans being made by the committee for the spring quarter.

The bowling alley downtown is open only to college students on Thursday afternoons from 3 until 6 p m. Tommy urged all students to take advantage of this time so that we may continue to enjoy this special use of the alley and in order to get in practice for intramurals.

"Last week there were twenty five girls out at the alley and we're hoping there will be many more this week," said Tommy.

The committee is making plans for day trips to Wakulla Springs and week end trips to Camp Flastacowo. If enough students are interested, an overnight camping trip to the college camp will be arranged. The expense per trip for each student is nominal, usually only for food and transportation.

He'll respond to a Judy Bond

JUDY BOND BLOUSES ARE SOLD AT BETTER STORES EVERYWHERE

Free booklet: "WARDROBE TRICKS". Write Judy Bond, Inc., Dept. A, 1375 B'way, N. Y. 18

Three Torches Tea Room

Have youth birthday party of eight or more at the Three Torches Tea Room

The meal is free to the honoree
So bring your cake and celebrate

We Specialize in T-Bone Steak; Fried Chicken and Fried Shrimp with Hushpuppies

YOU BET!

We have Everything you need to make your garden grow as it never has grown before! To help you clear your food-producing plot—there's profit in using a poor man's golfstick (weed cutters).

only $1.35

Seek it First at
VAN BRUNT & YON INC
YON'S HARDWARE

EASTER LOVELIES

Give yourself top billing in the Easter parade . . . have yourself an extra-pretty dress! You'll love their stand-out peplums, swing skirts, small waistlines. Adorable in picture-magic prints, frilled sheers, pastels. Beau-catching for the Easter Parade and after . . . choose yours today!

$5.40 to $12.95

The SURPRISE STORE

Stage a success with . . .

International Sterling

One of the smartest and most distinctive patterns is SERENITY shown here. Six place place setting $22.63 including tax.

Before the curtain goes up on your first "at home," there's much behind-the-scenes work and planning to be done . . . including the choice of your silver. For this most personal and permanent of your possessions, which more than anything else is the key to your home, choose distinctively made, tradition-rich International Sterling and you'll be sure to stage a success.

Moon's

REGISTERED JEWELER
AMERICAN GEM SOCIETY
UNITED STATES AND CANADA

Russian Artist Gives Concert

Elman Plays Own "Tango" In Varied Program

Mischa Elman, renowned Russian violinist, presented a varied artist series program, accompanied by Leopold Mittman at the piano, on Thursday, March 28 in the college auditorium.

The program was largely composed of Handel's "Sonata in E Major," "Sonata in F Major" by Beethoven and Mendelssohn's "Concerto in E Minor." Included in the last seven pieces on the latter half of the program was Elman's own composition, "Tango."

Also played was "Rondo Capriccioso" by Saint Saens, "Nocturne" by Tchaikowsky - Koutzen and "Caprice Etude, No 24" which was arranged by Elman's music teacher, Paganini Auer. Encores included "Hejre Kate" by Hubay and "Ave Maria" by Schubert-Wilkelmj.

Elman played on his famous two-century-old Stradivarius violin, which is one of his most valued possessions. He has two Stradvarii's, but he played on his favorite, the smaller of the two. When asked if he had any fear of having anything happen to his violins, he replied, no, because he believed that they should be treated as other beloved things in life such as one's family or life or death and shouldn't be worried about.

Elman started playing the violin at the age of three. He was taught at the St Petersburg Conservatory by Leopold Auer. His debut in America was given at the age of 17. Elman states that a very large part of his success today can be credited to hard work.

Mittman accompanied Elman on the piano in spite of being under great stress as a close relative was on the verge of death.

An informal coffee was given for Elman and Mittman after the concert at the home of Mr and Mrs W U Norwood. At this time Mr Elman discussed his views on musical education in America, stating that in his opinion quantity has become dominant over quality in recent years. He also gave his views on the subject of psychology of young women on which subject he says that he feels qualified to write a book.

◆

PATRONISE OUR ADVERTISERS.

Methodists Journey South For State Youth Movement

Thirty girls from the Florida State College Methodist group will go to Gainesville this weekend for the annual state conference of the Methodist Youth Movement. According to Miss Alpharetta Leeper, student secretary here, about 100 students representing 10 of the colleges in Florida are expected to be at the meeting.

Perry Saito, a Nisei (American born of Japanese parentage) speaker who has worked during the war as a promoter of better race relations, visited the FSC campus on Monday and gave a series of short introductory speeches. He left here to continue a tour of the other Florida colleges before the meeting starts in Gainesville tonight.

The theme of the conference this year will be "Upward Still and Onward," according to Janie Redfearn, publicity chairman of the organization. Platform topics will include the "Hour of Decision," "Upward Still and Onward with Christ," and "Within the Shadows—God."

Information received recently from Pat Cleveland, president of the Methodist Youth Movement in Florida, states that the seminars will deal with the three general studies of labor, human relations, and problems of personal religion. Also, Pat states that a roster of 10 speakers has been arranged.

To discuss labor relations will be Dr Owen Gear, a Methodist pastor and authority on labor problems, and John Ramsey, public relations official of the U S Steel workers (CIO).

One the general topic of human relations Rev Evan Hurley, chaplain of Bethune Cookman college, and Perry Saito, the Nesei, will hold seminars.

Rev Claude Singleton, director of the Georgia Student Movement; George Harper, student of Garret Bible Institute and president of the national conference of Methodist Youth Fellowship, will lead jointly the discussions on problems of personal religion.

Other speakers for the conference are Dr Harvey C Prown of Nashville, Tennessee, who is on the General Conference board of education and associate secretary of the department of student work; Dr R Ira Barnnett, Lakeland, executive secretary of the Florida board of education; Mrs Dave Cathcart, Jacksonville, Women's Society of Christian Service conference director of student work; and Warren Willis, Conference Division of Methodist Youth Fellowship.

Colleges who are planning to participate in the conference are: University of Florida, Florida State College, Florida Southern College, St Petersburg Jr College, Stateson University, Bethune College, University of Miami, and the University of Tampa.

In addition to the regular business and informational meetings there will be planned recreation, led by Perry Saito, a banquet, and a dramatic production.

Those girls planning to attend from FSC are: Lonnie Blackwelder, Kathleen Johnson, Betty Long, Wilna Humphrey, Evelyn Johnson, Betty Ruth Goode, Dorothy Einger, Joyce Carleton, Bruce Flanders, Mary Jane Lassiter, Sarah Frances McLemore, Grace DeWolf, Martha Jane Brown, Janie Redfearn, Joanne Newman, Norma Barmore, Beth Smith, Martha Jane Bird, Eugenia Gregory.

Mary Martha Davis, Nell Gray, Martha Ambrose, Dot Wells, Pug McLean, Nona Ruth Marshall, Betty Hill, Claire Hill, Joyce Petty, Margaret Lassiter, Faye Smith, Frances Cannon and Thelma Merrill.

◆

Speaking Course Is Offered by Mr Preu

An optional public speaking group has been organized by the English department under the supervision of Mr J A Preu, assistant professor of English, for all freshmen interested in improving their speaking ability without regard to credit, hours, or grades.

Group experience in practical extemporaneous and impromptu speaking and the development of confidence and poise are the aims of the course, which is divided into two sections: one meeting on Monday and Wednesday at 10 a m in 315 Westcott and the other meeting on Tuesday and Thursday at 3 p m in 309 Westcott.

Mr Preu said that the new course is not an elocution course, but practice in meeting ordinary speech situations. Although the first sessions were held last week, students may enter at any time and are permitted to drop the course whenever they wish to do so.

Library Shows Bible Display

Collection of Interest To Humanities Students

The current display in the college library, prepared by Miss Florence Bethea, librarian, centers about the Bible. The exhibit began April 1 and will remain up for two weeks. It is a display, announced Miss Bethea, of primary interest to all students taking humanities.

The center and side showcases in the lobby are devoted entirely to rare old Bibles. A most interesting work is a 1730 Dutch Bible. The backs are of solid wood, covered by tooled leather, while the printing itself is on handmade paper. Also in the same case is an Apocrypha or collection of books of doubtful authority and authenticity which have been left out of our present Bible. Another interesting Bible is the English Hexapla, showing the original Greek at the top of the page and the different English translations in parallel columns below it. There are Bibles in Spanish, German, Latin, several in modern English and several small New Testaments in Greek.

Surrounding the center showcase are facsimiles of pages from Bibles translated into English, ranging from Tyndale's New Testament printed in 1525 through the King James version printed in 1611. On the bulletin board nearest the card catologue are reproductions of pages from Gutenberg's Bible printed between 1440 and 1445. This Bible was the first book ever printed on movable type, all others previously produced having been written by hand. In order to hide the new discovery and to give the book the appearance of a manuscript, colors were painted in by hand. There were about 300 of these Bibles originally. Now only 45 are still known to be in existence. A book collector was paid $120,000 for one copy.

Attention, Students

The following information concerning students leaving the campus has been announced by Miss Ballenger, night director:

"Any student—except a day student—who expects to leave her place of residence between second light flash and 7:00 a m for an overnight absence must sign on a blank provided for that purpose before light flash of the night she is leaving. She will find this blank on the shelf opposite the long distance telephone room.

If she lives in a connected dormitory, she must be in Bryan atrium 45 minutes before the scheduled leaving time. If she lives elsewhere, she must be just inside her own dormitory, 45 minutes before scheduled leaving time. She must pay the night director ten cents for the return of the chaperone. Each student is responsible for her own arrangements and must conform to the above regulations."

Positions Available At Navy Laboratory

Positions are now open for college graduates with bachelor degrees in physics, chemistry and electrical and mechanical engineering as well as for liberal arts candidates at the new United States Naval Ordnance laboratory in White Oak, Maryland, according to the personnel office.

Naval ordnance research is to be done at the new $16,000,000 laboratory, and the navy is seeking outstanding college graduates for its staff. Personnel must be between 20 and 35 years of age and are offered beginning salaries ranging from $2320 per year for a 40 hour week.

There are a limited number of administrative and training positions open for liberal arts candidates interested in management, personnel, library and stenographic work. Additional information can be obtained by seniors in the personnel office.

Norwood Tells of Minstrel Mix-ups

Mary Lou Norwood, chairman of Junior Minstrels, is having her difficulties. The Voice has been found but her identity will be kept secret. In the meantime Norwood is losing her own voice over her other difficulties.

The stage manager caused "terrorized week" for Norwood by not appearing after the holidays until a week after registration. "And the chairman's fingernails were bitten off to the first knuckle," added Norwood. "Tough luck you say? That only begins my troubles." Her accompanist has not returned because of death in the family, and the co-chairman of costumes stayed home a week after holidays because of family illness. Also in the shuffle the paper with the names of the people on the program committee has been lost. "We have put up another paper on the bulletin board, so please sign up again," wailed Norwood.

Coming somewhat under the heading of difficulties is the lack of needed materials. Mary Lou has contemplated asking the hand loom weaving class to pitch in. "We need yards and yards of cheap cotton material and especially white material for costumes."

To prove how unique and grand Junior Minstrels is going to be this year, we heard Norwood as she casually said, "I have been seriously considering contacting Barnum and Bailey to see if they can supply us with one of the monstrosities needed."

"If I just didn't have to worry about school I could do a beautiful job," finished Norwood.

Hines Addresses Dietetics Majors

tetian of the Cleveland university hospitals and secretary of the American Dietetic association, spoke in the Longmire building, Monday to the junior and senior dietetics majors. She spoke on the tasks and requirements of the American Dietetic Association and those of university hospitals.

Miss Hines used a Cleveland University hospital to illustrate procedures at these hospitals. One year training courses, which are divided into four - week periods, are given. Four days are devoted to orientation, such as becoming acquainted with building, clinic, dining room and living quarters.

During one of these four week periods each girl is affiliated with a small hospital where she will buy food and see that it is distributed and prepared. This, said Miss Hines, gives each girl an opportunity to complie her training and knowledge of dietetics.

◆

Reeves and Snow Married Recently

Of interest to a number of students and faculty members is the marriage of Miss Cynthis Reeves and Mr Sydney 3now on Tuesday, March 19. The couple was united in marriage in an informal ceremony at St Thomas Episcopal Church in Thomasville, Georg by the Rev Shirley.

The bride, an instructor in Industrial Arts at this college, wa dressed in yellow with brown ac cessories and had as her only at tendant, Miss Ruby Diamond o Tallahassee.

The groom, who is director o the Inca Museum, and Mrs Snow the former Miss Reeves, came t this college in the fall of 194 They are now residing at 627 We Jefferson Street.

◆

PATRONISE OUR ADVERTISERS.

Spanish Program to Be Given on Radi

A special Pan-American rad program is to be presented 7:45 Monday night, April 15, fro the college studio.

The students of Spanish in Myra Yancey's eighth grade cla at the demonstration school a to present the program. Th radio program is a part of t Pan-American day program planned by the demonstration schoo

The Spanish class has prepare a clever quiz program in Spanis under Miss Yancey's directio Miss Manuelita Crespo, of Puert Rico and who is now a studen in the Demonstration School, w announce the program in Englis A group of ten children from th Spanish class will participate the quiz in Spanish.

THE WORLD'S MOST HONORED WATCH

Longines

WINNER OF 10 World's Fair Grand Prizes, 28 Gold Medals and more honors for accuracy than any other timepiece.

THE MOST HONORED WATCH ON THE CAMPUS

"By far OUR LARGEST SELLING CIGARETTE"
SHERMAN BILLINGSLEY'S — FAMOUS STORK CLUB IN NEW YORK

A ALWAYS MILDER B BETTER TASTING C COOLER SMOKING

ALWAYS BUY CHESTERFIELD

The RIGHT COMBINATION of the WORLD'S BEST TOBACCOS—PROPERLY AGED

Copyright 1946, Liggett & Myers Tobacco Co.

ONCE AGAIN

The Glory of A Fashionable Easter

Pretty and party-minded . . . your fresh young charmer for Easter! Dresses with a touch of the frivolous in their soft hip drapery, small waistlines, bustle bows, pert peplums . . . crispy-fresh white or plaid accents! See our wonderful collection of sheers and prints, jaunty boleros and pastels . . . sweetly curved for sheer femininity!

P. W. Wilson Company

Tallahassee's Oldest Department Store

Free Vote

Z 106

The Florida Flambeau

Published by the Students of Florida State College for Women

No Vote

VOL. XXXIII, No. 20

Tallahassee, Florida

APRIL 12, 1946

Schwartz And Barrs Deliver Statements to Student Body

chwartz Answers Charges Presented by Big Three; Both Read Statements at Special Forum Before Orderly Students

At a special forum Tuesday evening Catherine Barrs, n behalf of Ann Carolyn Allison, Peggy Lou Thomas and rself, presented their reasons for the disqualification of etty Schwartz as candidate for chairman of Judiciary. hese charges were answered by Betty Schwartz, whose tatement was suplemented by the testimony of Barbara rving, house president of Jennie Murphree.

This forum was held in Westcott auditorium immedi- ately following convocations. It was called by Robin Hill, ird vice-president of College Government Association.

The statements of both speakers follow verbatims

By Catherine Barrs

Some students on this campus ve expressed the sincere desire know the true facts and reason- g on the action taken by the n of Students on the instruc- n of the Faculty Committee on dent Affairs in disqualifying tty Schwartz as a candidate for hairman of Judiciary. For that son I will attempt to explain e facts for you as best as I n. The charges against Betty e as follows:

1 That she has failed in her ligation as a member of Judi- ary by repeatedly discussing Ju- diciary matters in public, com- nting adversely on policies and cisions which she had had a rt in forming, and by criticising e decisions of Judiciary in con- ction with individual cases.

2 That she has been guilty of cussing in public, cases under nsideration by Judiciary and of vealing the identity of the girl e question, actions which have ven undesirable publicity to the dent and reflected discredit on e Judiciary and the College.

3 That she has been delinquent her responsibilities as a Junior unsellor of Freshmen by fail- g to maintain law observance d by fostering a disregard of w and order among the Fresh- en

Betty admitted all the charges. e was warned by the Chairman Judiciary, President of College vernment Association, Chair- n of Residence Halls, and hairman of Off-Campus Com- ttee, and by the Residence unselors of the hall in which e lives, prior to a formal com- aint lodged against her by a udent tried by Judiciary and sed to withdraw from college. e action by the Faculty Com- ttee was taken as soon as pos- ble after the formal complaint as made against Betty. Im- achment was discussed before e first warning to Betty by mem- ers of Executive Council, the mbers previously mentioned, nd it was decided that she did t realize the significance of at she had done. The above arges were made known to the ndidate by the Chairman of Ju- ciary on Tuesday night, April 2, d by the Dean of Students on ednesday, April 3.

The Dean of Students disqual-

Continue on page two

Betty Schwartz

You have all heard the charges read against me, together with the explanation which prompted them. I am here before you tonight, not in defense of myself but in order that you may be presented with my evaluation of these charges. It is not my purpose to attempt to prove that my disqualification was either justified or unjustified—this is merely to present for your information as the student body my knowledge and beliefs concerning the action taken.

"The first charge, discussing Judiciary matters, I do not deny. I do, however, question the authority which has denied me this right—and I challenge any member of the student body to cite any reference, either in our agreement between the faculty and students, in the constitution of the college—or in the Constitution of the United States which prevents in any way or hampers in any form the privilege of freedom of

Continued on page two

An Open Letter To the Students

The Flambeau has gone to press thout printing the candidates' statements. This one fact, I'm re is upsetting many students, ndidates and otherwise, on cam- pus this morning. And if I knew ly this I, too, would "begin to onder".

But let me give you reasons why we were compelled to take this ac- on. Copy, to be used in our paper, should be in the Democrat office, set up by 5 o'clock, Thurs- ay, but in case of emergencies, he linotype boys extend the dead- ne to 9 o'clock.

Statements have been coming in ll afternoon and even some were ot received until tonight! True we could have set up some of the statements, thus giving them a ecided advantage (or the thought f such an advantage), but we do ot think this would be fair. An lternative was suggested, that of rinting only those girls' state- ments who will not present them n Convocation next week, but be- ause not all these came in be- fore the deadline this would still e exhibiting some partiality.

I, as a member of the Flambeau staff, regret such action for it was work on our part, as well as yours, o compile, retype, and copy read 025 words of promises — the quivalent of one and an eighth ages. If there are any griev- nces, the accused can be con- acted at Box 362.

Statements will be posted on ulletin Boards in lower Westcott day.

—Peggy Kay.

Hunt Writes Comic Skit for Presentation

Colones Directs the Play From Radio Station

"Life With the Warners", an original one act comedy by Bonnie Hunt, was presented on the Radio Workshop last night from 9:15 to 9:30 p m by the radio speech classes under the direction of Miss Mary Tom Colones, instructor in the speech department. This play was the ninth of a weekly series presented directly from the college radio station.

The play takes place in the home of a typical American family. Mr Warner is thwarted in his monthly speech making at the Men's Club. Buzz, his son, who's the editor of the high school paper, has printed his father's speech as an editorial. Complications developed when the editorial received praise from the local town paper.

The cast included: Mr Warner, Mr W L Dingwell; Mrs Warner, Jenell Knight; Timmy, Fran Williams; Buzz, Sadie Complance; Bea, Anna Bryce.

Doris Lorber was announcer for the program; Sadie Complace, narrator; Lois Watkins, music; Barbara Tait, sound effects; Mildred Williams, controls; and Sarah Doughty, prompter.

Last week the Radio Workshop presented an adaption of William Wordsworth's "Michael". It was adapted for radio by Sarah Lewis, Kay Moore, and Elaine Parramore.

Anonymous Interview Presents Views of Average FSC Student

By Ann Furlong

The Soda Shop was quiet and empty except for a few girls who sat smoking, patiently waiting and listening for the muffled voices in the auditorium above to become one big pandemonium. At last after seemingly endless hours of waiting the crowd from senate meeting came bounding down the steps and dashing into the Soda Shop.

One, two, three, four and five, and the fifth girl to enter was the lucky one chosen for this week's anonymous interview. Yes, she was a freshman, and she looked completely exhausted after engaging herself in a hot, stuffy room for two and a half hours listening attentively to discussion on a matter of major importance to this campus.

Clad in an aqua dress with her dark brown hair a little disarranged, she had come to recuperate, but instead she was confronted with an inexhaustable supply of questions. She spoke softly as she related her deep, dark plans, such as attending Florida State College two years and then transferring to the University of Kentucky where, upon graduating, she will become an airline hostess.

As for men, she just simply adores big, muscle-bound athletic men with blond hair and blue eyes, and they must be bubbling over with personality. After giving this description of the man of her dreams she admitted that her one and only fits this description perfectly. He has been the only man in her life since they were in the eighth grade.

The next question has been asked many students these past two weeks. What do you think about the reinstatement of Betty Schwartz? After a moment of silence she replied, "Everyone should have the right to state her own opinion on all matters. I am glad Betty had an opportunity to clarify a few rumors. By all means Betty should be reinstated which is the only logical procedure to follow in a democratic country."

When asked about the rules she replied, "Everything you do is against the rules as far as I can see." And with that she dashed toward the door and was lost in the crowd.

Place Orders Now

All orders for graduation invitations must be placed at the College Bookstore on or before April 30, the deadline, with the amount of money to cover the purchase, so that prompt delivery can be made, it was announced by Mr J G Wheeler, manager.

Mr Wheeler has recently returned to FSC after three years of service with the United States Army. When questioned Mr Wheeler said, "It is wonderful to be back at FSC; the cooperation given me by both faculty and students alike has been of valuable aid to my work at the college."

German Artist Appears Here

Paintings of Josep Albers To Be on Exhibition

Mr Josef Albers, professor of art at Black Mountain college, North Carolina, and an internationally famous artist noted for his abstract paintings and constructive designs, will give a lecture and hold an exhibit on the campus of Florida State College next week under the sponsorship of the Artist Series.

The exhibit of twenty of his paintings (oil and lithograph) will be open to the public in the Rowena Longmire auditorium from April 15 to April 25. It will include "Tomitia," 1944; "Mirage (B)," 1940; "Mantic," 1940; "Kinetic II," 1945; "Repeated and Reversed," 1943, and others.

At 4:30 p m Wednesday afternoon in the Longmire auditorium Mr Albers will give an informal gallery talk which will be followed by a tea in his honor. At 8:30 p m in the Little Theatre there will be an illustrated lecture at which Mr Albers will show films of his constructive designs.

Mr Albers left Germany in 1933, and since 1934 his works have been shown in about 100 exhibitions. Half of these exhibitions have been of his lithographs; the other half have been mainly his oils. Some of his latest exhibitions were: "Forbidden Art in the Third Reich' in the Nierendorf Gallery in New York; "Contemporary American Painting" in the Palace of the Legion of Honor in San Francisco, California; "Group Show Prints" in the Library of Science in Washington, D C; "Group Show" in the Pennsylvania Academy Annual in Philadelphia, Pennsylvania, and many others.

According to Mr Alexander Dor-

Continue on page two

Garnet and Gold

The "Garnet and Gold" radio program presented every Thursday at 7:30 p m had as its guest music editor Gladys Smith, celloist, who was accompanied on the piano by Virginia Thompson. The selections played by Gladys were "Andante" from Tschaikowsky's Fifth Symphony, "Orientale" by Cesar Cui, and "Andante" from Georg Goltermann's Concerto in A Minor.

Miss Bertha Bloodworth, coordinator of radio and publicity secretary for the college, acted as announcer and news editor for the week.

Treks to Camp Allow Students Various Experiences as Well as Lobster Tans

The week-end treks to camp have begun again. Big girls, little girls; short girls, tall girls; fat girls, thin girls; have journeyed to Lake Bradford this week.

Where's the Cathedral?" demand one puzzled freshman who went to camp last week-end. In order to see this sight the girls spent hours searching for what they thought was a building, an Indian relic or something of the sort.

They never did find it, but days later some one informed them that their building is in reality a strip of water. "I bet we were in it a dozen times and didn't know it," wailed one amazed freshman.

Some campers plan to spend the week-end swimming, canoeing, and basking, while others have only Saturday or Sunday afternoons available. But the length of time spent seems to make a difference only in the degree of sunburn which the campers acquire.

One freshman, who falls in the Sunday afternoon group, beamed when questioned about her activities at camp, saying "the sun was heavenly," and reiterating the oft-spoken opinion that the canoes are the "most fun of all." She said that the water was unusually high making it possible to go places in the canoes that would ordinarily be inaccessable. Both she and other campers, who spent last Sunday at camp, expressed delight at being able to wander through the "islands" in their canoes.

Last weekend Miss Katie Montgomery's canoeing class was at camp taking movies that will be used to demonstrate canoeing techniques. The girls performed dives and rescue work before the camera. "They were working awfully hard," explained one girl, "so hard, in fact, that they had a little trouble getting one victim into the canoe. It looked as though they almost drowned her."

As to the sun, everyone agrees that it was "hot, but not too hot." Everyone that is but one little freshman. She spent last weekend at camp and returned with a beautiful lobster tan. "Oh, it didn't hurt, much," she says. "I put vinegar on it and I guess it did the trick. Of course my back seems to be peeling slightly, but it really didn't hurt," she reiterated, looking suspiciously as though she were trying to convince herself.

Secret Theme To Be Revealed

Freshmen Climax Activity With Annual Carnival

The secret theme of the Freshman carnival will be revealed tonight at eight o'clock in the gymnasium, according to Polly Tuttle, freshman class president.

The long weeks of lengthy preparation will reach a climax with the presentation of skit composed of Dorothy Borbridge, Mary Pilpot, Rosemary Cieman, Joyce Williams, Frankie Hamilton, Rosemary Fleming, Catherine Gallagher, Verna Rogers, Judy Courtney, Ruth Ellen Gisen, Betty Jane Cargill, Laura Simpson, Colleen Kenney, Francene Dunning, Lucille Davis, Faith Adams, Terry Johnson, Lou Shonter, Ann Teague, Vivian and Dot Bloodworth. Pat Yates, skit committee chairman, declares, "The skit promises to be something out of the ordinary."

Supervising the decorations are Jean Furman and Shirley Palmer. Others on the committee are: Marjorie Mallard, Lucy Harding, Art Skevaskis, Charlotte Snyder, Martha Jane Bird, Shirley Longino, Arabella Allen, and Beverly Beardon. The building of the booths is under the leadership of the Winifred and Virginia Anthony and Sis Turner.

Dr Eyman Attends Education Meeting

R L Eyman, Dean of School of Education, has returned recently from Tampa where he attended the Florida Education Association meeting.

On Thursday, April 4, he attended the committee meeting on the Continuing Education Council, which is the legislative policy making body for the F E A. Dean Eyman attended several other committee meetings but did not take an active part in their proceedings.

Dean Eyman also reported that the Advisory Committees of the Citizen's Committee is meeting in Gainesville next week under the leadership of Dr Edgar Morphet, Executive Secretary of the Citizen's Committee. Attending the committees from here will be: Dean R L Eyman, dean of the School of Education, Dr Milton W Carothers, registrar, Miss Fannie B Shaw, associate professor health education and hygiene, Dr Doak S Campbell, president. These meetings begin on Monday, April 15, and continue for two or three days.

AGO Plans Meeting, Reception for May

The business meeting of the American Guild of Organists will be held sometime in May, announced Mrs Ramona C Beard, regent of the Tallahassee Branch Chapter and associate professor of organ and piano at Florida State College.

Following the business meeting there will be a reception to honor organists who have performed in public recitals this year and new colleagues who have been elected for membership.

The AGO is sponsor of the Pre-Easter Vespers which are being given for three consecutive Sundays. These vespers include: an organ recital given by Mrs Ramona Beard; an organ recital presented by Claude L Murphree, and Choral-Vespers to be given by all the Tallahassee choirs, April 14.

An informal dinner for Claude Murphree was given by local AGO members last Sunday night at the Three Torches.

College Glee Club Presents Concert

Classical and Popular Music Comprise Program

The glee club gave their annual spring concert last Friday night in Westcott auditorium.

Violinist Rachel Crotwell played Hungarian Dance by William Haesche after which she gave several curtain calls. Pianist Eleanor Bragg next played Concert Etude by MacDowell. As an encore Eleanor played DeFalla's Ritual Fire Dance.

Holy, Lord God, by Noble Cain, was the beginning number which the glee club sang a capella. The rendition of Agnus Dei by Bizet was given by voice soloist, Ann Lindsey and violinist, Rachel Crotwell. Accompaniment was furnished by Eleanor Bragg.

The second group of songs was comprised of folk songs from the different countries. Mary Hart and Paula Teagarden did solo parts, Mary singing Lautenbach, a German folk song, and Paula singing Kom Kjyra, a Norwegian folk song. The Handsome Soldier, an English folk song, especially delighted the adudience and the American Lullaby was next rendered by the glee club.

The program began with serious music and each group became lighter until the concert ended with three popular favorites, "Oh, What a Beautiful Mornin' " (Oklahoma), Siboney by Lecuona with castanet accompaniment, and "Italian Street Song" (Naughty Marietta) by Victor Herbert, with Paula Teagarden as soloist.

Officers Nominated During IRC Meeting

Nominations for new officers of International Relations Club were made last Wednesday at its meeting. Delores Gardner was nominated for president; Barbara Randolph and Virginia Der Garry for vice-president; Mary Frances Allen, Perlie Hunt, Alice Newett, and Maureen Macy for secretary-treasurer; Janice Richey and Jean Anne Daly for program chairman, and Jean Glson and Gertrude Franke for publicity chairman.

This list will be posted on the lower Westcott bulletin board for the next week and nominations will be open during the week. At the end of that time, ballots will be sent out through the mail to members and a box will be placed in Westcott for the votes.

Comedy Is Chosen

"Personal Appearance", a three-act comedy by Lawerence Riley, will be the spring production of the speech department, announced Mr W L Dingwell, assistant professor of speech. It is to be presented in the Augusta Conradi Little Theater May 15, 16, and 17.

"Personal Appearance" ran for many months in New York with Gladys George in the lead.

Tryouts for the cast will begin today and will continue on Monday and Tuesday.

Pan-American Observances Begin Monday

Week's Lecturers Include Baralt of Havana University

Library and Art Exhibits Demonstrate Theme

Professor Luis A Baralt of the University of Havana will climax Florida State College's observance of Pan-American week when he speaks on the subject "North and South America Look at Each Other" on April 18.

The lecture, which is to be held in the Little Theater at 8:15, will be followed by a brief forum. Dr Baralt, who is visiting professor at the University of Miami this year, has had much experience in Inter-American cultural affairs and is a well-known lecturer in both North and South America. Other features of Pan-American week include library and art exhibits, several lectures, and a musical program.

Formal observance will begin Monday when the art department sponsors a lecture on "Mexican and South American Architecture"

Continued on page two

Honorary Taps New Members

36 Freshmen Eligible For Alpha Lambda Delta

New members of the Alpha Lambda Delta, National Scholastic Honorary for freshmen, were tapped last night at a special convocation. In order to be eligible a freshman must have made at the end of the first two quarters an overage of two point five or above.

The taps are: Virginia Lee Anthony, Winifred Clarke Anthony, Lenora Irma Bergida, Margie Bern, Martha Jane Bird, Lillian Beatrice Campbell, Catherine Grace Carey, Hazel Lamar Clarkson, Gwendolyn Harrison Clements, Sibyl Gene Colgrove, Katherine Ann Cooper, Jean Ann Daly, Emily Grace Dawkins, Caroline Isobelle Drummond, Rosemary Flemming, Margaret Louise Flynn, Catherine Anna Heltzman, Audrey Irene Hunt, Tobie Yetta Jacobskind, Mary Josephine Jones, Ellen Hildegrad Koenitzer, Mary Ellen Luther, Margery Ann Mallard, Dorothy Ann Martin, Geraldine Jane Meyer, Valda Colleen Mock, Margie Norris, Margaret Grainger Phipps, Ester Johanne Rasmussen, Marie Louise Shonter, Doris Corinne Stewart, Marilyn Jean Till, Pauline Gordon Tuttle, Edna Allene Wamble, Janet Whitman, and Nelda Nadine Lillians.

The pledge service will be held in the Longmire building today at 5 p m, and the initiating service and banquet will be at the Woman's Club on Monday at 5 p m.

Laski Proves Professor Wrong Though Prof Not Yet Convinced

The professor may be wrong; writes the author—even though he may be busy with the affairs of the British Empire!

This is the policy of Melba McElwain, journalism student, who was recently graded wrong on a test by Professor Earl L Vance, instructor in journalism. Melba, along with others in the class, thought the professor was wrong and said so.

Argument not being possible, Mr Vance suggested submitting the matter to arbitration. He allowed the class to decide whether there should be two faculty members and one student or two students and one faculty member on the arbitration committee, the students to choose the faculty and the instructor the student members. Such a committee was created, the students deciding to have the two student—one faculty plan

But Melba had a better idea. She decided to write the author of the article in question as to what he meant. When she announced what she was doing Mr Vance heartily approved and said if either the arbitration committee or the author decided in favor of the students their answer would be given full credit.

The committee decided against the students. But not Harold J Laski, the author. Melba sent him the following question concerning his article "The Duty of the Intellectual Now" just as it appeared on the test:

"Laski says the DUTY OF THE INTELLECTUAL NOW is (1) to remain detached from all the explosive and divisive issues of the day so that he can keep his balance in the world in turmoil (2) to insist upon cool scholarship in an effort to find the facts, without any partisanship (3) to take part in the battles of the day (4) to avoid partisanship on highly controversial questions in order to maintain respect (5) to give himself more assiduously than ever to research in an effort to help find the answers to our problems."

Now, wrote Melba, is number (3) or (5) correct? From London, where he is a professor at the London School of Economics and Political Science and, incidentally, as top brains in the British Labor party which is now in power, busy wth the affairs of the British Empire, Mr Laski wrote: :

"I think the answer is a simple one—that both of the points are right. The Intellectual ought not to escape a full social responsibility, but he ought, at the same time, to be prepared so to examine the problems before him, that he ceases to feel, as it is so easy to feel, that his party can act as his conscience."

Whereupon Mr Vance says he agrees fully with what Mr Laski says in his letter. But he still denies that that is what he said in his article. Which just shows how stubborn professors can be.

Senate Majority Passes an Amendment Allowing Students To Select Own Candidates

Proposed Measure to Postpone Elections Is Defeated; Recommendation Is Made That Committee Report on Validity of Elections

Proposed amendment to the College Government Association constitution providing for the elimination of the Dean of Students' office from those which must approve petitions of candidacy to CGA offices was passed by a vote of 39 to 6 at a called meeting of student senate Monday evening in the Longmire auditorium. This measure also provides that the Dean of Students may transmit any pertinent information concerning candidates to the student nominations committee, which, with the knowledge of the candidate concerned, will make this information known to the student body.

Other business of senate this week included the defeating by a vote of 18 to 27 of a proposed measure postponing CGA elections until the final decision of Faculty Committee on Student Affairs concerning the amendment passed by student senate Monday night is reported to the student body. A recommendation to the elections committee that they make public by Monday their decision concerning the terms under which they will consider this year's CGA elections valid was passed at a special meeting of senate Wednesday night. This recommendation suggested that the vote of 81 per cent of the student body be considered necessary for the validity of this election.

The amendment to the constitution was passed Monday night following a recommendation transmitted to the senae by Miss Olivia N Dorman, dean of students, suggesting that the student nominations committee be empowered to pass upon the eligibility of candidates to CGA offices.

Proponents of the measure, which was introduced by Mary L White, junior representative to senate, stated, however, that in their opinion the student body as a whole is better able to judge the qualifications of a candidate than is a nominations committee consisting of only six students. They also contended that unless the student body is permitted to decide whether or not their candidates are qualified for office, elections are not free.

The opponents of the measure stated that the proposed amendment was aimed not at a general principle but at a specific instance, in which, they maintained, the disqualification of a candidate was justified. They also stated that a student committee had at one time passed upon the qualifications of candidates for office and had afterwards voluntarily returned that power to the Dean of Students.

A special committee was elected by senate to present the proposed amendment to President Doak S Campbell. Those selected include: Sarah Lewis, Martha Jane Brown, Margaret Baugh, Robin Hill, Mary White and Shirley Duggan.

The meeting of senate Wednesday evening was called to consider postponement of elections and also possible action on the clause of the CGA constitution which provides that elections may be declared valid so long as any students cast their ballots.

Shirley Duggan, advocating postponement of elections stated that she would not vote in a controlled election and that so long as any administrative officer has the power to pass upon the qualification of a candidate elections are controlled. She voiced the opinion that if the amendment proposed Monday night does become effective elections will no longer be controlled and that, therefore, she will vote in them.

Ann Carolyn Allison, president

Continued on Page Two

Choral-Vespers To Be Sunday

350 Singers to Participate In Pre-Easter Event

Choral-Vespers, the third and biggest event of Pre-Easter Vespers which the American Guild of Organists is sponsoring, will be held in the college auditorium on Sunday at 4:30 p m.

The program will be under the direction of Mrs Ramona Beard, regent of the AGO Tallahassee professor of organ and piano at Florida State College. This is the second of the community sings which were started last year by Mrs Beard.

The Christian Church choir joins the community sing this year for the first time. The Methodist Youth choir and Baptist Youth choir are also newcomers to this program.

There will be about 350 choir members participating. Two hundred of these members will be on the stage, and the other 150, which

Continue on page two

Voting to Proceed As in CGA Calendar

Primaries For Major Offices To Be in Convo Tuesday

The primary election for major candidates will be held in a compulsory convocation Tuesday, April 18, announced Ann Carolyn Allison, president of College Government Association. The final election of major candidates will be held the following day in lower Westcott.

The primary election of minor candidates will take place in a second convocation which will meet Thursday and the final election for these offices will be conducted Friday.

Georgie Jaechel, candidate for second vice-president of CGA was mistakenly left off of the list of

Continue on page two

Members of Faculty Attend FEA Meeting

FSC was well represented at the Florida Education Association convention, according to Dr Milton W Carothers, registrar, who was among the twenty-one members of the faculty who attended the meeting held in Tampa, April 4-8. He estimated that the attendance totaled six thousand.

Guest of Dr Carothers last week, prior to the meeting, was Dr Paul Sears, head of the botany department at Oberlin College, Oberlin, Ohio. Dr Sears was one of the principal speakers at the convention and spoke on "Education and the Resources of the State." Other principal speakers were Vincent Sheean, journalist, and Governor Millard Caldwell.

Dance Theme Is Oriental

Prom Court Presentation Highlights Program

In a mystic oriental atmosphere the presentation of Ann Carolyn Allison, Dink Ashton, and Catherine Barrs, seniors; and Rosetta Carver, Sarah Lewis, and Frannie Myers, juniors; as the official 1946 Prom court marked the climax of the annual Junior-Senior prom last Saturday night in the old dining hall.

During the intermission, Nancy Wright who was dressed in a black satin Chinese robe, introduced the members of the court, which were elected on March 11 by the junior and senior class respectively. Each of the six girls, whose names remained secret until prom night, carried nosegays of spring flowers and stepped from behind an oriental screen through a mass of bubbles into the center of the hall while the orchestra serenaded her.

Perry Watson and his orchestra, which is composed of 16 students of the University of Florida, provided dance music. Shirley Rodgers, chairman of the prom, complemented the orchestra members for their fine performance. "The boys from the University really played well at our Junior-Senior prom," she said.

After the presentation of the Prom Court, Laura Simpson, Ruth Kennedy, and Hazel Clarkson entertained with the songs, "Are You Kiddin'?" and "Tabby the Cat."

Clad in colorful Chinese silks, Sophomore council girls served as hostesses to the upperclassmen who found themselves in an oriental land of dreams, which was the theme of the dance, complete with Chinese lanterns, Far Eastern tapestries, a mass of bamboo, a Chinese pool and flower garden, and a large oriental Buddha.

Shirley Rodgers served as chairman of the prom. Nancy Wright and Nell Clark were co-chairmen of the court. Other committee heads were Aileen Sayers, publicity; Cora Lee Wells, decorations; Rebecce Routon, invitations; Jean Ann Graham, chaperons; Ann Nicholson, spotlights; and Coline Gunn, refreshments.

Guests at the dance were: Dr Harold F Richards, Dr Mark H DeGraff, Miss Florence R Tryon, Mr Owen F Sellers, Miss E Elizabeth Lynn, Dr Claude R Flory, Dr Coyle E Moore, Dr Paul Shankweiler, Dr and Mrs Doak S Campbell, Dean Olivia N Dorman, Miss Mary Katherine Warren, Miss Anna May Tracy, Miss Edith McCollum, Miss Estelle David, Miss Anne Pope, Dr and Mrs W H Rogers and Miss Mildred Finnegan.

Two hundred and fifty tickets were sold for the dance, which was just enough to cover all of the expenses, reported Shirley Rodgers. Punch was served by Sophomore Council girls who were also in charge of the tickets for the dance.

◆

Barrs

Continued from page one

ified Betty upon the instruction of the Faculty Committee on Student Affairs. She received her authority from the Constitution of the College Government Association, Article XIII, Nominations, Elections, and Appointments, which reads: "Before the nominations are made public the names of candidates for nominations shall be sent by the chairman of the nominating committee to the offices of the personnel director, the registrar, the infirmary, and the dean of students in order to determine the eligibility of each candidate.' Each officer has the obligation to determine the eligibility of each candidate—the registrar according to grades, the personnel director according to point load and general eligibility, the infirmary according to health, and the dean according to the sum total of other records. In this instance the Dean of Students only carried out her constitutional obligation.

"Betty is being permitted to run for Representative to Judiciary and not for Chairman of Judiciary for the following reasons:

1. The Chairman of Judiciary has a great deal more responsibility to the faculty and to the student body than do the representatives even though she does not have a vote. She is responsible for the action of Judiciary as a whole, is the link between students and faculty and must express to both students and faculty the opinion of Judiciary and not her personal opinion or the opinion of any one person.

2. On Judiciary the first and foremost duty of the representative is to express her frank opinion in the light of facts, policies of the college, and the individual concerned. To have an effective Judiciary it is essential that the representatives be individuals with individual opinions. It is only through a variety of opinions that Judiciary is able to reach a decision which it thinks is just."

Schwartz

Continued From Page One

thought and speech. Therefore, I am unable to understand why any member of the student body cannot get from me, upon request, at any time, my views and personal opinion regarding our decisions. Various rumors have come to me in regard to the fact that I have been warned previously concerning my action and, therefore, I wish to present to you the facts which are the basis of the rumor. I was first called before Misses Allison, Barrs and Thomas in regard to a campus poll which I was asked to take part in formulating. This pall was to be conducted for the purpose of ascertaining student opinion on matters concerning withdrawal, moral issues and drinking. I was told that as a member of judiciary I was not at liberty to have any part in attempting to find out student opinion with regard to these matters. I was further told that I could not at any time publicly state my opinions when they did not support judiciary decisions or existing policies. I had not heretofore been aware that freedom of speech concerning this body was prohibited. On the contrary, I had been under the impression that as a member of this body it was not only my privilege but my right and my duty to point out to any student by whom I was questioned my interpretations and logis used in arriving at these interpretations—I am fully aware that I am vulnerable to criticism which I could easily avoid by complying—or pretending to comply—with everything which we do and eevry decision that we make. You must realize that that way would be far easier for me and arouse much less of the antagonism that follows the disagreement with any expressed views, but this has not been my choice. It was not pointed out to me at that meeting, nor has it since been clarified satisfactorily for me, by what authority I am not allowed to speak. If, perchance, this is what is loosely termed disloyal, then, I have been disloyal.

"The second charge which I bring to your attention is that of divulging judiciary information. This I do not deny either. I do, however, hereby state that I have never divulged in any form whatsoever, information which could be considered detrimental to the character of the girl in question. I have also been qoestioned by Misses Barrs, Allison and Alday concerning this metter, and I state now to you as I did at that time to them that I am in no way more guilty of this charge than is any other member of the court. I defy any member of judiciary who has not at any time divulged case information to say so now." (At this point, judiciary members Audrey Perry and Delia Santos rose.)

"In spite of the fact that I alone have been charged with the responsibility of publicizing the case (mentioned by Miss Barrs) I wish to say now that when I first discussed this case in public it was in answer to questions of students concerning the case. Evidently, therefore, information was divulged from another source prior to the time of my discussion. If I have gone too far in attempting to clarify cases, I can assure you that this has been a misjudgment on my part, and has never been—as is charged—a milicious attempt to undermine judiciary.

"The third charge concerning my attitude of betiltling the rules to freshmen, I flatly deny. In the first place, I wish to know how any person, or group of persons, feels qualified to sum up my attitude in general on the basis of the instances that have been called to my attention. I consider this last charge as slanderous and a decided defamation of my character, without reasonable substantiation, and I refuse to admit that it in no way approaches the truth.

"For instance, the one time I was called up about this—I was on my way to sports practice, and this freshman was sitting on the steps in the loading zone of Jennie Murphree. I said, "Come on, let's go to the show." She said, "I can't, I'm on restrictions." I said, "Oh, forget 'em," and walked off. I forgot it—and she forgot it. A residence councellor was sitting in her room writing a letter, overheard the conversation, and reported me to Miss Worren. The residence counsellor then called me in and after our conversation. It was my understanding that the matter was cleared up. However, since that time, I have found that it definitely was not.

"I certainly do not pretend to be perfect, but I wish to state that I have consistently and conscientously, by my example and position as junior counsellor, tried to instill into the freshmen the proper attitudes regarding school policies.

"In the meeting of the dean, house presidents, judiciary members, and executive council last Thursday night, I was charged with using my influence to keep cases in Jennie Murphree from going to house council. I fail to understand upon what basis this conclusion was drawn and I would like to as why I have been allowed to maintain my position as junior counsellor?

"My roommote is house president of this dormitory, and therefore presides over house council. She is qualified to speak to you regarding this matter, and I hereby request that she be allowed to make a statement at this time."

(Barbara Irving, president of Jennie Murphree Hall, next delivered the following statement:)

"I am not here to campaign, but to explain a situation with which I am associated.

"Betty and I were called into a conference with our residence counsellers. We were asked our feelings about a problem in the hall. We said that we did not think that house council was the solution for this matter, but that we could try it. This was not a statement that we would not call people in when they had broken the regulations, but rather that we did not, frankly and honestly, believe it would work. At the time, these statements were construed to mean that we would not call people up, but this was cleared up since then with our residence counsellors.

"As for Betty's influencing my decisions as to whether or not people should come to house council—anyone who knows me will, I am sure, see how ridiculous that is. Jennie Murphree house council is one of the many things on which I cannot be infleunced.

Seriously, though, the cases which have come up in Jennie Murphree house council have come there through the action of the house council, the junior counsellors, and myself, and decided by house council. As a junior counsellor, Betty has exercised her powers as that officer in sending irregularities through the proper channel of house council."

(At this point, Betty resumed the floor to complete her statement).

"I wish to add in closing that I realise that I am certainly not infallible, but I say to you in all sincerity, I have tried to perform my duties to the very best of my judgment and ability."

Editor's note: Betty Schwartz stated she did not know what Catherine Barrs was going to say in her statement, and she later made the following statement:

"When I did not deny the first charges, I was only affirming the essence of these charges that I had commented on judicial policies and decisions, and that I had publicly discussed judiciary cases.

"I do wish to deny that this is failure in my obligation; that I repeatedly discussed matters in public; that I have given undesirable publicity to the students involved: and that I have reflected discredit on judiciary and the college by my statements."

Meetings and Elections Held By Religious Organizations

The monthly business meeting of the Canterbury Club was held on Sunday, April 7, at Ruge Hall. The main business of the meeting was the election of the vestry for next year in which the following were elected: Shirley Dorr, president; Barbara Randolph, vice-president; Carolyn Smith, secretary; Irma Hammond, treasurer; Doris Berry, freshman membership chairman; Betty Dowd, upper-classman membership chairman; Emily Dawkins, off-campus membership chairman; Ann Hunter, study class chairman; Sara Lewis, music chairman; Betty Bergman, librarian; Jane Merridey, food chairman; Doris Williams, social chairman; Mildred Horrox, workshop chairman; Robin Hill, worship chairman; Art Skevakis, alter chairman; and Eleanor Boothby, publicity chairman. At the same time the following were elected as faculty advisers for the coming year: Miss Florence Tryon, Miss Louise Gehan, Dr Anna Forbes Liddell, Mrs Olive Cross, and Miss Ramona Beard. The new vestry was installed by the Reverend Jeffery Alfriend et the service of the Holy Communion on Wednesday, April 10. The vestry conference will be held Saturday, April 13 from 1:00 to 5:15 p m. Both old and new vestry members will attend this meeting and make plans for the next year's work. The Lenten Forum on Friday, April 5, was led by the Reverend Richard Urban, assistant rector of St John's Parish in Jacksonville. On Friday, April 12, the Reverend Charles Schilling, rector of the Holy Trinity Parish in St Augustine, will be the Lenten Forum speaker. Reverend Schilling's topic will be, "Jesus Christ, Savior of the World."

There will be a special meeting at two o'clock on Saturday afternoon at the Baptist Student house for the purpose of leadership training in Baptist Student Union methods. Miss Faith James, who will be the leader, announced that the meeting will be open to any students, and those who are officers in the union are particularly requested to attend. Immediately following, there will be a meeting of the students who have volunteered to be BSU "big sisters" for next year's incoming freshman class.

German Artist

Continued from page one

ner in his writings of February, 1942: "People who consider life as a series of variations of eternally unchangeable laws and rules will not like Josef Albers' work nor the education he is promoting.

But people who feel that life is creative evolution which constantly grows into wider concepts will find his work and his educational psychology the catechism of our new concept of art.

Josef Albers is the clear, unirritable, and conscientious apostle of the modern movement in art," said Mr Dorner.

◆

Summer Bulletin

Dr Carothers stated that the summer session bulletin will be available in about a week and the general catalogue for next year is expected to be ready in three weeks.

Senate Majority

Continued from page one

of CGA, maintained that elections should not be postponed because of the necessity of having enough time left this year after installation of officers for the retiring officers to train their successors. Opponents of postponement also felt that adequate reasons for this step had not been presented.

The fact that elections may be declared valid when only a small minority of students participate in them was condemned as "undemocratic" by several members of senate. They also stated that the practice of declaring elections valid only when 51 per cent of students vote has been practiced so long on campus as to become virtually common law.

However, the objection was raised that a regulation setting the percentage of students that must vote in order for elections to be valid would be too inflexible and might work a hardship in cases where the vote of a majority of students could not be secured.

Among legislation returned to student senate by College Council Wednesday and disapproved by that body were proposals allowing certain social privileges to third quarter freshmen. These proposals included allowing these freshmen to ride at night with men provided another student is present and allowing them an unlimited number of dates.

The reason given for the disapproval of these measurees, according to Jean Cole, was the difficulty in administering different regulations for different quarter freshmen.

After several members of senate stated that they did not consider the reason presented for disapproval of these measures adequate, senate voted to return these measures to College Council for further consideration.

A reorganization of the hand book, involving the elimination of the chart now included, was also approved. This measure also allows sophomores to ride alone at night with their dates. Other measures requiring CGA officers to be in residence durnig the time that they hold office were also approved with slight changes.

Spring Arrives at FSC as Students in China Stage Strike

Half way around the world Chinese students demonstrated this week, protesting action by their public officials. In regard to this the following item appeared on page one of the Sunday edition of a leading Florida newspaper:

"Korean police broke up a sitdown demonstration by 100 students protesting the closure of a Communist supported law school."

On that same day at Florida State College students were collecting petitions bearing the signatures of more than 1635 students. These petitions were also protesting action by school (or public) officials, action which in the opinion of FSC students violates the basic principles of democracy and education.

But in the same edition of this large daily a story concerning Florida State College, which appeared on page three of the society section, began:

"Spring has arrived at FSCW. Gone is the dreariness of winter, the depressing class hours declining verbs in a droll chant of 'amo, amas, amat' manner and the regimented treks from domitory to dining hall with no thought save to eat and return to the books."

The Florida newspaper made no mention of FSC's fight for democracy.

◆

Staff Publishes Library Booklet

The fourth issue of "Calling All Readers," a library-staff publication, appeared this week on the library counters for distribution to the students and faculty. Miss Sara Graham, editor, said that the booklet is still in its early stages, and suggestions would be welcomed.

Contributions are made by various members of the library staff to this bi-ennial publication. Miss Ethel Hembree designed the cover used on all issues, although appearing each time in a different color. Copies of the magazine are sent to other libraries and library schools.

The current issue contains an article on the library's document collection and on books about hobbies. Under the heading of suggested reading appears a list of ten fairly recent books with a brief statement about each. A following section tells about gifts to the library and periodicals subscribed to since the last issue of "Calling All Readers." Concluding the pages of this issue is miscellaneous information entitled "Library Chatter."

◆

Zoology Staff Does Research for State

Analyses of the stomach contents of some predatory animals of north Florida are being made by the zoology staff of Florida State College for the State Department of Game and Fresh Water Fish, according to Professor Ezda Deviney, head of the zoology department.

Microscopic and gross examinations of these animals which include skunks, opposum, bobcats, foxes, and gar fish are being made for a state-wide research under the supervision of the office of the Fish and Game commissioner.

Similar tests are being made by the zoological departments of other colleges and universities in the state for the research, which will probably cover a three year period. The specimens are collected by the game wardens of various nearby counties and are brought to the zoological department for study.

YWCA Interviewer To Be Here April 17

600 New Professional Staff Members Needed This Year

Miss Carrie Meares, representative of the Young Women's Christian Association, will be in the Personnel office April 17, for private interviews with graduating students who are interested in YWCA work after graduation, according to Dr Elizabeth G Andrews, director of personnel.

Miss Meares will be on campus to give students an opportunity to discuss YWCA work with her. Approximately 600 new professional staff members will be needed in the organization this year to take care of normal turnover and to meet the demands for expanded service. Current job openings are located in all parts of the country in the following fields: health education; work with younger girls; work with employed girls; and executive directors. The minimum educational requirement is a bachelor's degree from an accredited college with study in such fields as the social sciences, religion, philosophy, psychology, education, literature, and the arts. A major in physical education is required for a health education job. Types of work that have value for a YWCA job include teaching, social group work, recreational work with young people, and community organization.

◆

Choral Vespers

Continued from page one

make up the junior choirs, will form a procession and enter through the side doors down to the orchestra. During the program each choir will sing an individual anthem. The final anthem will be sung by all the choirs combined.

The following student choirs and directors will participate: Madge Clayton, Methodist; Dalia Santos, Presbyterian; Sara Ann Bramister, Hillel; Patricia Millican, Baptist, and Sarah Lewis, Episcopal.

The choirmasters are: Mr and Mrs H Caleb Cushing, Methodist and Baptist choirs; Mrs W R Latham, Presbyterian choir; Miss Florine Mariatt, Christian choir, Miss Marguerite Henry, Junior Episcopal choir; and Mrs Ramona Beard, Senior Episcopal choir.

The organists include: Mrs B A Meginniss, Miss Katherine Phillips, Miss Fawn Trawick, Miss Margaret McCain, Miss Betty Jean Linderman, Miss Rebecca Rodenberg, Miss Evelyn Ann Doyle, Miss Edith Smith, Miss Ann Carolyn Allison, Miss Jane Gartner, Mrs Ramona Beard, and Professor R D Miller, associate professor of philosophy and religion at Florida State College.

Dean Kuersteiner, acting dean of School of Music et Florida State College, made it possible for this program to be held in the college auditorium. Miss Madge Clayton was co-ordinator for student choir group, and Miss Rebecca Rodenberg was in charge of backstage arrangements.

◆

Flunkies Working

Posters urging the student body to vote and notices to the candidates for office of meetings have been the latest project of the Freshmen Flunkies, according to Pat Dillard, chairman.

Other recent activities include compiling a list of those eligible for Sophomore Council and bringing the CGA directory up to date.

New Orleans Welcomes Spring Holiday Excursionists from FSC

"New Orleans, here we come!" were the joyful cries of Janet Rogers, Kit Land, Betty Jo McAteer, and Ella Mae Quinby as they boarded the bus, off on their trip to that magical city. They soon found that this vacation was to be one of the most entertaining and profitable ones that they had known. Their first impression of New Orleans was the friendliness of the people there and their carefree attitude. "Almost every week there's a holiday!" one of them exclaimed.

Rooms in a unique St Charles Street boarding house were the results of three attempts to get room reservations. The four girls were the center of attention, however, as they went marching across that street with their arms filled with dresses to one of the few available irons in the neighborhood.

They danced at the magnificen Roosevelt Hotel, ate at Tujacque where typical New Orleans atmosphere prevails, visited the city beautiful parks with their swimming pools, riding stables, gol courses, lakes and zoos, an search the Levee in vain to fin some of the famous "river rats."

The French Market intrigued them most of all. There the girl saw the night clubs with thei picturesque piano players, and patios such as the Two Sisters Courtyard which is lighted b candlelight and has a violin player roaming from table to table They had coffee and doughnuts at Morning Call and Cafe Dumonde, all-night shops for theatergoers and night clubbers.

Being college girls, Sophie Newcomb and Tulane Universities attracted them. Ella Mae is convinced that their campuses don even begin to compare with tha of FSC. She found, however, tha at Sophie Newcomb the girls hav hardly any restrictions as to wher they may go and when they ma return.

Spring Fiesta attracted everyone to Pirates' Alley, where th holiday was celebrated. A larg art exhibit and auction encirclin an entire block was held there and rich and poor, resident and visitor alike came to criticize and appraise the paintings. Friendliness typified the congenial remarks made to these FSC girl the carefree people of New Orleans.

At the Cabildo, a large m the girls saw the beautiful historical painting of New Orlean with the city's complete histo They were most impressed b the Mardi Gras costumes whic have been donated for centur to the museum. They are ver elaborate, with sequined capes an beautiful jewelry. Perhaps th most picturesque of all to the were the costumes of King who rules over the Mardi Gras

One afternoon they visited th wharves extending for seven alon the Mississippi River. They performed the traditional act throwing pennies into the rive and making a wish.

The time came too soon to return to school, but each girl say that she is going to return soo to visit again New Orleans.

Pan-American

Continued from Page One

in room 311, Westcott. Subsequent lectures on this subject will be presented on Wednesday and Friday at 2 o'clock. During the entire week color reproductions of contemporary Mexican paintings will be on exhibit in the northern hall of the third floor of Westcott.

Kenneth MacGowan, a Gadsden county representative to the Florida legislature, will present a lecture on "Economic Conditions in South American Countries" Monday at 5 o'clock in the Little Theater. Mr MacGowan recently returned from a visit to the northern countries of South America. His lecture here will be sponsored by the economics departments of the college.

Another lecture, to be sponsored by the political science department, will be given Wednesday afternoon at 5 o'clock in the Little Theater. At that time Dr Lucretia Isley will speak on "Current Political Issuese in Latin America." Dr Isley, an associate professor of political science, regularly teaches a course on Latin American governments.

A musical program featuring songs of the American countries is to be given by the School of Music Thursday afternoon at 5 o'clock in the Recital hall of the Music annex. Throughout the week of April 15-20, the time set for formal observance, the information service of the Library will feature Pan-American materials in their exhibits.

The Demonstration school will join this college in observance of Pan-American week. Their program, which is under the direction of Miss Myra Yancey and Mr E W Casey will feature a radio program "La Union Pan-America" to be presented by the Spanish classes and two assembly programs, "Pan-American Heroes" by the seventh grade and "Mr Whipple Meets the Heroes" given by the sixth grade. Library exhibits there will include children's books from Latin America, a unit of 100 illustrated books collected by the Pan-American Union and an exhibit of work done by the various grades concerning the countries of the Americas.

Voting to Proceed

Continued from Page One

candidates running for this offic in last week's Flambeau.

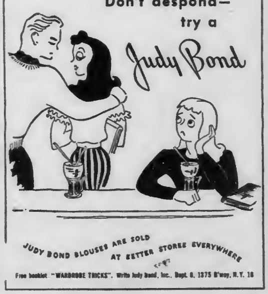
"As yet there is no student running for Editor of the Distaff" stated Ann Carolyn.

Since Tuesday of this week eac candidate has been available f an hour each day in the candidate booth in lower Westcott to answe questions about her platform an views. A schedule stating whe each candidate will be at the candidates booth is posted in lowe Westcott.

There will be a forum next Monday at 7:30 in which the majo candidates who did not speak i convocation Tuesday, will mak short speeches.

◆

The women of ancient Greec were barred from the Olympic both as spectators and participants.



Don't despond—
try a
Judy Bond

JUDY BOND BLOUSES ARE SOLD AT BETTER STORES EVERYWHERE

Free booklet "WARDROBE TRICKS". Write Judy Bond, Inc., Dept. 8, 1375 B'way, N.Y. 18

Add a Sparkling Jeweled touch to your Easter Outfit . . .

HOLLY'S
Jewelry Store

COLLEGE & ADAMS
PHONE 202-K

It's New!
"BACHELOR'S CARNATION"
The Latest Lipstick Sensation

REVLON took something from the boys and added it to our glamour. An exciting shade that's not too red . . . not too dark. The perfect shade to match your new Easter outfit.

about and it stays on and on and on!
mad about and it stays on and on and on!

Martin & Dalton
DRUG STORE
210-212 S. Adams

Athlete's Feats

Evelyn Shea

know you lucky people missed my column in last week's (yuk) so this week I shall not disappoint my waiting ng public. You know "Sharpie" says, "Absence makes heart grow fonder," and, well, I thought I'd try doing that see what happened. I saw. No one even knew my column 't in last week. I wonder why? Heavens, the campus quiet and nothing was happening. I wonder why?

Anyhow, since I'm supposed to be writing about sports hance I'd better get back to the subject.

Badminton, golf, tennis and softball occupy the lime- this quarter and unfortunately there is not as much asm this quarter as was evident the last two. All in king both Odds and Evens into account there is barely one hundred girls out for these four activities. What s to be the trouble? It could be that some people don't der these recreationa lfacilities worth while and they dead wrong. More girls will play badminton, tennis and when they get out of school than they will team sports as basketball. Under the circumstances I think that if hat reason alone they should be, interested in learning to play the game fairly well.

So come on out you gals who like to play and spend an r that is loaded with fun.

YA' KNOW ....

That 19 girls were awarded their F's in convocation day night ... that the girls who went to the Physical ation Convention in St Louis will be back Saturday ....

MBNAIL SKETCHES ....

RANKIE HALL ... Even softball leader ... a three Senior ... short brunette with a big, big smile ... e was softball leader last year ... member of F club th etic manager of the Senior class ... She's in St Louis e onvention right now ....

AN KOESY ... Even badminton leader ... Jean has at for and made many teams since coming to college She s a tall brunette with an easy-going way ... aside he athletic prowess, she's a member of judiciary and ...

KATHERINE JACKSON ... Even golf leader ... yes, s a senior too ... She's one of those gals who's got a and come-back for everything ... She too is a brunette besides her sports activities she does a little acting here there ....

JOY LITTLE ... Even tennis leader ... ah ha, Joy is -red head ... she was a member of last year's Even tennis team ... Joy succeeds Babe Evans as ... she will graduate in June ... then wedding bells, ... since she is little both literally and figuratively ability in sports is not easily recognized until she plays oy is a member of F Club ...

Next week we'll carry thumbnail sketches of the Odd s until then that's thirty for now ....

Band to Present cert at Marianna and Special Selections Featured on Program

Florida State College band, the direction of Mr Owen F will present a concert in on April 19, sponsored Lion's Club of that city. will be the second trip taken band this year, stated Mr The band gave a concert Gordon Johnston in the this year.

to Mr Sellers, the con- will open with a band ar- of Beethoven's "Ero- Other selections the band are Bach's "Komm Sus- and "Escapada", a Span- number arranged for the band.

are several special selec- the program, stated Mr Sidney Conner, saxo- soloist, will play, accom- by Roberta Perkins. A wind ensemble composed of Dewey playing the flute, Duckworth playing the Racheel Crotwell playing and Elizabeth Harper the bassoon will present " by Tuthill. Beauty" by J Ord will be presented by a brass featuring Betty Jean Al- first cornet, Mercedes Futch, cornet, Annette Vitsky, horn, and Frances Clop- trombone. The Stardusters band will be featured on program also.

ing to Mr Sellers, Miss Cooper, instructor in in- and public school mus- assistant band director, a of this college, will con- the band when it plays Patrol", "Carribbean , and "Chinese Temple". interesting to know that Cooper was the first presi- of the band when she was a here", said Mr Sellers.

Mr Sellers, "The band will lection of officers the last in April. Also, it is possible we may give a concert in this Spring, and we are to get the Gainesville band present a concert here at State College."

THE FLAMBEAU AD- ISEMENTS.

RONIZE OUR ADVER-

College Hangout Is Newly Renovated

In place of the old familiar Spic which was long a college hangout, Mr Terry Gilchrist, who is connected with the State Road Department, and Mr J G Blount, part owner of the Sweet Shop, have opened the new Mecca, which was named in a campus contest earlier this year.

The Mecca has quite a history. The owners worked on it themselves at night in order to have the building ready to open Friday morning at 6:30. They have remodeled the building both inside and out and have installed new equipment throughout their establishment. The interior has been painted cream with light green trim and new display shelves have been built in. There is a two way magazine rack, and up-to-date soda fountain, new fluorescent lights and new oil ranges. Mr Gilchrist and Mr Blount hope soon to install a fan large enough to cool the entire building.

The Mecca is open every day from 6:30 a m until 11 p m. At present it has only a small staff but the owners expect to increase the number of employees within the week. The seating capacity is 80 and will seat 96 when the screen porch is ready for use and new tables are added.

FSC Is Represented At St Louis Meet

Sixteen members of the FSC physical education department are attending the national convention of the American Association for Health, Physical Education and Recreation this week in St Louis.

Faculty representatives are Dr Katherine Montgomery, Miss Grace Fox, Miss Matilda Willebrand, Miss Calliope Papatsos, Miss Henrietta Greenberg, and Miss Margaret Stanion. Babe Evans, Frankie Hall, and Dot Tucker are the senior physical education majors attending, while Nancy MacEdwards, Clarie Trueblood, Nancy Ward, Gloria McVey, Margery Holms, and Mary Nell Goldman represent the junior physical education majors. One sophomore, Anna Horne, and an alumna, Martha Twitty, are also attending.

They will return late Sunday night and will resume classes on Monday morning.

Folk Dancing Class Plans Faculty Party

Miss Grace Fox, physical education teacher, announces that the folk dancing classes are planning a folk and square dance party in the near future. There have been several of these parties in the past to which other students were invited. This time the girls will give the faculty a chance to show their folk dancing skill.

Folk dances originated in various superstitions, religious beliefs, and customs of certain periods. Dances of certain countries show certain characteristics. Eventually even our modern jitterbug steps may be considered folk dances.

Miss Fox uses visual aids in her classes to make the subjects more interesting and more easily understood. Bulletin boards are kept up to date in the Physical Education building and new films are shown as soon as they can be obtained.

Stambaugh Manages Intramural Sports

Ann Stambaugh, recently replacing Theresa Munroe, senior intramurals manager who is interning this quarter, is present manager of all intramural sports for spring quarter. Last quarter in the soft ball finals, the Pi Beta Phi team defeated the Chi Omega team. This quarter's intramural sports will consist of shuffleboard, ping-pong, tennis, and possibly swimming.

Ping-pong will begin Monday and will continue throughout the week. There are no requirements for practice points in this tournament, but girls who wish to play must contact Ann in 224 Broward before Sunday. Since schedules have to be compiled no applications will be taken after that date.

The games will be played in the recreation room of the Longmire building and in the gymnasium.

Minnows Selected

Nine girls were tapped for minnows in Tarpon Club last Friday night. The new taps are: Ellen Koenitzer, Dorothy Martin, Charlotte Bouland, Sarah Ellen Glenn, Polly Chazel, Mae Manning, Faith Adams, Joan Boucher, and Marilyn Watson.

B J Singleton, Tarpon president, stated that the new Tarpon pins had been ordered and would be here at least by the end of the quarter.

These new minnows were selected from a number of girls who have been practicing for the final tryouts for several weeks.

Whitaker Contests

Jo Anne Whitaker, recent winner of the championship flight and driving contest, left Friday to participate in the Women's State Golf Tournament in Miami. Accompanying her is Mrs Sally Gallatin, nurse's assistant.

On their return to Tallahassee, April 15, Jo Anne and Mrs Gallatin are planning to play as partners representing Florida State College in other contests.

Florida Photographs Are Gift to Library

Photographs of Florida taken during the period between 1882 and 1886 have just been presented to the Florida State College, announced Miss Louise Richardson, librarian. The pictures were given to the college library by Mr and Mrs Earl S Morrow of Balboa, California. The photographs themselves were taken by Mr Stanley J Morrow, Mr Morrow's father, when he was official photographer for the South Florida Railroad.

The pictures now in the FSC library are only the first to arrive, and will not be put on display until the others come. Many of the scenes cannot be identified because the photographer failed to leave any record of their location. It is hoped, however, that the negatives now being sent from California will aid in their identification.

The pictures show the startling changes that have taken place in the leading cities of Florida during the past forty years. Jacksonville's main street was then merely a dirt road lined with false-front wooden buildings, while Silver Springs was scarcely recognizable. The photographs are mainly of Jacksonville, St Augustine, Orlando, Kissimmee, and Sanford.

Issue Postponed

The date on which Florida State College students will publish the Sunday Democrat has been postponed from April 14 to a later date, as yet undetermined, according to Mr E L Vance, associate professor of journalism.

Each year members of the college journalism department, supervised by Mr Vance, are responsible for a Sunday edition of the Democrat. At that time students take over all activities of editing and publishing the paper.

Performers in Prize-Winning Skit Will Win Huge Cake Tomorrow at Playnight

Grand prize at Skit Night tomorrow will be a huge cake, according to Shirley Duggan, chairman of the Playnight Committee. The skits will be judged by Miss Ruth A Pyche, instructor of psychology, Dr Claude R Flory, professor of English, and Mr W L Dingwell, assistant professor of speech on the basis of originality and cleverness of presentation. Runner-up in the contest will receive honorable mention.

Organizations which have stated that they wish to enter the contest are Senior Hall, Sophomore Council, Spirogira, Esteren, Cotillion, PEA, and two sororities, Alpha Xi Delta and Chi Omega. Other organizations are allowed to participate if they have already planned their skits and may do so by submitting their names to Shirley Duggan.

"The purpose of Skit Night is to acquaint students, particularly freshmen, with the organizations on campus and their members," said Shirley.

Statement of Dean

Dr Olivia N Dorman, dean of students, makes the following statement to the Student Senate:

Throughout my tenure of office as dean of students it has been my continuous effort, and that of the Faculty Committee on Student Affairs, to assist students in developing their various phases of government. I hold the same point of view in the present situation, believing that by such participation in government students develop clearer thinking, more judicial point of view, and more self-development. As rapidly as students can and will take on the responsibilities of government conferred upon them by the administration it will be my purpose and that of the rest of the administration to give them a larger share in this work. The issue before us now seems to indicate that the student body as a whole has come to recognize a deficiency in its own mechanics of government and to be ready to set up the necessary agencies for this phase of government and to assume the responsibilities which go with the additional powers. It will be my pleasure and that of the Faculty Committee on Student Affairs to assist student senate and the student body to work out and establish an adequate plan for handling these duties and responsibilities.

1. It has been my opinion over a long period of time that a student committee designated as the committee on nominations and elections, or the committee on qualifications of candidates and nominations, or some similar title, should be set up as the official body to collect information on the eligibility of students who propose themselves as candidates for a given office; furthermore, that this committee should have the authority to pass on the eligibility of proposed candidates on the basis of the information gathered and to give the student body the information at their disposal.

This point of view has been discussed with the chairman of the nominating committees of past years and of the present year but no steps have hitherto been taken to set up such a clearing house with power to act.

2. The student body, neither through its senate nor any other student organization, has authority to define the responsibilities and duties of an administrative officer. This authority rests only in the president and the Board of Control. Therefore, student action on constitutional changes can affect only their own organs of government, which they can amplify and expand or otherwise empower in accordance with constitutional changes.

The administrative officers are held responsible for the conduct and welfare of government. There is no way for them to surrender or to avoid this responsibility. They may pass on to the student body responsibility which in their opinion the students can fulfill acceptably. In other words, these are conferred powers and responsibilities. They do not reside in the student body of itself but derive entirely from the administration and through them from the Board of Control. So long as the students carry their responsibilities acceptably the administration is relieved of the necessity of doing so. It is the wish of administrative officers, especially of the Dean of Students and the Faculty Committee on Student Affairs, who are charged with the responsibility for administering student affairs, that the students develop mediums of government that will function adequately. Such development will relieve the administrative officers of necessity for handling details, but they cannot be relieved of the responsibility for seeing that these functions are carried out.

3. Therefore, in the light of the above statements, it seems obvious that by setting up adequate student channels for bringing about proper investigation of candidates' qualifications, the Student senate and student body will reduce the responsibilities of the office of the Dean of Students on this point or will relieve it altogether. If a student committee does its work thoroughly there would be no need for any further actoin by administrative officer or officers. If, however, such a student group fails to do its work thoroughly, the responsibility develops upon the Dean of Students to see that the government is carried on effectively.

I therefore recommend that the student body set about establishing its own committee and defining its authority and jurisdiction.

Civil Service to Hold Application Exams

The Jacksonville Civil Service Board will give examinations to determine the eligibility of applicants for junior laboratory technician positions, according to Dr Elizabeth G Andrews, director of personnel. Dr Andrewe is requesting students who desire positions as junior laboratory technicians to apply at the personnel office immediately.

The test will be held in the offices of the Civil Service Board and also in any city, county or state civil service office in other localities out of the state or within the state, more convenient to applicants, providing proper arrangements can be made. The class specifications and minimum requirements are that applicants shall possess a BS or AB degree which includes one year of general bacteriology and at least one year of inorganic and organic chemistry. No practical experience is required. All applications must be on file in the office of the City Civil Service Board, Utilities building, in Jacksonville not later than April 23. Examinations will be given April 30.

117½ SOUTH MONROE STREET
SLADE'S STUDIO
PHONE 1380
TALLAHASSEE FLORIDA

Judges Chosen for Contest Committees

Guest Members Will Render Decisions on All Entries

Judges in the various fields of the Creative Arts Contest sponsored by the American Association of University Women have been announced by Mrs Cynthia Reeves Snow, chairman of the contest committee.

They are as follows: Art, Mrs Beatrice Williams and Miss Helen Haughton, both of Florida State College art department; Mr Jerry Bosch, instructor in ceramic and modeling at Georgia Wesleyan in Macon and Mr Van Ferguson, local artist of prominence. Drama, Mr W L Dingwell, Miss Mary Tom Colones, Miss Mary Mooty and Miss Emily Crow, all of FSC.

The Music Committee composed of Professor W R Cowles, Miss Mary Winslow and Miss Gladys Koch of the School of Music faculty announced the judges in that division to be Dean Karl O Kuersteiner for instrumental music and Mr Walter James for vocal music.

Judges in the Writing Division are: Article, Mrs Margaret Blair, chairman, Dr Dorothy Hoffman and Mr J A Preu; Essay, Miss Caroline Pace, chairman, Mrs Lou E Miller and Dr Raymond Bellamy; Poetry, Miss Mildred Henry, chairman, Dr Sarah Herndon and Dr Anna Liddell; Short Story, Mrs Mary B Alfriend, chairman, Dean Guy L Diffenbaugh and Dean Emeritus William George Dodd.

Miss Louise Gehan, chairman of the Dance Division, said the judges in this field will be announced next week.

READ THE ADS TO FIND WHAT YOU WANT.

Canfield Will Head Modern Languages

Assuming the position of head of the modern language department the beginning of June will be Dr Delos Lincoln Canfield, national past-president of the French and Portuguese Teacher's association and professor of Spanish at the University of Rochester in Rochester, N Y, stated Miss Lucy Lester, acting head of the department.

Dr Canfield, who is listed in the Directory of American Scholars, specializes in Spanish philology as well as Spanish pronunciation and literature.

During the war, he represented the United States government in Mexico supervising an exchange of Mexican and American college students and scholars. A native of Cleveland, Dr Canfield had studied at the University of Texas and at Colombia university.

Among his other duties as head of the department, he will direct the new student Spanish house which is to be opened this summer for the purpose of putting Spanish to a practical use.

Dr Andrews Speaks To Senior Class

Dr Elizabeth Andrews, director of personnel, spoke at the senior class meeting on Personnel Procedure, last Monday evening

At this meeting the seniors set April 23, as the date for the annual tree planting, but there were no plans made as to the procedure that is to be used in planting the trees. The seniors also chose the candidates for May Queen and May Court.

Also at this meeting an announcement was made that those students who are graduating in June should get their graduation invitations at the college bookstore on April 18.

Cotillion Teaches

Cotillion is holding dancing classes every Thursday night at 7:30 in Reynolds' recreation hall.

The group's latest activities include presenting a skit at Skit Night and having a member present every night in the recreation room of the Longmire building from 7:30 to first light flash. The members on duty in the recreation room urge that the students call on them for suggestions or for general instruction.

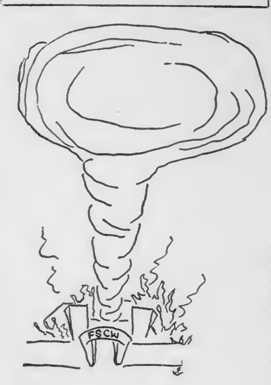
THE WORLD'S MOST HONORED WATCH
Longines
WINNER OF 10 World's Fair Grand Prizes, 28 Gold Medals and more honors for accuracy than any other timepiece.

THE MOST HONORED WATCH ON THE CAMPUS

she knows the inside story!
Miss Nancy Lee Will Be at Sears Today and Tomorrow
Bring your figure problems to Miss Lee, Sears nationally famous corsetiere who will be in our store from April 11 to April 13.
Let her help you with your "careful figuring" to be sure your fit and price are along the same ultra smooth lines.
SEARS ROEBUCK AND CO
PHONE 2400
TALLAHASSEE
Consult Sears Graduate Corsetiere Any Time

SEARS ROEBUCK AND CO.
College Lassies Go for Charmode
Girdles in Color
ANGEL WHITE
SIREN BLACK
CUPID PINK
SISSY BLUE
(A) All-Satin Lastex Girdle
Girdles get glamour 'cause we made 'em in colors. Strictly lush shades of white, black, pink and blue. You'll love the look of these satin lastex jobs... and their way of putting you in fine shape. $4.98
(B) All-Satin Lastex Brief
Even our pantie briefs received a fascinating dose of color. Choose white, black, pink or blue to match your shorts, bathing suits, slacks and dresses. Gleaming satin lastex controls curves beautifully. $4.98
All in Small, Medium and Large Sizes
Our graduate corsetieres are trained to expertly assist you with your personal fitting problems.
"Satisfaction guaranteed or your money back" SEARS
PHONE 2409
TALLAHASSEE

SPIRIT OF THE WEEK



THE NEW AGE

● THE CASE AGAINST VOTING

An ideal is at stake on this campus. It is the American ideal that comes to us as part of our national heritage; it is the ideal that a just government can only come from the consent of the governed. We, of the student body, who hy the actions of our senate in passing the recommendation that the control of our elections be taken from the hands of the dean's office and be placed in our own hands, have done nothing more than ask for one of the inalienable rights that our forefathers demanded and received.

In a larger sense the right that we are asking for does not pertain to campus matters alone; it pertains to our development into dependable citizens who are mature enough and capable enough to assume the responsibilities that will be ours in such a short time. We are not asking for a radical change that will harm either the students, the faculty, or the school. We simply feel that the right we are seeking belongs to us as one of the fundamental rights of a citizen of this college, or of any other community.

To vote, or, not to vote is currently heard in every campus discussion. Those who believe that we should vote in this coming election, whether it is controlled or not, support their belief by saying that in showing a record vote we will prove our interest in our government. Those of us who believe that we should not vote support our stand on the grounds that we believe in the democratic principle, that our vote is worthless if it is cast in a controlled election where our candidates have been approved hy a higher authority. We believe it is fundamentally wrong to participate in actions that do not conform with the principles in which we believe.

If we are forced to defend our convictions and our rights, civil disobedience is better than pickets and strikes. Our colleagues in other schools have sometimes found it necessary to resort to such rioting in order to gain the liberties they felt were denied them. We do not wish to commit any actions that will discredit our college in the eyes of the general public, but we do want to live up to the principles in which we believe.

Those of us who believe so firmly in democracy that we are willing to carry on the fight against discriminations, big and little, will avoid the polls in this coming election. We will wait until we are assured our votes will be valid and will truly mean that we have a definite voice in our government. Meantime we will continue to carry on our fight for more just and more perfect government!

—B J McLEOD

● REBUTTAL

(Editor's Notes We express our thanks to Miss Shirley Duggan for finding the definite statement of a quorum in the handbook.)

Regarding the statement made in senate that there is nothing set forth in our constitution to declare that we must have a majority of the students voting to make an election legal, may we refer Miss Allison to article III of our CGA Constitution and Robert's Rules of Order.

Section 1 of the handbook states, "All students of Florida State College for Women, hy virtue of their registration in the College, shall be members of the College Government Association . . ."

Section 4 of the same article reads, "The Association shall meet at least once a month. The first meeting shall be held within one month after the opening of the College. A special meeting of the association may be called at any time at the discretion of the president, or shall be called upon the written request of ten per cent of the members. A majority of the members of the Association shall constitute a quorum.

Our primaries are held in convocation where over half of the student body does constitute a quorum. If there is not a majority vote in convocation for the primaries, there can be no legal election in the finals.

It has also been brought to our attention that Robert's Rules of Order, the parliamentary procedure authority followed by our senate, that if this authority is followed, and that if the constitution of an organization sets up no definite quorum or statement of the percentage of voters necessary to make an election legal, a majority of the members of the association must vote to make any election legal.

If the handbook is still in effect, and if Robert's Rules of Order are still to be depended upon, we are sorry Miss Allison. Ten people cannot constitute a legal election.

● CONSTITUTIONAL PROPHESY

With all due apologies to Joyce Kilmer, a student's lament these days might read as follows:

I think that I shall never see
A government truly representing me,
A government that is entirely free
Of any control by the faculty,
A government that has no ties
And so can heed the students' cries;
This I wish that I could see,
And so my plea to the powers that be.

It has become evident from the present situation on campus and from the varied interpretations placed upon our constitution that it, our constitution, no longer suffices as the governing principle of our student organization. As can be noted in the history of the Constitution of the United States, when the advancement of man's material culture became such that it outstripped his non-material culture, changes were made in those governing principles which might have caused a cultural lag. Thus the 21 amendments! Such could be the case on this campus if our constitution was not already so full of ambiguities that it is not humanly possible to mend it—another one must be written!

A changing government is a living government; there can be no progress in a static society. As Dr Campbell outlined in his recent report on the affairs of the college, great changes are ahead for this institution and it is only fitting that the changes be not solely of a physical nature but also governmental.

The amendment which is now before College Council is one step on the way toward a more representative student government, but it is not enough. The aforementioned ambiguities make it impossible for a uniform interpretation to be made of the constitution. In order to prevent further difficulties similar to the one in which we are now immeshed, a clear-cut, simple, lasting constitution agreed upon by both the administration and the students and similarly interpretated by each body can be the only alternative . . . perhaps not the only alternative, but the only favorable one.

Our constitution has become antiquated! It no longer suits the time nor the place. Here is our opportunity, or should I say the opportunity of our Student Senate, to draw up a new constitution, one that will better suit the purposes of the students and one that will afford the students the power of governing themselves. We realize that mistakes will be made, but it has been proved that people profit from their mistakes. Why should we be denied this profit?

—SHIRLEY RODGERS

● YOU, TOO, CAN PETITION

A student Senate meeting was called for last Monday night hy its presiding officer, the first vice-president of CGA, upon the insistence of a group of students here on campus. It is not meant to be implied, however, that by any pressure (a well-known word these days) from the aforementioned group did this special call meeting come about.

What is to be stressed, though, is the fact that no where in the CGA Constitution and by-laws is there to be found even one small section which gives the student body in itself the right to demand such a meeting should the students deem it necessary.

We have been given the right through this document to initiate proceedings for such an important thing as impeachment of our officers of CGA. Any officer in this association is subject to trial upon presentation of a petition of 25 members of the student body to student senate which must consider said petition within 48 hours after receipt. Furthermore, should the senate reject the request, the students have a right to make such a trial mandatory by securing one hundred signatures condoning such a trial.

Under Article III, Section 4, of the Constitution it is stated, "A special meeting of the Association may be called at any time upon the discretion of the president, or shall be called upon the written request of ten per cent of the members."

It would appear that since such powers are delegated to the students; that since they have the authority vested in them as full members of the College Government Association to demand trial of an officer of that association or to demand that a special convocation be called, they should most certainly have the right to petition for a student senate meeting. It should not be necessary for any person or for any group of people to literally sit outside the door of the room in which the "vested powers" of the student officers decide whether they think the issue important enough over which to call a meeting. There is no reason to assume or to take for granted that such decisions should rest in the hands of so few members of the CGA. There is no way humanly possible for them to constitute a majority in determining whether or not it is "important" enough in the students' minds to do so.

As the Constitution now stands it can be seen that no provision for any such legal expression by the students has been made.

It is readily admitted that in a particular request made recently for a special call meeting of senate the request was granted. Fine and good! But, if, say 50 students felt it to their common interest and welfare that a Senate be convened on an issue which they believed to warrant such a meeting, then it should certainly be provided for. AND, no such informal provision as prevails now should be allowed to be the answer. It should be provided for in the CGA Constitution as is the case of procedure for impeachment or for a called convocation—by petition of a specific number of students. The presence of many rules and the lack of so many right in the Constitution have been brought to light in the past few weeks. This particular one may seem of little importance. It ISN'T. Try calling a Senate meeting sometime on your own when the student officers are not in compliance!

—By BEE DOWD

● NOW–OR WHEN? NEVER?

(Editor's Notes This guest editorial was submitted to us by Mary Jo Whidden.)

"There is no force in the world so great as that of an idea when its hour has struck."—Victor Hugo.

Fellow students, in the name of all that's just and right, our hour has come! It is our DUTY to ourselves and to all future prospective students of FSC to carry this thing through until we gain what all progressive peoples of the world want——freedom to govern themselves in the manner in which they desire. To be practical and say that we will get it eventually anyway (eventually may mean years from now), and why beat our heads against a legal stone wall now is to fall into a dangerous lethargy of mind and action. To be forever a pacifier is to defy progress.

If we students want Student Government insofar as a state controlled institution can have it, and feel that we are capable of carrying its responsibilities out in a manner which will reflect credit, or by putting into office those who can, then we must fight. We must fight determinedly, persistently, with reason and logic, hut not, let us hope, everlastingly and hopelessly. We must prove our rights for Student Government, for only that which we have to fight for is worth getting. In the present crisis I believe we have gone a long way in proving ourselves.

This has been a crisis for our college, and it is not yet over. Ever since this institution was chartered, organized, and our CGA constitution set up the students have quietly and slowly struggled for and gotten piecemeal, details which have amounted to a little more freedom in which initiative can operate. But that has happened too slowly for youth's progress. We have been held dependent too long. Students are much more mature today than they were ten, twenty years ago at the same age, and to determine just how much more so, we must be tested and proven. This crisis is not just a result of the issue at hand hut it is a cumulation of many, many factors and happenings of past years. Our hour has indeed arrived!

All revolutions, however small, however universal, could not be accomplished without emotional fervor to give impetus and force to the ideas and ideals of the group. Therefore let us not be afraid of the emotional drive of our revolution, if such it may be called, but temper it with reason—make it WORK to help us attain our ultimate aim. This is not the time for practicallity but for reasoning; we must think things through and arrive at decisions which will not unnecessarily compromise ourselves and our CGA offices which has been the case in the past .Also we must put ourselves into a position where never again will a student or a group of students of this campus be unduly, unfairly accused or prevented from making any puhlic defense of herself or themselves at the time the accusation is made.

Many of the world's revolutions have sprung from an inherent hatred of injustice and ours may be so exemplified. Some are of the opinion that for all causes someone or something must of necessity be sacrificed. But is this true? Because it may have been true in the past, does that justify that sort of reasoning now? Why assume premises on such a poor basis? Why must there be a hurnt offering to the powers-that-be in this matter? I ask you, although it may be technically legal, is it just? Are there not higher laws than written laws, namely, the law of justice?

Inside Red Brick Walls

"All the world's a stage, and all the men and women merely puppets." Even puppets have their moments of self-expression but most of the time they are controlled by the strings which are attached to everything they do. !!

You'll have to pardon Ivy's presumptiousness in trying to improve on one of Shakespeare's best. It was just a whim, and she couldn't resist it.

Of course everyone is familiar with Patrick Henry's famous—Give me Liberty or give me Death! Well take heart! At least we're assured of getting one of those eventually.

But now, to turn to lighter things, have you heard the story about the rabbits? It was told to us by a girl whom we'll call Betty. (Mainly because that is not her name.) It seems that Betty kept a little rabbit in her room. That is, she kept a rabbit until the word got out one day and three weeks later came to the attention of house council (get it—?—three weeks later). Now this was really an unusual problem and house council just pondered and pondered. Finally they attempted logic, and asked Betty this question—Now what would we do if the 365 girls in this dormitory each had a rabbit?

Ivy admits that this would create no small problem, for you know how it is—rabbits will be rabbits.

Ahhhhhhh — don't crush that blade of grass! Walk around those tempting paths! But what's wrong with paths? Ivy thinks they give our lovely campus a more, er, well, a more campused look! See what I mean?

We have a letter here from a girl who signs herself "Curious." "Curious" submitted an application to become a junior counsellor only to have it rejected. Now this seems very strange as she has served as a house prasident, a house vice president, president of house council, a member of lower court, and has always maintained a high average in her grades. And so, since she, to her knowledge, is on no one's moral blacklist, she was just wondering why?

Ivy will attempt to answer this with a quotation. "It's not what you know, it's who you know!"

The thought just came to Ivy that today (except for a few things we won't go into) is really a beautiful day. The sun is shining, little birds are singing, and little bees are busy sniffing little flowers. And so, why should Ivy spend a day such as this breaking her back over an undeserving typewriter?

And thus she leaves you with her thought for the day.

"After all is said and done
We're right back where we begun
There is really only one.
Quick Henry, the gun!"

Freshmen, Sophmores Stomp

Last Saturday night, freshmen and sophomores held a stomp in the gymnasium in mock competition with the Junior-Senior Prom. Stomp court members were Sis Miller, Lucille Ossenkop, Elaine Brown, and Sara Lou Wells, freshmen; and Joyce Cayce, Rose Marie Ferro, and Catherine Sullivan, sophomores. Freshmen and sophomores danced to music provided by a juke box. Shirley Duggan, chairman of the Play-night Committee, was in charge of the stomp.

MAGAZINE JOTTINGS

In the light of recent events, it is perhaps well to re-review Sinclair Lewis's It Can't Happen Here. In 1935, when the book was published, it created quite a stir among political, religious, and literary groups. Reviewers called it a sensational scare story, a fantastic melodrama. Few people were keensighted enough to sense its intrinsic value, to understand the effect it could produce on ignorance and complacency.

Perhaps too many people really understood this, however. A large group who knew that the book was dangerous to them and their activities succeeded in halting a movie version of it after the film company had spent $200,000 in production. They knew that thousands of people go to the theater who never read a book. They did not—do not—want the American public to be forewarned.

Mr Lewis pictured so vividly and so logically the method by which the fascist element could take over the United States that no thinking person can dismiss this book as a "scare story." Huey Long, who was living when the book was written, could easily be the dictator, "Buzz" Windrip. Father Coughlin would have no difficulty playing the role of the faithful divine who led "Buzz" to victory through his bought-time radio programs. John L Lewis and Petdillo would fit in, too, as lesser, but just as evil powers.

No, it is not a scare story. Doremus Jessup, the editor of a small town Vermont newspaper, is very real. He is someone you know. He is a thinker and a patriot, but he is not infallible He only halfheartedly opposes the new regime until he sees his son-in-law shot down. It is only then that he begins to actively work in the Vermont underground.

This book has been called many an "Ode to Liberty" least it shows that Sinclair L hates all enemies of liberty wh er Left or Right. It may be prising to some to find that author of Babbit and Elmer G try is such a devotee of Ame

It Can't Happen Here is same type book as, though better than, Floyd Gibbon's Red Napoleon. It does not, h ever, contain the intensity of ing for individuals bucking a tional crisis that is found in President Vanishes by Rex St

Contrary to some opinions Lewis's story, for the most could happen. It seems highly probable that pre-war Germ and future America would b nearly alike. It also seems probable that the majority of citizens of the United States w fall for so obvious a scheme as promising of $5,000 to every son if a certain man is ele president. But these are mi items. Mr Lewis did not inten give a detailed account of will happen here but merely overall picture of what could pen here.

Perhaps by the title of his the author showed that he k the sort of recognition it w get. Even that didn't stop him published his book and went to help produce it in play form had a message to give the pe and his only desire was that get the full impact of that sage. One night after the first formance of his play in a M hattan theater, he came to stage on repeated cries of the dience that he make a speech. pulled out his watch, looked and said, "I've been making speech since seven minutes nine," and disappeared into wings.

Quotable Quotes . . .

Shirley Duggan: "Miss Barrs, I shall never vote again until elections are free."

Ann Carolyn Allison: "If 10 people vote it's an election."

Audrey Perry: "Because I am a representative and some people have asked me to say this, I am offering the suggestion that we postpone elections until we find out about the amendment."

Winifred Meldrim: "I would like to remind you that there is a higher law than the written law."

Catherine Barrs: "If we're not going to vote, let's tell them we're not going to vote."

Betty Schartz: "This I flatly deny."

Lucy Feiden: "I may be stupid Miss Barrs, but that sounds like pressure to me."

Barbara Irving: "That's just a riot . . . Anybody who knows me knows that one of the many things on which I cannot be influenced is House Council."

Dr Henry Noble McCracken, President of Vassar College, in an article entitled "Women's Colleges Look Ahead," The Christian Science Monitor Magazine Section, April 6, 1946: "A certain old-maidishness in social standards, a cloistered celibacy, and a fear of possible unfavorable comment are no longer found. From all this development a serious and thoughtful maturity has come to be the real atmosphere of the college for women. . . With growth in maturity and intellectual advancement, the development of democracy in college government has been made possible. Students have been entrusted with full charge of their college life. At Vassar their financial budgets run close to $100,000 annually, managed entirely by students. The Students' Building is theirs, deed of gift. They make the cial rules and enforce discipl They share in the developmen the curriculum, friends and leagues of their instructors."

Day Students Nam
Outstanding G

Day students cast their v last week for their choice of standing freshman day stud This election is a climax to re day student activities which clude the pin-up boy contest.

Eligibility for the award determined on the basis of studens's number of act points. The winning freshma presented a loving cup with name inscribed, which she k for the coming year.

Those who were nominated the honor were Jean Dance, M ian Hazel Johnson, and Eliza Green. The name of the winn candidate will be announced the annual day students' pa Plans for the party are b made, but the date has not been decided on. Nancy Koell and Alice Gehan are in charg plans.

Editor	B J Mc
Associate Editor	Betty D
Columnists	Marjorie C Kay Van D
Sports Editor	Evelyn
News Editor	Joyce
Managing Editor	Jackie Ne
Feature Editor	Laura Lee B
Society Editor	Alicia Arms
Copy Editor	Barbara F
Assistant News Editor	Jean Do
Art Editor	Lucy F

The Florida Flambeau

1945-1946 STAFF
EDITORIAL STAFF

JANET ROGERS	Ed
ANNE GAITHER PEGGY KAY	Associate Ed
LOIS BYRD, JUDY PEPPER	Assistant Ed
SHIRLEY RODGERS	Managing E
MAY ALEXANDER, PEGGY LU THOMSON	News Ed
Copy Editor	Lois
Society Editor	Madge P
Feature Editor	Betty Jo McL
Assistant Managing Editor	Bobbie
Columnist	Anne R
Assistant Society Editor	Madge P
Sports Editor	Betty D
Assistant Sports Editor	Evelyn
Outside News Editor	Gloria
Literary Editor	Catherine Nal
Opinion Editors	Jerry Crume, Barbara Wirk
Picture Editor	Dee Gar
Art Editor	Lucy F
Assistant Art Editor	Jean St

REPORTERS: Alicia Armstrong, Alvera Ashe, Jocelyn Ayers, Eleanor Bayer, bara Beckman, Jean Bess, Paulette Black, Virginia Budd, Laura Lee B Jean Douglas, Martha Jo Dunagan, Barbara Farrar, Dorothy Fouts, June G staff, Winifred Lane Barbara Lamford, Jo Mingola, Jacqueline Nevers, Perry, Joyce Petty, Ferne Quinn, Mary Jane Sherman, Evelyn Shea, Fr Traxler, Kay Van Deurs.

BUSINESS STAFF

Helen Tarapani	Business Man
Sally Watson	Assistant Business Man
Kitty Chaires	Advertising Man
Dorothy Bloodworth, Vivian Schaeffer, Faith Adams	Advertising

Entered as second class mail matter, January 30, 1915, at the post at Tallahassee, Fla., under the act of Congress of March 3, 1879.

Member
Intercollegiate Press

It is the policy of the Flambeau to grant equal space and prominence to anyone wishing to present a contrary opinion whenever opinions controversial questions are voiced in its columns.

Sorority Chit-Chat

parations for the annual llenic sing, April 27, is the ty keynote this week. Each ty is to prepare and sing an al song, and the judges are hoose the best fast piece and st slow piece.

Alpha Chi Omega's spent ay at Camp. Nicky Sartoris n charge of the arrange- Those who went on the ng were Margaret Johnson, e Sims, Polly Blank, Vir- Grogan, Ruth Halladay, and Arnold.

The Alpha Gams sampled their outdoor grill presented to by Mr and Mrs J T Budd Friday night with a barbecue hich Mr and Mrs Budd were red guests. Clara Jane Car- was in charge of the func- The Alpha Gams are also ng gala plans for their for- week-end this week. There be a barbecue Friday night all members and their dates ng for the week-end. Satur- afternoon there will be a tea and Saturday night the al dance. Also on the agenda picnic at Wakulla and a hay-rush party brought much fun Alpha Xi Delta house last day. The program, arranged Maude Anne Mims was a Pass- Parade. Those girls taking were Mary Cooper Mims, Courtney, Sally Joyce, Emily ns, Verna Rogers, Charlotte man and Maude Anne s.

• • •

nesday night the Alpha Xi's at their rush party the rose mony. The program was pre- by Mervin Thomas.

ter dinner coffee was given Chi Omega house for the ty house mothers, presidents their faculty advisors on nesday 10 at seven-thirty. Lake was in charge with Jo Wrench, Patty Lou Hill, Martha Hanley assisting.

Tri-Delts traveling secre- Patricia Kienker was here week and the sorority gave offee Wednesday for her. nday night they also had informal party for Pat Allen rder to celebrate her return the infirmary.

• • •

D Phi E's enjoyed an in- al rush party last Saturday rnoon. Annette Vitsky and Atlas made arrangements the program at which Ruth Spiwak and Mickey Portnoy entertained the group with music.

The A D Pi's also had a visitor this week, Katherine Bolling, president of the Tampa alumnae of A D Pi. Miss Bolling, a graduate of the University of North Carolina, spent Tuesday and Wednesday with them. The A D Pi's are also planning an informal rush party Sunday night. The arrangements will be made by Frances Wesson.

• • •

Sunday night the Kappa Alpha Theta's will entertain active pledges and guests at a supper.

The theme of the rush party given by the Zeta Tau Alpha's Monday night was that of a kid party. Kid clothes were worn and kid games played. During intermission of the Junior-Senior prom Saturday night, a coffee was held at the Zeta Tau Alpha house.

The Pi Beta Phi providence president, Mrs John Tyler, visited the Beta chapter here earlier this week. Chapter members entertained her on different occasions and she was present at their weekly chapter meeting, Tuesday night.

• • •

Saturday night a coffee will be held at the Phi Mu house for alumnae who were former members of Phi Ms, and their mothers.

Members of the Sigma Kappa chapter hed a picnic at Wakulla Springs, Sunday.

Alice Comstock, amateur of the Sigma Kappa chapter here, was married to Lt Edwin Parker Gourley, at St John's Episcopal church, Saturday. After a reception was held at the chapter house.

• • •

The annual installation of officers of the Delta Zeta sorority was held April f Grace DeWolf was elected president; Dot Vincent, vice-president; Louise Wilson, recording secretary; Ruth Wilkie, correspondng secretary; Betty Jean Phillips, treasurer; and Anne Singleton, historian.

A "Hat Party" was held for rushees last week. Hats were used for favors and decorations, and refreshments were sandwiches in the shape of top hats.

Mrs DeWolf and Mrs Blackwelder were guests of the Delta Zeta chapter here, while they attended the conference for the Women's Society of Christian Service.

The Delta Zeta's will entertain rushees at an informal party next Wednesday afternoon.

arry Brubaker Is New FSC Geography Teacher From Syracuse University in N Y

ne does not need to be a sayer to predict that in the future Florida State College ery likely to undergo a period unprecendented enthusiasm for heretofore somewhat neglected y of geography. Those who the probability of such a ment need only to journey to History building for a visit to of the geography or social es classes taught by Harry baker new instructor in the raphy department. Despite fact that his name is Swiss, handsome and witty Mr baker is primarily of French ent and comes from Johns- Pennsylvania, the city made us by the number of floods have occurred there.

e new instructor was employ- Washington, D C, by the Of- of Strategic Services, an in- ence agency, for two years during the war. While with that agency he aided in geographical research about vital war areas for the information of the Army and Navy.

When asked about bobbies, Mr Brubacker replied that he had only three—his three children, Jean Sue, seven, who is attending the Demonstration school, five-year-old Jerry, the man of the Brubacker household, and "Cookie", the charming three-year-old "spitfire" of the family. However he manifested a keen interest in competitive sports and related enthusiastically accounts of his days as principal of an Ehrenfield, Pennsylvania school and as a geography teacher in Brooksville, Pennsylvania, when he coached football, track, basketball, and swimming teams. He is also a confirmed traveler, having visited most parts of the United States as well as Mexico and Canada.

While attending Indiana Teacher's College, Mr Brubacker was extremely interested in college government. When interviewed he expressed a desire to know more about the local College Government association and stated that he favored as much student participation in such activities as was practicable.

After receiving his Master's degree from the University of Chicago in 1941 Mr Brubacker was employed as a geography teacher at Syracuse University in New York for two years.

yan Formal Will eature a Variety Program Tomorrow

yan parlor will be filled with y and dancing tomorrow as Bryan holds their an- formal from 8 p m until 12 with the Stardusters orches- supplying music. A short song dance program about 10 ck will be the highlight of dance ans for the gala affair, cen- around an Easter theme, been arranged by all the s who will attend the dance, each one has taken part on a mittee The following girls chairmen of the respective mittees: Margaret Graydon, gram: Katherine Verser and herine Gallagher, refresh- nts. Bobbye Bradley, finance; bara Brown and Art Skevakis, tation, Frances Smithers and Johnson, flowers; Betty Jean en, music; Joan Longdon, an-up Margaret Blocker, host- Margery King, decorations; Phyllis DeKaulb, organiza-

wo hundred people are expect- to attend. Among these are following guests: President Mrs Doak S Campbell, Miss th McCollum, director of resi- ce, Miss Olivia N Dorman, of students; Miss Katherine rren, assistant dean of stu- ts; Dr Sarah Herndon, assist- professor of English; and Mr Mrs Frank Miller.

Trees Received

Fifty seedling cork oak trees have been received by the business office, according to Mr R K Shaw, business manager. This shipment from the Crown Cork and Seal Company will be set out in a specially prepared field west of Games' Woods, on Dale Mabry highway.

According to information received in the business office, the company has had tremendous difficulty in procuring cork from foreign sources. So, in order to supply their needs in the future, the company has transported seedling cork oak trees from California to the southern part of the state as an experimental project.

Mr Shaw stated that he hoped the trees would help make an attractive future picnic ground.

Selected hymns were stowed away along with first-aid kits, and rations on lifeboats and rafts in the merchant marine of the United States in World War II.

Jewish Leader Speaks Here

Inquiring Youth Needed, Says Abram Sachar

"In Defense of Tomorrow" was the topic of an address by Dr Abram D Sachar, national director of the B'nai B'rith Hillel foundations, who spoke at Florida State College recently in the Little Theatre. Dr Sachar, one of the outstanding Jewish personalities in America, is nationally recognized as a scholar, author and lecturer.

"A questioning youth is what we need most," Dr Sachar stated. He emphasized that the hazards of today's work bring about a growing cynicism. In war, people assimilate some of the evil things which they fight against; they assimilate some of the enemy's brutality and cynicism.

Dr Sachar divided people into the humanitarians and the materialists. Among the latter he mentioned briefly Voltaire, Bertrand Russell, and Spangler. Another hazard which he said people must avoid is an inner failure of nerves which is so often followed by a physical failure.

The first ingredient needed by young people today is a belief in human living, Dr Sachar said. "Still another hazard," the speaker continued, "is a growing insensitiveness, a steady decay of the sense of being outraged." People's emotions have become blunted, he said, and this in turn leads to the most hopeless kind of callousness.

"When you are no longer sensitive to pain, then death is near," Dr Sachar added.

"We're all immigrants. Our fathers happened to catch the boat, the fathers of all Europeans happened to miss the boat—that is the only difference," was another of Dr Sachar's points. He questioned the right of Britain to call Russia names, when the labor government in Britain is still following the Tory line in India. The speaker said that it is easy to forget the ideals for which we fought a war as soon as the tragedy of war is over.

He argued that the American people's struggle to win their ideals must be continuous, and that they must not let themselves be disillusioned simply because they cannot have everything they want. "Defeatism is perhaps the worst hazard of all," Dr Sachar stated. He predicted that this century will not be one of relaxation, but that there will be crises in every year.

Dr Sachar concluded his speech with, "Today's youth are the 'twilight children.' No one in the world will live again at the normal temperature of 98.6 degrees. We will have to be careful not to take anything for granted again, since we will always have to re-win our security. Tomorrow is not so alluring for 'today's youth.' Hazards to be overcome are cynicism, callousness, disillusionment, and defeatism. If we conquer these hazards, we can confidently face the challenges of today and tomorrow."

Botany Professor Publishes Article

Second in a series of research papers on the mosses of Georgia by Dr Ruth O Schornherst, assistant professor of botany, is the recently published article, "Georgia Mosses II: Mosses of the Georgia Coast Plain" in the March-April issue of the Bulletin of the Torrey Botanical club, which can be found in the periodical room of the FSC library.

This is the only paper of its kind dealing exclusively with mosses of the region and contains not only results of Dr Schornherst's studies but also detailed maps locating the mosses' origins.

The present series of tests are based largely on the collections of the late Dr J K Small of the New York Botanical garden and also upon herbarium collections as well as her own specimens. Most of the material from Dr Small's collection was gathered as early as 1898 and has been preserved by drying and pressing the moss. Over 2,000 of the unlabeled plants have been identified by Dr Schornherst, who began to specialize in botanical research at the University of Michigan in 1941.

The first paper of the series appeared as "Mosses of Stone Mountain, Georgia" in the Bryologist 48· 29-33, 1945. She has done much research throughout Florida and has concluded a similar series of papers on Florida moss and liverwurts.

The tips of a propeller at top speed often surpass the speed of sound.

Music and Hula dancing are features of the opening of the Hawaiian legislature.

About 9.5 per cent or 8,500,000 acres of the total land area of California is under cultivation.

The Spaniards introduced billiards into the United States in 1565.

Dormitory Teas

In the absence of Margery Holm, social chairman of Jennie Murphree, Patsy Crosby had charge of their tea Thursday afternoon. There was no program this week, and a social hour was held instead.

Because of their formal dance to be held tomorrow night, Bryan Hall girls had no tea this week.

Jean Adair Clark, of Lang House, was in charge of the Village tea, which featured a musical program.

Landis tea Thursday afternoon honored all the girls in the hall who made Phi Beta Kappa. Sadie Campbell was chairman of this week's tea, for which the program was special music.

Yvonne Boatright had charge of the program at Gilchrist tea this week. Betty Jean Linderman played a medley of popular songs at the piano.

In place of their regular tea, Wednesday afternoon from 4:30 until 6 p m Broward girls entertained at their annual "At Home" for the members of the college faculty.

All the girls residing in Broward Hall were hostesses for the occasion. In the receiving line were Miss Ruby Grace Daniel, chairman of the social committee; Miss Olivia N Dorman, Dean of Students; Miss Ann Pope, counselor in Bryan Hall; and Miss Roberta Perkins, Broward house president. Miss Daisy Parker, one of the house sponsors, and Mrs Rav Warner, residence counselor, were at the entrance to the serving room.

Mythical Miss Has Hectic Time During Registration Rush

"Why, oh, why did I wait until 12:45 Tuesday morning to get my early bus back here?" poor Angeline Zoosolosvich wondered as she stood crammed between someone's favorite tuba and another inmate's feet, which had been dangling from the baggage rack ever since that last jolt 50 miles back. As the bus creeped into the Tallahassee station, Angeline grabbed her three suitcases, two coats, her comic books, the remains of her box of food, her tennis racket, her ouija board, and a sack full of shoes that wouldn't fit in her bags, in an effort to be ready to fly as soon as the bus came to a halt.

Registration day was here again! Happy day, for Angeline knew that now she would be able to lose the extra 25 pounds she had added without going to the trouble of dieting or exercising. She would merely attempt to go through the day normally and let nature take its course.

"My, my," Angeline gasped," a line to get those gold-engraved little white cards extends from the auditorium to the fountain. Nice of them to have Sammy Kaye playing on the lawn north of the postoffice," she murmured getting into a line—any line just so that it goes up and not down College avenue.

After a short wait of only about f20 minutes, Angeline, unsuspecting soul that she was, finally got to the table in the line marked Z. "Zoosolosvich, Angeline, please. Of course— Z-O-O-S-O-L-O-S-V-I-C-H. What! special cases—oh, no!" By this time she had really begun to feel like a special case, so for added energy she pulled out half-dozen peanut butter sandwiches and passed another hour in another line saving time by eating her lunch right there.

Lured by the prospect of getting one of the four classes she wanted by registering twice, Angeline drew out her telescope to see the sign which so promisingly read "Station f". With three hours and 45 minutes to spare, an extra set of fingernails, and an ample supply of pencils she figured out her schedule for the quarter. Janice Aardvaark, who had taken cement mixing as an elective last quarter, advised Angeline that it was a putty easy course, but Angeline had a feeling that it would get hard. Janice, herself, decided to change her major in order to try her hand at irrigation.

Of course, there was the usual flourish of white cards, schedule books, pink slips, the disinterested nod of a teacher when the class she wanted was full, check, recheck, double check, copy, recopy, double copy—until finally a helpful fellow student grabbed a hold of the dazed Angeline, gently placed a little green slip of paper in her hand, and shoved her down the stairs hoping she'd return to consciousness before hitting the ground floor of Westcott.

With the precious schedule gripped between her thin fingers and a faithful St Bernard someone lost in the rush at her heels, Angeline Zoosolovich retired for the night in the basketball net out at the gym where she dreamed of the great day when she would again have to register.

Alumna College To Be Held at FSC

Captain Dorothy C Stratton Of SPARS Is Speaker

"The Future of Higher Education" will be the theme at this year's meet of the Florida State College Alumnae College to be held May 10 through 12. Captain Dorothy C Stratton, former director of the Spars, will be the principal speaker, Miss Katherine Warren, Assistant Dean of Students and chairman of the Alumnae College committee, has announced.

This is the first general meeting of FSC Alumnae since the inauguration of Dr Campbell as president of the college in 1942. The Alumnae College was begun in 1937 for the purpose of bringing back graduate students for intellectual stimulation and to acquaint them with the progress that has taken place in the college.

Miss Stratton's talk will follow the general theme of the meeting. The speaker, one of the prominent women in America, is now a special assistant in the Retraining and Reemployment Administration of the U S Department of Labor in Washington. Her job concerns the problems of reintegration into the community of ex-service women and others whose lives have been disrupted by war. She is on leave of absence from Purdue University, where she is Dean of Women and professor of psychology.

Other speakers who will participate in a discussion on higher education in Florida at the session will be Dr Colin English, state superintendent of public instruction; Richard H Simpson, vice-chairman of the Citizens' Committee on Education; and Dr Doak S Campbell, president of Florida State College.

The entire program is not yet complete, but will begin on the evening of May f0th with a concert by the FSC band, glee club, and orchestra under the direction of Percy Grainger, who will be a guest of the college for National Music Week ending that night. Following the concert, an informal coffee is planned.

Radio Script Writing New Speech Course

Students Adapt Stories, Plays To Radio Presentation

A new course has been offered in the speech department called Radio Script Writing taught by Miss Mary Tom Colones. This course is for the purpose of those students interested in writing scripts for radio. It is an elective course made up primarily of journalism and speech students.

The class studies professional radio scripts and discusses the average radio audience and its reaction to different types of entertainment.

The students will adapt short stories and plays to radio and will gradually write their own original scripts. The most outstanding radio scripts will be broadcast over the Radio Workshop.

Miss Colones states, "This is an excellent course designed to prepare students for advanced study in writing and adapting for professional work in radio. Students need to acquire skill in all phases of radio writing."

This is Miss Colones' first year at the college. She was awarded her MA degree in Dramatic Art at the University of North Carolina. She was active in dramatic productions while at the University and is a former member of the Carolina Playmakers.

Instructor of Voice Joins FSC Faculty

One of the two new additions to the faculty this quarter is Mr Walter James, instructor in voice. A graduate of Albion College in Michigan and the Eastman School of Music in Rochester, New York, Mr James worked during the war in an industrial plant, but kept up with his music by giving private instructions and directing church choirs.

He, his wife, and little daughter, Judith Ray live in the Jubilee Guest Cottage on the Goodwood Plantation about two miles from Tallahassee. This is the first time that they have traveled in the South, and he added, "We like Florida very much, and FSC in particular".

Mr James' favorite composer is Johann Bach. As for the popular music of today, he says, "I'll take Crosby anyday!"

In speaking of sports, Mr James began with, 'I'm a wicked man in a ping-pong game", and then added more seriously that he enjoys swimming particularly. Horse back riding is Mrs James' favorite pastime and he and his wife often ride together.

In Mr James estimation, FSC is "mighty fine". He believes that the music department here is well organized. He concluded with, "I believe that everyone should know something about the care of the voice and its proper use, since the voice is used so much even aside from the musical standpoint".

Photography Is on Exhibit

Physics Students Display Classwork Pictures

Photographs by students taking Physics 225 are being exhibited in the Clubroom of the Longmire Building, April 6-22. These 40 enlargements are some of the results of classwork in the one-quarter photography course taught by Miss Elizabeth Lynn, assistant professor of physics. The students have done the entire job from taking the picture to processing the film and enlarging the negative. The subject matter used in these picture includes formal and informal portraits, child studies, roadways, table top or still life, architecture, and trees.

It was explained by Miss Lynn that during the course six assignments are to be taken with the departmental cameras, which have good ground glass composing screens so that careful study can be made of exact content of picture. This offers a superior device in comparison with the view finders on most cameras. In addition to pictures made on these cameras, each student is asked to turn in prints of two rolls of film made on her own camera. Miss Lynn said that an effort is made to give students the opportunity for experience in photographing subjects that they will most want to photograph later on after the course is over.

Portraits are the favorite subject, but according to Miss Lynn a successful portrait photographer has to study not only his camera and lights but also his subject and must direct the subject in an authoritative voice to insure the best results. Next to portraits the most popular subject is architecture. Pictures of the Governor's Mansion as well as views of campus buildings are shown in the current exhibit. Table top or still life photography, which enables students to make a careful study of composition, can lead into the field of commercial advertising.

One of the assignments last quarter was to take a picture through an archway, an open door or open window, and enlargements of some of these results appear on exhibit.

Students who have pictures on exhibit are: Margery Carter, Letitia Croom, Katherine Godfrey, Doris Grainger, Claire Hill, Hasica Levine, Danella Martin, Sara Norman, Mary Rivero, Margaret Treisback.

Painters Brighten Four Dreary Rooms In Science Building

Stepping over paint pails, brushes, and even under a ladder, I made my way to the nearest painter on the third floor of the Science Building. I say the nearest painter—the fact is, he was the only painter in sight. The poor man was probably frightened by all my queries, but he was good naturedly answered all he could. So here's the story, especially for you chemistry fiends who are so disturbed over the fact that you haven't been able to probe with your formulas in the labs for the past few days.

Four rooms on the third floor are being painted. The only one nearing completion at present is room 3f4 which now has a bright ivory finish and brightly painted aluminum radiators. The workers are being held up at present —N P. (No plaster) for the walls.

I timidly asked the obliging painter if the rooms were badly in need of a paint job. The laugh he gave me was the only answer I got. Besides, all I had to do was to take a look in the next room which hadn't been done. Oh well, it must be this Tallahassee weather that takes the paint right off the walls.

Speech Dept Begins Season of Recitals

Play Given by Barbara Holt Opens Program Series

The recital season of the speech department opened April 4 at the Augusta Conradi little theater with Barbara Holt's presentation of "Mrs Moonlight." Barbara, a speech major, returned from Pensacola where she was interning, in order to give the recital.

Barbara read her own adaptation of Ben Levy's fantasy, "Mrs Moonlight", and portrayed all of the eight characters in the three-act play. The play itself revolved about Sara Moonlight, a woman who failed to grow old.

The next recital is set for April 24. It will be the first junior recital of the year. Those juniors in the play will be Anne Hunter, Burma Cox and Elaine Parramore. The second junior recital will take place in the Little Theater, Sunday afternoon on April 28, and will include: Katherine Moore, Louise Illingworth and Mary Jane Inabnit. The last junior recital, Thursday, May 2, will include Eugenia Avant, Joy Fleming and Sarah Lewis.

The senior recitals, the dates of which have not been announced, will be presented by Sara Norman, Maureen Petty and Bonnie Hunt.

Part of New Book Written by Irish

A chapter on "Italian Fascism" written by Dr Marian Irish of the political science department has been contributed to Twentieth Century Political Thought published this spring by the Philosophical Library in New York City.

Each chapter was written by a specialist; political scientist, sociologists, and historians have collaborated to produce a panorama which consists of chapters on fascism, racism, nazism, agrarianism, communism, militarism, English, French, German, Latin American, and American political thought. Some experts contributing to the publication are Harry Elmer Barnes; Thorsten Kalijarvi; Pitman Potter, editor of the American Journal of International Law; Harold Davis; Francis Wilson; and Glenn Hoover.

Pepper Is Initiated Into Mortar Board

The initiation of Judy Pepper, into Mortar Board, senior honorary, was held last Monday morning in the Rowena Longmire building. Judy, who had been tapped last year, was unable to be initiated until now because of illness.

Judged for leadership, scholarship and service, not less than five nor more than 20 juniors will be tapped at a special Mortar Board convocation on May f4 announced Bea Weaver, president.

To get an unofficial student poll as to who should make Mortar Board, the senior group is distributing lists of the junior class to all students next week.

As it is primarily a service organization, Mortar Board sponsors one campus project each quarter. A leadership banquet for all outgoing and in-coming officers will be held sometime after elections this quarter.

Other Mortar Board members are Shirley Duggan, vice-president; Dink Ashton, secretary; Peggy Lou Thomson, historian; Martha Jane Brown, treasurer; Margaret Baugh, editor, Ann Carolyn Allison, and Catherine Barrs Faculty sponsors of the group are Miss Elizabeth Thomson, Mrs Lou Miller, and Dr C P Heinlein.

UNIVERSITY OF LOUISVILLE
KENT SCHOOL
OF SOCIAL WORK

★

One- and Two-Year
Graduate Programs
Leading to the Certificate and Master of Science in Social Work

★

For further information apply to Raymond A. Kent School of Social Work
UNIVERSITY OF LOUISVILLE
Louisville 8, Kentucky

VICTORY GARDENS
STILL HAVE A PURPOSE
During the War you grew a garden you were proud of. It helped the food shortage situation . . . Now you can help again in keeping down inflation, help the farmers to feed starving Europeans.

START YOUR GARDEN TODAY!

Excellent quality cultivating tools, steel blades, hardwood handles . . . garden hose

Yon's Hardware
218 SOUTH ADAMS

Refreshment ready... Have a Coke
Serve
Coca-Cola
at home

BOTTLED UNDER AUTHORITY OF THE COCA-COLA COMPANY BY TALLAHASSEE COCA-COLA BOTTLING COMPANY

FSC Delegates Attend Meet

Lane Chosen FIPA Head In DeLand Convention

A total of over 10,000 Florida college students were represented last weekend at a joint convention of the Florida Student Government Association and the Florida Inter-Collegiate Press Association at Stetson university in DeLand. In keeping with the planned theme of the convention, "Soeducation for State Universities," a resolution supporting an immediate conversion to a coeducational status at both Gainesville and Tallahassee was unanimously approved by the convention delegates.

Newly elected officers in these organizations include: Herb Stalwart of the University of Florida, chairman of the 1947 convention, the site of which is to be Gainesville; Mark Brown of the University of Miami, president of the Florida Student Government Association; Winifred Lane of Florida State College, president of the Florida Inter-Collegiate Press Association, and Pat O'Nial of the U of F, joint secretary-treasurer of two associations

The purpose of this interchange of student opinion and discussion, according to the constitution of the organizations, is to promote student government and the honor systme in the colleges and universities of the State of Florida and to further the interests of higher education. Other activity is to include the promotion of high standards and ethics of journalism in the student publications of the colleges and universities in Florida, and competitive judging of those publications.

The various student officers present contributed to the discussion accounts of actual experiences in their attempts to bring about participation in a freely operating student government. FSC delegates secured counsel concerning recent abridgment of such freedom within their campus government association. Representatives from the University of Florida were able to illustrate many principles of free administration with examples set within their own organization. The problem of freshman "ratting", especially when involving veterans, was said to have been virtually abolished. Another problem considered to be most important was the extreme difficulty of imposing a successful "honor system" within the college community; on this topic Gainesville delegates related information indicating their firm belief in the existence of a most successfully operating honor system at the university.

Following a speech by Dr Hugh McEniry, professor of English at Stetson, on "Ccеducation for State Universities," which warmly supported the idea, the following formal resolution was adopted: "Whereas we, as delegates to the Joint Convention of the Florida Student Government Association and the Florida Intercollegiate Press Association, represeoting over 18,000 students, have fully considered all aspects of the problem of the institution of coeducation in the State College for Women and the University of Florida, be it resolved that we are affirmatively in favor of actively supporting an immediate conversion to a status of coeducation in the above - mentioned institutions." Those colleges represented in unanimous approval of the resolution were the University of Florida, Florida State College, University of Miami, Stetson university, Rollins, University of Tampa, and St Petersburg Junior College.

Other business conducted Saturday afternoon was the completion of plans for the 1947 conventioo at Gainesville, and the formulation of plans for an extended examination of all phases of proposed legislation on coeducation by press representatives.

Calendar Includes Retreats, Speakers

The religious calender for the month of April will include the annual state-wide Baptist Spring Retreat at Camp O'Leno, near Gainesville, which is to be held Easter week-end, April 19-21. Many Baptist girls will take part on the program.

Sunday night the Baptist Student Union junior and senior council members will be installed at the First Baptist Church.

A coming event for Catholic students is the convention of the Southeastern Federation of Newman Clubs, which is to be held at Gainesville. A large number of girls on campus are planning to attend.

Father John Nulty, secretary to the bishop in St Augustine, spoke to the Newman Club on the work of priests and sisters of Florida.

On March 29 Dr Anna F Liddell spoke at Ruge Hall on "Jesus Christ in Our Lives." Bishop Louttit was the scheduled speaker, but due to transportation difficulties he was unable to be present.

The temperature at the center of the sun is estimated to be 20,000,000 degrees Centigrade.

Or Forever Hold Your Peace . . .

Dear Editor,

As I read the Flambeau this week, it seemed to me that Metternich had stepped from the pages of history, then was hired (with great alarcity no doubt) by Florida State College for Women, and brought with him his political philosophy based on unyielding determination to maintain the status quo, suppression of dissenting opinion, and intense hatred and fear of change.

Betty Schwartz has been disqualified as candidate for chairman of judiciary in student government elections . . . ruled out not by the student body . . . but disqualified before elections by an arbitrary decree from a faculty committee. It is a hollow mockery, a lie, even to suggest that these are student elections and that this is student government.

For the first tenet of student government lies in the right of students to choose whomever they wish to serve their interests. As long as a faculty committee can thrust itself into matters which should concern only the students themselves, to hold elections is senseless and a waste of time. Why hold elections at all? Why not just have the faculty committee issue decrees and appoint lackeys to carry out its bidding? Why refer to this as student government at all?

The machinery of student government—elections, the executive, legislative, and judicial branches—are meaningless if perverted to serve the interests of the faculty rather than the interests of the student body. The pretense of student government—the erection of machinery—without the spirit of free student government and elections are nothing. These are not faculty elections, but student elections.

Perhaps, FSCW can so isolate itself from the world, that all progress and change flows by without affecting, it but I doubt it. Change is inevitable. Perhaps too, the "existing" policy is to crush all dissenting opinion and to mould the student body into what the faculty thinks students should be. Perhaps it is a policy to stifle all intellectual freedom; all liberty to think for oneself.

She (Miss Schwarts) honestly propose a change in the method by which the judiciary is operated. This change was included in her platform. Since the judiciary is purported to be within the sphere of student functions, the student body should be allowed to vote upon the idea and either reject or accept it. If endorsed by the student body, the change should automatically become part of the college policy. Certainly the "existing" policy isn't immutable. Certainly the "existing" policy wasn't given by divine mandate.

The fact that the committee rejects Miss Schwartz upon "evidence collected throughout the year," makes it appear that the faculty committee "has it in for her." The entire idea of collecting evidence, smacks of the Gestapo.

I wish to pledge that the Alligator, stndent newspaper here at the University (where by the way we have student government), will fight alongside you to rectify this injustice and to bring about the collapse of faculty-controlled government for students at FSCW—a system which I consider an affront to the intelligence and ability of Florida's young men and women.

JOHNNY WALKER,
Editor,
Florida Alligator.

Dear Editor.

Perhaps this letter from a University of Florida student will be out of place in the publication of our sister school, but it's only costing me three cents to throw in my two cents' worth, so here goes.

Permit me to explain that I don't know Betty Schwartz from Adam's better half and that I grind no political axe by writing this letter to you. All I know is what I read in the Florida Alligator aod the Florida Flambean (when your exchange editor sends us a copy!), and from the information provided in the last named sheet I have come to the conclusion that your student government is clutched at the throat by the powers-that-be, with the squeeze being applied without much provocation.

Far be it from me to offend the Dean or any of her conservative cohorts, but the men to whom I have communicated this tale of totalitarianism agree that either somebody is inexcusably meddling in student affairs or that a spade isn't being called a spade, in which case we blushingly retreat.

As you may know, many of us here at Gainesville favor the proposition that men and women can be, even in Florida, contemporaneously coeducated and are working toward that end. We like to think that FSCW students are in accord with our aims and are actively advocating coeducation. Naturalization of the University of Florida campus is expected to provide a sound basis for a large and prominent institution here.

Therefore we are in hearty accord with your apparent attempt to purge your student government of influences which belie your capacity for careful cogitatin. In the South the least liberality is likely to be construed as radicalism. Presumably Miss Schwartz was caught in the conservative tide which engulfs so many organizations of women students who strive for political autonomy. It is regrettable that thought patterns for Tallahassee lassies are formulated by a faculty committee and that deviation from the established form must be so inconsiderately depreciated.

My esteemed friend, Mr John Walker, editor of the Florida Alligator, has informed me that the Alligator will champion the cause of freedom in our sister institution. Little though it may seem in comparison, I might add that a few column inches devoted to the distribution of my drivel is regularly carried in the Alligator and this week will be "Liberate the Lassies" or "Emancipate the Embraceables" or "Free the Females" week or some such rot. At any rate, please be advised that we Florida men feel for ya', but because of ancient anachronisms in our educational system, we just can't reach ya.

Sincerely yours,
BOB MANN.

Editor's note: This wire was received yesterday.

"On behalf of dozen young alumnae of FSCW vehemently protest faculty committee action in disqualifying Betty Schwartz. Action continues undemocratic trand we consider extremely alarming."

CORDELIA BARCLAY.

Dear Editor:

This is a plea—a plea for help!

It seems as though if it is ever necessary for the news of the Flambeau to be "cut short" the news from the various religious groups on campus is "left out." In our small weekly news report, many announcements are made concerning activities about which the students should know—announcements of social functions, business metings, forums, and the like.

Since I am particularly concerned with the religious phase of our college life, I feel that any news concerning the particular religious groups on campus is vital.

I realize that, no doubt, other news items of necessity many time are also omitted, and I am also aware of the fact that each organization on campus feels that its news is the most important—but—could we please have a more occasional "shot" at a few lines of space?

HARRIETTE McCARTER.

To the Students:

A group of friends and I were interested in the suggestion in last week's Flambeau concerning the establishment of a cooperative store on campus. I have been told that Cornell University has a successfully functioning store of this type, and so I have taken it upon myself to write to the manager of this cooperative for details as to its operation. When I receive a reply, I shall make a full report on it in this column.

If the student body shows sufficient interest, I believe that a vote should be taken to find out whether or not the majority does want such a cooperative. It the results of this poll are impressive enough, a petition could be submitted to the Board of Control asking permission to set up the store.

In the meantime, I ask you, the students to think about this matter.

Sincerely yours.
MARY ROBERTSON.

Dear Editor:

Seemingly tha difference between popular opinion and the opinion of the dean's office concerning the right of said office to interfere with student nominations results from the two meanings of the word "eligibility" which occurs in article XIII, section 4, in the Hand Book, which says that the petition of nomination of the candidate will pass through several offices "to determine the eligibility of each candidate." After over an hour of research in the library and the compilation of a bibliography worthy of a master's thesis, I discovered that "eligibility is the state of being eligible."

There are two meanings or rather two senses of the word "eligible." The first and preferred meaning is "legally qualified." In relation of the present situation, Miss Schwartz certainly fulfills the stipulations set forth in the Hand Book which should make her "legally qualified." However the dean's office seems to have based their authority on the second meaning which is "fit for or worthy of choice or adoption, suitable, desirable." This last is, of course, still a matter of word against word in relation to this campus issue.

"Words are treacherous. I doubt if the persons who wrote these words ever suspected them of being ambiguous. Nevertheless, this situation has proved just how ambiguous they are. All this demonstrates the necessity of utmost care in wording anything that must be lived by for any length of time. It also demonstrates my byword since my freshman year, "Leave a loop hole and you will eventually find yourself being hanged by it."

The entire constitution of our CGA is full of just little things like this. The most notorious loop hole is that about matters regarding student health and public safety being reserved by the authorities. That, however, will continue to be such no matter how it is worded until "Authorities" stop stretching it.

We need a new and carefully thought out constitution which can only be interpreted to mean one thing and that one interpretation being held by the majority of the students and dean's office.

MARY LOU NORWOOD

P S Junior Minstrels is Friday night, April 26th, at 8:00 in Westcott auditorium.

Dear Editor:

The injustice of it all! We are all concerned with this aspect of the current problem on campus. We feel that no student should be barred from running for an office if she has met all the qualifications set up in our constitution. In our city, county, state and national elections any man or woman meeting such qualifications is eligible to run, whether his or her personal qualifications are entirely pure and above reproach or not. If our national government can take chances such as this, why can not the students of this college take such chances when the Faculty Committee on Student Affairs and other administrative offices and officers have the power, often exercised, to control the students' part of the college government anyway? If those in authority do not feel that a student satisfies their ideals of what an officer should be, they can still control the part she plays in the government. In consideration of this fact, their approval of candidates is not only unfair, but a fallacy.

If the students are not capable of judging for themselves whether or not a candidate is worthy of office, why can they be entrusted with any semblance of self-government at all? Why are they not simply told what they can and cannot do without going through the empty motions of deciding for themselves? It appears to us that we are making a useless attempt at playing a part in our own government.

We are concerned with the justice and truth of the statement that we are learning here the workings of democracy. When we leave college to take our places as citizens of the United States of America, we can not always be sure that the candidates we are to choose from would have been approved by the Office of the Dean of Students. We will have to decide for ourselves which of the candidates is worthy of the office. If we have had no experience in doing this, we are very apt to make grave mistakes. Far better that we should learn here, where no real harm can result—since we have the faculty and administrators to guide our officers anyway—, than that we should make a mistake that we can not remedy later. If we, as college graduates are not to be capable of guiding our less fortunate contemporaries, what can we expect of them? Perhaps we could not guide them. At least we could be of some use in counterbalancing their errors. But as long as we are not to have this ability, there will be only a few, experienced because of their own mistakes, who will be able to help our country lift tha standard of its politics. We are taught in social studies courses that it is important that each citizen be well-informed and wise in his voting. Does the curriculum teach one thing while the administration practices another?

We repeat: This matter is of great importance to us. If the administration will give us the benefit of its advice and help, we will be very grateful. But we ask that they give us a chance to test ourselves here in our abilities as citizens as well as in our abilities as scholars. Only by being given responsibility do people learn to take it and use it well. We feel that the time has come when we can take this responsibility. Give us a chance to prove it. That is all we ask. If we find ourselves deficient, we will be honest enough and responsible enough to relinquish it. We plead for Justice.

MARY CHARLES SKIPPER.

There are a few matters concerning the present disqualification of Betty Schwartz about which I am not clear. Perhaps something should be done to untangle the ambiguities and fallacies which are so obvious to many of us.

In the student forum of Tuesday night, Miss Barrs presented a series of so-called "facts" for the student body to accept without question or reservation, despite the fact that there was absolutely no proof presented to confirm any of these charges. They were, instead followed by the blunt lie that Betty had admitted all of them.

Immediately the question arises as to why she was not impeached in view of the "serious charges which called for a disqualification. And if impeachment was discussed, why is she qualified to run for senior representative? I can thing of no (honestly) logical reason for not impeaching her then, and Miss Barrs and Miss Allison seem unable to give satisfactory answers on this point and many others. Could it be that they could not think (probably) of a reason?

Further thought raises further doubts: where lies the authority which prevents Betty from stating views which oppose judiciary decisions? After all, there must be some excellent reason—it was held so strongly against her. Maybe the faculty committee fears that we may become enlightened concerning some of the fair judiciary decisions??? Then there was a charga about divulging information even though only two other judiciary members denied having done the same. Also I recall Betty's denial that it was detrimental information. Perhaps she can prove this—perhaps too, she can prove that another judiciary member divulged information at a much earlier date in several cases. Who knows, and why can this not be investigated? Why was it not investigated before the disqualification? Maybe, by a slight chance—this great injustice could have been prevented.

Then of course Betty denied using her influence to belittle the rules to freshmen. Could it be that there is no ground for this charge? There has been nothing presented to prove that it is true. We wonder about this too.

I hesitate to question the integrity of any of our student officers. I hesitate to question their sincerity. I hesitate to question their leadership ability or any other ability or intelligence or good judgment. But perhaps—just this one time—I will do so.

Sincerely,
ROSE MARIE FERRO.

FSC Represented At Dietetics Meeting

Dr Margaret Sandels, Dean of the School of Home Economics, Miss Helen Cate and Miss Mary Miller, members of the home economics department, and Dr Jennie Tilt, professor of nutrition, attended the meeting of the Florida Dietetic Associatioo, March 29 and 30 at St Augustine.

Alumnae of Florida State College who were on the program were: Miss Marie Hines, director of dietetics at the University Hospital in Cleveland, Ohio; Miss Pearl Laffitte, Duval county home demonstration agent; Mrs Thelma Flanegan, State supervisor of school lunch program; and Miss Unice Grady, Dade county home demonstration agent, who presided over the meeting. Mrs Flanegan discussed the lunch program in Florida and Miss Laffitt discussed the nutrition program for rural families in Duval county.

Cub Reporters Lead Hectic Life Working For Their Newspaper

Initial attempts of Florida State College's future star reporters, though not spectacular, were thought to be interesting, yet troublesome, according to six stated opinions.

Interviews with the Flambeau's neophites proved that reporting is not all glamor and excitement as the concensus of opinion would have one believe. It too has it's share of trials and tribulations according to Ann Furlong. She expressed this opinion when she groaned: "Reporting is fun, but tramping up and down the stairs of Westcott and Science Building trying to track down a source of information certainly wears out one's patience and shoe leather."

Jane Hardacre stated wearily: "I had so much trouble finding the people I had to interview. When I finally got a nice, long story, I was told that it was premature and couldn't run."

'After slaving over a news story for hours, concerning a scheduled broadcast, I learned that the director of Radio Work Shop had come down with the mumps, and all my slaving had been in vain," sighed Cheryl Muster.

Lee Marshall and Inez Augustine, while covering a news story, sat in a dormitory hall for "just ages" waiting for the return of a girl whom they were to interview. As the girl did not arrive until five minutes before second light flash, according to Lee and Inez, they had to "scale roof tops, and swing on the branches of trees," to get back to their respective halls on time.

Bobbye Bradley neatly summed up the feelings and opinions of the group by saying: "I never realized before now how much work and worry goes into each little news item. Now I can appreciate the school paper as never before."

Surprise Animals Confound Deviney

Animals were really on the mind of Dr Ezda Deviney, head of the zoology department, this week when she found herself the center of two amusing incidents. The registrar's office was set in motion when a special delivery package marked "live animals" was sent there by mistake instead of to the zoology department.

With great curiosity as to what the package could contain and believing there was great need of haste, the office force rushed the package over to Dr Deviney.

The mystery was later solved when Dr Deviney explained that it was a routine delivery of tiny amoeba, microscopic animals used in scientific work, which had been packed in two small bottles inside the box for shipment.

Several days later, she was called to the phone by Mrs Tom Mix, the operator of a local circus. Mrs Mix wished to know if the science departments wanted a kangaroo that had died the day before, which the circus owners were preserving by keeping in a cold storage box. Perplexed to think what use she could possibly find for a kangaroo, Dr Deviney told her "no," and then tha true story came out. Mrs Mix wished to sell the kangaroo to a man in Georgia, and wanted someone to help her prepare him for shipment. Dr Deviney promptly repeated her "no thanks," and breathed a sigh of relief that her duties didn't include taxidermy.

In 1896 there were only 16 cars registered in the United States. Now there are 25,500,000 cars.

Solo at ½ Usual Cost!

You'll Be Flying a Spin-Proof Ercoupe!

Attend Ground School Held Monday & Thursday at 8:00 P. M., Room 104, Westcott

Due to unforeseen delay, cards for the free flying time have not been distributed and the winning numbers cannot be announced at this time. Watch this space next week for the good word.

TAC

JEFF LEWIS IVAN MUNROE

Phone 2565

Honors Day Held April 24

Program Recognizes Work Of Scholastic Students

Scholastic Honors Day convocation is scheduled to be held at 2:30 p m, April 24, in the college auditorium, Mrs Myrtle E Dolbee, chairman of the Scholastic Honors Day committee, announced. The annual program is given in recognition of scholarship on the part of the college's students, and to honor work of students which is publicly recognized in no other way.

Invited to sit together as honor guests are all students who have established 45 semester hours of credit in residence and who have a general average of 2.0, and transfer students who have 30 semester hours of credit in residence and whose average on residence courses and over-all average on residence and transfer credit is 2.0.

Special guests on the platform with the Executive Council, in addition to the participants on the program, will be the members of the Supreme Court of Florida, the Governor and his Cabinet, and the emeritus members of te faculty

Judge Florence E Allen, America's foremost woman jurist, will be speaker for the convocation. Judge Allen is Ohio's most famous woman, and the only woman in the world ever to sit on a national bench of general jurisdiction. As a member of the United States Court of Appeals for the Sixth Circuit, she holds the second highest honor that law can give. Judge Allen has been named the leading professional woman in America. She was the first woman in Ohio state to be appointed county prosecuting attorney, and the only woman in the world to sit as judge in a court of last resort.

All qualified students are requested to consult a list which will be posted by April 15 on the Registrar's bulletin board to be sure their name is included with those to be honored by the college on Scholastic Honors Day, and to report any omissions or errors to Miss Atwood, Registrar's office, by 5 p m on April 16

Prominent Alumna Returns for Visit

Mrs Paul Gutman formerly Martha Makemsom, Florida State College alumna, returned for a short visit here April 8, as she was passing through Tallahassee with her husband.

Mrs Gutman, a graduate of 1937, was very active during her college careeer, and was a member of Mortar Board, Spirogyra and Chairman of Judiciary. She is particularly remembered as being an excellent swimmer.

Mrs Gutman had been living in Ft Lauderdale with her family while her husband, a Lieutenaot Colonel, was in the Pacific.

Spring Flowers Add Variety to Garde

The college garden, loca about 1000 yards west of Land is one of those little-known ca pus institutions whose effects seen daily about the campus.

With the coming of April flower garden is usually bea tiful, according to the colle gardener. Snaporagons are n in full bloom. The garden a boasts bachelor's - buttons, la spur, pinks, petunias and cal dulas. These flowers are be used to beautify the Longm building, dining halls, and parlors of the dormitories

About half of the garden spa is given over to the cultiva of many varieties of roses, w are now in full bloom. Soon garden will flaunt a myriad of ters, marigolds, queen-Ann's-la and senias. Yellow gladioli soon replace the bright calendu that are now in full bloom added.

Flower cultivation, according the gardner, is just like any oth agricultural work except that has to be a little more particu with the details of soil, locatio and methods and time of plan ing.

Basic Figuring at Junior Leve

"Power Miracle"
by Miss Seventeen

THEOREM: Unruly tummies and backward bulges needn't mean despa

PROOF: Power Miracle's curve-coaxing ways. Bi-directional stretch holds in hips, whittles waists . . . controls with a caress. You'll wonder that a mesh so gentle-light could be so firm. Power Miracle . . . in junior garters and girdles.

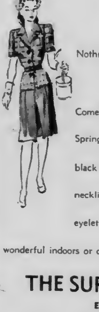
MISS SEVENTEE
JR. FOUNDATIONS
NEW YORK

A HAT HE'LL LIKE

Becoming straws, fabrics . . . gala with flowers, veils, ribbons

Completely Feminine and at Prices You Like

MARIAN'S HATS
120 E. JEFFERSON



COTTON CLICKS FOR EASTER

Nothing like crispy-fresh new cottons for your Easter pick-me-up!

Come see our just-arrived collection of Spring refreshers . . . vivid ginghams, black cottons, plaids . . . with new low necklines, dancing dirndl skirts, ruffled eyelet trim. Casual or dressy, they're wonderful indoors or out and yours at happy low prices!

THE SURPRISE STORE
East Jafferson

New Officers

Z 106

The Florida Flambeau

Published by the Students of Florida State College for Women

VOL. XXXIII, No. 21 Tallahassee, Florida APRIL 19, 1946

New Constitution

Schwartz Elected as Senior Representative to Judiciary In CGA Primaries Yesterday

Minor Offices Elections Held on Voting Machines Rather Than at Scheduled Convocation; Holm and Potter in Finals

Betty Schwartz was elected senior representative to judiciary over four opponents at primary election for minor offices yesterday. These primaries were held on voting machines instead of at a compulsory convocation yesterday evening as originally scheduled.

Those who received the highest number of votes in primaries and are candidates for College Government Association offices in final elections today include: Marjorie Holm and Marjorie Potter, senior representative to judiciary; Martha Jaoe Bird, Jean Furman, Virginia Goodell and Helen Looby, sophomore representativa to judiciary; Roberta Perkins and Alva [illegible] house president of Reynolds; [illegible] Anna Horne and Bople Whit[illegible]: vice-president of Woman's Athletic Association.

Voting on senior representative to judiciary was as followa: Betty Schwartz 358 votes, Marjorie Potter 243 Marjorie Holm 292; Gloria [illegible] 111 and Betty Speer, 134.

Other candidates also running in the primaries include: Faith Adams, Inez Augustine, Nancy Beam, Mary Calley, Gladys Clark, Betty Dickson, Gwendolyn Fitzgerald, Betty Houlihan, Terry Johnson, Jane Carol Levy, Bertie Loftus, Shirley Longino, Margery Millard, Cynthia Merrin, Mavis McMillan, Vaida Mock, Em Turner [illegible], Pattie Odum, Louise [illegible], Frances Smithers, Louise Smith, Betty Stokes, Violet Walters, Sara Lou Wells and Pat [illegible], sophomore representative to judiciary.

Charlotte Bouland, house president of Reynolds; and Amelia [illegible], vice-president of WAA.

Eighteen Students Attend Meeting

Physical Education Meet Is Held in St. Louis

Tarpon clubbers found themselves in the lime-light in the Aquatics Exhibit at the convention of the American Association for Health, Physical Education and Recreation at St Louis, Missouri last week. Eighteen of the two thousand participants from all parts of the United States represented Florida State College at the convention, Dr Katherine W Montgomery, Director of Physical Education, said. Faculty members who attended from FSC were Dr Montgomery, Miss Grace I Fox Instructor in Physical Education, Miss Matilda Willibrand, Camp Director and part-time Instructor in Physical Education, Miss Callie Papatsos, instructor in Physical Education.

Miss Margaret Stanion, Instructor in Physical Education, Miss Henrietta Greenberg, Instructor in Physical Education, and one alumnae faculty member, Miss Martha Twitty, teacher at P K Young school at Gainesville. Students at the convention were: Mary Nell Coldman, Margery

Continued on page three

Distaff Issue For Spring Is Delayed

The Distaff will be delayed two more weeks due to printing difficulties stated Winifred Meidrim, editor. Winifred also said that the cover picture soon to be taken by Hascia Levine, will center about a Spring theme.

A partial list of contents for the Distaff has previously been printed but in addition to those items there will be Spring poems by Peggy Lu Thomson and Marcia Daniel two special features, "Child of God" by Natalina Rogolino, and "Professors and Hired Men" by [illegible] Hutton, and reviews of both books and music.

The fourth and final issue for this year is tentatively planned to be based on the material from the AAUW creative arts contest.

Queen Is Secret

The May Queen and her court elected at last week's convocation will not be revealed until the May Day festivities June McCurdy announced.

June also stated that the committees for the affair were functioning well, and that Miss Nellie Bond Dickenson, physical education instructor, is in charge of the dances.

The program is open to everyone and will be held Saturday afternoon, May 4, at the archery field.

Report Given On Amendment

Candidates Withdraw In "Unfair" Election

At a forum held last Monday night in the Longmire auditorium a report was made of the progress of the senate committee and the Faculty Committee on Student Affairs regarding the constitutional amendment, and approximately 16 candidates for College Government Association offices withdrew their petitions of candidacy on the grounds that they could not conscientiously run in a controlled election.

Statements of candidates for minor offices also were presented at this time, and a report of the elections committee was given.

Shirley Duggan, chairman of the committee appointed by senate to present the amendment, reported that they had met with Dr Doak S Campbell, president of Florida State College and with Miss Olivia N Dorman, dean of students, and that the Faculty Committee on Student Affairs appointed a group to work on the amendment with the student committee. This faculty group included Miss Elizabeth Lynn, Dr H L Waskom, and Dean R L Eyman.

Ann Carolyn Allison, on behalf of the elections committee, reported that the group has no authority to declare that a majority of students must vote in order for elections to be legal.

Several students protested that this method of conducting elections is undemocratic, but others maintained that a regulation requiring that 51 per cent of students must vote for an election to be valid would prove too rigid

Those who withdrew in protest against procedures used in these elections include: Cora Lea Wells, Barbara Mann, Juanita Nord and Mary White, candidates for freshman advisor; Betty Schwartz, candidate for senior representative to judiciary; May Alexander, Shirley Rodgers, B J McLeod and Betty Dowd, candidates for editor of the Flambeau; Ann Parker, candidate for chairman of the residence halls com-

Continued on page three

Vocational Tests Are Given Students

A vocational interest test will be given by the Personnel office Thursday afternoon at 5 p m in 303 Westcott, announced Miss Marguerite Dressler, assistant director of personnel. Although it is expected that sophomores will be especially interested in this test, other students may take it if they desire to do so. The time required will not exceed 20 minutes and scoring on it will indicate the field of vocational aptitude of the student. Those desiring additional vocational guidance may arrange for an appointment with Miss Dressler.

This vocational interest test is being given at this college for the first time, as it was only recently developed by Dr Charles Orbach of the New York Psychology Corporation.

Bragg to Present Certificate Recital

Tonight at 8:15 p m Miss Eleanor Bragg, pianist, student of Miss Mary Esther Winslow, will presnt her certificate recital in the college auditorium. Eleanor is vice president of the Music Student Body.

Her program will include: "Concerto, Number 111, C Minor" by Beethoven, "Allegro con Brio," cadenza by H H A Beach, orchestral accompaniment on the second piano by Mary Winslow: "Un Sosano by Mary Winslow: "Un Sospiro" by Liszt; "Cradle Song" hy Schubert-Godowsky, "Ballade in F Minor" hy Chopin; "Polka on a Theme by W R" by Rachmaninoff; "La Soire dans Grenade" by Debussy; and "Concert Etude" by MacDowell.

Notice to Seniors

All students are notified that on this date, April 19, all dormitory space for September 1946 occupancy has been reserved. Those who wish to register for the next session should make their applications as soon as possible. Snch students will be assigned room space either in space now reserved, but which may later be released, or in new quarters that will be provided hy the college.

X-Ray Unit at FSC This Week

Red Cross Mobile Unit To Give TB Tests

The Red Cross Tuberculosis Mobile Unit, which has been set up in Broward kitchen according to Dr Dorothy J Chayes, college physician, has begun its annual drive to X-ray faculty, student body, personnel, and the Demonstration school. This year, however, instead of scheduling students by classes, they are being scheduled according to the times when there are no classes.

Although undressing will not be necessary for those who intend to be X-rayed, students are asked to wear sweaters with no hlouses and no jewelry.

Tuberculosis, if caught in the earliest stage is 95 per cent curable, if stopped on the moderate stage it is 25 per cent curable, and in the far advanced stage 10 per cent, stated Dr Chayes.

The only way to discover the minimum case is by X-ray, since there are no symptoms at that stage. Last year 80 per cent of the campus was X-rayed, and no positive cases were found. Early this year however, two positive cases were found, proving that they were negative last May and positive this September. If it had not been known that these cases were negative last May the duration of the stage of the disease could not have been determined. As it was, the cases were cured in three months.

Tuberculosis, although not hereditary, is very communicable, and one positive case can do a great deal of damage among susceptihile students whose general resistance is low. Susceptibility appears more pronounced in females than in males, while the age group that is most susceptible is the 15-35 one. "Youth is more

Continued on Page Three

AAUW Arts Contest Schedule Stated

The dates for the dance and the dramatic performances of the AAUW Creative Arts Contest have been announced by Miss Louise Gehan, chairman of the dance committee, and Miss Mary Tom Colones, chairman of the dramatic art division.

Demonstrations and an adaptation of the one act play "Family Album" by Noel Coward will be given at 6 pm April 23 in the Augusta Conradi Little Theatre. The public is invited and no admission will be charged.

The dance program will be held at 5 pm April 25 in the Little Theatre, and all students are invited to attend this contest. There will be entrie in single and group tap dances and in single and group modern dances.

Phi Kappa Phi To Initiate Students

New members were elected Thursday, April 11 at a business meeting of Phi Kappa Phi members. Phi Kappa Phi gives recognition to seniors in any division of the college who have shown high scholastic ability.

Dr Dorothy Hoffman, secretary of Phi Kappa Phi, said initiation services will take place Monday at 8 p m in the Rowena Longmire building followed by an informal reception.

The following were elected: Ann Carolyn Allison, Dorothy Binger, Donna Bridges, Martha Jane Brown, Theo Brown, Margaret Clayton, Virginia Collins, Letitia Croom, Hilda Dodson, Margaret Ann Dugger, Carolyn Flewellyn, Joyce Funke, Anne Gaither, Carmen Gomez, Emma Jean Hackle, Geraldine Hansen, Mercedes Hernandez, Elizabeth Johnston, Eleanor Cordes Law, Jean Marani, Margaret McCain, Emma Mae Murray, Madge Overstreet, Bette Parker, Lottie Belle Parker, Martha Powers, Joan Shanor, Betty Shiver, Grace Sims, Anne Tate, Peggy Lu Thompson, Naomi Williams, Gladys Young.

Woman Jurist To Speak At Convocation

Honor Group To Be Guests At Special Ceremony On Wednesday

Scholarships To Be Given At This Assembly

"The Bridge to the Future" is to be the subject of an Honors Day address by Judge Florence E Allen, noted woman jurist, at the annual honor convocation Wednesday afternoon at 2:30 p m in Westcott auditorium.

Judge Allen who is a member of the United States court of Appeals for the Sixth Circuit, is the only woman ever to sit on a national bench of general jurisdiction. She is the author of various works in the fields of poetry and journalism, including This Constitution of Ours, which can be found in the Florida State College library.

Invited to sit together as honor guests at this time will be all students who have established 45 semester hours of credit in residence and who have a general average of 2.0 Transfer students who have 30 semester hours of credit in residence and whose average is 2.0 are also to be honored.

In order that all students may attend this program classes will be dismissed at that time. The program will also include an academic procession, vocal selections of Mr Walter James, organ renditions by Mrs Ramona C Beard, announcements of awards of scholarships, fellowships and plaques. Special guests of the convocation are to be Governor Millard Caldwell and his cabinet, members of the Supreme Court

Continued on page three

National Honorary Admits 16 Members

Alumna Is Among Initiates Of Phi Beta Kappa

Sixteen new members will be initiated into Phi Beta Kappa, national scholastic honorary for students in the School of Arts and Sciences, Tuesday at five in the Club Room of the Rowena Longmire building. Members will wear their academic regalia at this time.

There will be a dinner at the Cherokee Hotel that evening at 7 for the new members. Husbands, wives, fathers, and mothers are cordially invited to attend the dinner with members, Dr Viola Graham, president of the Tallahassee chapter of Phi Beta Kappa, announced.

Dr Irene Boliek, associate professor of zoology, who was recently elected an alumna member of the Phi Beta Kappa chapter at the Womens' College of the University of North Carolina, will be initiated at this time.

Graduates in Journalism Enter National, International Fields

Former students of Florida State College have found their way into almost every journalistic field from reporting to book publishing in the United States, and at least one has invaded the foreign field, according to a recent compilation by Professor Earl L Vance of the journalism department.

Cherry Mitchell Cook, who during the war was connected with the Office of War Information and later with a radio news information service in Washington, recently wrote from London, England that she had been asked to do a series of articles for the New York Herald-Tribune.

Sending news the other way across the Atlantic is Mante Theophilatos who is on the staff of the New York office of the London Daily Mail handling American news for that London daily.

Other former journalism students pursuing their chosen field in New York City include Dorothy Barclay who has been a member of the New York Times staff for several years. During the war Dorothy wrote a column for that paper entitled "It's A Woman's War, Too".

Dora Byron is another former student who has for some years worked for the New Yark Times. She has for some years written special articles for the "Times", especially about Florida subjects. During the war she was a WAC sergeant and was engaged in Army Public Relations work.

Editorial positions on magazines in New York have been held by two former students, Hettie Camp and Elizabeth McFarland. Hettie worked as editorial assistant for Popular Publications and Elizabeth is now poetry editor of Scholastic Magazine. Hettie is now back in Florida engaged in public relations work.

Also in New York is Mildred Heston who works for Prentice-Hall, a publishing company. Mil-

Continued on Page Three

Black Mountain Professor Tells of Democratic College

"Any new revelation is uncomfortable," explained Professor Josef Albers, internationally famous artist from Black Mountain College, North Carolina, discussing his abstract art in lectures held Wednesday.

At an informal gallery exhibition in the Longmire auditorium that afternoon, Professor Albers interpreted his works to the assembled audience, and at 8:30 p m in the Augusta Conradi theater he presented a slide lecture on modern design.

Professor Albers came to this country from Germany in 1933, on the request of the original faculty members of Black Mountain College, to act as art instructor. Since that time he has become a citizen of the United States and expresses no desire to return to Europe.

In an interview, Professor Albers described the revolutionary methods and educational theories practiced at Black Mountain College. "We have a small institution comprised of only seventy students and twenty faculty members which enables us to achieve an intimate relationship and closer cooperation," stated Professor Albers. At Black Mountain, teaching hy observation is stressed, which is directed to reveal students and their development and also to give them practical training for later life.

There is no president of the college and no trustees. When questioned on student government, Professor Albers explained that student officers participate in forming the existing policies of

Continued on Page Three

Baralt Speaks 8:15 Tonight

Pan-American Talk Ends Week of Activities

Climaxing a week of Pan-American activities Professor Louis A Baralt of the University of Havana will speak tonight in the Little Theater on "North and South America Look at Each Other."

Professor Baralt, who is visiting professor at the University of Miami this year, has had much experience in Inter-American cultural affairs and is a well-known lecturer in both North and South America.

The professor is appearing here under the auspices of the campus committee of International relations. He came to Florida under the auspices of the United States Department of State.

Last Monday, April 15, Mr Kenneth MacGowan, Gadsden county representative to the Florida legislature, who has returned from a tour of the northern South American countries, spoke in the Little Theater on "Economic Conditions in South America. Mr MacGowan's address was sponsored by the department of economics and commerce.

Last Monday, April 15, Mr Kenneth MacGowan, Gadsden county representative to the Florida Legislature who has just returned from a tour of the northern South American countries, spoke in the Little Theater on "Economic Conditions in South America." Mr MacGowan's address was sponsored by the department of economics and commerce.

Wednesday afternoon Dr Ju-

Continued on page three

Band in Marianna

The Florida State College band, under the direction of Professor Owen F Sellers, is presenting a concert in Marianna today. Several special selctions, which were published last week, are on the program as well as numbers by Beethoven and Bach arranged for the entire band. This is the second trip the band has taken this year, having given a concert at Camp Gordon Johnson in the fall.

Typing Test to Be Given to Students

A typewriting test will be given Tuesday afternoon at 4:00 and again at 5:00 in the Typing room, 308 History building, for all student assistants employed as typists.

The Scholarship and Loan Committee has agreed that those students who qualify as "A" typists may be paid at a higher rate of salary next year, providing departmental funds permit. Those not qualifying this year will not be ahle to qualify for the first quarter of next year, according to Miss Elizabeth G Andrews, Director of Personnel.

All student assistants desiring to take the test are asked to sign their names on the bulletin board outside the Personnel office.

FSC Camp Gets Improvements

Cabin to House Servants Is Included in Plans

Addition of a new cabin to house negro servants at Camp Flastacowo is one of the many plans now under way to enlarge and improve the camp, Miss Matilda Willibrand, camp director and physical education instructor announced. She also stated that for the first time, an official gatekeeper, Mr Eaton, will be on duty during camp hours to receive permits.

Improvements made this year include the installation of a hot water tank and new showers, addition of a new roof on the boathouse, and the repairing of the storage cabin, rifle range, and dock. Further plans include repairing the sailboat and building an extension on the ramp from the boathouse, which will enable the girls to slide boats down the ramp into the water instead of having to lift them from the dock.

Consideration of building a new cottage is under way, according to Mr K E Gulick, building superintendent, who believes that the cottage will be erected in the place where the old one burned down a few years ago. Mr Gulick said that picnic tahles for the camp grounds are also included in the future plans.

Attendance at camp this year

Continued on page three

Lynn Participates In Science Meeting

Miss Elizabeth Lynn, assistant professor of physics, attended a meeting of the Southeastern Section of the American Physical Science Society, which was held in Atlanta on April 12-13. Miss Lynn said this meeting of the society was one of the best-attended in several years, because many of the members had been doing war work which necessitated complete secrecy, and others had been serving in the armed forces.

According to Miss Lynn, reports of research work now being carried on were presented by representatives of colleges and universities in the southeastern section. Other papers were designed to aid in improvement of instruction methods, and to aid in the improvement of scientific periodicals.

Dr Duane Roller, editor of the American Journal of Physics, was one of the few speakers who came from outside the section to address the gathering. Dr M D Whitaker from Clinton Laboratories in Oak Ridge, Tennessee addressed the group on new opportunities and responsibilities for scientists. His speech was followed hy a discussion, led hy members of the physics faculty of the University of Tennessee, which lasted well into the night, stated Miss Lynn.

Another interesting feature on the agenda, according to Miss Lynn, was a symposium on micro-waves as applied to radar, which was presented hy members of the physics faculty of Georgia Tech.

At the business meeting of the Society, Dr Rose Mooney of the physics department at Newcomh College was elected president. Miss Lynn stated, "It is interesting to note that a woman was elected president, because there were relatively few women in attendance, since there are few women active in the field of physics."

Lewis Elected CGA President; Carver, Judiciary Chairman; In Major Primaries Wednesday

White Defeats Wells to Become Freshman Advisor; Editor of Flambeau Is Shirley Rodgers; Sims to Edit Flastacowo

Sarah Lewis was elected president of College Government Association at elections for major offices held Wednesday evening. Rosetta Carver was chosen chairman of judiciary; Mary White elected freshman advisor, and Louise Sims, editor of the Flastocqwo. Shirley Rodgers was elected editor of the Flambeau, in the primaries.

Also elected at this time were Dalla Santos, first vice-president of CGA; Ida Lee Rents, second vice-president; Martha Peacock, third vice-president; Catherine Gallaghar, secretary of CGA; Eleanor Bragg, treasurer of CGA; Anne Hunter, chairman of residence halls committee; Harriet Kirk, chairman of off-campus committee, and Betty Gardiner, president of Woman's Recreation Association.

Primaries on Machines—BF — - -

Primary alections for major offices were held on voting machines in lower Westcott Wednesday since a quorum of the student body was not present at convocations Tuesday evening.

Signs declaring that "this election is not representativa of the student body" were displayed outside the auditorium Tuesday. Groups formed at the rear of tha assembly hut did not enter. Following addresses by the major candidates, Ann Carolyn Allison, president of CGA, announced that since a quorum was not present elections would be held the following day.

Returns

Returns on the major elections were as follows: President of CGA, Sarah Lewis, 568 votes, Jean Cole, 171; first vice-president of CGA, Dalla Santos, 409 votes, Jimmie Rogers, 303; second vice-president of CGA, Ida Lee Rents, 41[illegible] votes, Georgie Jaekel, 276; third vice-president of CGA, Martha Peacock, 467 votes, Enid Krouse, 178; secretary of CGA, Catherine Gallagher, 357, Pat Dillard, 340 votes; treasurer of CGA, Eleanor Bragg, 421 votes, Betty Redd, 258; chairman of residence halls committee, Anne Hunter, 338 votes, Ann Parker, 317; freshman advisor, Mary White, 439 votes, Cora Lea Wells, 283; chairman of judiciary, Rosetta Carver, 529 votes; chairman of off-campus committee, Harriet Kirk, 406 votes, Barbara Wickham, 267; editor of the Flambeau, Shirley Rogers, 303 votes cast in primaries; editor of the Flastacowo, Louise Sims, 572 votes; president of the Woman's Recreation Association, Betty Gardiner, 363 votes, Mary Nell Goldman, 294.

Heinlein to Speak Tonight

Southern Society Convene At U of Virginia

At the annual meeting of the Southern Society for Philosophy and Psychology which began last night at the University of Virginia, Florida State College is represented hy Dr Christian Paul Heinlein, president of the organization since 1942, and serving here as professor of experimental psychology.

One of the notahle events on this program for this week-end is Dr Heinlein's Presidential Address "Lest We Forget!" to be delivered at their banquet tonight. Another event, a symposium entitled "election and Classification of Aircrew" given by high-ranking United States military authorities, is of sufficient importance to be broadcast over a national network. Methods used by the U S Army, U S Navy, by the Germans, and by the Japanese are presented.

In addition to this a number of separate and joint sessions are to be held, with contributions from psychologists and philosophers represetative of a total membership of over 300, coming from the

Continued on Page Three

Ceramics Is Subject Of Library Exhibit

Students Of Industrial Arts Make Objects Shown

The library exhibit this week is in ceramics, using objects which have been made by students of the Industrial Arts Department and which are being entered in the Creative Arts contest sponsored by the American Association of University Women.

Types and suhjects are varied. There are kiln-fired ceramics, either glass-glazed or majolica glazed, in cool gray green or yellow green shades; subjects in applied design include book ends in high and low relief, incised tiles, and modeled pins and earrings.

In another case is ceramic sculpture in which some figures are simplified animal forms: others, subjects in abstract design. Particularly worthy of note is a cat of indeterminate color, probably hlack, but which glows with sinister lights. In the lower case is a camel and a teapot exemplifying animal form in utilitarian design. The shape of the teapot was inspired by the camel. Also in the case are three vases, examples of different modeling and glazing techniques.

To complete the display are two shelves of books, simple and technical, which delve throughly into the subject of ceramics, pottery, and china.

Pi Kappa Lambda Elects New Members

The Phi Chapter of Pi Kappa Lambda, National Music honor society, has announced the election of two seniors, two juniors and six faculty to membership.

The seniors are Dolly Sutton of Tampa and Fawn Trawick of Tallahassee. The juniors are Eleanor Bragg of Tampa and Rachael Crotwell of Tallahassee. The faculty members elected are Owen F Sellers, associate professor of cello and other orchestral instruments, Mrs Ramona Cruikshank Beard, associate professor of organ, piano and theory, Miss Olga Eitner, associate professor of violin, Miss Margaret Dunn and Miss Virginia Holmes, instructors in piano, and Miss Helen Rogers, instructor in Puhlic School Music.

Tree Planting

The annual senior tree planting will be Tuesday, and Eloise Boyles will be in charge of the arrangements. All seniors and their sophomore sisters will meet in Bryan at second light flash Tuesday night.

Shores and Tryon Attend Meetings

Two faculty members, Dr Venila L Shores, head of the history department, and Miss Florence R Tryon, instructor in history, attended meetings in the southern part of the state recently.

Dr Shores attended the State Conference of DAR delegates at Palm Beach, March 31 through April 2. She is a member of the Caroline Mays Brevard chapter in Tallahassee which is named for a former history instructor at Florida State College.

Accompanying Dr Shores were her mother, Mrs James Shores, Mrs R S Cotterill, regent of the Tallahassee chapter, and Mrs E M Brevard. Guests present included Mrs Julius Young Talmadge, president general, and Mrs John Logan Marshall, vice president and candidate for president general.

On Tuesday, April 2, Dr Shores attended a meeting of FSC alumnae who are residents of Palm Beach. As a result of the meet-

Continued on Page Three

Florida Glee Club To Give Show Here

University of Florida glee club will present a variety show full of popular appeal at 2 p m, April 27 in Westcott auditorium, announced Dean Karl O Kuersteiner of the School of Music. Admission will be hy ticket only, which can be secured for 30 cents from members of the Florida State College glee cluh, sponsor of this program.

The FSC glee cluh was treated royally, it was reported, by the Gainesville boys when they gave a concert there recently, and Dean Kuersteiner is looking forward to this opportunity of giving the University group a big welcome at Tallahassee.

SPIRIT OF THE WEEK

HONORS DAY!!
FREE Elections
STUDENT GOVT.
NEW CONST.
Aw-Shucks

PRESSURE, WHERE?

Political fascism is a menace that remains with us even though we have fought a war to defeat it. No community is safe from the danger that is lurking in a "government of the elite." It is too easy to delegate powers to representatives and let them take charge of all situations that arise. The common man is too easily lost in the shuffle of pro's and con's thrown around by his representatives.

In his article, The Taming of Power, Bertrand Russell has stressed that no group, once in power, will attend to the interest of other groups, except when they fear rebellion. It is up to the common voter, the nonentities who have only the power to elect their representatives, to feel so strongly about their well being that they retain a constant interest and through this interest a constant check on their representatives.

In a democracy the supreme power is retained by the people and is exercised either directly or indirectly through a system of representation. Webster's defines a representative as an agent who acts for another through delegated authority, as standing for a class of persons or things, and representation as choosing delegates to represent constituents. This is the form of government we claim to have on this campus.

In contrast to these definitions is the one for oligarchy, a form of government in which the ruling power is in the hands of a few who form the ruling group. It rests with us of the student body now to decide whether we want representative government with all that it implies, or whether we want the name representative government which is an actual oligarchy. What do we have, and more important, what do we want?

Do we have a ruling class in our representatives who do our thinking for us? Do they represent us, or their own convictions? What do we want them to represent? Because they have received more votes than someone else are they automatically more intelligent than the student body as a whole? Do we want a ruling class?

These questions we must answer before we can make our government fit our needs and our desires. Recently pressure has been used from many different angles in many different ways to force these decisions on us. Pressure must be used on both sides for without it one side will drive through the other with no resistance.

Where will we, the plain voters and citizens, put our pressure?

The Florida Flambeau

1945-1946 STAFF
EDITORIAL STAFF

ANET ROGERS — Editor
ANNE GAITHER, PEGGY KAY — Associate Editors
OIS SYRD, JUDY PEPPER — Assistant Editors
HIRLEY RODGERS — Managing Editor
AY ALEXANDER, PEGGY LU THOMSON — News Editors

opy Editor — Lois Rose ociety Editor — Madge Pilcher eature Editor — Betty Jo McLeod ssistant Managing Editor — Bobbie Bel olumnist — Anna Hutton ssistant Society Editor — Madge Pilcher ports Editor — Betty Dowd ssistant Sports Editor — Evelyn Shea utside News Editor — Gloria Reed iterary Editor — Catherine Nellman pinion Editors — Jerry Crume, Barbara Wickham icture Editor — Dee Gardner rt Editor — Lucy Feider
ssistant Art Editor — Jean Sharer

PORTERS: Alicia Armstrong, Alvera Ashe, Jocelyn Ayers, Eleanor Bayer, Barbara Beckman, Jean Bess, Paulette Blank, Virginia Budd, Laura Lee Butler, Jean Douglas, Martha Jo Dunagan, Barbara Farrar, Dorothy Fouts, June Grindstaff, Winifred Lane, Barbara Lanford, Jo Mingola, Jacqueline Nevers, Eileen Perry, Joyce Petty, Ferne Quinn, Mary Jane Sherman, Evelyn Shea, Frances Traxler, Kay Van Deurs.

BUSINESS STAFF

ally Watson — Acting Business Manager
ivian Schaffer — Assistant Business Manager itty Chairs — Advertising Manager orothy Bloodworth — Assistant Advertising Manager nn Furlong, Nancy Stephens, Constance Bezant — Advertising Staff

Entered as second class mail matter January 30, 1915, at the post office Tallahassee, Fla. under the act of Congress of March 3, 1879

Member
Intercollegiate Press

It is the policy of the Flambeau to grant equal space and prominence to anyone wishing to present a contrary opinion whenever opinions on controversial questions are voiced in its columns

Or Forever Hold Your Peace . . .

TO WHOM IT MAY CONCERN:

Though it is now "old news," I should like to make on open reply to those who have asked me or wondered why I did not reenter my petition as candidate for editor of the Flambeau when my former opponents re-entered the race.

I withdrew my petition primarily because I believed that the election held as scheduled would probably not show the choices of the majority of the student body because of the divided attitude toward voting in this election. In other words, I felt that the campus was in too great an emotional turmoil to carry on a representative election at this time. I did not wish to risk being elected to a position which would effect the entire student body by only a fraction of one group on campus—the group which had no scuples against voting in this election.

Aside from this, I decided (for myself) that I would rather not help to perpetuate the existing order by jumping over the bumps and gliding on — I believe in smoothing the bumps as we go.

Also, my three opponents withdrew, for reasons of their own, and I would not have wished to run unopposed.

It was only this last reason for my withdrawal which altered — at 7:25 Tuesday night. The other conditions still existed. To re-enter would have been, to me, putting desire for the office and the office itself ahead of personal integrity. Also in my opinion, to do this would have made me unworthy of the office. It would have corrupted the office itself, I think, if I should have had to get into it by sitting on my ideals.

I hope this answers the questions concerning "my obligation to the student body." After I had once withdrawn, I did not feel I could have been the officer they expected unless I renewed my candidatcy under relieved conditions.

MAY ALEXANDER

Dear Editor:

The recent issue concerning elections of the major officers on the campus of FSCW should have served as an impetus, an awakener, to arouse those who, heretofore, had sought relief from the madness of the world, time and events, by segregating themselves from the world. It was possible and necessary, for sanity's sake, for them to erect a protective wall of formalized response, thus keeping the spacious universe in abeyance; so they felt.

The majority of students, aided and abetted by this institution, have decided that instead of living a life of inquiry and challenge to live quietly and academically. It is far better for one to digest all the formulas, laws, morals and standards of man, than it is to openly and fearlessly reject and order a new and more palatable dish. At any rate, it seems so.

But there are some who have chosen to live the other way. They have chosen to discover life by trial and error, by being mistaken, egotistical, hopeful, confused and foolish. These are the ones who, in the end, will have advanced modern society and government; these will have been responsible for the freedom of the human race and from all the dogmaticism of our predecessors.

JAN McFARLAND.

To The Editor:

My feelings are hurt. . . During the space of two hours on Tuesday night last, some 20 or 30 blueandwhite —,greenandwhite —, blackandwhite—, and miscellaneously-clad individuals appeared on the steps to Westcott auditorium (where I spent the two convocation hours — Sophomore Council girl-who-has-my-name-on-her-roll, please not) to call me undemocratic, unfair, a "picket."

Well, now I don't know as I care to deny the last epithet, girls. After a perusal of Funk and Wagnalls Practical Standard Dictionary (p 858, c 1) I find that the word may mean (1) a pointed stick (flattery!) (2) a projectile with pointed front (?!) (3) a guard, as of a camp, to warn of enemy approach (surely, by now, we need no warning!) and (4) a person placed on guard or potral by a labor organization, as at a place affected by a strike (has anybody seen any labor organizations at Florida State College recently?)

Perhaps if we substitute for Messers F and W's definition a more specific one of our own—for example, we term picketing as the act of standing outside the doors of Westcott auditorium and making public one's opinions and intentions in regard to voting—then, yes, I was picketing convocation last Tuesday night.

So, too, were others who, like me, thought and still think the College Government Association elections of this week controlled so flagrantly that these persons did not chose them or later to vote, since by voting they felt they would be giving tacit approval to the system which protects and perpetuates controlled elections.

Also "picketing" the doors of the convocation were numerous persons who were endeavoring to persuade persons to enter and vote, as convinced that they were right as we were. There was little or no bloodshed. Very few people came to the scene of this "disgraceful picketing" undecided as to whether they would vote or not. And those who were undecided had an excellent opportunity to hear both sides of the argument and to go in or stay ont as they wished.

Isn't that the democratic way? If so, I protest against the charge of "undemocratic" leveled against me and my fellow students. Isn't it also the fair way? If so, I protest aginst the accusation that we were behaving unfairly.

Let's be careful how we term democratic practices "undemocratic." Cr else we may soon find ourselves fascistic practices "unfascistic."

PEGGY LU THOMPSON

TO BETTY SCHWARTZ

As she walked down the shaded path last night
She seemed to understand,
That the goal she had worked so hard to achieve
Had been crushed by a thoughtless hand.

Yet a smile was still upon her lips
And wise words at her command.

I saw that her head was still unbowed,
And her shoulders weren't bent at all,
For though they had caused her to stumble,
They could not make her fall.

Unblinded by the bitter words
She stands for truth and Right
With courage enough to speak
And strength enough to fight

As the night dissolved her from my view
I thought of the plea she had made
And the light that shone from her honest eyes
Was the song of the unafraid.
And she spoke of our rights before us,
And the trust she had not betrayed.

A FRESHMAN.

Editor, The Flambeau:

The stndents of Florida State College for Women who are asking for more responsibility in student government have the right to ask for that responsibility. It was through the request of students that the first responsibilities were granted, and through their requests that additional responsibilities were given through the years. That the administration will listen to proposals presented in good faith has been demonstrated more than once.

As a student of FSCW, I fought for principles occasionally. I remember a principle for which we students—specifically those in the journalism department — fought and won. We did not, however, fight the institution which it was our stated purpose to build into something better. As a graduate of FSCW, I have fought for principles. Some fights I have lost, perhaps, but I do not recall them. Some I had to work on for many months, with patience and judgment. I have never won by emotionalism alone, though emotionalism has been my besetting sin. When it beset me, I had to control it before I fought a good fight.

I believe it is wrong to fight as you have been fighting. I believe you are guilty of unfair and unethical practices. I believe you are tearing down much more than you are building up—including my personal faith in you as thinking students, if that is of any consequence. I believe you are betraying that for which administrative officers and students have worked for 41 years.

I am for your principle, and bitterly opposed to your methods.

BERTHA E. BLOODWORTH, '40.

Dear Editor,

I wish to express my opinion of several things that have been going on on this campus lately. I also wish to ask a few questions, to which I desire answers from anyone who is qualified to give them (my box number is 771, my room number is 40 Magnolia).

In the first place, I wish to state that I do not think the ethics and integrity with which certain people have acted in refusing to postpone elections, on the grounds that certain procedures are not subject to change, and then changing those procedures, are entirely above question. I wish to state that I do not believe we have the rights of citizens of the United States in regard to freedom of the press and freedom of speech. I wish to state that I have not voted, and that I think it is my own private affair; that I have attempted to explain to a number of people my reasons for not doing so; and that if this be treason, I am guilty.

Also, I would like to remark, that if someone were threatening me with violence and a friend of mine suggested that I defend myself, I would not consider her as being guilty of inciting revolt nearly so much as the person who threatened me. No one is obliged, so far as I can possibly ascertain, to refrain from making suggestions to any other person. There is quite a diversity of opinion among the people here on campus as to what constitutes treason. I, for one, have seen no evidence of anything I considered treasonable, and I have seen a handbill to which some reference has been made by persons of authority. According to Webster, in his well-known and widely accepted dictionary, treason is: the betrayal of any trust or confidence; treachery; perfidy; breach of faith; the offense of attempting by overt acts to overthrow the government of the state to which the offender owes allgiance. There are other statements made in the same paragraph concerning treason, but as they refer to acts against the royal family of the state concerned, I do not believe they apply in the present case.

I would like to know upon what grounds in our CGA constitution the change in election procedure has been made. I have been informed, by responsible persons in Senate, that it would be impossible to change this procedure. Until I have been shown the legality of this change, I cannot help feeling that it is very definitely questionable.

I would also like to question the abstract justice of forcing an election through when a majority of students have evidenced their desire of postponing that election.

Why does majority opinion carry no weight in a supposedly democratic institution? Why are students not considered citizens on this campus, when state and national law considers them such when they are at home? Why has the Office of the Dean of Students not either denied or affirmed Miss Schwartz' statement? Why was it stated in Senate that a certain girl had been approved as a candidate and posted her qualifications, when these statements have not been borne out by the facts? Above all, why, in a country that has fought for its democracy more than once, which has prondly tried to hold itself up to democratic standards, is an autocratic institution permitted to exist unchallenged?

Very disturbedly yours,
MARY CHARLES SKIPPER.

To The Students:

I wonder just what has happened to our representatives in Senate? Where are all the members we so intelligently chose in our elections last year? I am not quite so sure that they were chosen with such care, for I have seen few demonstrations of true representation in the last few Senate meetings which I have attended. Most of those elected seem to me to be expressing their own personal views, or adding their personal views to the suggestions of the student body. This was the cause for the defeat of our motion for the postponement of elections. Are we going to let this happen again? Can we tell the true viewpoints of our candidates from their statements and platforms as we attempted to do last year, or is it a better policy to judge from their previous actions? Did not we, as students, note the trend of voting in these Senate meetings—did we think far enough to realize that many of these votes did not carry out the idea of representation—which is certainly the first duty of every Senate member? I beseech you, as students seeking democratic objectives, to consider this point carefully before going to the polls in the coming elections.

JEAN ARNOT HELMS

Now that our (loosely termed) elections are over — pushed on us by our autocratic officers, despite overwhelming student protest—the time has come for reflection on the situation.

The sparse attendance at convocations Tuesday night was a definite proof of our feelings concerning voting in an election so firmly controlled by the Faculty Committee on Student Affairs and so grossly mismanaged by our CGA officers. Yet primaries were run on the voting machines where "10 people can constitute an election." and I congratulate you candidates who have the courage to go into office with less than one fourth of your student body behind you.

As for the minor elections—what happened, I wish to ask—to the convocation primaries? One has no choice but to believe that Miss Allison foresaw "no quorum" again, and so decided to leave us no choice of expression in this voting, since she evidently did not approve of the form which it took Tuesday night.

We consider this most unfair, particularly to our freshman candidates, but then fairness has been a very minor consideration in this whole matter.

We do, however, wish to say that "a new order" is on the horizon, and that the fight for freedom has just begun; we hereby extend an invitation to our present leaders (?) to return to campus next year at election time when the vestiges of this present "regime" will be gone forever.

M Looby

Dear Editor,

I am a freshman, and probably have more to lose by what I am going to say than Catherine Barrs, or Ann Carolyn Allison, because this is my first year, and their last.

My ideals are democratic. I believe in government and organization being run by its members, and for its members.

I want student government, just as much as anyone on this campus does, because I think that is the way it should be. I further think that students should have, and exercise, the right and the privilege of nominating, and electing whomever they choose.

Do you think that everyone who is now clamoring for free vote had voted in every election? I do not. Do you think therefore that they have the right to make any comment about a privilege that has not been taken advantage of wholeheartedly? I do not. Bear these thoughts in mind as I proceed.

I know why those who have not voted consistently are clamoring. It is because they are Americans but like so many others all over the nation, they do not really appreciate something until it is either gone, or being taken away from them. They just accept their privileges, and do nothing particularly to support them, until, at the last minute, they try to protect them by raising the proverbial roof. Things are just not done this way. Animals, plants, and yes, ideals, have to be nourished and cared for from day to day, or they perish

We fortunately do not know what it is to live in anything but a democracy. I hope we shall never know anything else. However, I wonder if maybe we are not on the verge by our demonstrations of losing our school democracy.

Certainly! That is the issue which is responsible for our saying, "Don't vote," "Don't go to convo April 16," "Withdraw your nomination." But what kind of democracy is displayed by those phrases? I fail to recognise any vestige of democracy in them, except the right to say them.

Speaking of freedom of speech, I have personally been reproached by people who do not maintain the same views as I. I do not reproach them in turn now, but try to stimulate their thinking into other logical channels where they have not ventured to think. I want them to consider every possible way before deciding on a stand. Don't people realize that by fighting among themselves verbally, they cannot win? Everyone should be, and for that matter is, entitled to voice his own opinion.

I think there is one way where students of all opinions can get together. This way is to go ahead and have elections, and have each one work for own candidate, and then when the candidates are elected, go to them with her ideas, and cooperate with them to fight this issue of our having a preudo-democracy.

We won't get this over night, oh, no. It will be a long battle of technicalities, red tape, debate, concessions, and oration. I know what you are thinking, "But, will it ever materialize?" I don't know, no one knows, but we must have faith in our cause and realize at the same time that our fight is one of convincing the proper authorities that we are capable of self government. This is the only way.

In the eyes of the laws of the United States, we are infants until we reach the age of 21, and this school is under the juridiction of the laws of the State of Florida. This in reality means our parents are the real voters, the real lawmakers. Don't you think the matter really reverts to their hands?

This issue may be compared to a personal experience you may have had with your parents. Did furious demonstration, or tact win that point for you?

We have to show our parents, and show the faculty that we are not only capable of self government, but that we also want it bad enough to exercise our right to vote. There should be no need to have any part of our Constitution read that there must be 51% voting in order to have an election. We should appreciate voting enough to have a 100% vote.

In closing, I would like to quote one of Theodore Roosevelt's axioms of living. "Though I may disagree with all that you say, I will defend to the death, your right to say it."

Mary Allison Clemons.

Dear Editor,

Since The Flambeau is a student publication which reflects all student opinion, we, the undersigned, feel that perhaps our views, hitherto unexpressed publicly will be of interest to others.

First we would like to mention the conduct at tonight's convocation of that faction of the student body which is upholding the "Free Vote or No Vote," to coin a slogan. We who wished to attend convocation and to express our opinion (however wrong it might be in the eyes of the others) first had to practically fight our way in amid the jeers of the more "enlightened" students. That was not too terrible as we were able to joke about it. But, after convocation was called to order, it disillusioned us terribly to hear the noise, the catcalls, the general confusion which reigned outside the auditorium. And for those who considered themselves justified to carry on so during a devotional was to us most rude and unjust. If this is the the type of people who declare that they should have control of the college government we will need a miracle and more to get us through this. If they believe that they stand for the domocratic ideals: tolerance, freedom of speech and press, free elections, etc, let them have respect for others who are expressing themselves and who are conducting a devotional before going on to the business of the meeting.

To go on to our other arguments. We were very much disappointed tonight that we were unable to vote. Why couldn't we? Because those students who did not want to vote would not attend convocation, there was not a quorum, therefore we could not vote. Why should we be denied the right to express our opinion just because it differs from the others? We differ in our methods to attain an ideal as far as our college government is concerned. But we should be allowed to act in the way we think is right as the others are acting in the way they think is right. That is the democratic way.

We do not deny the right of our opinion expressed but we do deplore the conduct of those who differ from us as we go to express ourselves and our opinions.

Clare Gray
Betsy Zunveile
Blanche Bosanquet
Estill Maiphurs
Gloria McVey

Dear Editor,

Because it may take a year, or even years, to straighten out the injustice that has been done the student body and to gain more freedom for ourselves, do you think we should lay down our verbal swords, realizing what we're up against and dropping the issue as hopeless? Do you think we should disregard the fact that one girl has been made the goat for something from which few are exempt of guilt and whose life will always be touched with soot from arbitrarily made, and, I believe, unjust accusations? Do you think we should disregard the fact that our student officers have failed us in not representing the will of the majority as they were elected to do? Do you think we should disregard the fact that the "powers-that-be" have tried to bully and by means of fear hold students, officers and otherwise, under their thumbs? Oh, no, my friends, no one wins that way except those in authority who will still be able to act in the same manner as they have in the past. The fight must be carried on now, as well as in the future. If we give up now, there will be no fight for the future, not until precisely the same thing happens again and the whole student body is stirred anew. Not to fight now is to miss our hour when the opposition is most vulnerable.

Legally, our hands seem to be tied. If we can't act through Senate and our other officers, then we can protest—we can protest loud and long! Someone will hear us. If not our "representative" officers, then maybe those outside will. What good will that do us? When placed in a position where all holds are barred, then we must ask for a miracle. An investigation of the disturbance on campus would reveal misunderstanding and lack of cooperation between administration and students, a feeling on the part of the administration that the issue at hand is unimportant and will blow over, a resentment of this feeling by the students, a student constitution which leaves us tied up in knots, and who knows what else! This would be our miracle and it is not too much to hope for. An investigation from the outside would be the ultimate. Then we would be on the offensive. Are you in favor of the principle, or not?

Not seldom has it been the heartbreak of those who fight for the right against almost unspeakable and unbearable odds, tha there are people who view t situation with shortsightednes casualness, and who say the od against us are too great, we can win!

In answer to those who ask wh we struggle against the presen legal or technical impossiblitie (1) We wholeheartedly believe the righteousness of our stand. wit: that our student officers ha failed in representing the majo ity and that a great injustice ha been done which reflects discred upon ourselves as students. W want a chance to rectify that mi take. (2) We believe that if w don't feel it strongly enough no to fight, we are lost.

I quote faculty members in saying that most revolutionary movements are initiated from you groups of student groups. It wa stated only in the light of th subject studied at the time an without any reference to us. Th reason remains incidental, but ho true is the statement! Just who going to protest against the conservatism, methodical manner o thinking, and apathy of growin age? Unfortunately, trust in human nature, trust in youth, doe not grow with age; nor does greed love of power, disillusionment, an compromise of moral standard decrease with age Who is goin to fight for the freedom of youth if not youth itself? Youth, wit its life and vigor, its unquenchab desire for right, with its optimism

One can find almost anywhe analogies of struggles against impossible odds. For those who ar religious, the life of Christ is the story of a never-ending figh against authority. But he belie ed in himself and his cause, an won, didn't he? Most religions today are based upon the teaching of this one man. Also, in the birth of this great country of ours, the United States of America, the cause of the colonists seemed hopeless against such a great nation as Great Britain, partly because the colonies were so disunited except in ideal. Something held them together long enough to win the war, and even after that there were verbal struggles among themselves. Some wanted one kind of government, some another. America had, indeed, a very confused notion of what it meant in acclaiming democracy. But they did eventually work it out among themselves. Some wanted one kind of government, some another. America had, indeed, a very confused notion of what it meant in acclaiming democracy. But they did eventually work it out among themselves and look at our country today—far from perfect but also far ahead of all other nations in civilized progress. Confusion did not defeat them. Can you see no parallels? The two instances mentioned are big, our instance is small, but nonetheless it is comparable.

It is a characteristic of age to tend toward "conservatism" just as it is a characteristic of youth to tend toward "radicalism." Conservatism and radicalism have little meaning except when used in relation to each other, and they need some qualifying. Conservatism is good, it is necessary, useful and radicalism must be tempered with it. But, where there is conservatism in radicalism, there is no radicalism in conservatism (I speak of age groups). I, myself, am very conservative on numerous points, on this issue however, I might be termed radical because I believe so ferverently in it, but there is still some conservatism in my thoughts, decisions, and actions. I speak for all who believe as I do in saying that we do not blindly act for the moment, even though it may appear so.

We, in due time may become altogether conservative. We, when we lose the taste of battling against seemingly impossible conditions, when we are tired in body and in spirit, when we are tied down with other responsibilities which seem to come first in consideration, we may then view with absolutely conservative eyes the youth of our day and try to force our conservatism on them. But that is not right? And why should some of us now try to act old before our time?

I beg, I plead, I urge you to think, think, think! Think for the long-range future of our school, not for just next year, and apply the present to it! Don't say: "Wait 'till next year, when we can work with the officers elected this year" (officers who incidentally were elected by a minority of the student body voting). To wait is disasterous! To wait is really to give up hope.

Mary Jo Whidden

Registrar Meeting

Dr Milton W Carothers, registrar, will leave Sunday for Atlanta to attend a meeting of the National Association of College Registrars. When he returns he and Dr Campbell will attend the meeting of the Florida Association of Colleges and Universities to be held at Rollins.

Campus Organizations Represented In Skitnight With Senior Hall Winner

s, skits, and more skits were rder of the day, or rather Playnight last Saturday night, Shirley Duggan, chairman, istress of ceremonies.

campus organizations were ented in the program. The Xi Deltas started the night ith a hero, maiden and villain. To kill or not to kill, was the question. The vil wasn't killed, much to every surprise, in spite of an aw with table forks.

em next presented their which was a "Dr Kildare" A Tallahassee lassie had rible dream about how some r classmates made their liv after college days. The high were "Hoagy" Allison and ua Girls. Also featured was favorite dog of the campus.

lion staged a dance skit a group of girls dressed in with large green hair bows. Ley acted as the jitterbug in tails and top hat. New ion taps gave some short ex ons of tricky dance and jit routines to climax the skit.

or Hall brought down the with their skit about three y seniors and their interpre of senior hall rules. The were dressed in caps and s, under which they fashion wore dungarees, and one Miss a huge red bow to adorn her robe. The first scene took in the Sweet Shop about ight flash. The next scene aid in "Plato Row" in the nce of Dr Anna Forbes Lid Miss Roberta Ackerman, Dr Heinlein, and Dr Claude These instructors were g last quarter's grades by process of a tiddly-winks The higher the tiddly-wink, gher the grade.

er Nell Clark read an impos s of characters including faculty members and students. Spirogira's skit began, starring Chloe Clingingvine. Chloe had arrived at "Agnes Blott's School for Girls" dragging her luggage behind her and weighed down by the best wishes of her local chamber of commerce. As her four years in college went by, she was unwittingly tapped for many organizations, "B" Club, Glee Club, Trout, and of course, Spirogira.

Sophomore Council ended Skit Night with a take-off of two very old alumnae discussing white skirts and blue jackets of the past. They expressed great horror at the "brief" costumes of today and were further shocked when the girls sang an original song, "Let the Rest of the World Go Dry."

Senior Hall was awarded first prize, a huge cake, for the best skit. The tie for second place went to Spirogira and Esteren for which they received two frosted cupcakes.

ghteen Students

Continued from page one

Anna Horne, Nancy Ward, MacEdwards, Betty Don Babe Evans, Gloria McVey, Tucker Clarice Trueblood and Hall.

ing the convention the s were divided and each per went to the meeting that she most interested in. FSC had entatives at practically each g so that a well rounded of the ideas of the conven could be obtained. One of meetings attended by the stu was at the Municipal Opera e where physical fitness dem rations were shown. In one nstration a group of St Louis ersity boys tossed telephone from one hand to the other. their shoulders and in all s of contortions. "Talley las do not believe they are quite that," said Miss Stanion.

Report Given

Continued from page one

mittee, Sarah Lou Wells, candidate for secretary of CGA. Babs McCarthy and Irma Lee Shepherd, candidates for junior representative to judiciary; Elaine Brown, candidates for treasurer of WAA. Evelyn Shea, candidate for secretary of WAA: Betty Dixon, Mary Calley and Jane Hardacre, candidates for sophomore representative to judiciary.

Approximately 15 of thes candidates later re-entered the race, but three did not. Stating that they could not conscienciously run in this election, Betty Dixon, May Alexander and Jane Hardacre did not participate as candidates has been excellent, with approximately one hundred girls attending last weekend, stated Miss Willbrand.

FSC Camp Gets

Continued from page one

The ruling on obtaining camp permits has been changed, according to the camp director, who stated that "students may obtain permits for day (not overnight parties) from residence counselors only on Saturday and Sunday and those wishing to go on Friday can get a permit from me during my office hours, 1:30 to 2:00, Tuesday through Friday." Cabins can be signed up for, as far as a month ahead of time, during these hours.

Camp will be available this summer subject to the chaperonage of one faculty member and a permit, which must be obtained before the vacation period begins, and all camp rules must be observed.

Members of the Administrative Camp Committe, appointed earlier this year, are: Dean R L Eyman, professor of education; Miss Anne Pope, head residence counselor of freshmen; and Miss Willibrand.

Tarpon Practicing For May Day Show

The Tarpon Club is energetically practicing this week for its next performance on May Day. The formation planning is coming along well, but the theme is to remain a secret, B J Singleton, president of Tarpon stated.

Tarpon added Barbara Irving to its list of new minnows Monday. A list of the others has previously been printed. Practice for minnows is now on Monday and that for members is on Thursday at 5 o'clock.

Graduates

Continued from page one

dred was editor of the Flambeau her last year here.

Two former journalism students are known to have published books. Evelyn Fisher Dewitt is the author of the recently published The Old Caboose which has been approved for Florida public school use. Mrs Dewitt formerly worked on The American Observer in Washington, D C, a periodical circulating widely in schools and colleges and used as an aid in the study of current events. Edna Hoffman, another authoress from FSC, has written The Bird Bander, published by Lippincott.

Florida State students holding editorial positions on papers and magazines are spread literally from coast to coast. On the other side of the United States from those already mentioned in New York, is Mrs Lula Joughin Martin who was last reported to be working in the editorial department of the Tribune-Sun in San Diego, California. In Florida, Margaret Lafferty has been society editor of the Florida Times Union in Jacksonville and Petrea Cabiniss, society editor of the Pensacola Journal. In Miami Louise Berger is society editor of the Miami Herald and Vivian Dallett Orr, before her marriage, worked on the Miami Daily News and later as associate editor of the Society Pictoral, a magazine published in that city. Jane Quinn formerly worked on the St Augustine Record and is now assistant editor of the Florida Catholic in St Augustine.

Two graduates, Martha Lumpkin and Bertha Bloodworth are in the field of publicity, Miss Lumpkin with the OPA in Atlanta, Miss Bloodworth, at FSC.

Those graduates who chose to teach journalism after gaining some experience in the field include; Barbara Garfunkel, Miami Senior High, Terry Gill, in one of the Tampa High schools, and Nedra McNamara, Coral Gables. Miss Pearls Shepard and Mrs Vivian Ahlsweh Williams have both taught journalism at FSC. Before coming here to teach Miss Shepard worked on the St Petersburg Times and Mrs Williams, on the Sarasota Herald.

In the field of censorship during the war were Betty Ann Taylor and Marguerite Diaz.

Other former students whose whereabouts and positions are known to have reported for various papers and done other incidental writing. Barbara Ress, before her recent marriage, reported for the Miami Herald and Elionne Hosford and Margaret Painter for the Miami Daily News. Eleanor Yothers Fisher and Elaine Klepper both worked for some years on the Orlando Sentinel. Audrey Hewitt is now connected with the Winter Haven Daily Chief. Frances Brunson Grimes after reporting for the Sarasota Herald was later with the Tampa Times until her marriage. Cordelia Barclay is now working for the Tampa Tribune and Lucy Fulghum O'Brien has formerly worked for thet paper. Those who have worked for the Tampa Times include Harriet Bensen Grimes and Mary Anna Hampton. Sara Worth and Rachel Bail are now working for the Tampa Times.

Former students who have reported for out-of-state papers include Leona Ogle who works on a paper in Pennsylvania and Louise Lisk Marrow who, before her marriage, worked on the Montgomery Advertiser in Alabama.

WAA's Constitution Revised for Name

After seven months of constitutional revision, WAA has been renamed the Women's Recreational Association. Jo Guthrie, president of WRA announced yesterday that College Council has approved the change for two reasons.

First, when sports were first instituted on this campus athletics such as Odd-Even competition and intramurals were the only recreational activities. However, throughout the years, the program has grown so that now it is more recreational than athletic. At present the Outing committee, playnight, cheerleading, the life-saving corp, Tarpon club, F club, the Physical Educational association, Odd-Even events, intramurals and after dinner recreation, which begins this Monday, are all included in WRA's functions.

Secondly, many people believed that WAA symbolized athletics in which only Physical Education majors participated. In spite of the change in name of the organization, however, the program will not include all recreational phases of campus life, according to Jo.

She added that many colleges have recently made a similar change in the name of their recreational organization. While to belong to the WRA in many schools requires the payment of fees by students, here every girl automatically becomes a member when she enters school.

The chairman of the playnight committee will be elected from the student body at large beginning next year. At present Shirley Duggan is chairman of the committee.

Woman Jurist

Continued from page one

of Florida, and the executive council of the college.

Judge Allen is a member of Phi Beta Kappa, Kappa Beta Pi, Daughters of the American Revolution, American Association of University Women, American Bar Association, and Business and Professional Women's club, which has named her the woman of the year. She has received honorary law degrees from Smith college, Western Reserve University, New York University, Ohio State University, Wesleyan university, Oberlin college, North Carolina University, and Pennsylvania State College for Women.

X-Ray Schedule

Continued from page one

susceptible, but it is also more easily cured," stated Dr Chayes, "and since the only hope for the eradication of tuberculosis lies in catching it at an early stage, it is hoped that all students will cooperate with Miss Dorothy Fulton, the Red Cross X-ray technician."

The X-ray schedule will be found elsewhere in the paper.

Life Saving Corps To Conduct Classes

The Life Saving Corps will begin two classes in swimming next week; one for those interested in senior life saving and the other for swimming instructors. A meeting will be held Monday at 7:30 p m in the gymnasium for those wishing to take either one of these courses. Nell Lester and Pat Millican will teach the senior life saving classes, said Skooks Lester.

Tuesday night at 9:30 p m the Life Saving Corps will meet to plan a trip to Wakulla Springs.

Heinlein Speaks

Continued from page one

South and other parts of the U S and extending even to Canada and Mexico.

Dr Heinlein received his PhD in psychology from Johns Hopkins University in 1927 and has since had wide experience in this field all over America. Honors have been accorded him on many occasions, and his contributions to state and national publications have included Science, Psychological Review, the Florida Academy of Sciences publication, and others.

In his address, "Lest We Forget," Dr Heinlein deals with the unfortunate results of regimentation during and between the first and second World Wars. He states that "the process of regimentation, by its very machine-like nature, bogs down individual creativeness, and, by way of contrast, glorifies the uniformity of mass behavior, however stupid such behavior may be at the time of ite occurrence."

The nuclear physicists, who "dared to question and to criticize the proclaimed wisdom of those in a superior position of authority and power," are vivid illustrations of the unpopularity of critics in a military hierarchy. Again under a system of regimentation, Dr Heinlein says, these scientists have had their research careers controlled by a "none too tactful" military authority. The whole of educational organizations are said to frequently assume that same hierarchial pattern with its accompanying aversion to criticism.

"In our universities and colleges, where a major portion of research is undertaken, criticism is able to function at its best when academic freedom is an actuality and not merely a figure name as is so often the case. There can be no genuine progress in science without the free interplay of criticism and the free exchange of ideas, however radical and heretical the ideas may seem to administrative authorities bent on preserving so-called "harmony" and "quietude" in the life of the campus. The history of ideas is a history of intellectual conflict. The appeal for harmony and quietude is all too often an appeal for intellectual inertia and stagnation."

An avowed purpose of the address is a critical evaluation of the ideas, procedures and ethics of certain testing methodology. Examples of those malpractices are the so-called projective test techniques such as ink-blots analysis for neuro-psychiatric disorders, and programs of pencil and paper testing designed for the purpose of "speedily unravelling the heretofore mysteries that were tightly knit in the complex web of mental life." Errors such as the persistent abuse of abstractions, the use of loose, meaningless terminology, inadequate statistical validity, and fallacious interpretations are among those condemned by Dr Heinlein as he sees them in the "authoritarian psychiatric dogma" practiced in military classification.

"And, let me add, I am most deeply concerned about the amount of harm that awaits future undergraduates when they are subjected like so many guinea pigs to these defective and injurious devices."

Ping Pong Finals To Be Held Today

Finals of the intramural ping-pong tournament which has been conducted this week will be held this afternoon at 5 o'clock in the recreation room of the Rowena Longmire building, according to Ann Stambaugh, new intramurals manager. Participating in this tournament are Georgene Davis for Chi Omega; Ann Grant for Sigma Kappa; Jane Arnold, Alpha Chi Omega; Sylvia Muscovitch, Delta Epsilon Phi; Jean Oldfather, Kappa Alpha Theta; Evelyn Breedlove for Broward; Jean MacFarland for Gilchrist; Betty Jean Phillips, Delta Zeta. Bebe Minardi for Pi Beta Phi and June McCurdy for Alpha Gamma Delta.

No practice points are necessary for entrants in the shuffleboard tournament which begins Monday and lasts the rest of the week. The shuffleboard courts near the field house will be the scene of intramural games every afternoon at 5 p m. Miss Stambaugh urged that all dormitories and sororities wishing to enter players for that tournament submit their names to her at 224 Broward before noon Sunday as no applications will be taken after that date.

Black Mountain

Continued from page one

the college, and suggest needed changes in the curriculum, which includes no required courses. This is made possible by the presence of the student officere at all meetings, except those at which individual students are discussed. The students elect these officers through free nominations. "The faculty doesn't even think about interfering," Professor Albers said. "It's democratic that way." He pointed out that studente ere on all committees except the fees committee, which is composed of two teachers, and added that students pay on a sliding scale according to their ability to pay.

"We believe in co-education, and for that reason more than half of the students are boys," the professor remarked.

When asked about his philosophy of abstract painting, Professor Albers replied that they expressed a prophetic feeling of what is necessary to say. Every new kind of art is a new way of articulation according to the professor, and he believes that an honest artist will be representative of the mentality of the times. "The growing interest in art and museums is amazing," Professor Albers said, "the development of which in America can not be compared with in Europe."

Professor Albers said that he had no feeling about FSC since he had been here only a short time, although he did remark that the school was too large for him to make any criticism or evaluation.

"Education is the development of the head, of the heart, and of the hand," Professor Albers concluded, "and so far we have developed only the head."

Befuddled, Confused F Club Taps Again Undergo Tribulations as Lowly Goats

Eighteen wide-eyed, bewildered girls, garbed in white and wearing an inverted "F" on their sweaters, stood outside room 402, of the Longmire building, Tuesday night after the tapping ceremony at dinner. They were waiting for goat trainer, Barbara Irving, to instruct them on the do's and don'ts of a goat. Little did they realize that after the meeting, they would only be as befuddled and confused as they were before, when they thought of all the things they had to do before their meeting next Tuesday! Ann Seaward, freshman, exclaimed that "It's all very exciting and wonderful, even though we are still confused as to what to do next to please the members." There is one word that is definitely not a part of the goat's vocabulary, according to Ann, and that is "can't."

"Shining shoes, collecting jokes, learning goat songs, and visiting members, are just a few of the busy duties of the new taps," said Sis Miller, who has been busy keeping up with these duties since becoming a goat.

When asked how she felt about being tapped, Sara Lou Wells exclaimed that she had been keeping a watchful eye on the dining room door all during dinner, for she had a feling that something was in the air. "My fingernails have sure taken a beating this past week at meals," she said, "and I'm glad I can at last let them grow out again."

Elaine Brown said that she has had a hard time remembering to address each of the eighty members with "most honorable, distinguished and esteemed F club member." "I had it all figured out as to how I would feel if tapped, but when the time came I lost my appetite and just couldn't sit still," she exclaimed.

With the goating period in its prime, sights of girls walking backwards, scraping on their knees to members, and possessing bewildered looks of which command to obey next when approached by a herd of membere, will be familiar happenings on campus.

New taps are Elaine Brown Betty Burch, Marilyn Dewey, Doris DuBois, Jean Fliess, Virginia Goodell, Lucy Harding, Margery Holm, Jane Carol Levy, Barbara Lindsey, Sis Miller, Amelia Pavese, Alva Ray, Ann Seaward, Anne Shull, Peggy Stanaland, Pauline Tuttle, Sara Lou Wells, and Mary (Herky) White.

Shores and Tryon

Continued from page one

ing an alumnae organization was formed and Miss Renee Brown was elected chairman.

Miss Tryon reports an equally interesting trip. As immediate past president of the Alumnae Association she attended alumnae meetings in Palatka and Sanford, April 10 and 11. At the evening meeting in Palatka, college affairs, programs, and activities were discussed. A group of high school seniors questioned the former students about the college. Alumnae present represented a wide range of graduation years and many are planning to come to Alumnae College which will begin May 10.

The following day in Sanford alumnae gathered for dinner at the Mayfair hotel. Among well known alumnae present were two former members of the college staff, Mrs Katherine Byrd Whitner, who was director of Landis Hall, and Mrs Julia Gehan Chase, once student secretary of Ruge Hall.

Baralt Speech

Continued from Page One

cretia Ilsley spoke on "Current Political Issues in Latin America." Dr Ilsley, an associate professor of political science, regularly teaches a course on Latin American governments.

Yesterday afternoon the School of Music presented a contribution for the celebration of Pan-American week. This was held in the music annex, and consisted of various musical numbers.

HAVE YOUR PRICELESS DIPLOMA
BEAUTIFULLY FRAMED
Expertly done for you in any desired size, color, or style
Ward's Paint Store
204 S. ADAMS

Everything for Easter
The prettiest compliment you can pay . . . choose
- Perfumes
- Colognes
For Old Fashioned Charm—Also
- Peggy Sage Gift Sets
- Revlon Gift Sets
- Candies
BENNETT'S
2-DRUG STORES-2
College Inn Pharmacy—Phone 800
Monroe St. Pharmacy—Phone 93
MOTORCYCLE DELIVERY

Put On Your Easter Bonnet
and have a glamorous
Photograph Taken
at
No appointment necessary
Tooley Myron Studios
of Master Photography

Our First Peacetime Easter
. . . . . a day for thankfulness
YON'S HARDWARE

BE LOVELY
for EASTER
Adorable Easter bonnets in straws, flowers and in shades to match your new outfit
BEAUTIFUL PURSES AND GLOVES
You'll find everything to match your Easter ensemble at the Surprise Store
101-105 E. JEFFERSON

Palm Sunday Vespers Held

Organists, Choral Groups Climax Easter Series

A choral, organ, and vespers program was held last Sunday afternoon in Westcott auditorium as the Palm Sunday climax of the pre-Easter series that have been presented during the last few weeks. The impressive program consisted of 12 organists and 13 choirs.

Each choir performed individually, and all joined together in the hymn, "Long Hast Thou Stood, O Church of God" by Lindeman. The choirs participating were: St John's Episcopal Junior Choir directed by Miss Margaret Henry with Mrs B A Meginniss, organist; Presbyterian Student Choir directed by Dalia Santos with Miss Katherine Phillips, organist; Methodist Senior Choir directed by Miss Madge Clayton with Miss Margart McCain, organist; Baptist Junior Choir directed Fawn Trawick who was also organist; Methodist Junior Choir directed by Miss Madge Clayton with Miss Margaret McCain organist; Baptist Student Choir directed by Patricia Millican with Evelyn Ann Doyle, organist; Baptist Senior Choir directed by Fawn Trawick who was also organist; Methodist Student Choir directed by Miss Madge Clayton with Ann Caroline Allison, organist; Episcopal Student and YBSL Choir directed by Sarah Lewis with Betty Jean Linderman, organist; Baptist Youth Choir directed by Fawn Trawick; St John's Episcopal Church Senior Choir directed by Mrs Ramona Beard with Rebecca Rodenberg, organist; Christian Church Choir directed by Florine Marlatt who was also pianist; and Presbyterian Church Choir directed by Mrs W R Latham with Katherine Phillips, organist.

The Hillel Choir and the Methodist High School Choir were unable to appear as scheduled, but the other 13 choirs sang a concert which carried the Easter spirit. The entire group was dressed in red, black, purple, and white robes.

Mrs Ramona Beard, associate professor of organ, was the director of the entire program and the combined choirs. She played an organ solo, "Thou Art the Rock" by Muler. Dr R D Miller, associate professor of philosophy and religion, played "Estabat Mater Doloroso" by Lemaigre as an organ solo.

Piano Compositions Presented on Radio

Virginia Der Garry, Virginia Wilson, and Ann Jernigan were the three guest music editors last night at the Garnet and Gold broadcast that is held every Thursday at 7:30 p m.

Virginia Der Garry's piano solo was "Memories from My Childhood" by Pinto, a Brazilian composer. This number was played in recognition of Pan-American Day. Virginia Wilson played "Doctor Gradus Pranassum" and Ann Jernigan played "The Oirl With the Flaxen Hair", both by Der Garry. A student of the radio speech class was news editor.

X-Ray Schedule

Demonstration School—Thursday
All food handlers, Mendenhall group, dairy—Friday
Faculty and Staff—Monday from 4-6 p m
The Village
Bryan
Campuside
Hillside
Parkside
Sally House
Monday from 7:30-9:30 p m
Reynolds—Tuesday from 4-6 p m
Jennie Murphree—Tuesday from 7:30-9:30 p m
Gilchrist—Thursday from 4-6 p m
Landis—Thursday from 7:30-9:30 p m
All Sorority members—Friday from 4-6 p m
Magnolia
Broward
Home Management
Friday from 7:30-9.30 p m
Day Stdents—Monday (April 29) from 4-6 p m

Gator Talk . . .

By Johnny Walker and Tom Henderson

After an absence of several weeks, due principally to campus elections, mid-semester tests, and the appearance of Pabst's on draft at Dave's Billiard Emporium, we have dragged ourselfs to the console of our mighty Corona portable to let our fingers wander idly over the keys, seeking to strike those shimmering, quivering chords of profundity and mirth so typical of your correspondents.

We were so afraid that by our failure to appear in the pages of The Flambeau we might lose our strangle hold upon all Tallahassee intellectualdom. But we disgress, let us turn to more vague and uninteresting topics than ourselves lest we convey the impression of ego-mania.

A Peek into the News of the Week

Henry Scott, satirical concert pianist, appeared here Tuesday night before a packed house of fishmongers and opium addicts. Mr Scott reported that he had not performed before so receptive an audience since he appeared before Local 69 of the Herring Sniffers Union.

Remnants of the Confederate Army, stationed here with the University ROTC unit, tramped by this week in review, in honor of Pfc Freddy McGurgle, war hero extraordinary, who was awarded the sharpshooters medal earlier this year at a mass meeting of the communist party of Salt Pork, West Virginia, for service during the last great conflict. Westbrook Pegler made the presentation. McGurgle is reported to have spoken briefly, but movingly upon the subject, "It Was Rough". Incidently, McGurgle is hard at work upon his new book, "I Found An Athiest In A Foxhole".

Now we beg a moment for a few pertinent remarks. We have tried to point out to you in our writing certain accepted modes of conduct in an effort to mold you into better rounded young American women. For example "thou shalt not partake of excessive quantities of corn whiskey before breakfast". Prithee, let not thy standards fall during the summer. Wait until we return next fall.

Vacation is fast approaching, and our thoughts naturally turn to thoughts of summer pursuits. We have had numerous suggestions (all obscene) as to how we might spend the summer. In order to determine the best possible way to use our valuable time, we hereby announce a contest and urge our many readers to write upon the question "How to Spend a Vacation on a Limited Budget."

The setting may be laid in any corner of the world save Lower Slobovia, expenses must not exceed the national debt, and we must not be required to date more than three women per night. Pocket money for refreshments (euphemism) shall not exceed $11.26 per hour. Suggestions for a wardrobe should be included. Mail in care of your correspondents.

The two best answers will receive a masterpiece record, transcribed right here in the abode of your columnists. And we're not kidding either about those prizes, they're ready to be mailed. Incidently we must warn the winners not to play their records at Sunday school.

◆

Odd and Even Teams Bat and Ping Balls

Odd-Even softball and badminton practices are coming along splendidly according to reports from the respective leaders. "After a week of practice we'll be ready to take on the Dodgers," confidently states Frankie Hall, Even softball leader.

Mickey Chambers, Odd softball leader, also sounds confident as she says that the kids are working hard: "We've got good material. The team is shaping up fine."

For badminton, Jean Koesy, Even leader, has announced that Even players started challenging for positions on the ladder last Tuesday. There are approximately twenty players out for the sport and, of course, they have the makings of a winning team, says Jean.

Nancy Ward, Odd badminton leader, speaks of enthusiastic players and the approaching ladder tournament. Nancy attended the national convention of the Association of Health, Physical Education, and Recreation in St Louis, April 6-14. In her absence Virginia Palmer and Nita Nord took charge.

Bryan Formal Has "Easter" for Theme

"The Bryan formal dance held last Saturday in the hall parlor was a wonderful success," said Evelyn Hare, dormitory social chairman. Music was provided by the Leon High orchestra under the direction of Jerry Kohler. The Easter theme was carried out in the half-hour intermission program.

Chairman of the program committee was Marge Graydon. The girls taking part in the style show were: Betty Jo Bozeman, Oloria Cummings, Mary Lina Lassing, Martha Magruder, Betty Jo McBride, Art Skevakis, Jean Sutton, Jean Thompson, Mary Walker and Dorothy Wells. Fran Williams sang "It Might as Well be Spring." Emma Mae Murray played the piano selections "Fantasy Impromptu" by Chopin and "Prelude" by Debussy. Irene Sanders played "Boogie." Jeanne Bagley presented a Spanish dance solo and also a ballroom dance number with Joy Simpson.

Mistress of Ceremonies, Rosemary Fleming, was assisted by Petey Dey, the stooge, and Ruth Ellen Olson, who operated the spotlight.

◆

Panhellenic Dance Scheduled April 27

The Panhellenic dance will be next Saturday night, April 27, from 8:30 until 12 p m. Johnny Leonard's orchestra will play. The sorority shields will be used for decoration although the dance will have no special theme. Special guests will include Dr and Mrs Campbell and the members of the faculty committee on sorority affairs.

Before intermission Martha Abbott, Panhellenic president, Virginia Budd, secretary-treasurer, and the 1945-46 presidents of the sororities will be presented. There will be a no-break dance for new initiates before intermission, too.

After intermission the new 1946-47 presidents will have a lead-out dance.

◆

Campaign Is On

A Keep Off the Orass campaign has been launched by the Sophomore Council. Their first project was the plowing up of the path between the Sweet Shop and Landis in order to replant the grass, announced Jo Long, chairman of the council.

Keep off the grass signs have also been made by the members of the council, as a reminder to those who forget about the life of a blade of grass.

This campaign will be carried on until the campus lawn is rid of all its path, Jo stated.

Anonymous Interview

By Lei Marshall

"Clang!" went the letter slot on the mailbox for the third time. "At last!"—the thought flashed through my mind,—"Here's my victim."

When the victim heard that she was the girl chosen for this week's ononymous interview, she let out a mournful "Oh my goodness!" But after calming down somewhat she gave her information in a low, smooth voice.

Our friend was a petite sophomore who lives in Gilchrist. She was wearing a candy-striped dress, a black Navy kerchief over her brown natural curly hair, fluffy socks and hattered brown loafers.

"Candy," as we'll call her, when questioned about a new constitution, answered, "I think it's a good idea and I'm very much in favor of it. I think there'll be a big to-do about it but we'll come through all right in the end—at least I hope so!"

When "Candy" graduates after four long years of majoring in modern languages at Florida State College, she hopes to work for the government as an interpreter or translator. But she's planning on taking eighteen hours of education just in case teaching is the only job available

"Candy's" home town is St Augustine, although her family came originally from Massachusetts. Her grey-blue eyes sparkled as she said that she loves to ski, skate and play tennis. She is not a sorority girl and doesn't have time to belong to many organizations on campus. Last year the Outing Club claimed her as a member.

Just as we were getting to our final subject — men — the eleven o'clock class stampeded through the Post Office dragging poor "Candy" along. Her last words above the roar of voices were "He's tall, blond and has green eyes, but I think I'll be an old maid." What a disappointment!

◆

Guest to Speak

Miss Louise Gay, training director for Davison-Paxon Company of Atlanta, Georgia, will speak on the subject of "Opportunities in Store Service" Monday afternoon at 5:00 in 303 Westcott. This group meeting will be open to all interested students.

Individual conferences on Tuesday will be arranged for those desiring to confer with Miss Gay for further information on this subject. However, students who arrange conferences are also asked to attend the meeting on Monday night.

◆

Evens Practice

Joy Littla, Even tennis leader, reports that sixteen girls appeared on the courts ready to practice forehands, backhands, and serves in preparation for the Odd-Even tennis clashes. With the return of Babe Evans to the Even practice courts, the chances of the team have greatly risen says Joy.

Joy also says that an ability ladder has been made out with those who are practicing listed according to their skill. It is the object of each player to rise as high as possible on the ladder

President's Notice

April 30 is the final deadline for all orders for graduation invitations, according to J G Wheeler, manager of the College Bookstore. Seniors planning to graduate at the end of this quarter who desire invitations must have ordered and paid for their invitations at the Bookstore before the deadline.

INSIDE RED BRICK WALLS

Opportunity knocks but once and lightly, they say, and so when someone asked Ivy if she'd like to continue her column this week, she said coyly, "I'd love to," and knocked down three chairs getting to a typewriter.

Well, we'll be able to start next year off with some competent officers, thanks to the faculty. Lucky for us immature students, for we in our immature way might have elected someone immature enough to believe that she could think for herself!

We have a letter from a girl who signs herself "Dumbfounded," and we can see her point. She made two A's on the only tests she had in Class X, and an A on her termpaper, which her professor claimed was the best in the class. And so when she received an F in the course she was (putting it midly) slightly taken back. Later, she discovered that her professor just up and decided that she had cut his class entirely too much, and so —— that was that!

You must have heard about the F Club goat who was slightly disturbed when told that there would be a nine weeks goating period. It must be realized that there are only eight more weeks of school!

We wonder how much longer that "amendment" is going to lie forgotten (?) on someone's desk. After all it's gotta be this or that (it better be this) and you can't postpone the inevitable, inevitably! Can you?

And that is all for now. And so until next time, Ivy leaves you with the battle-cry of the Wamp-Wamp Indians (which anyone who has ever visited Gainesville may use) HA—HOO!

Storybook Characters Reveale As Theme of Freshman Carniv

An expectant hush fell over the audience, the spotlight focused on the far end of the gymnasium, and the theme of the Freshman Carnival skit was at long last revealed.

The huge storybook, from which emerged nursery-rhyme characters, was the center of attraction. Oh's and Ah's escaped unwilling upperclassman lips, as the storybook panorama of Freshman talent unfolded before the eyes of some 1000 students.

Unexpected difficulties arose; paramount of these occurred during the act of "The Three Musketeers," Lucille Davis, Louise Shonter, and Jackie Jones, when the juke got stuck. The audience, fortunately believing this to be part of the act, were unaware of the dismay of the entire cast and enjoyed it thoroughly, judging from the loud applause and shrill whistles immediately following.

The microphone pulled a fit of temperament at the last minute, causing everyone to strain her ears to catch the soft, low voice of Dal Stever, as she sang "Candy" to Catherine Gallager, who portrayed "King Candy," the jolly M C. of the skit.

As a finale, the chorus and cast formed a heart in the middle of the gym and sang "Somewhere Over the Rainbow, as a parting salute before total darkness enveloped the gym.

Dancing went on before and after the skit, in a rope enclosed space in front of the storybook, while games were played, fortunes told, and hot dog stands, candy and coke booths did a boo business along both sides o gaily decorated gym.

"Polly" Tuttle, Freshman President, whose guiding supported the skit players a general supervised the prepar which lasted for almost five is due a vote of thanks fo "best Freshman Carnival years, according to many e siastic upperclassmen.

◆

Omicron Nu Elects

Esther Louise Dale, Fl State College junior, was el to membership in Omicron national Home Economic h ary, at a meeting of the or sation Monday evening.

Esther, the only junior of society, will be initiated Jocelyn Zeigler on April 25

ABILITY

• You have ability, or you would be here in college. Now add a Gi secretarial course to your coll background and you're all set the pick of the job-crop. Perso placement service in four cities. F catalog, College Course Dean.

KATHARINE GIBB

NEW YORK 17 ... 230 Park
BOSTON 16 ... 90 Marlboroug
CHICAGO 11 ... 720 N Michigan
PROVIDENCE 6 ... 155 Ange

Best Wishes for a Joyous Easter

Ray Jewelry Co.

104 E. College Ave
Phone 1742

SYLLABUS FOR A SLEEK SILHOUETTE

"Power Miracle"

by Miss Seventeen

Create an exciting study in a curvesome you with persuasive girdles of Power Miracle . . . the wonder mesh with bi-directional stretch Pare your posterior . . . trim your tummy Power Miracle controls with a caress . leaves you free to romp and rollick as you please. At better stores—$5.

Miss Seventeen Foundations
New York 1, N. Y.

It's New!

"BACHELOR'S CARNATION"

The Latest Lipstick Sensation

REVLON took something from the boys and added it to our glamour. An exciting shade that's not too red . . . not too dark. The perfect shade to match your new Easter outfit.

Your man will be mad about it, and it stays on and on and on!

Martin & Dalton

DRUG STORE
210-212 S. Adams

Free Flight Instruction

ONE HOUR GIVEN TO THE HOLDERS OF THE CARDS WITH THE LUCKY NUMBERS

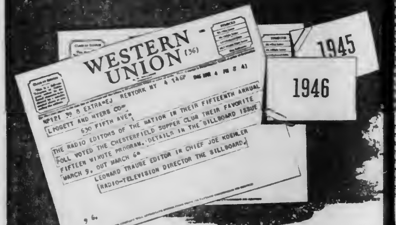
First—You've got to have written permission from your parents to fly in private airplanes, or special permission to fly in ours. Our school is approved by Board of Control for F.S.C.W. students. The planes are NEW and the pilots are experienced, having both military and civilian background.

Second—Get a card which will be offered to all having permission on or before Wednesday, April 24. Show this ad to your folks—Write now! Or take it home this week-end.

Third—If your card has one of the lucky numbers, which will be announced in the next Flambeau, call 2565 and arrange for the flight.

JEFF LEWIS
IVAN MUNROE
TAC
TALLAHASSEE AIRCRAFT CORP.

THANKS AGAIN—



NP121 39 8 EXTRA=EJ NEWYORK NY 4 146P
LIGGETT AND MYERS CO=
630 FIFTH AVE=
THE RADIO EDITORS OF THE NATION IN THEIR FIFTEENTH ANNUAL POLL VOTED THE CHESTERFIELD SUPPER CLUB THEIR FAVORITE FIFTEEN MINUTE PROGRAM. DETAILS IN THE BILLBOARD ISSUE MARCH 9. OUT MARCH 6=
LEONARD TRAUBE EDITOR IN CHIEF JOE KOEHLER RADIO-TELEVISION DIRECTOR THE BILLBOARD.

—to the Radio Editors of America for voting the

CHESTERFIELD SUPPER CLUB

their Favorite 15-minute Program for the second time in less than 15 months in the Billboard 15th Annual Poll.

ALWAYS BUY CHESTERFIELD

Perry Como Jo Stafford
Martin Block Lloyd Shaffer
The Satisfiers with Helen Carroll

Copyright 1946, Liggett & Myers Tobacco Co

Think!

Z 106

The Florida Flambeau

Think!

Published by the Students of Florida State College for Women

L XXXIII, No. 22 Tallahassee, Florida APRIL 26, 1946

nior Minstrels to Feature Original Theme in Production To Be Given at 8:15 Tonight

ry Lou Norwood Director of Musical Extravaganza Which Includes Original Music and Dances In Year's Campuswide Show musical extravaganza ranging Brahms to Gershwin and boogie to ballet is in store those attending Junior Min- s the only campus-wide show ented during the year, tonight 15 in Westcott auditorium, Mary Lou Norwood, chairman the production.

e theme will not be revealed certain time and promises to unique in that it differs from preceding dems and minstrels, ding to Mary Lou. All choral ngements will be original and music and dancing have been ned with the script to pro- a sophisticated collegiate ere are over 200 students ng on the minstrel, which in- es cast, committees, two cho- and a 18 piece orchestra. receipts will go into making productions in the future, than into the treasury of class.

ve tried to stress the fact that a campus-wide show in se- committee chairmen so their classroom theories can practical application. For ex- e a public school music ma- directing a chorus; a dance is supervising the chore- phy; and a stage craft stu- s directing the staging. Be- producing a good show, prac- experience for these girls d be a secondary aim." Mary stated.

e script was written by Bar- Mann, Rosetta Carver, Har- Kirk, Nancy Wright, Mary Norwood, Barbara Wickham, Stever, Carlon Unger, Nell and Laura Simpson.

ancing is under the supervision Patsy Gillham with Jeanne Sis Myers, Jane Levy, Howell Bobbye Bradley, Danning, Margaret Shirley Stever, Polly Lavonne Black, Marguerite Faith Adams, Marty Perkins, Hardacre, Ann Shull, Mar- Marshall, Betts Deversy, Vio- Walters, Betty Blakemore, Gleaton, Cheryl Muster, Woodworth, Maggie Flynn, Ann McIrvin, Joyce Cayce, Wilson, Lorriane Smith, Loftus, Martha Magruder, Sade, Betty Phillips, Pat Dorothy Martin, Dot and Jeani Harris partici-

e A chorus, directed by Rowe, includes Jere worth, Doris Lamb, Pat Mil- Joyce Hansen, Betty Houli- Arlene Love, Frances McCall, Murrell, Christine Stasinos, Dykes, Judy Courtney, Walters, Mary Louise Week- Mary Pantages, Enid Krouse, Johnson, Marte Walters, Roberts Cynthia Merrin, Lei hall, and Katherine Cooper. ted by Mary Lou Norwood. B chorus consists of Martha Cormac, Virginia Sewell, Ja- Robertson, Betts Brown, Bar- Owen, Alice Phillips, Mar- Peeples, Nancy Jones, Hazel

Continued on page three

ccent on Living' Is Subject of Talk

Accent on Leisure" was the ect of a lecture by Mr Joe director of health and physi- education of the State Depart- of Education, before the Economics club this week. Hall's address was in keeping the April theme of the club, time and how it can be profitably.

ing his address Mr Hall the value of construc- leisure-time activities in eracting juvenile delin- and emphasized that such while activities require care- planning keeping with the April theme the club 17 members went to for the weekend. The girls ed marshmallows around the and enjoyed a moon-lit canoe the afternoon a tea was held the Home Management House which the girls were con- ted on a sight-seeing tour of campus. Festivities ended a dance recital held Satur- night.

Dale, was a delegate the FSC Home Economics nt to a recent meeting Home Economics clubs at Ala- State College in Monte- At the business meeting rday morning, Esther gave port on the activities of FSC's Economics Club.

AAUW Contest Judging Done

Winners to Be Announced Soon Says Chairman

"The winners of the Creative Arts contest will be announced after the 26 of this month," said Mrs Cynthia Reaves Snow, chairman of the contest committee.

"There is a fairly even distribution in the writing fields and quite a number of entries in the choral and organ field of music," said Mrs Snow.

Dramatic demonstration of the one act play "Family Album" by Noel Coward was held Tuesday at 8 p m in the Augusta Conradi theatre. "The purpose of this play was to show the flexibility of one act plays," said Miss Mary Tom Colones, chairman of the Dramtic Arts contest. The play was directed by Betty Shirley and acted by the contestants. "Primary emphasis was on acting techniques and on the establishment of a mood," said Miss Colones. The very barest scenery was used and as few costumes as possible. Following the one act play was a fifteen minute adaptation of the same play. "This play was adapted for broadcast to show that it could be used on the radio as well as in the theatre," said Miss Colones. The radio program was presented by the students in speech 281.

Along with the demonstration was a display of set designs, costume designs, and stage models which are still on exhibit in the Augusta Conradi theatre.

"Eleven original radio scripts were submitted for the Dramatic Arts contest," said Miss Colones.

The modern dance contest was held Thursday afternoon at 5 p m in the Augusta Conradi theatre. "This contest was planned to stimulate creative activity among the students at Florida State College," said Miss Louise Gehan, chairman of the dance committee. The three modern dance performances were, Just for Spite" by Nancy MacEdwards, "Morning" by Marjory Holm and "Three in a Swing" by Audrey Evans, Evelyn Stuckey, and Ann Shull. Members of the dance committee are Miss Louise Gehan, chairman, Miss Ernestine Tromel, Miss Henrietta Greenberg and Miss Caliope Papatsos.

"The art exhibit will be hung today and has been judged prior to this date," said Mrs Snow.

ASC Investigating Committee Arrives

CGA and Dormitories Under Special Observation

Seeking an improved system on which to base their college government, an investigating committee form Alabama State College for Women arrived on campus this week for a two-day inspection tour. The visitors were Dr Hallie Farmer, head of the departments of history and political science at ASCW, and Virginia Rice, newly elected chairman of student senate.

At present the Alabama college has a limited student government composed of an Executive Board, Advisory Board, and Student Senate. The executive board exercises both legislative and judicial powers and consists of student officers, house presidents, four seniors, three juniors, two sophomores and one freshman. The advisory' board, resembling our Faculty Committee on Student Affairs, must pass on all recommendations before Senate takes final action.

The committee was particularly impressed with the dormitory system at FSC, in comparison with their four residence halls under direction of a housekeeper.

By visiting the outstanding schools of the South, under the sponsorship of the college president, including Randolph-Macn, Sweetbriar, Agnes Scott, Sophie Newcomb, Georgia State College for Women, Wesleyan, and Huntingion College, they hope to make a written survey report available next fall from which to develop a more efficient governmental framework.

When told of the resentment among students concerning recent elections, Dr Farmer replied, "I don't care how much the students agitate, just so they do agitate!"

Reporters Hear Career Story Of World-Noted Woman Judge

"You can never have freedom unless you are willing to fight and die for it," said Judge Florence Ellinwood Allen, Justice of the United States Sixth Circuit Court of Appeals, in an interview with Flambeau reporters after an Honor's day address Wednesday

Not only is Judge Allen the only woman ever to sit on a national bench of general jurisdiction and often called the greatest woman lawyer in the world.

Reared from a pioneer stock of Ohioans, the judge feels herself a part of America and enters her every endeavor in an effort to do her share to better the country. She said that when the people know, they care and act; that democracy will work when the people work it.

On her graduation from Western Reserve university, Judge Allen went abroad for two years to study music in Berlin under European masters fitting her for the concert stage, when an injury to a nerve in her arm forced her to give up work and return to America. Her favorites are Schumann, Beethoven, Brahms, and Chopin, and she remarked that the Symphonic Etudes of Schumann are the greatest ever composed.

While studying for her master's degree, she developed in interest in law and after her graduation went into private practice in Cleveland. In looking back over her first few years in law, Judge Allen chuckled to think that during her first year of practice, she made only $875.

A pioneer for the woman suffrage movement, she told of days in Cleveland when she would gather a crowd at the steps of the court house to deliver an oration as biting as was ever delivered from those halls of justice.

A former teacher, Judge Allen said that coeducation in general had proved very successful and that she was in favor of it in many colleges. She has a great faith in

Continued on page three

Composer To Visit Campus

Percy Grainger Re-appears In Varied Concerts

Percy Grainger, well known composer and musician, will visit Florida State College for the second time during Music Week beginning Sunday, May 5. Tickets fort his two concerts, May 6 and 7, will be distributed to all students holding red and blue artist series season tickets, between 4 and 6 o'clock this afternoon and Monday afternoon in the basement of the Langmire building, according to an announcement from the school of music.

An outdoor band concert will be given to 4 o'clock Sunday afternoon, May 5, at which Mr Grainger will be present. Mrs Grainger will accompany him on his visit here.

Numbers on the two concert programs include variety from Bach to Gershwin. As is his custom, Mr Grainger is planning to present some popular numbers and some of his own compositions, according to Dr Kuersteiner, dean of the school of music. Such encores as his own "Country Gardens" will be in store.

"Mr Grainger is now doing the best playing of his career," said Dr Kuersteiner. His individual style and technique have received favorable comment in press reviews of his concerts over the nation.

New IRC Officers Elected Last Week

Delores Gardner was chosen president of International Relations Club at a meeting last week. "Dee" won over her opponent, Mary Jane Sherman. Barbara Randolph was elected to fill the office of vice-president and librarian. Virginia Der Garry was the other candidate for that office. Alice Newett triumphed over Perilee Hunt, Mary Frances Allen, and Maureen Macy to become the new secretary-treasurer. Janice Richey won over Jean Ann Daly as program chairman, and Jean Olson over Gertrude Franke and Evelyn Deas as publicity chairman.

These officers chosen for next year will take over their duties this quarter, since Jessie McCalla, president this year, graduated second quarter, and Doris Hill, vice-president, is interning this quarter.

Ballots were sent through campus mail to members and a box placed on the IRC bulletin board for the votes. Results were posted Wednesday.

Systems Service Offers Positions

The International Business Machine corporation is interested in contacting any seniors who would be interested in working in their sytsems service department, according to Dr Elizabeth G Andrews, director of personnel.

A seven weeks training school beginning in July is to be held in Endicott, New York. The operation and application of electrical machines will be taught there. A salary of $75 will be paid to students during the training period.

At the end of the training period positions in the branch offices are assigned at a starting salary of $150 monthly.

A neat appearance and pleasing personality are the only requirements, according to Dr Andrews. Accounting is a good background preparatory course, but not a required one. Any seniors interested are asked to contact Dr Andrews at the Office of Personnel

Echaniz to Present Piano Concert Here

Music Associatinn Invites New Members to Attend

The Civic Music Association of Tallahassee is presenting Jose Echaniz, pianist, in the last concert of the current season tonight at Leon high school auditorium, New members who join the association in its membership drive are invited to attend Mr Echaniz's concert.

The program tonight will include: Partita No 1 in B flat, Johann Sabastian Bach; Rondo in E flat, Johann Hummel; Variations on a theme of Paganini, Johannes Brahms; Impromptu in F sharp major, Frederic Chopin; Scherzo in C sharp minor, Frederic Chopin; Clair de lune, Claude Debussy; Toccata, Maurice Ravel; Prelude in G major, Sergei Rachmaninoff; March from "Peter and the Wolf," Serge Prokofieff; Polichinelle, Heitor Villa-Lobos; and Ritual Dance of Fire, Manuel de Falla.

Echaniz was born in Guanabocoa, a town across the bay from Havana, in 1905. Descended from distinguished Spanish, French and Italian ancestry, he came from his native country to make his New York Town Hall debut as a pianist in1927. Mr Echaniz has also been active as a conductor. He was invited to conduct the Havana Philharmonic Orchestra in Jan-

Continued on page three

Plans for May Day Activities Made

Plans for the annual formal May Day dance are rapidly progressing with the theme, committees, and orchestra definitely decided on. The dance will be held Saturday night, May 4, from 8:30 to 12 in the gym.

The traditional May court, with June McCurdy in charge, will be presented that afternoon and again from 9:30 to 10 o'clock.

Decorations will be centered around a spring theme and punch and cookies will be served during intermission to guests and sponsors. A six-piece orchestra from Chattahoochee has been engaged to play for the evening.

Ysobel Dupree is acting general chairman for the dance with Bettye and Bobby Usher as co-chairmen. The committee chairman for guests and chaperones is Nell McNeil. Marian McEwin is in charge of tickets, and publicity is being taken care of by Mary Pat Weedon. The decorations are assigned to Mary Lou Norwood and Chris Morrison. Nancy Gleaton is serving on the clean-up committee and Norma Shaffner on the floor committee. Refreshments will be under the supervision of Sara Jane Gallagher.

44 New Enrollees

Forty-four new students, representing 20 Florida counties, are enrolled for the third quarter here, according to Miss Eva May Atwood, assistant registrar. Of the 44, 19 have attended Florida State College before this year.

The counties represented and the number from each are as follows: Escambia, 2; Marion, 2; Jackson, 1; Indian River, 1; Bay, 1; Dade, 6; Okaloosa, 1; Hillsborough, 3; Alachua, 1; Sarasota, 1; Taylor, 1; Pasco, 1; Leon, 14; Bradford, 1; Orange, 1; Polk, 4; Broward, 1; Pinellas, 1; Duval, 1; Hamilton, 1

U of F Glee Club to Sing Tomorrow at 2

Mary Parker, FSC Alumna, Appears on Program As Soloist

Tickets Being Sold by FSC Glee Club Members

Mary Parker, alumna of Florida State College and former president of the glee club here, will appear as guest artist with the University of Florida Glee Club when they present their concert here at 2 o'clock tomorrow afternoon in Wescott auditorium. Miss Parker will sing Cole Porter's "I Love You," announced Dr Karl O Kuersteiner, dean of the School of Music.

Tickets for the performance can be obtained for thirty cents, including tax, from members of the Florida State College glee club, who are sponsoring this program.

This year the University glee club has been vastly assisted by a better than average group of soloists, according to Caminiti, tenors Harry Hurst and Al Asenjo, pianists; James Busse, accordionist; and Elmer Lazone Allen, dancer.

Only three members of the original thirty three who took part in the concert here last year remain with the club, said Mr DeBruye. Many of the members now

Continued on Page Three

About 1600 Students X-Rayed This Week

Faculty and Staff Asked To Come From 2-6 Today

During the past week approximately two-thirds of the FSC student body were X-rayed for tuberculosis, and one-fourth of the faculty and staff. Kitchen workers, dairy, farm, maids, janitors and other concessions on campus have been cooperative in making their survey complete and effective, according to Miss Regina D'Zurenda, R N in the college infirmary.

Faculty and staff are being given another opportunity from 2:00-6:00 today, April 26, and from 4:00-6:00 and 7:30-9:30 pm on Monday, April 29. Any student who missed her scheduled day may also come at any of the above hours.

Each person having this X-ray will receive a confidential report of the outcome of her X-ray a week from the day she had it taken.

The United States Public Health Service—Tuberculosis Control Division, has been functioning in the state of Florida since November, 1944.

This particular mobile unit has covered the following counties: Bay, Escombia, Leon, Alachua, Orange and Duval. All large institutions in the counties are covered, including colleges, universities, prisons and insane asylums.

Individuals included in these surveys are food handlers, dairy

Continued on page three

Class Meetings

All the classes except seniors will hold meetings next Tuesday for the nomination and election of next year's class officers.

Freshman will meet Tuesday in the Augusta Conradi theater to nominate sophomore class officers and also to discuss the class project.

The junior class will meet to elect new officers announced Frances Myers, class president.

Connie Savage, sophomore class president, announced that the sophomores will meet in the Rowena Longmire auditorium at 5 to hold nominations for next year's officers.

Phi Kappa Phi Initiates 28

Scholastic Honorary Holds Service Monday Night

Twenty-eight seniors were initiated into Phi Kappa Phi last Monday night at 8 p m in the Rowena Longmire auditorium. A reception followed in the club room honoring these students who have shown high scholastic ability in their own college division.

Officiating at the ceremony were: Miss Daisy Parker, president; Dr Arthur Seymour, acting vice-president; Dr Dorothy L Hoffman, secretary; Mrs Olga Larson, treasurer, and Dr Katherine W Montgomery, marshal.

New members are: Ann Carolyn Allison, Mrs Dorothy Binger, Donna Bridges, Martha Brown, Theo Brown, Virginia Collins, Letitia Croom, Margaret Duggar, Marie Flewellen, Joyce Funke, Carmen

Continued on Page Three

Broken Tile Floor Of Game Room May Soon Be Repaired

Have you, upon recently entering the game room of the Rowena Longmire building through the west door of the room, stumbled over holes in the floor? And have you, while dancing on the same side of the game room found your dancing to be no longer smooth and rhythmic because either you or your partner stepped onto the part of the floor where the pieces of tile are broken up? If these have been items on your "pet peeve" list you can soon scratch them off.

"We hope to have the repair work on the floor in the game room begin soon," said Mrs Edith Gulick, acting director of the Rowena Longmire building. The floor just popped up about four weeks ago, said Mrs Gulick, and the cause for its doing so has not been determined.

Also, said Mrs Gulick, a pay telephone was installed in the booth on the ground floor of the building this week. Many girls have been making long distance calls on that phone, and it will be more convenient for everyone to have a pay station there, she added.

Wild Blue Yonder Calls Sixteen From FSC to Be Taught Flying

Flying, always an intriguing and adventurous sounding word has become a fairly familiar one on the Florida State College campus as eleven girls, two teachers, the infirmary doctor and two nurses have begun taking flying lessons out at the Tallahassee airport.

The girls are at different stages of advancement. Some are only beginning their ten hours of dual flight necessary before soloing. Others have completed their first solo flight and are on their way toward finishing the thirty hours needed for a private license. Vera Cone, with twelve solo hours to her credit, tells of her most amusing and frightening incident since she began her lessons. "It happened on one of my first dual flights. The instructor took me up and really gave me the works, spins, barrel rolls, loops, everything. I really felt pretty woozy when we landed, but I felt a whole lot sicker when I discovered that I had failed to fasten my parachute, and that I was only held in by the safety belt."

It seems too, Margaret Barnett says, that flying is something that seems easy at first, but you soon realise all there is that you don't know and maybe never will. "The first time I soloed I thought I was hotter than Hotshot Charlie, but I soon found out how much I still had to learn."

The girls take their lessons or get in their solo time any chance they can. Often they go out to the airport about seven in the morning or late some afternoon. The lessons incidentally are given by Jeff Lewis, Sarah Lewis' brother, who was a former captain in the Air Transport Command.

This activity is not a new one, for FSC girls were taking lessons prior to the war under the government's Civilian Pilot Training program. The last class ended in 1940.

The planes used include the Taylor Craft, the Ercoupe, a new ship with simplified controls, and the primary trainer (PT in aviation jargon) Several of the girls have taken short solo hops in these to Quincy and St Marks beach.

The lessons are supplemented by an additional ground school course every Monday and Wednesday night. The courses taught are theory of flight, navigation, and some meteorology. The cost of the lessons runs around $9.00 dual flight and $7.00 solo time.

Those FSC girls taking lessons are: Jane Mobley, Vera Cone, Mona Ferguson, Margaret Barnett, Pat' Heisler, Jackie Story, Theresa Munroe, Sarah Lewis, Corrine Johnson, Bonnis Kindig, physics professor, Lois Ver Hoeven, physical education intsructor, Dr Dorothy Chayes, infirmary physician, and Betty Coyne and Regina D'zurenda, nurses at the infirmary.

Judge Allen of Circuit Court Addresses Honor Students In Annual Scholastic Convocation

Numerous Awards Presented by Honoraries to Girls Maintaining the Highest Class Averages During Consecutive Years

Judge Florence E Allen, judge of the federal circuit court of appeals, spoke on the Honors Day program Wednesday afternoon in Westcott auditorium.

Over two hundred and fifty upperclassmen received recognition at the annual Honors Day Convocation held Wednesday afternoon at 2:30 p m in Wescott Auditorium while ten students received special awards.

Judge Florence E Allen, member of the U S Circuit Court of Appeals, was the guest speaker. Judge Allen spoke on "The Bridge of the Future." In her speech she said that we stand upon a bridge that was built by men and women who cared more for freedom than for themselves, and the question is whether we have the faith, courage, and conception to pass over this bridge to the land of freedom.

This war, said the Judge, was caused by the breakdown of moral principles and unless we demand some moral standards in international affairs, as well as in private affairs peace can never be built. Only when the governments are run for the welfare of the people, she continued, and only when a system is established to establish justice will we really have world peace. Judge Allen also stated that we must keep the high standards that our ancestors have set before us, for people are known by the things they won't throw away and the things they will throw away.

The scholastic honors awarded were: the Mortar Board plaque for the freshman with the highest average in her class went to Valda Colleen Mock and Ellen Hildegard Koenitzar; the Mortar Board cup for the sophomore who made the highest average in her class went to Josephine Robb Dawkins; the Omicorn Nu cup for the freshman having the highest averae in Home Economics went to Mary Ann Herring. Among the seniors awarded were: Theo Vera Brown, who received an assistantship at the University of Nebraska; Marq Christine Langston who received an assistantship in Physiology at the University of Pennsylvania; Ruth Mary Stunock who received a scholarship at the University of Michigan; and Peggy Lu Thompson who received the graduate scholarship of the Tallahassee

Continued on page three

Minor Finals Are Completed

Holm Is Senior Judiciary Representative

Minor election finals held last Friday completed the annual selection of College Government Association, Women's Recreation Association and campus publication officers. Marjorie Holmes and Betty Schwartz were chosen to represent the senior class on Judiciary. The other classes will be represented by Babs McCarthy and Irma Lee Sheppard, junior; and Virginia Goodell and Helen Looby, sophomore.

Also elected at this time were Bopie Whitaker, vice-president of Women's Recreation Association; Evelyn Shea, secretary of WRA; Elaine Brown, treasurer of WRA, Ann Stambaugh, senior intramurals manager; Vivian Schaffer, business manager of the Flambeau; Margaret Johnson, business manager of the Flastacowo; Kitty Chaires, business manager of the Distaff.

Dorothy McKirnon, house president of Landis; Betty Moody, house president of Gilchrist; Evelyn Johnson, house president of Broward; Anne McInnis, house president of Bryan; Alva Ray, house president of Reynolds; Juanita Krentzman, house president of Jennie Murphree; Mary Manaco, vice-president of Landis; Jane Ann Ranson, vice-president of Gilchrist; Carolyn Flint, vice-president of Broward; Eddie Faye Stokes, vice-president of Reynolds; and Enid Krouse, vice-president of Jennie Murphree

Returns on the elections were as follows: Senior members to Judiciary, Marjorie Holmes, 267 votes, Betty Schwartz, 358, Marjorie Potter, 216; junior representatives to Judiciary, Babs McCarthy, 296 votes, Irma Lee Sheppard, 268, Amarene Thompson, 231, Doris Dubois 215, Janice Richey 170, Franklin Smith 118; sophomore representatives to Judiciary, Helen Looby, 263 votes, Virginia Goodell 229, Martha Jane Bird, 222, Jean Furman, 206; vice-president of WRA, Bopie Whitaker 315, Anna Horne 198; secretary of WRA, Evelyn Shea, 227 votes, Esther Miller, 221; treasurer of WRA, Elaine Brown, 236 votes, Lucile Harding, 198; senior intramurals manager, Ann Stambaugh 421 votes; business manager of the Flambeau, Vivian Schaeffer, 201 votes, Sally Watson, 190; business manager of

Continued on page three

FSC Guests Include College Professors

Guests on the campus of Florida State College this week include Dr Hallie Farmer, head of the department of history at Alabama State College for Women; Dr A J Brumbaugh, vice-president of the American Council on Education, and Dr H H Horne, professor of education and philosophy at New York universtiy.

Dr Farmer is studying the general plan of organization at our institution and Dr Brumbaugh is here at the invitation of Doak S Campbell, president of the college, to discuss problems that relate to record keeping, counseling and guidance. The visitor was dean of students and professor of education at the University of Chicago until 1944 when he became vice-president of the American Council on Education.

Testing Programs Being Formulated

A cammittee from the Freshmen Composition staff, consisting of Miss Sarah Herndon, Miss Edith Buchanan, Mrs Lou Miller, Miss Mildred Henry, and Miss Martha Chapman, all of the English department, is working with Dr Mark H DeGraff, professor of education, on a testing program in freshmen English.

This committee is preparing a new English placement test to be given to incoming freshmen and a new exemption examination for each of the three quarters.

In trying to analyze the composition course, this committee is working very closely with the whole freshmen staff. The staff is seeking to emphasize in freshman English the aspects of composition that will be most valuable to college students. "We are trying to determine the standard of habits of good composition that should prevail not only in classes of English composition but in all college writing," said Miss Edith Buchanan.

Education Honorary Issues Invitations

Invitations to become members of the education honorary, Kappa Delta Pi, have been issued to seven girls who have academic standing in the upper quartile of the school, and who have shown active interest in the teaching profession.

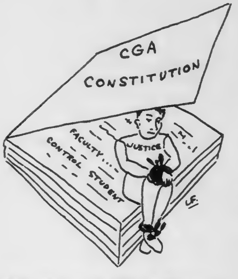
The girls to be pledged May 7 at 5 p m, according to President Edna Parker, are Alice Crume, Ida Lula Davis, Margaret Harley, Aileen James, Mrs Jean Mark, Nell McNeil, Mary Frances Rntland, and Aurora Faedo.

A secret initiation service will be held in the club room of the Longmire building May 15 at 8 p m.

A report of the National Kappa Delta Pi convention which met in Milwaukee March 11 through the 13 will be given at the next college meeting May 16 by delegates President Edna Parker and Miss Ruth Smith, Demonstration school critic teacher.

New Officers of Kappa Delta Pi on campus will also be elected at that meeting, according to President Parker.

SPIRIT OF THE WEEK



WHEN WILL THE ROPES BE BROKEN?

● GUNG HO

The demand for a new constitution is heard from all corners of our campus at the present. For the first time we seem to be actually aware of the fallacies and ambiguities contained in our supreme campus law. We have found loopholes and elastic phrases that can be stretched by interpretation to cover situations in a manner we never dreamed was possible.

To the thinking student it has become unbearable to continue existence under such a document. As members of the college community we want to know how much authority we have in our government, and how this authority can be exercised. We want our powers stated simply and clearly so that there can be no misunderstandings. It is too late to remedy some of the mistakes and injustices committed in the name of the present constitution, but it is not too late to remedy the basic cause—the constitution itself.

If there are existing rules and regulations that stand in the way of our assuming the responsibilities of citizenship, it should be the duty and the obligation of people who can to help us remove these objections. We are here to learn not only academic facts, but also to have a testing ground where we can learn to live in a society in which it is the duty of each individual to contribute to his government.

We are showing our desire to assume the responsibilities that should fall to the populace of a democratic society. We are asking the students to stand united behind their student thinkers in working for a new constitution, and we are asking the faculty and the administration to stand behind us in our striving for the privileges and responsibilities which will make us better citizens not only of the college, but of this state and country in the future.

● DOWN IN BLACK AND WHITE

"We, the students of the University of Florida, in order to further the activities of student life, promote a widespread interest in student affairs, govern ourselves by just and righteous laws, and develop a greater spirit of progressive citizenship, do ordain and establish this Constitution for the Student Body of the University of Florida."

With this statement as a preamble, our brother students to the south have evolved a constitution which, with its granting of wide powers to the students and its clear and specific wording, might well merit the attention and study of students governed by less efficient constitutions.

A comparison of the "Constitution and Laws of the Student Body of the University of Florida" with the "Constitution and By-Laws of the College Government Association of Florida State College for Women," is not really possible since the University has student government and its students, therefore, have all executive, legislative and judicial powers of the student body. Florida State College, on the other hand, has a system called "college government."

Since a comparison is not really possible, therefore, perhaps it is of interest to note sections in the two constitutions which would seem to correspond with one another insofar as subject matter is concerned, yet which on closer inspection seem contrasting, both in content and in treatment.

For example, "the legislative powers of the student body and wherein they are vested" is dealt with in Article V, Section 1 of both constitutions. The FSC statement declares that "the legislative work of the College Government Association shall be performed by three bodies acting conjointly, namely—the student senate, the college council, and the faculty committee on student affairs. The students at the University, however, are governed by a constitution which stipulates that "all legislative powers of the Student Body shall be vested in an Executive Council."

This Executive Council would seem to correspond in composition and theory, at least, to the Student Senate of FSC. The chief point on which they do not seem to coincide in the question of powers. Article IV, Section 4, Part 2 of the University Constitution states: "The Executive Council shall have power to enact Laws of the Student Body which shall supplement this Constitution in all respects necessary to insure full force and effect to all powers herein granted the government and in all respects necessary to the well-being of the student body . . ." The Constitution of FSC, on the other hand, permits student senate to "legislate concerning any undergraduate activities provided such legislation is not in conflict with prior faculty or administrative rulings," (Article IV, Section 3), and further says that "the faculty committee shall act on all legislation passed by the college council or the student senate of the College Government Association," (Article VIII, Section 2).

In this same article and section, the faculty committee is given power to "review all decisions of the judiciary which recommend full restriction, judiciary probation, CGA probation, or withdrawal." In Article VI, Section 4, Part 1 of the University Constitution, however, it is stated that "the Honor Court shall have power in its penal jurisdiction to try and punish all violators of the Honor Code as set forth in this Constitution." It is interesting to note that the University Constitution says that "the only violations of the Honor Code shall be cheating, stealing, and passing worthless checks," indicating specifically the possible punishments which such violations shall incur, one of them being "not more than fifteen penalty hours and a severe reprimand for a freshman if it is his first offense."

Under the "Laws of the Student Body of the University of Florida," the exact procedures of elections and the actions of all officers having a part in the running of elections are set down in the proverbial black and white—two and one half large, single-spaced pages of small print. Under Section 5, it is written that "all candidates for election under the constitution or laws of the Student Body, or any charter thereof, shall qualify as such by paying to the Secretary-Treasurer of the Student Body, at least seven days before election day, a qualifying fee exactly equal to ten per cent (10%) of the maximum party nomination fee that candidate is allowed to pay . . ."

Under Section 6, furthermore, it is stated that a complete list of the candidates shall be submitted to the Registrar of the University "who shall certify back to the Secretary-Treasurer of the Student Body such candidates as meet all requirements as to hours, honor points, class, and college set forth under this constitution and the laws of the Student Body and charters existing thereunder."

The FSC constitution, on the other hand, states grade and class requirements, and then says merely that "before the nominations are made public the names of candidates for nomination shall be sent by the chairman of the nominating committee to the offices of the personnel director, the registrar, the infirmary, and the dean of students in order to determine the eligibility of each candidate"—with no clear indication as to what that eligibility shall consist in.

Perhaps this disparity in election procedures of the two colleges is a good example of what would seem to be a fact: that the Constitution of Florida State College has numerous ambiguities, careless phrasings, and restrictions on students in the administrating of affairs affecting themselves most vitally.

In a booklet entitled, "What Freedom for American Students?" put out by the Committee on Academic Freedom, American Civil Liberties Union, the following paragraph appears:

"The policy of every college in relation to student activities outside the classroom should be set forth in definite terms, and accepted by the college community. To leave complete discretion in such matters solely to a college president, executive officer or faculty committee is to risk putting the determination of critical issues in too few hands influenced by the accidents of the moment, or by the pressures inevitably surrounding a particular crisis when it arises. Democratic decisions require representation of all interests involved, with authority and responsibility clearly fixed."

● THE GONG HAS SOUNDED

Round one in the battle for a more representative student government apparently ended when the slightly irregular elections were held last week. The victory in this first round, and it must be just the first round, might be thought to belong to the old regime for, after all, the elections were held. However, the victory could also be ceded to the so-called "revolutionists" for the student body has been roused from its apathetic condition with indignation against the principles and methods employed by our oligarchic government.

The procedure used in the recent elections was highly undemocratic and an insult to the intelligence of the student body. The common law in any type of government is that a majority vote must be cast before an election can be declared valid. Yet we here at Florida State College can call an election with approximately 800 out of 2,500 students voting. Thirty-two per cent of the students voting! A valid election! Surely a mere 32 per cent can not be termed representative of student opinion.

When questioned on a definite set of election regulations, a statement came from the elections committee that "the group has no authority to declare that a majority of students must vote in order for elections to be legal." The question now arises, What is the elections committee for? Can it be that the committee is merely to perform the menial tasks of separating the petitions, qualifications, etc.? If so, then why not call it the Committee to Compile Petitions and Qualifications?

It is true that the constitution does not specify that the elections committee has absolute control over determining the validity of elections, but the constitution doesn't say that they can not set up a definite set of procedures and determiners governing said validity. Through free interpretation, then, Article 13, Section 5, in the constitution could be construed as granting a free reign to this committee and that they might make the rule by which elections are to be measured.

Elections such as the one we have just witnessed must not occur in the future! If our elections committee does not have the privilege of setting a definite standard of 51 per cent then let it be written into the constitution! Let there be no more electional farces.

Your Gal Sharpie

By Sharpie

"... but rather fear the apathetic throng, the cowed and meek, who see the world's great anguish, and its wrong and dare not speak."

—Ralph Chaplin, before he was sent to jail.

Poor Sharpie died—passed on with the rest of the old staff—, but I have made Sharpie immortal. I did this by naming myself Sharpie II, which necessarily implies that there was a Sharpie-the-first and that I am second only to Sharpie, or, Sharpie-the-second. The incorruptible genius of Sharpie lives on, facing with and for the people (and any one else) an eternity of crucial problems.

Many people asked Sharpie II the same questions this week: "Where is our petition?" they said. ". . . and what has become of the amendment? When is something going to be done?"

The last seem to assume that something has become of the amendment and that something is going to be done. This is misleading.

The petition was shown to a man in the Westcott building. The man is reported to have said, "Since most of you are not 21 years old, you are not citizens of the United States and therefore you have no right to petition." Sharpie II, though, is not worried. She was born in the United States and in Florida; that makes her a citizen.

Apparently the man went on to say that he had another petition in his drawer, "signed by 800 students." He said he himself had questioned the owners of the first hundred and fifty names and that most of them had admitted that they hadn't even read the petition. Recent rumors report that the Schwartz petition may be submitted to the Faculty Committee on Student Affairs. Does that answer your questions, maybe?

"What makes people more honorable this week than last week, Sharpie?" a letter asks. This must be referring to the recent selection of new members for the Most Honorable and Effervescent Order and for other things. Ha ha! I thought everybody knows that honors were awarded for the chief virtues: scholarship and character. Obviously, there must have been a great increase in such qualities last week and therefore the proper number of awards were issued according to geometrical ratio.

The Officers Offer

In view of the fact that many students have expressed an interest in revising or re-writing the present College Government association constitution, especially in the light of incidents occurring in the past few weeks, it seemed advisable to get the opinions of our student officers on this subject. The question posed to six members of the Executive Council was, "Do you favor a new constitution or a revision of the existing constitution, and what reasons have determined your choice?" The following answers are quoted from our student officers.

Dalia Santos, First Vice-President of CGA.

"The constitution that we now live by met the needs of campus life in the past, but because of changed conditions it fails to meet our needs today.

"In my estimation, and from experience, I, along with many other people in the student body, think that our constitution does need revising. I, as well as some of the other student officers, think one way by which we could revise it would be something comparable to a constitutional convention in the form of a student committee. This committee should be composed of people with varying ideas, and viewpoints, but with one dominant interest: that of making our constitution serve the needs of our college today.

"Every student has a right to express her viewpoints in this matter of revising the constitution. I think it advisable that each student re-write those parts of the constitution which she thinks need revision, accompanying it with her reasons for the change. These should be turned in to the Constitution committee for their consideration and evaluation.

"I think that this Constitution committee could meet not during the school term, but sometime just after spring quarter ends or before the fall term begins, at which time they could make a concentrated study not only of our constitution, but of the constitutions of other colleges as well.

"I think that we need a number of people with different and varying viewpoints to study and re-write our constitution this summer and to present it to our student body at the beginning of the fall term. This committee's report would be only a suggestion to be either accepted or rejected by us, the student body."

Rosetta Carver, Chairman of Judiciary.

"I believe that we need an examination of the constitution; a study that should be carried on by a joint faculty-student committee. A full report of the study should be returned to the student body. In the event that Student Senate thinks such an examination is needed it should create a committee composed of student members elected by Senate and faculty members sugested by Senate."

Anne Hunter, Chairman of Residence Halls and Lower Court.

"I think it should be revised. There are good things in it. These things would be left and as Judge Allen said in her speech Wednesday, we should take the good that we have and build on it for more and better goods.

"As I said in Forum, Monday before elections, I think that the final decision on any question about which the faculty and students cannot agree should rest not with the Faculty committee on Student Affairs alone but with the entire college association. This would be accomplished by a popular vote of all students and faculty. This is one of the measures I would most like to see incoroporated into our revised constitution."

Martha Peacock, Third Vice-President of CGA.

"As I see it, our constitution needs to be rewritten, preferably by a Constitutional Convention composed of student delegates elected expresaly for that purpose. An immediate thorough study of our government as it stands now is certainly in order. In view of the fallacies which have recently been discovered I would favor a more complete separation of student offices into legislative, executive, and judicial branches — thus providing less overlapping of responsibility and power. There are points of interpretation which must be clarified and changes made to fit changing needs which will be more apparent after more discussion."

Herky White, Freshman Advisor.

"Revision should be made by a committee familiar with political science. There should be a redefinition of authority so that officers would be held directly responsible to the voters. I would like to see an open meeting of the Faculty committee on Student Affairs and the Student Senate because that would make possible a full discussion of differences of opinion. I believe that there should be a general revision of the constitution to eliminate all inconsistancies."

Eleanor Bragg, Treasurer of CGA.

"I advocate a revision of the constitution when the majority of students feel it necessary. There should be a joint student-faculty government, but more emphasis on a balance between the authority of the two bodies. I don't think that the final decisions should be made by either students or faculty but by a joint committee made up of both. There should be a rotation, or at least a change in the membership of Faculty Committee from time to time. A few experienced members could remain until the newer members had become accustomed to the committee's work.

The constitution needs more specific details. Students should have the right to appeal to the joint committee for reconsideration on a matter upon which there is disagreement."

Horne Shows Ideal Of Life With Star

Philosophy Professor Says "Liberate Intelligence"

Dr Herman Horne, former professor of philosophy at New York university, in an address Wednesday morning, compared one's life to a perfect star, encircled and unified by divine influence.

In speaking of the functions of a teacher, Dr Horne said that the ideal way of teaching is not to tell the student what to think, but to stimulate him to think for himself. "A college education should liberate the intelligence of the student," the speaker added.

The five qualities which, according to Dr Horne, contribute toward a well rounded life are health, intelligence, truth, beauty and worship. These he compared to the five points of a star, enclosed by a circle representing God. The point at which the star and the circle meet he compared to Christ, uniting divine life with human life.

In presenting this star as a goal toward which to strive Dr Horne proposed this motto, "Hitch your star to a wagon."

Scholarships Awarded To Four Students This Wee

Scholarships have been awarded this week to Peggy Lu Thomson, Beatrice Weaver, Catherine Sullivan and Janice Richey. These awards include a graduate scholarship, a public administration fellowship, the Marion C Phillips Memorial scholarship and the Rowena Longmire scholarship.

Peggy Lu Thomson, senior, has been awarded the Graduate Scholarship Loan Award of $500 for 1946-47 by the Tallahassee Branch of the American Association of University Women. This announcement was made by Dr Lucertia L Ilsley, chairman of the Graduate Scholarship Loan Fund Committee of the local branch of AAUW.

Peggy Lu, a journalism major, and newly elected member of Phi Beta Kappa and Phi Kappa Phi won awards for essay and short story in the Creative Arts Contest sponsored by AAUW last year. She has been a news editor of the Flambeau and also an associate editor of the Distaff. Peggy Lu plans to study for a master's degree in journalism at Columbia University.

The graduate scholarship loan fund was established early in the 1920's and the first award was made in 1928. The purpose of the fund is to encourage graduate study by alumnae of Florida State College. Seniors or alumnae who have spent their last two undergraduate years at FSC are eligible to apply. The committee is under no obligation to make an award unless it considers one of the applicants is well qualified to undertake gradute study.

Beatrice Weaver of Kissimmee, a senior at Florida State College and a candidate for a bachelor's degree at June commencement, has been awarded one of ten public administration fellowships given to ten college seniors for 1946-47 in the Southern Regional Training Program. This program is sponsored by the Universities of Alabama, Kentucky, and Tennessee.

Beatrice is a social studies major, with emphasis on political science. She wa. president of the junior class, one of Who's Who in American Colleges and Universities, a member of sophomore council, and is a member of several honoraries.

The fellowship provides for Beatrice a summer internship a state or federal governmen fice, and one quarter of study each of the three sponsoring versities, after which a certif in public administration will awarded jointly by the three versities.

This year's awards were for application to college sen who would receive their bache degrees before June, 1946.

Catherine Sullivan, sophom physical education major, awarded the Marion C Ph Memorial scholarship, Miss R Schornherst, chairman of scholarship committee of Alumnae association announ this week. This scholar which was established this in memory of Marion C Phil only alumnae of the college to her life in line of duty du the present war, is a gift val at $250.

Miss Phillips was a lieutenant the Army Nurses' Corps, serv in Italy. The scholarship given by Hilda Jane Walters D, of Frostburg, Maryland, is an alumna of the class of 1

Janice Richey, sopohom journalism major, is the recip of the Rowena Longmire scho ship. This award is half half loan, according to the sc arship committee.

Gifts Given to YW By Mrs Ray Warn

A cap, gown, and a banne a Young Women Christian Ass ation in Japan were given to Florida State College chapter the Young Woman's Christian sociation by Mrs Ray Wa Broward dormitory counselor a membership meeting last T day. The cap and gown are be awarded annually to a per whom they feel deserves it.

Robin Lawson was chosen ch man of Social Action Commit an office left vacant by the cent resignation of Betty Do Ellen Koenitzer, was appoi chairman of a committee to re the constitution of the orga tion.

After the business meeting the Longmire clubroom, refre ments were served under the rection of Dorothea McRae.

Or Forever Hold Your Peace . . .

Dear Students,

Until my recent pilgrimage to your institution, I was comparatively ignorant of the tyranny and restrictions to which you are subjected by the meddling faculty. Of course, I had read of Miss Schwartz's disqualification by the faculty committee, but the incident had no personal meaning for me until I actually talked with some of you and picked up issues XIX, XX, and XI of the Flambeau, which I have carefully read and digested.

Since learning of your real position, my indignation has grown, and it has not been mitigated by the realization that I am as helpless to correct the situation as you are. I have read both Miss Schwartz's statement, and Dean Dorman's article, and I am firmly convinced that the faculty's action was invalid morally and possibly legally. The rejection of the students' petition on a trumped-up technicality is another evidence of the Fascist mentality of your rulers. I had known that things were bad at FSC, but not as bad as all that.

Miss Meldrim's editorial in the No 19 issue is a masterly summing up of the whole affair, and her conclusions regarding the faculty's willful subjugation of the students are inescapable. Obviously your participation in governing yourselves at FSC is little more than a farce as long as the faculty can step in and define your privileges and responsibilities. Miss Meldrim: "Inelasticity in government is no less tyranny than absolute rule."

Since my conversion to your cause I have been agitating among my friends in your behalf, and have succeeded in thoroughly convincing one fellow. Another, who was indifferent to your welfare and cynical about what students can accomplish even when in office, I punished by publicly denouncing him as a sympathizer and collaborator with the faculty committee at Tallahassee.

I think that you are to be commended for remaining ladies not breaking any windows. they attempted to squeeze us way at the University we wo go on strike. Most of us h have served our time in the ca of democracy, and would not erate the indignities to which have been subjected.

Your faculty's reasoning trigues me. Do they really ho to attain their goal of "Fem Perfecta" by their present pr tice of Strength Through Terro

Yours indignantly,
RAYMOND W WASHINGTON,

Last week Miss Bertha Bloo worth and Mary Charles Skipp who submitted letters to the e tor, later requested that they "killed" for certain reasons.

This request was of cou granted, but during the last m ute rush at the Democrat off we forgot to kill the letters.

We want to apologize for ove looking this, and hope that pe sons who read the letters will re ize that the authors did not wa them to go in after all, and th we are the ones to blame for a opinions which might have be created.

—The Editor

Dear Editor:

Why can't the Day students ceive a Flambeau every Fri too? We were once readers of yo paper, but for the past two wee we have been deprived of this pr ilege. We feel that we should kn what is happening on the ca pus. The absence of your last t papers was missed, and we h to depend on others' hear-say f our information.

Don't fail us again in such trying time of vital news. want to know why we have be excluded, deprived and forgott

We demand a paper. Will be able to depend on you ne time, or has our staff proved efficient and irresponsible? Wh about it?

Day Students

The Florida Flambeau

Entered as second class mail matter, January 30, 1915, at the post at Tallahassee, Fla. under the act of Congress of March 3, 1879.

Member
Intercollegiate Press

It is the policy of the Flambeau to grant equal space and prominence to anyone wishing to present a contrary opinion whenever opinions on controversial questions are voiced in its columns.

Athlete's Feats

Bee Dowd

Comes a call from the window, "I gotta' work on Junior strels, because it's this next Friday (plug, Norwood). about you writing the column this week?" Being a co-rative and quite gullible creature, this lowly one, namely Sports ed, has taken it upon herself to meet the high ndards of material which your regular columnist includes her jewels to her public weekly.

Edging on the border of a swan song (meaning I leave department to be one of the "illustrious" associate edi- or—"Goodbye Little Yellow Birds") it seems an portune time to thank all of the sports leaders, presidents the various organizations and chairmen of committees the grand cooperation shown all this year in handing the news. It has been the only means by which the sports has grown from the crawling stage to the stage of ng a few steps on its own. There is no reason whatsoever a college of this size with the interest exhibited in sports the Flambeau not to have a good full page devoted to this cular field. And, it is only through the students who to see such a fulfillment that this can come about.

Orchids can go especially to Tommy Thompson for her with the Outing Club. This is certainly a club worth ing into for the outdoor-minded person. Tommy has it upon herself this year to build up not only member- but consistent attendance to meetings, making every- feel a part of a club that is taking a firm footing here campus.

The bouquets can also be thrown to Shirley Duggan her inimitable presentations of Playnight. She has really ed Saturday night into a "fun-night" and away from the verbial "loneliest night in the week."

From the participation seen in the after-dinner recrea- recently inaugurated for the students WRA has another ther added to its cap. WRA has done its full share in ding up interest properly due in the recreation field. re power to you, Jo Jo.

And, how 'bout PEA taking some of their members to Louis? Hey, fellers, anyway to work me in? O K, so I ge my major! (Listen to the girl talk!) "Red" Stuckey, sident, will be a figure to be missed next year.

Intramurals, under "Sis" Munroe, has warranted the inches given it in the paper this year. Competition run high with participation on the increase . . . a good for more things to come.

Tarpon Club swam itself to a top focal point these past ths, with B J Singleton as coercer. Too much praise not be given to the accomplishments of these "human " and to the entertainment which they have provided the student body as a whole.

Along with these other fish come the good ole' depend-es of the Life Saving Corps—the gals who are always re when the pool needs a guard or for those trips to p. Skooks Lester, as a swell president, you have a swell up of which to be proud.

Last, but by far the least, comes F Club. Now, let's . . what will Dowd be expected to say on this score? ce one of my two heads (the pointed one) was cut off as sult of a conversation concerning this club, I have a con- sion to make. Hold your seats, boys!! I think you're a y worthy organization. (Shea is standing over me, pound- on my head. Ah, such is life.) No kidding, gals, you're rand group, just as much so as your president, Babe Evans.

At this point your "guest" columnist is getting to the timental stage so she bids you a fond adieu with loads of od luck to next year's sports leaders and to our new Sports tor, Evelyn Shea. Gal, it's all yours.

SEE OUR SELECTION

Of Mothers' Day
Cards

BOOK CORNER
121 S. MONROE

UM-M-m-m-m-m
DELICIOUS!

Food that can't be beat, served in air-conditioned comfort.

A hamburger is a MEAL here "with everything" and is extra delicious with one of our doubly-rich malts or shakes.

Have your date take you to Tallahassee's only
AIR-CONDITIONED FOUNTAIN CAFE

MARTIN & DALTON
DRUGS
210-212 S. ADAMS

Life Saving Corps Will Go to Wakulla

Renowned Swimming Expert To Give Demonstration

The Life Saving Corps will be Wakulla bound May 5 to enjoy an all-day outing according to Skooks Lester, leader of the group. Skooks announced that a bus will be chartered to leave the college at 12:30 in the afternoon and to return at approximately 6:30 in the evening. The meeting place has not yet been definitely decided.

During the day, Mr Knute Perry, renown swimmer, will give a demonstration in the pool. Members who are in charge of the trip are Rosa Lee Davis, chairman, Virginia Goodell, Julia Beckman, and Emily Chancey.

At the meeting of the Corps Tuesday night, plans were also discussed to revise the constitution now in use. The general rules of the organization, some of which are obsolete, will be revised. Hascia Levine, Betty Bergman, and Em Turner Nickinson, are on the committee to improve the constitution.

There will be another business meeting next week to nominate new officers for the coming year. The date will be announced and all members are urged to attend this short but important meeting.

Echaniz to Present

Continued from page one

uary, 1939, having first appeared as soloist with that orchestra the season before.

Goal of the membership drive of the Tallahassee chapter which began last Monday night is 1,200, the capacity of the Leon high auditorium.

Student dues are $3 and adult dues $6 including federal tax. Memberships may be secured through Miss Fae Thompson in the bookstore or through any of the persons or members of the music faculty.

The working force of the Tallahassee association, headed by Mr Romulus Thompson, president, includes several Florida State College faculty members and students. Faculty members include: Dean and Mrs Karl O Kuersteiner, Miss Isabel McKinnell, Mrs Ramona C Beard, and Miss Fae Thompson.

"At least four concerts will be presented with a capacity membership. A series of really outstanding artists will be presented to members during the 1946-47 season," commented Harlowe F Dean, representative from New York of the Civic Music Concert. Mr Dean went on to say, "Here is an opportunity to hear several of the world's great artists and at the same time help the Tallahassee association reach its goal."

Admittance to the concert tonight will be by presentation of receipt stub from new membership cards.

About 1600 Students

Continued from page one

and farm workers, teachers, contacts and suspects. And individual over fifteen desiring an X-ray may have one in the specific county being surveyed. It is a state law that all food handlers be X-rayed once a year, and the legislature is attempting to make it compulsory for teachers also.

The local Tuberculosis association has supplied students with various pamphlets concerning tuberculosis. Moving pictures describing the disease are to be shown in the near future.

Riding Stables Are To Open Near FSC

Riding stables a twenty minutes' walk from campus, will soon be open for an early morning canter or moonlight stroll. Mr and Mrs E F Henderson, formerly of the college dairy, have opened their own riding stables at the one time Gilbert dairy across from Dale Mabry Heights.

"The location for the stables is ideal, with rolling hills and enticing trails stretching for miles in the distance. For beginners, a practice ring is provided," Mr Henderson said.

Mr and Mrs Henderson have four saddle ponies at the present, and are on the lookout for more. Mr Henderson also wants to purchase some English saddles as soon as they become available for those who prefer English to Western saddles.

Reporters Hear

Continued from page one

the roll that education will play in the future of the world and recognizes the faults of the present American system.

The importance of the Constitution of the United States has been stressed many times by the judge, who has published a book, "This Constitution of Ours," which recognizes the value of this historic document as an instrument of freedom. Her interest was first aroused in this work, she said, when she was asked to deliver a series of lectures on the "Constitution" at Bryn Mawr college and was encouraged by the late William Allan White to incorporate her speeches into a book.

She received her law degree from New York university and later was given the first LL D it ever handed to a woman. Since that time, she has received honorary law degrees from nineteen universities and colleges throughout the country; among them being Western Reserve University, Ohio State University, Smith College, Ohio Wesleyan University, Mt Holyoke College, Rutgers University, Oberlin University, Pennsylvania State College for Women, and the University of North Carolina.

An ordered and purposeful life is the key to Judge Allen's success, and in her opinion time is something to be used, not wasted. "She is the personification of strength: strength of body; strength of mind; strength of character;" according to an article, "From Covered Wagon to Judge's Bench," reprinted from the Youngstown, Ohio Vindicator.

Minor Finals

Continued from page one

the Flastacowo, Margaret Johnson, 407, votes: business manager of the Distaff, Kitty Chaires, 244 votes, Hascia Levine, 187.

House president of Landis, Dorothy McKirnon, 400 votes; house president of Gilchrist, Betty Moody 235 votes, Nava Delgado, 152; house president of Broward, Evelyn Johnson, 375 votes; house president of Bryan, Anne McInnis 403 votes; house president of Reynolds, Alva Ray, 329 votes; Roberta Perkins, 120; house president of Jennie Murphree, Juanita Krentzman, 412 votes; vice-president of Landis, Mary Manaco, 293 votes, Gwen Ramage, 196; vice-president of Gilchrist, Jane Ann Ranson, 369 votes; vice-president of Broward, Carolyn Flint, 349 votes; vice-president of Reynolds, Eddie Faye Stokes, 271 votes, Betty Mowat, 238 and vice-president of Jennie Murphree, Marie Ratliff, 196 votes, Enid Krouse, 362.

Play Outdoors!

See Our Selection of

TENNIS RACQUETS
TENNIS AND GOLF BALLS
ARCHERY EQUIPMENT

YON'S HARDWARE
218 S. ADAMS

Physical Education Convention Report

Tucker, McVey, Evans Serve As Chairmen of Panels

The reports from the Physical Education Convention held in St Louis, were given at the regular meeting of the Physical Education Association Monday evening, April 22. The discussion of the convention was divided into three panels—the panel on health education with Dot Tucker as chairman, the panel on recreation with Gloria McVey as chairman, and the panel on physical education with Babe Evans as chairman. These panels discussed the problems of the departments and attempted to solve some of them. [illegible]kie Hall acted as chairman of the full program.

[illegible]s were discussed also at this meeting for a PEA week-end at Camp Flastacowo. The project suggested for the organization during that week-end is to make direction markers and post them throughout the chain of lakes.

A special meeting of PEA is to be called next week for the purpose of electing next year's officers. Evelyn Stuckey, Alice Taff, Joyce Garman, Catherine Sullivan, and Eloise Boyles were appointed as the nominating committee.

Jr Minstrels

Continued from page one

Clarkson, Lois Watkins, Sarah Lee Williams, Laura Simpson, Betty Banks, Bernice Strickland, Ruth Kennedy, Betty Murray, and Mary Morris.

Under the direction of Sidney Conner, the orchestra includes Jinkie Airth, Jenny Allstock, Joy Little, Gerry Hansen, Betty Poe, Marjorie King, Betty Jean Allen, Mercedes Futch, Jean Bates, Frances Duckworth, Annette Vitsky, Beryl Taylor, Frances Clopton, Pinky Stewart, Chris Morrison, and Edith Smith.

Barbara Owen is in charge of publicity, while B J McLeod, Estille Malphurs, Lois Narovec, Kitty Johnson, Barbara Dale, Lillian Fagan, Lydia Moore, Cora Lee Wells, Nancy MacEdwards, Jackie Magee, Dallas Stever, Betty Jean McLarty, Faith Adams, Anne Carter, Peggy Simpkins, Betty Nelson, Joyce Rosenthal, Catherine Silluvan, Rose Marie Ferro, Renee Cross, Annette Vitaky, Esther Argintar, B J Herring, Martha Page, Francine Dunning, Virginia Edwards, Eileen Murinson, and Lucille Essenkop were on the committee.

Costumes were under the supervision of Joyce Stroberg and Ann Parker with Marie Aiken, Esther Barash, Bobbye Bradley, Jackie Brotchie, Anna Carter, Elizabeth Greene, Joy Harper, Betty Herring, Mary Inabnit, Ellen Koenitzer, Betty McLarty, Cheryl Muster, Martha Page, Verna Rogers, M J Sherman, Frances Smithers, Mary Lou Holland, Martha Waits, Alice Gehan, Kathleen Snyder, Betty Bolles, Esther Brinkman, Nancy Boggs, Sarah Ellen Glenn, Coline Gunn, Marjorie Headly, Louise Illingworth, Piri Kahlenberg, Nell Latham, Rosalyn McGee, Nita Nord, Judy Rhodes, Vivian Schaefer, Dottie Smith, Christine Stasinos, Bette Stokes, Jayne Zeigler, and Mary Cooney serving under them.

Shirley Rodgers and Kitty Chaires were in charge of the programs with Mary Philpot, Fran Williams, Catherine Kautz, Jean Gull, Rene Settle, Betty Harris, Rosemary Fleming, Virginia Edwards, Virginia Blanton, Louise Shonter, Barbara Brown, Margaret Blocker, Ella Mae Quinby, Louise Sims, and Nancy Jones serving on the program committee.

Stage manager is Nikki Nicholson, while Candy Jones and Evelyn Shea are in charge of stage construction; Barbara Mann and Barbara Wickham have charge of lighting; Joy Fleming is supervising make-up, and Katherine Jackson is the call-boy. The special effects committee is made up of Cora Lee Wells, Beverly Frank, Marilyn Van Netta, and Jane Hardacre, chairman.

Stage and properties crew are Dot Butts, Betty Ann Sinclair, Jackie Magee, Georgia Pibos, Robin Lawson, Tot Carter, Jean Fliess, Doris Hill, Babs McCarthy, Ann Seward, Anne Hutton, Rosa Lee Davis, Bopie Whitaker, Cora Lee Wells, and Betty Schwartz. Jean Sharer, Mary Ann Bassidy, Frankie Hamilton, Shirley Smith, Mary Calley, Georgia Jaeckel, Harriet Kirk, Francis Love, Barbara Tait, Jackie Brotchie, Alice Newitt, Sara Carter, and Irma Lee Shepard make up the light crew.

Alack, Alas!

No Beer and Skittles,
Come in and Taste
Our Luscious Vittles
—Watsonspeare

FAMOUS FOR GOOD THINGS TO EAT

M & N CAFE
W. JEFFERSON

WRA Installs New Incoming Officers

Installation of the new executive board of the Women's Recreation Association was held Wednesday night at 8:15 in the Longmire building. After the installation ceremony the outgoing board gave the new executives a party in the Soda Shop.

The outgoing executive board included Jo Guthrie, president; Clarice Trueblood, vice-president; Nancy Ward, secretary; Rosea Marcoux, treasurer and Theresa Munroe, senior intramurals manager.

The incoming executives, selected in the recent elections, are Betty Gardiner, president; "Bopie" Whitaker, vice-president; Evelyn Shea, secretary; Elaine Brown, treasurer and Ann Stambaugh, senior intramurals manager.

Broward Wins Ping Pong Intramurals

Shuffleboard and Bowling Tournaments Scheduled

Evelyn Breedlove of Broward defeated Jane Arnold of Alpha Chi Omega for the intramural ping-pong championship by winning 3 out of 5 games Friday afternoon.

Broward entered the finals after defeating Kappa Alpha Theta in the semi-finals and Alpha Chi Omega after winning over Chi Omega Thursday afternoon.

Tuesday afternoon in the first round of the tournament Pi Beta Phi defeated Delta Phi Epsilon, and Gilchrist; Delta Zeta. In the second round Wednesday Chi Omega defeated Sigma Kappa through a default, Alpha Chi Omega won over Pi Beta Phi, Broward over Gilchrist, and Kappa Alpha Theta over Alpha Gamma Delta.

The intramurals shuffleboard tourament which had been planned for this week has been postponed to next week, Ann Stambaugh, intramural manager, announced. She urges that all dormitories and sororities wishing to enter contestants submit the names of two players to her at 224 Broward before noon on Sunday. Practice points will not be required for this tournament.

Other intramural contests this quarter include a bowling tournament. Although the date has not been announced as yet, Ann said that those interested should begin to acquire practice points as soon as possible.

U of F Glee Club

Continued from page one

are ex-service men. Members of this group, known as "Florida's Ambassadors of Good Will," have given concerts in Lake City, Newberry, Avon Park, Sebring, Webber College, Tampa and Brooksville.

Mr DeBruyn says that the worst problem entailed in keeping a men's college glee club running smoothly is keeping the men out of the draft. Last fall, according to Mr DeBruyn, a rather large roster of men began training for the glee club. At Christmas the program was well underway, but the draft made it necessary for the men to leave school.

"At the beginning of the second semester ex-service men came into the University Glee Club. Many of these men were raw products, and others were unacquainted with the system employed, but now, after ten weeks of rehearsal with new men, Director DeBruyn is on the road again."

According to information received here by Dean Karl O Kuersteiner, acting dean of the School of Music, the University Glee Club has given concerts at Lake City, Newberry, Avon Park, Sebring, Tampa, and Brooksville.

Odd-Even Turnouts Show Good Material

Practices Run Smoothly For Various Sports Leaders

Despite any tendencies toward spring fever, Odds and Evens continued practicing for softball, tennis, badminton, and golf at a steady pace this week

Doubles practices occupied Even badminton players and Jean Koesy, Even leader, said "There are some people out for the first time who look like prospective team members." Odd leader, Nancy Ward, commented that her girls had been playing well at practices. "Of course, we expect to beat the Evens," she predicted.

Approximately twenty freshmen are trying out for the Odd softball team according to Rachel Chambers, Odd leader. Four weeks of good practices plus two "veterans," Betty Schwartz and Marion Looby, make the Odds confident of success.

On the Even side of the golf ball, Catherine Jackson, leader, expects a fine team. "All the girls are making good progress," was her report on practices thus far. Low scorers from a group of prospective players will make up the Odd golf team this year. Rachel Crotwell, Odd leader, said that "the group is making rapid improvement and I expect very good results."

Spokesman for the Odd tennis team, Enid Sandler, reports that a good team is shaping up.

Phi Kappa Phi

Continued from page one

Gomez, Emma Hackle, Geraldine Hansen, Mercedes Hernandez, Elizabeth Johnston, Jean Marani, Emma Mae Murray, Madge Overstreet, Mrs Elizabeth Parker, Mrs Lottie Parker, Martha Powers, Jean Shanor, Betty Shiver, Grace Sims, Anne Tate, Peggy Lu Thomson, Naomi Williams, and Gladys Young.

Approximately thirty faculty members on campus are Phi Kappa Phi's. Those on the reception committee were: Miss Martha G Chapman, assistant professor of English; Mrs Ruth D Ferguson, instructor in home economics; and Miss Florence R Tryon, instructor in history.

SUCCESS

If you have ever won a college honor—class office, newspaper staff, dramatic or glee club appointment—you've known the thrill of success.

Prepare for success in business by enrolling at Katharine Gibbs School in the special secretarial course for college women. Address College Course Dean.

KATHARINE GIBBS
NEW YORK 17 .... 230 Park Ave.
BOSTON 16 .... 90 Marlborough St.
CHICAGO 11 .... 720 N. Michigan Ave.
PROVIDENCE 6 .... 155 Angell St.

Judge Allen

Continued from Page One

Branch of University Women. The graduate fellowship in the Southern Regional Training Program in Public Administration was awarded to Beatrice Weaver and Eloise Gaulding Levy received the Borden Home Economics award in recognition of achievement in nutrition. Mercedes Hernandes received the book that is presented every year by Alpha Lambda Delta to the student who has maintained the highest scholastic average for all four years.

The procession and recessional consisted of the faculty and special guests clad in their caps and gowns. Mrs Ramona C Beard, assistant professor of organ and piano, was the organist. Reverand Harold Sanders of the First Baptist Church the invocation and benediction. The vocalist was Walter James who sang "The Creation" accompanied by his wife, Mrs Rachel James.

The fourteen freshmen with the highest scholastic averages acted as ushers and distributed programs.

YOUR REQUIRED READING...

Power Miracle

by Miss Seventeen

Basic to a reed-slim you...Power Miracle, the waist-whittling wonder mesh that controls with a caress ..abbreviates bulges. Bi-directional stretch makes it supple as your skin, yet oh so curve-convincing! In panties and girdles. At better stores—$5.

MISS SEVENTEEN
JR. FOUNDATIONS
NEW YORK 1, N. Y.

HAVE YOUR PRICELESS DIPLOMA

Beautifully Framed

Expertly done for you in any desired size, color, or style

Ward's Paint Store
294 S. ADAMS

It's a party...Have a Coke

DRINK Coca-Cola

BOTTLED UNDER AUTHORITY OF THE COCA-COLA COMPANY BY TALLAHASSEE COCA COLA BOTTLING COMPANY

Sorority Chit-Chat

With the Panhellenic formal this week-end, intermission parties seem to be the style. Sing practices are also occupying much of the well known "leisure" time.

The Alpha Xi Deltas started off last week by pledging Virginia Watford of Marianna, Tuesday, April 16. The next day was their Founders' day, and they all had breakfast together at the Mecca. This week-end looks bright for the Alpha Xi's and their dates because they are planning an intermission party.

• • •

Things seem to have been happening right and left over at the Alpha Delta Pi house. Wednesday, April 17, they held a pledge service for Frances Williams of Ft Lauderdale. Not to overlook Easter, they scrambled under bushes in search of Easter eggs early Sunday morning. After the hunt, their house mother, Mrs Barrett, served them breakfast. The A D Pi national traveling secretary, Mrs Betty Bissel Jones, is visiting here this week on her way to attend the installation of Gamma Gamma chapter at Southern College in Lakeland this week-end. With the weather in their favor, a garden party honoring Mrs Jones was held Tuesday afternoon. Wednesday the whole chapter attended a supper party at the home of Frances Wesson.

Plans for an intermission party Saturday night are also under way.

Those girls who are planning to go to Lakeland for the installation service are Betty Ann Campbell, Margaret Treisback, Jean Simon, Frances Traxler, Pat Thomas, Mary Stallings, Frances Proctor.

• • •

At a pledge service Tuesday, April 16, the Chi Omegas pledged Sally Whithead, Suzanne Harris, and Dorothy Ann Holland. They are planning big things this week-end in the form of a tea dance Saturday afternoon and a breakfast Sunday morning. In charge of the decorations for the dance are Nell Clark, chairman, Patty Bates, Maggie Flynn, Estella Jones, Ann Cooper Knight, and Betty Well Nelson. Mary Sparrow is in charge of the breakfast.

• • •

About 20 Tri Deltas went to Jacksonville last week-end for the annual Pansy luncheon given by the Jacksonville Tri Delta Alliance. While there the girls enjoyed an endless round of parties. Their financial adviser gave a coca-cola party for the Tri Delts and their friends.

On Friday night they had a steak fry at the old home of one of the Jacksonville members and on Saturday afternoon they had a beach party.

• • •

A week-end out at camp was enjoyed by the Alpha Chi Omegas last week-end. They stayed from Friday night until Sunday noon. Sunday morning they had an Easter egg hunt and a sunrise service. In charge of the arrangements for the week-end were Jane Arnold, social chairman, Ann Mustaine, Harriet Ruth Lewa, and Virginia Crognan. The 1946-47 officers were installed on April 6. They are Louella Rouse, president; Marjorie Potter, first vice-president; Marianne Jones, treasurer; Marjorie Austin, rush chairman; Nicky Satoris, Panhellenic representative; Nancy Ware, house chairman; Margaret Williams, recording secretary; Margaret Johnson, corresponding secretary. Dr Carmen Rogers, sorority patroness, spoke to members and pledges at a joint chapter meeting last Monday night.

• • •

Last Saturday night 17 Phi Mus attended the wedding of Barbara Irvin and Jim Nichols which was held in Callahan.

The Phi Mus are looking forward to a grand and glorious Panhellenic week-end.

• • •

Plans for this week-end at the Kappa Alpha Theta house include a buffet supper honoring members and dates to be given before the Panhellenic dance Saturday night and an "intermission party" which will be held during the intermission of the dance.

Mrs M D Morgan, the Kappa Alpha Theta house mother, spent the Easter holidays in Houston, Texas, where she visited her son. Members spending the holidays away from Tallahassee included Sue Brophy who went to Pensacola, Jean Oldfather who visited in Miami, and Estill Malphurs who visited in High Springs.

• • •

Anna Bryce, recent pledge, will be initiated into Pi Beta Phi this afternoon at initiation services at the house. Although no formal parties have been scheduled for this week, Pi Beta Phis are looking forward to a fun-packed week-end to include the Panhellenic dance, Panhellenic "sing" and possibly several informal parties at the sorority house.

• • •

Kappa Delta will entertain all members and their dates Saturday afternoon at a tea dance from 4 to 6 at the chapter house, and again Sunday morning at a breakfast there. Charlotte Healey is in charge of both of these affairs.

Highlight of the Easter week-end for Kappa Deltas was an Easter egg hunt Sunday for all members and pledges who did not spend the holidays at home. "Dink" Ashton, president, had charge of arrangements for this.

Friday morning at 7 o'clock KDs had an installation service for a new chapter at the University of Toledo. Also on Friday the second degree was held for Frances White, and Nancy Lee Streeter.

• • •

Zeta Tau Alpha is planning an intermission coffee at their house for members and their dates during the intermission of the Panhellenic dance Saturday night.

• • •

Margaret McGoogan and Martha Page were pledged to Delta Zeta recently.

READ THE FLAMBEAU ADVERTISEMENTS.

Odd Honorary Taps 15 Girls

Spirogira Chooses Three Freshmen, Twelve Juniors

Thursday evening during dinner Spirogira members, garbed in their official black and white outfits, wound their way through the dining halls, choosing new members. Fifteen girls were tapped in all, including three freshmen and 12 juniors.

The freshmen chosen were Patrician Dillard, Pauline Tuttle and Catherine Gallagher. Juniors tapped were Ann Parker, Harriet Kirk, Barbara Mann, Cora Lea Wells, Nita Nord, Ann Hunter, Eleanor Bragg, Nancy Wright, Mary Lou Norwood, Shirley Rodgers, Bookie McMikel and Chris Morrison.

Thursday night before dinner the goats performed in front of the Odd fountain. Following this the newly tapped Spirogira members gave a supper for Spirogira alumnae and faculty.

Activities in which these girls have participated include: Frances Dillard, general chairman of freshman flunkies and vice-president of Jennie Murphree dormitory; Pauline Tuttle, Freshman Flunkies, YWCA intramurals, president of freshman class, Alpha Lambda Delta and 'F' club; Catherine Gallagher, Odd hockey team, Alpha Lambda Delta, new secretary of CGA, and freshman carnival; Ann Parker, Newman club, house president of Bryan, freshman counselor, and "F" club; Harriet Kirk, Village Vamps, vice-president of Alpha Lambda Delta, sophomore council, chairman of sophomore-senior breakfast, representative to senate, and freshman counselor; Barbara Mann, sophomore council, vice-president of junior class, freshman counselor and "F" club; Cora Lea Wells, freshman counselor, house vice-president of Reynolds, "F" club, junior representative to senate, and posters for personnel office; Nita Nord, secretary-treasurer of "F" club, freshman counselor, junior representative to senate, Odd hockey team leader, Gamma Sigma Epsilon, Phi Delta Phi, and Alpha Lambda Delta.

Ann Hunter, Glee club, Mortar Board, Alpha Lambda Delta, sophomore council, second vice-president of Gilchrist, Zeta Phi Eta, house president of Lang-Cockrell-Van Brunt residences, chairman of residence halls; Eleanor Bragg, Music club, junior counselor, treasurer of junior class, Alpha Lambda Delta, sophomore council secretary, Glee club accompanist, Pi Kappa Lambda and newly elected treasurer of CGA.

Mary Lou Norwood, Cotillion club, senate representative for freshman class, chorus of Junior Minstrels, and chairman of Junior Minstrels; Nancy Wright, Freshman Flunkies, Odd dem; Shirley Rodgers, managing editor of Flambeau, chairman of junior-senior prom, Odd dem, advertising manager of Flambeau, and newly elected editor of Flambeau; Bookie McMikel, Odd dem, cheerleader, Home Ec club, and sophomore council; Chris Morrison, band, swing band, Cotillion club, secretary of sophomore class, and student activity in piano.

Barclay to Marry

Announcement has been made of the engagement of Miss Cordelia Barclay of Tampa, to Lt Gordon Melville Gumpertz of Oxnard, Calif. The wedding will take place in Oxnard in early summer.

Miss Barclay was graduated from Florida State College in 1945. She was editor of the Flambeau, a member of Sophomore Council, Judiciary, and Spirogira. For the past year she has served as staff writer on the Tampa Tribune.

The University of Florida Glee Club will present a concert under the direction of Mr John W Deburye in Westcott auditorium at 2:00 o'clock Saturday afternoon. Tickets can be obtained from members of the Florida State College Glee Club.

Departmental Teas Honor Students

In connection with the Honors Day program ten teas, sponsored by the various departments of the school, were given for the honorees Wednesday afternoon and evening.

Immediately after convocation Wednesday the chemistry department had a "coke and peanut" party in the chemistry laboratory. From 4:30 to 6 p m the department of home economics gave a tea in the Home Management house. The department of philosophy and religion had a tea after 4:30 at 647 W Pensacola. Miss Mary Winslow and Miss Gladys Koch of the music department gave a tea for the music honor students at the home of Miss Winslow at 5 p m. The tea for the School of Education honorees was held in the Longmire building at 5 p m. Also at 5 o'clock, the economics and commerce department entertained in Broward lounge and the English department held their tea in the home of Miss Henry of the English department. The modern language department's informal evening party took place in the main lounge of the Longmire building from 8 to 9 p m, and the history department entertained from 8 to 9 p m in the clubroom of the Longmire building. Dr and Mrs M W Carothers and Miss Eva May Atwood gave a tea for student assistants on the Honors Day list at 5 o'clock in the club room of the Longmire building.

11 Initiated to VV

At 6 o'clock last night the Village Vamps held a banquet at the Three T's preceeding initiation ceremonies which were held at the Pi Phi house. Four two days before initiation the goats wore black and at the banquet goat songs and papers were read. Ysobel DuPree was in charge of the banquet and initiation.

Those initiated were: Nancy Lee Streeter, Mary Katherine Klutz, Louise Burrell, Patty Bates, Betty Patterson, Estelle Jones, Mary Nell Thrower, Carrie Kate Boynton, Patsy Crosby, Teddy Hamlin, and Jean DuPree.

Carothers Speaks

Dr M W Carothers, registrar, will address the annual meeting of the Florida Association of Colleges and Universities at Rollins in Winter Haven today on "Resources—Use Eduction."

As vice-president of the group, Dr Carothers will preside over a Saturday morning session.

Room Assignments!

Room assignments will be given to students beginning Monday, April 29 and continuing through May 2, according to Miss Edith McCollum, director of residence. Students may see the Director of Residence each day between 8:30 and 12:30 and 2:30 and 5 o'clock according to the following schedule: Monday, April 29, A through E; Tuesday, April 30, F through L; Wednesday May 1, M through S; Thursday, May 2, T through Z, and anyone who has been unable to come on the previous days.

Composer Will Arrive Monday

Fickenscher to Visit FSC During Music Week

Arthur Fickenscher, musician and composer, will be at Florida State College Monday, April 29, for a two weeks' visit, according to Dr Karl O Kuersteiner, dean of the School of Music.

Mr Fickenscher will make the trip from his home in Fairfax, Calif, to Tallahassee to be present at the Music Week concert, when two of his compositions will be played. His appearance here is at the request of Percy Grainger.

"The Chamber Blue," one of Mr Fickenscher's compositions based on a poem by William Morris, will be played for the first time in its entirety, directed by the composer. Mr Fickenscher completed this composition only eight or ten days ago. "The Chamber Blue" is written for a woman's chorus and orchestra, and this arrangement utilizes three soloists, Paul Jean Teagarden, soprano, Phyllis DeKalb, contralto, and Walter James, tenor.

Mr Grainger also suggested Mr Fickenscher's "The Seventh Realm," a quintet for strings and piano, to be played on this program. Mr Grainger will play the piano and the faculty quartet, the strings.

For years Mr Fickenscher was head of the School of Music at the University of Virginia. Now he has made his home in California and is devoting his full time and energies to composition. He is experimenting with a new and modern style of musical composition, with a dissentient technique of writing. He has adopted this style from the Asiatic Indians, something altogether new for America. Percy Grainger considers him "a great musical genius, one whose music will become a permanent heritage of American culture."

Announcement

Extra pieces of storage still in store rooms from last year and clothing left in rest rooms and laundries at the end of the first and second quarters may be reclaimed if properly identified on Wednesday, May 1, according to Mrs M R Nold, head of house management. These articles may be obtained from 1:30 until 2:30 and from 4:30 until 5:30 p m.

Panhel Sing Will Be Held Tomorrow

Traditional Panhellenic week-end commences tomorrow night at 8:30 in the gymnasium at a dance, featuring Marvin Scott and his band, given for sorority members and their dates.

"Sorority colors and emblems are to be represented in different sections of the gymnasium and crepe paper streamers will lead from each section to tie in the center," announced Louise Simms, chairman of decorations committee.

The 1945-46 presidents will be presented during the intermission, after which parties will be held in all sorority houses, according to Martha Abbott, former president of Pan Hellenic Association.

"Chaperons will be Dr and Mrs Coyle E Moore, Dr and Mrs Paul F Finner, and Dean and Mrs Karl O Kuersteiner. Faculty Committee on Sorority Affairs is also invited, said Martha.

Present officers of "Panhel" are: Virginia Budd, president; and Rita Gendzier, secretary.

Panhel Dance Will Be Held on Sunday

As a climax to Panhellenic weekend activities, the annual sing, in which all sororities are required to participate, will be held at 4:30 o'clock Sunday afternoon in Westcott auditorium.

Songs are to be judged on sweetness and originality and the winner will be awarded a prize of five dollars. Chairman Mary G Holland said the following will act as judges: Miss Mildred Henry, assistant professor of English, Miss Mary Esther Winslow, assistant professor of piano, and Miss Zadie L Phipps, assistant professor of music.

"Former winners of Panhellenic Sing were Chi Omega for originality, and Zeta Tau Alpha for sweetness," said Mary.

All students and faculty members are cordially inxited to attend.

Librarian to Talk

"The Work of Librarians" will be the subject of a vocational guidance lecture to be given by Miss Agnes Gregory, instructor of library science, Monday afternoon at 5 o'clock in Room 303 Westcott, announced Dr Elizabeth G Andrews, director of personnel, Tuesday.

Miss Gregory will tell of the type of work a librarian does and the training necessary for such work.

Notice to Seniors

All seniors are asked by Dr Elizabeth Andrews, director of personnel, to check their credits on the data sheets.

Dr Andrews requests that any necessary changes be reported to the Office of Personnel.

Hugh Powell to Lead Presbyterian Course

Rev Hugh Powell, director of religious education for the state of Florida, will lead the Presbyterian training school starting tonight at 7:30. With him are Miss Marjorie Glenn, director of religious education at Peace Memorial Presbyterian church in Clearwater, and Miss Elizabeth McNeil, director of religious education of the First Presbyterian church in Daytona Beach.

The training school is for girls doing home mission work and teaching in vacation Bible school this summer. The school will last through Sunday night and Rev Powell will be guest speaker at the Vesper service Sunday night at the Presbyterian church.

Episcopal

Ruge Hall will be the scene of a garden party on the afternoon of May Day, May 4, from 5 until 6 p m. Joyce Williams, social chairman, is in charge.

May 11 is the Ruge week-end at Camp Flastacowo. Lists are being posted in Ruge and on the lower Westcott bulletin board for students wishing to sign up, according to Mrs Hill Luce, director of Ruge Hall.

Crotwell Will Give Certificate Recit

Rachel Crotwell, music ma will give her junior certifica violin recital in Westcott aud torium, Sunday at 8:15 p m, a cording to Dr Karl O Kuerstein dean of the school of music.

She is a violin student of M Olga Eitner, associate professor violin and theory, and will accompanied by MissRuby Du stan, instructor in piano. Rac is a band member, and also co cert mistress of the Florida Sta College orchestra. In addition the violin she plays oboe, tub and piano.

Her program includes: "Loure Bach; "Gavotte," Bach; "Co certo in D," Allegro ma non tro po, Beethoven; "Caprice Vie nois," Kreisler; "Die Lotusblume Schumann; and "Hungari Dance" by Haesche.

Flambeau Staff Will Publish Democr

The Flambeau staff will pu lish its annual issue of the Da Democrat, May 5, according Mr Earl L Vance, associate pr fessor of English and journalis Judy Pepper will be editor-i chief for this issue.

The general theme of the p per will be concerned with pos war planning and all feature m terial will center around this i

The 1945-46 staff of the Fla beau will act as various edito of the issue, their jobs correspon ing approximately to those wh they held on the Flambeau. the regular Tallahassee beats, cluding various state offices w be covered by Flambeau repor ers.

Here They Are

At Last!

The holders of the following numbers will be given one hour of Free Flight Instruction

351 – 655 – 1227 – 1235 – 1535 – 1687

1825 – 1900 – 1951 – 1971 – 1990 – 2026

◆

Phone 2565 For Appointment

JEFF LEWIS TAC IVAN MUNROE

TALLAHASSEE AIRCRAFT CORP.

MOTHERS' DAY CARDS

Large Selection

Wee Gift Shop

COLLEGE AVE.

MATERIALS

You've Longed For!

BUTCHER LINEN

In Yellow, Green, Brown, Orange, Blue

$1.49 yd.

FEATHER FLANNEL

In Yellow, Blue, Pink, Aqua, White

$1.29 yd.

CREASE-RESISTANT, WASHABLE

BEN GILBERG

108 E. JEFFERSON

Look Cool As a Cucumber

In an eyelet embroidery, Tissue Gingham or Seersucker

Yours in white or Lovely Pastels

Sizes: 9-15
12-20

THE SURPRISE STORE

101-105 E. JEFFERSON

TENNIS HEADQUARTERS

—RACQUETS—

Expert Stringing . . . Two-Day Service

Wright & Ditson, Dunlop & Pennsylvania Balls

SEABROOK HARDWARE CO.

213 S. ADAMS ST. PHONE 200

Suddenly

It's Spring

Gay Gibson JUNIORS

Bates Sun Country Stripe Broadcloth makes up this "perfect for Summer" Gay Gibson. 9-15.

Steyerman's

Campbell Speaks

Z 106

The Florida Flambeau

Students Seek

Published by the Students of Florida State College for Women

VOL. XXXIII, No. 23

Tallahassee, Florida

MAY 3, 1946

24 First Places Awarded In AAUW Creative Arts Contest; Winners Revealed This Week

Five Divisions Represented in Contest Include Art, Writing, Dramatic Art, Dancing, And Musical Composition

Twenty-four first places were awarded this week when the winners of the annual Creative Arts contest were announced by Mrs Cynthia Snow, contest chairman. Sponsored by the American Association of University Women, awards are divided among the five divisions of writing, art, dramatic art, musical composition, and dancing. Each division was well represented, Mrs Snow stated, hut the art dvision received the most entries.

The winners and those receiving honorable mention in writing are as follows: articles, Alicia Arm- ng, first place, and Anne Hut- honorable mention. The judges in this division were Mrs Margaret Slair, Miss Caroline Pace and Dr Dorothy Hoffman. The informal essay: Winifred ne, Joyce Petty and Jacque- e Nevers, collaborators, first place June Grindstaff, Martha Dunagan, and Frances Trax- honorable mention. The judges were Miss Caroline Pace, Raymond Bellamy and Mrs Miller. Short story winners were: Peggy Lu Thomas, first, an Thomasson and Jacqueline evers, honorable mention. The judges were Mrs Mary Alfriend, Dodd and Dean G L Diffenach. Poetry winners were: Peggy Lu Thomson, first place, three poems, honorable mention Ellen Whitman and Marcia aniel, honorable mention. The judges were Miss Mildred Henry, Dr Sarah Herndon and Dr Anna tell.

Each of the judges read the manuscripts and reached her decision independently, and it may be said that in each of the four writing divisions, the choice of first place was made with complete unanimity. The manacripts will be returned, for the judges e that some of those which did not place have material, if revised, suitable for the Distaff. The final Distaff for this year will be made up completely of AAUW contest material. Certificates of award for distinction in writing will be presented to those winning first place

Art Awards

In art, Artemis Skevakis received first place in general design, Marjorie Brown, first honorable mention, and Ann Holloway and Ann Nicholson, second honorable mention jointly. There was no first award in applied design, but first hooorable mention went to Lucille Pittman and second to etta Phoenix. In kiln fired ceramics of three dimensional design Fran Harre was awarded first place, Gloria Barnum, first honorable mention, and Emily Phillips, second honorable mention. Bes- e Maude Hill received first place in ceramic sculpture, Bettye hones, first honorable mention, and Nancy Lee Streater, second honorable mention. Jan McFar- and won the first award in sculpturing and Sylvia Turner honorable mention. The judges of this three dimensional art were Mrs Beatrice Williams and Mr Van erguson

In composition Betty Blake won first place in oil painting, and

Continue on page two

Committee Fails to Act on Amendment

Meetings of faculty and student committees on the light cut and consitutional amendment bills the past week have failed to bring any immediate action.

The faculty committee met to consider the light cut bill last Tuesday night. Any decisions they may have made must be referred back to the executive council of the college before the bill is brought back to senate.

No definite decision has been made by faculty-student committee concerning the constitutional amendment. The student committee has found that after changing one portion others need to be adjusted accordingly. They are now studying the whole article and these necessary revisions, according to Sarah Lewis, chairman of senate and a member of the student committee. The committee has been meeting regularly for the past two weeks and hopes to present the revised amendment to senate Monday or Wednesday.

Forum Postponed

The College Government Association forum scheduled for last night was called off at the last minute, according to Robin Hill, third vice-president, because there were approximately ten people present She did not announce a future date for the forum at that time.

Nominations Made Tuesday

Class Elections Will Be Monday, Tuesday

Nominations for class officers were held Tuesday in the various class meetings. Final elections will be held next Monday and Tuesday in lower Westcott.

Nominations for Senior class officers are president, Jean Cole, Nita Nord; vice-president, Sarah Ellen Glenn, Mae Manning, and Barbara Wickham; secretary, Marjorie Potter, Anne McDonald; treasurer, La Vonne Black, Nita Bowles, and Betty Redd; parliamentarian, Polly Marks, Helen Stone, Lorraine Smith; senate, Martha Abbott, May Alexander, "Mickey" Chambers, Ann Colvin, Betty Dowd, Barbara Irving, B J McLeod, Frannie Myers, Mary Lou Norward, Ann Parker, Bo Peep Shell, Cora Lea Wells; Senior athletic manager, Betty Donnally, Mary Nell Goldman; chairman of Odd Demonstration; Nancy Wright; and chairman of May Day, Mary Groover Holland.

Those nominated for Junior officers were president, Beth Puh-

Continue on page two

Many Jobs Available Through Application

Eaaminations to Decide Those Eligible for Positions

Jobs are being offered by the State Welfare Board and the Florida Industrial Commission to the unemployed and to those who will be unemployed in the near future, the Personnel office announced this week.

Applications must be filed in Merit System Office on or before midnight of May 18. Mailed applications must be postmarked on or before midnight of the same date.

Those who are interested may apply for and take an examination for one of these jobs, and registers established by these examinations will be used to fill present vacancies as well as those occurring during the year.

Previous experience is not necessary for many of these positions. Salary advancements and promotions are based on seniority and quality of service, and liberal provisions are made for vacations and sick leave. Moreover, the employment is permanent.

The positions that are now open are as follows: typist, stenographer, senior stenographer, principal stenographer, clerk, accounting clerk, statistical clerk, key punch operator, tabulating equipment operator, senior tabuiating operator, principal tabulating equipment operator, and chief of machine accounts.

Graduation Speaker To Be Dr T H Jack

Theodore H Jack, president of Randolph-Macon Woman's College, will be the speaker at graduation exercises on Monday, June 10. President Doak S Campbell has announced. Dr Jack has been on the teaching staffs of the University of Chicago, Emory University, and Harvard and served as vice-president of Emory before becoming president of Randolph-Macon in 1933. He is a member of Sigma Alpha Epsilon, Phi Beta Kappa, and Omicron Delta Kappa.

At baccalaureate services which are planned for 11 o'clock, Sunday, June 9, Rabbi Julius Mark of the Vine Street Temple in Nashville will be the guest speaker, Dr Campbell stated. Rabbi Mark, who was recently discharged from the Naval Reserve in which he was a chaplain, has been active in both religious and civic organizations for many years. He has visited, lectured and written extensively on the principal countries of Europe, as well as Egypt and Palestine.

AAUW Holds Annual Meet This Weekend

Representatives From 12 Cities to Hold Varied Discussions

Members to Be Honored By Winners in Contest

The annual state convention for the American Association of University Women will be held in Tallahassee and at Florida State College today and Saturday. Dr Rosa Lee Walston, head of the division of humanities at Georgia State College for Women will deliver the principal address to the convention at a dinner this evening at the Wakulla Springs hotel.

Addresses by Miss Mabel Hodgson, president of the Tallahassee branch of the AAUW and by Miss Mary Miller, state president, will also be presented at this time. A welcoming speech by President Doak S Campbell on social legislation pending before congress, and an address by Dr Marian D Irish, professor of political science, will be given at the Saturday morning session from 9 until 12 in the Longmire building.

The speeches by Dr Walston will replace scheduled addresses by Miss Edith Hyslop of Washington, D C, who will be unable to attend the convention.

Dr Welston was formerly dean of women at Auburn University and also formerly consultant in education with the United States office of education in Washington. Her subject will be "The Changing Pattern of Education for Women."

Between 75 and 100 delegates, representing Gainesville, Jacksonville, Tallahassee, Miami, Ocala, Orlando-Winter Park, West Palm Beach, Tampa, St Petersburg, Pensacola and Lakeland are expected for the convention.

Also featured during the convention will be a program by the local Creative Arts group to be presented Saturday afternoon under the direction of Mrs Cynthia Snow, contest chairman.

The complete program for the convention following registration this afternoon in the Longmire building will be as follows: Friday, May 3, 5-6 p m—conducted tour of the Inca Museum, fourth

Continued on page two

Display in Library Features Ceramics

Kiln-Fired Glaaes, Ceramic Sculpture Is Shown

The industrial arts department is showing in the library display case this week a varied assortment of ceramics, made by students of the department who were competing in the creative arts contest sponsored by the American Association of University Women.

In the main case is a large display of kiln-fired ceramics, both glass-glazed and majolica-glazed, with samples of plain and combined color glazes. Pitchers and vases are used to illustrate the effect of green and yellow and green and gray when combined. The difference between modeled and incised designs and low and high relief are clearly shown by different handiworks. A large variety of useful and decorative articles were shown which offered ideas in bookends, paper-weights, dishes, pins and earrings. Several pins and earrings were shown as examples of applied designs used for a specific purpose.

The main theme of the side display case is ceramic sculpture, illustrated by animals forms and abstract designs. Among the members of animal-kingdom represented in the particular designs were the elephant, rabbit, cat, dog and fish. Another feature of the display was glaze-tests of different color combinations. One article was a large red and green vase used as an example of the spraying technique of applying glazes. The animal form was again used for utilitarian designs, such as teapot with a resemblance to a camel. The last feature that is being stressed is the different types and modeling techniques which are illustrated by a raised and glazed case of red and green and a two-tone brown pitcher in the shape of a face.

Tickets on Sale

Tickets for the School of Music banquet to be held at 8 p m next Thursday in the East dining hall are now on sale in lower Westcott. Prices are 60c for persons who regularly eat in the dining hall and $1.25 for others, according to Dean Karl O Kuersteiner of the School of Music.

Guest Composer Is Originator Of a New Musical Technique

Arthur Fickenscher, distinguished 84-year-old guest artist who arrived on campus last Monday to be present during Music Week, said that he believes music should contain both ideals and force, and he added, "I heartily disapprove of the hammer throwing style."

Mr Fickenscher, who is a former concert pianist and teacher, plans to illustrate his new type of music technique which he calls "free music" in two concerts with Percy Grainger on May 5 and 11. Percy Grainger and he have worked together before, and Mr Grainger has featured the Fickenscher quintet in both American and Australian concerts.

Arthur Fickenscher was born in Illinois where his father taught music and German. He gave his first concert when he was only six years old. After studying music in Chicago, he journeyed to Europe and studied with such noted composers as Bach, Wagner, and Cesar Franck. He was graduated from the Munich Conservatory at the age of eighteen. Upon returning to America, he went on tour as accompanist to a group of Wagnerian singers, and later did concert work for three years. In 1920 Mr Fickenscher distinguished himself as a musician in Chicago, New York, San Francisco and Berlin, and in this same year, he became the first head of the music department at the University of Virginia. Last year, Mr Fickenscher retired from this position in order to have more time for composing. Two of his musical compositions to be presented here next week are "The Chamber Blue" and "The Blue Closet." His latest composition, which he has just completed is "The Land East of the Sun and West of the Moon," a 90 minute choral symphonic poem based on a poem by William Morris.

The slightly-built musician prophesied that it will probably take 50 years for this, his latest and best composition, to become well-known. Wearing a conservative grey suit brightened by a flashy bow-tie, he laughed and said, "I'd crawl into a coffin and die if I couldn't work." He has been composing since his childhood.

Professor Fickenscher likes chorus and orchestra combinations and is greatly influenced by the beanty and mysticism of the English poets of the Renaissance and

Continued on page two

Speech Pupils Give Recitals

Eight Programs Presented During Last Week

Eight recitals were presented by members of the speech department this week. Maureen Petty and Sara Norman gave their senior recitals, and those who presented junior recitals include Louise Illingworth, Mary Jane Inabnit, Katherine Moore, Burma Cox, Anne Hunter and Elaine Parramore.

"Claudia," a comedy in three acts by Rose Franken, was presented by Maureen Petty Wednesday evening in the Augusta Conradi theater. Nancy McLaurin, Claire St John, Eugenia Avant and Joyce Petty served as ushers for this recital. On Monday morning Sara Norman gave "You and I" by John Berri in 406 History building as her senior recital.

Recitals by Louise Illingworth, Mary Jane Inabnit and Katherine Moore were presented Sunday afternoon in the Augusta Conradi theater.

Louise Illingworth told the story of "The Snow Goose" by Paul Gallico. This tale centered about a bird which guided the man left at Dunkirk to safety after the fall of France in 1941.

A one-act play entitled "What Men Live By" was presented by Mary Jane Inabnit. This play was adapted by Virginia Church from the story by Leo Tolstoi. "What

Continue on page two

Arms and the Man Speech Production

Arm's and the Man, by George Bernard Shaw, major production of the speech department this year, will be presented in the Augusta Conradi Little Theater on May 15, 16, and 17. It is the original play from which the musical comedy, The Chocolate Soldier, was adapted.

Arms and the Man was first produced in 1895, and is one of the first plays to satirize the idea of romance in war. Previously dramatists had glorified war, but Shaw scorns the common conception of the so-called war hero in this play.

The cast will include Rosemary Fleming, Julian L Branche, Dick Mitchell, Claire Saint John, Corinne Johnston, Jack Richey, and Leal G Barr.

The play is under the direction of Mr D L Dingwell of the speech department.

Florida Glee Club Gives Concert Here

Guest Artist and Soloists Highlight Program

The University of Florida Glee Club, under the direction of Professor John W DeBruyn, presented a concert in Westcott Auditorium last Saturday afternoon at 2:00 o'clock. The majority of members were ex-service men who had come back to the University second semester.

Mary Parker, alumna of Florida State College and former president of the glee club here, was guest artist. She sang "I Love You" by Cole Porter, with "The Way You Look Tonight" as an encore.

Soloists for the program were Anthony Caminiti, Anthony Pullara, tenors, Al Asenjo and Harry Hurst, pianists, and Elmer Lasone Allen, dancer.

The program included: "We Are the Boys From Old Florida" by Dyrenforth, "Ecce Quomodo Moritur" by Palestina, "Now Let Every Tongue Adore Thee" by J S Bach, "Down by The Old Mill Stream" by Taylor-Colby, "World is Waiting for the Sunrise" by Seitz, "Sing Me a Chantey with a Yo-Heave-Ho" by O'Keefe-Wellesley, "Cossack Song" by Koshetz, "At Father's Door" by Davison, "Kemo Kimo," a Tennessee mountain song, "Medley from the South," arranged by Pike, and "Alma Mater" by Yeats. These selections were sung by the entire group. Other numbers were:

"Ave Maria" by Bach-Gounod, and an aria from Pagliacci by Leoncavallo, sung by Anthony Pullara; "Summertime" by Gershwin, sung by Anthony Caminiti; "Etude de Concert" by Liszt, by Harry Hurst, pianist; and "Stardust" by Hoagy Carmichael, by Al Asenjo, pianist.

The club, known as "Florida's Ambassadors of Good Will" have made several previous concerts in Tampa, Avon Park, Sebring, Weber College, Lake City, Newberry, and Brooksville. The last concert of the season was given in Gainesville last Monday in the Yonge School Auditorium.

Gay Gypsy Music Highlights the Junior Minstrel Performance

Crowds filled Westcott auditorium to capacity last Friday night when the class of '47 Junior Minstrels presented "A Hyphenated Saga of a Highly Coloured Clan," produced by Mary Lou Norwood.

All the lights went out, one spotlight was focused on the corner of the stage, illuminating tall, dark-haired, tuxedo-dressed Rodney Enrico Randolph-Macon-Adverse-Lopez, enacted by Corinne Johnston. Rodney was lolling against a piano as Betty Jane Lang began to play background music. The story of Rodney's highly coloured clan unfolded.

It all started, according to him, with his great grandfather, Enrico, a Gypsy clarinet player, who played for Marie-Theresa of Austria. As the story was related the curtained opened and there was Enrico. Frances Duckworth in reality, playing his clarinet accompanied by Chris Morrison on the drums and a gypsy chorus. Dancers: Jeanne Bagley, Sis Myers, Jane Levy, Evelyn Howell, Bobbye Bradley, Margaret Cogswell, Shirley Stever, and Polly Marks executed a true gypsy dance to the strains of "Hungarian Dance No 5."

Great grandfather was exiled, says Rodney, and lands in the deep South where he falls in love with great grandmother, Magnolia. She is in the usual southern belle's predicament, the mortgage on the plantation is due and her father must sacrifice either her or his favorite race horse. Enrico saves the day by stealing away with both Magnolia and the horse. During this scene, in which Paula Jean Teagarden played Magnolia, Mary Lou Nor-

Continued on page two

Percy Grainger, pianist and composer, will present a concert in Westcott auditoriom May 6 and 7 at 8:15. Blue and red Artist Series tickets are valid.

AGO Elects New Officers

Mrs Beard Is New Regent; 7 Offices Filled

Members of the Tallahassee chapter of the American Guild of Organists held a business meeting for the purpose of electing officers at 7:15 last Tuesday evening in the club room of the Rowena Longmire building, according to Mrs Ramona C Beard, regent of the local chapter.

New officers are: Regent, Mrs Beard, associate professor of organ at Florida State College and organist at the St John's Episcopal church; vice-regent, Rebecca Rodenberg, student from Vero Beach; secretary, Miss Lucille Wagner, assistant professor in piano; treasurer, Miss Evelyn Ann Doyle; auditor, Dr Robert D Miller, associate professor of religion and philosophy; membership committee chairman, Miss Katherine Phillips, organist at the Presbyterian church; social chairman, Mrs W R Latham, acting choirmaster at the Presbyterian church.

The offices of registrar and li-

Continued on page two

Students Take Part In World Conference

International Meeting to Be Held in Prague, Poiand

Twenty-five students from all parts of the country will represent the United States at the second international student conference made up of students from all countries to approach the problems of student exchanges, student reliefs, and student responsibility for keeping the peace to be held in Prague, Poland, from August 17-31.

According to information received this week an American preparatory committee has been set up composed of representatives from the National Intercollegiate Christian Council, B'nai B'rith Hillel Foundations, United States Student Assembly, Intercollegiate Youth for Democracy, Student Federalists, and the Association of Internes and Medical students to select the American delegates. Approximately 17 of the group will be selected from these organizations, but the remainder will be delegates-at-large, students representing the organizations of a particular campus or group of campuses, and who shall be approved by the committee.

All campus groups or individuals who are interested in having Florida State College represented at this conference are urged to get in touch with Alice Horton of the American preparation committee, Room 912, 8 West 4th St, New York City.

"This conference offers a tremendous opportunity for American students to make themselves heard for the cause of international cooperation for world peace," stated an appeal to all college students made by the American preparatory committee.

Alumnae Register May 10 for College

The 1946 session of the Florida State College Alumnae College will begin with registration Friday afternoon, May 10. This meeting of the FSC alumnae will continue through Saturday, May 11.

Dorothy Stratton, former commanding officer of the SPARS will be the featured speaker. Other speakers will include Governor Millard Caldwell and several authorities on higher education in Florida.

Invitations have been sent to all alumnae of FSC and a large group is expected. According to information from the Alumnae Office, students may attend the discussions that will be held on Saturday.

Arrival of Noted Musicians On Campus Inaugurates Week Of FSC Musical Celebration

Grainger Concerts and Premiere of "Chamber Blue" By Fickenscher Are Featured With Gala Orchestra-Glee Club Concert

Two noted composer-musicians, Percy Grainger and Arthur Fickenscher, will be welcomed to Florida State College campus for the Music Week events of May 5 through 11. Mr Grainger, who will arrive Sunday, will present concerts on Monday and Tuesday evenings and will act as guest conductor for the gala concert next Friday evening. Mr Fickenscher arrived Monday for a two weeks visit and is present for the first entire performance of his recently completed "The Chamber Blue," a composition for chorus and orchestra which will be featured in the concert Friday.

Music Week officially begins Sunday afternoon at 4 o'clock with an outdoor concert by the symphonic orchestra under the direction of Mr Owen Sellers, associate professor of cello and other orchestral instruments. Other events of the week will include the gala concert of band, orchestra, and glee club, with Percy Grainger conducting, May 11, in Westcott auditorium.

The program Sunday afternoon will include: "Star Spangled Banner" by Smith; "Overture Eroica" by Skornice; Sousa's "Semper Fidelis," conducted by Warrene Porter; Caribbean Fantasy" by Morrissey; "In a Chinese Temple Garden" by Keleibey; Filmore's "His Honor," conducted by Annabelle Redwine; "Komm, Susser Tod" by Bach, and Sousa's "King Cotton."

Grainger Concerts

Mr Grainger will present concerts on Monday and Tuesday evenings at 8:15. Students may obtain tickets at the box office on those nights by presenting either red or blue Artist Series season tickets, according to Dr Karl O Kuersteiner, dean of the school of music.

The school of music formal dinner will be held in the east dining hall Thursday evening at 8:15. Mr Fickenscher will be guest speaker at this time and President Doak S Campbell will act as toastmaster. During the dinner a musical program will be presented by the Glee Club ensemble under direction of Miss Etta Robertson, professor of voice and director of the Glee Club.

After dinner a chamber music program will be given by the faculty of the school of music assisted by Mr and Mrs Grainger, in the Longmire building. One number will be presented by the faculty quintet, which includes: Miss

Continued on page two

Queen of May To Be Crowned

May Day Dance Tomorrow Night in Gymnasium

The identity of the Florida State College May Queen will be revealed tomorrow at 4 p m on the archery range at the annual presentation of the May Court. Tickets for the May Day dance tomorrow night in the gym from 8:30 to 12 are now on sale in lower Westcott. The price is 50c according to Marian McEwen, who is in charge of tickets.

The program will consist of the interpretation of the seasons in a dance by the members of the physical education dance department. The highlight of the program will be the presentation of the May Queen and her court.

A spring theme is to be featured

Continues on page two

Spanish House Will Begin This Summer

Only Spanish to Be Spokan During Residence

A Spanish house will be open for the summer quarter and for the next school year for those students who have had two years of Spanish and would like to take advantage of the opportunity of living in the house where only Spanish will be spoken for the entire period of residence. Anyone wishing to live in the house must present a card with her name and the number of years she has taken Spanish to the committee on Certification for Eligibility which is composed of Dr Margie Burks, Dr Dorothy L Hoffman, Miss Myrtle E Dolbee, and Miss Carmen L Rivera.

Students have been registering for the Spanish house to be open both terms of summer school for the last two weeks and registration will continue until 25 have signed up. Registration for the fall quarter began this week and will continue until 30 have enrolled.

"The language department first planned to have the Spanish house open for the summer quarter only. It wasn't until this week that we were notified that the Spanish house could continus to be open for the next school year," said Dr Margie Burks, professor of Spanish. "It has long been an ambition of the modern language department to have a house on campus in which only foreign language is spoken. It is hoped that bi-lingual students and all others interested in speaking Spanish will avail themselves of the privilege of the house," said Dr Burks.

Miss Carmen L Rivera, assistant instructor of Spanish, is in charge of the Spanish house. She will be assisted by Miss Luz Pura Anger, a graduate student.

Beard Will Present Recital At Meeting

Mrs Ramona Cruikshank Beard, associate professor of organ and regent of the Tallahassee chapter of the American Guild of Organists, will present a guest recital at a state meeting of the guild to be held in St Petersburg this Monday.

This will be the first state convention held since the war. The business of the convention will be election of officers. There will also be a recital Monday evening at the First Congregational Church, where Mrs Beard will appear as guest organist.

Her program will include: "Psalmo XIX" by Marcello, "Fugue in C" by Buxtehudi, "Come Sweet Death, Come Blessed Rest" and "Passacagila" by Bach, "Prelude" by Pierne, "Ave Maria Stella" by Gaul, "Chorale in A Minor" by Franck, "Sonata VI" by Mendelssohn, and "Electa ut Sol" by Dallier.

Report on Taxation Presented by Young

Miss Sadie Young, associate professor of the economics department, will attend a conference on the taxation of southern manufacturing, which is to be held May 4 and 5 at the University of Alabama in Tuscaloosa. The report for Florida will be prepared and submitted by Miss Young.

Preliminary studies have been made by staff members from various colleges in the fourteen southeastern states, and these studies will be the subject of the round table discussions during the two days of the conference. After the discussion, the plan will then be to draw up a general report on taxation of manufacturing in the South. Consultants from a number of state and federal agencies will also participate in the conference.

The director of the study is Professor James W Martin of the College of Commerce of the University of Kentucky. The conference is being sponsored and financed by the Social Science Research Council, and is under the direction of the Bureau of Business Research and the Bureau of Public Administration of the University of Alabama and the Bureau of Business Research of the University of Kentucky.

Dual Recital to Be Presented Tonight

Pawn Trawick, pianist, and Jane Gaertner, organist, will present their senior certificate recitals tonight at 8:15 in Westcott auditorium.

Pawn will play "Variations Serieuses" by Mendelssohn, "Romance in F-Sharp Major" by Schumann, "Silver Cascade" by Neimann, and "Schatzwaltzer" by Strauss-Dohnanyi.

On the organ, Jane will play "Prelude and Fugue in C Major" by Bach, "Sonata V" by Mendelssohn, "Andante - Andanta con moto - Allegro maestoso," "Bells Through the Trees" by Edmundson, and "Fling Wide the Gates" by Karg-Elert.

Fun-Loving Prof Says U of Fla Glee Club Boys Lead Hard Life

"How long have I been directing the University of Florida Glee Club? Too long to tell without giving away secrets," laughed Mr John DeBruyn, director, when interviewed Saturday after "Florida's Ambassadors of Good Will" had completed their two hundred and forty-eighth concert.

'Seriously though," he continued, "I've worked with the glee club for many years and have enjoyed it immensely. It's been hard work, don't think it hasn't. Take this year for instance. Our worst problem has been that of members being drafted. Only three of last year's 33 are still with us. We've had to work terribly hard to get ready for these concerts, but I've had excellent cooperation from the boys."

At this point in the interview one of the glee club members who was listening to the conversation broke in laughingly. "What else can we do but work hard? 'Prof' doesn't use that whip to drive his dog-sled."

Mr DeBruyn laughed at this, then continued his conversation. "We have five rehearsals a week," he said. "Besides part rehearsals and a 'voice clinic' from 3-4 p m every afternoon. Any boy may come to this clinic and receive instruction free of charge."

When asked about future plans for the club and it's members. Mr DeBruyn said that he was thinking of trying a new technique with the glee club next year. "We've been singing the same way for too many years. In fact everybody has been singing the same way for approximately thirteen hundred years. I would like to try the Bille Kahn method with the club. Unde rthis technique the singer thinks a beautiful tone. It will take work but I know of several who would like to sing in this manner."

"As to the future of the boys," Mr Debruyn continued, "I hope to see several of them attend music conservatories in the next few years, but the majority are singing for the love of singing and will probably not go on with music as a career."

In concluding the interview Mr DeBruyn said that he wanted to mention particularly the compliments that he had received on the behavior of the boys in the glee club. "I'm their only chaperone", he said. "I just don't lay down an over-supply of rules, and as a result I get wonderful conduct. I think too many rules are an invitation to break those rules," he concluded.

AGO Elects

Continued from page one

orarian will be left open until next fall. The slate of officers was prepared by Mrs B A Meginniss. Retiring officers were: vice-regent, Fawn Trawick, student from Tallahassee: secretary, Margaret McCain, from Clermont: and treasurer, Jan Gaertner, from Atlanta, Ga.

Reports of officers were given, preparatory to final reports to be made at the state convention of AGO, which meets May 7 at St Petersburg. Another matter under consideration was observance of the fiftieth anniversary of AGO to be recognized this year on Guild Sunday, May 12.

The next event on the calendar for AGO will be a reception following the recital of students Margaret McCain, organist, and Julia Emily Bridges, vocalist, on May 24. This reception will honor colleagues of the Guild who performed publicly this year.

Guest Composer

Continued from page one

he likes to set poems of this type to music. He has also composed a great deal of down to earth music, such as overtures on tunes from the Gay Nineties and a long list of football songs which he wrote for the University of Virginia. Mr Fickenscher was director of the University of Virginia Glee Club for 14 years.

This composer has recognized the need for pure harmonies for many years and has made an extensive research for an instrument for perfect intonation. Mr Fickenscher has attempted to perfect this instrument himself and he calls it the polytone. Two of the amazing characteristics of this instrument are its 60 tones to the octave instead of the usual 12, and five middle C's instead of one.

"The Search for Musical Genius" will be the subject of an address by Mr Fickenscher next Thursday night at a dinner for the school of music in the east college dining room. This is his first appearance on campus.

Nominations

Continued from page one

rer, Betty Kennedy, Roses Marcoux, Jimmy Rogers; vice president, Joyce Garman, Iris Parsons, Amelia Pavese, Martha Perkins, Peggy Stanaland; secretary, Jo Long, Olive Fleming, Mary Ann Herring; treasurer, Ann Allen, Enid Kraus, Jean Oldfeather; Senate, Ruth Mary Bliss, Carol Claus, Francis Cannon, Doris DuBois, Jean Douglas, Elaine Gavigan, Grace Hays, Pat Harrison, Marian McEwen, Janice Richey, Janet "String" Robertson, Connie Savage, Ann Singleton, Mary Charles Skipper; parliamentarian, Eugenia Booth, Judy Rhodes, Marsha Lee Vernon, Martha Wise; athletic manager, Catherine Sullivan; Junior-Senior Prom Chairman, Teddy Hamlin, Jean Ann Ramsdell; Junior Minstrels, Franklin Smith, Ann Tucker, Jean Sharer; and chairman of Even Dem, Ann Fielding, Jean Harris, Georgia Jaeckel.

Nominees for Sophomore officers are president, Inez Augustine, Pauline Tuttle, Sara Lou Wells; vice president, Kitty Chaires, Jane Carol Levy, Margery Mallard, Betty Wells Nelson, Jane Nightingale, Margie Norris, Fern Roberts, Renee Settle; treasurer, Margie Burns, Mary Louise Hunt, Betty Loy, Mary Catherine Moody; secretary, Faith Adams, Mary Ann Berry, Ann Butler, Margaret Graydon, Lonise Hutchinson, Jackie Jones, Ellen Koenitoz, Amante Semmes Louise Shonter, Ann Stinson; athletic manager, Mary Calley, Lucy Harding, Shirley Hargroves, Esther "Sis" Miller, Ruth Ellen Olsen, Lucille Osenkop; parliamentarian, Juanell Bailey, Ann Cooper Knight, Sarah Routon, Pat Yates; Senate, Virginia Anthony, Winifred Anthony, Laura Bentley, Martha Jane Bird, Betty Blakemore, Margaret Ann Blocker, Ann B Carter, Gladye Clark, Hazel Clarkson, Katherine Cooper, Emily Dawkins, Phyllis DeKalb, Patricia Dillard, Jeanne DuPree, Maggie Flynn, Jean Furman, Joan Grimsley, Jane Ann Hadley, Joyce Hanson, Betty Houlihan, Terry Johnson, Shirley Longino, Valda Mock, Esther Rasmussen, Ann Seaward, Mary Louise Smith, Charlotte Snyder, Betty Stokes, Mary Pat Warner, Joyce Williams, Frances S Williams, Edna Wamble; chairman of Sophomore-Senior berakfast, Virginia Allen, Nancy Boggs, Clara Jane Carroll, Priscilla Carter, Clarrissa Dey, Betty Dickson, Rosanne Hartwell, Anne Leach, Mary Kathryn Klutz, Mary Philpot, Verna Rogers, and chairman of Sophomore Hop, Marilyn Bassett, Patsy Crosby, Pat Grant, Kitty Heltzman, Margaret Ann Marshall, Dorothy Martin, Cynthia Merrin, Alice Miller, Shirley Palmer, Art Skevakis, Dallas Stever, Joyce Stroberg, Margaret Swanson, Shirley Swearingen, Violet Walters.

FLORIDA THEATER

Now and Tomorrow
BANDIT OF SHERWOOD FOREST with Cornel Wilde

Sunday, Monday
SO GOES MY LOVE
With Myrna Loy—Don Amecbe

Tuesday
SHE WENT TO RACES
With Francis Gifford
Wed., Thurs., Fri., Sat.
ROAD TO UTOPIA
with BOB HOPE

STATE THEATER

Today — Tomorrow
Western TEXAS PANHANDLE
and
NOTORIOUS LONE WOLF

Sunday, Monday
GIRLS OF BIG HOUSE
and
THEY MADE ME A KILLER
Tuesday and Wednesday
THE HARVEY GIRLS

Thursday Only
CONFIDENTIAL AGENT
and
SHE WOULDN'T SAY YES

RITZ THEATER

Now and Tomorrow
DEAD OR ALIVE
and
OVER 21

Sunday and Monday
CORN IS GREEN
and
SENORITA FROM THE WEST

Tues., Wed., and Thurs.
DOLLY SISTERS

"Fixed While You Wait"

Capital Shoe Fixery
118 E. Jefferson

May Wedding Set For Miss Medlin

Announcement has been made recently of the engagement of Miss Mary Jayne Medlin, former physical education instructor of Florida State College, to Lt George Boyd Martin-Vegue, of Miami. The wedding will take place early in May.

Miss Medlin was an alumna of FSC and while a student was a member of YWCA, the annual staff, student government council, F-club and Esteren. She had been a faculty member for the last two years.

Gay Gypsy Music

Continued from page one

wood's own composition, "Write Me a Love Song," was played and sung. Lavonne Black, Marguerite Ross, Faith Adams, Marty Parkins, Jane Hardacre, and Ann Shull waltzed to "I'm Falling in Love With Someone."

The scene shifts to the narrator, Rodney, who introduces grandfather Anthony, a sorcerer, played by Nell Clark, and his assistant Charles-Robert. This is where B J McLeod and her two heads appear. The curtains part as Anthony and Charles-Robert are calling up spirits from the beyond. First spirit is Ann Tucker, who sings "That Old Black Magic." Then the Booth trio appear as ghosts, swathed in sheets, and sing "In the Tower of London." The devil himself, Dot Wynn, and his partner, Jeani Harris, come up from their underworld home and execute a fascinating dance to the music of Artie Shaw's "Nightmare."

Rodney talks on as the scene changes once again to the south and Dinah, one of Magnolia's faithful retainers is seen with her third husband, Algebra-Ezekial. Dinah is played by Joyce Stroberg and Algebra-Ezekiel is Laura Simpson. The chorus sings "Battle of Jericho." Algebre sings "It Ain't Necessarily So" and Dinah, "Summertime."

Rodney speaks now of his mother, Flora, played by Alice Phillips, who was the original Flora Dora Baby. He tells of her travels from the Klondike to Cuba where she meets her future husband, Diablo Gonzolas Lopez, the Latin Errol Flynn.

As Rodney tells of his mother's varied experiences a Flora Dora Trio, composed of Ruth Kennedy, Laura Simpson, and Hazel Clarkson introduce Flora who sings a song about herself. Betty Blakemore, Nancy Gleaton, Cheryl Muster, Dot Bloodworth, Maggie Flynn, and Mary Ann McIrvin appear in a soft shoe dance. The Booth Trio add realism to this act.

Now the famed Diablo Lopez, who underneath the mustache is Sis Myers, appears as his son Rodney speaks of him. He performs with two beguine dancers, Ann Shull and Joyce Cayee, while the chorus sings "Begin the Beguine."

Sister Glennia, Dal Stever, is the society conscious member of the family, says brother Rodney. The curtains part and Glennia sings "Embraceable You," accompenied by the orchestra which also plays "Fascinatin' Rhythm." Ballet dancers drift on the stage and do an interpretative dance to "Rhapsody in Blue," played by Virginia Der Garry. In the dance Virginia Wilson did the boy solo and Patsy Gilliam, the girl. The rest of the dancers were Jane Hardacre, Lorraine Smith, Bertie Loftus, Martha Magruder, Mary Sade, Betty Phillips, Pat Small, and Dorothy Martin.

Now all the members of the family have appeared, one by one, and Rodney completes the tale by adding his own story. He was, says he, the most ingenious member of the clan. He wrote the history fo the family and had it published. It won immediate success, and since it was banned in Boston, sales rose to four million copies. This saga of the highly coloured clan was chosen as book of the month, then book of the year, and C B DeMille wanted to produce it on the screen.

After the conclusion of Rodney's story the entire cast came on stage and sang the finale, "A Highly Coloured Clan," written by Mary Lou Norwood.

This sounds as if it were a perfectly smooth ending, but it differed definitely from the usual finale. Corinne Johnston after two hours as Rodney without using a script, finally gave out and the closing turned into an impromptu, add-libbing affair which amused the audience immensely.

Between acts, flowers and gifts were presented by the cast to Mary Lou, chairman of production, Daphne Rowe, who had charge of the chorus, and Patsy Gilliam, who directed the dancers. Mary Lou in turn expressed thanks to Misses Margaret Dunn, Mary Tom Colones, and Calliope Papatsos for their help in producing the show.

Club Makes Plans

The first meeting of the Geography Club will be held at 6 p m on Wednesday, May 8, in 101 History. A reorganization of the club is planned for this time, and everyone is invited to attend.

Or Forever Hold Your Peace . . .

Editor Flambeau:

Those of us who have been here for four years and seen every effort of students to get a little democracy and justice thwarted by the administration, have noticed a great difference between the present campus struggle and all former ones. Students are continuing to carry on the fight this time and are determined to do so until the campus hierarchy is broken. It is grand to see how many groups are discussing the matter and are asking what to do next.

Nearly everybody seems to have about despaired of getting justice from any group on the campus. We have been denied the right of petition to the faculty. Once before when we tried it the administration ruled that our petition was "illegal," although this right is set up in the College constitution approved by the Board of Control. Our reecnt petition got no further than an administrative drawer. The faculty seems to be ruled by the same machine methods we are, so that a few on the committees can thwart the majority.

One thing that can be done is shown in a recent news item which tells how a faculty group at the University of Southern California appealed to their Board to investigate the "indefensible, inequitable" faculty salaries there and got results which finally led to the hiring of a new president. If the faculty can appeal to the Board, why can't we? The Board members are citizens of the State and so are we.

I have never before taken any active part on campus bettles but it is simply disgusting how a little political machine runs this campus and has ever since I have been here and now it is time to break it for good and if it is necessary to appeal to the Board, I'm for doing it.

A Senior.

Editor Flambeau:

There is, I think, one serious failing which seems to be characteristic of democratic governments and institutions. The failing to which I refer is a lack of facilities for speedy action in times of emergency. Let us hope that it is to this democratic characteristic that the failure to take swift action in the recent emergency here on campus is to be attributed. Not only did our student government have no power to take rapid steps with or without faculty approval, but the faculty itself seems to be hampered by lack of the same power.

It has been approximately three weeks since the amendment to the constitution was referred to the faculty committee by Student senate, and as yet no action has been taken. In my opinion, and I do not think I stand alone on this issue, that amendment was a vital measure and should have been at least considered before the elections. Since this was apparently not possible, I hope the measure will not be considered less important because the immediate need for it is past. Now that we are writing a new constitution, it would be well to provide for emergency action by our student government.

In our country's government during the crisis of the recent war, this provision was made by giving the president special powers to be used when necessary. Perhaps this would not be the perfect solution in our own case, but it is a thought, at least, and surely there is some adequate solution possible.

Several other weaknesses have come to light in recent weeks. I should like to recommend to the students that they examine these weaknesses carefully and take precautions against the day when they will again be faced with crisis requiring immediate action. I should also like to recommend to the faculty that they not allow themselves to cling too closely to antiquated procedures. It would be wise of them to investigate their own legal processes and consider whether or not they, too, have failed to meet the test of emergency.

Obviously, something must be done, and now is the time to decide and act. Unless we act now, we have no assurance that we shall lack the facilities to solve. Also, unless the faculty committee soon gives some indication that it is willing to help the students work for better government, it will be likely to find an increasing distrust and cynicism to face both in time of stress and in time of quiet daily problem-facing. Time may cure all things, but there are times when the cure is worse than the disease, especially such a dangerous and contagious disease as cynical defeatism and political apathy.

Mary Charles Skipper.

Dear Editor:

We seem to be stopped on two points:

1. Tyrannical authority instead of just authority:
2. That the minority rules the majority.

Democracy on this campus? To those who claim the present regime is democratic and carried out through democratic procedures, I give you the well-known horse-laugh! You are only fooling yourselves at the expense of yourselves and others.

The theme of democracy all the way through is the rule of the majority. The minority are to be represented, and have a voice in the government, yes, but the majority rule! Our student officers for next year were elected by a minority vote against the wishes of the majority who publicly demonstrated their desire at convocation two weeks ago to have the elections put off until, at least, the campus was more in a state of normalcy. This lack of ability of the majority to have their actions declared legal is a gross error which must be cleared up in the revision of the constitution.

Without united action of the students little can be done now, at this late date, except through Senate. Until we have been imposed upon again and rise united, Senate is our only hope. Concerning those who believe in the principal but who compromised themselves and weakend our stand by voting, I can only go to my room and weep. We lost our hour: we missed our opportunity.

By that, I do not mean that we have lost wholely, that we are back where we started from, because it is not true. We did make progress. Faculty as well as students have been caused to sit up and take notice. Many students have read their handbooks thoroughly and interestedly, constitution and all—a thing practically unheard of in the past. One piece of legislation has already gone through Senate as a result of the upheaval.

Yes, we made progress, and we will continue to make it. We can only maintain our faith in our ideals, never lose courage, never give up our hopes for a new regime under a new and better constitution, and never, never give up the fight.

—Mary Jo Whidden.

Increase Is Shown In Foreign Students

Collegeville, Pa. (ACP) — The number of students from outside the United States who are enrolled in the higher education institutions of the country in 1945-46 total 10,445, according to the annual census made by the committee on Friendly Relation Among Foreign Students at Ursinus College. There are students found in every state in the Union, register in 736 different institutions.

The country with the largest number is Canada with a total of 1,613, in contrast to 952 for 1944-45. China is second in rank, with 1,298, in comparison with 823 last year. There are students from a total of 99 different countries.

Of the total of 10,341 received in time to separate by men and women there are 6,973 men and 3,368 women.

From Latin America have come 4,638 students, a marked increase over the previous year, and continuing a trend that became sharply evident during the war years. Now, however, with improved travel conditions, students from other parts of the globe are resuming well-beaten paths made by former generations. Many have arrived from Europe during a period too recent to be included in statistics for the current year.

In regard to distribution by states, New York leads with 1,061, California with 907, Michigan with 690, and Pennsylvania with 692.

All indications point to a marked increase of foreign students, subject to limitations of available housing and study facilities in over-crowded universities and colleges.

Arrival of Noted

Continued from page one

Mary Esther Winslow, piano; Dr Kuersteiner, violin; Mrs Roy C Beckham, second violin; Miss Olga Eitner, violin, and Mr Owen F Sellers, cello. Misses Margaret Dunn, Ruby Dunstan, Virginia Holmes, and Lucille Wagner will perform at two pianos under the direction of Mr Grainger. Mr Grainger's recently composed "Random Round" will be the third presentation. The three vocal parts of this number will be sung by Mrs Walter James, soprano; Mrs Mary Murphree Meginniss, alto, and Mr Falter James, tenor. Mr and Mrs Grainger will play guitars; Marilyn Dewey, flute; Doris O'Neal, xylophone, and Annette Vitsky, French horn.

READ THE ADS TO FIND WHAT YOU WANT.

Get Down to Earth
In Our
Barefoot Sandals, Mocs
and hurrachas
STEWART'S SHOE STORE

Sharkey Purchases Mecca From Blount

Mrs Murray Sharkey assumed propristorship of the Mecca this week after having purchased the college hangout from Mr L G Blount and Mr Jerry Gilchrist on April 18. Since college girls named the shop in a recent campus contest, it will continue to be called the Mecca, according to Mrs Sharkey.

She also stated that she hopes to get in an improved line of drugs and sundries as soon as possible. The Mecca has a nearly complete selection of magazines and still has its film service. There is also a watch repairman in the store.

Mrs Sharkey said that she plans to have a sandwich delivery service from six until ten at night. She said that girls would have to have their orders in by ten o'clock in order to have them filled. Mrs Sharkey would like suggestions to improve the Mecca and will attempt to comply with the girls' wishes.

24 First Places

Continued from page one

Marjorie Wadley, honorable mention. First place in water color painting went to Edna Earle Baker, first honorable mention to Lois Narovec, and second honorable mention jointly to Kathryn Lee Clark and Mary Louise Fowler. Margaret Hunter placed first in drawing. Artemis Skevakis, first honorable mention, and Anne Gaither, second honorable mention. Dr Katharine Montgomery was judge of this. The photographic exhibit is on display in the lounge of the Longmire building, while the remainder of the exhibit is in the auditorium of the Longmire building.

Drama Is New Division

This year marks the first time that dramatic art has been given an independent division in the contest. The one act play "Family Album" determined first place in acting for Claire St John, first honorable mention for Virginia Allen, and second for Jane Wooten. In the radio adaption of the same play Betty Jane Armistead won first place and Bet Cargill, honorable mention. The judges could not give any award for directing as there was only one play entered. They did, however, want to recognize Betty Shirley for her fine direction of the play. The radio script award went to Anne Hunter.

Cora Lea Wells received first place for set designing, and Kathryn Lee Clark, honorable mention. Estill Malphurs won first place on the model she submitted. The judges for the dramatic art were Miss Mary Tom Colcnes, Miss Mary Mooty, Miss Emily Crow and Mr W L Dingwell.

Musical Compositions

In musical composition Marion Welch and Anne-Hathaway Fifield tied for first place in the instrumental class; Frances Duckworth, Daphne Rowe and Edith Smith were given honorable mention. Dean Karl O Kuersteiner judged this class.

In the vocal class Mary Hart and Georgia Jaeckel also tied for first award. Incidentally, Mary's song was based on a poem by Miss Louise Creamer, counselor in Jennie Murphree. Virginia Sewell received honorable mention. Mr Walter James, instructor in voice, acted as judge in this division.

Modern Dance

The first prize in group modern dancing was awarded to Audrey Evans, Evelyn Stuckey and Ann Shull. Teresa Myers won first place for the solo modern dance. Frankie Hall was awarded honorable mention for her tap dance. The judges were Mrs Ramona Beard, Mrs George Lewis and Miss Nellie-Bond Dickenson.

Since this contest is an annual one Mrs Snow urges that those girls interested in entering a piece of work be thinking and working on it this summer for the contest next year.

The Creative Arts committee is having a luncheon May 4 for the state AAUW committee. Representative works from each of the fields in the contest will then be presented.

Winner Announced

Ann Stambaugh, intramurals manager, announced yesterday that the Kappa Deltas had won over the Delta Phi Epsilons for the shuffleboard championship.

Tennis, swimming and bowling practice will start next week. The bowling alleys are open Thursday afternoon from 2 to 6, and one practice point will be given for bowling two games.

Democrat Staff Shudders as Journalists From FSC Threaten Sunday Occupatio

When the Daily Democrat rolls off the press Sunday morning and hits the street, it will not be a regular edition of the Tallahassee paper but one edited entirely by the journalism department of FSC, who will have worked diligently all day Saturday and into the early hours of Sunday morning to make the paper a success.

Postwar planning will be the general theme of the paper and all feature material will center around this idea. FSC reporters will obtain all news from the regular Tallahassee beats including the police and fire departments and various state offices.

Judy Pepper, editor for the issue, appointed the various editors which include Peggy Kay, wire editor; Peggy Thomson and Mae Alexander, news editors; Shirley Rodgers, managing editor; Lola Rose, Bobbie Bell, Winnie Lane, and Evelyn Shea, copy editors; Anne Gaither, proof editor and heads; Jane Hardacre and Kay Van Deurs, proof readers; Lois Byrd, society editor; Anne Hutton, assistant society editor; B J McLeod, feature editor; Catherine Nollman, assistant feature editor; Betty Dowd, sports editor; Dee Gardner, picture editor; and Lucy Felden, art editor.

Working as regular editors, the reporters will arrive on the job at nine Saturday morning to begin their long day. About noon they will be given "meal tickets" with which to buy lunch. Keeping the strictly business air in the office only a few will leave for lunch at one time, always having someone in the newspaper room to take all calls and to get the latest news.

Peggy Kay, being the wire editor, will gather news all day from the AP wire and at the end of the day when the paper is ready to be set up, will take out the most important material which is to make the front page. These AP dispatches cover all national, m ternational, and state news.
Girls desiring to stay at th
Democrat office until the pap is "put to bed" may secure sp cial late permission from the co lege. Reporters usually write le ters and talk while the men in th composing room compose th mats and forms at about o'clock, when most of the new is completed. Tired faces a brightened when Mr and Mrs Ea
Vance bring coffee and doughnu to cheer everyone up in the ear
Sunday morning hours.
It varies from year to year, b usually about 3 a m Sunday th large rotary press begins to ro out the inky papers over its rolle which automatically cut and fo the Democrats. Amidst wet i and all, the girls make a ma scramble to see who can get th first few copies.
Now that the job is complete and the FSC journalism depar ment has once again published
Sunday edition of the paper, tire dirty, but happy girls will strug gle up the hill and back to co lege with copies of the issue tuc
ed tightly under their arms.
ends another day at the Dem ocrat office until next year whe the same procedure will be fo
lowed once more.

Speech Pupils

Continued from page one

Men Live By" tells of a "humble Russian shoemaker and his wife who entertain an angel unaware of his identity and learn the things men live by."

Katherine Moore recited "The White Cliffs," a poem by Alice Duer Miller. This poem tells the story of a young American girl who married an Englishman while visiting in that country.

Mrs Geraldine Setnor played "Noel" by Tournier on the harp during these recitals. Acting as ushers were Edna Haynie, Susan Illingworth, Katherine Davis, Aileen James, Ida Lee Rentz, Betty McRae, Betty Speer, Mrs Audrew Thomas and Perilee Hunt.

Burma Cox, Anne Hunter and Elaine Parramore presented their junior speech recital last night at 8:15 p m in the Augusta Conradi theater. Elaine Parramore chose a group of negro sketches as her presentation. Elaine wrote these sketches herself and presented them in negro dialect.

"Maizie," a one-act play by Ruth Giorloff was given by Burma Cox. This was an original adaptation of the play. Anne Hunter gave "Poor Maddalena," a one-act play by Louise Saunders. This, too, was an original adaptation of the play. Eleanor Bragg, Helen Broward, Ida Lou Davis, Sarah Lewis, Norma Parramore, Jimmie Rogers, Sheila Smith and Jeanne Tillman served as ushers.

Queen of May

Continued from page one

at the May Day dance tomorrow night in the gymnasium. The May Court with June McCurdy in charge will be presented again at the dance from 9:30 to 10 o'clock. Punch and cookies will be served during intermission to guests and chaperones.

Ysobel Dupree will act as dance chairman with Bettye and Bobbye Usher acting as co-chairmen. Nell McNeil is committee chairman for guests and chaperones. Mary Lou Norwood and Chris Morrison are in charge of the decorations, and Nancy Gleaton and Norma Shaffner are in charge of the clean-up and floor committee. Publicity is to be handled by Mary Pat Weedon and refreshments will be supervised by Sara Jane Gallagher.

MENTION THE FLAMBEAU WHEN SHOPPING.

AAUW Holds

Continued from page one

floor of the Longmire buildin
8:30 p m, dinner at Waku
Springs hotel, addresses by M
Mable Hodgson, president of Tallahassee branch of AAUW
Miss Mary Miller, state preside and by Dr Rosa Lee Walston, fro
Georgia State College for Wome
Milledgeville, Georgia. A boa meeting at the Cherokee ho will follow the dinner.
The schedule of coovention a tivities is as follows:
Saturday, May 4, at 8:30 reg
tration in the Longmire buildin
9-12 a m, morning session in t
Longmire building, with a w
come by FSC president, Doak
Campbell, and an address by Marian D Irish, professor of p litical science; 12:30-1:30 p luncheon in the college dini room, followed by coffee in t
Longmire clubroom, and a pr
gram by the Creative Arts gro of the Tallahassee branch, w
Mrs Cynthia Snow as chairma
2:15-4:00 p m, afternoon sess in the Longmire building; 4 p m, tea with members of t
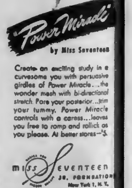
Tallahassee branch.

SYLLABUS FOR A SLEEK SILHOUETTE



by Miss Seventeen

Create an exciting study in a curvesome you with persuasive girdles of Power Miracle...the wonder mesh with bi-directional stretch. Pare your posterior...trim your tummy. Power Miracle controls with a caress...leaves you free to romp and rollick as you please. At better stores—$5.

MISS SEVENTEEN JR. FOUNDATIONS
New York 1, N. Y.

EVERYTHING FOR MOTHER'S DAY

She will be thrilled with one of our beautiful Blouses, Slips, Gowns, Dresses, Handbags or give her some of our fine Luggage.

BEN GILBERG'S
108 EAST JEFFERSON

Athlete's Feats

Evelyn Shea

Since the picture "The Bandit of Sherwood Forest" is coming to the Florida theater this week, yours truly thought that she would tell you a little hit about the modern "Bandits of Games' Woods" here at Tally. As you probably guessed from the title of the picture the story is about Robin Hood and his men of the lincoln green. Well sir my story is about Miss Ver Hoeven (who is Robin Hood or Mother Goose—take your pick) and her gals who live hy the creed, "I shot an arrow in the air, it fell to earth, I know not where." Naturally this can be none other than the most exciting archery class in Florida. These modern Robin Hoods are quite adept at shooting, and hitting bull's eyes come a dime a dozen out there . . . well from the three yard line anyway.

Proving that variety is the spice of life (and Miss Ver Hoeven's class likes plenty of variety), the group often takes off and hikes to Games Woods for picnics and weiner roasts. Besides the Games Woods expeditions, Miss Ver Hoeven's group is so reluctant to leave her class that when the hour is over, they usually meet in the Sweet Shop for a rousing cheer and a COKE.

Some of the more outstanding archers in the class are Sarah "Pig" Daugherty, "String" Robertson, Harriet "Will Scarlet" Dews, Babs "Little John" McCarthy and Candy Jones. The number one man in the group however, is Peggy "Goat" Stanaland. The best archery critics in the crowd agree that someday she may become Robin Hood's wife because of her talent.

All in all the kids in this class will tell you archery is their favorite course, thanks to Miss Ver Hoeven and her Indiana wit. In case you all should see little gals in lincoln green scurrying out to the archery range with feathers in their hair, don't be alarmed cause it will just mean that it's time for Archery . . . an all American sport.

THUMBNAIL SKETCHES . . . .

This week the Odd Sports' leaders occupy the limelight so here are the girls who lead the Red, White and Purple this quarter.

RACHEL CHAMBERS . . . this Ocala lass leads the softball team this year . . . she is a Junior Counselor with lots of ready laughs . . . this hrunette has pep galore and just loves playing third base . . . also a member of F club . . . majors in botany.

ENID SANDLER . . . a short hrunette whose major is physical education . . . a member of F club . . . an excellent tennis player and leader . . . president of the Mutual Admiration Club and co-owner of the Salt Mine . . .

RACHEL CROTWELL . . . Odd golf leader . . . majors in music and could be dubbed the modern Tally version of Rubinoff . . . Rachel is a junior . . .

NANCY WARD . . . badminton leader . . . former secretary of WAA (now WRA) . . . junior counselor . . . plays doubles with Clarice Trueblood . . .

Well dear readers that's all for now, so until next week that's thirty . . .

Odds Plan Rally

An Odd pep rally will be held Thursday, May 16 at 6 p m in Games' woods. Tickets for the party which is to be a box supper, will be on sale May 13 through 16 in lower Westcott.

All Odds are to meet in front of the gymnasium on Thursday, May 16 at 6 o'clock. Bopie McMichael, Shirley Rodgers and Nancy Wright are in charge of entertainment for this occasion.

◆

Lake Mead, backed up by Boulder Dam on the Colorado River, is the biggest artificial lake in the world — over 32,000,000 acre feet of water and 115 miles long.

Martha Abbot

from Tampa, Florida

Among Her Many Activities at Florida State College Are:

- Former Panhellenic President
- Alpha Lambda Delta
- Sophomore Council
- Circulation Manager of Flambeau
- Chairman of Panhellenic Dance
- President of Zeta Tau Alpha

No appointment necessary

Tooley Myron Studios

Symbol of Master Photography

Gator Talk . . .

By JOHNNY WALKER and TOM HENDERSON

Mail has been overflowing our box since our generous contest offer of a week ago. (Frankly we haven't received a single epistle, and we are beginning to doubt whether our readers can write.) Nevertheless, we shall carry cheerily on, dispensing our usual brand of brilliance.

We have chosen today for our text "The Sinfulness of Sinning." Sins fall into three categories. Taking a cue from some of the nations more original classifiers we shall call them class A, B, and C. A is for Anarchy; i e, that is, deviating from existing policies.

B is for Bastile Day, named for Barney Bastile, famous acromegalic fishmonger, son of famous Parisian ironmonger Bilbo Bastile, named for that famous wordmonger from the Rue de Mississippi, one of the questionable districts of Paris, where Mark Twain lost his Innocence Abroad.

C is for culinary concoctions. Take one quart of grated raw oysters, one teaspoonful of gooseberry cordial, after beating gently fold in the whites of three eggs from 2-year-old Plymouth Rock hens, allow to simmer on in a Bessemer Converter for two minutes and 10 seconds. Allow to cool and serve in individual frozen molds of egg plant sherbert. Sprinkle liberally with sprigs of fresh spring garlic. This will be a smash-hit at any dinner party.

The moral of our scholarly dissertations upon sin is, "If the rock of ages won't cleft for you, try a chisel," or "Empty Old Mother Hobbards will gather no rolling bones."

A PEEK INTO THE NEWS OF THE WEEK

A group of campus vets took action into their own hands this week on the housing problem, and sent telegrams to all of Florida's national congressmen, governor, and national commander of the American Legion. Stetson University's student newspaper devoted an entire page to the cause of co-education at the state universities. Agitation is raging to have the University's law school moved to Carlstom Field in Arcadia.

The University of Georgia's baseball team nosed out Florida in a hotly contested game Tuesday afternoon to win by a margin of 11 to 1. Highlight of the event came in the last half of the 9th, when Florida slipped a man across the plate to score on a Georgia error. Freddy McGurgle umpired from his regular place in the center field bleachers.

It seems probable that this will be our last literary effort for the semester. With a lump in our throats (we chew Bloodhound—a plug for the American Tobacco Co) and moist eyes we take time out for a few last words to our faithful readers, "Sincere thanks to both of you." And to those who didn't join our throng of admirers, we're very sorry you couldn't see things the right way. So until next time, here's to a pleasant summer and in true journalistic fashions we'll close with a cryptic -30-.

Texan Dates Girl

A lonely vet at the University of Texas who wanted to meet a girl decided to call up a girl's dormitory and ask for "Ruth." Surely, he thought, there will be some girl living there named Ruth. There was a Ruth, but she wasn't in and her roommate took the call. Pleadingly, the vet presented his case to the roommate. She wasn't interested, but he called back the next night and the next. And now the vet and the roommate are having coke dates—which only goes to show that it never hurts to try.

In This Our Time

National Affairs:

A general rise of prices for the next several years is almost inevitable, it was told the board of directors of the United States Chamber of Commerce, as they recommended the abolition of the major powers of OPA by next October. Chamber President, Eric Johnston, said that lifting of OPA regulations in the near future would put American business in the "national doghouse." Sumner H Slichter, Harvard University professor, said that he believed the termination of the OPA regulations should be based on conditions rather than a set date.

John L Lewis, dissatisfied with Secretary of Labor Schwellenbach's handling of the soft coal strike, served notice of a strike of 75,000 anthracite miners, while a federal conciliator walker out on his job. These developments produced a new crisis in the coal controversy. Four hundred thousand bituminous miners have been out of work since April 1.

That United States military secrets are not being guarded closely enough to keep them out of the hands of foreign powers was the opinion reached by a Senate investigating committee Wednesday. Chairman Eastland stated that many facts point strongly in that way, and that steps would be taken to correct the situation. Reports came in that the Russians are seeking to contract for electronic equipment and are planning to send engineers into this country. Electronic equipment is used in radar as well as many other weapons supposedly secret:

Foreign Affairs:

A plot to assassinate General Douglas MacArthur at yesterday's May Day celebration was revealed Wednesday. The plot was headed by Hideo Tokayama, former member of the Kempeitai or thought police, and a die-hard Japanese militarist. Tokayama, fearing betrayal by his cohort, tried to poison him, but the poison was not fatal, and the victim was able to tip off headquarters. The Japanese named six men who were involved in the plot. The conspirators planned to bombard MacArthur with hand grenades and pistol fire "some time during Communistic demonstrations" yesterday.

Two Russian planes buzzed Gen Mark W Clark's personal plane Wednesday, but fired no shots. General Clark immediately lodged a third protest to the Soviet Union. He was being flown from Vienna to Linz when the Russians made their run at the plane. Marshal Ivan S Konev, Soviet commander in Austria, assured Clark that every step would be taken to prevent further attacks on United States planes.

Russia's support of Yugoslavia's demands for Trieste and most of Istria, and her opposition to Austria's request for the South Tyrol, brought the four-power foreign ministers conference to a clash Wednesday. The foreign ministers examined four different plans for the new Italian-Yugoslav frontier. The British, American, and French proposals were similar to the Soviet proposal, except for the latter's plan to place the frontier line in Istria a great deal farther west.

Ditched for a blonde???
Try a Judy Bond
JUDY BOND BLOUSES ARE SOLD AT BETTER STORES EVERYWHERE

Free booklet: "WARDROBE TRICKS". Write Judy Bond, Inc., Dept. C, 1375 B'way, N. Y. 18

New Softball Rules Accepted by WRA

At the meeting of the Women's Recreation Association Wednesday night, new softball rules were discussed and accepted. These rules, which were made by the national AAU, provide for shortening of the base lines, and pitching distance. The new rules will apply to this quarter's Odd-Even game on May 16 and the class games on May 10 and 12.

All the outgoing board members were asked to make out reports for the past year. Copies of the new WRA constitution were given to all the members of the board. The group is beginning work on the WRA handbook for next year.

Betty Gardiner, the new president, plans to expand Play Night and make it even better. She also hopes to be able to obtain new equipment for the after-dinner recreation period, which is held in front of the West dining hall every evening.

Informal Rec Begins With Varied Games

Bopie Whitaker Is New Head; Dance to Be on Tuesday

Last week a new feature was added to our campus. Under the chairmanship of Bopie Whitaker "after dinnertime" has taken on a new meaning. Each night a group meets in front of west dining hall to play games and dance.

A square dance was the main event of opening night. The girls liked it so well that they want one every week, says Bopie. There will be one in front of the gym next Tuesday night, and the only requirement necessary is that you bring a partner. It isn't necessary to know how to square dance.

In addition to the dancing there is hop-scotch, shuffle-board, and soft ball. Bopie hopes to have a net put up soon so that volley-ball, newcom, and deck tennis can be played also.

The Students Speak...

In recent weeks students on this campus have become aware—aware of the workings of the government of FSC. Many have been seen pursuing the pages of the Gold Book, re-reading rules and regulations and studiously studying the CGA Constitution. Perhaps many students have realized for the first time the true meaning of the printed words within the handbook. Perhaps many students have formed new ideas, ideas of their own concerning how they, the student body, should be governed. And in order to discover what lay in the minds of at least a few members of the student body the following question was asked of two members of each of the freshman, sophomore, junior, and senior classes.

Answers to the question, "What ideas do you have concerning the possibility of student government at FSC?" are:

CLAIRE JOLLEY, second-quarter freshman said:

"I think that student government will work on this campus if it is started in the right manner. It will not work if our CGA officers continue to assume dictatorial positions. I believe that the students, themselves, should take over the government altogether, excepting regulations governing academic procedure. I believe that the idea of student government should be laid now and that it is entirely practicable to achieve a system of student government next year. I believe that the Faculty Committee on Student Affairs should act in an advisory capacity only, allowing the students to make the final decisions governing their lives here at FSC. I believe that if the students were given more responsibility, they would take an active interest in their government. I believe, too, that students would have more respect for rules which they themselves would make."

SHIRLEY DUGGAN, senior, commented:

"I think it is absurd to treat grown young women like nursery school infants. I am definitely in favor of student government to be limited only by college policy concerning such things as academic procedure, public health, and the maintenance of college buildings and grounds. The Board of Control should be the one to determine these broad college policies. I firmly believe that young women of 18 years and older are capable of governing themselves within the aforementioned limits."

JANE ARNOLD, junior stated:

"I think that students should be concerned with all political issues at EVERY election. A continuous interest in the political life of FSC is needed. As for student government, I believe that students should be allowed to make their own decisions governing social behavior, with the Faculty Committee on Student Affairs acting in an advisory capacity only."

BUTCH BREEDLOVE, sophomore, said:

"I believe that instead of absolute student government, we should have a true college government, with students and faculty having EQUAL powers. Perhaps a student-faculty senate would be the answer. In this way a large number of students and faculty could exchange ideas face to face. And I believe that if this were done, we could solve our problems without friction."

KIT LAND, senior, expressed a somewhat similar idea:

"I believe that the power of final decision by the Faculty Committee on Student Affairs should be eliminated. I favor true college government in which the students and faculty would decide questions together. If the faculty committee members were appointed by the faculty senate it would parallel the way in which student senate members are chosen. I believe that if there were a true balance of student-faculty power that there would be no need for student government on this campus. I believe that this joint-power plan would be successful as long as the faculty did not abuse their powers."

DOROTHY ANNE HAY, third quarter freshman says:

"I believe that student government should be tried, because I do not feel that the majority of students are satisfied with the present college government. If students should be incapable of self-government, then a return to college government which allowed students power equal to that of the faculty would be advisable. If student government is not started as soon as possible, I believe that the enrollment will drop considerably. I think that students would take more interest in their government, and in their elections, if the government were really and truly their own."

JANE MacFARLAND, sophomore is very definite in her opinions. She says, "I think that we should definitely have student government as soon as possible. Students should be allowed to make all rules governing their conduct, without any limitations. I believe we shoul dlearn to govern ourselves in college. When we are graduated, we shall have to act as citizens of this country. We shall have full privileges and duties to participate in free elections. Now is the time to learn, not later!"

BETTY FAY MOSES, junior adviser:

"I think that we should have student government as soon as possible. The administration has no right to judge whether or not the students are ready for self-government. We, the students, have never had the opportunity to prove our political abilities. I believe that the faculty should act in an advisory capacity in matters of social procedure. I think, too, that students would not disdain faculty judgment, if only they were allowed to make the final decisions."

YVONNE BOATWRIGHT, sophomore, exclaimed:

"We should have student government. I believe that student government in a state educational institution is particularly desirable. The college should determine certain basic policies, but the students, themselves, should make the more specific rules and regulations. I do not believe that the Faculty Committee on Student Affairs should retain the power of complete and final veto; rather, I feel that this committee should act in an advisory capacity. The students, I think, would have more responsibility than at present. I believe student government would eliminate quibbling over the honor code. Let's get started on student government. I would like to see the new system inaugurated next year."

◆

Award Offered

New York, (ACP)—This year, for the first time, a new award of $1,000 will be given to the college or university teacher adjudged to have contributed most to the successful teaching of engineering students, it was announced recently by the Society of the Promotion of Engineering Education at Polytechnic Institute of Brooklyn.

The prize, to be conferred annually, will be known as the George Westinghouse award in engineering education. Established to commemorate the 100th anniversary of the birth of the famed inventor, the award has been made possible by the Westinghouse Educational Foundation.

"The George Westinghouse award has signal significance as the first of its kind to be presented," said Dr Rogers, president of the society giving announcement of the plan. "It should inspire young teachers to bring creative ideas to their educational service and provide a means for further improvements, aided by visitations to the classrooms and laboratories of contemporaries.

Bopie Whitaker Wins The Driving Title At Florida Women's Golf Tournament

Versatile Bopie Whitaker drove her way to fame among golfers recently at the Florida State Women's Golf Tournament at Hollywood, Florida, when she won the driving contest over all the other women veteran golfers with a average of 220 and twelve inches for three drives. Bopie, bewildered by her success, confessed that she was so nervous that she could hardly see the golf ball!

For a girl with only four years golfing experience, Bopie surprised all by qualifying as one of the sixteen out of seventy to participate in the championship flight. Reporters especially took interest in her, and flocked around to interview the "little blonde from Bartow." Jimmy Burns, Herald sports editor, was quite impressed with Bopie's feats, and gave her the spotlight in his column last week: "It was quite a stunt for Bopie to cop the driving title, and some idea of her excellence may be seen from the fact that Evelyn Odom, a seasoned competitor, had drives of 200-209-218. Mrs Charles Harting, the defending champion, had drives of 198-186-206."

Bopie was amused one morning to find her name captioned under the picture of a former Powers' model and wife of the president of National Air Lines. A photographer evidently was eagerly looking for the cute blonde and mistook Mrs Baker, who also participated in the tournament, for Bopie!

Having male reporters flock around, might fluster many a Tally lassie, not used to such attention from the opposite sex but Bopie was not perturbed by the situation. This might be accounted for by the fact that Bopie seems to find herself playing with and competing against men in many sports. Her golfing success was begun by a few lessons from Pete Cooper of Gainesville, one of Florida's best pro's. She played against both men and women at the annual tournament in Thomasville, Georgia this past summer, copping the trophy for the best woman golfer at the contest. She also won a badminton tournament in Atlanta, Georgia against male competition last year. So, one can see that when Bopie sets out against males, she usually comes back the victor. Who says women are the weaker sex!

Bopie shows her versatility by being a member of Sophomore Council and "F" club. She was recently elected vice president of WRA and played on the Even basketball team this year. During her freshman year, she participated on the Even soccer, softball, and golf teams and also ran in color rush.

A one-handed hockey player, Bopie continually amazes her physical education teacher who insists that hockey should be played with two hands, but the teacher gives up in despair, when she sees Bopie often in possession of the ball with one hand flying free! By the way, this is Bopie's first year at hockey.

It appears obvious that Bopie would be a physical education major, but this is far from right, for her one ambition is to become a doctor. Majoring in pre-med, she accomplishes not only athletic achievement, but is outstanding scholastically, being vice-president of Alpha Epsilon Delta, the pre-med honorary. "I want to be a doctor more than anything," she said, "though I love golf and wish I had more time for it."

Her friends exclaimed that "the only way we can possibly see how Bopie keeps up with her many and varied activities is by getting up at dawn—she can't sleep beyond 7:15 a m. Bopie never misses breakfast and eats a mile a minute, enthusiastic to plunge into each day of her eventful life.

◆

Outing to Wakulla Planned for Sunday

Climaxing May Day activities will be an outing to Wakulla Sunday afternoon, sponsored by the Life Saving Corps and open to all students, even the lucky lassies with dates, according to Skooks Lester, leader of the corps.

A chartered bus will be at the Landis-Gilchrist Arcade at 12:30 to take everyone out, and will return at 5 p m. Cost for this afternoon of swimming, sunning, and relaxing will be 75c, and Skooks urged that all who are planning to go, be sure to sign up in lower Westcott today.

"Nominations of officers and constitutional changes will be the main topics of discussion when the corps meets next Tuesday at 7:30," announced Skooks.

SILVER in the Spring...

Choose your wedding silver now from several rich Gorham Sterling patterns. Six-piece place-settings average about $23 each, incl. Fed. tax.

MOON'S

REGISTERED JEWELER AMERICAN GEM SOCIETY

SPIRIT OF THE WEEK

● A CONFLICT OF IDEOLOGIES

The genius of such men as Montesquieu, Jefferson, Henry, flowered not entirely in vain, as part of one field of the determinism which led to the formation of the democratic ideal which now unfortunately is in many present-day institutions imperfectly carried out.

That the uriginal and underlying spirit and ideal of these sharpers of the democratic ideal is to a large extent lost and being further lost in America is evident in little ways on every side. To treat of this in other areas than the one which is my thesis cannot be attempted by me due, of course, to inadequate knowledge; however the purpose of this paper will be of the conflict of the pure democratic ideal with the social ideologies to be found prevailing in the particular institution, the typical American college. The material consists of a critical analysis of statements which have publicly appeared, and is the means to construct an opposing expression, a manifestation of the creed and spirit of an actual group of youth.

We hereby proceed sincerely and honestly in the knowledge that no one pattern, social or psychological, however unjust or just it may be, ever breaks up and changes from action brought about from within itself, within the unit pattern. A pattern, an unjust pattern, only is changed by contact with external and conflicting patterns. We feel, therefore, that there is a perfect right to this honest and sincere critique of an ideology . . .

Dr Campbell said Tuesday night that no one of the groups participating in our college government enjoys complete autonomy.

The pivot word here is "complete." I should like to show that the meaning of this word, as it occurs in actuality, means nothing considered as the word showing degree of absolute authority. The manner in which the system is presently set up shows definitely that absolute authority, in actuality, is fully and ultimately in the hands of the faculty committee, in the field of faculty-student legislation. Proposals are presented to college council, which makes recommendations, and the matter is then considered by student senate and faculty committee. In case of agreement, well and good; in case of disagreement, the matter is referred to college council. If still no agreement, the faculty committee makes final decision. It takes the simplest of analysis to show where the real authority lies. In no case does the student body realize that it has a real power and responsibility; we only have power if we agree with the decision of the faculty committee; that is to say, we have none. If the student body, which of course is closer to its own problems and needs, disagrees, then that is merely unfortunate, according to this system. In that event, we are to spend decades very quietly and repeatedly legislating for the same needed reform.

Absolutely, then, we have legislation here on student problems without real student representation (power). Only, and I sincerely mean this point, only if we have student representatives on that final authoritative committee—or better still, have that final authoritative group composed of students, do we actually have student representation. If, as our president says, no one group may well be completely autonomous in what he calls "college government," then there must be some ultimate representation of students on such bodies, as there is not now, before he can say ought else than that no one group—excepting the students—is completely autonomous.

This is a very serious matter, legislation without representation, whether the particular public body be "legal" citizens or not. One of the greatest damages that can be inflicted is that the student body itself learns through such a subtly insidious suggestion that it does have no actual power, that it is not worthy of that power, that the late adolescent is incompetent (as he is not!); subsequently such habits and tendencies which are thus unfortunately learned carry over into the later social life, where the individuals—when they might otherwise, after having had benefit or responsibile and democratic training—successfully have modified the social psychological forces which mold the politics of the future.

A further statement which Dr Campbell made the other night which I consider a hard one to swallow is the following: "It seems clear that legal authority resides in the State and that it has been specifically set forth." I seriously refute this statement. My right, of course, in so doing is that the living force of human intellect and need, which automatically premises modification for the best survival —difficult though that may be to define—is always, always, supreme over merely the solidified institutions which grew out of the past need and cry of intellect.

In refuting the philosophy underlying the said quotation, I should like to ask: Since when did the human being become subordinate to and exist under the State? Such is a basically undemocratic ideology, say it who will. Unfortunate that such a condition could exist, even if it be a practical affair—which I feel that I have even the right to doubt —where the pure democratic ideal which our idealistic political philosophers dreamed of and preached is that the people always, always shall be supreme, that sovereignty only exists with the consent of the governed. I ask you, of these four groups which Dr Campbell mentions, which is the governed? Who live under these rules, this not always just jurisdiction, sacrifice a portion of their precious and holy freedom? The faculty? No. The board of control? No. Our parents? No. Who? The students, do they not? The other three groups are only affected very indirectly—the degree of course is an arbitrary one always—but theirs is the sovereignty! This grave conflict is one which threatens my democratic ideologies; imperfect though they be, however, I cling to them . . .

Dr Campbell said at the close of his speech that on the campus the students and faculty have the collective intelligence to work out the problems in "a manner that will be largely satisfactory and at the same time do so within the limitations which we must operate." The pivot word here, I say, is the dangerous word "limitations." And I do not consider that I am reading my own fears into the word when I consider that to mean that those limitations mean that the administration cannot "legally" and will not give up any of the power and control delegated to it by the Board, which it now has and which causes us as a body embarrassment and injury, and turn it over to the students. Our president says: "It (the Board) appointed a faculty of teachers and administrative officers who are charged with responsibility for carrying on the various phases of the Institution's activities." My commentary and interpretation is not the only one, of course, but I think that a cautioning word is always in order. In referring to the two previous occasions of expressing this attitude which he refers to, I believe that they refer to two previous convocation speeches on campus government, and which I have subsequently reviewed and have thereby only reinforced my original conclusion.

Another statement which I should like you to consider is the following: "The students, likewise, have developed a constitution with the consent of the faculty and have set up rules of conduct within the limits of the constitution." There are a few more things which need to be known regarding this. The first is that the present constitution which we have now, which was adopted in '41, was prepared by an appointed committee—a small one. Investigation of the publicity given it will show the inquisitive that the determining direction was definitely not given it by the students. And several excellent Flambeau editorials of the past which I have been able to examine speak of the serious objection of many students to it, and to the fact that they were told that they could "wait till next year until changes and improvements could be made." Under the circumstances it was hardly a student-written document, in sincerity, and surely did not satisfy them. I suggest to the interested that they look up some of those interesting articles about the writing of this document.

Our president throughout the speech referred to the necessity of harmony, cooperation. I too believe in law and order, in that there is nothing uglier and less humanitarian than violence in any form—psychological as well as physical. However there are two points to be considered regarding the factor; it does not stand alone. First, harmony does not mean that one of the group must be obliged consistently to be submissive, to hang its bloody head in defeat after repeated attempts to attain legislation which even the majority wants. Harmony works both ways—not just one way. That is a simple matter of fair play. The other consideration is that, whereas harmony and peace are precious, they are not nearly so precious as need, which is a form of truth. I say, do not for the sake of a banner word, do not let the hand be held over the mouth of truth. Orderliness is good and desirable; but be careful that it does not become an end in itself; it is not; it is a technique. Even a monarchy or a dictatorship may be orderly.

And another word yet—the knowledge that, cooperate or not, like it or not, legislation comes to us as dictums and edicts (as far as ultimate responsibility and power goes) and surely does not easily inspire trust and confidence. Only the confidence of the administration in us, in truly trusting us, can inspire our trust and confidence in them. The problem is a double-edged one. The same goes for the "assumption of mutual good faith," which Dr Campbell spoke of. How can we easily have good faith in an administration which could bring itself to ignore the cry of the vast majority of the student body over a wrong as "immature" and "emotional"? How? The pivot word in the above quote is, of course, mutual . . .

Most of us are optimistic—I am optimistic too—regarding the new constitution which is in the offing for us. It is well to be cautious always, however, always; we must cling to our basic ideologies as fast as we can. "Eternal vigilance is the price of liberty."

WINIFRED MELDRIM
Editor, The Distaff

● DEMOCRACY IN GEORGIA

"Probably the finest decision Georgia ever made was to allow her young people to vote . . . The Constitution is proud of the young citizens and the manner in which they participate in politics." So spoke the Atlanta Constitution editorially this week.

There was just one charge advanced in opposition to this decision, continued the Constitution, youth is too idealistic. From other quarters we have heard another charge advanced against the right of young people to govern themselves, the allegation that they show an appalling lack of maturity. But in spite of their idealism, in spite of their alleged immaturity, Georgia's young people have proved themselves capable of intelligent participation in their own government.

To the first charge, they, and we, willingly plead guilty. We are idealistic; but perhaps a little visionary faith in human progress and enlightenment is one of our few hopes for the future of a world grown hard with cynicism.

Neither do we wholly deny the second charge. Yet can our occasional failures to behave in an adult manner be attributed solely to our immaturity? The frequent glaring errors of judgment made by the adult members of our society are generally dismissed as merely the understandable foibles of human nature. Similar mistakes by our youth are, however, almost invariably attributed to their immaturity. Could not such behavior be instead merely the inevitable result of a government which does not vest us with any considerable degree of responsibility? A good many cumbersome social procedures have been abolished this year. Yet fundamentally our government is still paternalistic. Certainly such a system is not particularly conducive to mature conduct on our part.

Neither is it conducive to training for intelligent citizenship in a democracy. We are not asking that Florida young people be allowed to vote. But we are pointing out that the cries of we who are incapable of governing our own conduct sound dangerously like other cries recently heard in other lands. Leaders in these nations profess that the "ignorant masses" are utterly incapable of self-government; that, therefore, they must provide strong, paternalistic leadership for the people. After years of submitting to such a government, the citizens do not suddenly emerge prepared for wise participation in a democracy. Witness the failure of the German Weimar republic after World War I.

We are pointing out that if we are ever to vote intelligently we vitally need practical training in democracy. Obviously our present College Government Association utterly fails to provide any considerable opportunity for such training.

● ADVOCATES OF ABNORMALITY?

Victims of an abnormal way of life expressed their sentiments last weekend when students from the University of Florida visited Tallahassee and "picketed" the Capitol and front gate of Florida State College. "Women, women everywhere, but not . . . at the University of Florida!" and "We want coeducation: do you?"

Because of the sustaining power of a bill passed 41 years ago, the archaic Buckman Bill of 1905, Florida today stands alone as the only state which does not have a coeducational college or university state-supported. State authorities have said that the original separation of the college for women from the University was not due to opposition to coeducation. It was due to the inability of East and West Florida to agree on a location for the proposed seat of learning. But the heated debates in the legislature last year brought to light other excuses for the irrational maintenance of a system of segregation in Florida higher education.

Governor Millard F Caldwell said last year that coeducation in Florida schools should be determined by the needs of education and not by the desires of any community to profit by it. Are certain political and economic interests so eminent and urgent that they cannot be shelved for the welfare of Florida's youth, possibly the greatest asset of all?

A number of plans have been suggested for carrying out a possible coeducational status, involving the admission of both men and women to the University, or to both Florida State College and the University with a consequent division of departments or schools. In one form or another all of the following groups have firmly endorsed coeducation in public resolutions: (1) the Florida Junior Chambers of Commerce, (2) the University of Florida Alumni Association, (3) the student body of the U of F, (4) the student body of FSC, (5) a number of representatives elected to legislature, and (6) some faculty members, especially at the University. Professor Carleton from the department of political science at Gainesville said a year or so ago that the need for coeducation was no longer questionable: it was an established necessity, with only the when and where left to be settled. Dr Hugh McEniry, in the English department at Stetson, made an address very recently in which he took a definite stand for coeducation, based on his wide experience in handling young people and his very careful research into the historical background of the question.

In spite of valiant and patient efforts, the legislature last year ended with the passing of a resolution asking the State Board of Education and Board of Control to undertake a two year study of Florida college needs. This Citizen's Committee will report its findings and recommendations at the legislative session next year. (The same "study of Florida college needs" was made in 1928 with no noticeable action on its "recommendations.")

With that chapter ended, the time is now at hand for consideration of future long-term plans for both state colleges. A wartime exigency no longer exists, but the still vital need for coeducational opportunities must be put in the picture when permanent increases in facilities at both schools are being made. The inevitable should not be discounted with a snap of the fingers.

Very recently the ranks of those publicly and actively supporting coeducation has vastly increased. At Stetson University on April 6 approximately forty official college government and press delegates met together from these institutions: Rollins College, St Petersburg Junior Colleg Tampa University, Miami University, Stetson Univers Florida State College, and the University of Florida. Th resolution was passed: "Whereas we, as delegates to t Joint Convention of the Florida Student Government Asso tion and the Florida Intercollegiate Press Association, r resenting over 10,000 students, have fully considered all a pects of the problem of the institution of coeducation the State College for Women and the University of Flori . . . be it resolved that we are affirmatively in favor actively supporting an immediate conversion to a status coeducation in the above-mentioned institutions." Are 10,00 voices to be ignored?

Opponents of coeducation loudly anticipate the su posedly resultant "guitar-strumming" classrooms and d generate morals. Seven of the eleven best universities the country, according to a survey by Edwin R Embree p lished in the Atlantic Monthly in 1935 by rank of outstand scholars and eminent departments, are coeducational. besides this, the three most notable universities in the So are coeducational—the University of Virginia, Universit North Carolina, and the University of Texas—what has Fl ida to fear in the way of a "damaged" scholastic standin

Students on our campus must begin now to surm for themselves the situation and what should be done. Th will be called upon by legislators, parents, and all tax-paye to testify on the possibilities of coeducation in the immedia future. And they must know what they want and why. preparation for their privilege and responsibility of bringi about desirable conditions, students need a new and vi interest in forums, special information groups, and new paper articles.

Next week there begins on this campus the FSC Alum Congress, where opinions will be expressed and policies for ulated on this and other questions. Shall we remain in or shall we begin travelling now the long hard road leadi to another legislature, another decision, and perhaps a norm way of life?

Pepper Reports on OPA

Senator Claude Pepper of Florida reports from his Washington office that he is receiving many requests from his constituents for the extension of OPA price ceilings.

Senator Pepper says:

"My mail is running about 20 to 1 in favor of the extension of the OPA, without the crippling amendments put on by the House. A great many of my letters come from veterans, who are living upon fixed allowances at school, some with their wives, some with wives and children, who say they can barely get along as it is and would have to drop out of school if living costs increased. The greatest number of letters comes from housewives who know what it means to live within the housewife's budget when living costs are rising rapidly. I've been no little surprised and pleased at the number of such letters which have come from merchants and from business men who know the dangers of inflation will hurt their business.

The OPA has steadily been lifting controls since the war's end. For example, it has just determined to lift controls from watermelons. Recently it lifted controls from strawberries, from processed citrus fruit and from minor food items It has lifted contr from many consumer goods in department stores and o retail places, as well as from hea machinery.

OPA officials, however, say the Gossett amendment adop in the House, providing that c trols should be lifted when p duction of any commodity rea the volume of the fiscal year 19 would require the lifting of price controls on substantial foods. It overlooks the fact demand is far greater than 19 supply. Another amendme which would raise prices immen ly, the OPA says, is the Ho amendment requiring the OPA let producers make a profit every item that they produce the present time OPA is sa fied if a producer makes an o all fair profit on all of his p duction. OPA insists, howe that they do not require any p ducer to make any item at a for they have a bail-out provi which prevents loss production any item. That means, of cou provided the producer makes with reasonable efficiency

As a part of its policy to ke control on essential foods, s as meats, dairy products a bread. OPA has recommended

Continued on page five

Your Gal Sharpie

By Sharpie

How winners of the painting contest were selected seems to be the chief problem of the week. Sharpie received a letter from a girl who wanted to know why her entries were not even exhibited with the others in the Longmire auditorium. Another client asked why a portrait in oils did not win a prize. All I have to say is, yeawk, yeak! De gustibus non est disputandum, as the old lady used to say when she kissed the chickens.

A lady in Washington, D C, sent a dispatch to find out whether any student at Florida State College wants to go to Poland, as a delegate to an international conference. Before the exodus reaches its height, Sharpie wants to remind y'all that Madame Curie found a lack of academic freedom even as far away as Poland.

I wish people would stop sending Sharpie the same question, "What's happening to the amendment?" Quite obviously, children, it is going through "the proper channels." It is reported that all three of the faculty representatives to the committee have not been available at once, except once. However, negotiations m be progressing as fast as can expected. As this goes to pr there has been no settlem (That word, settlement, used mean "the gradual sinking o structure: fractures or dislo tions caused by settlement" Webster.)

"Oh, Sharpie," the mail g on, "what did one person in We cott say when looking out the w dow at the disgusting para around the fish pond?"

Will Sharpie know this answ too? Of course. According to report based upon a report, ba upon a report, based upon, cetera, somebody said. "That is poorest piece of strategy they ha used yet."

"Will you please save the OPA and "please, can't you figure how to feed the starving mill all over the world?" are comm requests among Sharpie's follo ers Although Sharpie knows answers she has referred th matters to a committee of congressmen, the Senate off building, Washington, D C F ture demands about these m ters should be sent directly to t address in order to save time a lives.

The Florida Flambeau

Entered as second class mail matter, January 28, 1915, at the post of at Tallahassee, Fla. under the act of Congress of March 3, 1879.

Member
Intercollegiate Press

It is the policy of the Flambeau to grant equal space and prominence to anyone wishing to present a contrary opinion whenever opinions on controversial questions are voiced in its columns.

ext of Dr Campbell's Convocation Address

OLLEGE GOVERNMENT"

By DOAK S CAMPBELL

college has no counterpart ur entire social structure. At this is true with respect to lic or state-supported col- Some colleges are proprietary ture and, as such, are similar ny other privately operated ns.

tax-supported college or uni- ty is so constituted that there number of important groups ly concerned with its opera-

The students, who may be ted according to such quali- ns as the State may desig-

A faculty of professional e who perform certain gen- and specific duties.

The parents of the students.

The ople of the State who presented through th legis- , the State Board of Edu- and the Board of Control.

ch of these groups has its own cular interest. Each has re- sibilities for the success of enterprise. Each performs its sibility within certain limi- ns. One groups is completely nomous.

hose of us who are most inti- y connected with the college y assume that we are most ve to the details which have with the day-to-day activi- f the campus However, the rity of the other interested ps is usually strong.

these observations are true, the relationships among the us interested groups are of most importance. The key ccessful operation of an in- on is the cooperation that is developed among the s and the individuals who ose the total enterprise.

seems cl ar that legal author- esides in the State and that been specifically set forth. Legislature, acting under the Constitution, created the In- tion and set up a Board of ol charged with full respon- y for all of its affairs.

is Board set up the general es, rules, and regulations for ollege It appointed a faculty of teachers and administrative officers who are charged with responsibility for carrying on the various phases of the institution's activities. Th faculty in turn has developed its program of activities within the limits of the constitution which has been approved by the Board of Control. The students, likewise, have developed a constitution with the consent of the faculty and have set up rules of conduct within the limits of the constitution.

No one of the participating groups enjoys complete autonomy. Each operates under certain limitations.

Essence in the operation of the college is

1. A will to proceed in an orderly manner within the framework of the government we have.

2. That each participating individual or group proceed upon the assumption of mutual good faith by every other individual or group.

3. That we constantly study the effectiveness of the organisation of our campus government.

4. That we proceed as often as seems necessary to revive and amend any phases of our procedure that are deemed unsatisfactory.

To follow such procedures does not assume necessary agreement at all points by all participants. There will inevitably be disagreements—disagreements among legislators, board members, faculty members, parents and students.

Progress can not be successful, however, if any of the participating groups become arrayed against any other group. Thus, if the board and the legislature are antagonistic, confusion will ensue. If board and faculty are non cooperative the college cannot operate. If faculty and students are placed in a position of antagonism, cooperative action is not possible.

It is possible, in fact, highly probable that the statutes governing higher education in Florida should be amended or, perhaps, completely re-written. A special committee has been designated to give mature study to the question and report to a subsequent meeting of the legislature.

There are reasons to believe that some of the policies and procedures of the Board of Control should be revised. The board is giving serious study to such possible revision.

There are teachers and administrative officers of the college who believe that their constitution should be revised at certain points and that certain procedures should be modified. Movements are under way to bring further study and possible revision within the framework of the general policies under which the faculty operates.

From time to time the inquisitive individual may discover that the constitution, procedures, rules and regulations that directly affect the students are not altogether satisfactory. Quite properly, orderly procedures have been instituted for improving one practice which has been declared unsatisfactory. Doubtless, there are other aspects of government that affect students which should be scrutinized and for which remedial measures should be proposed.

One point should be made clear; the administrative officers and teachers stand ready to give sympathetic support, within the limitations under which we, ourselves operate, to any orderly movement on the part of the student body to improve conditions under which we live and work together.

This attitude has been expressed from this platform on two previous occasions, and numerous times to individuals and smaller groups.

We cannot possibly move forward without the firm evidence of mutual respect and confidence on the part of both students and faculty. In my opinion, we have the collective intelligence to work out our problems on this campus in a manner that will be largely satisfactory and at the same time do so within the limitations within which we must operate. I have confidence in both students and faculty to work out the best possible government for our campus.

To My Way of Thinking

By LUCY FEIDEN

If one considers the amount of time and labor that is spent on the average motion picture, it's incredible to observe, with any critical analysis at all, the result of this waste. It can't be assumed with honesty that the producers and directors have even the least altruistic motives in mind when they foist on the movie-going public such fare as they have in the past.

Hollywood, in its attempts to portray a true picture of American life, has failed utterly. With but few exceptions the movie industry has given us such philosophies that would inevitably lead to a warped, biased way of life. Witness the romantic ideal, the rags to riches themes which pervade a good percentage of Hollywood products. Taking cognizance of the fact that the movies influence a sizeable amount of the American population as well as countless numbers of people in other countries it seems criminal that such a situation exists.

What does the picture say and how does it say its message? Generally the themes are so constituted that they would appeal to the intelligence of a moron. The films fail to wrestle with the problems of American life and fail to show the clouds as well as the silver linings. One is forced to view, with few exceptions, an idealized version of American life, which has its counterpart in an infinitesimal segment of our civilization. Suffering and privation are shown; but in direct contrast to life as it is being lived, a happy ending is tacked on to make the audience sleep more restfully. There is no evident attempt made to show strength and resource of the great mass of this country's people. Instead we get commercialism and Van Johnson.

I do not intend to make a plea on behalf of "art for art's sake," but it's evident from the average brand of movie-fare that art has been tossed out the window. Few films have an economy, a swiftness or a tension to make one sit up and take notice of a master craftsman at work. Hollywood's standards are often so irrelevant to anything remotely approaching art that one wonders exactly why the movies actually exist.

Do they exist for their entertainment value? This theory has been advanced to explain the obvious lack of plot, symmetry and acting ability in which Hollywood specializes when fostering on the American public its periodic musical extravaganzas One certainly is not being entertained when observing the commercialism of Jose Iturbi playing boogie woogie with all the lack of dignity of a jazz band pianist.

Hollywood has, in other words, passed up its chance to make a real contribution to American culture. It has neglected its marvelous opportunities for education on a broad and widespread level in favor of a cheap brand of salesmanship, which leaves the movie-going public holding the bag.

FSC To Gain Modern Dorm

280 Students to Enjoy All Latest Conveniences

Plans for a new five-story dormitory, which will be constructed adjacent to Jennie Murphree, are now beginning to materialize into reality with the business of excavation. The actual construction of this building will begin in the near future, according to Dr Doak S Campbell, president of Florida State College.

The new structure will not be nearly as large as Landis, housing only 280 students, but will have many of Landis's characteristics in addition to many later improvements and comforts. This building will be U-shaped with parlors closing the U on the first floor. In reality, the structure will be two separate and distinct buildings, except when the folding partition on the first floor is removed on special occasions, thereby making one large room.

The basement will also contain a vestibule, which will serve as a passageway between the two buildings. The first wing on the main floor will be strictly a social residence, with one of the main features being the convenient accordion type wall which will make it possible to convert the two residence parlors into one large room. Adjoining this large lounge will be an enclosed court with lawns and fireplaces.

Another new feature that has not been previously used on this campus, will be a forced air system of heating and ventilation, so constructed that either hot or cool air may be circulated evenly over the whole building throughout the year, according to Mr Herbert Mendenhall, resident engineer.

This is the first in a series of buildings which are being planned for the future. According to the latest set of blueprints, these new buildings of the future will continue to the north of the one that is now under consideration. This building is to be constructed by the same company that built Jennie Murphree, and they hope to complete the structure and have it ready for occupancy by September of 1947.

Anonymous Interview

Rounding the corner of a much-travelled stairway I met this week's victim in a toe-to-toe crash. But this time it was the interviewer's turn to be bewildered—the victim was a faculty member! To help preserve anonymity in this case, since unlike the student body the faculty has both men and women, I decided to pretend that our faculty is composed entirely of men, and therefore only the masculine pronouns can be used in an interview with one of its members.

Having literally at my pencil tip the opportunity to get faculty opinion on the recent student elections and their complications, I began with a question on that subject. This particular faculty member answered that although he didn't know too many of the details he had enjoyed looking on because he thought excitement was a good thing whether intelligently acted upon or not, since it has educational value. He said he was sure the students knew more about the College Government Association than before, and he commented that our conduct at worst was better than that of adults in their political affairs.

We went on then to a discussion of honor systems and court trials at colleges. He said that honor systems had been known to work on many campuses and there was no reason why one shouldn't work here. The tradition that an honor system would work must be established, he said. Students who violate its code should not be made to report themselves; instead, the student body must be depended upon to report any misconduct, not to a faculty member or faculty committee, but to student officers and student tribunals.

He emphasized the importance of immediate punishment for offenses, including sending home students who are found guilty of cheating on an examination. In this way, he explained, you would find fewer and fewer students violating the same principle of honor which had been so severely punished in former cases. He said he did not believe in "coddling," because immediately and definite action even in punishment has more long-range value. These trials should be conducted entirely by students, he said, leaving in turn to the faculty sole jurisdiction over such matters as curricula, credit-hours, and standards of work.

In answer to a question about enforcing strict punishment when there seemed to be a multiplicity of rules, he answered that he was not familiar with our various social regulations, but that it must be remembered that the bigger a community the more numerous and the more rigid need to be its laws.

This member of the faculty spoke approvingly of our efforts toward student government, and suggested that when it was established the major officers should be required to be 21 years old and take the oath of office, thereby becoming regular public officials. He does not believe that the methods of government within a college should be different from the actual method of handling affairs "out in the world."

Times Have Changed

Due to the change of the Mutual Broadcasting Company to daylight saving time, the hours for the Radio Workshop and the "Garnet and Gold" programs have been changed. The Radio Workshop will now be heard at 10:15 on Wednesday nights and the weekly "Garnet and Gold" program will be heard at 10:15 on Thursdays.

Student Elections Held at Dem School

A spirited political campaign was climaxed recently by the semester election of student officers at the Demonstration school.

"Keeping students from running to lunch will be our first project," said Student Body President Raymond Pace, as he explained that good citizenship promotion will be the main work of the newly elected officers. "The Student Council has already voted to present the best citizen of our school this year with a plaque," he continued. Pace, a Patrol Boy, is also vice-president and treasurer of the ninth grade.

Speeches for candidates were made by their campaign managers at two political rallies attended by students from the third to the ninth grade before voting took place in home rooms.

Other officers include Jeanette Smith, vice-president, eighth grade, and Fayne Norman, secretary-treasurer, seventh grade.

King Jack Hodge and Queen Clarice LaRose, attended by a May Court, were crowned, at a May Day party on the lawn of the Demonstration school May 1, according to Miss Mary Lou King, teacher in charge of May Day festivities.

The school band and glee club presented a one-hour program after which dancing and games were heard.

The king and queen, both of the ninth grade, were elected by the student body of the Demonstration school.

◆

Religious Groups Plan Social Events

Several of the religious organizations on campus are planning social and business activities for the near future which will be of importance to all students affiliated with the groups.

The annual formal banquet for Baptist faculty and students will be given tonight at 7:30 in the student house. Louise Illingworth will preside as mistress of ceremonies.

The Christian Science organization will hold its semi-annual business meeting Thursday, May 9, in the music annex immediately following the regular testimony meeting.

Robin Hill, student chairman for the state Canterbury club conference announced that all who want to attend Camp Wingmann, May 17-19 should contact her at the Pi Beta Phi house or sign up on the bulletin board at Ruge hall by this afternoon.

A garden party will be held at Ruge hall after the crowning of the May Queen Saturday afternoon. The Canterbury club has reserved Camp Flastacowo for the weekend of May 11.

◆

Dr Shankweiler

Dr Paul W Shankweiler, associate professor of sociology, was notified this week of his appointment as Florida membership chairman of the American Sociological society. The membership drive for this organization is now getting underway, said Dr Shankweiler.

Attention, All Students

All students are notified that all dormitory space for September 1946 occupancy has been reserved. Those who wish to register for the next session should make their applications as soon as possible. Such students will be assigned room space either in space now reserved, but which may later be released, or in new quarters that will be provided by the college.

◆

Sophomore Council Has Roundup Day

Tuesday was "roundup day" for all present and former members of Sophomore Council. The blue-jacketed girls started the day off by having breakfast together. During the day the campus was dotted with councilors attired in their blue jackets and white skirts.

At 5 o'clock they gathered in Landis recreation hall for a picnic supper. After this they were entertained with skits presented by Connie Savage, Georgia Jaeckel, Ida Lee Rentz, Ann Fielding, Roses Marcoux, Audrey Evans, Betty LaBree, Dalia Santos, Beth Fuhrer, Pep Stanaland, Martha Peacock, Irma Lee Shepherd, and Jo Ann Long, chairman of Sophomore Council. Jean Sharer acted as mistress of ceremonies.

◆

Rare Bird Found on Zoology Field Trip

A bird study class of the zoology department and a group of the faculty went on a bird trip to Lake Jackson last Sunday morning at 6 a m. Lake Jackson is located west of town and 4 miles from the campus.

Dr Ezda Deviney, professor of zoology, said the group found thirty species of birds. The rarest was the least bittern. The least bittern, a little over a foot in length, is the smallest of all our herons. Very few of this type of bird spend the winter in Florida, and the bulk of them migrate farther south than Tallahassee.

The only trouble encountered was becoming envolved in the midst of a herd of cattle, but all in all Dr Deviney said the trip was successful.

◆

Dr Bellamy Boasts Four Grandchildren

Four times a grandfather is the boast this week of Dr Raymond F Bellamy, professor of sociology. Dr Bellamy attained this position of honor by the arrival of a grandson last Sunday. The boy has been named James William Bridges and is the son of Dorothy Bellamy Bridges, who graduated from FSC a few years ago. Dr Bellamy has one other daughter and a son, and two other grandsons and one granddaughter.

◆

Teacher's Workshop To Open in Quincy

The first in a series of county workshops for teachers is to be opened in Quincy, May 31, Mr E W Cason of the School of Education reports. The workshop will include teachers from various schools in the county, and will be directed by Mr Cason.

The purpose of these workshops is to help teachers solve different problems that arise in teaching. They will be conducted either at Florida State College or the University of Florida. The participants can get credit from the general extension division of the university. Graduate credit, credit leading toward a bachelor's degree, or credit toward a teacher's certificate is obtainable.

Miss Mildred Swearinger of the State Department of Education will be general elementary consultant. Mrs Ann Nichelson, general school supervisor for Gadsden County, will also be a member of the staff. Others who will assist at this workshop include instructors from FSC's School of Education.

◆

READ THE FLAMBEAU ADVERTISEMENTS.

o Initiated To Omicron Nu Society

ther Louise Dale and Jocelyn Zeigler, two new members Omicron Nu, the home econom- honorary society, were ini- last Thursday in the club of the Rowena Longmire ing mediately following the ini- ion an informal reception given honoring the new mem- Those present were Grace abeth Sims, Mrs Lottie Delle ers Bobby Glenn, Myrtis ce Langston, Mrs Ruth Hood an alumnae, Margaret ar Dr Margaret R Sandels, of the School of home eco- Miss Helen L Richey, ructor in textiles and cloth- Miss Ellen Wright, instructor textiles and clothing, Mrs Ruth Ferguson, instructor home eco- ics, Miss Ethyl Holloway, Dis- home demonstration agent, Miss Anna Mae Sikes, exten- nutritionist.

Annual Meeting Is Attended by Four

Dr R L Eyman, dean of School of Education, Dr R L Goulding, superintendent of demonstration school; Miss Dorothy Leahy, professor of home economics education; and Dr Milton W Carothers, registrar, attended the annual meeting of the Florida Association for Colleges and Universities last Friday and Saturday, April 26 and 27 in Winter Park.

The theme of this meeting was Postwar Planning for Colleges and Universities. There were two panel discussions given, one on postwar planning in the science department and the other discussed postwar plans for the social studies department. Mr M S Hale, dean of Orlando Junior College, was appointed president of the association for next year.

◆

Annual Breakfast

The annual Sophomore-Senior breakfast will be held Saturday morning, May 18, at 7:30 in the East dining hall. This breakfast is given in honor of the seniors by their sophomore little sisters.

The committee heads are Audrey Evans, census; Yolanda Arias, invitations; Yvonne Boatright and Jackie Mages, publicity; Iris Parsons, Sophomore Council Girls who will serve the breakfast; and Anne Fielding, Franklin Smith and Jimmie Rogers, skit.

◆

PATRONISE OUR ADVERTISERS.

PEPPER REPORTS ON OPA

Continued from page four

subsidy of one cent a quart increase to milk producers, one-half of which would take effect in May, the other one-half July 1. Milk producers contend that all price controls and subsidies should be removed and dairymen should be allowed to raise their prices, so as to assure production. However, OPA contends that dairymen also receive subsidies which are paid by the government, and these cost the public far less than price rises in place of subsidies. For example, a subsidy on wheat flour save the people a price increase of one cent a loaf alone, while the subsidy paid is far less than the one cent. In a certain part of the meat industry, the subsidy is thirteen million dollars, whereas a price increase which would be required without the subsidy would cost the people ninety-six million dollars.

As this is written, hearings are still going on before the Senate committee on OPA extension. The bill will probably come to the Senate for consideration within the next few weeks, because the present law expires June 30. To us, in congress, the OPA is a headache. We will be spared much misery when it is over. But we would not be fair to the public interest if we did not vote the way the public interest lies.

I will listen to all arguments and I invite further expressions from the people, but so far they have overwhelmingly indicated that it is in their best interests that controls over price rises be continued a while longer. Meanwhile all practical, sensible adjustments and efficiencies in the administration of OPA should, and I am sure will, be hastened."

◆

"Garnet and Gold" Now Heard at 10:15

Because the Mutual broadcasting system has changed to daylight saving time for the summer months, "Garnet and Gold," one of the weekly campus radio programs, was heard at 10:15 p m instead of the usual 9:15 broadcast last night and will remain permanent at that time.

In the form of a radio newspaper, "Garnet and Gold" is under the supervision of Miss Bertha B Bloodworth, FSC coordinator of radio and also publicity director. The program was announced this week by Miss Lucille Wagner, assistant professor of piano.

News editor was Sara Daugherty of the radio speech class, while Betty Steele, Betty LaBree, and Frances Bloodworth were the music editors playing "Tom Thumb March" by Pinto, "Prelude in D Minor" by Chopin, and "Novelette in F" by Schumann.

◆

READ THE ADS TO FIND WHAT YOU WANT.

hirty Days
ath September,
ut we have food
hat You'll Remember!
—Watsonspeare

Steaks, Chops, Chili, paghetti and Seafood

M & N CAFE
E. JEFFERSON ST.

After Eating One of Our

Delicious Meals

You'd Dance With Joy Too!

Real Soluthern food in he-man servings and cooked the way you like it.

you don't care for a meal, then drop in after the show
r a chocolate soda or strawberry sundae. Our Fountain Service can't be beat!

Air-Conditioned Fountain-Cafe

MARTIN & DALTON

210-212 S. ADAMS

POISE

You have poise on campus, but will it desert you when you step into the business world? At Katharine Gibbs Secretarial School, you not only receive outstanding technical training, but become familiar with business management and procedure. For catalog and information, address College Course Dean.

KATHARINE GIBBS

NEW YORK 17 .... 230 Park Ave.
BOSTON 16 .... 90 Marlborough St.
CHICAGO 11 .... 720 N Michigan Ave.
PROVIDENCE 6 .... 155 Angell St.

For Your Mom

on "her" day

a becoming Bemberg sheer, wash silk, or butcher linen dress or suit

THE SURPRISE
STORE

MECCA

Regular Meals and Short Orders
Sandwiches for Picnics and Complete Fountain ♦ Service ♦

GOOD SERVICE AND REASONABLE PRICES

Also Watch and Clock Repair Service

Proprietor
Mrs. M. Sharkey

Manager
T. W. Buckley

Sorority Chit-Chat

Alpha Chi Omega has selected as its patrons for the coming year Dr and Mrs Milton Carothers, Dr Marian D Irish, Dean and Mrs Karl O Kuersteiner, Miss Marjorie Clayton, and Dr Carmen Rogers.

On Saturday night the Alpha Chi's are initiating Irma Lee Shepherd, Sally Siater, Pat Harrison and Virginia Bennett.

• • •

Friday night the Alpha Gamma Deltas are initiating Ella Jean Turvaville, Marty Brokaw, Mary Neil McFadden, Dot Miller, Jeanne Dudley, Frances McCall, and Jane Shirley.

In honor of the new initiates the Alpha Gams are having an intermission party during the May dance Saturday night.

• • •

Mrs Harold Richards entertained the Chi Omega juniors and seniors last Monday night.

Last night Mrs W V Knott gave a formal party at her home honoring Chi O freshmen.

New pledge officers of Chi Omega are: president, Sally Whitehead; treasurer, Suzanne Harris; secretary, Barbara Anne Covington.

Mrs O S Lanier, Chi O housemother, will ha.e as her weekend guest Mrs Armstrong.

• • •

Delta Phi Epsilon initiated Renee Gross and Frimit Silberatein last Saturday morning. After the initiation the new initiates were honored at a breakfast.

Saturday afternoon D Phi E's enjoyed an informal party for members, their dates, and other guests. Gladys Atlas and Annette Vitsky had charge of both the breakfast and afternoon party.

• • •

Phi Mo pledged Muriel Scott last Friday afternoon.

The Phi Mu's are having a supper Sunday night at the house for all actives and pledges. During the evening all the freshman actives are 'o entertain with an original skit.

• • •

On Monday night, April 15, Delta Delta Delta elected the following new officers: president, Bo Peep Shell; vice-president, Franklin Smith; recording secretary, Coline Gunn; corresponding secretary, Madge Pilcher; chaplain, Jean Whigham; rush chairman, Joyce Benton; marshall, Catherine Settles; house chairman, Lois Merriweather; custodian, Doris O'Neil; historian, Chris Morrison; Panhellenic representative, Marie Ratliffe; athletic manager, Betty Shirley; scholarship chairman, Shirley Longino; publicity and activities chairman, Margie Norris. Miss Agnes Gregory was elected for Alumnae Advisor, Mrs Frank Bisbee as Financial Advisor, Mrs Broward Culpepper as Scholarship Advisor, and Mrs Marian Berry as Social Advisor.

The Tri Delts were glad to welcome back two Alpha Eta alumnae for the weekend. They were Marjorie Morrison and Mrs Dudley Scroggin, who is district president.

An intermission party was enjoyed Saturday night by the members and their dates.

Ann Caroline Carter was initiated into Tri Delt last Saturday afternoon.

The Tri Delts gave an informal party last Friday night for their housemother, Mrs Crume, who left Saturday for a short visit to Birmingham.

• • •

The Sigma Kappa's entertainment for last week-end included an intermission party for the Panhellenic dance, a tea dance, and a party at Wakulla on Sunday. They also have been busy this past week with many rushing parties. Plans arc being made for a reception that will be given Friday night by Miss Carolyn Oxford, honoring Fawn Trawick. Members and pledges, and friends of Fawn have been invited to attend.

• • •

This past week, Pi Beta Phi initiated Peggy Simpkins, Flora Jean Pflough, and Anna Bryce in afternoon service, and on Tuesday pledged Colleen Kinney. Last Sunday morning, with Founders Day service, the Pi Phis celebrated the founding of the fraternity on April 28, 1867.

• • •

During the Panhellenic weekend, the Kappa Deltas entertained their past national president, Mrs Elizabeth Corbett Gilbert. Alumnae who were guests in the house were, Miss Jean Gulette, and Miss Betsy Wilson.

For the May Dance this weekend,· the KD's are planning an intermission party.

To climax a busy Panhellenic weekend, a picnic for the members and their dates was given by the pledges last Sunday night.

• • •

On Monday night, Grace DeWolf, president of Delta Zeta, appointed the following committee chairmen: rush chairman and Panhellenic representative, Sarah Griffin; social chairman, Kathleen Johnson; scholarship and publicity chairman, Margie Grace; standard chairman, Alice Datson; intramurals manager, Joanne Kirkland.

• • •

The Kappa Alpha Thetas had as their guest last weekend, Bobby Rees, a former student at FSC, who returned for a visit.

The Theta pledges are planning a supper to be given Sunday night for the active members.

Serious Students

Because of the greater number of students carrying heavy schedules and the more serious attitude of the students toward their work, the old "Rah! Rah!" spirit is disappearing from the campus, Vice-President Stradley of Ohio State University, said when he was asked what he thought were the reasons for the lack of spirit among the students.

Graduate students, students in the professional colleges, and many others, have too much work to do, he said, to allow much time for social activities. He added that there seems to be a general attitude of more work and less play.—The Ohio State Lantern, Columbus, Ohio.

Dormitory Teas

Now that spring is here Landis is serving iced tea at their Thursday afternoon get-togethers. Harriet McCarter, member of the Social Committee, was in charge of the tea this week.

The Village enteretained at tea this week all the girls who have moved from The Village to other chairman of a variety talent show given by Village residents for their guests.

Gilchrist had their last tea of the year on Easter Sunday. At that time faculty sponsors of the dormitory were the guests of honor. A special program of Easter music for piano, voice and flute was arranged by Dorothy Crowson, chairman of the tea. The girls who have live in Gilchrist this year recently presented the hall with a gift of two silver candle holders and a silver plate.

Punch and cookies were served yesterday for Reynolds girls in the dromitary parlor. Bernice Risyk and Carolyn Cofer were in charge of the arrangements.

Broward gave a special party this week for their seven senior residents. These girls are Marie Bain, Jane E Chancey, Jeanne Echols, Mary Jackson, Marian Napjarian, Warrene Porter and Ellen Whitman. Audrey Miner is also a Broward senior, but was unable to attend because she is interning at Marianna. A corsage was presented to each of the senior girls and "Hail to the Caps and Gowns" was sung to them. Anite Bisbee, a member of the dormitory social committee, was chairman of the party and arranged a special musicalprogram and served punch and cake as refreshments.

Victims of TB Test Await Final Results

The interior of Broward kitchen looked strangely reminiscent of a Buck Rogers comic strip. A huge black apparatus was flashing a purple light and making strange noises very similar to those made by an alarm clock on the verge of a breakdown.

In the hall students lined up to find an answer to that old question, TB or not TB. "Your last name, please?", "Would you mind spelling that again?", and "What did you say your box number is?", could be heard. Volunteer workers were busy doing what is rapidly becoming America's favorite indoor sport—filling in blanks.

Though feminine giggles were the order of the day there were a few serious girls present. They were the ones who are inclined to turn green at the thought of anything vaguely connected with doctors, nurses, and hospitals. Several deep hacking coughs, which contained slight histrionic qualities, were heard. These were greeted by "Um hummm, first stages." One girl took a look at the technician and screamed, "A man! Where's my compact?"

Curious students greeted those coming out with the inevitable query, "What happened?" Judging from the grins on most of the faces it was an extremely painless operation. It was as simple as "Take a deep breath and hold it, please" and then "That's all." One girl expressed her opinion in no uncertain terms that she thought it was terrif. The technician, evidently having been exposed to college girls before, came back with a "well, natch!"

A student who was wondering how she would find out the results of the test was assured by another that if she had "it" they d tell her in a very nice way.

★ FASHIONS ★

Extremely slimming and a black dress that lends color to the face is the one shown above as pictured in the February issue of Good Housekeeping magazine. An everfast washable rayon, it is a midnight black with slashes of lime, blue or pink.

Recreation Major Found Interesting

Curriculum of the new recreation major program this year, has proved interesting and beneficial to the twenty five girls who signed up for this course in the fall, according to Miss Henrietta Greenberg, instructor in physical education, who stated that "the curriculum is so set up that a girl can major in recreation and still get a concentration in any other field in which she is interested. This concentration is equivalent to participation in a double major."

In addition to the required courses of the college, recreation majors must take certain additional courses in psychology, industrial arts, library science, speech, social work, art, music, and physical education. These girls participate in practice teaching during their senior year in a recreation department or school. "This course gives the girls a broad background for recreational activities and they gain practical experience as well as the history, philosophy and psychology or recreational work."

Undertakings of the recreation majors this year have been varied and extensive. In the recreational leadership class they have served as local playground assistants, have educated local groups on how to plan social activities, and have directed noon and after-school play hours at the demonstration school. They have also assisted at the local Youth Center in helping to broaden and develop the recreational program.

Events scheduled by the recreation majors include an annual Corn Husking Bee to be presented May 18, at play night, and a jamboree at Lafayette Park, given for the local Girl Scouts organizations, on May 11.

Summer Jobs Have Experience Value

There has been a recent tendency to deplore the lack of practical knowledge possessed by graduates of American colleges. This reaction against "book learning" has always been present in our society and probably stem from the democratic belief that knowledge is the province of the privileged. In recent years, however, the chorus has been strengthened by businessman, clergeymen and writers who stress the inadequacy of modern education in coping with practical problems of industry and business.

It has also been noted that a surprising number of college graduates as unsuited for their planned vocation. As a result many graduates change their jobs within several years. Months of training are wasted in this way. These criticisms are to some extent justified and the universities of the country would do well not to ignore them.

Princeton's summer job program represents a practical effort to solve this problem. Undergraduates are given an opportunity to find out by experience whether they are suited to a certain vocation. The undergraduate is also given a chance to develop habits of punctuality and responsibility which tend to be deemphasized in college life. The financial inducement also obviously commends participation in this program.

When a summer job is couped with a desire on the part of the undergraduate to explore the field for opportunity and general suitability, its value can be lasting and definite. The Daily Princetonian, Princeton Pniversity.

READ THE FLAMBEAU ADVERTISEMENTS.

Hillel Group to Hold Its Annual Weekend

With a service tonight, a formal dance tomorrow night, and a picnic at Wakulla Springs Sunday, Hillel is having its annual formal weekend, according to Irene Gross, social chairman.

This Way to Unity will be reviewed tonight by Natalie Mahler at the service at Temple Israel. Members of the group will participate in the service under the chairmanship of Ruth Leonard, culture leader. A get-together in the reception hall of the temple will follow the service.

The theme of the dance, which is to be held in Landis "rec," is to be kept secret. Committees in charge of the dance are: decorations, Tobie Jacobskind, chairman; Dorothy Davis, co-chairman, and Rita Silverman, Joan Langner, Jacqueline Freeman, Estelle Josepher, Gladys Atlas, Esther Lee Silverman, Terry Davis, and Miriam Sheinberg; refreshments, Vivian Schaeffer, chairman; Alois Katz, co-chairman, and Sylvia Liebovitz and Arlene Siegel.

A bus has been chartered to leave the Temple at 10 Sunday morning for Wakulla and will return at about 8 in the afternoon. With Irene Gross as chairman, Phyllis Singer, Polly Marks, Ester Arginter, and Rita Gendzier will be in charge of plans for the day.

Dem School Crowns May Queen, King

Through the magic spell cast by the jester, the king and queen delived the May Day festivities of their primary and intermediate classes yesterday at the May Day program of the Demonstration school. Queen Clarice LaRose was crowned by Dr R L Goulding, principal, and she in turn placed the king's crown upon Jack Hodge's head. The king and queen bestowed the honor upon the crown prince Alfred Orgam and crown princess Susan Davis.

Dream courts were ruled over by a king and queen from both the primary and intermediate grades, while the Demonstration school band, glee club, rhythm band, and the tonette band provided background music. The program was ended by a may pole dance with members of the fourth, fifth, and sixth grades participating.

Speech Honorary to Resume Conventions

Due to the war the Zeta Phi Eta National Convention has been postponed until this year. This summer, however, the speech honorary convention will be held from August 2 through 5 in Chicago. Katherine Moore, president of the Upsilon chapter here, has been chosen as a delegate to the convention.

Officers for the coming year were elected recently by the honorary. These new officers are: President, Kay Moore; vice-president, Mary Ann Cannon; secretary, Mary Jane Inabnit; treasurer, Elaine Parramore, and marshal, Joy Fleming.

Recent initiates of the organization are Elaine Parramore, Mary Jane Inabnit, Mary Marshall, Betty Usher, Mary Ann Cannon, and Burma Cox.

No Tarpon Show

Tarpon Club decided at a meeting Wednesday night not to hold its annual spring performance this year due to the shortened quarter which the members felt didn't give them time to prepare a performance up to their usual standard, according to J B Singleton, president of the organization.

Local AXD Chapter To Be Host May 4-6 At Province Meet

The biennial convention of Province four of Alpha Xi Delta will be held at Florida State College May 4 through May 6. Delegates from the four province college chapters, Stetson, University of Alabama, University of Kentucky, and Florida State College, as well as alumnae from all over the state, will be the guests of Alpha Omega chapter while on campus.

Formal opening of the session will be at 9:30 tomorrow in the Longmire building. Convention business for the day includes election of province officers for the next biennium, round table discussion of various fraternity activities, and reports from the college and alumnae sections of the convention.

Officers for the convention are: secretary, Florence Gross, Omega; treasurer, Pat Tays, Alpha Omega; marshal, Kelvie Davis, Alpha Tau; chaplain, Miss Marjorie Stith, Thomasville alumna; chairman of the nominating committee, Mrs W M Bostwick of Daytona Beach; chairman of the constitution committee, Mrs Marvin H Walker of Lakeland. Hostesses will be Mrs Harry Tomlinson, Tallahassee alumna, and Juanita Nord of Alpha Omega.

A formal rose banquet for the delegates will be held tomorrow night at the Floridan hotel. The welcoming address will be given by Mrs Lydia Mikell, president of Province four, and Juanita Nord will act as toastmistress for the occasion. Special guests at the banquet will be the patrons of Alpha Omega chapter, Dr and Mrs P F Finner, Dr Annie M Popper, and Dr Dorothy M Leahy.

On Sunday morning the delegates will attend initiation ceremonies for Mervin Thomas of Gainesville, Carmen Manuccy of Miami, Kathleen Barker of Pensacola, and Nell Hawkins of Monticello, with the members of the Alpha Omega chapter.

Prizes Totaling $850 Offered by Bazaar

A $500 prize will be given to the winner of a short story contest being sponsored by the Junior Bazaar. Two other cash prizes will be offered, one for $250 and the other for $100, for runner-ups in the contest which ends June 1. The winner's story will be published in the magazine.

The story can be three thousand words or less on any subject that the contestant wishes. The story must be type-written on only one side of 8"x10" paper. The contest is open to all people who are not over 23. The contestant must submit with her story an endorsement stating her eligibility.

Dr Kurz Returns

Dr Herman Kurz, professor of botany, recently returned from the seventh annual meeting of the Association of Southeastern Biologists which was held at Columbia, South Carolina, April 18 through 20.

Dr Kurz was elected to serve on the executive committee for a term of three years.

Fashion Flashes

Spring at last has made its long awaited debut with warm days and cool, blossom-scented nights. But don't let those spring days completely disable you, because the calendar reveals more dances than one can possibly imagine. To reflect the real mood of spring a new formal is by far the best prescription.

Cotton is positively the most outstanding material of the season. Broadcloth, gingham and pique in bright plaids, wide stripes and checks are being shown in Vogue and Mademoiselle fashion magazines.

As to style why not select a chalk-white pique formal with one shoulder covered and the other bared. Or maybe you are the conventional type who would look best in the milkmaid freshness of checked gingham with a stiffly starched peplum belted in with a wida leather belt. Now if you want to look as if you have just been chosen Miss New York City let me suggest one of those new daring mid-calf length formals (it really takes lots of nerve to wear one). The majority seem to be strapless in pure black or white. They are best displayed with a heavenly southern tan which you no doubt have been obtaining on the sun decks.

By the way, short gloves are worn with every type of formal. It seems long gloves are taboo this season. A minimum amount of jewelry is being worn such as ear rings or bracelets which are worn midway between the elbow and shoulder.

Panhellenic Enjoys Dance and "Sing" At Annual Weeken

With the Phi Mu's and Del Zeta's taking top honors in th annual sing, the traditional Panhellenic weekend came to a clo Sunday afternoon.

The occasion began with a dan held Saturday night in the gymnasium. The dance room w decorated with the different sorority emblems arranged arou the room and the various colo overhead. Marvin Scott and h orchestra provided the mus During the evening the preside of the 14 sororities were presen in a grand march.

The sing was held Sunday aft noon in Westcott auditorium. T Phi Mu's "Original Fratern Medley" won first place in t original song group with the C Omegas' "Southern Medley" se ond. In the "sweet" song divi the Delta Zetas' "Dream Girl" w first and the Alpha Delts P "Sweetheart of A D Pi," seco

The songs were judged on ha mony, tone and arrangement. T novelty songs were judged those features plus original The appearance and conduct the groups were also factors judging.

Judges for the sing were M Mildred Henry, assistant profe sor of English, Miss Mary Es Winslow, assistant professor piano, and Miss Zadie L Phipp assistant professor of music.

The two first place winners ea received prizes of five dollars.

Charles VI of France issued edict in 1397 forbidding comm people to play cards on work days.

Jaunty Jrs.
MAY'S
211 S. MONROE ST.

Friendly gesture . . . Have a Coke
BOTTLED UNDER AUTHORITY OF THE COCA-COLA COMPANY BY TALLAHASSEE COCA COLA BOTTLING COMPANY

We've Got--- Everything for Summer Fun
From
ARCHERY TO SOFTBALL
EQUIPMENT
YON'S HARDWARE
218 S. ADAMS

WHEN IN GAINESVILLE
MR. AND MRS. JERRY BURCH
Cordially Invite You
To Stop At Travelers Inn
336 ROUX STREET
The Friendly Tourist Home
CATERING PARTICULARLY TO VISITORS OF STUDENTS AND FACULTY MEMBERS
OF THE UNIVERSITY OF FLORIDA
Reservations Accepted For Special Weekends
—THREE SHORT BLOCKS FROM FLORIDA CAMPUS—
—ONE BLOCK FROM HUMPTY DUMPTY—
ASK THE GIRLS WHO HAVE BEEN THERE

"Majority Vote"

Z 108

The Florida Flambeau

Published by the Students of Florida State College for Women

Big Joke!

OL. XXXIII, No. 24

Tallahassee, Florida

MAY 10, 1946

Gala Concert To End Music Week at FSC

rainger and Fickenscher To Conduct Program This Evening

rchestra, Band, Glee Club To Present Numbers

Climaxing Music week at Florida Climaxing Music Week at Florida chestra, glee club and band will presented tonight at 8:15 p m Westcott auditorium with Percy ainger and Arthur Fickenscher guest conductors. Participating this program, which will include enscher's "The Chamber Blue" "Tribute to Foster" by Grain- will be 250 performers.

The orchestra will open the pro- am with "Brandenburg Con- erto 3" by Bach, "Air" by Bach Walter Ruel Cowles conduct- and "To a Nordic Princess" by y Grainger with the composer nducting.

The glee club, soloists and or- estra will present next one of highlights of the program, "The Chamber Blue" by Arthur enscher. This composition in- udes three characters, as follows: ady Louise portrayed by Paula sarden, soprano; Lady Alice by llis DeKalb, alto; Lord Arthur Walter James, tenor. Mr Fick- scher will conduct.

The band will contribute: ome Sweet Death" by Bach "Children's March" by Grain- Mr Grainger will be at the ano with Owen Sellers conduct-

A series of selections presented six massed pianos will follow e first of this series will be cherzo" by Daniel G Mason, ayed by Allan Borch, Margaret nn Ruby Dunstan, Virginia nstan Virginia Holmes, Mary eder and Rebecca Rodenberg. six pianos conducted by Mr ainger. "Blithe Bells" by Bach- ainger will feature Ella Grain- on the metal marimba, Mary Winslow, piano and Lucile Wag- r, piano. One of Grainger's own mpositions, "English Dance," be presented by Elaanor gst, Emily Bridges, Virginia Der rry, Marilyn Morgan, Cortlandt rper, Dolly Sutton, Virginia ompson, Ann Townsend and n Wiggins; Mr Grainger will nduct this number.

Three songs will be sung by ost Rachel James, with words music by Ella Grainger: "To no," accompanied by Olga Eit- r viola, Gladys Marie Ford, Geraldine Setnor, harp, arilyn Dewey, flute, Frances ckworth, clarinet, Betty Jean bass clarinet; "Love at First ght," accompanied by Walter ames tenor, College Glee Club, th Etta Robertson, directing; ying for the Moon," accom- anied by Ella Grainger, metal arimba Earlynn Vance and Peg- Pelot, wooden marimba, Doris eill and Percy Grainger, piano rings played with marimba allets.

Climaxing this program the mbined groups will present: ibute to Foster" by Grainger ich features: Walter James, nor H O Pemberton, second nor Allen M Boggs, baritone; d the college glee club with Et- Robertson directing.

The final composition will be

Continued on page two

hilosophy Meeting To Include Retreat

The eighth annual meeting of "Southern Society for the losophy of Religion," to be d this summer, will include for first time a retreat lasting or seven days after the regu- three day meeting, according Dr Anna Forbes Liddell, pro- sor of philosophy. At this time, mbers will discuss and specu- e on philosophical problems of ligion.

"The exact date and place of meeting has not yet been de- ed," said Dr Liddell, member the Executive Council and for- vice president of the society. The retreat, suggested by Dr dell, will concern discussions such topics as "Time and ity" and "The Status of iversals." The program of the meeting will consist of and readings of formal one by Dr Liddell on es Man Have a Natural In- on of the Divine Essence?"

This society became a perma- organization in 1940, when constitution and name was pted at Blue Ridge, North rolina. Membership is com- ed of teachers of philosophy d religion, or interested schol- in these fields, throughout South, according to Dr Liddell.

Mortar Board Taps On Tuesday Night, Mortified Follows

From a darkened stage in whose center glow the three torches of leadership, scholarship, and service, Torchbearers Chapter of Mortar Board will tap its new members of the class of 1947.

This traditional ceremony will take place Tuesday night at 7:45 in Westcott Auditorium. Wearing white, all the members of the junior class will take their place in the reserved portion of the center section. The rest of the student body will sit in the remaining seats. Then, as the organ plays "Pomp and Circumstance" the members of Mortar Board, carrying lighted torches, will proceed from the rear of the auditorium to the stage. The first girl tapped will be the oew president. The number chosen will be not less than five nor more than twenty.

When the new and the old Mortar Boards have come down from the stage and have left the auditorium, a whistle shrills from the left wing.

Mortified, a group of girls dressed in red and white, suddenly leap over the rail and rush down into the audience to tap their new members. They are Mortified, because they were not tapped for Mortar Board.

The Torchbearers Chapter of Mortar Board was founded on this campus in 1931. Mortar Board is a national honorary for senior women, and its qualifications for membership are leadership, scholarship, and service. The pin is a small, black mortar board whose base represents service, whose board represents leadership, and whose golden tassel represents scholarship.

Council Taps New Members

68 Sophomores Chosen By Honorary Wednesday

The 68 new members of Sophomore Council, tapped Wednesday night after second light flash, will be installed at a ceremony this afternoon at 5:30 at the Baptist Student house to be followed by a banquet and a reception given later by the president of College Government Association, Sarah Lewis, in Broward parlor. CGA received the new body at convocation last night when the girls were presented ribbons officially making them the 1946-47 Sophomore Council.

Selection of council members is made each year by a selections committee made up of Executive council, president and vice-president of Young Woman's Christian Association, the incoming second vice-president of CGA, the outgoing chairman of Sophomore Council, and the president of Women's Recreation Association according to Jean Cole, chairman for this year. All girls are investigated and their activities lists are checked in an effort to select the leaders of the sophomore class for their service to the school as well as their scholastic average, which must be at least one point.

Speaker at tonight's installation will be Dr A F Liddell, professor of philosophy, while Miss Katherine Warren, assistant dean of students, is to offer the challenge to the initiates and Sarah is to administer the oath. Dr Doak S Campbell, president, will be the special guest of the council.

The first project for the new council will be tbe annual sophomore-senior breakfast to be held next Saturday morning at which new members will serve and entertain. Graduation and Class Day ushers will be made up of the new council, and seniors are to be serenaded by the council sometime during the last week of school.

Those tapped are Faith Adams, Virginia Anthony, Winifred An-

Continued on page two

Odd Rally Tickets Go on Sale Monday

Tickets will go on sale Monday in lower Westcott for the Odd pep rally and box supper planned for Thursday night. Tickets, which will cost forty cents each, will pay for a box lunch consisting of two sandwiches, relishes and cold drinks, according to members of Spirogira. Ticket sales will continue up until 12 o'clock Thursday.

All Odds will meet at the gymnasium Thursday night and will leave there in a group at 6 o'clock. The rally is to be held in Game's wood, it was announced.

Spirogira "goats" will be in charge of the entertainment which they promise will be a "big surprise."

Classes Elect New Officers For Next Year

Senior Head Is Jean Cole; Fuhrer Leads Juniors; Tuttle Elected

Parmanant Senior Officers Elected at Meeting

Jean Cole, Beth Fuhrer and Pauline Tuttle, next year's senior, junior and sophomore class presidents, respectively, head the list of officers chosen in the class elections Tuesday and Wednesday. From the present senior class comes word that Martha Jane Brown was elected permanent class president and "Dink" Ashton permanent secretary at a senior meeting last week.

Jean Cole triumphed over Nita Nord in the Tuesday primary for the presidency of next year's senior class. Marjory Potter, secretary; Helen Stone, Parliamentarian; and Senators Barbara Irving, Frannie Myers, and Mary Lou Norwood also won their positions in the primaries. In Wednesday's fi-

Continued on page two

Speech Play Begins May 5

"Arms and the Man" Will Be Three-Night Run

Under the direction of Mr W L Dingwell, "Arms and the Man," presented by the speech department, will begin its three-night run Wednesday, May 15, at 8:15 p m. It will be presented May 15, 16 and 17. Tickets will be on sale at the box office May 13 and 14, and preceeding each performaoce.

First produced in 1895, the play by George Bernard Shaw has proved a perennial favorite in England and America. According to the director, it will be presented as the author intended, in a stylized manner without trying to attain modernity.

The plot concerns Raina (Rosemary Fleming), who is engaged to Sergius, (Julian L Branche), a dashing officer in the Bulgarian army. Raina is forced to shelter Bluntschli (Dick Mitchell), a refugee Serbian captain, in her bedroom during a midnight raid, thereby saving his life. Complications arise when Louka (Claire St John), Raina's maid, and Catherine (Corinne Johnston), her mother, discover her secret. Others in the cast are Jack Richey, who portrays Nicola, the head butler, and Leal G Barr who plays the part of Major Petkoff, Raina's father.

Those who helped in the production of the play are: Miss Mary Mooty, technical director; director's assistant, Joy Fleming; business manager, Eugenia Avant; assistant business manager, Mary Jane Inabnit; set designers, Marion Cross, Lillian Brown, and Anita Wilkinson; light crew, Elaine Parramore, Laurie Cason, Kay Moore, Evelyn Badcork, and Gloria Wells; stage crew, Marion Cross, Lillian Brown, Hilda Hood, Sarah Daugherty, Margie Berns, Anita Wilkinson, Mary Ann Cannon; property, Louise Illingsworth, Anita Hebble; costumes, Burma Cox; building crew, stagecraft classes; prompter, Ruth Kennedy; head ushers, Bettye and Bobbye Usher; stage manager, Harriett Dews, assisted by Fay Bars.

Governor Millard F Caldwell and Captain Dorothy Str—on, former commanding officer of the SPARS, are among the speakers at the Alumnae College at FSC this weekend. Captain Stratton will speak at 11:38 tomorrow morning, and Governor Caldwell will be main speaker at the banquet tomorrow night.

Journalists-For-A-Day Cover City Beats in Spite of Rain

Between sipping tea at the Governor's mansion and harrying police department officers, Flambeau reporters discovered the truth contained in Horace Greeley's famous statement: That journalism in the end will kill you; but that while you're at it, you'll really be alive!

Sixteen hours of trackmeets, weddings, accidents, and May Day celebrations resulted in the publication of last Sunday's Daily Democrat. At nine o'clock Saturday morning, Judy Pepper, editor-for-a-day, gave approximately 20 eager reporters their "beats," and watched as they hurried down the stirway onto the city streets to begin the day's adventures.

An urgent call from the chief of police brought Frances Traxler to the scene of an automobile accident at Park and McComb streets. Next, with Chief Prater at the wheel of the police car, she toured the new recreational parks in Tallahassee. For the remainder of the day, the police department was deluged with questions such as "How do you use a blackjack?" and "Who's been arrested lately?" Two of the reporters became absorbed in the fingerprint department and left only after their own grubby prints had been carefully registered.

Rain put the fire department out of action last Saturday, and the reporter assigned this "beat" almost took a holiday.

The sound of trumpets and horses' hoofs startled the busy staff who were nervously bent over teletype machines awaiting late reports on the Alcatraz prison riot. Crowding to the windows, they beheld the Grotto parade led by the Leon School band.

Clothes do not necessarily make the newspaperwoman, for Jean Douglas, attired in a rumpled sports dress and decrepit black moccasions, covered a formal tea given by the first lady of the state. La Ferne Quinn interviewed the Governor's cook and discovered that His Highness' taste in food is very much like that of Florida's commoners.

After the eleven p m deadline, reporters lay back in the revolving chairs and relaxed with coffee and cigarettes. A half dozen of those unaccustomed to such late hours, crept into the Associated Press room and lay down. A loud knock on the door interrupted their sweet dreams and Mr Steve Yates, managing editor of the Daily Democrat, poked his head inside with an, "Oh, thought

Continue on page two

New Flambeau Staff Recently Appointed

Banquet to Be Given Tonight By Outgoing Seniors

Announcement was made this week of the Flambeau staff appointments for the school year 1946-47. The new staff was decided upon by recently-elected editor Shirley Rodgers and her associate editors May Alexander, Betty Dowd, B J McLtod, and Lola Rose.

The retiring seniors are in charge of the annual Flambeau banquet which will be given at the Mecca tonight at 6 orlork. The theme has been kept a secret by Peggy Kaye and Anne Hutton who make up the committee planning for the banquet. Guests will be Mr and Mrs Earl L Vance, Mr and Mrs Herbert Hackett, and Dr and Mrs Harold Richards.

"Due to delays in processing through proper channels, we have been unable to announce the new staff until this issue. However, members of the staff have been working in their respective positions since their election three weeks ago," stated editor Shirley Rodgers.

She announced the staff as follows: associate editors, May Alexander, Betty Dowd, B J McLeod,

Continue on page two

Student Committee Granted Authority

Senate Delegates Power To Formulate Revisions

A student committee, now working with a faculty group on the proposed amendment concerning eligibility of candidates, was granted authority to formulate revisions of certain election procedures at a meeting of senate Monday afternoon in the Longmire auditorium.

Shirley Duggan, speaking on behalf of the committee, stated that progress is being made on the amendment at daily meetings of the student group with the faculty sub-committee appointed by the Faculty Committee on Student Affairs. However, it is felt that changes should be made in other portions of the College Government association constitution and standing rules which pertain to election procedures.

It has also been decided, added Shirley, that any relevant information concerning candidates would preferably be supplied by students rather than by the Dean of Students as provided in the original amendment.

Amendments to the constitution concerning nominations and elections, and membership of House Council and Off-campus Committee, previously proposed by senate, have been approved by College Council and were reported Monday afternoon. These amendments will be voted on by the student body in convocation May 21.

In a proposal for a constitutional amendment to Article XIII on nominations, elections, and appointments, there was added the statement "and must be a resident or living in Tallahassee during the year in which she holds office." The statement referred to the three sections concerning class officers, officers of CGA, WRA, and editors of student publications. The reasons given for the added statement were that students interning away from Tallahassee have caused a turn-over among various offices in all organizations. Therefore it is felt

Continued on page two

Citizens Committee to Survey Educational System in Florida

The Florida Citizens Committee on Education, according to Mr Al B Block, Tallahassee member of the committee, met recently in the House chamber of the Capitol. Securing funds with which to carry out their proposed plans for a comprehensive study of higher education was the major problem before the members at this meeting. It was reported that the necessary money would be provided by the governor, and this enabled the committee for the first time to make definite progress in their research to improve Florida's educational system. This committee will meet regularly until the 1947 session of the state legislature, at which time a report of its findings and conclusions will be presented.

The committee interviewed outstanding men in the respective areas with which it was charged with studying, such as curricula, administration and higher education matters including the subject of co-education at the state institutions. Dr Edgar L Morphet, formerly with the United States department of education, was employed as Executive Secretary of the Citizens Committee. Other technical experts engaged by the committee are: Dean William Taylor of the University of Kentucky, major consultant for higher education: Dr W T Sanger, president of the Medical College of Virginia, for the state medical college phase of inquiry, Dr John E Brewton of George Peabody Teachers' College, in the field of public school instruction; Dr R L Johns, acting superintendent of public instruction, state of Alabama, in the field of public school administration; and Mr Ray Hamon, of the United States office of education, consultant on buildings.

"As a committee of citizens," said Mr Al B Block, Tallahassee member of the committee, "we will make our own decisions on all matters; the experts named above are nothing more or less than technicians from whom to get basic and pertinent data."

The Citizens Committee is composed of 15 members representing a cross section of the state geographically and occnpationally. It was first organized late in 1944 by appointment of the outgoing Gov-

Continued on page two

FSC Receives College Unit Of Red Cross

Program to Be Hold Soon In Longmire Building To Present Charter

Freshman Project Is to Fill Boxes for Overseas

The first Red Cross college unit in Florida and one of the first in the South will be established when a charter is presented to the Florida State College unit at 8 p m, May 16, in the Longmire auditorium.

The program at this time, according to Chairman Barbara Wickham, William D Hopkins, attorney and former chairman of the Tallahassee chapter of the Red Cross. The present chairman of the town branch, H G Hill, will present the charter to the college and Dr Milton Carothers, registrar, will accept for the group.

In connection with the Red Cross on campus, the freshman class has undertaken as its project for the year the filling of 200 boxes to be sent to European youngsters. According to Louise Hutchinson, chairman, the boxes are to be filled with school supplies and new toys. Students are urged to have boxes returned to one of the project committee members by Wednesday at the latest. The committee includes Marie Moe, Amante Semmes, Priscilla Carter, Ann Teague, Marilyn Bassett, Virginia Allen, Sally Slater, Joyce Williams, Shirley Longino, Margaret Marshall, Martha Jane Bird, Lucy Stapleton, Betty Calhoun, Jannell Knight, Rovena Hutchinson, Mary Ellen Luther, Margaret Graydon, Pete Dey, Ruth Olsen, Mary Louise Smith, Dorothy Martin, Catherine Stanford, and Francis Stulck.

Volunteers Needed

There are 170 such Red Cross college units in the United States in which studants obtain useful experience which can be carried into active community life. Volunteers from the student body are needed for committees on Disaster Preparedness and Home Service.

A booth will be set up in Westcott and on May 21 and 22 for students wishing to further the college woman's part in Red Cross activity to sign up. The committee on disaster is part of a preparedness program in the event of such emergencies as fiers or hurricanes so that workers will be ready to give adequate warning to meet the situation. Subcommittees will be set up from which the students may choose, such as transportation, communication, medical and nursing aid, registration and information, clothing, shelter and public information. The home service in turn will act in referring veterans to the Red Cross chapter in Tallahassee for assistance.

Two State Meetings Held Here in June

During the week between the close of the spring quarter and the opening of the summer session, two groups will hold state-wide conferences on the Florida State College campus, according to President Doak S Campbell.

The State Congress of Parents and Teachers is resuming its annual institute which was discontinued during the war. Approximately 500 officers and members from all parts of the state will be guests on the campus from June 11 through June 14.

The Annual 4-H Club short course will begin Monday night June 10 and will last until Friday morning, June 14. Approximately 500 girls from clubs representing every county in the state are expecled to attend. This course is under the direction of Miss Mary Keown, head of state home demonstration work.

Soph-Sr Breakfast To Be Held May 18

The annual Sophomore-Senior breakfast will take place Saturday, May 18, at 7:30 a m in the East dining hall. All sophomores and seniors are invited.

A skit will be presented under the direction of Ann Fielding, Franklin Smith and Jimmy Rogers. Sophomore council girls, under direction of Iris Parsons, will serve for this occasion.

Betty LaBree is chairman of the decorations committee, Yolando Arias, of invitations committee; Audry Evans, of census committee, and Yvonne Boatright and Jackie Magee are co-chairmen of the publicity committee.

Stratton To Speak On Higher Education Before Session Of Alumnae Convention Saturday

Former Director of SPARS and Governor Caldwell Be Featured at First Meeting of FSC Graduates in Four Years

Governor Millard F Caldwell and Captain Dorothy C Stratton, former director of the SPARS, will be among the speakers at a general meeting of Florida State College alumnae of campus today and tomorrow. "The Future of Higher Education," will be the theme of the opening session of this two-day gathering, which is the Florida State College alumnae college held since before the war, according to Miss Louise Gehan, alumnae secretary.

Miss Stratton is now special assistant in the Retaining and Reemployment Administration of the United States Department of Labor in Washington. She is on leave of absence from Purdue University, where she is Dean of Women and professor of psychology. Her address during the 10 o'clock session Saturday morning will follow the general theme of the meeting, "The Future of Higher Education." Students are invited to attend all speeches Saturday morning, according to Miss Gehan.

Other speakers who will participate in the discussions of "Higher Education in Florida" at the session include, Dr Colin English, state superintendent of public instruction; Richard H Simpson, vice-president of the Citizens' Committee on Education; and Dr Doak S Campbell, president of FSC.

The out-of-town alumnae will register today from 4 to 9 p m today in Landis parlor and the town alumnae, at the alumnae office. At 6:30 a dinner honoring alumnae of the classes of 1891 to 1905 will be given with Dr and Mrs Campbell acting as hosts. Today's activities will end with an alumnae "Get Togethar" in Landis parlor from 9 to 11 a m.

Registration will continue tomorrow from 8:30 on in the Longmire building. In addition to the 10 o'clock session, presided over by Miss Katherine Warren, there will be an address at 11:30 by Captain Stratton entitled "Women After tha War" over which Mrs J Velma Keen will preside. Luncheon will then be served in the lower west dining hall at 12:30.

The afternoon activities begin with a business meeting of tha FSC Alumnae Association at 2:30, from 5 to 6 o'clock informal class re-unions, and an informal dinner at 6:30 in the East Dining hall with the Honorable Millard Caldwell as guest speaker. The Alumnae College will end with an informal alumnae-faculty reception from 9 until 11 p m in tha Longmire building.

Mortar Board members will entertain Captain Stratton, with a breakfast Saturday morning at 8:30 at the home of Dr and Mrs Harold F Richards.

More than 7,500 alumnae in all parts of the world have been invited by mail to attend this postwar gathering and housing on the campus will be arranged, said Mrs Gehan.

Students Hear Sir Berendsen

New Zealand Minister To US Speaks of UNO

Sir Carl Berendsen, New Zealand minister to the United States, speaking before the students of Florida State College, said that "all small nations were opposed to the veto power exercised by the great powers. We've got an organization which cannot operate against a great power or a small power supported by a great power."

In commenting on the world situation, Sir Carl said that it can only be improved if we are willing to lower our standards and make sacrifices in order that others might have more. "In the long run, if we don't give, we'll have to fight."

The theory that we cannot prevent war unless we are willing to go to war to preserve our principles is, to Sir Carl, an atrocious paradoxy.

Speaking of his own country, the New Zealand diplomat declared that its position is exactly the same as the United States. Its tools may be different, its road less sensational, but the country is as democratic. New Zealand's strategic position prompted Sir Carl's statement that he feared American interests in the Pacific "may turn out to be a temporary hobby." In citing the importance of the Pacific, he stated that over half the world's population is centered in this area. "You have one billion people living restricted, under-privileged lives cheek by jowl with a handful of Occidentals." Using Japan specifically, he asserted the Nipponese elections

Continue on page two

Registrar Releases List of Honor Girls

37 Students Make A Averages During Second Quarter

The names of 37 girls who made three point averages during the second quarter were released this week by Dr Milton Carothers, registrar. A list of 31 girls making A averages during the first quarter was also revealed at this time.

Those making a three point average for the second quarter 1945-46 are: Lillian E Ardd, L Helen Atwaler, Lenore Bergida, Danna L Bridges, Theo V Brown, Marjorie L Browne, Elinor Chisholm, Virginia D Collins, Norma V Cuerva, Jean Ann Daly, Eileen G Davis, Ruth Dismore, Hilda Dodson, Margaret Ann Duager, Lura Elizabeth Evans, Lucille M Feiden.

Marie L Garcia, Emma Jean Hackle, Mary F Hall, Anne B Hunter, Barbara Irvin, Ellen H Koenitzer, Juanita R Krentzman, Mary E Marshall, Valda Colleen Mock, Emma Mae Murray, Martha L Powers, Frances Proctor, Joan Shanor, Annie Lois Smith, Doris C Stewart, Mary Evelyn Stuckey, Peggy Lou Thomas, Mildred Ann Turner, Ina Weinberger, Naomi Williams and Gladys Young.

The following students made a three point average for the first quarter: Betty Mae Bell, Dorothy M Binger, Martha Jane Brown, Theo Vera Brown, Elinor C Chisholm, Hilda Dodson, Lucille M Feiden, Carolyn Flewellen, Emma Jean Hackle, Mercedes Hernandez, Ellen H Koenitzer, Mary C Langston, Myrtice Clarice Langston.

Lola Lastra, Eleanor C Law, Mrs Eloise Goulding Levy, Maureen F Macy, Mary E Marshall, Valda Colleen Mork, Margaret L McCain, Jessie R McCalla, Harriette Martin McCarter, Gladys Ruth Novack, Carolyn Oxford, Mildred Louise Parrish, Martha L Powers, Esther Johanne Rasmussen, Annie L Smith, Melpomene J Smitzes, Ruth M Bturrock and Helen V Tarpani.

Campbell Returns

Dr Doak S Campbell, college president, returned Sunday from a meeting of the American Council on Education in Chicago. Dr Campbell has served three years on the executive committee of the council. Principal attention at the meeting was given to the critical shortage of teachers and to the educational program for returned veterans.

YWCA Will Serve Alumnae Breakfast

The Young Women's Christian Association is giving a breakfast Sunday at 8:30 in Landis recreation room for visiting alumnae who are attending the alumnae college this weekend.

All the arrangements for this occassion are under the direction of Marion Hill.

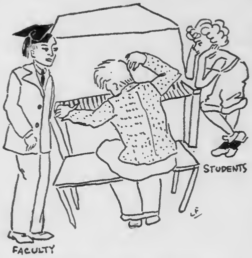
Other current activities of the Y include the sending of letters throughout the state to interested persons explaining the program of the Y and asking for contributions for the fund to secure a professional Y worker on campus next year.

Dixie Kennedy, finance chairman, asks all members to come to Y room this afternoon and tomorrow afternoon to help fold and address these letters.

At the Y Cabinet meeting last Tuesday night Beverly Frank was elected committee chairman for this planning of the National Intercollegiate Christian Council. This National Assembly will be held during the Christmas holidays in St Louis.

Also Dixie Kennedy, vice-president, was nominated as the Florida State College nominee for the Southern Regional Council Ballot of Student Christian Groups. These nominees will be voted on as officers at the Regional Summer Conference at Camp Highland Lake, North Carolina on June 2-8.

SPIRIT OF THE WEEK



MUSIC WEEK, BUT WHERE'S THE HARMONY?

HONORS?

On our campus, we have several white-skirted organizations which, from time to time, select fellow students to become members of their group. Some of these selections are primarily based on leadership, scholarship and service. We are proud of our leaders. We are proud of our scholars. We are proud of those who serve. We are glad to give recognition to students who are outstanding in these qualities.

Those who lead because they are capable, those who study because they want to learn, and those who serve because they want to be helpful are an asset to any community. These people deserve to be recognized.

It is possible, however, that there are those who lead, study, and serve for the sole purpose of attaining recognition. These people deserve to be pitied. When people place hope of recognition above work for its own sake in their set of values, it would seem they had lost the very essence of desire for progress.

It is tragic that these people (whom we hope are very few) cannot be distinguished from the deserving by means of tangible outward evidences. It is quite possible that their leadership, scholarship and service records might be even higher than the records of those who exert themselves for the sake of the task itself. Thus, from tangible outward evidences the "recognition seekers" are as deserving as those for whom the recognition was meant.

Those who select apparently are aware of this unfortunate circumstance. It is believed that the selectors sincerely try to determine fairly which students are most worthy among those who have the tangible qualifications. It is commonly believed that all who have leadership ability, necessary grades, and evidence of service cannot be accepted to the select group. It is fairly commonly believed that some who have these tangible qualifications were prompted by ambition for honor and recognition.

When the group must be restricted, it seems logical to assume that the selectors will try to exclude those whose ambitions turn toward recognition. The word "try" is used because the writer believes that it is almost impossible to put one's finger on a person "whose ambitions turn toward recognition." Most of us feel sure there are such people, but it must be recognized that there is seldom, if ever, any sure way of detecting them.

The exclusion of students on the assumption that their ambitions are misdirected is only the first step. If further exclusion is necessary to comply with the rules of the organization, further abstract guiding posts are set up to help the group make "fair" choices.

Such qualities as interest, attitude, and willingness to co-operate often become determining factors in the choice. The selectors sincerely try to make sound judgments on the basis of these abstract qualities. Trying to determine a girl'a worthiness by means of such words might be likened to trying to reach the moon by following guide posts in the ether. The words or the guide posts have no value because there is no solid ground for the traveler.

Leadership, scholarship, and service may be measured by actual records of the student's activity. Interest, attitude, and willingness to co-operate are measured primarily by opinion. Unlike fact, opinion may vary from person to person and from time to time. When this unsteady and fluctuating opinion is picked up at a particular time and used as a factor in choosing students worthy of laurels, it seems possible that the laurels themselves might become a little unsteady. If one cannot be sure the honors were awarded to worthy recipients on sound basis, one might begin to doubt the worth of the honors themselves.

If we deem it necessary to our culture to make these group selections periodically, it seems that we should at least try to preserve respect for the group and its actions.

If selections for membership were made on the basis of only tangible qualifications which any student might check, there could be no question or heartbreak as a result of the choices. Respect for the organization would not be endangered because students at large would be able to understand all reasons for choices.

It is true that by omitting abstract qualifications, the group risks admitting some of the abstract "recognition seekers." It is believed, however, that the number of actual people found in this category would be few and that they would be a much smaller menace to the organizations than the host of abstractions with which the groups now encumber themselves.

THE WEE VOICE

". . . . by the voice of the majority of the student body."

These words were solemnly repeated by each new CGA officer as she was installed in the traditional candelit ceremony last night in Westcott auditorium.

We do not question the impressiveness of the installation program, but is it not carrying tradition too far when the above excerpt from the oath of office is continually repeated?

To freshen the memories of those who have forgotten, approximately three weeks ago student elections were held on this campus prior to which time a minor revolution was staged against our oligarchic type of government. At polling time, slightly over one-fifth of the student body saw fit to participate in the unpopular elections. Our officers were elected, however, and last night they were installed.

Since, as each girl stated, she is truly representative of "the majority of the student body," is it not significant that approximately one-hundred of that "student body" was interested enough to see their new officers take the oath of office?

How can it be said that our officers were elected by the voice of the majority when there the majority did not vote? Why should we carry tradition so far that we misrepresent facts?

OPPORTUNITY KNOCKS

We as students often complain that we do not have enough opportunity while in school to prepare ourselves for actual community life. We now have such an opportunity presented to us and it is up to us to take advantage of it.

A college unit of the American Red Cross has been established on campus, receiving its charter this week from Washington, D C. Since this is the first such unit in the state of Florida and since we will serve as an example for the rest of the colleges and universities in Florida, it is nothing but the duty of the students here to achieve something really worthwhile in this field of work.

Volunteers will be called for to carry out the various programs of the unit such as disaster relief, nutrition, public information, water safety and first aid. There will be ample work for all to take part in and all types of interests and abilities can be used.

Here is not only a chance for a working body such as this to grow and function to its fullest on campus, but it also provides close association and thus training in this particular field to help cope with problems of the sort in post-college life. The Red Cross is a great working body which gives aid and relief to thousands; which is the soothing ointment for the sick and needy. Here is a chance to participate not only as an economic contributor but as an individual worker in your chapter at FSC with a personal rather than impersonal affiliation. YOU can be the pioneers of what is one of the most worthy causes that the outside world has, and of what can grow to be an identical one on campus.

When the formal presentation of the FSC Red Cross chapter takes place on the sixteenth of this month we should see immediately an obligation to cooperate to the fullest extent in making a success of this program which is being initiated to the students.

We've Been Asked To Tell Ya' . . .

(Editor's note: After much hair-pulling and brow-furrowing and no end af consternation as to deciding what announcements should go where, we have decided to make a standing column of notices which will become a regular feature of the Flambeau. So for news of coming events, consult the WE'VE BEEN ASKED TO TELL YA' . . .

Camp Reservations

In order to eliminate in part the endless standing in line by representatives of various organisations to sign up for Camp, the administration committee for Camp Flastocowo is attempting to make a camp calendar for campus organizations. In making this calendar, some camp facilities and time are being reserved for non-organization parties which will sign up in the usual way.

Each organization wishing to use camp for a Friday or Saturday overnight party during any quarter of the 1946-47 school year must submit a first, second, and third choice of dates by Monday, May 20, through campus mail to Miss Matilda Willibrand, camp director. Because of the great number of organizations and the limited number of weekends, no assurance can be given any organization that its particular choice of date can be respected. This is an experiment.

Art Pick-up

All art work entered in the Creative Arts contest may be picked up on the fourth floor of the Longmire building between 3 and 6 p m on Monday, May 13, according to Miss Helen Haughton, assistant professor of art.

Seniors Will??

Time for the drawing up of the senior will is now at hand. A box has been placed in lower Westcott for all contributions. Seniors are reminded that they may will anything to anyone. All wills must be in by Saturday, May 15.

Breakfast Date

Sophomores and seniors who plan to attend Sophomore-Senior breakfast and have not yet signed to that effect, please see Audrey Evans today.

Retailing Interviews

Mr Hiram Cannon, general superintendent of Furchgott's department store in Jacksonville, will be in the Personnel Office for interviews on Wednesday, May 15. Seniors interested in the training program may make appointments for conferences; also other students definitely interested in retailing as a career might be interested in work this summer.

Construction Approved

The Civilian Production Administration's Jacksonville advisory council committee has approved the construction of the $723,000 dormitory at Florida State College. This was the only barrier in the construction, according to Dr Doak S Campbell, president.

Next Year's Senior Hall

All girls who expect to be senior hall residents next year are requested to meet in the recreation room of Landis hall Tuesday night at 7:30. A nominating committee to elect hall officers for next year will be chosen at this meeting.

Minstrel Pictures

The pictures taken of Junior Minstrels will be placed on the bulletin board in lower Westcott. If anyone would like to have prints of the pictures, enclose the numbers of the prints and the number wanted together with ten cents for each print and mail to Betty Jo McLeod, box 674.

Bulletin Correction

The courses listed in the summer school bulletin give credit value in quarter hours instead of semester hours as stated, announced Dr Milton W Carothers, registrar.

Art Judge

We would like to make a correction in last week's Creative Arts story. Mr Van Ferguson judged the art division rather than Dr Katherine Montgomery as so stated. So solly, please.

At a meeting of Senior hall Tuesday evening Miss Olivia N Dorman, dean of students, spoke briefly on the growth of Senior hall

In This Our Time . . .

National Affairs:

The rationing of manufactured gas plus the restoration of the wartime dimout in 22 Eastern and Midwestern states, for the duration of the coal strike, has been approved by the government. This plan, drafted by the Civilian Production administration, brought home to the public at large the full importance of the mine strike which has been in progress for the past 38 days. Throughout the country, gas companies were authorized to cut down on household use.

More than half of the South's 700 textile mills will be forced to close within 30 days as a result of the coal strike. Many have already stopped work, and W P Jacobs, president of the American Cotton Manufactures association, announced that if some agreement were not reached soon, that every mill in the South would be forced to discontinue operations.

A request made by Illinois coal miners Wednesday to use electricity last night for a bingo party was turned down by Commissioner Harry B Luers of the Springfield municipal electric plant.

Foreign Affairs:

The Senate rejected an amendment which would have required Great Britain to give the United States outright ownership of leased Atlantic bases in return for credit, Wednesday by a 45 to 40 vote. This was the first major test of the $3,750,000 British Loan agreement. Administration leaders believed that this victory will insure ultimate approval of the grant, without restrictions.

The United Nations Security Council was "snubbed" by Soviet Russia on two counts of the Iranian issue Wednesday, for Soviet's Delegate Andrei A Gromyko was absent from the meeting. Sir Alexander Cadogan, Great Britain's delegate characterized this absence as "an evasion of responsibility or obligation". Australia's representative, Paul Hasluck, demanded clarification on the action to be taken when a member absents himself from such a delegation. A resolution by Edward R Stettinius, jr, United States delegate, was adopted by the council calling on Iran to report on withdrawal of Russian troops from that country by, May 20, if not sooner. On April 4, the council requested that Russia make a similar report by May 6. However, Russia's delegate was not present at the council when this request was made

New Flambeau

Continued from Page One

Lola Rose; managing editor, Joyce Petty; assistant managing editor, Barbara Farrar; news editors, Laura Lee Butler and Jean Douglas; copy editor, Winifred Lane; assistant copy editors, Eleanor Bayer, Jean Bess and Kay van Deurs; society editor, Barbara Langford; feature editors, Alicia Armstorng and Jacqueline Nevers; sports editor, Evelyn Shea; outside news editor, Marjoria Clark, opinion editors, Jo Dunagan and June Grindstaff; headline editors, M J Sherman and Virginia Budd; columnists, Beryl Kitchen and "Sharpie"; picture editor, Paulette Blank; and art editor, Jean Sharer.

The business staff consists of Vivian Scheaffer, business manager; Sally Watson, assistant business manager; Kitty Chaires, advertising manager; Dorothy Bloodworth, assistant advertising manager, Nancy Stevens, Ann Furlong, and Jean Lieberman, advertising staff, and Terry Sellers, Gladys Clarke, and Marjorie Burns, circulation staff.

Thirty-three freshman reporters have also been added to the working staff of the Flambeau. They are: Dorothy Aberle, Jeanne Bagley, Bobbye Bradley, Barbara Brown, Francine Dunning, Jeanna DuPree, Ann Furlong, Margaret Graydon, Idana Griffith, Jane Hardacre, Jeani Harris, Frances Hull, Tobi Jacobskind, Jean Law, Jean Lord, Lei Marshall, Anne Moore, Anna Lee Moss, Cheryl Muster, Melba McElvain, Edna Pope, Janice Richey, Rita Silverman, Harriet Simmons, Pat Small, Emma Jean Smith, Margaret Smith, Nancy Stevens, Marilyn Till, Ann Tucker, Frances Wesson and Joanne Zewadski.

Students Hear

Continued from page one

"were held too soon. The result has been, as everyone can see, that the old reactionary parties have returned to power." If troops are taken out too soon, the government may revert to its old status. Sir Carl advocates a minimum occupation period of twenty years, during which time all nations make a sincere, earnest effort to improve the world's chaotic condition. "Peace is within man's grasp if man will but grasp it."

Sir Carl has had lengthy and intimate experience with New Zealand's foreign policies. Since 1928 he has attended all Imperial Conferences and, on a number of occasions, the League of Nations Assembly. Appointed New Zealand High Commissioner to Australia in 1943, he remained at that post until the spring of 1944 when he was appointed to Washington. During the minister's visit to Tallahassee, he and his wife were guests of Governor Millard F Caldwell at a dinner.

Citizens

Continued from page one

ernor Holland, the incoming Governor Caldwell and Superintendent of Public Instruction Colin English. In contrast to the committee which worked on Florida's educational problems in 1929, the present group is not confining its study to research done by experts outside of the state, but is stimulating local interest and participation. A guidebook, entitled "Guides for County and Local Studies of Education in Florida," has been provided to assist lay and educational groups in planning and carrying out studies in the counties and individual schools. A questionnaire has been sent to newspaper editors and high school principals throughout the state in order to get their opinion on various topics which the committee plans to consider.

Mr Block said that the committee members are sincerely devoted to improving education in Florida and will welcome suggestions from any interested sources. He said that to many of them, as to him, "education is the most vital area of society, especially in a democracy where the citizen is expected to participate in government."

Gala Concert

Continued from page one

"Irish Tune from County Derry," arranged by Percy Grainger and will be presented by the college glee club, band and orchestra with Grainger conducting.

Grainger Concerts

Other activities of Music Week on campus included concerts presented by Percy Grainger Monday and Tuesday evenings and a School of Music dinner given last night in the east dining hall, at which time Mr Fickenscher was guest speaker.

Selections from Chopin and Bach were featured during Mr Grainger's evening concerts. He began his first selection, "Fantasia and Fugue for organ, G minor" by Bach-Liszt. The next composition he played, "Sonata, B minor, op 58" by Chopin which included "Allegro, maestro," "Scherzo: molto vivace," "Largo," "Finale: Presto no tanto." Before he began Mr Grainger gave a short sketch of Chopin, and the work in particular. As an encore to the works of Chopin, Mr Grainger played the "Polonaise in A Flat."

The next group of selections on his program included: "Ballade, F minor, op 48, No 3," "Intermezzo, E major, op 116, No 6," "Rhapsody, F minor, op 79, No 2," "Romance, F major, op 118, No 5," and "Rhapsody, B flat major, op 119, No 4," all by Brahms. Mr Grainger, lectured brefly concerning these numbers also. An encore for this section was Mr Grainger's arrangement of an old Irish tune, "Danny Boy."

The fourth and final division of selections on his program included a Gershwin tune, "Love Walked In," arranged by Mr Grainger and "Islamay," an Oriental phantasy by Balakirev.

Mr Grainger concluded his performance with two encores: "Nola" and "Country Gardens," one of his own compositions.

His Tuesday night performance varied slightly from that of Monday night. For two of his encores he played: "The Man I Love" by Gershwin and "Springtime" by Grieg.

Last Sunday afternoon, at the opening of Music Week, the FSC symphonic band presented a semi-classical program. The concert was originally planned to be held outdoors on the Westcott terrace, but due to rain was held in the college auditorium.

Journalists

Continued from page one

I could catch a few winks of sleep in here, but I guess I'm wrong!"

As the zero drew near, reporter's rubbed their baggy eyes and harkened to catch the first sound of the rolling presses. At the first audible rumble, the entire staff dashed through the composing room down a steep flight of stairs to the press room below. Gazing with open eyes at the big machines they proudly watched their "baby" roll off the press. A mad scramble to get paper number one followed. But every slave to the Fourth Estate was awarded her individual copy plus funnies.

Having dragged themselves back to Bryan hall, each haggard newshound tumbled into bed after carefully reading the printed product of her day's labor.

Council Taps New

Continued from Page One

thony, Camille Batten, Laura Bentley, Mary Ann Berry, Martha Jane Bird, Margaret Ann Blocker, Norma Elaine Brown, Mary Calley, Ann Baxley Carter, Hester Chazal, Gladys Clark, Hazel Clarkson, Katherine Cooper, Patsy Crosby, Jean Ann Daly, Phyllis DeKalb, Pat Dillard, Jeanne DuPree, Rosemary Fleming, Margaret Flynn, Jean Furman, Catherine Gallagher, Virginia Goodell, Betty Green, Mae Gwynn, Lucille Harding, Shirley Hargraves, Joy Harper, Marjorie Headley, Tobie Jacobskind, Nancy Jones, Ann Cooper Knight, Ellen Koenitzer, Nancy Lefholz, Jane Carol Levy, Helen Looby, Betty Loy, Margery Mallard, Dorothy Martin, Cynthia Merrin, Esther Miller, Valda Mock, Mary Cathtrine Moody, Betty Nelson, Jane Nightingale, Marjorie Norris, Betty Jeanne Phillips.

Gwendolyn Ramage, Esther Rasmussen, Fern Meta Roberts, Ann Seaward, Renee Pauline Settle, Marie Louise Shonter, Sally Slater, Artemis Skevakis, Pat Small, Joyce Stroberg, Margaret Swanson, Virginia Swicord, Pauline Tuttle, Violet Walters, Sarah Lou Wells, Joyce Williams, Clair Virginia Wilson, Pat Yates, and Joanne Zawadski.

Classes Elect

Continued from Page One

nal elections Sarah Ellen Glenn defeated Barbara Wickham to become vice-president; Betty Redd was elected treasurer over Nita Bowles; Betty Donnally won over Mary Nell Goldman as senior athletic manager; Bo Peep Shell and Cora Lea Wells defeated Ann Colvin and Martha Abbott as senators; Nancy Wright became chairman of Odd Demonstration and Mary Groover Holland became chairman of May Day.

Primary results showed Jo Long next year's junior class secretary; Amelia Pavese, Athletic Manager; Teddy Hamlin, Junior-Senior Prom chairman; Georgia Jaeckel, Even Demonstration chairman and Carol Claus, Doris DuBois, Janice Richey, and Connie Savage, junior senators. Wednesday's final balloting placed Beth Fuhrer in office as president over Betty Kennedy, her opponent in the finals; "Pep" Stanaland defeated Iris Parsons to become vice-president; Jeanne Oldfather won over Ann Allen as treasurer; Judy Rhodes was elected parliamentarian over Eugenia Booth; Jean Sharer defeated Franklin Smith as Junior Minstrels chairman; and Ann Singleton was chosen over Janet Robertson for the remaining senate seat.

Pauline Tuttle, re-elected class president, was the only sophomore candidate to win her position in Tuesday's primaries. Final results showed Jane Nightingale to be the new sophomore vice-president, defeating her opponent Marjorie Mallard; Mary Catherine Moody was elected treasurer over Betty Loy. Mary Ann Berry became secretary by defeating Ellen Koenitser. "Sis" Miller won over Lucy Harding to become Athletic Manager; Pat Yates over Ann Knight to become Parliamentarian, Patsy Crosby over Art Skevakis as chairman of Sophomore Hop and Betty Dixon over Clara Jane Carroll as chairman of next year's sophomore senior breakfast. Pat Dillard, Ann Seward, Esther Rasmussen, and Winifred and Virginia Antho defeated Martha Jane Bird, A Carter, Jean Furman, Kather Cooper, and Valda Mock as soph more senators.

Pool Needs Snails

Snails are needed for the fish pool in front of Westcott, Mr J A Croft, landscape gardener at Florida State College, reported this week. Approximately a thousand are needed, he said, and students are asked to look for them at Wakulla, camp and similar places.

Ashton Chosen Queen of May

Court Revealed in Annual Festival Saturday

Maurine "Dink" Ashton was crowned Queen of the May in the annual May Day festival last Saturday afternoon in the Florida State College gymnasium. The May festival was scheduled to be held on the archery green but these plans were cancelled at the last minute because of rain.

The queen's court included Lillian Ergle, Juna McCurdy, Pattie Lou Hill, Jane Waldo, Stella Barrineou, Martha Jane Brown, Corinne Johnston, Betty Ann Shiver, Trigg Thompson, Betty Jean Welles, Margaret Baugh and Bonnie Hunt. The identity of the queen and her court was kept secret until their appearance.

The festival was built around a theme involving princesses of the four seasons. It included interpretative dances in which the princess of summer, Sarah Jane McKelvy, the princess of autumn, Janie Redfearn, and the princess of winter, Esther Kerr, were presented before the princess of spring, "Dink," appeared to be crowned queen of the year. Bopie Whitaker and Yvonne Boatwright were the court jesters who presented the queen.

The May Day dance was held Saturday night in the gymnasium. The May Queen was again presented, this time by Dr Claude R Flory, professor of English.

June McCurdy was in charge of the afternoon festivities and Yaobel Dupree supervised for the formal dance.

Student Committee

Continued from page one

necessary that a student be living on campus or in Tallahassee to hold office.

The recommendation that the social chairman of residence halls be added in the list of membership of House Council, since that has been the practice for several years, was proposed for an amendment to Article V, Section 7, of the constitution.

Last sentences on Article V, Section 5, which may be referred to on page 17 of the handbook, will be changed to include the following as members of the off-campus committee: (1) a chairman, (2) all house chairmen of sorority houses, and (3) one or more representatives of students living in private homes but who are under college jurisdiction. Students living in private homes mus have one representative for eac twenty-five girls or fraction thereof, and not more than one representative shall come from eac home.

Article V, Section 6, on page 1 of the Handbook, shall be change to read, "the residence halls com mittees shall deal with the infrac tions of minor rules and aid solving the problems of studen living in the residence halls, sorority houses, and in privat homes where students are unde college juradiction.

The complete draft of the ne amendments is posted on the CG bulletin board in Westcott. A students are urged to read them questions concerning these amend ments should be discussed wi the chairman of student senate

Also at this time, Mary Ru Goulde was elected by senate house vice-president of Landis f the remainder of the school ye

The Florida Flambeau

1946-1947 STAFF
EDITORIAL STAFF

SHIRLEY RODGERS ___ E
MAY ALEXANDER, BETTY DOWD, S J McLEOD, LOLA ROSE ___ Associate E
JOYCE PETTY ___ Managing E
BARBARA FARRAR ___ Assistant Managing E
LAURA LEE BUTLER, JEAN DOUGLAS ___ News Ed

Copy Editor ___ Winifred
Assistant Copy Editors ___ Eleanor Bayer, Jean Bess, Kay van Society Editor ___ Barbara La
Feature Editors ___ Alicia Armstrong, Jacqueline N
Sports Editor ___ Evelyn
Outside News Editor ___ Marjorie C
Opinion Editors ___ Jo Dunagan, June Grind
Headline Editor ___ M J Sherman, Virginia
Columnists ___ Beryl Kitchen, "Sha
Picture Editor ___ Paulette B
Art Editor ___ Jean S
REPORTERS: Dorothy Aberle, Ines Augustine, Jeanne Bagley, Bobbye Bra
Barbara Brown, Francine Dunning, Jeanne DuPree, Ann Furlong, Margaret G don, Idana Griffith, Jane Hardacre, Jeani Harris, Frances Hull, Tobi Jacob Jean Law, Jean Lord, Lei Marshall, Anne Moore, Anna Lee Moss, Cheryl M
Melba McElvain, Edna Pope, Janice Richey, Rita Silverman, Harriet Simmons
Small, Emma Jean Smith, Margaret Smith, Nancy Stevens, Marilyn Till, Tucker, Frances Wesson and Joanne Zewadski.

BUSINESS STAFF

Vivian Scheaffer ___ Business Ma
Sally Watson ___ Assistant Business Ma
Kitty Chaires ___ Advertising Ma
Dorothy Bloodworth ___ Assistant Advertising Ma
Nancy Stevens, Ann Furlong, Jean Lieberman ___ Advertis
Terry Sellers, Gladys Clarke, Marjorie Burns ___ Circ

Entered as second class mail matter January 30, 1919, at the post at Tallahassee, Fla., under the act of Congress of March 3, 1879

Member
Intercollegiate Press

It is the policy of the Flambeau to grant equal space and prominen to anyone wishing to present a contrary opinion whenever opinions controversial questions are voiced in its columns.

Athlete's Feats

Evelyn Shea

By the time that this column appears next week, most the Odd-Even games will be history and just a matter of ts and figures. However, with the softball class game yed yesterday and the one to be played Tuesday, the ndstand generals will have ample time to scout the poten- l Odd and Even softball teams and place their bets.

Yesterday the first of the softball games was played h the freshmen and juniors handing the soph-senior com- ation a 2-0 drubbing. After a second inning splurge in ch BETTY SCHWARTZ and SHIRLEY PALMER scored runs the game turned into a pitcher's duel between Bopie itaker for the Evens and Shirley Palmer and Sis Miller the Odds.

Frankie Hall, Even leader, quipped after the game that asn't any particular thing wrong with the Soph-Senior m except the Odd pitchers, who allowed only one hit one walk throughout the game.

These freshmen pitchers certainly look like promising erial for the Odds and spell trouble for the Evens in the e to come.

DID YA' KNOW . . . .

That all students are invited to the Recreation Institute ing here today and tomorrow . . . that Miss Ver Hoeven's ery class is going to enter the Telegraphic Archery meet s after next . . . that Tarpon Club and the Life Saving are revising their constitutions . . . that there's to be uare dance in front of the dining hall Tuesday, fiddle all . . .

PREDICT . . . .

As Odd-Even games roll around once again, your prog- icator is sticking her neck out and taking guesses as to possible winners of next week's encounters.

In the tennis matches, we find that both teams are well ed. There are a number of outstanding players on both however, a tie is impossible so we believe when the ball is put away that the Evens will be on top . . .

On the softball front, the Odds look like a good choice f the Evens can conquer "Sis" Miller and Shirley Palm- fast balls, they may win . . .

As to the badminton games, the teams here are well ched also. We won't venture a guess as to the winner but victorious side will not win by a walk-away.

This is all for now fellas but we'll see you out at the es next week and may the best teams win.

Your Gal Sharpie

By Sharpie

Ms Sharpie, I have a prob- . It seems that one can't nywhere on this honorable estimable campus without the ire of the most high. Why Why can't a girl hold wn opinions and not be cen- ed because of them? Does thing come from rubbing the r the right way? It looks way and it doesn't seem fair Does it to you? A wrong- rubber . . . ."

wrong-way-rubber, by all s and no, of course not. The e comes from a few people Yutang who say, "There ce one must be willing to truth; whatever the conse- ces let us have it." Poor y-way-rubber.

arpie, is over half the stu- ody always gonna be gov- by the votes of less than from now on? Is the student ing to continue to sit on mples, or are we gonna do thing, and quick? As it less than half the stu- were in favor of the new Government Association and now less than half unior and senior classes chosen their class officers. is be done? Signed; I don't parently this faithful cor- ent hadn't been to the sun-set, "funeral- installation of officers. didn't go, either, but ac- to a wire that just came what-wires-come-off-of, ficers said in their oaths of that they had been elected majority of the students. yeawck! If this ain't a I ain't your gal Sharpie. many complaints come about ading system that Sharpie gnores them as common ge, but this week an un- mbination of letters came. fore Sharpie got the word e trap that has been set any freshmen who may cheat on their research a letter came questioning ethods of the teachers. It mething like this:

r Sharpie, again we on are faced with a situation for some time has been ed about but never thrash- in the open. Recently an experiment on a small scale was conducted by several students to find out whether the rumor that they had heard was true. It seemed that the teachers graded on past scholastic record rather than on actual work being done, they had heard. Their findings were that A and B work of students with high grades in the past, according to one teacher, when handed in by a lower scholastically standing student was graded as low as D and F anonymous, of course."

Sharpie is blushing. Isn't this embarrassing?

What went before this paragraph was censored but here is the answer:

Sharpie says that everything is relative. Consider the accident rate of the coal miners. One out of every four West Virginia miners suffered an accident in the pits with an average disability period of forty days.

"Why was I tapped for Sophomore Council?" another voice cries out. "Some of my un-tapped friends, Sharpie, have done everything I have done and even more. I know they had their grades; I know they have worked feverishly all the year long. Why weren't they tapped, too, or instead? They are popular among our classmates."

Be consoled by the last letter.

Dear Sharpie II, I would like to congratulate all of the freshmen who did not make the dubious honor of sophomore council. Will you do this for me? Those who were chosen should be highly insulted as it appears that anyone with ideas of her own was not "picked". The freshmen have a right to see the results of their voting. They would not be surprised, I think, to discover that the girls they picked as their leaders were not selected by the "select" committee. Such undemocratic procedures are not uncommon on our campus but it must be a shock to freshmen to feel the effects so early in their stay here. For this reason, I know that you will congratulate those freshmen who did not make the council—not those who just were not interested in campus affairs—but those who were obviously ommitted for doing their own thinking and acting accordingly. Thank you. Sharpie I.

ENNIS HEADQUARTERS
RACQUETS
Expert Stringing — Two-Day Service
ight & Ditson, Dunlap & Pennsylvania Balls
SEABROOK HARDWARE CO.
3 S. ADAMS Phone 200

Summer Recreation Program Is Planned

Volunteer Delegates Confer With College Group

Volunteer recreation delegates from Tallahassee, Woodville, Cross City, and Panama City are holding meetings today and tomorrow at Florida State College discuss plans for helping committees in the state organize summer recreation programs. These meetings were planned by the College Recreation Committee of which Miss Henrietta Greenberg is chairman.

The meetings will be held in room 402 in the Rowena Longmire building and all interested students and faculty are invited to attend.

The following is the program for the metings.

9:30—Welcome — Dr R L Eyman, Dean of School of Education, FSC.
9:40—Recreation in Florida—Dr Katherine W Montgomery, Director of Physical Education, FSC.
10:30—History and Philosophy Recreation, Miss Henrietta Greenberg, Instructor in Physical Education, FSC.
12:00—Sports in Recreation—Miss Grace Fox, Instructor in Physical Education, FSC.
1:00—Lunch.
2:00—Arts and Crafts — Miss Sally Williamson and Mr Ralph Donaldson, Associate Professor of Industrial Arts, FSC, held in 114 Education building.
4:00—Dramatics — Mr W Dingwell, Assistant Professor of Speech, FSC, held in the History building.
5:00—Visit to Tallahassee Palygrounds — Mr Ralph Carter — Tallahassee Recreation Director.
Neva Ingwerson—Director of Girls and Women Activities—Tallahassee.
6:30—Dinner.
7:15-7.45—Square Dance — FSC Folk Dance Class, FSC Gymnasium, Director, Miss Grace Fox.
8:15—Galla Concert of Orchestra, Glee Club, and Band, 250 performers. Percy Grainger, guest conductor
Saturday, May 11
9.00—Dramatics — Mr W Dingwell, Assistant Professor of Speech, FSC.
10:00-12:00—Scout Jamboree. Demonstration Play Day Lafayette Park.
2:00-3:30—Music — Group singing in the FSC gymnasium Folrene Marlett, Instructor in Public School Music, FSC.
3:30—Summer Programs in the gymnasium.
Public Relations.
Use of Bolunteers.
Playground games.
Special Events.
Ralph Carter
Neva Ingwerson
Henrietta Greenberg

* * *

Botanist Elected

Dr Ruth O Schornherst, associate professor of botany, was elected to the planning committee of the Sontheastern Section of the Botanical Society of America at a recent meeting of this society in St Louis. The meeting was held in connection with the American Association for the Advancement of Science.

Dr Schornherst planned to attend this meeting but was unable to do so because of a lack of hotel accommodations.

SPORTS CALENDAR

Monday 5:00—Odd-Even badminton and tennis games
Tuesday 5:00—Odd-Even tennis and softball class game
Wednesday 5:00—Odd-Even tennis and badminton
Thursday 5:00—Odd-Even tennis
Friday 5:00—Odd-Even softball game.

Badminton games will be played in the gym, tennis out on the courts, and softball on the hockey field.

CGA Officers Are Installed

New Sophomore Council Members Honored

With a view of Bryan Hall, pine trees, and a fading sunset seen through the open balcony of Westcott, officers for 1946-47 were installed at convocation last night. To the organ strains of "Florida," "Tell Me Why," and "Auld Lang Syne," Ann Carolyn Allison, president of CGA, and Catherine Barra, chairman of judiciary, walked onto the stage and conferred the oath of office upon Sarah Lewis, newly elected president of CGA, and upon Rosetta Carver, newly elected chairman of judiciary. Each in turn repeated the oath of office and then received the robe, Mortar Board, and light from her predecessor's candle.

The remaining officers were installed by Miss Lewis as follows: Dalia Santos, first vice-president of CGA; Ida Lee Rentz, second vice-president Martha Peacock, third vice president; Catherine Gallagher, secretary of CGA; Eleanor Bragg, treasurer of CGA; Anne Hunter, chairman of residence halls committee; Harriet Kirk, chairman of off-campus committee; and Mary White, freshman adviser; Marjorie Holms, Betty Schwartz, senior representatives to Judiciary; Amarene Thompson, Irma Lee Shepherd, Barbara McCarthy, Junior representatives to Judiciary; Helen Looby, Virginia Goodell, sophomore representatives to Judiciary; house president of Jennie Murphree, Juanita Krentzman, and Marie Ratliff and Enid Krouse, vice presidents; house president of Reynolds, Alva Ray, and Eddie Faye Stokes, Betty Mowat, vice presidents; house president of Bryan Anne MacInnes; house president of Broward, Evelyn Johnson, and vice president, Carolyn Flint; house president of Gilchrist, Betty Moody, and vice president, Jane Ann Ranson; house president of Landis, Dorothy McKirnon, and vice presidents, Gwen Ramage and Mary Monaco. A list of members of the off-campus committee was not available.

New members of Sophomore Council were then recognised by Jean Cole. The program closed with the singing of "Garnet and Gold".

* * *

Unexpected Guest Escapes Capture

A small gray furry creature paid a visit to the chapter meeting of the A D Pi's last Monday night.

When the savesclimber first appeared the girls mistook him for a mouse. Janet Boyd and Sarah Corry immediately produced a box and proceeded to attempt to capture the intruder.

The tiny flying squirrel, as it turned out to be, baffled by the unwelcome reception, executed a leap that would have done credit to Nijinsky, and leaped out of the window and has not been seen since.

Sensational Birthday Offer

Look for Your Friend's or Roommate's Name Below

HELP ENTERTAIN ON HER BIRTHDAY

The Honoree Gets Her Dinner Free
if the Party Has Eight or More!

These Girls Have Birthdays in May

Wilhelmina Anderson
Euseola Avant
Laora Bentley
Marjorie Booth
Barbara Claire Carter
Cathenrie Heitsman
Catheryn Lee Clark
Jewell Ana Coleman
Katherine Louise Donohue
Mary Virginia Evans
Mary Ann Heiring
Willie Helen Commander
Florence DuRant
Elizabeth Sanderson
Lucy Frances Stapleton
Mary Douglas Tinsley
Frances Jane Stuick
Frances Taylor
Mary Vallance
Marilyn Natalie Watson
Dorothy Jean Cranmond
Juaoita Nord
Isabelle Wilson
Betsy Zurwelle
Myra Aleta Russell
Gwendolyn Ramage
Mary Jane Livingston
Anne Leach
Mary Elizabeth Knight
Mary Kathryn Lucas
Josie Kinsey
Bettie Marie Lashley
Winifred Lane
Betty Louise Langford
Iris Johnson
Joanne Gentry
Mary June Powell
Carolyn Virginia Jones
Betty Joyce Owen
Virginia Anne Irving
Jane Merryday
Beverly Nelson
Doris Vivian Mercer
Gloria McVey
Betty Joe McLeod

The Three Torches Tea Room
ACROSS FROM THE COLLEGE

Minstrel Show at Playnight Tomorrow

HEY FELLERS!!! Say, do you feel drab, run down, out of sorts, weary of workin'? You do? Well, I kinda thought you looked that way.

Before you read another step I must inform you, this is no commercial for "Retonga," or such stuff—this is just to let y'all in on a big blow off that's coming up tomorrow. Want to know the exact time and place? Well, stop twisting my arm and I'll tell you all about it.

It's a BIG Minstrel Show, with lots of fun and hee haws to be had by all, out at the gym tomorrow night on the Playnight program. Playnight will begin at the regular time and the Minstrel Show will start at 9:00 p m.

Ought to be lots of "thanks for a swell time" handed out to Nancy MacEdwards, new chairman of the playnight committee, and to her most able assistants on the rotating sub-committees: Script: Joyce Cayce, Martha Nell Booth, Nancy MacEdwards; Publicity: Tot Carter, Helen Stone, and Betty Strickland; Properties: Betty Dixon and Mary Calley; Spotlight: Mel Vernon.

* * *

"Beware of BTO!" Women Are Warned

The latest pin-up boy is the one who has been brightening the lives of Landis elevator-riders. Pictured in bathing trunks, this Don Jnan of the double-cross was posted there by an unknown student and remained until its mysterious disappearance recently.

Underneath the picture was a sign which read: "Beware! This is a B T O (short for Big Time Operator). He makes and breaks dates. This is not sour grapes." It seems that this gentleman got his name on the black list by asking one girl to a dance and then at the last minute taking another. At intermission he was seen with another lassie, and yes, he took another girl home. Perhaps the saddest fact of all was that he asked numerous other girls for dates during the dance and then never showed up.

AIR CONDITIONED
FLORIDA
PHONE 190
TODAY - TOMORROW
BING CROSBY BOB HOPE DOROTHY LAMOUR
ROAD to UTOPIA
SUNDAY - MONDAY
BETTY FIELD - ZACHARY SCOTT
The Southerner
WED. THRU SAT.—18th
Clark GABLE & Greer GARSON
Adventure
COOL WASHED-AIR
STATE
PHONE 180
NOW - TOMORROW
"California Gold Rush" and "Dick Tracy"
SUNDAY - MONDAY
"Reckless Age"
GLORIA JEAN
—AND—
"Just Before Dawn"
TUES. and WED.
"San Antonio"
ERROL FLYNN
THURSDAY ONLY
"Uncle Harry"
"Doll Face"
COOL WASHED-AIR
RITZ
PHONE 887
NOW - TOMORROW
"Texas Wildcat"
"From Pillow to Post"
SUNDAY - MONDAY
"WILSON"
TUES. - WED. - THURS.
"Stork Club"
"Pursuit to Algiers"

Odd-Even Sports Teams Are Named

The names of people making Odd-Even sports teams were revealed Wednesday night at the regular meeting of the Women's Recreation Association.

Those who made Odd tennis are Enid Sandler, Pauline Tuttle, Jane Carol Levy, Mary Calley, Anna Leach, Gloria McVey, Mary Nell Goldman, Eileen Perry, Louetta Phoenix, and Betty Sweet. The Even tennis team members are Babe Evans, Etta Fraser, Anne MacInnes, Barbara Randolph, Luanne Batman, Juanita Krentzman, Betty LaBree, Roses Marcoux, Jean Olson, and Joy Little.

Those who made Odd golf are Margaret Harley, Esther Brinkman, Arks Skevakis Lois Meriweather, and Rachel Crotwell. Those who made Even golf are Kathryn Jackson, Dot Butts, Jane Waldo, Cathryn Gallagher, and Georgia Jaeckel.

The team for Even badminton is Jean Koesy, Emily Chancy, Babs McCarthy, Teeny Langston, Jo Story, Eugenia Booth, Candy Jones, Irma Lee Shepherd, Grace Hayes, and Evelyn Shea.

Members of the Odd badminton team are Virginia Palmer, Mary Jackson, Faith Adams, Shirley Hargroves, Sybil Harrison, Sarah Lou Wells, Ann Seaward, Inez Augustine, Joyce and Jean Carter.

* * *

Unique Gift Left By Unknown Visitors

Barbara Mann, junior councilor in Bryan, walked in her room the other night to find two huge palm branches filling the room. Entering in darkness, she became a human pincushion for the points of the leaves.

"B M" reports that she and her roommate, Harriet Kirk, have spent hours digging the palm points out of their legs. "Usually the kind souls who bring us gifts leave us notes but this time we don't know who to thank," she remarked.

Barbara Irving Is New F Club Head

At a meeting of F Club Wednesday night, Barbara Irving was elected president of the club for the coming year. Barbara is succeeded by Nita Nord as vice-president and Elaine Gavigan succeeds Nita as secretary.

Babe Evans who graduates in June is the out-going president.

Barbara has been active in sports since her freshman year, is a member of Spirogyra and is a junior councelor. Nita Nord, new vice-president, is a junior councelor, Spirogyra goat, and is Sport leader of hockey.

Elaine Gavigan has been in the club since her freshman year and has participated in volleyball, soccer, and softball. She will be Even leader of soccer for next year and will also be a junior councelor.

Mother's Day Gift Suggestions
. . . . . . CURTAINS, ruffled and tailored
. . . . . . WEEK-END BAGS, colorful linings, convenient mirror
. . . . . . UMBRELLAS, acetate rayons, plaids & solids. Plastic handles
. . . . . . PILLOW CASES, His & Hers, Mr. & Mrs.
. . . . . . BEDSPREADS, chenille & jacquard
Surprise Store

Carlye
It's the cut that counts
Carlye hands lend prestige to everything they touch... witness the diagonal treatment of this satin stripe chambray by Hope Skillman. Sizes
Steyerman's

Report Comes From FSC Alumna Of Members of '43 Graduates

According to a letter from Kitty Jo Hawkins, class of 1943, FSCW graduates are scattered in various parts and places in the United States. All the alumnae mentioned in her letter were members of the 1943 graduating class.

Mary Alice Kirchner MacDougall, who is teaching physical education in the junior high school of Royal Oak, Michigan, has charge of cheerleaders and a basketball tournament, in addition to keeping house.

Now living in College Park, Georgia, is Betsy McMichael Gilmore, who was married to William C Gilmore, December 20, 1945. Her husband is with Delta Airlines.

While her husband internes at Jefferson Hospital in Philadelphia, Mrs Bill Gaventa, the former Alice Price, is studying at the Southern Baptist Seminary in Louisville, Kentucky.

Alice Ludlam is working on her master's degree in social work at Tulane in New Orleans. She also has a full time job with the Child Welfare Board where she has charge of 28 children under a year old.

Soon to settle down in Connecticut is Mrs Nelson W Babb, Jr, formerly Martha Ellen Hackl. At present she vacationing in Missouri.

Carolyn Stowell is studying at the Assembly Training School in Richmond for Presbyterian missionary work. She expects to tour the country this summer doing religious work and then go to Brazil to become a missionary.

With one more year before her, Mary Gray Holderman is working on her master's degree at Woman's Medical College in Philadelphia.

Elizabeth Jeffries is president of the freshman class at Woman's Medical College.

Jeanne Fielotson and Polly Venning, both dieticians, have traveled way up North. Jeanne is a dietician at the New York City Hospital, and Polly is employed at the Philadelphia General Hospital.

Regional president of Tri Delta sorority is Mrs E D Scroggins, the former Jean Hitchcall. She is now living in Moultrie, Georgia.

One who has gotten farther away than the rest is Evelyn Butts, who is a staff assistant with the American Red Cross. Evelyn is stationed in Sappora, Japan. Her sister Dot is attending FSCW.

Sorority Chit-Chat

Alpha Chi Omega initiated the following girls last Saturday night: Virginia Bennett, Pat Harrison, Irma Lee Shepherd and Sally Slater. A tea was held at the house in honor of the new initiates, Sunday afternoon.

The initiation banquet was given at the Cherokee hotel Monday night. The theme was "Hearts Afire with Love." Talks were made by the housemother, Mrs Harrell, Louella Ranse, president and a new initiate, Irma Lee Shepherd, Renee Hedgecoth, Mary Hart, and Jane Arnold entertained with several songs. Also a skit was presented by Marjory Potter, Marianne Jones, Gloria Sue Reed and Polly Black. The banquet tables were decorated with red roses and carnations.

Several Tampa girls were the guests of Alpha Delta Pi last weekend. A wiener roast was given at the house by several sororities last Saturday for their guests from out of town.

The Alpha Gams had a May day intermission party Saturday night in honor of the new initiates and Alpha Gams who were maids in the May court. The maids were Bonnie Hunt, Stella Barrineau, Lillian Ergle and June McCurdy. Punch and cookies were served to members and their dates.

Alpha Xi Delta initiated Carmen Manucy, Mervin Thomas, Nell Hawkins and Kathleen Barker last Sunday night.

The Tri Delts had an after-dinner coffee last Monday night. They had as their guest, Dr C P Heinlein, professor of experimental psychology, who spoke to them on Music Therapy.

About half of the Tri Delt chapter trotted merrily off to Wakulla Springs last Sunday for a picnic. The girls enjoyed a wonderful swim and returned prepared to face the coming week with new life.

Joyce Pepper spent last weekend at the University of Tennessee where she enjoyed the May day celebration.

Chi Omegas will initiate Barbara Anne Covington and Emily Sheftall tomorrow night.

Six girls were recipients of Delta Zeta lamps last Friday night. The new initiates are: Gloria King, Joy Schoedler, Kitty Spurgeon, Barbara Nolen, Sue Hilton, and Carolyn Cox. Following the initiation ceremony an informal coffee was held.

New initiates and Delta Zeta patrons were honored at a breakfast in the Cherokee hotel on Sunday morning. The patrons included: Dr and Mrs M H DeGraff, Dr and Mrs T L Wade, Mr and Mrs L E Catterson, Mr and Mrs James Peavy, Miss Ruby Dunstan and Miss Margaret Stanion. At the breakfast Gloria King was awarded the loving cup for loyalty and devotion to Delta Zeta. Kitty Spurgeon received the scholarship charm for having the highest scholastic average of the pledges.

June Padgett, Merrill Long and Celia Llamas, Delta Zeta alumnae, were visitors over the weekend.

Kappa Alpha Theta is having visits from two alumnae. Renee Brown from West Palm Beach, who graduated in 1945 is up for the weekend. Maribel Savage also from West Palm Beach is expected next weekend. She spent her freshman and sophomore years at Florida State College, but graduated from University of Missouri in 1942.

The usual Theta Sunday night supper was given by the pledges last weekend. All actives, pledges, and friends were invited.

Pi Beta Phi's entertained friends with a box supper at the chapter house last Sunday night. A skit by the juniors and seniors of the chapter was presented to members and their guests as entertainment.

Mrs Lucille Roberts of New York City, national president of Zeta Tau Alpha is in Tallahassee visiting her mother, Mrs J W Reece. Mrs Roberts was a guest at a luncheon at the Three torches restaurant last Saturday. This luncheon was in honor of two new initiates, Beverly Nelson of Tallahassee and Barbara White of Vero Beach. Also present were several alumnae, including members of the House Corporation. Beverly and Barbara were initiated last Friday night.

Nine representatives from the Gamma Beta chapter of Alpha Gamma Delta attended International Reunion Day at Jacksonville the weekend of April 26.

Convention headquarters for the weekend were at the Seminole Hotel where a reception, business meetings, louncheons, and banquet were held. Saturday night the Pan-hellenic Association of Jacksonville held a former dance at the Timuquana Country Club.

Alpha Gam's from FSC were Joy Knipe, Aileen Sayers, Mary Cooney, Virginia Ricks, June McCurdy, Stella Barrineau, Jane Lyles, Barbara McKinney, and LaFerne Quinn. Alums from all over the state were also present.

Distribution Day

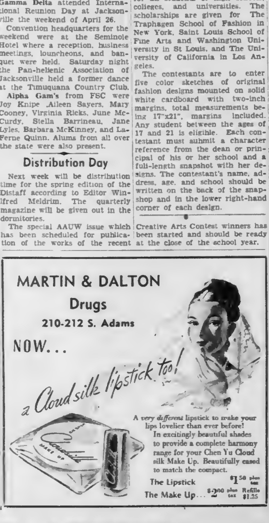
Next week will be distribution time for the spring edition of the Distaff according to Editor Winifred Meldrim. The quarterly magazine will be given out in the dormitories.

The special AAUW issue which has been scheduled for publication of the works of the recent Creative Arts Contest winners has been started and should be ready at the close of the school year.

Place Your Orders Now for Graduation Gifts

Monogrammed Stationery, Napkins, Matches

BOOK CORNER
121 S. MONROE



MARTIN & DALTON
Drugs
210-212 S. Adams

NOW...

a Cloudsilk lipstick too!

A very different lipstick to make your lips lovelier than ever before! In excitingly beautiful shades to provide a complete harmony range for your Chen Yu Cloud silk Make Up. Beautifully cased to match the compact.

The Lipstick $1.50 plus tax
The Make Up... $2.00 plus tax Refills $1.25

Irene Gross Elected President of Hillel

Installation Banquet to Be Sunday, May 19

Irene Gross was elected president of the Hillel group on campus for next year at a regular meeting last Tuesday at the Temple.

Other newly elected officers are Hascia Levine, vice-president; Ruth Leonard, secretary; Dorothy R Davis, treasurer; Tobie Jacobskind, social chairman; Shirlee Barish, editor of the Hillel Way; Miriam Portnoy, parliamentarian; Miriam Scheinberg, social welfare chairman; Esther Barash, interfaith chairman; and Natalie Mahler, cultural chairman.

An annual installation banquet will be held Sunday evening, May 19, at the Floridan Hotel with Mr Maurice Uman, state president of B'nai B'rith, installing. Hillel keys presented annually to the outstanding workers of the club will be awarded by Mr D J Apte, chairman of the Hillel building fund committee.

Special guests at the dinner will be Mr and Mrs A J Gross, Mr and Mrs A Greenberg, Miss Henrietta Greenberg, Miss Bernice Moskovitz, Mr and Mrs William Fleet, Rabbi and Mrs Alex Goldman, Hillel sponsors, and Miss Sonya Heyman, outgoing president.

Mrs R W Campbell Is Honored by KD's

Mrs R W Campbell, national vice president of Kappa Delta sorority, visited the Kappa Alpha chapter on campus this past week. She was honored at a garden party Tuesday afternoon at the chapter house from 5 until 6 p m. Mrs Campbell is an alumna of Mu chapter at Millsaps college in Jackson, Mississippi. She was appointed Kappa Delta's Louisiana state war service chairman for two years. She has also been a Gamma Province alumna officer for over two years during which time she supervised the affairs of alumnae from Louisiana, Mississippi, Kentucky, and Tennessee. Mrs Campbell was a delegate to the national panhellenic conference at French Lake, Indiana in November, 1945. She came to Tallahassee for her visit from the installation of Kappa Delta's 70th chapter at the University of Toledo in Toledo, Ohio. For the garden party the house was decorated with floral arrangements of Easter lilies and spring flowers. Kappa Delta punch and cake were served from a table on the terrace.

KD members and their dates are planning a picnic for Saturday afternoon when a skit will be given by the new initiates.

Awards Offered In Art Design Contest

A $1000 cash prize and a two years' scholarship will be given to the winners of the design contest which will be open until June 1 for all students of high schools, colleges, and universities. The scholarships are given for The Traphagen School of Fashion in New York, Saint Louis School of Fine Arts and Washington University in St Louis, and The University of California in Los Angeles.

The contestants are to enter five color sketches of original fashion designs mounted on solid white cardboard with two-inch margins, total measurements being 17"x21", margins included. Any student between the ages of 17 and 21 is eligible. Each contestant must submit a character reference from the dean or principal of his or her school and a full-length snapshot with her designs. The contestant's name, address, age, and school should be written on the back of the snapshop and in the lower right-hand corner of each design.

Delegates Honored By Alpha Xi Delta

A buffet supper, a tour of the campus, all day meeting, song fests, and a banquet at the Floridan Hotel were included in the hospitality extended to Alpha Xi Delta delegates from the University of Alabama, and Stetson University by the Alpha Omega chapter on campus last weekend.

Announcement of the new officers of province 4, made to fifty or more Alpha Xi's who attended the banquet Saturday night, cited Mrs R F Mikell, president and Mrs B C Coallace, vice-president. Chosen as the typical Alpha Xi Delta girl was Miss Margery Merrill, president of the Omega chapter at Stetson university.

Parkside Will Be New Spanish House

"Habla usted espanol?" If you can answer "si" to this question, your future abode may be the new "casa de espanol" at Parkside soon to be open to all FSC students who have finished two years of the language with worthwhile grades

Students who register to live at the new Spanish House will speak only Spanish while living there, eat dinner at the Spanish table, and spend an hour each day at some supervised activity designed to add to their knowledge of the language. Dr Margie Burks, professor of Spanish, who has announced the opening of the house for the coming summer school sessions said that the advantage of living in there will be an invaluable aid to anyone desiring to learn Spanish. It is hoped, she continued, that in the future all Spanish majors will be required to live in the house for one quarter on a system similar to that of interning.

Miss Carmen Rivera, assistant instructor in Spanish, who will be in charge of the Spanish House here, said that while she attended the University of Puerto Rico, she lived in a house where only English was spoken. Miss Rivera will be assisted by Miss Pura Luz Auger, who is also a graduate of the University of Puerto Rico.

Secret Plans Made By Cotillion Club

Plans that will interest every student on campus were discussed at the May 7 meeting of Cotillion at the Tri Delta house. For the present these plans will not be disclosed, but all students are advised to keep their ears and eyes open.

New Cotillion Club officers were also elected at this meeting. They are: President, Mary Lou Norwood; Vice-president, Marion McEwin; Secretary, Betty Loy; Treasurer, Jane Ann Daly; Dance chairman, Ann Shull, and Publicity chairman, Rosa Lee Davis.

Sorority Averages Released Thursday

Chi Omega led sororities in scholarship last quarter, according to figures released last week, with a 1.611 average. Delta Delta Delta and Alpha Chi Omega followed with 1.779 and 1.776 averages.

Phi Mu, Kappa Alpha Theta, Pi Beta Phi, Kappa Delta, Alpha Gamma Delta and Delta Zeta each had a 1.6 plus average. Averages of 1.5 plus were obtained by members of Delta Phi Epsilon, Alpha Delta Pi, Alpha Xi Delta and Zeta Tau Alpha. Sigma Kappa members had a 1.401 average.

Algood Leads State's AAUW

Katherine Warren of FSC Is Vice President

With all 12 branches represented, the State convention of the American Association of University Women opened last Friday night with a banquet at Wakulla Springs.

"A Few Footnotes on Education," a talk by Dr Rosa Lee Walston, head of the language and literature departments of Georgia State College for Women, was the main feature of the opening dinner. Dr Walston, who gave up a highly paid government position to return to teaching, told of the reasons for her return. She gave the humorous side of the good and bad aspects of teaching.

A discussion of four major social issues now pending in Congress, federal aid to public education, national health insurance, national housing and price control, by Dr Marian D Irish, head of the political science department at Florida State College, was part of the Saturday morning session.

At the final session Saturday afternoon state officers for the coming year were elected. They are: Mrs J B Algood of Tampa, president, and Miss Alvazine Young of Lakeland, recording secretary. Officers which were re-elected for the next year were Miss Katherine Warren, of Florida State College, vice president, and Mrs Frank E Gardner of Orlando, treasurer. The corresponding secretary is to be appointed by the new president.

After concluding the business of the meeting, Mrs Millard Caldwell honored the convention with a tea at the governor's mansion.

Mrs Mable B Hodgson, head of the Tallahassee branch of the AAUW, served as general chairman for the convention.

According to Miss Louise Gehan, alumnae secretary, 85 members attended the convention.

Librarians Attend Association Meet

Four librarians from Florida State College are attending the first meeting of the Florida Library Association since before the war, which is being held today and tomorrow in Sarasota. The primary purpose of this meeting, according to Miss Florence Bethea, assistant librarian, is to reorganize and discuss library plans for the coming year.

Those attending the meeting include: Miss Agnes Gregory, instructor in library science, Miss Eulah Mae Snider, library science and president of the association, Miss Sara Krentzman, librarian at the demonstration school and secretary of the association, and Miss Bethea.

READ THE FLAMBEAU ADVERTISEMENTS.

"The Owl and the Pussy-cat went to SEE"
How very tasty
Our morsels be!
—Watsonspeare

Delicious Steaks,
Chops, Chili & Spaghetti

M & N CAFE
W. JEFFERSON

Annual Hillel Formal Held in Landis Rec Saturday Evening

"Star dust" was the theme of the Hillel formal dance held last Saturday night in Landis recreation room, according to Irene Gross, social chairman. Members of the group, their dates, and special guests, entered through an eight foot star brightened with silver dust and colored roses. Other decoration carrying out the theme included illuminated stars and crepe paper which extended from each light. Refreshments included fruit punch and individual cakes adorned with rose buds. Special guests for the dance were Rabbi and Mr Alex Goldman, Mr and Mrs A J Gross, and Miss Henrietta Greenberg, a member of the faculty.

Those participating in the service Friday night at the Temple were Natalie Mohler, Sonja Hayman, Marcille Kaufman, Laurel Rosenbaum, and Sylvia Leibovits. Following the service a reception was held in the Temple anti-room. Coffee and cake was served by the refreshment committee. The table was decorated with brightly colored flowers and mixed candies.

An all-day picnic at Wakulla Springs, consisting of swimming, and eating "barbecue style," was enjoyed by the group Sunday. The guests of Saturday night were also invited to the picnic Sunday.

K D Pi Pledges 7

The local Alpha Delta chapter of Kappa Delta Pi, national education honorary, held pledge services for seven newly chosen members in the clubroom of the Longmire building Tuesday afternoon.

Following this service, which was conducted by Miss Edna Parker, Miss Ruth Fairbanks, Dean R L Eyman and Mr E W Cason, Dean Eyman spoke on the organization and functions of Kappa Delta Pi.

CONFIDENCE

When you've done your work faithfully each day, you can zip through final exams like a breeze. And when you complete your secretarial training at Katharine Gibbs, you can enter any business office with confidence. Personal placement service in four cities. College Course Dean.

KATHARINE GIBBS
NEW YORK 17 — 230 Park Ave
BOSTON 16 — 90 Marlborough St
CHICAGO 11 — 720 N. Michigan Ave
PROVIDENCE 6 — 155 Angell St

Dormitory Teas

VILLAGE

All freshmen who formerly lived in the Village were guests at a tea there Thursday afternoon. The program, in the form of a talent show, featured a duet by Harriet Bunnen and Lucille Davis, a vocal selection by Arlene Love, and readings by Elaine Roth and Pat Yates. Elaine Roth was program chairman for this final tea of the year.

REYNOLDS

At the Reynolds hall tea Pearl Sapero entertained with several piano selections. Bernice Rizk was in charge of the program at this tea which will probably be the last one given this quarter.

LANDIS

Entertainment at the Landis tea last week was furnished by the guests who took part in a college sing. Edna Hammer acc panied the group at the pia The girls in Landis have deci to continue their teas for the mainder of the quarter and planning that the last tea of quarter honor seniors and th parents.

OTHERS

No teas were held at Gilch Bryan Broward or Campu since students have decided to continue them for the rest of quarter.

Broward Hall Girls Will Go to Wakul

The girls living in Broward h will have an opportunity to spe tomorrow afternoon at Waku Springs, Mrs Ray Warner, re dence counselor said. The out is a annual event. A charter bus will leave Broward hall morrow afternoon at 2, she sa Approximately forty girls h signed up to make the trip "are looking forward to an aft noon of swimming, fun and rel ation at Wakulla."

HAVE YOUR FAVORITE PICTURES FRAMED

We Carry a Complete Line of Art Supplies

We Will Frame Your Priceless Diploma

WARD'S PAINT STORE

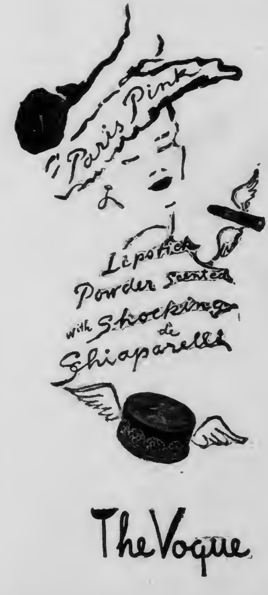
Everything You Need for Tennis!

RACKETS
$6.95 $16.00

BALLS IN TIN CANS
3 for $1.50

RACKET PRESSES $.85

Seek it First at
VAN BRUNT & YON INC
YON'S HARDWARE



Light Switch

Z 106

The Florida Flambeau

Published by the Students of Florida State College for Women

VOL. XXXIII, No. 25

Tallahassee, Florida

MAY 17, 1946

Constitutional Itch

Final Performance of Shaw Comedy, Arms and the Man, Will Be Presented Tonight

Tickets on Sale in Box Office of Little Theater Dingwell Directs 3-Act Production To Begin at 8:15

The last performance of "Arms and the Man," George Bernard Shaw's three act play, will be presented tonight at 8:15 in the Augusta Conradi theater by the speech department under the direction of Mr W L Dingwell, assistant professor of speech. Two previous performances were given Wednesday and Thursday

This comedy depicts emotional changes which occur during wartime, but according to Mr Dingwell, no special attempt was made to relate the story to the present world situation. Instead, the scenery and mood of the play is characteristic of the year 1805, when the original production was first presented to a British audience. The scene of the play is in Bulgaria during a war between the small Balkan countries and Russia.

Raina Petkoff, played by Rosemary Fleming, is the daughter of pseudo-aristocratic parents who possess the only library and electric bell in the town. While both her father and lover, Sergius, are away at the battle-front, she is surprised in her boudoir by an enemy officer, Captain Bluntschli, played by Dick Mitchell. Raina protects the enemy officer from being discovered by a searching party. Later, she decides that her love for Sergius is purely imaginary. Major Petkoff, played by Leal O Barr, returns from the war and introduces Raina to a wartime acquaintance of his, which oddly enough, Captain Bluntschli. Now the romantic interest takes a more realistic turn as the captain and Raina find that they have a mutual love for each other.

The cast included Rosemary Fleming as Raina Petkoff; Corinne [illegible]nston, Catherine Petkoff; Leal O Barr Major Petkoff; Claire St [illegible]rr, Louka; Dick Mitchell, Captain Bluntschli; Julian L Blanche, Sergius; and Jack Richey, Nicola.

Tickets, priced at fifty cents, will be on sale at the box office in the Augusta Conradi theater.

Those who helped in the production of the play are: Miss Mary [illegible]tty, technical director; director's assistant, Joy Fleming; business manager, Eugenia Avant; assistant business manager, Mary [illegible]e Inabnit; set designers, Margie Cross, Lillian Brown, and Anita Wilkinson; light crew, Elaine [illegible]amore, Laurie Cason, Kay [illegible] Evelyn Badcock and Gloria [illegible] stage crew, Marion Cross, Lillian Brown, Hilda Hood, Sarah Dougherty Margie Berns, Anita

Continued on Page Three

Sutton, Duckworth Will Give Recitals

Dolly Suttoo will present her senior piano recital tonight at the college auditorium at 8:15.

Dolly will play Prelude and Fugue in B flat Minor by Bach, Jesu, Joy of Man's Desiring by Bach-Hess, Gigue by Goluppi, Etude in C Minor by Chopin, Dance of the Delphs and The Sunken Cathedral by Debussy, Rhapsodie in A Minor, Allegro Affettuoso by Shumann. The orchestral parts on a second piano will be by Mary Esther Winslow.

Frances will play Italian Concerto by Bach, Fantasie-Impromptu by Chopin, Minstrels by Debussy, Island Spell by Ireland, and Schumann's Nevelletten, op 21, no [illegible] The program will also include the following vocal solos by Miss [illegible]ine Rowe: Erinnerung by Brahms, Three Elegiac Songs by [illegible]cetts and Love Me, If I Live by Cowen.

Article By Wheeler Published Recently

Nancy Lee Wheeler of Jacksonville, a senior majoring in political science, had published in the May 1946 issue of "Florida Highways" an article entitled "Internes in Government."

In the article Nancy tells of the plan inaugurated at FSC in [illegible] for "learning through doing in the field of public administration."

The internees receive academic credit for practical experience in the offices of the Secretary of State, the Attorney General, the [illegible] Commission, the De[illegible] Council, the Planning Board, and the Improvement Commission.

Nancy has been interning for two quarters in the office of Mr [illegible] Kilgore, editor of Florida Highways Magazine.

Charter Given To Red Cross

William D Hopkins Speaks At Presentation

At a special ceremony in the Longmire auditorium last night the first Red Cross college unit in Florida and one of the first in the South was established when a charter was presented to the Florida State College unit.

William D Hopkins, attorney and former chairman of the Tallahassee chapter of the Red Cross, was the speaker and H O Hill, present chairman of the town branch, presented the charter. Dr Milton Carothers, registrar, accepted for the group.

A booth in Westcott will be set up May 21 and 22 for volunteers to sign up for various committees furthering Red Cross activity. The booth will be maintained by the class in community organization which is taught by Mrs Margaret C Bristol, assistant professor of sociology.

There is a variety of committees from which the student may choose: first aid and accident prevention, water safety, disaster relief, and of special interest to home economics majors would be the committee on nutrition; to the journalism majors, public information; to the education majors, the Junior Red Cross; and to majors in social work the committees on home service and special volunteer services such as rolling bandages, etc, would be of special interest. One does not have to be a Red Cross member to work on a committee.

These committees will be organized completely this year and be ready to function at the fall quarter, according to Barbara Wickham, chairman of the FSC unit.

Junior-Senior Kid Party Coming Soon

FSC students will soon find "little kids" roaming around in their midst. Juniors and their senior sisters are having their annual Kid Party on the Landis Green from 5 to 6.40 next Wednesday evening.

For entertainment there will be games such as "Ring Around the Rosie." Prices will be awarded to the most original boy and girl, the cutest boy and girl, and the best-looking boy and girl. Judges will be: Dr and Mrs Paul W Shankweiler and Miss Ruth Campbell, junior class sponsors; Dr and Mrs Coyle E Moore and Miss Daisy Parker, senior class sponsors; Miss Marie Williams and Miss Ruth Pyche, Landis residence counselors.

Juniors, seniors and guests will have dinner in the Landis dining hall after which they are invited to attend the Florida theater at reduced prices. Costumes may not be worn to the movie, according to Martha Abbott, who is in charge of the affair.

Committee chairmen include: Yosbel Dupree, favors, and Virginia Palmer, games.

Education Honorary Elects Parker Head

Miss Edna Parker, assistant professor of education, was elected president of Kappa Delta Pi, national education honorary, at a meeting Wednesday evening. Initiation ceremonies for seven new pledges were held at this time

Those initiated include: Alice Crume, Ida Lula Davis, Margaret Harley, Aileen James, Nell McNeil, Frances Rutland, Aurora Faedo, and Mrs Jean Mark.

Also elected at this time were Miss Ruth Fairbanks Smith, critic teacher at the Demonstration school, vice-president; Miss Fannie Shaw, associate professor of health education, treasurer, Aileen James, corresponding secretary; Mary Frances Rutland, recording secretary; Nell McNeil, publicity secretary, and Dr M R Hinson, professor of education, counselor.

Miss Parker and Miss Smith presented an account of activities at the National Convention of Kappa Delta Pi, recently held in Milwaukee. A social hour followed with Miss Peggy Hines in charge of refreshments.

Freshman Singer Is FSC Horatio Alger, Gets Lucky Break

A Horatio Alger experience, beginning with a trip to the WTAL broadcasting station to make a recording for a Mother's Day present and ending with her own radio program, happened to an FSC freshman, Joyce Stroberg last week. "I had made one side of the record," Joyce explained, "when the technician came out of the recording room and asked me if I wanted to have a show of my own. All I could manage to answer was 'Are you kidding?' "

The program which has no actual name as yet, was announced for the first time as "Selections from Evelyn Joyce." The program features semi-classical songs in a 15 minute broadcast every Monday and Friday afternoons at 4:45 o'clock. Ann Wiggins appeared as accompanist on last Monday's program which included the following selections: "The Man I Love," "Ah Sweet Mystery of Life," "Symphony," and "I'll Be Seeing You." Joyce plans to begin each program by singing, "With A Song in My Heart," which will become her theme song.

Joyce is now studying voice with Mr Walter James of the School of Music, and has had two years previous training in Miami. She has had vocal leads in Odd demonstration, Freshman Carnival, and more recently appeared as "Dinah" in the Junior Minstrels.

Joyce expects to continue her study of voice and hopes to eventually do radio work and try for the concert stage.

When questioned on her newest venture, Joyce replied, "I know it will be hard, but it should be a lot of fun."

YW Members Plan Training Activities

Summer Trips To Provide Practical Experiences

Several members of YWCA are planning to do summer service work or get some special training during the summer, Joyce Petty, president of the group, announced.

Dixie Kennedy is planning to go to Hartford, Connecticut. There she will live in a co-operative house and learn the problems of industry. Each girl in the group there will take a position in one of the factories and learn through actual contact.

To Washington, D C, goes Willardean Pulliam. There she will participate in a government project. This group will spend one week visiting the sessions of the various governmental bodies and the other eight weeks doing government work, attending seminars at night, and going on 'field trips.' The purpose of this trip is to acquaint the students with the role an intelligent citizen should play in government.

The University of Chicago will be the site of the president's school which Joyce Petty plans to attend. The one month session will offer courses in theology and American culture, leadership training, and scoial work.

According to Joyce, these are only a few of the opportunities for summer serviee. "Besides the religious and social work there will be openings in hospitals and reformatories. Some of the work is in Mexico or outside the United States with the UNRRA. There are many interracial groups working all over the U S," Joyce added.

Complete information on joining one of these groups will be found on the YWCA bulletin board in lower Westcott.

History Department Plans New Courses

Two new history courses will be offered by the history department next year, according to Dr Venila L Shores, professor of history. Both courses will carry four hours credit, and the prerequisite is History 101-102.

History 371, a two-quarter course with credit for either quarter, is intended to be a study of the development of various communities which compose the present country of Turkey. The second quarter of this course will be a study of the present Turkish Republic.

The third quarter of the regular session History 476, a history of Russia and the development of the people who make up the Union of Socialist Soviet Russia today, will be offered.

Dr George R Monks, assistant professor of history, will teach both courses.

Council Rules Upperclassmen Lights Go On College Council Reports Measure Favorable With Check

Experimental Bill To Become Effective Monday

The measure providing that all upperclassmen may keep their lights on as late as they feel necessary was reported favorably by College Council to the student body at house meetings Monday evening and will go into effect Monday, May 20. This new ruling will be on an experimental basis for an unlimited period during which a check on the time when students turn out their lights will be made.

The announcement stated that a card must be filled out on the morning following a light extension stating the exact time that the lights were turned off and also the reason for keeping the lights on for the extra time. This card is merely a check on the experiment and the time that the lights were left on will not be held against the student in any way.

Although the ruling is an experiment now, it has several useful motives, as stated in the announcement. It can be used as a positive and a negative check when diagnosing infirmary cases. If a girl enters the infirmary often, the doctor may refer to the "late permission cards" to determine whether or not proper rest has been gotten by the patient nightly. The two factors might correlate and help diagnose the patient's illness.

A notice to students regarding closing of spring quarter was also read at the meeting. The notice referred to the procedure of the departure of students and schedule of cleaning and the preliminary moving of storage, baggage, and express.

It stated that all freshmen should, if possible, be out of the dormitories by 9 a m, Friday, June 7, in order that those buildings may be cleaned Friday and

Continued on Page Three

Geography Club To Begin Activities

The first function of the reorganized Geography Club will be a 20 mile tour of Tallahassee on Sunday, May 26, to study the land formation and to inspect the local geography of Leon county, announced Nicky Sartoris, newly elected president of the organization.

Upon the suggestion of the geography classes, the club was formed to sponsor field trips, lectures in geography, and social functions. Membership is opened to anyone interested in the subject. At the first meeting, Mr H F Becker, Mr H F Brubaker, and Miss Sara C Larson were selected as faculty sponsors.

The field trip, which will include a comparison of the cultural and natural factors of the section, will start at 2 o'clock from 101 History building and will return to the campus by 6 o'clock in time for a picnic in Games Woods. The charge will be $1 per person for the chartered bus and picnic, and everyone interested is invited to go.

Clerk of Supreme Court Describes His College Life in 1900

In the days of the turn of the century, there were only 15 teachers, jacks of all trades, and only two dormitories each housing one-hundred boys and girls said Mr Guyte McCord, clerk of the Supreme Court of Florida and 1905 alumni, as he talked of the good old days when FSC, known as the West Florida Seminary, was coeducational.

All of the classrooms, offices, and living quarters were in wooden frame buildings, and most of these buildings stood in the vacant space between the new dining hall and Magnolia. The majority of some 475 students were Tallahassee residents.

There was no honor code or any semblance of college government, and wrong-doing was corrected with the help of a good stout hickory stick. But, added Mr McCord, hastily, the girls who committed misdemeanors were given demerits to work off.

A debating society was the only organization or club on campus. There was only a little football, directed by male members of the faculty.

There were no highly specialized subjects in their curriculum, only subjects such as Latin, Greek, Botany, chemistry, mathematics, and English.

The Music Annex was then a Negro high school and a high board fence separated the two campuses.

Mr McCord, a sophomore in 1905 when the Buckman bill was passed to establish a men's university at Gainesville and a woman's college here in Tallahassee, said that the students rejoiced over the consolidation of the numerous state-supported schools throughout the state.

"Today, I am not in favor of coeducation unless FSC is made coeducational along with the University of Florida", said he.

DAR Loans Available To Florida Students

Graduates Or Undergraduates May Receive Benefits

The Florida Society of the Daughters of the American Revolution has set up several funds available for loans to students doing graduate or undergraduate work. The committee prefers to make loans to graduates or students of Florida State College, but the funds are available to any Florida students. It is preferred that the loan be used in a Florida institution, but permission may be obtained from the committee for use of the funds in other institutions.

There are several funds available at the present, and Dr Venila Shores, chairman of the loan committee, urges students desiring to borrow money to make application immediately.

"It is too bad that there are students in need of money who do not make use of that which the committee has to lend them," said Dr Shores.

The recipient of the loan is obligated to repay the loan at the earliest opportunity after graduation or leaving school. No loan will be made for a period of more than three years except in individual cases when the committee deems a time extension

Continued on page three

Former Captain Urges Women To Claim Political Birthright

"We shall weaken our strength as a nation and weaken the contribution of half our population unless we decide that women are human beings sharing fully in all responsibilities and privileges," said Captain Dorothy C Stratton, former commander of the SPARS, when interviewed.

Captain Stratton, who delivered the main address for the Alumnae College held here last Friday and Saturday, is on leave of absence from Purdue University, where she is Dean of Women and professor of psychology. During her military service she was over 10,000 enlisted SPARS and 1,000 SPAR officers. She is now special assistant in the Retaining and Reemployment Administration of the United States Department of Labor in Washington, D C.

On being asked about what she thought of women in political affairs she stated. "We are very naive politically. In the first place, we do not understand how to get tarted in politics. Our courses in political science were on much too high a level to explain to us how to run for office in a local community. Until we claim our birthright politically, we may submit as many petitions as we like and recommend plans until we are blue in the face, but we shall get faint hearings and slight action until women are represented on our legislative bodies."

Regarding the field of education, Captain Stratton said, "Women are doing the hewing of wood and the drawing of water in the classrooms, but they have little share in making the policies of public schools, state universities, or women's colleges. On many governing boards of coeducational universities both public and private, there is no woman member, and on some only 'a token payment of one.' It is unthinkable for us to believe that hundreds of thousands of young women should continue to be educated in our public institutions with a mere token payment of women on the governing boards which make the policy."

In reply to the question "What we can do about the situation?" Miss Stratton said "There are certain immediate things than can be done and there are other

Continued on Page Three

Mortar Board Taps 17 With Colvin Head

Leaps, Whoops Precede Mortified Attack On 7 Goats

Traditional Entertainments Honor Mortar Board

In a dark auditorium lighted only by three torches in the center of the stage, the annual tapping of new members by the Torchbearers chapter of Mortar Board took place to the strains of "Pomp and Circumstance", as the black-robed members, faculty advisors, and alumnae members of the organization walked down the aisle and took their places in a double semicircle on the stage

When the group was assembled on the stage, Maurine Ashton, Shirley Duggan and Bea Weaver sang the Mortar Board ideals after which Mrs Lou E Miller spoke on the three qualities of Mortar Board: leadership, scholarship and service. Ann Carolyn Allison then read "The Torch", the poem of Mortar Board.

Traditional tapping began with Bea Weaver, president, tapping Ann Colvin, who will be next year's president. Others tapped were Robin Hill, Barbara Wickham, Harriet Kirk, Mary Louise White, Sarah Lewis, Eleanor

Continued on page four

Flambeau Holds Annual Banquet

Press Cards Serve As Halos For "Angelic" Journalists

An "angelic" theme was carried out at the annual Flambeau banquet held Friday evening on the porch of the Mecca. Guests for this occasion included Dr and Mrs Harold F Richards, Mr and Mrs Earl L Vance, Mr and Mrs Herbert L Hackett, Winifred Meldrim, Mary Charles Skipper and Mary Jo Whidden.

The banquet theme was carried out on programs which were red angels with halos topped by a press card. These figures bore the name of each person on the left wing. For this occasion the reporters were dubbed "cherubs", the upper staff, "seraphims," and the faculty guests "archangels." The mistress of ceremonies, Peggy Kay was called the "hornblower" in observance of Music week.

Spontaneous speeches on "heavenly" subjects by faculty guests and Shirley Rodgers, newly elected editor of the Flambeau, provided entertainment for the occasion. The mistress of ceremonies, who was accompanied by a chorus consisting of Peggy Lu Thompson, Kay Van Deurs and Jane Hardacre, introduced each speaker by singing an original song. Following this each senior present was called upon for a short talk.

Students Perform In Benefit Program

The ballet "Rhapsody in Blue", the singing trio and the college tumblers went back to high school this week.

To help raise funds for a new Tallahassee hospital, they appeared at Leon High school on a benefit program arranged by the Kiwanis club.

Dancers in the ballet under the direction of Patsy Gilliam were Pat Small, Bertie Loftus, Virginia Wilson, Jane Hardacre, Mary Sade, Lorraine Smith and Betty Jean Phillips.

The "Hawaiian War Chant" and "Are You Kidding" were sung by Laura Simpson, Betty Thones and Hazel Clarkson.

Rosa Lee Davis, Dot Wynn, Patsy Callahan, Vera Gone, Dot Bowers, Elaine Gavigan, Barbara Tait, Amelia Pavese, Jeannie Booth and Drucilla Ganann made up the group of tumblers.

Carver Appoints Chairman-Senator

Margery Holmes has been appointed chairman of the honor committee by Rosetta Carver, chairman of judiciary, announced this week. This appointment automatically makes Margery a member of Senate.

According to the student handbook, the chairman of the committee on honor is selected from the senior or junior members of Judicary by the chairman of the College Council in consultation with the chairman of Judicary.

Those eligible for this position were Betty Schwartz, Margery Holmes, Babs McCarthy, Irma Lee Shepard, and Amagene Thompson.

Revised Amendment Regarding Election Procedures To Be Submitted To Faculty Group

Special Senate to Be Held This Afternoon at Five For Discussion of CGA Constitution; Reports, Nominations Slated

The proposed amendment to the College Government Association constitution concerning nominations, elections and appointments to CGA and class offices was passed at the first meeting of the new Student Senate Wednesday afternoon in the Longmire auditorium. This amendment will now be submitted to the Faculty Committee on Student Affairs.

A called meeting of Senate will be held this afternoon at 5 p m in the Longmire auditorium during which time the CGA constitution is slated for discussion. Other business to be taken up at this meeting includes reports of the legislative, codifying, organizations, nominations, auditins, social standards and usher committees. Nominations for chairmen of these committees for the coming year will be made and candidates for approximately eight dormitory offices will also be nominated.

Drawn up by the Senate amendment committee under the chairmanship of Shirley Duggan, the new amendment more clearly defines qualifications for eligibility and keeps the qualifications and approvals in the hands of the student nominations committee.

The proposed amendment will now be sent to the faculty amendment committee for discussion with the Student Senate amendment committee, and from there will be passed on to the Faculty Committee on Student Affairs. If approved, the amendment will be returned to Student Senate for approval before being posted for a two weeks period. Final steps in adding this article to the constitution, will be a vote of the student body.

Major insertions made in the amendment at this week's meeting were the addition of "and shall immediately inform any student of her ineligibility according to the requirements in order that she may make the necessary adjustments, if possible, prior to the election," to the portion of Section three which reads, "Before nominations are made public, the committee shall secure a proper check on the candidate's health, academic, and point load requirements as set forth in sections one and two of this article."

A Section six was also added to the amendment concerning class elections. It reads, "In the case of class elections, the executive officers of each class shall be responsible for nominations and elections in their respective classes. They shall secure the proper check on the candidate's health, academic, and point load as set forth in sections 1 and II of this article and shall inform any student of her ineligibility in order that she may make proper adjustments, if possible, before the election. They shall further provide for the keeping of the polls and shall count the ballots of the election. The presidents of the classes shall sign and publish the returns of the election after they have been declared valid by the executive officers of the class

Psychologist Collaborates

Chapter of Recent Book Written by Heinlein

Dr C P Heinlein, professor of experimental psychology at Florida State College, is one of the contributors to the recently published book, Twentieth Century Psychology.

The book, which covers the major fields of contemporary psychology was written in collaboration by C P Heinlein; Knight Dunlap, head of the psychology department at the University of California at Los Angeles; E C Tolman, University of California; Kurt Lewin, University of Iowa; Leonard Carmichael, president of Tufts College; W V Bingham, War Department; Max Schoen, Carnegie Institute; G W Hartmann, Harvard University; and H Cantril, Princeton University

In commenting on the book, Professor Gardner Murphy of Columbia University, describes the contents as being "extremely competent and effective, and really representative of the best psychological research and thought.'

In his chapter on aesthetic experience, Dr Heinlein reviews the methodology and research findings in musical psychology. In this same chapter, he describes the results of his own expreimental investigations in musical aesthetics which he conducted at Johns Hopkins and Lehigh University, and also results which he obtained from his experimental work done under the auspices of the National Research Council.

Certain principles in musical psychology are advanced by Dr Heinlein, principles which he believes will serve as a guide to persons who are working in the rapidly expanding field of musical therapy. He is convinced that musical therapy will play an increasingly dominant role in the rehabilitation of patients who suffer from certain varieties of mental disorder and emotional maladjustment.

Dr Heinlein received his training in musical psychology and composition under Otto Ortmann of Peabody Conservatory of Music in Baltimore. He has published numerous articles on musical psychology in various scientific journals.

Freshmen Fill 200 Boxes in Project

The freshman class completed their annual project recently when they turned in approximately 200 Red Cross boxes filled with small articles for children in war-stricken areas overseas. Each box was given to six students to be filled.

Boxes were to be filled from among the following articles: pencils, crayons, paper pads, cakes of soap, toothbrushes, toothpaste, washcloths, pocket combs, needles thread, thimbles, buttons, handkerchiefs, and various small toys.

These Red Cross boxes are to be turned in to the Red Cross headquarters Monday to be sent overseas immediately.

Members of the committee were: Virginia Allen, Marilyn Bassitt Martha Jane Bird, Betty Calhoun, Priscilla Carter, Pete Day, Artye Futrelle, Margaret Graydon, Rovena Hutchinson, Janelle Knight, Shirley Longino, Mary Ellen Luther, Margaret Marshall, Dorothy Martin, Marie Moe, Ruth Ellen Olsen, Amante Semmes, Sally Slater, Mary Louise Smith, Catherine Stanford, Lucy Stapleton, Frances Stulck, Ann Teague, and Joyce Williams.

Flastocowo Names Snapshot Winners

The winners of the snapshot contest sponsored by the Flastacowo were announced this week. The winners and those receiving honorable mention are: Estill Malphurs, first prize; Nancy Gleaton, second prize, Mrs Georgia L Marshall, Margaret Alice Elliot, and Marie Dans, honorable mention.

"The winners of this contest will be notified through the campus mail as to the prizes they will receive," said Jane Lyles, who is in charge of the contest. This snapshot in the contest will be included in the activities section of the 1945-46 Flastacowo.

Reports Presented During Last Forum

The last student forum of the year was held last night at 8 p m in 303 Westcott.

Sarah Lewis, newly-elected president of the College Government association, and Ann Carolyn Allison, past president, gave their reports on the convention of the Southern Intercollegiate Association of Student Governments that they attended in Greenville, North Carolina, last month.

Margaret Baugn, Robin Hill, and Peggy Lu Thomson, representatives of Florida State College at the convention of the Florida Student Government Association and Florida Intercollegiate Press Association at DeLand presented a summary of the topcis discussed at that time. The most important of which was coeducation.

Trip Announced

Dr Carmen Rogers of the English department has announced that she is planning a trip to Mexico this summer for any students who wish to go.

Those students interested in taking the trip are asked to contact Dr Rogers by calling 872-R or sending a note to Box 1077 campus mail.

SPIRIT OF THE WEEK

Yep, first time I've gotten up for breakfast in four years!

● BY THE PEOPLE

The opportunity for students to express their opinions to Senate, for the purpose of formulating plans for a new constitution or at least changes in the one under which we live, will be given this afternoon at 5 o'clock in the Longmire building auditorium.

We understand that two suggestions have been offered concerning this problem: (1) that a constitutional committee be appointed or elected to work on the constitution; and (2) that a constitutional convention be held this summer for this purpose.

It is advisable that students participate in this discussion today to determine either the wiser of these two proceedings, or to suggest better methods by which to improve the students' law.

We are sometimes inclined to regard formal legislation as a matter for lawyers and "intellectuals." We should realize, however, that we cannot have "government by the people" unless the people concerned are willing to contribute their efforts and ideas to that government.

● IT WAS GOOD FOR CHAPEL HILL---

The University of North Carolina at Chapel Hill has a new student constitution.

This constitution, according to an editorial appearing in the May 3 issue of The Daily Tar Heel, gives the students more freedom and more control of their own affairs. It guarantees every student a fair trial before the student courts and the right to face his accuser; the student body shall have the powers of referendum, initiative, and recall, enabling them to change acts they do not like, initiate new acts, and rid themselves of incompetent officers; every agency of student government will be consistently coordinated under written law so there will be no overlapping of authority; adherence to the Honor Code and Campus Code will be required, and student courts will be set up to insure enforcement.

In answer to the objections advanced by the opposition, and in particular to the one stating that the dean of women was reputed to be opposed to the constitutoin, the Tar Heel went on to say that "the student constitution is none of the business of the deans or administration, and that regardless of what some progressive faculty members might say to the contrary, the administration has always been reactionary in granting additional student control of student affairs. We must fight for the power which we have, and we can have just as much as we can forcefully acquire."

It was also argued that the proposed constitution would injure the Honor System. The editorial, in reply to this argument, continued: "In trials before the highest student court, the accused will have the right to face the accuser . . . It is better that ten guilty student go free than that one innocent student be expelled from school. In the past, we have foolishly assumed that justice can be done by student politicians locked in executive session behind closed doors."

It was not argued by the proponents of the constitution on the Chapel Hill campus that it would solve the many problems of student government; however, it was argued that it guaranteed a framework upon which the student body will have the optimum opportunity to base its decision and legislation. All good constitutions can be amended!

It should be the aim of all college campuses, if they propose to be ever progressive and liberal, to secure a student government which will truly provide for student freedom and student control of their own affairs. The student body at Chapel Hill should be commended for its recent action. Other universities and colleges less fortunate should take note of Carolina's victory.

● THE HALF OF KNOWLEDGE

"The half of knowledge is to know where to find knowledge."

Though this is a very nice philosophy and a very enlightening one, some 2300 protegees of this touted learning find it most difficult to crash the doors of our repository of knowledge, the library. The library is the place where students search diligently for their knowledge, assuredly, but unfortunately, it remains closed during those odd hours when the most effective work could be done.

Unless books are checked out of the reserve room between the hours of two and five Saturday afternoon, this room is of absolutely no use to students until the following Monday morning. There are hundreds of times in which, if one were permitted to make use of this part of the library over the weekend, unlimited amounts of work might be accomplished. At no time on Saturday evening is the library open. For only a short period on Saturday afternoon are the periodical room and the browsing room opened. The library is never opened before 9 o'clock on weekday mornings, and remains closed during meal hours and during convocation and special program hours, regardless of those of the student body who would rather spend their time in the library.

The library at the University of Florida is open daily at 8 o'clock in the morning and stays open, regardless of such important events as Honors Day, until 10:30 that night. There is no closing hour for lunch nor for dinner.

What so many of those in authority seem not to realize is that these extra hours, these out-of-the-way hours of the day, night and week-end, are vitally needed now. It was needed before the speed-up in class schedules, but with the initiation of the quarter system and its greatly accelerated mass-production pace, access to the library at all times is vital.

An official of the library has said that such a system would require a greatly increased staff. At least four staff librarians are on duty at all times, with two or more student assistants under them. Why is this necessary? Is there any reason why a student could not be trained and put in charge of one, two or more of these sections? Could not the staff of student assistants be increased for this extra duty, or the present staff be rotated along the odd hours? Why, especially, cannot the students be trusted among the stacks, in the reference room and in periodical room? However, if a larger staff is needed, should that become a stumbling block in the pathway of knowledge-seekers? Should we not, rather, enlarge the staff as needed?

For all these reasons and by all these means, we ask that the students be permitted a freer and more constant use of their library.

● EQUALITY

College government may be defined as the governmental form set up with the powers divided and shared by the faculty and the students of an institution. It is the form of government that seems to be most suited to such a community as ours where there are two distinct interests to be served. We must, in thinking and acting on campus matters, take into consideration that the academic pursuit in which we are engaged is the business of the faculty, but at the same time we must realize that the civil government of the community is our domain.

It is up to us, as thinking citizens, to claim and to clean out this domain—our backyard. We have shown our desire to do this, and we must continue to do so. But in doing this, we must remember that the supreme power of the government must lie equally with us, the ones who live under its rule, as with the faculty who have it only as a by-product of their positions.

Harold J Laski has quoted Chief Justice Holmes of the United States Supreme Court in the September 1937 Harper's as saying, "Freedom of contract begins only where equality of bargaining power begins also." This statement may be applied to any community in which there is a sharing of powers between two groups, and to be democratic in such a situation, neither group should ever have arbitrary control over another. Arbitrary control denies all fundamentals of democracy, and even though we cannot claim absolute democracy, it is the ideal to be held and to be worked toward. Only through democratic methods can each person have part in making the decisions by which he lives, and only by decisions in which all take part can be decided that which will bring the greatest good for the greatest number.

This means that neither students nor faculty should be more powerful on our campus—it means that we should share equally in the running of our college.

As young citizens, although we may not have yet reached the arbitrary age of 21, we must take our share in the responsibilities of any government of which we are a part. Without proper training in such matters, we will too easily fall prey to powerful forces that operate against our interests when we do reach that arbitrary age. We must be prepared to assume and to share responsibilities and decisions with our fellow citizens.

Any group who takes part in the drawing up of a new constitution under which we will operate the government of Florida State College should remember the words Henry Clay spoke in 1829: "Government is a trust, and the officers of the government are trustees; and both the trust and the trustees are created for the benefit of the people.

Music Honorary To Initiate Members

Pi Kappa Lambda, musical honorary fraternity, will hold initiation services Saturday afternoon at 4 o'clock. Following the ceremonies a formal dinner will be given for the initiates in the East Dining hall. Dean Karl Kuersteiner will be the speaker for the occasion.

Those faculty members being initiated are Owen Sellers, associate professor of cello, Miss Ramona Beard, associate professor of organ, Miss Olga Eitner, associate professor of violin, Miss Margaret Dunn and Miss Virginia Holmes, instructors in piano and Miss Helen Rogers, instructor in public school music. Student initiates are Dolly Sutton, Fawn Trawick, Eleanor Bragg and Rachel Crotwell.

Student Recitals Concluded May 23

The last student recital for this year will be held in Westcott Auditorium at 5 o'clock, May 23. The recital will include not only student solos but several selections from the college orchestra as well.

The program will feature piano solos by Ann Carolyn Allison, Sally Slater, Esther Brinkman, Jonnie Mires, Edith Smith, vocal solos by Pat Harrison, a violin solo by Rachel Crotwell, a viola solo by Marna Smith, an organ solo by Fawn Trawick, and a Mozart composition by the orchestra.

College Comments . . .

By PAULETTE BLANK

Woman's College—'Distinguished for Its Democracy'." That is the outstanding phrase which underlies the title of the Carolinian, publication of the Woman's College of the University of North Carolina, in an article entitled, "Woman's College: An Evaluation," these thoughts were expressed by a member of the student body. The student said that after four years of living in the liberal thinking atmosphere, she felt qualified to evaluate the effect of that claim upon her life. In doing this, she said, "A democracy is a government that recognizes the importance and the individuality of the individual. This has been found at Woman's College. It is a fine thing when an administrative staff works on the principle that each person is an individual unto herself and that there is place for exceptions. That 'responsible freedom' is the watch word of the administration is indicative of our policy."

The Carolinian—Woman's College of the University of North Carolina

• • •

The students of Agnes Scott evidently have a goal in mind, for there the representative council meeting proposed a number of important changes in campus government with the purpose of progressing. "Two weeks ago the president of student government called Agnes Scott's student leaders together—leaders of all classes and all major organizations. A lively discussion followed, bringing forth in the concrete, workable form the ideas we have all had at the back of our minds. Concrete suggestions and helpful criticism emerged from that meeting, ideas that might never have come to light without the stimulus the conference provided."

News—Agnes Scott College.

• • •

Moving on to our Florida brothers, it is discovered that they, too, are laboring unedr several grievances of quite a different nature. Their main concern has been for some time the matter of getting roofs over their heads. With the new provision of housing for 500, things are looking up for them, and their fears of braving the wind and rain next year have vanished. With this trouble alleviated, another one takes the spot light. It seems as though the Alligator is havin difficulties in getting paper; consequently, its bulk fallen away to a mere double page. If these conditions continue, they will be unable to publish the next issue.

Florida Alligator—University of Florida.

• • •

The fellows at Georgia Tech seem quite versed in giving out with the tributes to something or other. One of these is amied at a favored professor.

"Thanks, thanks to thee, my worthy friend,
For the lesson thou hast taught.
For at your flaming forge of life
Our fortunes must be wrought;
Our grades approach a limit zero,
But you are still our stalwart hero."

Showing their versatility in the art, they cover many other subjects.

"Women were made before mirrors and have been before them ever since."

—or—

Bobby: Since I met you, I can't eat or drink.

Bootsy: Why not?

Bobby: I'm broke.

Technique—Georgia School of Technology.

Your Gal Sharpie

By Sharpie

Someone feeling like Pygmalion in the last chapter of Conversation at Midnight sent in the "categories of Florida State College students." Sharpie ignores it since Pyg didn't ask a question or say anything except that FSC stdents are "40 per cent morons, 20 per cent peasants, 25 per cent religious fanatics and colorless personalities, 13 per cent them that study but has no original opinions or aims that dominate their lives, and 2 per cent mad geniuses what has an aim."

An "Inquisitive Senior" (imagine!) wrote a letter that said: "Sharpie 2, I just don't understand! Neither do the very new chairman of Senate and the ditto secretary of Senate — who, bless her heart, performs nobly if laboriously in longhand, no mean feat, I mean to tell ya."

'Is every Senate going to last two and a half hours like the one Wednesday, merely because every one who says anything speaks so very indistinctly that she has to repeat each word several times for the benefit of one or two persons?"

Oh, no, Inquisitive One. This was an unusual meeting, and if there aren't usually more than two persons who "just don't understand" what's going on in Senate, I ain't your gal Sharpie.

"What a funny thing I read today, about administrative officers," the last letter goes. "It said: 'They live patently comfortable, secure lives; their tenure of office comes only rarely in danger as long as they behave. And, in turn, their major preoccupation is to prevent any "disturbance" to the smooth, tranquil, uncontroversial flow of university affairs; such controversies, whatever their merits, will inevitably require "explanations" to those who want academic peace at any price."

No problem there.

Examination Schedule

THIRD QUARTER 1945-46
June 3—June 6

It is possible that a special arrangement can be made for a student who has four examinations the same day, provided request is made in writing by May 20, Dr M W Carothers, registrar, announced.

First Year Languages	Monday June 3. 8:25- 9:55
History 101-102	Monday June 3. 10:05-11:35
M W F 4:00 M, T, W, TH. 4:00 Five-hour courses meeting at 4:00 One or Two-hour courses meeting M. W. or F. at 4:00	Monday June 3. 11:45- 1:15
Freshman English	Monday June 3. 2:15- 3:45
M. W. F. 3:00 T. W. Th. F. 3:00 Five-hour courses meeting at 3:00 One or two-hour courses meeting on M. W. or F. at 3:00	Monday June 3. 3:55- 5:25
Humanities and Social Studies In case of conflict, go to Humanities at 8:25: Go to Social Studies in Room 309W on Tuesday at 10:05	Tuesday June 4. 8:25- 9:55
Biological and Physical Sciences In case of conflict, go to Biological Science at 8:25 on Tuesday in 310H: Go to Physical Science at 10:05	Tuesday June 4. 10:05-11:35
M. W. F. 2:00; M. T. W. F. 2:00 Five-hour courses meeting at 2:00 One or Two-hour courses meeting M. W. or F. at 2:00	Tuesday June 4. 11:45- 1:15
Physical Education 121, 122, 123, 241. 103	Tuesday June 4. 2:15- 3:15
Journalism 103	Tuesday June 4. 3:25- 4:25
Speech 101	Tuesday June 4. 4:35- 5:35
Health Education 105	Wednesday June 5. 8:55- 9:55
Second Year Languages	Wednesday June 5. 10:05-11:35
T, Th, S. 12:00 M, T, Th, S. 12:00 One or Two-hour courses meeting M. W. F. at 12:00	Wednesday June 5. 11:45- 1:15
M. W. F. 12:00 Five-Hour courses meeting at 12 One or Two-hour courses meeting M. W. or F. at 12:00	Wednesday June 5. 2:15- :345
T, Th, S. 11:00 T, Th, 11:00; W. F. 12:00 One or Two-hour courses meeting T. Th. S. at 11:00	Wednesday June 5. 3:55- 5:25
M. W. F. 11:00 M. W. F. S. 11:00 Five-hour course meeting at 11:00 One or Two-hour courses meeting at 11:00	Thursday June 6. 8:25- 9:55
T. Th. S. 10:00 T. Th. F. S. 10:00 One and Two-hour courses meeting T. Th. or S. at 10:00	Thursday June 6. 10:05-11:35
M. W. F. at 10:00 M. W. 10:00; T. Th. 9:00 Five-hour courses meet at 10:00 One and two-hour courses meeting M. W or F. at 10:00	Thursday June 6. 11:45- 1:15
T. Th. S. 9:00 One or two-hour course meeting T. Th. S. at 9:00	Thursday June 5. 2:15- 3:45
M. W. F. 9:00 M. W. F. S. 9:00 Five-hour courses meeting at 9:00 One or two-hour courses meeting M. W. or F. at 9:00	Thursday June 6. 3:55- 5:25

The Students Speak..

As a result of the recent award of honors in various fields there has been much discussion concerning grades, honoraries, and honors. For this reason, the following question was asked several students:

Of what value do you consider honors as awarded on this campus?

Answers:

I believe that it is a real honor to be tapped for Phi Beta Kappa. Phi Beta Kappa is recognized all over the country, and its requirements cover your entire college program. Departmental honoraries, however, seem to me to be too limited to be of any real value.

Alice Phillips, senior.

I do not consider grades a reliable basis for awarding honors. The honoraries which tap by averages I believe to be doing an injustice to an individual's self-expression.

June Chyna, sophomore

Honors are important and valuable if they are awarded fairly. The most intelligent girls, however, do not always make the best grades. Grades are usually made by those who are working solely for them.

Mrs Mary Elizabeth Hallen, junior

Honors are something to wor for, to stimulate the desire fo higher scholastic standing. A diploma is worth more from campus that has a chapter o Phi Beta Kappa. I think it grand that students who have th ability to excel can be recognized by hoonrs.

Gloria Hughes, sophomore

Scholastic honoraries such a Phi Beta Kappa, Phi Kappa Ph etc, are serving a useful purpo for they recognize pure scholast achievement, and membership them is based on the attainmen of a certani grade level. Othe honoraries of the nature of Spirogira, Esteren, and Mortified bas their qualifications for membership on intangible attributes whic they do not explain, and wit which they may endow any prospective member.

Sis Myers, junior.

I believe the honors awarde on campus are valuable in tha they induce the students to wor harder toward that end. Hoo may have an appealing effect o employers if they should happe to look up the college record However, awards are not alwa given to those who are deservin I feel that Phi Beta Kappa ar such honoraries are to be valu next to the college diploma.

Barbara Mizer, freshman

In most cases the honorarie are representative of the leade in their special groups, but perhaps it is difficult to make th choice as to who is a leader an who is not. Especially in the ca of Sophomore Council. I thi Sophomore Council should b stressed as a service orgaoization more than an honorary. Wi so many honoraries stressin leadership and service in vario fields, it seems confusing whe each one tries to spread out i all directions.

Carol Claus, sophomore

Trio to Perform

The faculty trio will present a concert in Panama City, May under the auspices of the hi school band. The trio consistin of Miss Mary Winslow, pianis Miss Olga Eitner, violinist and M Owen Seller, celloist, will pla both solo and ensemble number

Cats, Cards, Flowers and Wires Are Given by Devoted Daughters at FSC

Candy, flowers, hunting jackets, cats . . . were sent by mail and otherwise to the mothers of FSC students last week. Things really started moving Friday when students went home for the week-end to be right there with mother or her day. Beginning at 7 Sunday morning the phone lines were busy with calls from the girls who remained on campus.

A long line in front of the post office window could be seen last Thursday and Friday when girls were mailing home gifts. Among the unusual presents sent was a cat, Luther, which Joyce Palmer sent to her mother in Tampa by way of an aunt who was going there. Mrs Cone of Winter Park received a hunting jacket from daughter, Vera. Most girls, however, just stuck to the conventional flowers, candy and cards. Some mothers sent their daughters candy and flowers, too.

Another busy spot was the Western Union office. Many strange telegrams were received by the girls here. Some were from mothers and others were not. One student who is to be married in June got a telegram from a friend wishing her a happy Mother's Day next year.

There are many mothers right here on campus: sorority mother sophomore council mothers an F-club mothers, for instanc Some of them were presente flowers by devoted daughters flowers which must have looke strangely familiar to the gardeners.

Nancy McEdwards and Bet Donnally, were different and too F-club daughters Doris DuBo and Amelia Pavese out to supper Sunday night. The placecard were small goats with pictures o the faces of the daughters paste on the heads.

However it was spent, Mother Day seems to have been a happ day for all.

History Honorary Initiates Six Girl

Initiation ceremonies for P Alpha Theta, national histo honorary, were held Tuesd afternoon in the History buildi The six girls initiated at this tim include Martha Jane Brown, An Carolyn Allison, Mahle Ruth Pop Joanne Newman, Maria Garc and Gloria Reed.

A coffee honoring the new initiates was held Thursday night the home of Dr Venila Shores.

The Florida Flambeau

1946-1947 STAFF
EDITORIAL STAFF
SHIRLEY RODGERS .... Ed
MAY ALEXANDER, BETTY DOWD, B J McLEOD, LOLA ROSE . Associate Ed
JOYCE PETTY .... Managing E
BARBARA FARRAR .... Assistant Managing E
LAURA LEE BUTLER JEAN DOUGLAS .... News Ed
Copy Editor .... Winifred L
Assistant Copy Editors .... Eleanor Bayer, Jean Bess, Kay venDe
Society Editors .... Barbara Lanford, Paulette B
Feature Editors .... Alicia Armstrong, Jacqueline Ne
Sports Editor .... Evelyn S
Outside News Editor .... Marjorie C
Opinion Editors .... Jo Dunagan, June Grind
Headline Editor .... M J Sherman, Virginia B
Columnists .... Beryl Kitchen, "Sharp
Picture Editor .... Paulette B
Art Editor .... Jean Sh
Copy Girl .... Peggy
REPORTERS: Dorothy Aberle, Inez Augustine, Jeanne Bagley, Bobbye Bra Barbara Brown, Francine Dunning, Jeenne DuPree, Ann Furlong, Margaret G don, Idana Griffith, Jene Hardacre, Jeani Harris, Frances Hull, Tobi Jacobs Jeen Law, Jean Lord, Lei Marshall, Anne Moore Anna Lee Moss, Cheryl Mu Melba McElwain, Edna Pope, Janira Richey, Rita Silverman, Harriet Simmons, Small, Emma Jean Smith, Margaret Smith, Nancy Stevens, Marilyn Till, Tucker, Frances Wesson and Joanne Zewedski.

BUSINESS STAFF
Vivian Scheaffer .... Business Man
Sally Wetson .... Assistant Business Man
Kitty Chaires .... Advertising Man
Dorothy Bloodworth .... Assistant Advertising Man
Nancy Stevens, Ann Furlong, Jean Lieberman .... Advertising S
Terry Sellers, Gladys Clarke, Marjorie Burns .... Circulat

Entered as second class mail matter, January 30, 1915, at the post at Tallahassee Fla., under the act of Congress of March 3, 1879.

Member
Intercollegiate Press

It is the policy of the Flambeau to grant equal space and prominence to anyone wishing to present a contrary opinion whenever opinions on controversial questions are voiced in its columns.

Athletes' Feats

By Evelyn Shea

watching the No 1 singles m tennis Wednesday, ten- champions everywhere had look to their laurels for out courts we have the makings Pauline Betzes and Sarah Cooks. Babe Evans of Or- and Pauline Tuttle of West Beach, exhibited champion- form in their hard-fought one contest and with some up should become out- players in this field of if they choose to go further

Evans' net play was espe- outstanding and her were deadly. Miss Tuttle's court play and deep drives Miss Evans at bay many Both players exhibited stamina in the second set Miss Evans went all out to that set 9-7 to capture the NT FORGET . . . To go out Odd-Even softball game to- five o'clock and also to the courts to see the No 1 game to be played after rained out yesterday . . . to playnight tonight. . .

TA' KNOW . . . That WRA considering the passage of a rule prove Odd-Even competition prohibiting a girl who goes out sport from working on the demonstrations . . . This bill also serve to keep any one girl taking on too much respon-CHIDS TO . . . All the offi- who did such a swell job this in officiating at the softball, and badminton games.

al Performance

Continued from page one

Mary Ann Cannon; Louise Illingsworth, Ani- costumes, Burma Cox; crew, stagecraft classes; Ruth Kennedy; head Bettye and Bobbye Usher; manager, Harriett Dews, as- by Fay Bass.

AIR CONDITIONED
FLORIDA
TODAY · TOMORROW
Clark GABLE Greer GARSON Adventure
SUNDAY - MONDAY
ABILENE TOWN
with RANDOLPH SCOTT
ANN DVORAK
TUES. — WED.
Bedside Manner
JOHN CARROLL
RUTH HUSSEY
Charlie Ruggles · Ann Rutherford
THURS. THRU SAT.
The Blue Dahlia
ALAN LADD
VERONICA LAKE

COOL WASHED-AIR
STATE
NOW — TOMORROW
"Days of Buffalo Bill"
"Behind Green Lights"
SUNDAY MONDAY
"Terror by Night"
Basil Rathbone and Nigel Bruce
"Girl of the Limberlost"
Ruth Nelson
TUES. and WED.
"Kiss and Tell"
Shirley Temple
THURSDAY ONLY
"One Way to Love"
AND Joan Bennett
"Scarlet Street"

COOL WASHED-AIR
RITZ
NOW — TOMORROW
"All of the Prarie"
—AND—
"People Are Funny"
SUNDAY — MONDAY
"Rhapsody in Blue"
Joan Leslie
—ALSO—
"Scared Stiff"
TUES. THRU THURS.
"Bells of St. Mary's"
Bing Crosby
—ALSO—
"The Spider"

Nita Bowles Elected President of PEA

Committee of Four to Revise Present Constitution

The Physical Education Association held their election of officers Monday night with Juanita Bowles being elected president, Joyce Cayce, vice-president, and Peggy Becknell, secretary-treasurer.

There has been a committee of four appointed to revise the PEA constitution It will be reviewed by the committee, and their major purpose is to change the name of the association to the Association of Health, Recreation, and Physical Education.

The members of PEA have undertaken, as a project, to clear off the putting green below the basketball courts. The plot of ground will be reworked and made to be the same type putting green as those found on regular golf courses. The green will be used for the orientation as well as the advanced golf classes,' says Evelyn Stuckey outgoing president of PEA.

Intramurals Finish Monday Afternoon

Tennis singles and doubles will be played today at 5 o'clock. The finals in tennis singles will be played between Mott Wight, Delta Delta Delta representative, and Flo Lyies of Alpha Delta Pi. Tennis doubles have moved to semifinals with Jeanette Chapman and Margaret Olson playing for Kappa Delta, and Evelyn Breedlove and George Williams, for Broward. The second set will be played between Polly Blank and Jane Arnold of Alpha Chi Omega and Maggy Flynn and Georgia Jaeckel of Chi Omega.

Intramurals in bowling were ended today with Alpha Chi Omega placing first with high score of 669 Delta Phi Epsilon followed with 664, and Delta Delta Delta, with 657.

Each team had three players who played two games. Jane Arnold was high scorer on the Alpha Chi team.

Swimming intramurals will be held at 5 Monday afternoon in the gym. All team entries are to be in Saturday afternoon in 224 Broward, according to Ann Stambaugh, intramurals manager. Each team will be made up of five players.

READ THE FLAMBEAU ADVERTISEMENTS.

THE COUNTRY HOUSE
Specializing in RANCHBURGERS—
CHEESEBURGERS
Country House BBQ & Sauce
(Our Own)
Hours—12 Noon to 12 Midnite
We will be glad to deliver your order of 10 or more sandwiches
PLEASE PLACE ORDER
BY 9 P. M.
TELEPHONE 2-147-L
This Service Exclusive to FSCW

Attention Counselors

All girls who expect to be counselors at camps this summer are requested to attend a meeting at five o'clock Tuesday in room 202 of the Physical Education building. The meeting is designed to help girls who are to become counselors and was especially recommended by the directors of the various camps to which the girls will go.

Square Dance Will Be Given Thursday

A square dance, which will be given Thursday night, May 23, in front of the west dining hall as one of the features of after dinner recreation was announced this week by Bopie Whitaker. Connie Savage and Georgia Jaeckel will provide the music for the dance by playing fiddles and will be accompanied by Betty Long on the accordian.

As a part of the program, the F-club goats played softball against a team made up of other students on last Tuesday night, and as soon as equipment can be obtained, plans are being mada for shuffleboard, hop-skotch, volleyball, badminton, and newcomb.

Roller skates are also available, and may be checked out from the laundry room of Gilchrist.

Bowling Considered As Odd-Even Sport

Bowling may be considered by Women's Recreational Association as an Odd-Even sport for next year according to Betty Gardiner, president. A decision will be made on the matter at a meeting of the association next Wednesday, and comments on the subject will be welcomed by all WRA members.

Other business at this meeting will be the election of leaders in badminton, tennis, golf and baseball for the 1947 season. Representatives to WRA for the summer session will also be chosen at this time to plan a summer sports program and to continue the business left from the winter season.

Life Saving Corps Nomes Candidates

The ten candidates for offices of the Life Saving corps are Mary Nell Goldman and Gloria McVey for president, Joyce Cayce and Jean Fleiss for the first mate, Anna Horne and Betty Dixon for second mate, Grace Bradley, Thelma Haymon, Em Nickenson and Betty Burch for Yeoman.

Honorable discharge from presidency will be received by Gladys Lester and from the offices of instructor, captain and secretary-treasurer by Margery Holm, Anna Horne and Joyce Cayce.

Ballots in post office boxes today must be returned by campus mail to box 394.

MENTION THE FLAMBEAU WHEN SHOPPING.

Primrose House
HERE DWELLS BEAUTY
Spring up Pretty up

Matching lipstick and oail polish fashion-right colors

Maraschino . . .
light, bright and gay
Pink Magnolia . . . delightful springy pink Matador . . .
touched with soft, warm brown Medium . . . vibrant, right with everything
Red Sague . . .
blue undertone to harmonize with pastels
Bio Red . . . deep, dark, smoldering

$1.75 value for $1.00 plus tax
Regular $1.00 lipstick and 75¢ nail polish—both for $1.00
LIMITED TIME!
BENNETT'S
COLLEGE INN PHARMACY
PHONE 800
MONROE ST. PHARMACY
PHONE 93

"Gad-About Goat" Was Title Of "F" Club Sing Friday

"Gad-About Goat" was the title of the "F" club goat sing given last Friday night at 10 o'clock on Jennie Murphree Hill.

Goat Pavese played the part of the "Gad-About Goat" who took a trip to New York City in order to tour the town, but everywhere she went, whether it was a barber shop, Radio City, Sloppy Jose's, the zoo, or Harlem, she always found goats singing their "F" club tunes.

While strolling through the city she came upon two shoe shine boys, goats Tuttle and Miller, who sang while polishing her dusty hoofs.

In the barber shop, while waiting for a shave (legs of course) goat Seaward and her chorus serenaded her.

Her next visit was the zoo where she found goat Goodell and her chorus.

At Radio City, goat Pavese heard the Andrew Sisters portrayed by goats Miller, Harding, and Dubois: Betty Hutton played by goat Stanaland; and the King Sisters by Tuttle, Shull, Dubois, and Wells. At the opera she heard goat Dewey singing her famous goat opera.

Sloppy Jose's was the next stop where our "Gad-About Goat" found goat Brown and White singing jive and goat Wells portraying a Spaniard.

Then came the vaudeville, a Gay Nineties with a can-can by all. Goats Goodell, Fleiss, Dubois, and Seward were the serenaders in one alley while goats Burch, Shull, and Lindsey were the serenaders in another. Goats Harding and Miller played the part of the singing tramps.

In Harlem she saw the Grand Ol' Opry with a square dance by all the goats, and goat Wells lamenting her blues in the night. In the dark part of town she heard goats White and Brown; then she went to a colored church where she heard all the goats chanting.

The sing ended with a finale in which all the goats sang "Our Promise" and a song by goat Levy. During the performance suckers were given to the members by the goats.

Odds Hold Picnic In Gym After Rain

Odds met last night at 6 o'clock in front of the gymnasium to hold their pep rally because rain prohibited the Games' Woods excursion. Spirogira goats who were in charge of the rally kept the entertainment secret until last night. Main event of the program was the presentation of members of the Odd teams by Nancy Wright who acted as mistress of ceremonies. Team members assisted her in burning an Even effigy in the bonfire. The trio of Laura Simpson, Ruth Kennedy, and Hazel Clarkson provided additional entertainment. Cheerleaders were there to lead songs and cheers.

Another attraction of the pep rally was the box supper, including ham and cheese sandwiches, potato chips, pickles, and soft drinks.

Guests of honor were: Dr and Mrs Paul W Shankweller, junior class sponsors; Mr and Mrs J A Preu, and Miss Caliope Papatses, freshman class sponsors; and members of Odd teams, Spirogira faculty, and alumnae.

Nancy Wright was chairman of the entrtainment; Lea Wells in charge of publicity; Mary Lou Norwood, food; Anne Parker, booth and tickets; and Barbara Mann, announcements.

Spirogira goats are making plans for future events, according to Anne Parker, head goat.

Spirogira annual hayride will be at 5 o'clock Monday. A hayride is given every spring by goats for Spirogira members, alumnae, and faculty. New officers will be elected at that time.

Esteren - Spirogira camp will take place June 7 and 8 at Camp Flastacowo. The Odd honorary is host to the Even honorary this year because of the graduating members of Esteren.

Evens Hold Rally

Evens who "watched for the green feather" as posters advised discovered the feather last night, according to Catherine Sullivan, Esteren member. Six Evens wore 12 inch green feathers to publicize the Even pep rally after dinner last night, in front of the new dining hall. The Evens hung an Odd in effigy with a rope of Even feathers as the main attraction of the rally.

Old Time Minstrel Given on Playnight

An old time minstrel show was presented at playnight last Saturday evening, May 11. The minstrel was cleverly worked out as the dream of an old Negro woman.

As the scene opens a old Negro woman is dreaming of the minstrel she had once seen. The minstrel was given as she saw it in her dream.

The minstrel was in the form of a variety show. Ruth Brokaw did a tap dance and Dallas Stever sang "Stormy Weather." Lucille Pastroff and Sis Miller sang a jive duet and the minstrel ended with chorus singing "In The Evening By The Moonlight."

The members of the minstrel committees that worked to make this minstrel possible are as follows: the skit committee composed of Joyce Cayce, Tot Carter, Martha Nell Booth, and Nancy MacEdwards; the property committee composed of Betty Dixon and Mary Calley; and the publicity committee composed of Helen Stone and Frances Strickland.

Former Captain

Continued from page one

long term changes that can be made. One definite thing we all can do is to encourage young women of ability to take an interest in their progress. All of us come into contact almost daily with young women of ability. A few words of guidance and encouragement might mean much. Another thing we can do immedately is to encourage those women who have had the courage to seek and hold positions of responsibility in the community, state, or nation. Unless women," she continned, "begin to have responsible positions fairly early in their careers, they will never be filled for positions of great responsibility when they have reached the age of maturity." She also stated that the status of women is one of the undetermined factors in our postwar world.

Glee Club Elects

Virginia Der Garry was elected president of FSC's Glee Club last Monday. The other new officers of the Glee Club are as follows: Daphne Lowe, vice president; Ann Townsend, secretary; and Jeanette Chapman, business manager.

Breathless
by
CHARBERT
. . . . enchanting fragrance . . . a lovely new perfume that will be your favorite . . . Also BREATHLESS
EAU de COLOGNE
BATH POWDER
SACHET
MARTIN & DALTON
210 South Adams

Tarpon Club Revises Present Constitution

Plans for Fall Performance Are Now in Progress

Tarpon, not letting practically every other campus organization get ahead of them, is in the throes of changing their constitution with school growth, stated B J Singleton, Tarpon president, after a meeting last Monday afternoon in the Rowena Longmire building. The newly revised constitution was read and discussed. The constitution has been brought up to date and adapted to the quarter system. Some definite and not-so-easily-gotten-around statements have been incorporated in it which is designed make Tarpon click even more smoothly in the future.

Those who are serving on the Constitution revision committee are B J Singleton, Babe Evans, Jo Guthrie, Carol Claus and Barbara Lindsey.

The plans are already in process for Tarpon's fall performance. The girls will begin actual training shortly after returning to school.

Members and minnows who are active on the theme and formation committee are: B J Singleton Carol Claus, Anna Lou Rivers, Sis Myers, Sarah Ellen Glenn, Marjorie Holm, Nancy MacEdwards, Ann Richardson, and Marilyn Watson.

Assortment of Dolls Is Product of Class In Industrial Arts

Playing with dolls is still a popular pastime with Florida State College girls, or at least it is in Miss Sallie William's industrial art class, according to many of her students.

A Chinese boy, some gayly arrayed clowns, a dancer, and an Odd student, complete with Odd cap and a red, purple, and white dress, were among some of the finished products of two weeks' work.

The rag dolls, some regular doll size and some miniature, were made from old stockings stuffed with cotton. From flaxen hair to little leather shoes, the dolls and their clothing, which can be removed, were completely made by the students.

This week the girls have been slaving over a hot stove, not preparing food, but cooking plastic for earrings, pins, and pocketbook handles for their new projects under Miss Williams.

Ceramic costume jewelry, which may be displayed later, is the present interest in one of Mrs Cynthia Snow's classes. Skeleton face buttons and a blackface boy lapel pins will be among the collections after they are baked in the kiln and glazed.

Council Rules

Continued from Page One

Saturday. All npperclass students are requested and expected to vacate their rooms by 2 p m, Monday, June 10.

Since the entire time and attention of the House Managers will be required for the work of cleaning during examination week and commencement, they will not be able to take charge of marking the express, baggage, and storage as they have done in the past, it was announced. It will therefore be necessary for students to assume full responsibility for packing, securing, and marking all pieces of storage, baggage, and express for themselves.

A schedule and instruction sheet was given to the students and they were urged to follow carefully the instructions included. The sheet discussed removal of bicycles, furniture, express, and baggage. Definite dates for moving as well as amount of storage and preparations necessary were also given.

DAR Loans

Continued from page one

necessary. The rate of interest is two per cent, and the recipient pays all costs of collection. If the recipient repays the loan during the first year, there is no interest due. According to Dr Shores, during the five years she has been chairman of the committee, there has not been any loan made which was not repaid before it was due, and the committee has made loans which total approximately $1500 during that time.

If there are any students who wish to make application for a loan they should see Dr Shores in her office or drop her a note in campus mail for detailed information concerning application.

Tired of the life you lead?
Then we have just what you need
—Watsonspeare
What we've got are the most delicious steaks in town. Try 'em!
M & N CAFE
W. JEFFERSON

Softball and Tennis Matches To Conclude Odd-Even Games At 5 o'Clock This Afternoon

Whitaker-Miller to Pitch Softball on Hockey Field Evans Defeats Tuttle in Tennis Singles; Even Team Wins Badminton

Climaxing Odd - Even sports events this afternoon at 5 o'clock will be the Odd-Even softball game and tennis match, according to leaders of the respective teams. Participating in the first doubles tennis match today are Odds, Enid Sandler, captain, and Gloria McVey; Even, Lu Anne Batman and Anne MacInnes. The Odd and Even softball teams will square off on the hockey field in what promises to be an outstanding game. Pitching for the Odds will be "Sis" Miller and Shirley Palmer; for the Evens, Bopie Whitaker.

Tennis was highlighted Wednesday, by the first singles match between Pauline Tuttle, Odd, and Babe Evans, Even, both Florida doubles champions, "Tut," taking the title last year and Babe in '42. Final victory went to Babe, after a close match, the score being 6-1, 9-7. During the second set, the crowd was tense and eyes glued to the swift-moving ball as it was smashed back and forth across the net and the game reached a tie of 6-6. Babe won the next, by two points above deuce. In the eighth game, the score again at deuce, Tut won the advantage points, tieing the game at 7-7. The following two games were won by Babe by a slight margin each time.

Second singles brought a victory to the Odds, with Mary Nell Goldman winning over Joy Little, Even captain, 6-3, 10-8.

Third and fourth singles were played Tuesday. In the third singles were Ann Leach, Odd, and Etta Frazier, Even, the latter being victor, 6-0, 6-3. Betty Sweet, for the Odd team, and Barbara Randolph for the Evens, played in the fourth singles, with the Evens again winning 6-0, 6-3.

Monday, the second and third doubles were played. Eileen Perry and Loretta Phoenix on the Odd team, and Juanita Krentzman and Betty La Bree on the Even team, battled it out in the second doubles, the Odds winning 6-2, 1-6, 6-4. Roses Marcoux and Jean Olson, Evens, came through in the third doubles over Mary Calley and Jane Carol Levy, Odds, with a score of 6-4, 8-6. Officials for the games were: Miss Grace I Fox, Miss Ann P Pope, Miss Lois Ver Hoeven, and Miss Caliope Papatsos.

Last Monday Odds and Evens gathered indoors and out to begin playing their annual badminton and tennis competition.

On the badminton court in the gym, Odds Jean and Joyce Carter faced Evens Irma Lee Shepard and Emily Chancy in the first doubles match. Playing two out of three games, each doubles game consists of 15 points, the Odds won by a score of 15-3, 15-4.

On the second doubles court Jeanne Booth and Josephine Story, playing for the Even team were defeated by Odds Ines Augustine and Ann Seward by a score of 15-4, 15-2.

Jean Koesy, Even badminton leader, defeated Odd Shirley Hargraves in the eleven point singles game, 11-8, 11-2, while Faith Adams, Odd was defeated by Candy Jones, Even by a score of 11-6, 11-2 on the second singles court.

On Wednesday, the badminton games were concluded with the Evens winning both singles matches and the Odds winning the doubles one. On the single court Evelyn Shea, defeated Virginia Palmer, 0-11, 11-9, 11-3. This was the only match in which the third and deciding game had to be played. On the other singles court Evelyn Shea defeated Virfeated Mary Jackson, Odd, in a game that almost drove Odd Badminton leader, Nancy Ward, insane. Teeny won the first game, 11-4, and the second game was played to a 9-9 standstill. As the serve went back and forth from Mary to Teeny the spectators wrung their hands in anxiety, for those last three points were the deciding ones. Teeny finally came through with a hard won 3-1 score and the game was over.

During the game Miss Henrietta Greenberg, Miss Ernestine Troemel, and Miss Matilda Willibrand acted as officials.

While balls were being hit back and forth on the tennis courts Tuesday afternoon, the softball bats were being wielded by freshmen, sophomores, juniors, and seniors in the annual class softball game. The freshmen-junior team, made up of Sis Miller, pitcher; Shirley Palmer, pitcher; Lucille Ossenkop, first base. Elaine Brown, second base; Marion Looby, second base; Mickey Chambers, leader, third base; Lucy Harding, third base; Betty Schwartz, short stop; Sis Beckman, right field; Joanne Schwartz, right field; Clair Bice, center field; Linda Harrell, left field; Virginia Goodell, left field; and Peggy Becknell, catcher, batted a 5-2 victory over the sophomore-senior combination, which included, Bopie Whittaker, pitcher, Catherine Sullivan, first base; Frankie Hall, leader, second base; Katherine Beazell, second base; Dot Tucker, third base; Evelyn Stucky, short stop; Emily Harrell, right field; Joyce Garman, right field; Jean Fliess, left field; Charlotte Bouland, centre field; Mary Joe Whidden, center field; Pep Stanaland, center field; and Amarene Thompson, left field.

Get Down to Earth
In Our
Barefoot Sandals, Mocs
and Hurrachas
STEWART'S SHOE STORE

ARCHERY YOUR GAME?
See our archery sets complete with targets, arm guards, and finger tabs $4.95
Extra Arrows $.40

Seek it First at
VAN BRUNT & YON INC
YON'S
HARDWARE

We've Been Asked To Tell Ya' . . .

Campus Mail

Notices dropped in campus mail for free distribution will not be accepted unless enclosed in an envelope or written on standard weight paper no smaller than a 3x5 card and must be signed, said W H May, director of the post office.

Sophs and Seniors Eat

Sophomore-senior breakfast will be held tomorrow morning in East dining hall. The new sophomore council is presenting a skit the theme of which is being kept secret until the breakfast.

Seniors Nate!

All seniors desiring to sign up for the senior talent program are asked to sign up on the bulletin board in lower Westcott by tomorrow.

Contributions to the class should be put in the box on the bulletin board by tomorrow, also.

SENIOR HALL

All students who are planning to live on Senior Hall next year will meet Thursday night at 10 o'clock in Landis Rec. Hall officers for the year will be elected at this time.

MUSIC PICTURES

The Gala Concert and Composers League pictures are in the School of Music office. Orders are being filled and anyone interested may make arrangements in the office.

SUMMER SESSIONS

Students who plan to attend either or bothe sessions of the summer quarter will meet at 5 o'clock Monday afternoon in Landis Rec. It is very important that all students be present as CGA officers for the summer quarter will be nominated at this meeting.

The election of these offieers will take place in Landis Rec at 7:30 Thursday night.

BAND CONCERT

The junior high band of Florida High school will present its annual spring concert Thursday evening, May 23, at 8:15 p m. in the Music annex. A varied program will be presented at this time under the direction of Miss Charlotte Cooper, instructor in public school music.

"Dammit" the Feline Prodigy Delights Foster Mothers in Secret Performance

By Tobie Jacobskind

"Dammit", the most adorable baby-kitten you ever saw, was the Casanova of one of the upperclassmen dorms last week and the special pride and joy of four sophomores and juniors who adopted him as their own.

It was love at first sight for the sidewalk foundling and his new parents, when he requested them to adopt him one afternoon. He immediately made himself at home in his new environment and after a careful psycho-analysis, his owners determined that he was genius.

"Why, he would hop upon my shoulder while I was reading", shouted one of his guardians, "and his head would move from side to side and from page to page in an effort to follow the text."

About the size of a minute, "Dammit" was given a box for a bed and after the legal adoption was completed a de-fleaing was in order. He was shaken out of the window after the de-fleaing and, although he protested that it made him very unhappy, he was thereafter a very clean kitten.

His vocal talents were soon revealed and his owners, who report that he was "a lovely soprano in the daytime", were forced to discourage him in that field of endeavor come night-fall. One night, he embarrassed his escort who was sneaking him out of the dorm under the shelter of her raincoat, by letting out a yell that was anything but gentlemanly. Although, his foster mother received a few surprised atares from those in the parlor, she nonchalantly walked off with her guest still hidden as if nothing had happened.

"Just a big show-off", "Dammit" soon began to play games. He learned to leap from chair to chair and from bed to bed, and could slide a wad of paper across the floor with no effort at all. He performed like a professional until a camera was trained upon him, and then he became very shy and refused to act.

For the benefit of those who are now on their way over to the Flambeau offiee to discover who the offenders are, "Dammit" is no longer a resident at FSC, but now has a clean, comfortable home with the parents of one of his owners far from Tallahassee.

IF YOU'RE A LADY . . . .

Then you will surely want to see our line of all types of yard goods and drapery materials.

Ladies' ready-to-wear is one of our specialties.

COME IN AND LOOK AROUND

BEN GILBERG

For Summer Flattery...

See our selection of jumpers and cool frilly blouses.

Pastels & White

THE SURPRISE STORE

101 E. Jefferson

Chi Omega Mix-ups Occur Quite Often

Chi Omegas seem to thrive on embarrassing situations come pledging time. Sorority sisters still blushingly recall last year's mix-up when new rushees mistook the Sweet Shop for the Chi Omega House.

Recently another chapter has been added to the comedy of the Chi Omegas. A certain anonymous girl from Gilchrist Hall strolled gayly through Ruge Hall into the back entrance of the Chi Omega House intent upon delivering a message. After her timely arrival, she chatted with some of the old members and then talked with Aunt Willie, the house mother who obviously mistook her for a bonafide member of Chi Omega.

The embarrassing moment occurred when she strolled out and discovered large signs plastered on the front door warning all, except members of the sorority, to stay out because pledging was in session.

◆

Mortar Board Taps

Continued from Page One

Bragg, Barbara Mann, Anne Hunter, Marjorie Potter, Rosetta Carver, Nell Clark, Betty Schwartz and Shirley Rodgers.

As soon as the last black-robed figure left the auditorium, the members of Mortified gave a loud whoop and leaped over the rail of the left wing to tap their new members. The membership of only seven is based on leadership, service, personality and originality, with thumbs down on scholarship. Those tapped were Ann Parker, the new czar, Betty Gardiner, Cora Lea Wells, Bo Peep Sheil, Clarice Trueblood, Nancy MacEdwards, and Mary Lou Norwood.

The old and new members of Mortified ran up to the stage and there sang their theme song, which ended convocation. The old Mortified's then gave their goats 15 minutes to change into red shirts worn backwards and get over to the Soda Shop where they all had cherry cokes. The goats received large safty pins as a sign of their membership and made up a song for the members. During the one day goating period Wednesday the goats had to carry around candy for the members, collect their signatures, and address them all as "most learned Miss".

After the tapping ceremony, Mrs Olive H Cross entertained at a party in the downstairs lounge of the Longmire building in honor of the new members of Mortar Board. Besides the old and new members, the faculty advisors, Mrs Lou Miller, Miss Elizabeth Thomson, Dr C P Hinlein, and some alumnae were present.

Tonight Mortar Board Members are invited to Dr Heinlein's for after dinner coffee. Sunday night old members will have dinner with Dr and Mrs Harold F Richards. This is a traditional event given by Mrs Richards on the Sunday after tapping.

Next Tuesday night at 9:30 Mortar Board will hold its initiation service in the Longmire Building, at which time the new members will receive their pins.

◆

Girls Entertained

The senior sociology majors were entertained by the faculty of the department last Sunday night at the home of Dr and Mrs Coyle E Moore.

An outdoor spaghetti supper was planned for the group and varied activities of "dog defleaing, chicken feeding, and lawnmowing" were listed on the invitations.

HAVE YOUR FAVORITE PICTURES FRAMED

We Carry a Complete Line of Art Supplies

We Will Frame Your Priceless Diploma

WARD'S PAINT STORE

204 S. ADAMS

Former Editor of Flambeau Witnesses Indian Rebellion

An eye-witness account of Indian rioting and rebelling in Calcutta last November was included by Hazel Bowman, former Flambeau editor, in a letter to Earl L Vanee, associate professor of journalism and English, recently.

Serving with the American Red Cross, the '31 alumna wrote, "The two years overseas were fabulous. I am still trying to digest it all: the fantastic, incredible Orient, the beautiful British culture with which I had my first contact, the unbelievably beautiful countryside of India, Burma, and south China, the maze of Indian custom, religious training, and political jockeying. . .

"My working place was in the center of the rioting area, and our military police escorted us with guns to and from work as long as they could. We finally had to stay away completely for two days. American cars and trucks were burned, American soldiers killed, although the Calcutta press didn't mention that American personnel and property were involved.

"Calcutta university students blocked a busy downtown thoroughfare when their own Indian police refused to let them march to the city square, which is in reality a lake. The Indian police charged the students with their long lathis, or sticks, while students retaliated with bricks. The president of the university led the rioters the next day in a march to burn the body of a dead Hindu student.

"We had no bath water, no drinking water in our part of the city, no garbage disposal, no public transportation. We could buy no meat or vegetables. We existed on the little stores of canned goods that we were able to purchase at a nearby British department store. It was unsafe to go into the streets.

"I am convinced that by declaring a peaceful strike, Indians could run out all Europeans. Everything you eat and drink, all laundry, and all services are rendered under a system that makes it impossible for a westerner to get along with less than one servant."

Hazel was offered a United Press post in Calcutta, but refused it to come home to see her mother, who was ill. She intends to return to India next year to write about her experiences.

Fashion Flashes

By Beryl Kitchen

In less than a month now, school books will be discarded, cumbersome notebooks thrown away, and you'll leap right into a most wonderful summer vacation . . . your first real one after four wartime years. It's been a long, long time, and you certainly must be ready to make the most of it. Whether heading north, south, east, or west, you'll be a smart gal to plan ahead for those days in which you will enjoy that much-talked-about change of scene. Be sure your clothes are right, for if they are, your good time will be assured.

OVER HILL, OVER DALE

For those of you heading north for the cool mountain breezes, hikes through the woods, dips in an icy lake before breakfast, etc: The No. 1 item in your wardrobe will, of course, be sports clothes. In most mountain resorts, the accent is on comfortable informality of dress. For that reason, you will look your best in casual spectator dresses, tailored slacks and shirts, and then a few things on the dressier side for the social functions provided by the hotel for your enjoyment.

If you're the more rugged type and can manage to escape from eternal bridge players on the veranda, put on your beloved blue jeans, top them with a loud plaid flannel shirt, and hunt yourself up a mountain stream in which to do a little fishing. You'll enjoy it, and your garb will be sporty as well as sensible. That would also be the most appropriate ensemble for any honest efforts on your part at mountain climbing or hiking. That is, unless you prefer to do your "mountaineering" in the special "cleared-for-tourists" spots.

On week-ends, you might be invited to a regular small town square dance, and if so, you can judge best about clothes under your own particular circumstances and according to how many there will be "local yokels". Checked ginghams with sailaway skirts and off-the-shoulder bodices should certainly hit the spot.

ROUND-UP TIME IN TEXAS

Dude ranches in the rootin', tootin' West always claim their share of vacationers, lured by romantic ideas of cowboys resembling Gary Cooper or John Wayne, horseback rides with such escorts across the old frontier plains, etc. At most of the Old West ranches running cattle is still the main business, so accomodations out there are therefore naturally rough 'n ready.

Dressy clothes are out. With wise dude ranchers it's frontier pants two to one. They're ideal for either corral-fence straddling or riding champion. You've seen them . . . natural-colored, slim waisted, tapered legs. With a long-sleeved cotton shirt of some bright color, you'll adore them. Jeans are ok out in the wild and wooly west, too, but if you're out to "fence someone in" don't overdo it. Just because the accent out there is on comfort and casualness of dress is no reason to suspect that you have justification to look sloppy or slung together. Your clothes will look best if smartly tailored and fitted. If you're at ease in them to boot, you'll be a natural!

ON THE SIDEWALKS OF NEW YORK

Go-to-towners are born that way, and come summer many Tally lassies will find themselves heading for a big metropolis somewhere, probably in the North. There they will busily engage in a rugged life of seeing the sights, soaking up . . . local color!, and tripping the light fantastic in night clubs, et cet. Come what may in the form of activities, you'll be ready for anything if you have had the foresight to pack some smartly tailored clothes . . . clothes in which you can indulge in shopping expeditions, followed by luncheon or dinner at one of the hotels or unique little restaurants . . . clothes that can be worn clock-around. A word of warning: Clothes are, of course, important, but if your time is limited, you don't want to spend the entire time changing and re-changing your clothes, concentrate on a wardrobe of wear anywhere-anytime dresses, which you can back up with some extra-special things for nightwear.

These are all clothes with a flare for going places . . . good travelers to take along with you for happy holidaying.

◆

Cotillion Sponsors Playnight Tomorrow

The usual theme of "boy meets girl" will be reversed tomorrow night when Cotillion takes over Playnight under the direction of Mary Lou Norwood.

The title of the skit and the name of the guest artist are being kept secret until 9 o'clock when the floor show is scheduled to begin.

◆

Registrar Attends

Dr Milton W Carothers, registrar, will attend a meeting of the Merit System Council of the State Health and Cripple Children's Committee at Jacksonville Saturday and Sunday.

The purpose of the meeting is to discuss hospitals for crippled children and other general business.

◆

READ THE ADS TO FIND WHAT YOU WANT.

Religious News

Baptist

The foster mother-daughter banquet was held Thursday at the Woman's Club with Ida Lee Rentz, student from Miami, presiding. This banquet was the climax of the mother-daughter kinship program for this year.

Methodist

The officers elected for next year are: president, Joyce Carlton, viee president, Frances Cannon; secretary, Kathleen Johnson; treasurer, Lillian Blackwelder; president of Sunday School, Margaret Lassiter; vice president, Martha Jane Byrd; secretary, Alice Cromartie; treasurer, Betty Hill; deputations, Betty Goode; world friendship, Beth Smith; communion service, Bruce Flanders; recreation, Mary Jane Lassiter; week-day worship, Joanne Newman; fellowship, Wilna Humphrey; personnel, Martha Ambrose; alumnae, Dorothea McRee; sorority, Virginia Sewell; house, Betty Hentz; campus-church, Mary Ann Herring; dramatics, Martha Vail McDonald; editor of Fourth Torch, Enid Krouse; music, Perlie Hunt; publicity, Sara Frances McLamore; and publications, Nell Gray.

The recognition breakfast for the incoming officers was held last Sunday morning at 7:30. The theme for the breakfast was "The Highway."

The installation service was at 9:45 following the breakfast. The theme for the installation service was "The Ways."

Presbyterian

The newly elected officers for the Westminster Fellowship are: president, Marjory Potter; vice president, Anne MacInnes; secretary, Eddie Faye Stokes; treasurer, Irene Coleman; chairmen of the various committees: social, Margery Holm; freshman work, Betty McRae; co-chairman on freshman work, Neva Delgado; spiritual life, Betty Lee; Westminster Chimes, Ruthmary Bliss and Lois Watkins; dietitian, Coline Gunn; publicity, Lillian Fagen, co-chairman of publicity, Lydia Moore; Fellowship hostess, Martha Bash; music, Dalia Santos; co-chairman of music, Margery Mallard; office work, Betty Mowat; worship, Mary Monaco.

Last Saturday the council went on a party to Panama City Beach. Dr and Mrs W H Rogers, sponsors of the group, were host and hostess at their cottage.

Episcopal

From Ruge Hall comes news of the State Canterbury club conference which is being held in Avon Park this weekend. Those representing the local Episcopal Canterbury group are Robin Hill Shirley Dorr, Joyce Williams, Dotty Sperry, Betty Bergman, Mildred Harrox, Joan Gilberson, Letitia Croom, Harriet McCarter, Ann Hunter, Betty Dowd, and Patricia Yates. Betty Lewis of Tallahassee, an alumna of the group will go with the girls to the meeting

Last weekend the Canterbury club went to Camp Flastacowo. In addition to participating in the usual camping activities, the group, led by Ann Hunter, discussed "Christian Morality."

Newman Club

The Newman club officers for the next school year were elected last Sunday night. These officers include: Gloria Basila, president; Mary Cooney, vice-president; Gloria Cummings, recording secretary; Kitty Heitzman, corresponding secretary; Margie Blackshaw, treasurer; Ann Parker, freshman advisor; Pat Hourihan, senior representative; Blanche Weeden, junior representative; Nat Rogolino, sophomore representative; Mary Ann Berry, parliamentarian. The installation of the new officers will take place Sunday night. Following this a coffee will honor the National Council of Catholic Women.

Hillel

The Tallahassee chapter of Hillel will hold its annual installation banquet Sunday night at 6:30 at the Floridan hotel. Mr Maurice Uman of Tampa, chairman of the state B'nai B'rith association, will install the officers. During the banquet the Hillel keys for service will be presented to those girls considered outstanding. Mr D J Apte of Tampa, chairman of the Hillel building fund will present the keys. Guests at the banquet will include Miss Henrietta Greenburg, Miss Bernice Moskovitz, Rabbi and Mrs Alex Goldman, Mr and Mrs A J Gross, Mr and Mrs Abe Greenburg and Mr and Mrs William Fleet.

◆

Faculty Attends

Four faculty members from Florida State College will attend a meeting of the Southern Sociology Society held at the Biltmore Hotel in Atlanta Friday and Saturday, Dr Raymond Bellamy, professor of sociology announced this week.

Those attending include, Dr C E Moore, who is treasurer of this society, Dr Paul Shankweiler, Mrs Margaret Bristol and Miss Caroline Blue.

◆

Staff for Annual

Louise Sims, editor of the '47 Flastacowo, is trying to get a tentative staff for the annual. All those interested in working on the staff contact Louise at box 989 or phone 1494. State qualifications in writing in order that she'll know where to fit you at the general meeting of the staff before the end of the school.

Speech Recitals

The last in a series of speech recitals will be held next Wednesday and Thursday nights, at 8:15 in the Little Theater, Mrs May Buford, associate professor of speech announced this week.

YOUR REQUIRED REEDING...

"Power Miracle"

by Miss Seventeen

Basic to a reed-slim you.. Power Miracle, the waist-whittling wonder mesh that controls with a caress...abbreviates bulges. Bi-directional stretch makes it supple as your skin, yet oh so curve-convincing! In panties and girdles. At better stores—'5.

Miss Seventeen JR. FOUNDATIONS

NEW YORK 1, N. Y.

Audrey Perry

Former Freshman Advisor

No appointment necessary

Tooley Myron Studios

The Symbol of Master Photography

HAITI-HOOFFIES by Jenaj

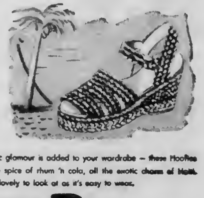
Rhum 'n Cola

Imported hand sewn on American last.

Sisal Shoes from Haiti

Featured 3-inch Wedge Heel with leather lift. In high shade solids or multi-colors.

Sized 4 to 9



A touch of tropic glamour is added to your wardrobe — these Hoofies give you all the spice of rhum 'n cola, all the exotic charm of Haiti. A shoe style as lovely to look at as it's easy to wear.

Turner's

Co-ed Institution?

Z 108

The Florida Flambeau

New Constitution?

Published by the Students of Florida State College for Women

VOL. XXXIII, No. 26

Tallahassee, Florida

MAY 24, 1946

Senate to Discuss Report On Constitutional Amendment Given By Dean's Office

Standing Committee Chairmen and Dormitory Officers Elected at Senate Meeting Wednesday; Two Committees Merged

A report, incorporating suggestions received from the Dean of Student's Office in regard to the proposed constitutional convention, will be given at Senate meeting this afternoon. In general, this report states that a constitutional committee must be responsible to Student Senate and that any changes made shall be in the form of amendments to the present constitititution.

At the regular Wednesday meeting, Senate elected chairmen of the standing committees and the legislative-codifying committee, and filled vacancies in dormitory offices.

The chairmen of standing committees elected by Senate are: Auditing, Perlie Hunt; Organizations, Rachel Chambers; Social Standards, Emily Sheftall; Usher, Betsy Bird; Legislative-Codifying, Beth Fuhrer The members of the Legislative-Codifying committee, also elected by Senate, are: Ann Colvin, Barbara Irving, Esther Rasmussen, Janice Richey and Connie Savage. Elected to fill dormitory officer vacancies are: Elaine Gavigan, vice president of Bryan; Katherine Cooper, vice president of Gilchrist; Neva Delgado president of Magnolia, Jimmie Rogers, president of The Village; Jeanette Fountain, vice president of The Village; Dorothy Martin and Renee Settle, vice presidents of Magnolia.

Reports from the standing committees were made at Senate meeting last Friday A recommendation was accepted at this time to merge the Legislative and Codifying committees into one, since these committees had found it expedient to work together this past year. The chairman of Senate announced that it was customary for the chair to appoint a committee to nominate candidates for chairman and members of the legislative-codifying committee A motion that such nominations be made from the floor was defeated

Senate was called Tuesday to discuss the type of committee to work on a new constitution. The suggestion was made by Shirley [illegible] that the "Constitution Committee, or whatever it is called would be a group of not more than 50 girls elected by the entire student body who would discuss the general plans of work in a plenary session, and then would divide into committees to work on specific sections of the constitution The meetings of the large committee would be open to the student body. Candidates running for election to the Constitutional Committee would submit to the Flambeau a short state-

Continued on Page Three

Holbrook to Attend Course in Mexico

Miss Anne Holbrook, assistant instructor of modern languages, was recently chosen by the U S Office of Education as one of the 11 Spanish teachers throughout the United States to be sent to the University of Mexico, June 28 through August 15.

Studying under the Spanish Language Institute, Miss Holbrook's courses will consist of advanced Spanish grammar and Mexican culture. "Field trips have been planned for those who have archeological and architectural interests in the country," she said, "and tours throughout Mexico will be conducted by eminent Mexican citizens."

According to Miss Holbrook, the U S Office of Education will pay tuition fees plus part of the expenses of this trip for all those making C or above in their [illegible]

National Parks Is Theme of Display

A new library display on National Parks in the United States has been postponed until today, because of upset conditions in the [illegible] created by workmen and [illegible]

This display will probably be [illegible] before the end of this week, according to library officials, although it is hoped that a [illegible] poster in honor of the graduating seniors may be put up the last few days of school. Featured in this display will be [illegible] of the different sections of the country where our National Parks are located, summer travel [illegible] and large posters illustrating the theme of the week.

Dunn to Give Piano Concert

Student Recitals in Organ, Voice This Evening

Miss Margaret Dunn, instructor in piano, will present a recital at 8:15 tomorrow evening in the college auditorium. Also on the School of Music schedule is a student recital for this evening given by Emily Bridges, vocalist, and Margaret McCain, organist.

On Miss Dunn's program for tomorrow night are the first movement from Concerto No 2, B flat major, Brahms, and compositions of Chopin, Albeniz, Bach, Rachmaninoff, Schelling, Granados, and Debussy.

She is to play Toccata in D minor, Bach; Seguidillas, Albeniz; L' Isle Joyeuse, Debussy. Prelodes, op 28, No 1-C major, No 4- E Minor, No 24- D minor, Chopin; Prelude, op 32, G sharp minor, op 23, B flat major, Rachmaninoff: Noctorne (Ragusa), Schelling, Laments, or The Maiden and the Nightingale, from the Goyescas., Granados.

The orchestral part to the Brahms concerio will be played on the organ by Mrs Ramona C Beard, associate professor of organ.

Emily Bridges, mezzo-soprano voice student of Miss Etta Robertson, professor of voice, will appear on the recital tonight in Westcott auditorium. She will sing She Never Told Her Love, Haydn, Jeune Fillete, Weckerlin. Chantons les amours de Jean, Wickerlin: Connais: tu le pays, (Mignon), Thomas Ungeduld, Schubert. The Unforseen, Cyril Scott; The Ould Plaid Shawl, Haynes, Admonition, Wintter Watts; Vespers (When We Were Very Young), Milne; and Young April, Gulesian. Her accompanist

Continued on Page Three

Sophomore Council Elects Chairman

Twenty-five members of the newly chosen Sophomore Council, wearing nightgowns and pigtails, served at the Sophomore-Senior Breakfast which was held last Saturday, May 18th, in the East dining hall at 7:30. Those serving were under the direction of Juanita Krentzman.

A skit was presented by twelve other members of the new Sophomore Council with the theme being graduation from several institutions: a penitentiary, an insane asylum, Reno, a kindcgarden, and FSC. Ann Fielding directed the skit.

Head Dietitian Explains Acute Butter Shortage in Interview

By INEZ AUGUSTINE

I think that I shall never see
Any more butter at FSC.
That nice yellow goo we smear on our bread
Is not to be had so it's been said.

That's right girls If you want any butter you'll have to write home for it because the butter shortage has hit FSC pretty hard

"Now we only get one thirty-pound case of butter every three weeks," said Miss Anna M Tracy, head dietitian, "and it takes five thirty-pound cases in order to have butter three times a day for everyone. The one case we do get," she added, "is saved for special occasions sucb as Sophomore-Senior Breakfast."

Miss Tracy said we get our butter from Armour, Swift, and Wilson companies in Chicago and when asked why our own dairy doesn't supply us she stated: "It would take all the butter fat the dairy could produce, if not then some, to supply you with butter; therefore, if the dairy made butter you could have no milk."

The citizens of Tallahassee are having the sama trouble also. The town grocers report that they are receiving only a couple of cases every few weeks and that isn't enough to supply 1500 customers.

When asked what they thought about the shortage of butter, several freshmen expressed their opinions. "At least we ought to have butter on Sundays," said Marion Cusie. Betty Petynia said, "They shouldn't use it for special occasions only, but should save it for us for one meal so long as they're saving." Nelle Carrier added, "They're getting it for all the students so they should give it to all." "I think it's terrible," exclaimed Meda Morris, "I'm getting so tired of eating jelly on my bread that I can hardly stand it."

As for upperclassmen, Ann Carolyn Allison, senior, stated, "I think Miss Tracy knows what she's doing" Said Elaine Gavigan, sophomore, "If we can't have butter, then we'll just have to do without."

But the majority of girls, when asked what they thought about the butter shortage, uttered only three words—"Butter, what's that?" We're beginning to wonder too.

FSC to Sell Poppies Made By Veterans

Sophomore Council Keeps Table in Westcott For One Day

Only Contributions Accepted No Price to Be Set

Poppies made by disabled veterans of both wars will be placed on sale tomorrow on the campus of Florida State College. The sale will be under the auspices of sophomore council, and has been approved by Dr Doak S Campbell, president of the college.

Tables will be placed in lower Westcott for the sale of the "buddy poppies." Funds derived from the sale will go to aid disabled veterans in two Florida veterans hospitals, and the Veterans of Foreign Wars rehabilitation fund. No price will be asked for the poppies, but contributions will be solicited for these funds.

The sophomore council workers who will distribute the poppies will be part of more than 100,000 workers who will make up the national drive, held each year on the Saturday before Memorial Day.

The poppies to be offered by the American Legion Auxiliary have been made by disabled veterans of both world wars, and have come from approximately 100 veterans' hospitals and convalescent workshops located in every part of the country.

The Tallahassee drive is to be under the auspices of the Sauls-Bridges Unit of the American Legion Auxiliary, with Mrs Walter E Rountree, poppy chairman, in direct charge of the program. Volunteers from the Auxiliary will appear on the streets early tomorrow morning with baskets of poppies, and the drive will continue throughout the day. Mrs Paul Lewis, treasurer of the Sauls-Bridges unit, will handla the funds

Continued on Page Three

Schwartz Is Barred From Office Again

Whitaker and Hill to Hold CGA Offices in Summer

Betty Schwartz, who was nominated for the office of chairman of Judiciary for the summer session, at a meeting of summer school students Monday, was disqualified for the candidacy by the office of the Dean of Students, Sarah Lewis, president of CGA, announced last night.

Bopie Whitaker defeated Georgia Jaeckel for the office of president of CGA at a meeting held last night in Landis recreation room, and Robin Hill was elected chairman of judiciary over B J Singleton.

Other officers elected were Rachel Chambers, president of Jennie Murphree and Charlotte McGeachy, president of Reynolds, if that dormitory is occupied during the summer. Margaret Johnson and Anne Lindsay were also candidates for this office.

Betty was previously disqualified from candidacy for chairman of judiciary in regular CGA elections held this spring. No reasons for her second disqualification were announced during the meeting of summer school students last night.

Flastocowo's Delayed

The 1946 Flastacowos will not be out until this summer, when they will be mailed to seniors and staff members only, Margaret Baugh, editor, announced this week. The rest of the students will receiva their annuals when they return for the fall quarter. Margaret said the delay was caused by difficulties of engraving and printing.

Seniors are requested to turn in by June 8, to Box 1019, their addresses for the months of June and July. Margaret stressed the fact that the addresses must be correct if the students are to receive their books on time.

W M Barrows Back at FSC

Former Physics Professor Will Resume Duties

Dr William M Barrows, Jr, professor of physics and curator of the physics laboratory, returned to this campus Monday to resume his duties after having served nearly six years in the armed service.

The date for his scheduled return, March 25, was postponed due to the death of his father. After his arrival in the United States in February, he stayed a few weeks at his home and has been vacationing since that time.

Dr Barrows went on active duty on August 17, 1940, in the Army Ordnance department. After a few months he was sent to Iceland and from there to England. "While in England I was put in command of an Ordnance battalion and carried it through France, Belgium, and Germany. We didn't get into the actual fighting, but my battalion supported the First and Ninth armies," said Dr Barrows.

"For a short time after the war was over I helped to investigate war crimes for the Ninth army in Germany," said Dr Barrows.

He was then sent to Biarritz University in southwestern France, where he taught Physical Science. "This University was started from nothing and built up by the American army for military personnel to begin their edncation while awaiting redeployment. A few students were allowed to enter the newly begun university before V-J day."

"When I helped to organize the university, we used vacated buildings for both housing and academic work. There was difficulty in finding materials for laboratories and other departments, since we could not order equipment from the United States, American army and captured German equipment was used," said Dr Barrows, "and the Bellevue Casino was converted into a physics laboratory!"

Field Trip Planned By Geography Club

A field trip through Leon county this Sunday afternoon beginning at 2 p m will be the first project of the newly organized Geography club, announced the president, Nicky Sartoris. The main interest of the observations will be an investigation of the land development in relation to the land itself.

All students are invited to make the tour, which will begin with the departure of a bus from in front of the history building Sunday afternoon, and which will end with a picnic in Games' woods that evening.

Other newly elected officers of the club are Josie Poppell, vice-president; Jo Neil Segree, secretary and treasurer; Marlan Davis, program chairman; and Willar Dean Pulliam, social chairman. Faculty sponsors are Mr H F Becker, professor of geography; Mr H F Brubaker and Miss S C Larson, instructors in geography.

The club was organized to foster an interest in geography and to make it more meaningful through practical experiences rather than through books alone. Membership is still open to anyone interested, and meetings are held on the third Wednesday of each month

Aside from the trips and projects, lectures are sometimes given by experts in geography.

Board Will Meet

The Board of Control will hold its regular June meeting on the campus of Florida State College this year, according to Dr Doak S Campbell, president of the college The meeting is being held here on June 8 so that the Board may participate in the graduation exercises at the college.

Junior, Senior Kids Romp on Green to Music of Toy Horns

Every phase of the nursery came to the FSC campus at 6 p m Wednesday, when juniors and seniors turned out on the Landis green for the annual Junior-Senior Kid Party, in their best bibs and diapers. Toy horns and whistles blew, jump ropes twirled, and rattles rattled, as games of "drop the handkerchief," "pass the shoe," and "ring around the rosie" gave to the lawn the appearance of a children's field day.

Dignified seniors and campus officers who have been noted throughout the year in their caps and gowns, came decked out in diapers and short dresses, with freckles and black eyes, carrying anything from dolls and lollipops to fishing poles, and were accompanied by their junior sisters who completed the couples as mother, sister, or beau.

One pair made a dramatic entrance into the playground in a baby carriage, and still another delighted everyone by appearing as Ferdinand and Oinkess, an animal twosome who insisted that they were going "steady."

Janet Rogers and Anne Hutton sauntered through the crowd with an intellectual swagger, representing William H Rogers, age 11, complete with a pipe and a copy of Browning, and Venila L Shores, age nine, with a history book tucked under her arm.

After half an hour of cavorting and playing mischievous pranks, everyone was assembled for the purpose of awarding prizes to those who wore the cutest costumes. A gun, a tea set, and a rattle were among the prize toys distributed. Allee Walton and Grace DeWolf won as the best-looking couple; Frankie Hall and Mae Alexander, dressed in night shirts and pigtails, as most original; and Margaret Winton and Ida Lou Davis, as Superman and Superwoman took the honors as the cutest pair.

Lollipops in hand, the "children"

Continued on page two

Band Council Plans For Future Activities

Concerts and Trips Are Among Next Year's Functions

Concerts, social affairs, and trips, one of which will be to Gainesville, are among the functions for next year arranged by the newly elected executive council of the Florida State College band. The council and other band groups meet this week to discuss these plans.

Band members held their final meeting of this school year in the auditorium of the Longmire building Monday afternoon. A social hour afterwards was held in honor of Mr Owen F Sellers, bandmaster, and Miss Charlotte Cooper, assistant bandmaster.

New officers are: Frances Duckworth, president; Betty Jean Allen, vice-president; Evelyn Haire, secretary; Myra Jean Bates, treasurer; Betty Redd and Norma Smith, librarians; Elizabeth and Emily Harper, social chairmen; Bayne Culbreth, property manager; Annette Vitsky, publicity chairman; and Annette Nordan, bulletin board chairman.

Members of the FSC brass quartet recently made appearances at the Florida American Association of University Women banquet at Wakulla Springs and at the Tallahassee Musicale and variety show. Members of the quartet are: Betty Jean Allen, Mercedes Futch, Annette Vitsky, and Frances Clopton.

Green Honored At Day Student Porty

Betty Green, outstanding day student of the year, and all graduating day students were honored at an informal party Wednesday at 1:00 in the day students' lounge.

A buffet lunch of sandwiches, salad, potato chips, salad pickles, cake and cokes was served from a lace covered table in the center of the room. A bowl of white gardenias was the centerpiece. Other bowls of gardenias were placed about the room.

After lunch day students were entertained with a program prepared by Paula Jeanne Teagarden. Those who took part on the program were Betty Green, Paula Jeanne Teagarden, Melba McElwain, and Alice [illegible]. An impromptu skit was presented by seniors Frances Wheeler, Ouida Winchester and Annabelle Redwine. An ensemble of five girls [illegible] "Begin the Beguine."

[illegible] [illegible] and Caroline Brumby were in charge of food and arrangements.

Theodore H Jack, Randolph-Macon Head, To Speak at Commencement Exercises On June 10 for 253 Graduating Seniors

Rabbi Julius Mark to Give Baccalaureate Sermon; Dr and Mrs Campbell to Entertain For Graduates and Guests

President Theodore Henley Jack of Randolpb-Macon Woman's College in Lynchburg, Virginia, will deliver the address at the forty-first annual commencement excercises for approximately 253 graduates of Florida State College at 10 o'clock on Monday, June 10, in Westcott auditorium.

The baccalaureate sermon will be given by Rabbi Julius Mark of Vine Street Temple of Nashville, Tennessee, in Westcott auditorium on Sunday morning at 11 o'clock.

Members of the 1946 graduating class will be honored by Dr and Mrs Doak S Campbell at a buffet supper in the college East Dining Hall at 7 p m on Saturday, June 8 Guests for this occasion will include members of the Board of Control and their wives, members of the graduating class and their families and faculty members whom the graduates have invited

Dr Jack has been president of Randolph-Macon since 1933 before which he was vice-president of Emory university. He has also served as Dean of the Graduate school and Dean of the College of Liberal Arts at that university and has held offices in a number of college associations.

He is the author of Sectionalism and Party Politics in Alabama (1816-1842) and has collaborated with Smith Burham on The Story of America. Dr Jack has received degrees from the University of Alabama, Harvard, the University of Chicago, Birmingham-Southern College, Emory University and George Washington University and is a member of Phi Beta Kappa, Omicron Delta Kappa and Sigma Alpha Epsilon.

Dr Mark, who has served as a chaplain with the United States Navy since 1942, has visited, lectured and written concerning the principal cities of Europe, Egypt and the Holy land. He has also worked on many committees concerned with social improvements and served as a rabbi at South Bend, Indiana before going to the Vine Street Temple. Dr Mark has been contributing editor to the Observer and to a chapter of Behaviorism—A Battle Line.

Of the 253 prospective graduates, 152 will receive BS degrees in various fields, 93 will receive AB degrees and eight will receive BM degrees. The graduation class, by college divisions, is as follows:

College of Arts and Sciences

Bachelor of Arts:

Carolyn Elizabeth Abrams, Ann

Continue on page two

Sociology Meeting Held

Society Re-elects Moore Secretary-Treasurer

Five members of the sociology department and six senior sociology majors attended a meeting of the Southern Sociological Society in Atlanta May 17 and 18. Dr Coyle E Moore, professor of sociology and director of social work at Florida State College was re-elected secretary-treasurer of the society.

Other members of the department who attended the meeting are Dr Paul W Shankweiler, associate professor of sociology; Mrs Margaret C Bristol, associate professor of sociology; Miss Caroline Blue, assistant professor of sociology; and Miss Bernice Moskowich, instructor in sociology.

Seniors who attended are Nancy Koelliker, Barbara Whidden, Jean Whigham, Jane Redfearn, Mae Pickens, and Hilda Hood. The girls were chaperoned by Mrs Coyle E Moore, who holds a masters degree in sociology.

A special guest at the meeting was Professor William F Ogburn of the University of Chicago, who discussed the topic, "The Shape of Things to Come." In his speech

Continued on Page Three

Even Honorary Taps Five New Members

Goats Hold Banquet in New Dining Hall Tuesday

Esteren, the Even honorary, tapped five new members last Monday evening during dinner. Led by the outgoing president, Sarah Bennett, and the newly elected president, Catherine Sullivan, the procession covered each dining hall twice.

The taps and their qualifications are as followa: Roses Marcoux, sophomore council, freshman flunkies; Bopie Whitaker, F club, sophomore council, vice president of WRA; Jo Long, freshman flunkies, freshman representative to Senate, sophomore council chairman, junior class secretary; Juanita Krentzman, social committee of Jennie Murphree, winner of Mortar Board plaque sophomore council, house president of Gilchrist hall, vice president of Alpha Lambda Delta, house president of Jennie Murphree for next year, and Martha Peacock, freshman representative to Senate, sophomore council, president of Alpha Lambda Delta, sophomore representative to Senate, and third vice president of CGA.

Esteren members are chosen for their Even spirit, school spirit, leadership, and service to the class and school, stated President Catherine Sullivan.

Tuesday night the new Esteren goats gave a banquet in the dining hall for the members, both faculty and students. Each table was decorated by a centerpiece within a ring of gardenias. A white streamer led from every gardenia to each person. Placecards were in the form of a ladle

Continued on Page Three

Laundry Tie-Up Due to Recent 75% Decrease in Personnel

By LEI MARSHALL

Very few of the girls at Florida State College ever realized how vital the laundry was in their lives here until a few weeks ago when their clean clothes started coming back over a week later than the time designated Then the girls began to wonder what had happened.

It was announced this week that the laundry is not taking any more regular laundry but will take in special for a while yet. The suspension of power Monday set the work behind a day but the bundles are being put through as fast as possible All the clothes are expected to be ready for the students before they leave for summer vacation.

At the present time the laundry is working under strain. Of the 85 regular employees, last week only 20 or 25 showed up each day, therefore, the washing has been piling up until the entire college laundry service has been put behind schedule. In spite of the short staff, the laundry is putting out 400 to 500 dresses and 300 to 400 shirts per day. In a normal week the output is around 1300 robe towels, 1650 bathing suits, 300 gym suits, 700 bath towels and numerous other things for the Physical Education Department; around 75 aprons, 40 bath towels, 25 mops 550 sheets, 300 pillow cases and miscellaneous uniforms for the infirmary; about 675 aprons, 450 uniforms, 1600 napkins, 250 mats, 375 table cloths, and other linens for the dining hall. All this besides the students' clothing and laundry from other departments in the college

The laundry's present equipment includes an electric marking machine, sorting tables, storage bins for each dormitory, four washers, three excess water extractors, 24 air-operated steam-heated presses, 22 ironing boards with hand irons, two irons for puffed sleeves, a flat work ironer, two tumblers for drying towels and other articles that don't require ironing, sorting bins for clean clothes, a washer for petroleum solvent cleaning, an electric whisk machine for velvets

Continued on Page Three

AAUW Gives Annual Awards

Program Held Last Night In the Music Annex

Creative arts contest winners presented dramatic, dancing and musical performances in the music annex last night at the program sponsored by the American Association of University Women. Certificates of merit were awarded to winners by Mrs Mabel B Hodgson.

Those who took part in the program were Virginia Sewell, soprano, who was accompanied by Eleanor Bragg; Marian V Welch, pianist, who played her own composition, "Enchantment"; Mary Hart, soprano, sang "I Heard October Singing" by Louise Creamer, and was accompanied by Edith Smith; Georgia M Jaeckel and Phyllic DeKalb sang, accompanied by Eleanor Bragg, and Anne H Fifield, pianist, played her own composition, "Modern Fantasia."

The second and third parts of the program were composed of a one act play by Noel Coward entitled "Family Album," and three dance presentations: "Slow Motion", Theresa Myers; "Three in a Swing," Audrey Evans, Evelyn Stuckey, and Ann Shull; and "Alice Blue Gown," Mary Frances Hall.

After the program the certificates of merit were awarded by Mrs Hodgson. The writing that received either a certificate of merit or honorable mention will be published in booklet form and distributed for student reading in the near future, Mrs Hodgson stated.

Anne Carter Heads Sophomore Council

Anne Carter was elected chairman of Sophomore council for the coming year at the first meeting of the new council last Thursday evening in the Longmire auditorium.

Other officers elected at this time include: Margaret Swanson, vice-chairman; Margery Mallard, secretary; Cynthia Merrin, treasurer; Martha Jane Byrd, chaplain, and Nancy Jones, historian.

Last night Games Woods was the scene of a "Come Bring Your Own Supper" party given for old and new Sophomore Council members.

An arrangement has been made for new members to take weekly turns at putting up and taking down the flag in front of Bryan. Rosemary Fleming and Art Skavakis are serving this week.

Sophomore Council will serenade the departing seniors during exam week according to Ida Lee Rentz, sponsor.

Original Play Given By Radio Workshop

Next Wednesday evening at 10:15 the Radio Workshop will present "My Lord, The Ring," an original play written by Eugenia Avant, as its last program of the year.

These programs were organized by and are under the direction of Miss Mary Colones, instructor in speech. They grew out of the need for the radio speech classes to have opportunity to put their knowledge to practical use.

Radio Workshop has been a laboratory and an opportunity for the girls on campus who are interested in all phases of radio, Miss Colones stated. "The girls have written and directed their own shows and have broadcast every week since January. Although the programs have been put on with the very barest of equipment the girls are to be commended for their interest and on the quality of the performances, she added.

Last night's original variety show entitled "College Daze," was written by Anne Hutton in radio script writing class and was directed by Sadie Louise Campbell. The show depicted a day in tha life of a typical Florida State College girl from breakfast until light flash.

Speech Recital Is Presented by Hunt

Bonnie Hunt presented "Over 21" as her senior speech recital last night in the Augusta Conradi Theater. The characters of tha play included three men's parts and two women's parts, all taken by Miss Hunt The scene was the living room of an apartment in Miami and the time was the summer of 1943

Ushers for Miss Hunt's recital, the last one for this year, were: Lillian Ergle, Shirley Rodgers, Carolyn Abrams, Lila Barrington, Ann Butler and Aileen Sayers.

SPIRIT OF THE WEEK

● HEALTH MEASURE?

For quite some time the student body of FSC has been abiding by and accepting punishments for breaking a rule which is allegedly for the protection of their health. This is the rule which states that no student may return to the college from a weekend between 12 o'clock at night and 7 o'clock in the morning. In reality this rule proves more damaging to student well-being and health than coming in at 1 or 2 o'clock in the morning would.

Many of the girls who live in the southern part of the state return to school by way of Tampa, and an examination of the transportation schedules from there will be used to prove our point.

Buses arrive in Tallahassee from Tampa in the p m at 1, 3:45, 5:25, 7, and 9:30 o'clock. The latest of these buses to leave Tampa and to arrive in Tallahassee in time for the student to get in "under the wire" is the 9:30 one which leaves Tampa at 2 o'clock in the afternoon.

The buses which come into Tallahassee in the morning —and these are the ones students take so they can have one more meal at home and a few more pleasant hours—arrive at 5:05 and 9:15. This leaves only the one arriving at 9:15 for the student to take in order to comply with the present rule. It leaves Tampa at 1:30 a m. The student rides all night, then straggles to classes until she has a free period when she can flop into bed, or else she flops into bed to get her sleep at the expense of classes missed.

There is a train leaving Tampa at 6 in the evening and arriving in Monticello around 12. There is regularly established transportation from Monticello that college girls used for years before the passing of the new rule. The trip takes only a short time and puts the student on campus shortly after 1 o'clock.

The student who takes either the bus arriving here at 12:55, or the train, could stay home another half day and still have six or seven hours of sleep before she was forced to attend classes.

There is a night director who stays in Bryan parlor every night who could check girls coming in late. People in senior hall and those attending college functions are given late permission and allowed to enter the dorms after everyone is settled down. The noise and confusion of girls coming in from weekends would not be more disturbing than this.

If it is our health that is being protected, why not protect it in a logical way? At least give us a chance to enjoy going home for a weekend without cutting our visit short half a day, and give us a chance to return in time for a night's sleep before we resume classes!

● A VOICE FROM THE CLOISTER

Coeducation—the scheme of things which is "all wrong" is the fall, winter, and spring in Florida—is all right during the summer, it seems.

At any rate, girls attending Florida State College this summer will find approximately 100 members of the opposite s-x strolling along the cow-paths of FSC, Sophomore Council permitting. Similarly, University of Florida men will find women in their class, although it will not be quite the same as former summer school sessions. This year women will not be allowed to attend unless they are graduate students, wives of veterans attending the University contracted teachers, or students who need a course offered only at the University.

However, it seems that coeducation will be, for a change, the rule and not the exception so far as Florida men and women are concerned—at least during the summer months.

Perhaps we are obtuse, but we fail to understand why a plan that proves feasible and workable enough to be repeated summer after summer is impracticable and uneconomical if suggested for the wintertime. Of course, we realize that we are immature—being mere infants in the eyes of the law, as a man we know once jokingly informed us—and we are probably wrong.

Perhaps we just need enlightening. Won't the legislature enlighten us? Won't the Board of Contorl enlighten us? Won't the administration of our college enlighten us? What is the reason why we can't have coeducation? Huh? Come on, the real reason . . .

● SURE-FIRE CURE

Once again Florida State College seniors doff their caps and gowns and trudge down the time-worn aisles to return this time with a small white scroll signifying that they are now ready to take their place in the great wide world.

All has not been peace and calm for this class of '46. It has been noticed on several occasions that the students were not pleased with the way of things, and they have caused ruffles on the customarily quiet surface of smooth, tranquil, uncontroversial flow of college affairs.

Many bubbles popped on the water's surface during this past year and made concentric circles of confusion. Some smoothed immediately to make the surface supposedly placid while otehrs refused to subside quickly. We are particularly thinking of the recent strides of progress toward a new constitution which will offer an opportunity for students to feel true benefit in their efforts to govern the college community.

This is our opportunity to add something to our school besides new buildings and an increased population. It should not be necessary for an unpleasant episode to occur to renew the vital interest now being shown even though summer months will have intervened to make it "just one of those things that came with Spring Fever." Harmony and teamwork have been prescribed many times as sure-fire cures for ailments after the symptoms of illness have popped out. But no cure has ever been known "to take" without constant application.

President Henley

Continued from page one

Carolyn Allison, Maurine Ashton, Florence Fontaine Barleson, Margaret Elizabeth Baugh, Jacqueline Marie Belcher, Barbara Blanche Bell, Elizabeth Ann Bishop, Betty Blake, Elizabeth Anderson Bregger, Louise Hargreaves Brown, Martha Jane Brown, Lois Marjorie Byrd, Jane Elizabeth Chancey, Marjorie M Cook, Pauline Ellen Council, Kathleen Craig, Letitia Church Croom, Norma Cuervo, Ruth Cuevas.

Shirley Wilcox Duggan, Lillian Erma Ergle, Eurasia Fernandez, Catherine Theresa Piccio, Etta Matilda Fraser, Anne Brumley Gaither, Shirley Ruth Glover, Katherine Louise Godfrey, Clare Boisfeuillet Gray, Eugenia Gregory, Emma Jeane Hackle, Barbara Jean Holt, Bonnie Carolyn Hunt, Anne Louise Hutton.

Alice Katherine Jackson, Leia Corinne Johnston, Madelyn King, Jeanne Lola Koesy, Carolyn Joy Little, Celia Llamas, Jean Longdon, Jean Victoria Marani, Winifred Meldrim, Lila Winn Merriam, Lola Gregory Miller, Emma Mae Murray, Helen Virginia Nelson, Sara Anne Norman, Blakley Elizabeth Pope Parker, Mary Carol Peacock, Audrey Wilma Perry, Marye Maureen Petty, Rubie Elizabeth Plant, Laura Genevieve Platt.

Janie N Redfearn, Janet Marie Rogers Mary Elizabeth Stallings, Katherine Ball Steed, Peggy Lou Thomas (with distinction in psychology), Margaret Lucretia Thomson, Jeanne Tillman, Mary Margaret Torres, Mary Frances Trazler, Bobbye Locia Usher, Clara Beatrice Weaver (with distinction in political science), Nancy Lee Wheeler, Lois Earle Wilson, Frances Margaret Winton.

Bachelor of Science:

Lucie Joyce Airth, Billie June Armistead, Katherine McKoy Boney, Barbara Brantley, Theo Vera Brown (with distinction in chemistry), Angie Cammarata, Sadie Louise Campbell, Martha Harris Cargill, Margaret L Cockrell, Virginia Dickinson Collins (with distinction in political science), Doris Dunaway, Margaret Alice Elliot, Patricia Sherman Fabrick, Helen Filledes, Sara Friscia, Joyce Lucille Funke.

Helen Augusta Gaines, Catherine Marie Gallagher, Joann Gentry, Carmen Gloria Gomez, Peggy Grimsley, Helen Cynthia Harper, Claryne Florence Hedgecoth, Mercedes Hernandez, Elizabeth Johnston, Margaret Louise Kay, Lillian Kennedy, Carolyn Virginia King, Catherine Schneider Land, Mary Christine Langston, Ruth Rawls L'Engle, Margaret Fuller Limroth, Danella Martin, Betty Jo McAteer, Martna Joyce Odom.

Eileen Carroll Perry, Alice Audrey Phillips, Phyllis Margaret Porr, Martha Louisa Powers, Gene Marie Ryan, Shelia Byrne Smith, Ruth Mary Sturrock, Betty Trigg Thompson, Margaret Lois Treisback, Bettye May Usher, Martha Alice Walton, Mary Patricia Weedon, Ina Reta Weinberger, Nellie Hester Wentworth, Jean Ann White, Jean Wilson.

Bachelor of Science in Commerce:

Betty Clo Alday, Mollie Mae Albritton, Stella Ford Barrineau, Dorothy Nelson Binger, Betty Burnett Bowman, Ann Bridges, Donna Louise Bridges, Betty Anne Campbell, Martha Jane Cannon, Dorothea LaFay Carpenter, Helen Carson, Claire Elizabeth Cashen, Angie Massaro Castellano, Ann Chillingworth, Betty Jean De Vane, Katherine Louise Donohoe.

Eva Fay Gainey, Martha Permenter Gerber, Dora Marguerite Golden, Martha Evelyn Hanley, Patricia Louise Hill, Esther Kerr, Jean Ellen Leslie, Mary Stella Lopresti, Ruby Jane Mann, Margaret Louise McCain, Margaret McCann, June Yvonne McCurdy, Sarah Jane McKelvy, Irene Anne Mendoza (with distinction in psychology), Bette Hemphill Miller, Sylvia Moscovitch, Mary Earl Myers.

Jane Davis Northen, Ella May Quinby, Susannah Ruth Rabb, Virginia Claire Ricks, Elizabeth Anne Shiver, Louise Siges, Ruth S Sprott, Clarice Annette Thomas, Mary Douglas Tinsley, Betty Touchton, Camerone Jane Trent, Betty Jean Wells, Frances Howard Wheeler, Martha Wight, Martha Louise Wilson, Edna Jackson Yearty.

School of Education

Bachelor of Arts in Education:

Leida Helen Atwater, Mary Julia Bailey, Susan Frye Barkedale, Elizabeth Josephine Fussell Barry, Dorothy Nell Dekle, Ethel J Bassa, Lonnie M Friday, Edna Bessie Hammer, Geraldine Anna-Marie Hansen (with distinction in psychology), Gloria Margaret Hendry, Ava L Janes, Mrs Eldora Rowland Myers, Harriette Martin McCarter, Dorothy Sue McCurdy.

Madge M Overstreet, Sara Evelyn Polhill, Corinne Elizabeth Pooser, Della Mae Rhodes, Mary Belle Riherd, Joan Victoria Shanor, Virginia Inez Smith, Melpomene James Smitzes, Ruth Dorothy Spiwak, Anne Hathaway Tate, Gladys Ruth Young.

Bachelor of Science in Education:

Lillian Elizabeth Ardd, Willie Ruth Barfield, Catherine Barrs, Sarah Louise Bennett, Eloise Marion Boyles, Lura Elizabeth Evans, Beulah Ann Fletcher, Anna Louise Giese, Betty Jo Guthrie, Mary Frances Hall, Doris Helen Hill, Peggy Maree Hines, Gladys Roush Lester, Mary Elizabeth Marshall, Mary Audry Miner, Theresa Munroe, Sarah Lois Roberts, Dorothy Faye Scott, Maude Eugenia Sistrunk, Rhoda Hannah Spechler, Nancy Evelyn Strauss, Mary Evelyn Stuckey, Dorothy Tucker, Mary Lena Watford.

School of Home Economics

Bachelor of Science in Home Economics:

Judith Braham Alexander, Mattie Lou Alford, Margaret Elizabeth Bollek, Martha Nell Booth, Elizabeth Carolyn Bourland, Julia Coleman Burnett, Delila Elizabeth Campbell, Margery Elizabeth Carter, Lilla Bascom Crosby, Lois Flora Dossey, Norma Claire Falcon, Marie Carolyn Flewellen, Margie Lou Fussell, Carolyn Roberta Glenn.

Mrs Frances Warden Hill, Eulalia Elizabeth Hudson, Myrtis Clarice Langston, Jane Perrin Lyles, Doris Ernestine McLeod, Lottie Belle Parker, Ruth Hood Perry, Shirley Ann Schwark, Catherine W Shores, Grace Elizabeth Sims, Bobbie Jean Sweat, Jane Garratt Waldo, Jocelyn Anne Ziegler.

School of Music

Bachelor of Music in Composition:

Anne-Hathaway Fifield.

Bachelor of Music in Piano:

Dolly Sutton.

Bachelor of Music in Public School Music:

Julia Emily Bridges, Jane B Gaertner, Katherine Emma Jane Gremil, Marian Najarian, Annabelle Hoffman Redwine, Fawn Grey Trawick.

Junior, Senior

Continued from page one

trooped into the dining hall where dinner and more crazy antics were waiting. The four-year long temptation to play the chimes could not be sustained, as the upperclassmen crowded around to wait their turn, and the noise and confusion was dispersed only when "Jesus Loves Me" rang through the hall for the blessing. More laughs echoed through the room as Dr C A Moore paternally fed diaper-clad Mercedes Fernandez her meal amid flying grapefruit and water.

With a complete reformation into street clothes, the tired junior and senior kiddies rushed to buses to take advantage of the once-a-year privilege of going to the movies at children's prices, to bring their last fling to an end.

Or Forever Hold Your Peace . . .

Dear Editor,

There are numerous reports rife concerning the faculty's opinion of student strategy in recent eevnts. Most of them are very unfavorable. I would like to make a few remarks and comparisons on the subject.

From the time I began to study history, I was taught that the American Revolution was a great and wonderful thing, and that its cause was one of the highest for which a man can fight. Never have I heard the strategy used during that time criticized. Yet, when the students on this campus have been striving to incorporate into their student government some of the same principles for which that war was fought, they have been accused of poor strategy, referring, I believe, to the use of petitions, mass meetings (peaceful ones), and small public demonstrations of sentiment. If cartain people do not approve of these things, what must be their private opinions of the Boston Tea Party, of the formulation and publication of the Declaration of Independence, of Patrick Henry's impassioned speech? What do they think of Paul Revere's ride? Of the entire rebellion?

I find that if one is to discuss strategy, one must first have a definite meaning in mind for the word itself. Webster defines it as the art of projecting and directing great military movements. Of course, we no longer confine its meaning to military movements alone. Nevertheless, the meaning of the word itself undergoes no change in the transfer from one subject to another. The question I now wish to bring up is this: when is strategy good and when is it bad? If the quality depends on the success of the project in which the strategy has been used, then perhaps we have used poor strategy. We seem to have had no success whatever. If the quality depends on the ethical evaluation of plans and actions, the question is quite definitely open to dispute.

To refer again to history, I would like to point out that, aside from our own Revolutionary War, many wars have been waged, and the winner has usually been so because of superior strategy. Nevertheless, some of the most famous military maneuvers and victories have been far from ethical. As a matter of fact, the ethics of the winning side in any struggle are generally questionable, and I do not except the present case. If the quality of strategy depends on the efefctiveness with which it is excuted, I would say that we have definitely not been guilty of poor strategy. Our moves have certainly been made effectively enough to draw a great deal of attention, not only from the faculty, but from some of the citizenry of the state. On what else can the quality of strategy depend?

However, the thing which seems most important to me is not the evaluation of our strategy, but the worthiness of our purpose. We have — some of us perhaps for the first time — become very seriously concerned with the aspects of the fundamentals of democracy, and the result we get is criticism of our strategy. Are we to think that the manner of execution of a project is more important than the project itself? Surely good form and good taste are important for congenial living, but if they are to be placed above principles of life, we shall soon find ourselves with only the bare husk; the real kernel of living will have rotted away. In the past one civilization after another has crumbled and fallen because the people became too preoccupied with the amenities of life to notice that the very foundations of their existence were turning to dust and ashes beneath them.

Is the condition prevalent in our college, and, I am sorry to say, in our country, an indication of this same decay? I hope that this is not so. But if it should be, is it not a good sign that the students on this campus are becoming concerned about this condition? I believe that it is. Yet, we are given only criticism of the methods we have employed. We are not even given the benefit of extenuation because of necessity. It is not our fault that there were no adequate channels for accomplishing the things we needed to accomplish. We wish in the future to supply such channels. Are our efforts to be wasted because we have not used the most refined and adult manner of obtaining our objectives? That would be sad indeed.

I believe that if the students have shown themselves adult enough to realize conditions and to wish to take steps to remedy them, they are adult enough to do so. Strategy is not an art found developed in young people. Perhaps we have not been taught the art, even in an institution of higher education. If it is as important as we are being shown, this is the time to develop it. If it is not of importance enough to be included in training for citizenship, why is it important enough to interfere with that training?

Sincerely,
Mary Charlee Skipper

Dear Editor,

Whoever wrote the article, The Half of Knowledge, left herself open for some criticism. Her article is not fair and most of her complaints are untrue.

First of all, she says that the library hours are not right—that "the library remains closed during those hours when the most effective work could be done." The present library hours have been set up after many trials and changes to fit in with the schedule of our college day. It is not open during lunch and dinner because all the students here have the same hour for eating and they are supposedly eating during those hours. There are still a few things we must do which are vital to life.

Secondly, she complains that the reserve room is of little use to her over the weekend. If she cannot arrange to get her reserve book between 1:45 and 5:30 then she should try staying home from the movie until 2:00. In most every university the library is closed at 5:00 on Saturday and does not reopen until Monday morning. Here at FSC we are permitted to use the periodical room and the browsing room on Sunday afternoon.

She also claims that only the periodical room and the browsing room are open on Saturday afternoon. That is false. The whole library is open from 1:45 until 5:30 on Saturday afternoon. Her next statement is that the library does not open until 9 on weekdays and that it closes for special program hours and convocation. This also is false.

The library opens every morning at 8:45 and it has not been closed for convocation a single time since convocation has been held in two sessions. The only special program it has been closed for was Academic Procession in which the librarians had to march.

The library at the University of Florida opens at 8 because classes begin at 8 and it closes at 10 at night instead of 10:30 as the writer stated. They do not close for lunch and dinner because all the men do not eat at the same time as we do. The article seems to express the opinion that the men at the University are allowed more freedom than we are but they are not.

We are permitted to go into the stacks after the book we want, but at the University the stacks are closed to students. In fact, we are allowed a great deal more freedom in our library than students in most any other college or university. She asks why the students cannot be trusted among the stacks, in the reference room, and in the periodical room.

They are trusted, much to the library's loss. From the President's Report statistics show that several hundred books disappear each year. For instance: "June 30, 1942. Withdrawn 600 books—most found missing in the inventories of the previous years." This means that they were "removed," by the students who have free access to the stacks, without having been checked out. These statistics include the reference room as well as the stacks. This bit of evidence does not speak very loudly in behalf of more freedom for the students.

In order to keep the library open during these very odd hours there would have to be at least four staff librarians on duty. Students cannot be trained to take on these responsibilities because there are too many details to learn. It takes four years of college and quite a bit of experience for a librarian to completely understand and execute her work. At present there is a shortage of 18,000 librarians.

Nearly every university and college in the land is anxious to increase its library staff but it is impossible because of the shortage of trained librarians. Besides this shortage of librarians there is a shortage of student assistants. Our library staff would be enlarged if it were possible.

Margaret Morrison.

EDITOR'S NOTE: A doctor can bury his mistakes; a journalist can't.

Dear Editor:

One purpose of education is to enable a student to see both sides of a question, and judge it accordingly. Therefore, we would like to present the other side of the library situation, as opposed to the side presented last week in the editorial entitled "The Half of Knowledge."

In this article it was stated that the library should stay open from 8:00 A M to 10:30 P M, and during all meal hours. We agree that this would be highly desirable, if there were not so many obstacles. The most important one is the shortage of staff. The author of the above mentioned article suggested as a remedy to this obstacle that student assistants be placed in charge of such places as the reserve and refrence rooms. In the first place,

Continued on Page Four

We've Been Asked To Tell Ya' . . .

LIBRARY BOOKS DUE

All students should clear library records before the end of the quarter All library books are due Tuesday, June 4. Grades cannot be released for students whose records are not clear, according to announcement made by Miss Louise Richardson, librarian, this week.

Attention Students

The bookstore will begin buying used books that will be used again on this campus, from June 3 through June 8. Books not to be used again can be sold to used book buyer in the store June 3, 4, and 5.

Attention Graduates

Rental orders for hoods must be placed with the bookstore not later than June 3. These hoods and rented caps and gowns are to be returned to the store immediately after the graduation exercises June 10.

"Not 1000 But 100!!"

The rumor that there will be 1000 men on this campus at summer school have been proven false. Dr Milton Carothers, registrar, said that there will be 1500 students enrolled compared with the former total of 750, but of this 1500 only about 100 will be men.

Although the percentage of male attendants may increase second session, right now only 100 can be the boast of men attending school here at FSC.

FLUNKIES WORK

Pat Dillard, chairman of Freshman Flunkies, reports that the Flunkies have been kept busy making Red Cross posters, notices for summer school students about elections of CGA officers, and typing for the Flastacowo.

COURSE CHANGES

Several changes and additions to the courses previously announced by the home economics department for the summer sessions have been mimeographed and are available in the registrar's office.

Students who are planning to take courses in the department are advised to check on the changes by Dean Margaret Sandels, head of the department.

NO SHORTAGE HERE!

Fifteen hundred tons of coal, enough to keep Florida State College warm until next Christmas, has been bought and delivered, R K Shaw, business manager, said recently. This statement is in answer to the numerous worried queries as to how the present coal strike will affect the college next winter.

The 30 carloads of coal, which is already on the grounds, was bought from the army at a saving of $1 a ton.

Cabinet Meets

The Young Women's Christian Association cabinet held its final meeting last Tuesday night at 9:30 in the Y room, on the second floor of the Longmire building. Beverly Frank was elected office manager at this time following the resignation of Anne Singleton, according to Joyce Petty, president of YWCA.

Your Gal Sharpie

By Sharpie

"Dear Sharpie, I read that Senate was going to discuss a naw constitution this week, so off I went, but when I got there only one senator said anything that sounded like it was about a new constitution. She said she favored more division of power. What I want to know is the purpose of the two new committees which Senate has borne this week."

That is a question. Many senators mouthed answers this week, but perhaps the most direct came from another red haired senator who said: "I think the planning committee would be to get people started thinking in the right way." (Sharpia's italics, I think.)

Another letter said, ". . . gee, Sharpie, wasn't it funny the way Senate had to stop working (on its plans for a planning committee to make plans for a committee to plan the new constitution plans) until it asked the dean whether it had permission to plan?"

A slight smile steals across the Sharpie's wan face as she picks up another letter that says. . .

"'The trouble with students on this campus is that they are immature. . . they don't want to work!' and that, Sharpie, is what a teacher said to me. Why?"

We get letters like this all the time. As two other teachers once said to a girl we know, "Are you really dumb or do you just act that way?"

Sharpie consulted the books of the ages — 1935 — and found only this echo: "It may be so. It was so in our college days. . . In the future, as in the past, America will have to struggle along and solve her problems without the aid of her college students. If political change is necessary, no student bodies will do the voting. If revolution comes, there will be no Harvard or Columbia students on the barricades. Russia, Spain, England, France, China, Germany, (Sharpie adds Venezuela, Argentina, Egypt.) — these are laods where college students feel themselves charged with responsibilty for the future of their country. But the land of the free and the home of the brave is not yet on the list."

"Dear Sharpie," a letter on pink square paper says. "Have you heard that Betty Schwartz was nominated again for Chairman of Judiciary — this time for the summer quarter — and that she was disqualified again?"

Yes, Sharpie heard that, too. It makes one wonder whether some people get the idea behind the long-awaited-where-is-it amendment. An amendment, like knowledge, won't have any meaning except in its application.

Dekalb Featured

Phyllis DeKalb, contralto singer and a pupil of Miss Etta Robertson, was featured on the weekly Garnet and Gold program from the college studio last night. Miss Bertha Bloodworth, director of publicity, served as new editor and Rosemary Fleming as announcer for this program.

The music section included Gretchaninoff's "Cradle Song," Brahms' "Sapphic Ode" and "A Thought Like Music." Phyllis was accompanied at the piano by Miss Lucille Wagner, assistant professor of piano.

The Florida Flambeau

1946-1947 STAFF
EDITORIAL STAFF

SHIRLEY RODGERS	Editor
MAY ALEXANDER, BETTY DOWD, B J McLEOD, LOLA ROSE	Associate Editors
JOYCE PETTY	Managing Editor
BARBARA FARRAR	Assistant Managing Editor
LAURA LEE BUTLER, JEAN DOUGLAS	News Editors
Copy Editor	Winifred Lane
Assistant Copy Editors	Eleanor Bayer, Jean Bess, Kay vanDeu
Society Editors	Barbara Lanford, Paulette Blank
Feature Editors	Alicia Armstrong, Jacqueline Nevers
Sports Editor	Evelyn Shea
Outside News Editor	Marjorie Clark
Opinion Editors	Jo Dunagan, June Orindstaff
Headline Editor	M J Sherman, Virginia Budd
Columnists	Beryl Kitchen, "Sharpie"
Picture Editor	Paulette Blank
Art Editor	Jean Sharer
Copy Girl	Peggy Kay

REPORTERS: Dorothy Aberle, Inez Augustine, Jeanne Bagley, Bobbye Bradley, Barbara Brown, Francine Dunning, Jeanne DuPree, Ann Furlong, Margaret Graydon, Idana Griffith, Jane Hardacre, Jeani Harris, Frances Hull, Tobi Jacobskind, Jean Law, Jean Lord, Lei Marshall, Anne Moore Anna Lee Moss, Cheryl Muster, Melba McElwain, Edna Pope, Janice Richey, Rita Silverman, Harriet Simmons, Pat Small, Emma Jean Smith, Margaret Smith, Nancy Stevens, Marilyn Till, Ann Tucker, Frances Wesson and Joanne Zewadski.

BUSINESS STAFF

Vivian Schaeffer	Business Manager
Sally Watson	Assistant Business Manager
Kitty Chaires	Advertising Manager
Dorothy Bloodworth	Assistant Advertising Manager
Nancy Stevens, Ann Furlong, Jean Lieberman	Advertising Staff
Terry Sellers, Gladys Clarke, Marjorie Burns	Circulation

Entered as second class mail matter, January 30, 1915, at the post office at Tallahassee, Fla. under the act of Congress of March 3, 1879.

Member
Intercollegiate Press

It is the policy of the Flambeau to grant equal space and prominence to anyone wishing to present a contrary opinion whenever opinions on controversial questions are voiced in its columns.

ens Win Tennis; Odds Take Softball

the final tennis and softball es of the year held last Friday rnoon, the Evens netted them- es the tennis championship. e the Odds hit themselves into e plate with the softball vic-

he number one tennis doubles e played by Enid Sandler and ria McVey of the Odd team nst Ann MacInnis and Lou Balman of the Evens. The es of the last game were six- and six-four, putting the ns ahead in the tournament -three. In charge of the ten- matches were Joy Little and d Sandler.

he softball game resulted in a her's duel between Sis Miller Shirley Palmer of the Odds nst Bople Whitaker of the ns, and a hit by Peggy Beck- in the third inning brought Odds home and from that t the final score of the game ained 2-0.

n the fifth inning the Evens ed with bases loaded and one only when the next two play- were put out, did the Odds athe easily again.

"The Evens had a fine team," Mickey Chambers, Odd soft- manager. "It was fun playing m, and here's to a good game t year."

quare Dance Held On Thursday Night

A square dance was held last t in front of the West Din- hall as one of the features after dinner recreation. Music supplied by Connie Savage Georgia Jaeckel playing fid- and Betty Long playing the rdion. Skooks Lester was in rge of the dance.

During dead week hop-skotch shuffleboard will be featured es. Roller skates are still ilable and may be checked out m Gilchrist laundry at any e.

SC Sells

Continued from page one

ived by the Legion Auxiliary m the contributions.

Poppy funds always have been important source of support Legion and Auxiliary work for abled veterans and for fam- s of veterans in need of aid," d Mrs Lewis. "That is why the morial poppy is to me not only flower of remembrance for the d but also a symbol of hope the war's living victims."

The poppies used in this drive e been made by veterans from e City.

Lost

One senior robe which was bor- wed for a function several nths ago and never returned the owner. If whereabouts are own, please contact room 241 ndis or box 137. Owner kinda nts to graduate.

Rigor Mortis "Sets in" on Junior Class Looby Head Zombie of Campus Cadavers

If the majority of the junior class seems to be affected with a strange disease, Rigor Mortis has probably just "set in." To the unset upon, this means that the parade of black-clad girls were members of "the only democratic organization on campus."

Rigor Mortis was originally founded for those whom Mortar Board and Mortified had overlooked, but after the decision that most of the junior class had been overlooked, it was made inclusive instead of exclusive, according to Marion Looby, acting Zombie. Two sophomores, Jean Sharer and Irma Lee Shepherd, are responsible for the idea and have been dubbed "tombstones" by the grateful cadavers (members).

With a motto like "When Rigor Mortis sets in, the sky's the limit," the new organization should go far Charter cadavers are Martha Abbott, Katherine Beazell, Sarah Ellen Glenn, Mary Nell Goldman, Mickey Chambers, Enid Sandler, Barbara Lindsay, Marion Looby, Betty Dowd, Nancy Wright, Juanita Nord, Bookie McMichael, and B J Singleton, Miss Papatsos, Miss Colones and Miss Ver Hoeven are "Rigor Morticians."

Personality—any kind, scholarship—any kind, and character—any kind are the sole qualifications for cadavership. The shield of Rigor Mortis represents the things which may drive you to the grave, cigarettes, liquor, and men.

"Setting in" began Tuesday before last when the cadavers, dressed in black with black ribbons, and wearing no make-up held their first meeting following a party at the Soda Shop. After a rendition of "Rigor Mortis will get them all by and by," serious business was begun. Looby announced that all juniors who had not been tapped due to lack of time may consider themselves cadavers. She then explained that Rigor Mortis did not want to have a "heterogenous group," and therefore would set-in on next year's entire junior class with the exception of Mortar Board and Mortified taps. "We extend a blanket invitation to all sophomores to meet us in Landis rec at 7:15 A M next year, wearing black, and learn all about Rigor Mortis," she said. Each year Rigor Mortis plans to give a party for its new cadavers, similar to a class reunion.

Senate to Discuss

Continued from Page One

ment of their platform in regard to constitutional problems. In this way the election would indicate the general opinions of the voters concerning the new constitution.

An additional proposal was made by Ann Hunter that a small group of students be elected by Sanote to plan the general outline of work before school opens in the fall in order that the large committee would have tangible suggestions with which to begin.

A motion was made and carried that the Chairman of Senate appoint a nominating committee to nominate candidates for a planning committee. . . Since the duties of this planning committee were not defined.

The nominating committee was requested to prepare a statement explaining the make-up and duties of the proposed planning committee. This report will be given at the called meeting of Senate this afternoon.

Because of the uncertainties in regards to financing a mid-summer constitutional convention, and the fact that many girls would not be able to attend at that time, this plan was not further considered.

Even Honorary Taps

Continued from page one

placed in a miniature beer mug filled with green and white life savers.

Esteren will hold its last meeting of the year on Sunday evening. This will be the last formal get-together before the annual weekend at camp for combined Esteren and Spirogira forces.

SEE OUR SELECTION OF SUMMER SANDALS
SHOE REPAIR SERVICE
STEWART'S SHOE STORE

Life Saving Corps Elects Officers

Newly elected officers of the Life Saving Corps as announced by "Skooks" Lester are: Captain, Mary Nell Goldman; First Mate, Joyce Cayce: Second Mate, Anna Horne; Yeoman, Grace Bradley. The office of captain corresponds to that of president; the first mate acts as vice president and has charge of the lifeguard schedule; the second mate plans all life saving and water safety courses given by the college; the yeoman's duties are that of secretary-treasurer.

Changes in the constitution of the Life Saving Corps have been pased which provide that senior life savers must serve 15 hours in one quarter of the year as a guard or instructor, either at the gymnasium swimming pool or at camp, in order to become members of the Corps.

Art Students Work On New Wall Mural

Dressed in old dungarees, shorts, and slacks, and painting with small house brushes and some art brushes, the art students are having a lot of fun working on the project for this week, a mural, according to Mrs Cynthia Snow, head of the industrial arts.

The mural, a picture which must be flat in appearance, will be used by the class to decorate the wall of the industrial arts room. Although a genuine mural is usually designed directly on the wall, the class is painting on paper so that the pattern can be removed easily from time to time for other art displays of the department. A definite theme is carried out for every mural; the department is symbolizing the typical resources of Florida by bringing in both the agricultural and the industrial sources of state wealth, featuring chiefly the tourist trade and attraction. Typical scenes are sponge divers, beaches, resorts, and citrus groves.

PATRONISE OUR ADVERTISERS.

Last Will and Testament of Class of '46

We, the Senior Class of 1946, being of warped and exhausted mind, and impoverished and collapsing body, and having acquired innumerable fixations through the past four years of revolutionary change, from the galmorous 1942-44-era when "shave-tails" and combat jackets were as abundant as street-lights on campus, and the ludicrous excuse — "be just shipped out" was standard operating procedure for the BTO's, through the great plague of 1944 when the bug descended and familiarity bred contempt, to the lean years when we decided we could take no more till we acquired a stronger constitution and a firm declaration of independence —do hereby magnanimously publish and declare this, our last will and testament:

To the student body, we leave our maladjustments, in hopes that the '47 legislature will soon bring rehabilitation to the campus in the form of a heterogeneous society.

Our ability to go through the proper channels and still keep our heads above water, we just leave!

To the unsuspecting and eager freshmen we gleefully bequeath our share of dry toast and prune whip, and, with bigness of heart, will them our occasional miscroscopic "date delight."

Upon the still effervescent sophomores we generously bestow our Saturday nights, the loneliest in the week, which inspired the song of the same name.

To the juniors, the future midnight birds of passage, we leave what the best dressed seniors never wear—our spook suits, formal collars included, so that they too can scare the roaches from their closets.

Our asbestos gloves we leave to future readers of the red bot Flambeau hoping that they will go easy on the torch.

Our laundry we leave to whichever class will be here when it eventually returns.

Individually speaking:

I,BEATRICE WEAVER, will my green and gold rag curlers to Kay Van Duers.

I, MARGARET BAUGH, leave to Louise Sims, my faith in the human kindness of my cohorts that has pulled me through this year — that one soul from the masses will be good enough to identify the body and remove it from the debris of the Flastacowo on the day the annual comes out.

I, JO GUTHRIE, will "Thing" to Rose Marie Ferro and Catherine Sullivan—because with them he'll get the loving care and appreciation of beauty that he deserves

I, JEANNE KOESY, leave my green and gold frog "Affididum-Persnackie golmen-de-toid" to Carol Claus to help keep up her already bubbling Even spirit.

I, WINIFRED MELDRIM, bequeath my six, seven, eight, nine, and ten syllable words to Winifred Lane.

I, CATHERINE GALLAGHER, leave my name to the freshman who has been impersonating me. Now she can use it legally. Also, I leave my "look" to anyone who can "take it."

I, IRENE MENDOZA, leave all the reforms made in Landis house council to Dot McKinnan, hoping that she will carry on my noble endeavors to be kind to culprits.

I, AUDREY PERRY, leave to Betty Donnally my slow, southern drawls — to the freshman class, my pride in the school — may it continue to grow in loyalty and spirit, and to "Herkie" White, courage—they'll be Evens!

I, MARTHA JANE BROWN, leave to Jean Cole all my volley ball talents and to Matha Jane Byrd all my modern dance leaps.

I, ANN CAROLN ALLISON, leave to Sarah Lewis a calendar of activities and an ability to lead rambling discussions.

I, ANNE HUTTON, leave my rah-rah school spirit to Evelyn Shea and Kathryn Beazell because I know they will carry on the old traditions which are so dear (?) to me.

I, PEGGY KAY, hereby will and bequeath to all members of the Flambeau staff my leisure time on Thursdays.

I, DANNY MARTIN, leave fifty Nursery School children to any Junior who thinks she might need the experience.

I, JOYCE ODOM, leave to "Marte" Waters my ability to arrange a light schedule so that she will be able to recouperate from this year's hibernation.

We, BETTE PARKER and KATHLEEN CRAIG, leave our mousetrap to Gloria King and Jo Anne Long for "green-spotted" Pierre and future Pierres.

We, RUTH CUEVAS and ANGIE CAMMARATA, will our table next to the juke box at the "Sweet Shop" to Angie Ciaranella and Jerry Barker. It will prove useful for last-minute coffee and occasional bridge games. Of course, there is a small rental fee due weekly, totaling the grand sum of one Flambeau each, respectively.

I, SARAH LOIS ROBERTS, will my diligent efforts and obstinate persistence in gaining a college education to Mae Newberry. This should enable both of us to work with children more efficiently.

I, RUTHYE SPIVAK, do hereby will and bequeath to Esther Argentar my famed "avoidupois" just to see if she can get rid of it.

I, LOUISE FELTON, will to Joyce Windham, Helen Campbell and Margie Atwater my ability to eat peanut butter by the jar-ful. I do this so they will always have peanut butter in stock when I come to visit them next year.

I, JEAN SISTRUNK, do hereby will my ability to cover much space with many steps in a short time, to Sue Young. She will need them in her new career.

I, Ludie Mae Friday, do hereby will and bequeath my most endearing name to any other old hag who wants it.

I, SHIRLEY ANN SCHWARK, do hereby will and bequeath to A Jackie Smith my questionable ability to yawn with my mouth closed while on the front row of a two o'clock class.

We, the senior members of Miss Agnes Gregory's 305 library science class do hereby will and bequeath one typewriter eraser and two shelf list cards.

We, SARA FIRSCIA and LOIS DOSSEY, regretfully will our collection of "Back Home for Keeps" to Mary Jane Ciciarello and Adeline Ynes. They have served as wonderful morale lifters for us in the past, but we hope to have more realistic morale lifters in the future.

I, CLARICE LANGSTON, will my nursing inclinations to Newlin Ashmore.

I, EDNA HAMMER, leave to Marna Smith my ability to stay at PSCW four years and not get any corns.

I, LILLA B CROSBY, do hereby will and bequeath my undying patience and fortitude in battling the mob at the 1:45 a m Tally bus out of Jacksonville, to Grace Bryan, who I'm sure will have ample opportunity to use it.

I, MARGARET WINTON, will my time honored and well worn chair in the Department of Sociology to some poor sap with lots of neutralizing good wishes.

I, MARIAN NAJARIAN, wish to will an everlasting cup of sincere appreciation and happiness to Mrs H O Pemberton, secretary to the Dean of the School of Music, for her thoughtfulness, kindness, and Christian heart toward me as well as to all others who have come in contact with her during their college years.

I, LILLIAN KENNEDY, do hereby will and bequeath my favorite speciman from the zoology dep't. . . . Mergitroid G, to Martha Anne Gast (if she can get it out). Alro, since I will have no further need for it, my scientific attitude and unfailing interest in things scientific, with the hope that she can make better use of it than I have.

We, BARBARA BRANTLEY and THEO BROWN, leave to Jackie MaGEE and Juanita Ault the last place in the breakfast line. After all, cold or hot, eggs are eggs.

I, PEGGY LIMROTH, although I'm pretty stuck on them, will and bequeath my needles in the infirmary to Betty Jean Giberson.

I, MARGARET COCKRELL, will to Margie Potter my fiendish delight in taking candid camera pictures.

I, ANNE FIFIELD, didn't bring nothin', didn't get nothin', therefore leave nothin'.

I, HAPPY McCARTER, leave my chair at Table No 3 in the Reference Room of the "morgue" (the library to you), to anyone else who is eagerly seeking "the other half of knowledge."

We, TRIGG THOMPSON and TEENY LANGSTON, leave our track shoes to Mary Jane Kirst, so she'll be able to get to supper on time from chemistry lab.

I, MARTHA NELL BOOTH, do hereby leave the bags under my eyes to any junior needing a new laundry bag.

I, LOLA MILLER, will my philosophy of truth according to the Greeks and Hebrews to Luella Rouse.

We, the USHER TWINS and ANNE HUTTON, leave in haste, having had the unmitigated audacity to write this will.

Witnesses: The Student Body.

Before these witness, we the senior class of 1946, on this 21st day of May, do solemnly seal this, our last will and testament.

250 Will Serve

Over 250 students volunteered for service with the Red Cross Tuesday and Wednesday when an information booth was open in lower Westcott. Chairmen for the various phases of Red Cross activity will be elected this week after which the committees will begin to function.

Various Red Cross committees with which students may work include first aid and accident prevention, water safety, disaster relief, nutrition, public information, the Junior Red Cross, home service, and special volunteer services such as rolling bandages.

Dunn to Give

Continued from page one

will be Miss Lucille Wagner, assistant professor of piano.

Margaret McCain, student of organ under Mrs Ramona C Beard, will play Chorale-Prelude, We All Believe in One God, Bach: Fugue in G Minor, Bach; Bell Prelude, Clokey; and Sonata in D minor, finale, Guilmant.

Other coming musical events, according to Dr Karl O Kuersteiner, will be the piano normal spring program, May 30, at 8.15 p m in the recital hall of the Music annex, and the certificate recital of Katherine Gremli, soprano, on May 31 at 8:15 p m in the college auditorium.

Laundry Tie-up

Continued from Page One

and for removing lint, a steam spotting board for removing spots, a wet-cleaning table for clothes which can't be properly dry-cleaned, and six 48 inch ventilating fans. Mr W J Gerrell, present manager, estimated the value at close to $100,000.

Upon reaching the laundry the bundles are checked as to correct amount and identification and then sent on their way through the cleansing process. Socks are clipped and washed separate of everything else. After washing the clothes are either pressed, hand-ironed or tumble-dried. They are then rechecked and sent back to their owners.

The college laundry was begun in 1930, with equipment valued at $7,000, for the purpose of sterilizing the robes, towels and suits used by the Physical Education Department. More facilities were installed in 1932 as a solution to the need created by unsatisfactory student laundry arangements previous to this time. Negro women would gather outside the dormitory entrances on Monday and the girls would bring their bundles to them. This method not only created confusion but also did not guarantee santitary conditions.

The laundry employed fifteen persons to do student flat work at no additional fee and wearing apparel at a minimum cost. However, the students were given their choice of patronizing the college laundry or a commercial laundry selected by themselves. In addition, a laundry where the students could do their own washing was installed in Reynolds basement. The college provided washtubs, ironing boards and electric irons, an electric washer operated at five cents per half hour, and an electric dryer.

Since 1937 the college laundry has been used by all resident students and by most of the departments on campus. A report states that an average of 50,000 dresses and 6,000 pounds of flat work were collected from the Reynolds and Broward offices each week. Long lines of anxious girls patiently waited at office doors for the return of their clean clothes wrapped in fresh brown paper.

The laundry in 1941 employed nine men and 57 women and the equipment was valued at $30,000. Tha busiest week day was reported to be Monday and during Christmas week the bundles formed a steady stream to the tub and back. However, the students soiled more clothes in the spring. Items from the Physical Education Department included 300 gym suits, 650 bathing suits, and 625 large robe towels in one week.

The checkers find many interesting items in the students' laundry bundles. Sorority pins, pearl buttons and buckles, and bracelets are among the most valuable. There have even been bedroom slippers and bathing caps. But perhaps the most unusual bundle was the one found in 1940 containing 36 pairs of socks.

Occasionally laundry workers receive notes on how to iron certain articles or how much starch to put in a dress. One such note pleaded for the special care of the sender's "only and best dress". The note went on to say that the sender wouldn't "have a pleasant Christmas at all if it shrinks."

Native Italians are fined 75 cents, payable on the spot, for kissing in public except for farewells at railway stations.

AAUW to Sponsor Ten-Day Clinic

Discussions, Lectures Include Music, Writing, Drama

Plans are being made for the American Association of University Women to sponsor in the late October of the fall quarter, 1946, a ten-day clinic concerning the different arts such as music, writing and dramatics and, if possible, also dance, arts and crafts and household arts. This clinic will be under the direction of a faculty group who will volunteer their services.

The ten-day period will include a series of discussions and lectures on the fundamental techniques of the arts followed by a period during which students may confer with faculty members on any matter pertaining to their work.

At the committee meeting of the AAUW Tuesday members recommended that beginning next year all entries for the Creative Arts contest must be turned in by the close of the second quarter, enabling exhibits, performances and other projects of the organization to begin during the early part of the third quarter. Entries may include any work done by students during this year as well as the next year.

Club Has Outing

About twenty members of the Classical club and their faculty sponsors, Miss Edith West, associate professor of classics, and Miss Lynette Thompson, instructor in classics, enjoyed a weiner roast at Camp Flastacowo yesterday afternoon.

The members provided entertainment for this occasion by playing old Greek and Roman games. Betty Hunter, club president, was in charge of games and Janet Fountain was chairman of the food committee.

Sociology

Continued from Page One

he pointed out that people can look forward to the gradual dispersion of large urban population, and that this movement has already been begun by the inventions of the automobile, airplane, and atom bomb which have and will accelerate progress. He also said that the political state will gain in power and control and that conditions will make it more necessary to take over and operate public industries in the interest of public welfare and common good. He continued to say that there is no appreciable evidence that man was ready and willing at this time to give up the method of war for settling international controversies.

In conclusion Professor Ogburn stated that he thought it likely that other wars were in the offing, although there are counteractions now underway that will make this prediction look rather bad in the future.

"FIXED
WHILE
YOU
WAIT"
CAPITAL SHOE
FIXERY

MECCA
BREAKFAST SERVED
8:30 - 11:30
LUNCH SERVED
12:00 - 2:30
DINNER SERVED
ANY TIME
Short Orders and Fountain Service
All Day
111 SOUTH COPELAND

Nita Nord
of Miami, Fla.
Her Many Activities Include
- Secretary af Junior Class
- Junior Counselor
- Sec. Treas. F Club '45-'46
- V. Pres. F Club '46-'47
- Odd Hockey Leader
- Spirogira Goat
- Gamma Sigma Epsilon
- Pi Delta Phi
- Alpha Lambda Delta

No appointment necessary
Tooley Myron Studios
The Symbol of Master Photography

School Is Nearly Over...
Remember Your Friends With Friendship
Rings
MARTIN & DALTON
210-212 S. ADAMS

COOL
and LOVELY...
That's how you'll look in these breeze catching eyelet dresses.
CLEARANCE SALE OF SHOP WORN FROCKS
Marked Down to $1.99 - $4.99
THE SURPRISE STORE
101 E. Jefferson

Dingwell Discovers Men in Tallahassee Male Leads in Play Are Local Residents

The title of "Arms and the Man" was disarming, for in reality not one, hut four men made their initial appearance before an excited Florida State College audience. Wondering, as the rest of the students probahly do, just how this masculine talent was found in Tallahassee, we cornered Mr Dingwell, the play's director, to answer this pressing question.

According to Mr Dingwell, assistant professor of speech, the actors were acquired by rather round-about means. "I just happened to bump into Julian Branche out at Wakulla one Sunday and got to talking to him. I knew that he had appeared in "Ladies in Retirement" before he went into the Navy and since he said that he was still interested in dramatic work I asked him if he'd like to play Major Saranoff in 'Arms and the Man." I was quite plessed when he said that he would be able to work in the play with his other work at Putnam's."

Julian is tall, with blond wavy hair and is the unmarried member of the quartet. Immediately after graduation from Leon High he entered the Navy and has recently been discharged from this hranch of the service.

Captain Bluntschli, alias Dick Mitchell, played the romantic lead in the play and apparently captured not only his leading lady's heart hut also the hearts of the femina perfecta in the audience with his touching "How could she love me?" Sighs and applause were quite apparent following this question.

The captain is the tall, dark type hero, is married and will proudly tell you that he has a young son.

Again being asked, "Where did you get the men?" Mr Dingwell replied that he was not quite sure whether it was pure luck or whether he literally "roped them in." "Yon see," he said, "Jack Richey, who played Nicola the servant, used to appear in the Tallahassee Little Theater productions. One day I was talking to his wife in the bank and she mentioned that he was still very interested in dramatic work. Aha, I thought, and called him up that very night. He came to see me and hrought two interested friends along. That's how I acquired Leal Barr and Dick Mitchell along with Jack "

Leal Barr, playing Major Petkoff, the kindly father, either never "fell out of character" or never had to get into "character," according to members of the cast. "He was the fatherliest father I've ever seen," one said. "He even brought us candy." Another stated emphatically that she wouldn't mind being the female half of the set of twins that lives at the Barr home.

All four male members of the cast are residents of Tallahassee and Dick, Jack and Leal work together at the capitol.

Odds Have Hay-Ride Elect New Officers

During the last meeting of Spirogira, Frannie Myers was re-elected to the position of president of the honorary. Also elected at this meeting were Nell Clark, vice president, Robin Hill, secretary, and Virginia Palmer, also re-elected treasurer.

The occasion of the evening was a hayride to the school farm. Spirogira members were accompanied by guest faculty members and alumnae.

Goals of the honorary are now making plans for the weekend with Esteren at Camp Flastacowo. Pat Dillard is in charge of entertainment, and Harriet Kirk and Mary Lou Norwood are co-chairmen of the food committee.

Flambeau to Have Floundering Trip

The Flambeau staff's first floundering party since the beginning of the war will be held tomorrow afternoon and evening, as freshman and upperclass Flambeau workers journey to Panacea on the gulf coast for their annual outing.

The group will leave from behind the history building at 3:30 p m in a large turpentine truck, and will return to the campus late that evening.

On the agenda for the evening will be swimming, followed by flounder-spearing after dark. The group will cook supper on the beach over open fires.

Mr and Mrs Earl L Vance and Mr and Mrs Herbert L Hackett will be chaperones for the trip.

Cherry to Marry

An invitation is extended to all of the friends of Marguerite Cherry to attend her wedding to Mahlon Marine, which will be solemnized on Friday, June 7, at 8 p m, in the First Presbyterian Church of Tallahassee.

Amendments Voted In Floor Meetings

In floor meetings Wednesday night students voted on four amendments which were recently proposed by Student Senate and passed by College Council. Results of this election have not as yet been tabulated, Sarah Lewis, president of CGA announced last night.

These were in brief (1) class officers, officers of CGA, WRA, editors of student publications, committee members and staff members must be in residence or live in Tallahassee for the year in which they hold office; (2) the Social Chairman will be added as a member of House Council; (3) membership of off-campus committee shall consist of a chairman, all house chairmen, and one representative for each 25 girls or fraction thereof; (4) the residence halls committee and off-campus committees shall deal with all infractions of minor rules.

Bridal Shower Held

Miss Mabel Houser of the Demonstration school was honored by fellow faculty members at a miscellaneous bridal shower Monday.

While faculty members were seated, a third grade boy drew in a wagon full of shower gifts. Mr Virgil Strickland read an appropriate poem. Her ninth grade class also presented her with a gift.

After Miss Houser opened the gifts, refreshments of cake and iced tea were served hy the home economics interns and their students. The party room was decorated with white gladiolas and Easter lilies.

Miss Houser's marriage will be an event of the summer.

Teachers to Attend Summer Workshop

Returning Internees Present Problems in Seminar

Dean R L Eyman of the School of Education announced that this department is sponsoring six workshops for in-service (employed) teachers this summer. Two workshops in Dixie and Gadsden counties are now in progress and plans are being made to open workshops in Lake, Pinellas, Santa Rosa, and Hillsborough counties later in the summer.

These workshops will operate for a three-weeks period during which time the teachers plan county-wide programs for the schools. These programs deal with the development for a language arts program for elementary grades and high schools or the development of a social studies program for the schools of the entire county. Such administrative programs as plans for the development of libraries for schools of the counties have received much emphasis.

The third quarter internes arrived Monday to begin their seminar training which will last until June 7. These internees are divided into three sections which include (1) physical education, commercial, and mathematics internes, (2) social studies, English, and modern language internes, and (3) elementary internes. They will spend two hours in class every day and the rest of the time in preparation for seminar. The seminar, stated Dr Robert C Moon of the education department, will be an opportunity for them to re-evaluate their intern experiences and educational courses in the light of their present thinking and to work out plans for the solution of problems encountered during internship.

The following is a list of the students who have just completed the internship period: Mollie M Allbritton, Ann Carolyn Allison, Willie Ruth Barfield, Sara Louise Bennett, Martha Jane Cannon, Virginia D Collins, Frances B Daniel, Dorothy N Dekle, Hilda C Dodson, Eurasia Fernandez, Anna Louise Giese, Mary Theresa Glaviano, Doris Jane Grainger, Dorothy Haire, Doris Helen Hill, Barbara Jean Holt, Catherine S Land, Ondina Lombardero, Mary Stella Lopresti, Marianne M Mabie, Jean V Marani, Betty Jo McAteer, Mary Andrey Minor, Theresa Munroe, Janet Marie Rogers, Rhoda Spechler, Clarice Annette Thomas, Phy Elizabeth Thomason, Dorothy Lee Toney, Mary Lena Watford, Frances Howard Wheeler, and Onida M Winchester.

Julia Burnet, Frances Hill, Elizabeth Hudson, Lottie Belle Parker and Bobbie Sweet are home economics apprentice teachers, not fulfilling the requirements for intern teaching hut doing student teaching in public schools.

Kuersteiner Honors Music Seniors

Dean and Mrs Karl O Kuersteiner entertained Wednesday afternoon at a picnic at Camp Flastacowo honoring seniors of the School of Music. Those present participated in both swimming and boating, according to Dean Kuersteiner.

The guests included Miss Marjorie Clayton, Miss Olga Eitner, Judge and Mrs B A Meginniss, Miss Zadie Phipps, Mr and Mrs Allan Borch, Mr and Mrs Walter James, Miss Mary Reeder, Mr and Mrs Reeder, Miss Rebecca Rodenberg, Miss Helen Rogers, Miss Mary Esther Winslow, Mrs Winslow, Miss Margaret Dunn, Miss Florine Marlatt, Miss Charlotte Cooper, Mrs Ramona Beard, Mrs Cruikshank, Mr and Mrs Walter R Cowles, Mr and Mrs Leonard Cowles, Miss Ruby Dunstan, Miss Gladys Koch, Miss Etta Robertson, Miss Lucille Wagner, Miss Virginia Holmes, Mr and Mrs Owen Sellers, Mr and Mrs H O Pemberton, Annabelle Redwine, Warrene Porter, Marian Najarian, Sidney Conner, Dolly Sutton, Katherina Gremli, Fawn Trawick, Jane Gaertner, Emily Bridges and Anne Pifield.

Dinner Ends Year Of Speech Honorary

Zeta Phi Eta, national women's speech honorary, held its last formal meeting of the year at 5 p m yesterday in 406 History building, according to Katherine Moore, president. At the close of this meeting, which honored senior members of Zeta Phi Eta, a gardenia corsage was presented to each senior.

After the meeting the senior members were entertained at a cameo dinner in the old dining hall. The theme of the dinner carried out the pink and white cameo symbol of Zeta Phi Eta.

Those seniors honored were: Bonnie Hunt, Mary Marshall, Nancy McLaurin, Sara Norman, Maureen Petty, Katherine Steed, Bettye Usher, Bobbye Usher, and Beatrice Weafer.

College Rates High With Seven-Year Old "Xonethes" Likes Girls, Soccer, Saturdays

By TOBIE JACOBSKIND

Down the sliding board came blond, freckle-faced "Xonethes," second grader at the Demonstration school, who without a word of warning came tumbling down upon the back of this Flambeau reporter who was seated peacefully on the board waiting to snare an unsuspecting youngster into a conversation. After such an emphatic introduction, we became great friends and his fear of strangers (his mother told him never to talk to strange women) was immediately lost.

"Boy, the college girls are really good-lookers," he slyly informed me after a probe of three lollypops and a pack of gum. In fact, he said that it was his secret amhition to go to college here at Florida State College regardless if men were going here then or not.

When asked about the student teachers at the Dem school, he said that they were "good" and were "real nice to us." He continued, "They teach us reading, numbers, and spelling and they really know their stuff."

Summer vacation was the most important thing on the seven-year-old's mind at the time, and he said that after school was out he didn't want to see another book or teacher for a long time. "All I want to do is play and climh trees," he emphatically remarked. "The only thing I like about school," Xonethes said, "is Saturdays, Sundays, and holidays, 'cause they're the most fun."

The college girls who play soccer are my favorites, he informed me, "as I play it m'self once in a while."

"I like to eat ice cream best," the green-eyed youngster said, "and if my mother would let me, I would eat it all of the time."

Red turned out to be his favorite color after considerable deliberation and he said that any of the little girls in his class who wear red dresses are his girl friends.

Plans in Progress For Trip to Mexico

Dr Carmen Rogers of the English department has announced that the trip to Mexico which she is planning will be open to all who are interested. It is not to be limited to students.

The exact dates for the tour have not yet been set as negotiations for plane service are now in process, but Dr Rogers stated that plans are being made for the latter part of the summer. Any who are not interested in traveling hy air may go to Mexico City by bus or train and meet the rest of the group there.

Dr Rogers has mentioned some of the places and objects of interest which the group will see on the trip. Among the places are Mexico City, Xochimilco, famous for its floating gardens, Puebla, often described as a museum of colonial Mexico, Taxco, Morelia, the city of pink marble dwellings, and Cuernavaca, former home of Cortez, Emperor Maximilian, and the Lindberghs.

Objects of interest will include pyramids, temples, factories for working with silver, glass, pottery, textiles, lacquer, and embroideries. There will also be flower and craft markets, hull fights, museums, shrines, cathedrals, and galleries of art for the girls to see.

Dr Rogers has said that there will be time for shopping and dining in colorful restaurants.

For further information those interested may call Dr Rogers at 872-R.

Chayes Is Speaker In Lecture Series

The last in the series of vocational guidance talks sponsored by the Personnel office was presented by Dr Dorothy Chayes, college physician, last Monday evening in 303 Westcott.

Dr Chayes directed her talk chiefly toward pointing out the difficult and demanding life of a doctor, and trying to discourage all from seeking a medical life who do not feel a deep and sincere desire for it. Dr Chayes emphasized this by citing illustrations from her own experience as a pre-medical student at New York University and at the Woman's Medical College of Pennsylvania.

These vocational guidance lectures are presented each year in order to allow students to become acquainted with the various vocational fields.

Haynes Now Attends Library Conference

Miss Frances Haynes, Florida State College reference librarian, is now attending a library conference in Chattanooga, Tennessee, where five southern university reference lihrarians are revising a list of recommended reference books for college libraries in the South.

Miss Haynes is working on a special section for the department of humanities.

Reception Is Held Tonight by AGO

The colleagues and subscriber members of the American Guild of Organists are giving a reception this evening in the Rowena Longmire lounge following the certificate recital of Margaret McCain, organist, and Julia Emily Bridges, vocalist.

This reception will honor those members who have played certificate recitals or assisted in recitals during the year. Guests will include Margaret McCain, Jane Gaertner, Edith Smith, and Fawn Trawick, as well as new colleagues Mr and Mrs H Caleb Cushing, Evelyn Ann Doyle, Marguerite Henry, Mrs W R Latham, Catherine Phillips, Dr Robert D Miller, and Miss Lucille Wagner, according to an announcement from the office of Dr Karl O Kuersteiner, dean of the school of music.

Baptist Students Forego Activities

There will be no activities for Baptist students during dead week, announced Miss Faith James, Baptist student secretary; but there will be morning watch services in the week following dead week, Monday through Thursday.

Another activity that will take place during the last week of school will be the honoring of two graduating Baptists at a special service in the college department of Sunday School, June 2. Following this service, at the regular morning worship hour, a section of the First Baptist Church will be reserved for all high school and college seniors. Dr Harold G Snders' sermon will be primarily to these students.

17 Students Taken Into Mortar Board

Scholastic Honorary Tapped Juniors Tuesday Night

On Tuesday night 17 girls were initiated into the Torchbearers chapter of Mortar Board's national women's scholastic honorary Thursday afternoon the newly initiated members of Mortar Board held their first meeting at which time they elected officers and selected representatives to attend the 13th annual Mortar Board convention.

Elected to serve as officers with President Ann Colvin are: vice president, Barbara Wickham; secretary, Marjorie Potter; treasurer, Betty Schwartz; historian, Frances Myers; editor, Nell Clark; parliamentarian, Barbara Mann.

Ann Colvin and Frances Myers have been selected to attend the convention which is to be held July 26 through 31 at Estes Park, Colorado. Since there were no conventions during the war this will be the first one since 1941.

During the meeting Bea Weaver and Shirley Duggan, outgoing president and vice president respectively, spoke to the new members.

Sandels and Connor Attend Meeting

In an affort to assist with a general program to better rural housing throughout the state, Dean Margaret Sandels, professor of nutrition and head of the home economics department, and Dr Ruth Connor, professor of home economics and child development, attended a meeting of the State Rural Housing committee Monday in Gainesville.

The Florida State College home economics department was one of the agencies represented at the organization meeting of the committee and plans for an active campaign of housing clean-ups have been made.

Dean Sandels and Dr Connor were members of a sub-committee on subject matter aids, and at a formal dinner each agency presented a statement of the program which would benefit its section of the state.

The newly elected coordinator of the committee is Mr Marshall Watkins, assistant to the director of the Agricultural extension program in Gainesville. His assistant is Miss Mary Keown, style home demonstration agent with offices at FSC.

Members Honored

Dr Venila Shores, head of the history department, entertained the new members of Phi Alpha Theta, history honorary, at a coffee last Thursday evening. Other guests were Dr and Mrs R S Cotterill, Dr Anne Popper and Miss Daisy Parker.

After the coffee a business meeting was held and officers for the coming year elected. Marie Garcia is now president, and Gloria Sue Reed, secretary-treasurer. The new members are Mabel Ruth Pope, Martha Jane Brown, Ann Caroline Allison, Gloria Sue Reed, Marie Garcia, and Joanne Newman.

Cast Entertained

Immediately following the final curtain last Friday night Zeta Phi Eta, national speech honorary, entertained the cast, crew and special guests of "Arms and the Man" with a party on the stage of the Augusta Conradi theater.

In between raids on the punch pitchers, pictures were taken of the various scenes in the play.

Sandwiches, candy, cookies, and punch were served to approximately 60 people at the stage party, according to Mr Dingwell, director of the play.

Or Forever Hold Your Peace...

Continued from page two student assistants are almost ancient history, and the library has an acute shortage of these indispensable helpers. In the second place, only trained specialists can be left in charge of valuable state property. In the third place, a librarian has to have extensive training in order to fill her position. It is not possible for an untrained person to fill that position adequately. The administration is willing to give us more librarians, hut these highly trained specialists are very hard to find.

This is one of the few large colleges that has open stacks, which means that the students are supposedly trustworthy. Even the University of Florida has closed stacks. Our library loses about 300 books per college year. Does this show that the students should be given even more freedom in the library?

The fact that the library has not been closed for two years for convocation, artist series, or anything of that nature, disproves the implication that the FSC library closes upon every excuse. It is true that it was closed on Honors Day, but this was because the entire staff was requested to march in the procession, in honor of the students.

If the educational system here has failed so that a student cannot see both sides of a situation, then we recommend that this student work as a student assistant in the library for a few months and see if she, an untrained person, could adequately fill a librarian's position.

It seems that the library hours are convenient for the majority of the students who plan their time. It is only those who try to complete a whole quarter's work in a few nights who require that the library be open 24 hours per day.

In a school of this size there are naturally many things upon which everyone does not agree, and the students should express their opinions. But before doing so, the student should have accurate facts upon which to base her opinions. Isn't it true that this is a basic requirement of a journalist? We say — obtain the facts, judge the question accordingly, and give justice where justice is due.

Avanell Barker
Erin Poythress

READ THE FLAMBEAU ADVERTISEMENTS.

Coeducation Reports Given at CGA Forum

Allison and Lewis Review Student Government Meet

Discussions and decisions of two inter-collegiate meetings were stressed in last night's forum in 303 Westcott which was turned into a panel discussion.

Margaret Baugh and Peggy Lu Thompson reviewed their report on the State Student Government Convention which met with the Florida Inter-Collegiate Press Association in DeLand recently, stressing coeducation.

At that time a resolution was passed in favor of coeducation. A student committee, headed by Harry Parham, president of the student body at the University of Florida, was chosen to work on information and statistics to present to te Citizens' Committee on Education, a legislative body.

A comparison of Gainesville Honor Court and the FSC government and how much of their principle could apply to the honor code and judiciary here was also considered during the panel discussion.

Student Government

After the report on the state convention, Sarah Lewis and Ann Carolyn Allison reported on the Southern Inter-Collegiate Association of Student Government meeting which they attended last weekend at East Carolina Teachers' College in Greenville, North Carolina.

Sarah and Ann Carolyn reported that there was much discussion on the way student governments are run. They found that many colleges have the same problems as FSC, the only difference being the larger size of FSC. Some of the problems brought forth were those of percentage voting, methods of nominating students, and honor systems.

Political Science

Dr Marion D Irish, Miss Lucretia Ilsey, and Miss Daisy Parker will honor seniors in the political science department at a coffee this evening at 7:30 in the home of Miss Irish. Approximately [illegible] students have been invited for the occasion.

PATRONISE OUR ADVERTISERS.

WHAT'S YOUR FAVORITE SPORT?

No matter — You'll Find the things you need here.

SEE US NEXT FALL, GIRLS

Seek it First at
VAN BRUNT & YON INC.
YON'S
HARDWARE

HAVE YOUR FAVORITE PICTURES FRAMED

We Carry a Complete Line of Art Supplies

We Will Frame Your Priceless Diploma

WARD'S PAINT STORE
204 S. ADAMS

See Our Selection for Graduation Gifts

- Revelon Sets
- Colognes
- Perfumes
- Candies
- Stationary

BENNETT'S
COLLEGE INN PHARMACY
PHONE 800
MONROE ST. PHARMACY
PHONE 93

AIR CONDITIONED
FLORIDA
PHONE 186
TODAY - TOMORROW
The Blue Dahlia
ALAN LADD
VERONICA LAKE
SUNDAY - MONDAY
WALLACE BEERY
BAD BASCOMB
MARGARET O'BRIEN with Marjorie Main
TUES. — WED.
"PINOCCHIO"
AND
"Doctor of Painting"
THURS. THRU SAT.
PAULETTE GODDARD
RAY MILLAND
Kitty

COOL WASHED-AIR
STATE
PHONE 190
SUNDAY - MONDAY
"Hotel Reserve"
AND
"Blondie's Lucky Day"
TUESDAY - WEDNESDAY
"My Reputation"
Barbara Stanwick
THURSDAY ONLY
"Mr. Winkle Goes to War"
AND
"Because of Him"
Deanna Durbin

COOL WASHED-AIR
RITZ
PHONE 861
NOW - TOMORROW
"Isle of Deed"
Boris Karloff
AND
"Mosquito Buckaroo"
SUNDAY - MONDAY
"Fallen Angel"
AND
"Dakota"
John Wayne
Tuesday Thru Thursday
"Hit the Hay"
AND
"Leave Her to Heaven"
Gene Tierney

X
070.5
F636
1946/48

c. 1

Constitution: When?

x 108

The Florida Flambeau

Published by the Students of Florida State College for Women

Revolution: Men

VOL. XXXIII, No. 1

Tallahassee, Florida

OCTOBER 5, 1946

FSC Adds 101 New Members To Faculty This Quarter; Canfield Heads Department

Staffs Increased; Two Doctors Augment Infirmary Personnel; Dietitians Added To Carry Increased Cafeteria Demands

One hundred and one new members have been added this year to the faculty and that part of the staff with faculty rating. These facts were released from Dr Doak S Campbell's office this week.

Included in this list are two doctors for the college infirmary, Dr Grace E Wilder and Dr M P Andrews. The latter will arrive November 1.

To the Demonstration School have been added Miss Catherine Alley, critic teacher, Miss Agnes Beasole, critic teacher, grade 3, Miss Sara Bell, librarian, Mrs Louise C Brown, critic teacher, grade 3, Miss Murrie Lee Cheshire, instructor in health and physical education, Miss Dorothy Creekmore, critic teacher, grade 3, Miss Nonnie Lee Elkins, critic teacher, Mrs Elizabeth B Harris, critic teacher, grade 1, Mr Frank Hartsfield, critic teacher, grade 9, Mrs Reece Conley Hays, critic teacher, grade 4, Miss Zelma McCord, critic teacher, grade 6, Miss Emma Mae Murray, critic teacher, grade 7, Mrs Helen Smoyer Pope, critic teacher, grade I, Mr Marlin C Sanders, critic teacher, grade 7.

The library has added Miss Nancy K Bird, periodicals librarian, Miss Felice Kozak assistant in circulation, Miss Adeline Rehkeffer, order librarian, Miss Frances Smith, assistant order librarian, and Miss Alice M Hall, assistant cataloguer.

New members of the School of Home Economics are Miss Agnes C Brown, associate professor of home economics and Mrs Hortense McGlenn, instructor in home economics and resident supervisor of the home management house.

Newcomers to the English department are Mrs Clara H Busness, assistant instructor in English, Miss Dora Byron, instructor in English and journalism, Mr Benjamin H Carroll, instructor in English, Mrs Helen C Davis, assistant instructor in English, Mr

Continued on page two

Choral Group Holds Tryouts This Week

The college choir, now being organized by Herman Gunter of Tallahassee, who joined the faculty of Florida State College before the first session of summer school, will be composed of men and women interested in singing sacred choral literature. The choir will also present radio broadcasts over WTAL and has been asked to give a choral demonstration at the Music Teachers Association meeting to be held here November 4-6.

Try-outs for membership and for accompanist were held Tuesday, Wednesday and Thursday nights for girls, but the results will not be made known until sometime during the week-end.

Approximately 25 men attended the meeting for them Monday afternoon and according to Mr Gunter "the number and attitude of those who came is very encouraging."

Mr Gunter, who is a graduate of the University of Florida and the School of Sacred Music, Union Theological Seminary in New York, came to this campus from Ohio State University, where he was in the voice department. While there he was also minister of music at the Indianola Presbyterian church. He is a teacher of voice and conducting here.

Tallohassee AAUW Invites Membership

A meeting of the American Association of University Women will be held Tuesday, October 8, at 8 pm in the Longmire Building at which time all persons eligible for membership in the national organization are invited to join the Tallahassee branch.

Of the two types of membership, national membership requires graduation from a recognized college or university. Associate membership may be obtained with the completion of at least two full years of academic work in an acknowledged college or university.

Local dues are four dollars for national membership and two dollars for associate. No one eligible for national membership may elect associate membership.

If there is any doubt as to eligibility, Mrs W L Blair may be contacted for information at 2267 or Miss Mary Schornherst at 918.

Last Day For YW Enlistment

Membership Accepted 'Til 4:30 This Afternoon

Today is the deadline for students to join the Young Women's Christian Association at the enlistment table in lower Westcott, according to Joyce Petty, president. The table will be open from 8:30 a m to 4:30 p m and Y members will be there at all times to answer questions regarding the program and projects of the YWCA. Membership dues are one dollar a year and should be paid when joining.

The annual recognition service for new members is scheduled for next Tuesday night at 7:15 in Westcott auditorium. Members are instructed to wear white and to meet in the main hall of Westcott at 7 o'clock.

Most of the work of the Y will be done through four major commissions. Each girl may join the one of her choice according to her individual interest. Each of these groups will in turn be divided into smaller groups to work on specific projects on the campus and in the community.

The worship commission headed by Ellen Koenitzer and Janice Wilson will work in three major fields—worship programs, Bible study, and study of various churches and religions.

Willardeen Pulliam, chairman of community service, hopes to be able to work with girl scouts, Y-teens and other high school groups. Through field trips and other devices she plans to develop a better understanding of how the community is run.

Social responsibility under the leadership of Barbara Beckman will be concerned with education and action on the various political, economic, and social issues. Barbara says she would like to get started soon on the organization of a league of student voters.

Martha Vail McDonald with her committee on growth of persons will conduct what the president calls in a broad sense a search for a mature philosophy of life. It includes understanding oneself and one's interests more completely, creative work in plays, poetry and music.

Even though today is the last day for girls to join YW at the table, Joyce stressed the point that anyone who is interested in working with Y can come up to the Y room on the second floor of the Longmire building any afternoon between the hours of 1:30 and 4.30. Some member will be there to explain the program to those who are interested.

Senior Investiture Planned for Oct 29

Seolor Investiture will take place Tuesday evening, October 29, in one non-compulsory session of convocation according to senior class president, Jean Cole, who requests that all seniors be measured in room 445 Library for their caps and gowns before the deadline on October 14. At present the senior class is making plans for this traditional ceremony, and a meeting of class officers will be held later to decide upon a speaker for the Investiture Service.

Jean has also announced that elections will be held at an early date in order to replace the officers who have left senior class office vacancies by not returning to school this fall. The date for the election will be announced next week.

At the first meeting of Senior Hall, Ann Parker was elected chairman for the coming year and Caroline Pruitt, secretary-treasurer. Senior hall privileges and policies were also adopted at this time.

Attention Please

The humanities staff has requested that because of the serious shortage of copies of the Iliad and the Aeneid in the bookstore, that all students owning one or both of these books arrange to rent or sell them to humanities students. Those desiring to do this should contact the humanities department, box 1077, or post lists of the books in freshmen dormitories.

Jazzmen—Let's Go!

Can you play a tenor sax?

Take it easy, boys, this isn't just another way to get extra KPs—musicians are needed to play in the new dance band being formed at Dale Mabry to play for college parties and dances.

If you're a trumpet player, if you used to bother the neighbors with a tenor, alto, or baritone saxophone, or even a big bass fiddle; just look up Edward Morgan, barracks 701, Dale Mabry.

Instruments can be furnished for players who don't have them, together with a complete swing library. Players will also be paid for every engagement.

Alexander to Head Distaff

Extension of Senior Privileges Discussed

May Alexander, senior, was unanimously elected editor of the Distaff, campus literary magazine, at the first senata meeting of the College Government Association Wednesday afternoon, according to Dahlia Santos, president of the Senate.

A discussion of senior hall privileges, a report from the steering committee, nominations for handbook committee chairman, and nominations for president and vice president of several campus residences were also on the agenda of the first fall meeting of Senate.

A discussion of extending senior hall privileges to all seniors, regardless of whether they are living on or off campus, was begun by Shirley Rodgers, senior representative to Senate, who presented such a recommendation to the Senate. Following discussion on this question the Senate voted that the chair appoint a committee to delve into the problem before any action is taken.

The Senate steering committee announced the acquisition of constitutional handbooks from various schools in the United States, Canada and Hawaii to aid in guiding action on constitutional amendments. Since there were not enough student applicants for the constitution committee, however, the election of these officers will be held at a later date. Chairman Janice Richey said, "We had hoped there would be a much greater student response than has been indicated."

Names available of those nominated for vacancies in campus offices are:

Barbara Randolph, chairman of handbook committee; Annette Maples, Parkside president; Hazel Clarkson and Patricia Yates, Campuside and Hillside president; Dorothy Bishop, Dale Mabry president of freshmen; Candy Jones, president of Dale Mabry upperclassmen.

Vice-presidential nominees are: Barbara Farrar, Ellen Koenitzer, and Jane Carol Levy, Gilchrist; Jo Ann Long, the Village; Campus-side and Hillside, still to be named; Betty Wilkinson and Gwynn Poucher, Dale Mabry freshmen; Nancy Barber and Nancy Baker, Dale Mabry upperclassmen.

Names of other nominees were unavailable before time of publication.

Appointments Will Be Made Soon

All students who did not sign up for their annual pictures at registration will have an opportunity to sign up for them next week. A booth will be provided in lower Westcott for this purpose, and will be the last time that students will be able to make appointments, announced Louise Sims, Flastacowo editor.

Everyone is reminded to keep all appointments as new ones cannot be made. Everyone must take her coupon with her for the appointment.

Freshmen, sophomores, and juniors will wear long sleeved shirt-waist style white blouses when having their pictures made. Seniors, who are to have sorority pictures taken will do likewise when having the sorority pictures made. Caps and gowns will be worn for senior class pictures.

Freshmen who are interested in working for the Flastacowo should watch for the announcement of the time for interviews, stated Louise.

FSC President Reviews Five Years on Campus

"After five years I am thoroughly convinced the quality of our student body can't be excelled. The students are fine citizens and equal to any emergency that confronts them, and they have exhibited the most wonderful spirit during the years of making adjustment," are the words of President Doak S Campbell as he enters his fifth year this month as president of Florida State College.

President Campbell feels the one thing that marked his period of presidency was emergency. Our student body has increased fifty per cent during the last five years. The most recent problem is taking care of the new students not admitted to the University of Florida. Approximately five hundred men students are enrolled here and have access to our campus facilities. Housing, recreation, and hospital care are provided for them at the Dale Mabry base.

When questioned if the present enrollment of men students will promote co-education on our campus, Dr Campbell replied that it was up to the legislature entirely in deciding this question. He feels at the present men students seem happy with our campus life.

Although Dr Campbell remarked as he took his position as president five years ago that there would be no major changes made in the school, one can readily see the progress and advancement made under his administration. During the war three large houses were moved from the Capital square area for housing the increased number of students. Along with this we have bought three houses, built Magnolia, the Lodge, and completed the third floor of Reynolds hall for four hundred additional students.

This year marks the completion of a wing in the history building and the school has begun construction on a new dormitory. Another evidence of expansion is the completion of the north end of the physical education building, large music building, library, and class rooms.

Substantial changes in the curriculum have been the development of the Day Nursery school, the extended internship program, and a committee to deal with improving the curriculum, in addition to the expanded graduate program through the Graduate council. The school has changed from the semester system to the quarter system.

According to Dr Campbell, plans are underway and rapidly maturing for greater expansion of our institution. He hopes to enlarge the faculty and departments even more in the future. Throughout his discussion, Dr Campbell proved to be most encouraging about the future, implying that the student body can expect many more improvements and developments of the college now that the war emergency is over.

President Campbell arrived on our campus October 1, 1941. He received his doctor's degree from Peabody College, did graduate work and obtained his master's degree from Indiana university.

Phyllis Greife Takes New YW Post Here

First Professional Director In Ten Years or More

Miss Phyllis Greife of Cincinnati, Ohio, comes to Florida State College this fall as the first professional director for the campus Young Woman's Christian Association in over ten years, according to Joyce Petty, president of YWCA.

Miss Greife is also serving as a residence counselor in The Village.

According to Joyce, she is well-trained for YW work by her varied experiences since she finished school as well as by her work with student YW at Ohio Wesleyan university while in college there.

Miss Greife majored in psychology at Wesleyan with a minor in philosophy. After her graduation there she spent one summer at the University of Chicago where she studied under Carl Rogers.

"Since graduation," said Miss Greife, "I've just ambled around from place to place and have not had any permanent job."

Among the many jobs she has held are: hospital employee, church secretary, college consultant in one of the Cincinnati department stores, co-ordinator of volunteers in a Jewish hospital in Boston, counselor in Girl Scout camp, and recreational director of several different age groups in Benton House, a settlement house at Chicago.

Last September Miss Greife began traveling for the World Student Service Fund. After a training course in New York she visited approximately 50 colleges in four of the Southern states.

"The local YW," Joyce said, "has for several years felt the need of a professional worker, and the YW leaders hope that Miss Greife's stay here will give the continuity and effectiveness to the program that is needed."

Members Wanted by Music Association

Cincinnati Symphony Is Future Attraction

All new students, faculty and staff members of Florida State College are urged to take advantage of the Tallahassee Civic Music Association's fall membership drive which opens today.

According to Miss Isabel McKinnell, chairman of the TCMA membership campaign, those who were unable to join the association during the spring drive will be given an opportunity to become members now. Adult and student membership dues are $6.00 and $3.00, respectively, and may be obtained by contacting Miss Fae Thompson in the college book store, Dean Karl Kuersteiner and Professor Walter Cowles of the School of Music or Miss Isabel McKinnell.

Heading the list of four attractions is the famed Cincinnati Symphony Orchestra, Eugene Goosens conducting. This orchestra will appear in Tallahassee on March 25, 1947.

On October 29, 1946 duo-pianists Arthur Gold and Robert Fizdale will open the Civic Music season, followed by Robert Hall Collins, baritone on November 18 and Benno Rabinol, violinist on February 25, 1947.

The membership cards for those who joined in the spring will be mailed to members within the next two weeks according to Miss McKinnell.

Familiar Conditions Greet Veterans at Army Air Base

"I can't take it," said the vet who had spent three years in New Guinea, "It's all these women. I'm not used to it."

"I'll admit that living in old barracks gives a nice restful atmosphere, together with all the comforts I got used to in my four years in the Infantry, which is something you can't say for every college in the country. The beds are so nice, not these soft, wide beds that you can't sleep in, but nice knobby GI mattresses that reminds me of my foxhole at Buna."

"The food here is wonderful," he added. "While I was at home I could never eat a meal. After all, when you've eaten in Army mess-halls for four years you have to admit that ice cream without a dash of gravy just doesn't have that certain tang. But here I feel right at home. These balanced meals remind me of those varied, large meals we used to get in New Guinea. K Rations, we used to call them."

"But all these women get me down," he murmured, sadly, "You realize of course, that after a certain time in a different environment your tastes begin to change. Now there I was among the New Guinea natives for three years. Naturally, my tastes in feminine beauty changed. If you have ever seen any pictures of those sweet, airlish beauties you will understand what I mean. Imagine the strain of going to school with a group of girls with these grotesque slim figures, without a decent grass skirt in the whole student body."

He shuddered slightly and added, "If it wasn't for these girls who run around in dungarees and sloppy shirts I don't believe I could stand it."

"By the way," said our reporter, "Where do you live out at Dale Mabry?"

"Oh," smiled the vet, "I live in the Phsychiatric Ward."

Dean Reveals Contemplated Rule Changes

Ban on Smoking in Rooms, Automobile Ownership May Be Lifted

New Convocation System Inaugurated Tuesday

"If students, through a committee, can work out an acceptable plan for safety, and can assure compliance with these regulations, the rule of no smoking in the dormitory rooms will be lifted," announced Dean Olivia Dorman in CGA assembly Tuesday night. "Moreover", she added, "if a suitable plan which meets the approval of Executive Council can make adequate provisions for increased traffic and storage, students may be permitted to maintain and operate cars while living on campus."

Use of the cars will be limited by the social regulations of the college, she stated. Students who desire to keep a car on campus should secure permission blanks to be sent to their parents from the residence hall office.

Miss Dorman then stated that because of the presence of male students on campus no activity which takes place in the Longmire building, Sweet Shop, Mecca, residence hall parlors, or any other place on campus will henceforth be considered a date.

"Saturday night Jennie Murphree, Reynolds, and Bryan halls will hold open house to officially welcome the university boys to campus," Miss Dorman continued. "Punch will be served at all three of the halls, and there will be dancing in the recreation rooms. The freshman girls from the Village and Dale Mabry will participate in the activities."

New Convocation System

Under the new checking system which was initiated last Tuesday, there will be a compulsory assembly on the first Tuesday of each month in Westcott auditorium. Students who attended the first assembly found six stations arranged numerically on second floor Westcott where they gave Sophomore Council girls their as-

Continued on page two

Handbook Changes Enacted Last Year Impress Students

This year sees some welcome changes in our handbook of special interest to upperclassmen. Among them are the new regulations concerning assembly and the lifting of riding restrictions for upperclassmen. Now we have only one compulsory convocation per month, renamed CGA assembly. A new checking system has also been established. No longer do we have to crowd through a mob to find the proper sophomore council girl before we can join our friends in adjacent seats. Now we may merely have our numbers checked before entering the auditorium and find our seats together immediately.

Another relief is in store. No longer must we go rushing through the dormitory, searching for a friend with nothing to do or a date on foot before we may leave with our own dates in cars. Nor must we go through the often exasperating procedure of arranging our dates with approval hours in order to get our rides approved before leaving.

However, what brings most joy to a sophomore's heart is the extension of unlimited dates to her class, especially now that Tally has become, in a sense, co-educational.

Yet another joy is occasioned by the elimination of regular compulsory house meetings. They will be called in the future only when necessary. Although we knew they were coming up that first Tuesday every month, somehow they never ceased to be something of a nuisance upon arrival.

Not least among these changes is the omission of the little article in which we were informed that a conversation of over ten minutes with a young man was a date, for which we must be signed out.

Warren Absent

Miss Kay Warren, assistant dean of women, is attending Columbia University in New York for the fall semester.

During her absence Mrs B F Whitner, Jr, will be assistant dean. Mrs Whitner is the former Miss Katharine Byrd who was a councilor in Landis Hall a few years ago.

FSC Expands as Veteran Overflow From Florida U Is Housed at Dale Mabry

500 Men Are Supplied With Cafeteria, Bookstore, Gym, Post Office; First Steps Taken To Form Student Government

Nearly 500 veterans, overflow of the crowded Gainesville campus, are attending Florida State College at the University of Florida branch at Dale Mabry Field, approximately five miles from the Tallahassee campus. The field was expanded only a few weeks ago from an organization intended to house 300 young women. It will include not only housing for the men students, but also classrooms, a complete gymnasium, cafeteria, book store, and post office with bus service provided at all hours.

The first of a series of weekly assemblies, to be used in forming a student government and giving out announcements, was held Tuesday. First steps toward organization have already been begun with the election of a representative from each barracks for the meeting next Tuesday.

Intramural sports are to be worked out for the men, featuring a basketball team which may play neighboring high school teams. Only the touch variety of football will be played this year, but a number of sports are to be offered, including tennis, golf, softball and a horseshoe team.

In order to keep the high school students out of the Longmire building, passes will be issued to the University branch students bearing photographs, and unless other men have an invitation from a particular girl they will be asked to leave.

Barracks furnished at Dale Mabry are former officers' barracks, a good deal closer to the comforts of home than the one-room hutments or 30-man rooms which most of the students here occupied while in the service. While the beds are the old familiar army variety, students are also given closets, chests of drawers, and mirrors.

Classes for the men are provided on the base in addition to the regular FSC classes on the campus. Off-campus classes are held in 20 classrooms converted from hutments near the men's barracks.

A recreation hall similar to the one in the Longmire building is now being furnished in the old officers' club with a juke box, dancing floor, and soda fountain for the use of men and girls living there. Tennis courts and other recreational facilities are also planned.

FSC Enrollment Reaches 3040

Upperclass Students Now Housed on Campus

A total enrollment of approximately 3040 students, including 500 men, has been announced for Florida State College and the Dale Mabry branch of the University of Florida. Registration will continue until Saturday for men, but only women taking overloads will be permitted to register after Tuesday, according to Miss Eva Mae Atwood of the FSC Registrar's office.

Some delay in registration of University students was occasioned by the administration of General Education Development tests.

Residence arrangements for the increased number of women students at FSC have been made without converting social areas such as clubrooms and smokers into housing assignments. "For the first time in five years temporary assignments have not been given to students in the social areas on campus," said Miss Edith McCollum, director of residence.

Four houses at Dale Mabry field are being used as living quarters for 280 girls until campus accommodations are available. Those units are named for four branches of the service, Army, Navy, Marine Corps and Coast Guard. The social area for all Dale Mabry students is the former officers' club. Buses commute to the Tallahassee campus at intervals of 15 minutes.

"At the end of the spring quarter 175 upperclassmen had not received room assignments for the fall quarter which began Monday, but they were given special consideration and rooms have been found for all of them in the residence halls by cancellations from other students," said Miss McCollum.

College Orchestra Consists of Coeds

By BOB COOKSEY

Mr William Presser, associate professor of violin and music theory, has announced the formation of a college symphony orchestra, to consist of both men and women student musicians.

One concert will be given by the college group each year as the climax of training by Mr Presser, formerly a member of the Rochester (N Y) Philharmonic Orchestra for several years. No definite date has been set for the concert in the current year, but Mr Presser stated that he is hopeful of taking full advantage of the enlarged school enrollment and turning out one of the finest symphonic orchestras in the history of the college.

Mr Presser, who is to direct the orchestra, said that all students interested in winning a berth on the orchestra could contact him in the music building for further information. He has publicized an appeal especially for those students capable of playing cello, viola, string bass, and other instruments to help make up this symphonic orchestra.

Mr Presser is one of the seven new members added to the faculty of the college's school of music

Contest Deadline

Deadline for entries in the annual freshman writing contest conducted by the Distaff, Florida State College student magazine, has been set for November 1, according to May Alexander, newly elected editor. Contributions from all students, including upperclassmen and men enrolled at the Dale Mabry Universty extension, will be welcomed for the fall Distaff issue, with same deadline date of November 1.

Original articles, short stories and poems, previously unpublished, may be submitted to the Distaff through campus mail. Freshman winners in those three divisions of the contest will be invited to join the Distaff staff, and all contributions, contest entries or otherwise, will be considered for fall issue publication.

Day Students Meet To Elect Chairman

The first meeting of the day students' organization will be held in the Day Students' lounge, Longmire building, October 11, at 4:30 p m. This meeting is compulsory to all members since committee chairmen will be elected at this time. Planning of activities for the year will get underway with increased participation of day students in intra-mural activities stressed.

Already underway are plans to secure a lounge for male day students, according to President Doak S Campbell. He stated that it is hoped arrangements can be completed in the next few days and be made available for their use. Lockers will be provided if they can be obtained.

There are 182 women day students and, as a result of the co-education, a number of men day students. The officers of the women day students are: Alice Gehan, president, Marion Hazel Johnson, vice president, Nancy Koelliker, secretary-treasurer, and Betty Green, social chairman. The men have not organized as yet.

New Staff Members

The addition of four new members to the staff of Florid State College Business office was announced yesterday by R K Shaw, business manager of that office. They are Abner Alverett, Jr., William E. Loftin, Mrs Mary Louise Richey, and Mrs James Diffenbaugh.

Alvrett will hold the position of auditor and has lately been connected with the finance department of the United States Army. Loftin is assistant business manager for the Tallahassee branch of the U of F. Mrs Richey and Mrs Diffenbaugh, former graduates of FSC, are members of Loftin's staff.

CUT DOWN NICOTINE

Frank MEDICO FILTERED SMOKING

- Replaceable filter in new Frank Medico Cigarette Holders, filters the smoke.
- Cuts down nicotine.
- Cuts down irritating tars.
- In zephyrweight aluminum.
- Special styles for men and women.
- $2 with 10 filters, handy pouch and gift box.

S. M. FRANK & CO., INC., NEW YORK 22

Dean Reveals

Continued from page one

sembly numbers for checking. The list of checked numbers was later compared with a list containing names and corresponding assembly numbers to determine absences.

The first convocation of the year, to be held Tuesday at 7:30, will feature skit by the Women's Recreational Association and members of the Odd and Even Demonstration committees. These convocations, as contrasted with the regular monthly assemblies, will center around entertainment programs such as traditional college events and will not be compulsory.

These convocations will be under the supervision of a central committee of which Anne Fielding is chairman. Assisting Anne are Marjorie Mailard, Martha Abbot, Pat Grant and Janet Robertson. A larger group made up of one member from each of 27 organizations will work with this committee.

New Cafeteria Will Shorten FSC Lines

The opening of a cafeteria for boys at Dale Mabry this week may help solve the dining hall problem here at Florida State College, said Miss Anna M Tracy, head dietitian, when questioned about the overcrowded eating situation.

She continued by saying that one of the main reasons for the congestion is the resetting of the tables due to limited space, and the fact that approximately 3,200 students crowd into the college dining hall to try to get their daily nourishment.

Miss Tracy concluded by saying that she hoped to have the situation straightened out in the very near future.

For Your Personalized

MATCHES . . .
STATIONERY . . .
NAPKINS . . .
XMAS CARDS . . .

THE BOOK CORNER
121 S. Monroe

FSC Adds 101 New Members To Faculty This Quarter

Continued from page one

Joseph M Doggett, lecturer in English, Dr Laura P Jepson, instructor in English, Mrs Mamie A Mackery, instructor in English, first quarter, Miss Mary A Magginis, instructor in English, Dr Otis McBride, associate professor of English and dean of men, Tallahassee branch of the University of Florida, and Miss Geraldine Turner, assistant instructor in English.

The modern language department has a new head of the department, Dr D Lincoln Canfield, professor of modern languages, who comes from the University of Rochester, Rochester, New York. Other members of this department are Mr Theo de Veer, instructor in modern languages, Miss Betsy W Horn, lecturer in modern languages, Miss Ruth Ann Jones, assistant instructor in Spanish, Miss Natalia K Johnson, instructor in modern languages and Mr Henry M Kopman, instructor in modern languages.

Additions to the dietary staff are Miss Mildred Christian, staff dietitian, Mrs Pauline S Edwards, staff dietitian, Dale Mabry cafeteria, Miss Mildred Stevens, staff dietitian, and Miss Barbara Whelock, staff dietitian, Dale Mabry cafeteria.

In the speech department, the new members are Miss Yvonne Cody, instructor in speech, Mr Louis P Krauss, lecturer in speech and Miss Lillian Trawick, assistant instructor in speech.

This year's arivals in the music department are Mr Peter F Cook, Jr, instructor in piano, Miss Marianna Gooding, instructor in piano, Mr Herman Gunter, instructor in voice, Mr James L Merrill, instructor in piano, Mr William H Presser, associate professor of violin and theory, Mr Robert G Smith, assistant professor of public school music, and Dr Sirvart Poladian, assistant professor of musicology and theory.

Newcomers to the art department are Mr Claude Guidroz, instructor in art, Mr G F Holschuh, lecturer in art, Miss Florence Kawa, instructor in art and associate professor of art.

The School of Education has added Dr William T Edwards, professor of education and acting registrar, Miss Martha B Heifrin, camp director and part-time teacher in physical education, Miss Jane Lloyd, instructor in physical education, Miss Marjorie Martin, instructor in physical education, Miss Laverne Sitton, instructor in physical education, Miss Roxie E Stephens, instructor in phyiscal education, Mr Ed Williamson, instructor in physical education, University branch, and Miss Harriet E Wolter, instructor in physical education.

Newcomers in the chemistry and physics department are Miss Charlotte L Harriman, instructor in chemistry, Miss Elizabeth Johnston, lecturer in physics, Dr Robert S Leopold, associate professor of chemistry, Mr Daniel M Lewis, Jr, lecturer in physics, Mr Harold Hoffman, lecturer in chemistry, one-third time, first quarter, and Dr V E Stewart, lecturer in chemistry, one-third time.

This year's arrivals in the psychology department are Mrs Helen M James, instructor in psychology, and Mrs Marie Wheatley, assistant professor of psychology

The geography department adds this year Mrs Winnifred Fischer, lecturer in geography, and Mr Benjamin Moulton, assistant professor of geography.

The only addition to the School of Commerce is Miss Marian A Lambert, assistant instructor in commerce. However, others are expected very soon, according to Miss Louella Richey, head of the department of commerce

New to the department of physiology are Miss Margaret R Limroth, assistant instructor in physiology, and Mr Jess H Wheeler, lecturer in physiology

New additions to the sociology department are Mr Milton R Charles, assistant professor of social work, Mr Thomas P Monahan, associate professor of sociology, and Mr Lester S Pearl, assistant professor of sociology.

In the department of botany and bacteriology are new additions Miss Loretta C Ellias, instructor in bacteriology, and Dr C S Nielsen, associate professor of botany.

The library science department has one addition, Miss Elizabeth L McLaughlin, acting associate professor of library science.

In the art department Dr Cleta O Robbins, associate professor of art, is a newcomer.

This year's addition to the zoology department is Dr Henry M Stevenson, assistant professor of zoology.

There are two arrivals this year in the mathematics department, Colonel William R Toney, lecturer in mathematics, and Mr George D Avant, lecturer in mathematics, first quarter.

The history department adds this year Miss Claudia L Salley, instructor in history, and Dr Ruth Bourne, lecturer in history.

New counselors are Miss Mary Helen Burns, Reynolds Hall, Miss Sara Cloud, counselor and director of social activities, Landis Hall, Miss Lois Goldman, Jennie Murphree Hall, Miss Phyllis Greife, The Village, Miss Ola B Whitehead, Gilchrist Hall, Miss Edith Aber, Dale Mabry, and Mrs Fay N McCoy, Dale Mabry.

Other newcomers are Mr James Carr, director of housing, Tallahassee branch, University of Florida, Dr Louis Shores, director of division library training and service, part-time, Miss Dorothy Ann Cook, director of kindergarten, and Dr J Broward Culpepper, director of division of educational research and service.

Pol Sci Internees

Dr Marian Irish, professor of political science, has announced the appointment of two internees in public administration for the fall quarter. Robin Hill is to interne in the office of Tom Watson, attorney general, and Barbara Wickham will serve in the office of R A Gray, secretary of state.

Interning students are selected from senior political science majors who have maintained a good scholastic average and demonstrated an interest in public service. They receive academic credit for their practical experience, but they perform their routine office tasks without financial remuneration. Through observation and inquiry they are expected to learn the total responsibilities and functions of the department to which they are assigned. In addition to regular office work, they are given directed collateral reading in the division of political science.

Robin is the third interne to serve in the office of the attorney general, and Barbara will be the seventh interne in the office of the secretary of state.

Taylor to Direct Publicity At FSC

Miss Betty Ann Taylor of Tallahassee, a former Flambeau editor and graduate of Florida State College, will become acting publicity director next week upon the resignation of Miss Bertha Bloodworth, who has served here for the past two years.

Since her graduation, Miss Taylor has served in the United States WAVES. Miss Bloodworth expects to join her family in Gainesville where she has accepted a position on the University of Florida Board of Examiners.

Red Cross Elects

Chairmen of the various Red Cross committees have been selected, and the organization will start functioning Monday, Barbara Wickham, campus Red Cross leaders, announced this week.

Various committee chairmen include: Pat Yates, public information; Flossie Gwens, volunteer special services; Betty Kennedy, junior Red Cross; Anne MacDonald, nutrition; Emily Phillips, first aid and accident prevention; Dottie Hahn, disaster relief, and Jeanne Zewadski, life saving and water safety.

TERRY-ROSA
HARDWARE STORE

Takes Pleasure in Welcoming

University of Florida
CO-EDS

VISIT ROSA'S

For a finer selection of sporting equipment including Tennis Raquets–Reasonably Priced and Tennis Balls–50c Each

ALSO

EMERSON and SENTINEL RADIOS

From $27.50

F. S. C. W.
STUDENTS

Welcome Back to Tallahassee

Tooley Myron Studios 120 E. College Ave.

STUDENTS
FLY WITH

TAC

Approved by Board of Control

Phone for Transportation and Further Information

JEFF LEWIS FRANK LEWIS
IVAN MUNROE RICHARD WEEKS
PHONE 2727 MUNICIPAL AIRPORT

FIXED
WHILE YOU
WAIT

CAPITAL SHOE FIXRY
118 E. Jefferson

MEET

THE

GANG

AT BENNETT'S AS USUAL!

BENNETT'S
.2 DRUG STORES 2.
COLLEGE INN PHARMACY Phone 800.
MONROE ST. PHARMACY Phone 93.

IT'S SPALDING IN BIG TIME FOOTBALL
IN THE 1933 OREGON-OREGON STATE GAME, STATE BLOCKED A POINT-AFTER-TOUCHDOWN KICK BY HOISTING THEIR 6'6" CENTER INTO THE AIR.
FOR ALMA MATER
OFFICIAL WITH AMERICA'S TOP COACHES AND TEAMS!
COME TO ME ARMS YA BEAUTIFUL DARLING
THE SPALDING J5-V
SPALDING
SETS THE PACE IN SPORTS

Glad to Have You Back
Kids!

Remember That Yon's Is Your Sporting Equipment Center

YON'S HARDWARE

Even If You're a Dude

You'll Enjoy Riding

At TROT-A-WAY

Picturesque Trails

Gaited Horses

Experienced Instructors

Lessons . . . 1.75 per hour Riding . . . 1.25 per hour

CALL 816-R FOR RESERVATIONS

AND ARRANGEMENTS FOR TRANSPORTATION

Trot-A-Way Club Stables, Inc.

St. Augustine Road

Registration Reveals High Stamina of FSC Students

Loud clamorings and impatient sighs mingled intermittently with the sounds of scuffling feet. An occasional short silence was almost immediately punctured by the rasping scratch of a pen hurrying across a schedule card, or a wall of despeir from a disappointed coed who found she had signed up for the wrong class at the wrong time, and was lost in the recurring pandemonium. Everywhere could be heard the vagua buzzing of many voices and the usual sound effects to be found in any large crowd.

This was an event . . . and what a staggering one! Lines doubled, tripled, and even quadrupled. Lines formed, broke, and formed again, to be replenished by a seemingly endless procession coming in increasing numbers from outside.

It seemed to be another world. Inside the history building all was push, clamor, and confusion for nearly five weird hours. From one room on one floor, to a different room on yet another floor, and to still another, became a familiar routine in which the lines moved in monotonous procedure. The never ending routine took on all the mechanical qualities reminiscent of zombie-land. The air grew stale with the reek of dust, pencils, chalk and books. Many of the experienced students, determined to come through calm and collected, lounged against the wall, and resigned themselves to the dreariness of waiting. But, in the end, even these evidenced distinct signs of prolonged physical and mental agony. The experience of first quarter registration will long be remembered—in the nightmares of FSC's stalwart students.

"Tepee" Party, Burger Fry Begin Religious Activities

Religious activities are already underway on campus and with the record enrollment of women and the appearance of 500 males, more students are expected to participate than ever before.

Events for the year were launched with a Baptist Union Pre-School Retreat at Silver Lake near Tallahassee, September 18-21. According to Faith James, student secretary, sixty-one BSU officers were present to help with planning of activities for the year guided by the theme for the year, "Thy Will Be Done."

Enjoyed by over 300 Baptist students was a unique "Tepee" party for freshmen at the BSU Wednesday, September 25. An Indian motif was developed throughout in the invitations, decorations, games and refreshments.

Sunday night, October 6 in Ruge Hall, the Episcopal student group has planned a reorganization of the Canterbury Club, according to Mrs Frances Luce, student secretary. At this meeting the student vestry will be introduced. An every-member canvass is planned to be held in the hall October 8-12. A banquet will be held in the hall October 18. This will be followed on the morning of October 18 by a faculty vestry breakfast. Long-range planning includes a Christmas cantata program in the week before the Christmas holidays.

Thirty members of the Canterbury Club and guests enjoyed a hamburger fry Sunday night, September 29, in back of Ruge Hall. Afterwards, the group sang vespers around the campfire.

An event for freshmen will be a party to be held in the Presbyterian church in town October 11. Also scheduled by the campus Presbyterian group is a Christmas Cantata program before the holidays according to Miriam Wilson, student secretary.

The Methodist group is holding a series of supper parties honoring freshmen "little sisters" and their big sisters; the first of these was held Tuesday night in the student house under the direction of the freshmen advisory committee. These suppers will be held for a two weeks period, according to Alpharetta Leeper, director of the Methodist organization.

Library Training Offered as Major

For the first time this year library training and service is being offered as a major at Florida State College. Under the direction of Dr Louis Shores, who formerly headed the library school at George Peabody College in Nashville, this department will train students for positions as public, college, school and special librarians.

This new department will also offer services to public school and community libraries through workshops, leadership for short work conferences and consultant services. A series of speeches concerning library work will also be offered to stimulate interest in this field.

Courses in library science previously offered at FSC were designed to train only public school librarians and could not be taken for a major.

Intramurals Games Begin Monday, 4:30

Volleyball Is First Sport; Managers to Meet

Practice for volleyball, the first intramural sport scheduled for this quarter, will begin Monday afternoon at 4:30 on the outdoor volleyball court.

Other intramural games planned for this quarter are basketball, tennis and badminton.

"We hope to have good intramurals this year with all organizations represented," said Ann Stambaugh, intramurals manager.

A meeting of athletic managers or representatives of all sororities, dormitories and organizations who are interested in the intramural games will be held Monday afternoon at 4:30 in room 402 of the Longmire building. "The purpose of this meeting," said Ann, "is to outline plans of the intramural games for the year."

◆

In ancient Greece, health was considered one of the highest goods, and disease a great evil that made man inferior.

JOIN . . .
Our Convenient
Lay-Away
Club

A small deposit, and regular weekly payments will make possible a feminine wardrobe unequalled.

the College Shop
fashion firsts

In the hand of Thomas Hart Benton
WORLD-FAMOUS PAINTER OF THE AMERICAN SCENE

"51"...the world's most wanted pen

"Writes dry with wet ink!"

Parker "51"

● Truly remarkable is the preference for Parker 51's. Recently, American pen dealers, by a margin of 3.37 to 1, named Parker the most-wanted pen. More-wanted than all other leading makes combined. ● Today, more 51's than ever before are being shipped. So see your dealer soon. ● Here is a pen made to true precision standards—not just hurried out. The sturdy tubular point starts writing instantly, smoothly. For the tip is a ball of micro-polished Osmiridium. ● Only the "51" is designed for satisfactory use with Parker "51" Ink that dries as it writes! ● Three colors. $12.50; $15.00. Pencils, $5.00; $7.50. Sets, $17.50 to $80.00. The Parker Pen Company, Janesville, Wis. and Toronto, Canada.

BIKES FOR RENT

CHICKEN IN THE BOX

JOIN THE GANG
AT THE
SWEET SHOP

Short Orders, Sandwiches, Sundries, Drugs

1-DAY SHOE REPAIR SERVICE

FILMS DEVELOPED

154731

SPIRIT OF THE WEEK
WELCOME KILROY
I thought that I would never see
A man at dear ole F.S.C. — J. Sharer

● LEST WE FORGET

Stoogents! Do you remember a little fracas we had on campus at the beginning of third quarter last year? There were mumblings and grumblings beard on every side, criticizing the ambiguities of our constitution and calling for amendments, for re-vision, for a new constitution.

It seems that the memory of college students is all too short. In assemhly last Tuesday evening, the steering committee of Senate called for candidates for a constitutional committee—just 12 members from each class were to be elected—and the number of people who volunteered fell far short of that. Twelve sophomore, ten juniors, and eight seniors had volunteered wben Senate met at 4:45 the next afternoon. Now we ask you, is student memory that short? Were we only fooling ourselves into thinking we wanted to do something about our government last year?

The election bas been postponed in bopes that people will take time out to remember bow necessary changes seemed last year, and to realize that those changes are still needed this year.

The steering committee has announced that membership on the constitutional committee will carry no point load. It will take but two hours time per week. There will be no grade requirement. Interest is the only requirement to be met for candidacy.

Platforms—either a general statement of interest or ideas on specific issues—are needed to aid the student body in choosing those people they wish to have represent them. There will be no death penalty for deviating from a stated idea if a better one arises in the course of working. These platforms—not over 150 words—should be in the Flambeau office by 5 o'clock Wednesday, October 10. These statements will make you a candidate for the committee.

IF enough interest is shown by enough people volunteering, ballots will be distributed in upperclassmen dormitories the following Monday nigbt. A majority must vote in this election to make it valid. (Remember?)

This election will not be held unless sufficient interest is shown.

Let's not let this chance slip through our fingers. We have a golden opportunity open to us. Let's seize it while the way is open.

● WELCOME, FRESHMEN

Once again it is time to welcome a new batch of freshmen to the Florida State College campus. There is a noticeable difference between previous freshmen classes and that of this year, hut essentially they are the same—they are all starting out on the long, hard grind of college life.

These first weeks may seem confusing to all. The addition of the Tallahassee branch of the University of Florida has altered the entire makeup of our campus and we cannot be expected to change overnight from a woman's college to a semi-coeducational school. We will undouhtedly make many hlunders along the path of adjustment, hut "to err is buman."

You freshmen wbo are beginning this strange new life will find vast reservoirs of knowledge which are waiting to be tapped. Books and periodicals which can be found in the library will help you keep abreast of international events, while attendance at Student Senate, student forums, lectures, and CGA meetings will be of aid in understanding our campus.

You will find many traditions existing on this campus —torch night, Senior Hall, Class Day, etc—we hope you will found better ones.

You will be exposed to many varying opinions, some of which are good, some not—we hope you will consider, weigh, and formulate your own ideas.

You will be able to meet life more capably through experience gained in scholarly pursuit and campus activity —we have faith in you.

● ONCE MORE

Senior Hall once more poses a difficult problem to be solved. It has passed from the stage of casual selection into an all-inclusive body of seniors who can meet a tangible requirement set forth in the standing rules of the college, but even with proper qualifications some seniors bave been excluded from enjoying the privileges and responsibilities that hy rights should be theirs.

The Gold book states that "all persons rated as seniors hy the registrar's office except those who are classified as mature students may be members of senior hall."

This year, due to the critical housing conditions on campus, there are many seniors who cannot be placed on senior hall. These people desire to live as part of the group assuming personal and collective reponsibilities for college welfare.

Because we are a growing institution and these are critical times, there seems to be little hope of our housing situation easing up so that the same exclusion of people from senior hall can be avoided in the next few years.

Student senate passed a recommendation this week to have a committee appointed who would look into the problem of senior hall and hring a report of their findings back to the senate. Perhaps they will find the privileges and responsibilites of senior hall are out-dated as belonging to the segregated majority who live in a specified area. Responsibilities cannot be designated to lie on one floor of a building and not on the others wben all other qualifications are equal. It would seem that now is the time wben senior hall should cease to exist as a principle of our college communal living and that senior privileges should take its place.

● MILESTONE

The smiling announcements from the convocation platform last Tuesday nigbt concerning new student regulations, thougb perhaps relatively unimportant in themselves, told a waiting student body of the increasing liberality of interpretation of campus rules.

The actual underlying meaning of these announcements was that students at FSC have been given the chance to prove themselves worthy of being responsible for themselves and to themselves. As maturing men and women preparing ourselves for life in a mature world we must take most seriously this consideration given us by the college. Not only is this a manifestation of increasing trust but it becomes in a much larger measure an obligation and a responsibility to upbold that faith for those who placed it in us.

The changes in the smoking and automobile-ownership regulations possibly loom largest in the collective mind of the student body. They are important only in that they are indicative of the increasingly cooperative attitude of both students and faculty toward each other. In the last stages of dissolution is the old grownup-child relationship, and in its place has appeared the realization of a far more sturdy bond of cooperation and mutual respect. It is only through this attitude that any social order can ever hope to huild toward good government and responsihle citizenship.

We pledge ourselves to uphold and further this stride into the better way of life for this our society.

Men and women of FSC—you have crossed a barrier; you have passed a milestone.

● TRIAL RUN

Floride State College for Women is grateful to the unalterable fact of the Gainesville housing shortage, which caused us to become "Florida State College for Women and Men," temporarily at least.

Aforesaid unalterable facts notwithstanding, we must all recognize an even greater and more real benefit to be gained. At Dale Mabry Field and on the campus of FSC are the proving grounds of a plan long favored and openly supported and urged by Florida's college students, over 10,000 strong, her foremost educators and laymen, and many of her Congressmen.

The memories of the struggle between pro and con, Congressman and lohhyist, at Congressional session two years ago are still fresh in the minds of all participants; sneers and insinuations as to the resultant low grades and morals of college students of the future still rankle, as, no doubt, do the epitbets "reactionaries," "old fogies," "tyrants," "blind idealists," and "Victorian cranks" applied to those opposing. The battle has threatened to become a showdown, and real hitterness and some spiteful actions might have been precipitated to the detriment of all concerned, and to the probable indefinite postponement of any coeducation plan for Florida.

The gesture of placing men of F S C's campus means more than the relief of the Gainesville housing shortage. It also means circumvention of any need for showdowns, hickering and hitterness, and compromises student eagerness for the new plan with grownup reluctance to take such a revolutionary and expensive step without assurance it would work. The students have been given a chance to prove the system will work to greater advantage for all, and officialdom is given a chance to observe, weigh and consider the facts from an actual "guinea pig trial."

Bear in mind, all ye students, the things we want we must earn, and we must earn by solemn resolve on the part of each to make the new system work well, and by then carrying out that resolve to the best of our separate and collective abilities. Bear in mind, too, what depends on the success of your efforts. We students of Florida have no doubt of the success of the plan in the long run, but we have only a short run in which to convince our legislators of its efficacy.

Shouldn't be too hard, eb, just making your guests welcome and part of the family?

Sharpie the Fifinella

Sharpie has passed on. Long live Sharpie!

In the last year, students of this campus have had the most all knowing service of Sharpie, Harpie, and Sharpie II.

But now, Florida State College is blest with a new personage—Sharpie, the Fifinella. That's us folks. Kilroy's girlfriend who has been with him everywhere and knows all.

Quite a deluge of mail awaited us when we arived this week. It took three people three trips from the PO to bring it all to our headquarters. Now, there's hardly room for us.

Since it will be impossible to answer each one of the queries this week (we're only planning on a twenty page paper), we'll try to answer the ones of the most general interest.

Our first letter, signed "Neglected", states that co-education in theory is fine. But five hundred boys aren't quite enough for 2700 girls. Even if they were friendly boys. "Neglected" says that the boys just stare at her without ever smiling or speaking

Disi Lusioned wonders about the fact that even after that luscious Convo—er, general assembly—there was no traffic jam of upperclassmen eager to work on the constitutional revising committee.

Our observation is that it's the weather and the time of the year. The sweet breeze probably cooled off the remembranee of our last spring's heat.

We consulted Kilroy on this matter. His observation on the subject is that "Neglected" is either a double for "Lena the Hyena" or the boys are bashful. After careful thought, we decided to recommend that one of onr worthy campus clubs sponsor a Friendship Week. During this week, it should be a House Council offense not to smile and speak to members of the opposite sex.

"Bewildered" writes that she can't find the section in the Gold Book that tells her how many students have to ride with you on a date at night, what the limit on week-ends for sophomores and juniors is, and the conditions about visiting people in town. And it was so easy to find last year when they had a special little chart. What "Bewildered" wants to know is, did the section get lost at the printer's?

Ah, no, my bewildered upperclassman. This summer while we were away, the good fairy has been at work. That section is there, but in a greatly changed form. And Sharpie, on behalf of a large part of the student body, would like to offer a licorice stick to the good fairy who worked so faithfully while we played.

One of the guys who live out at Dale Mabry and is new to the campus is having trouble remembering what his FSC date can and cannot do and when she has to be in. "Why do the girls have so many restrictions?" he wonders.

Bless the dear boy. Kilroy could tell you that the girls have so many restrietions because you boys have none.

Speaking of rules, Ann Archey writes that she is in favor of abolishing all rules and government and living in anarchy.

Maybe so, but Senior Hall's inhabitants would rather liva in Landis.

Our last letter comes from a "Frightened Freshman." "All week long I've been watching the Sophomore Council girls carry trunks and suitcases for freshmen, walk miles on tours of the campus, and check rolls in Convo, among other things. My problem is, what did they do, and how can I get out of that in my sophomore year?"

Dear "Frightened Freshman." That is a problem. We suggest that you talk with your junior counceior and sophomore council girl about the facts of this life

Then if you still are not free from fear, write us again. Kilroy and Sharpie the Fifinella are always willing to help a freshman avoid fate. It is too bad that you were not here last year. Many of the faculty members here then could have given you better advice than we can.

Students, Sharpie and Kilroy are always ready to help you with any of your problems. But write early, for we have a limited time and space.

The Adventures of Sophomore Council Or "When the Lights Go on in Bryan"

The lights in Bryan parlor were dim and the hour was late—2 a m to be exact. Huddled together were nine sleepy Sophomore Council girls whose all-important duty was to welcome freshmen—in the middle of the night.

"I can see it all now," murmured someone. "There'll be dozens of girls with dozens of suitcases."

"And they'll probably all be assigned to the lodge."

"Well, I said I gained too much weight this summer. When I get through carrying freshmen's trunks maybe I will have become my nice skinny self again. Ya' know, though, the whole business of being a Soph Council girl is fun. Hey, don't murder me yet!"

"Here they come—I think," yawned one blue-jacket, peering out of half-closed eyes.

Summoning up all their energy the nine girls made their ways to the door with welcoming smiles. To the bewilderment of all only two frosh came tramping in. Nine sleepy sophs put two sleepy frosh to bed amid laughter which verged on hysteria.

But the sole occupants of Bryan parlor that night were not our sleepy friends. Two leteer-writers (frosh, of course) did not escape the eyes of soph counselors Mary Calley and Shirley Hargraves.

'What are y'all doing here?" drawled Mary.

"Oh, we're afraid of our room. It has bugs! And we're not tired —and we want to stay here to wait for our roommates. They're coming in the morning," voiced Alieen Miller and Dorothy Michelson.

'Bugs? In Bryan?" questioned Shirley, a former Bryan resident. "Let's go see."

It's not known exactly what they found, but when last seen the two soph council girls were directing the two freshmen to Gilchrist for the night.

Among the more interesting and exciting activities of soph council girls during freshman week was their trip to Dale Mabry for the traditional "Goodnight, freshmen dear" singing. After singing to the girls they just couldn't leave without serenading the men. The lyrics were changed to "Goodnight, fe-l-lows" just in ease the "fellows" wouldn't appreciate the original version.

Approximately six girls were on duty each hour at Dale Mabry to assist those arriving there at the beginning of freshman week The girls also delivered handbooks to students and aided students during registration

Where Can an Alien Go to Register?

Junior Walves Handbook, Tally Branch

"Date 'em all," said Dean McBride to the men's assembly last week. "Remember how lonely you were overseas, and how some of the Red Cross girls got to thinking that giving you a date was a super-special favor. You don't want to get like that yourselves."

Just remember Washington's advice. No entangling alliances.

• • •

I Don't Want Na More of College Life

After standing in line not less than a million miles in the Army, it isn't any more fun than it ever was, but if we don't learn anything else in college we'll be awfully good at standing in bread lines.

• • •

Overheard an a Bus Ride

Some of the boys were making book last night on how long a guy would live if he ran through the barracks at seven in the morning, blowing on a police whistle and shouting," Reveille in five minutes! Hit the deck!"

Longest bet made so far is three seconds.

• • •

". . . and that's how I earned that pretty ribbon in the picture there, Honey, the red one with the white stripes. . . The Congressional Medal of Honor, they call it. Yes, I know that's only a private's uniform, darling. I had that taken before I made colonel."

• • •

Post War World Dept

Prophetic of the new spirit coming into being at Dale Mabry is the new sorority being formed out there—the Beta Thi.

Its for men only.

• • •

Give Me Five Minutes More

Don't send for the stretcher bearers when some guy comes into one of your elasses a few minutes late, out of breath and looking like somebody at the wrong end of a 20-mile hike. He's just one of those poor boys who have half of their classes at Dale Mabry and half of them on campus.

• • •

He Must Have a Fast Bicycle

Don't let this keep you awake nights, thinking, but if this is the first year that there have been any men on the campus at Tallahassee how is it that Kilroy has already been here before us?

Program Will Begin

Although no definite beginning date has been determined as yet, Florida State College will again broadcast its Garnet and Gold radio programs from station WTAL this year.

The programs are expected to follow the pattern of former years, news, music, and skits, plus a transcribed theme-song.

Students Speak . . .

The most obvious question of the week on the Florida State College campus seems to be "What is your reaction to the semi-co-education plan that is being fostered here this year?"

Now, of course, the very obvious retort is "Swell." But rather than just let it go at that let's see what profound thinking individual students are doing on the matter. A cross section of ideas have come from boys as well as girls, seniors as well as freshmen, and residents of Dale Mabry as well as of this campus.

Betty Hunter, Senior—Landis:

"I think that now that we are used to seeing men on campus it is a very good thing. It brings about masculine competition with the feminine minds which is good in any intellectual institution. I think it will make a lot of girls happier who come to the college unused to the former eloister-like existence which held sway here."

Bill Fussell, Freshman—Dale Mabry (Bill, incidentally is a married man who's wife is attending a business college and while his views are purely objective they represent a part of what the student body is thinking):

"From what I've seen I think it is coming along very well. The boys are well satisfied with the new situation. I think the boys came to FSC for three reasons. First, there were the boys who came out of service who weren't able to enter any other college and had to come here; second, some came just to have a good time because this is the beginning of co-education and FSC, and lastly there is a small group who came purely to obtain an education for the future"

Virginia Sapp, Senior—Sigma Kappa house:

"I think that co-education is going to make this school more liberal in many ways. I think it is more normal for boys and girls to go to school together. I think they ought to build a dormitory for the men on campus or else give them the new one that is being built. Dale Mabry is too far away and too inconvenient"

Lucy Wellington Sophomore—Gilchrist:

'I think that co-education has warmed the cold cockles of the hearts of the faculty. It is making our college more liberal. The teachers are finding, I think, a more responsive group to teach in having mixed classes. I think it should continue and grow so that someday there will be an equal number of boys and girls."

Jim Turner, Junior—Dale Mabry:

"I have no objection whatsoever to this co-education deal. My only objection is to the place where the men have to live and when they get that fixed up it will be fine. I would much prefer to be here than at the University of Florida. (Jim wanted to add that his roommate owns a car and some of his other qualifications, but there just wasn't room).

Laura Simpson, Sophomore—Magnolia:

"I think it is the only thing to have. I think that when you graduate from college you are supposed to be prepared socially as well as educationally for the world, and the world includes both men and women. The presence of men on campus contributes a necessary part of our education."

Pat Lannom, Freshman—Bryan:

"It isn't any different from what we had in high school only there's less of it, so it isn't hard to get used to. I would like to see the college made co-ed permanently. The small number of boys we have now would feel more at ease if the ratio were equal. I came up here with so many ideas of how strict FSC was and now that the boys are here I find that it is just like the school I left behind.

Annual Reception Honors Campbell; Welcomes Freshmen

Baskets of seasonal flowers and fern formed the setting for the annual receptions held for President Doak S Campbell last Tuesday and Wednesday nights in the Longmire building.

President and Mrs Campbell, Miss Olivia Dorman, dean of students, Sarah Lewis, president of the College Government association, Rosetta Carver, chairman of judiciary, and Mary Louise White, freshman adviser, received the freshmen, transfer students and men from the Tallahassee branch of the University of Florida. Other guests were faculty members from both institutions, staff members, local ministers and student secretaries.

Officiating at the end of the line were Mrs Katherine Byrd Whitner, assistant dean of students, Miss Edith McCollum, director of residence, and Miss Anne P Pope, head freshman counselor. The guests were formally introduced to the officials in the receiving line by the student presidents of residence halls, Juanita Krentzman, Jimmis Rogers, Alva Ray, and Anne McInnis, and Alice Gehan, president of day students' organization.

On the first evening of the reception Miss Dorothy Brown, Miss Lois Goldman, Mrs Pauline Mansfield, and Miss Phyllis Greife served at the refreshment tables, and Wednesday night Miss Leila Allen, Miss Mary Helen Burns, Miss Edith Aber, and Mrs Fay McCoy officiated.

Floor hostesses at both affairs were counselors for upperclassmen dormitories, members of the executive council of the College Government Association, student officers and members of the Florida State College faculty.

Recital Presented By Music Students

The second in an annual series of recital programs sponsored by the School of Music will be held next Thursday afternoon at 4:30 in the recital hall of the music annex, according to an announcement from Dr Karl O Kuersteiner, dean of the school of music.

The first of these student recital programs was given yesterday afternoon. All students, faculty and friends will be welcomed at such future presentations, said Dr Kuersteiner.

The flag of Denmark, a white cross on a red field, is the oldest national flag, and has been in existence since the 13th century.

Library Hours

A corrected schedule of hours for the library is as follows:

	Stacks Open:
Mon-Fri	Mon-Fri
8:15 - 1:00	9:15 - 1:00
1:30 - 5:45	2:00 - 5:30
7:00 - 10:00	7:00 - 9:30
Saturday	Saturday
8:15 - 1:00	9:15 - 1:00
1:30 - 5:00	2:00 - 4:45

Periodical Room and Browsing Room—Sunday, 2:30 - 5:00.

The Florida Flambeau

1946-1947 STAFF
EDITORIAL STAFF

SHIRLEY RODGERS — Editor
BETTY DOWD, B J McLEOD, LOLA ROSE — Associate Editors
JOYCE PETTY — Managing Editor
BARBARA FARRAR — Assistant Managing Editor
LAURA LEE BUTLER, JEAN DOUGLAS — News Editors

Copy Editor — Winifred Lane
Assistant Copy Editors — Eleanor Bayer, Jean Bess
Society Editor — Madge Pilcher
Assistant Society Editor — Barbara Lanford
Feature Editors — Alicia Armstrong, Barbara Beckman
Sports Editor — Evalyn Shea
Outside News Editor — Marjorie Clark
Opinion Editor — June Grindstaff
Headline Editor — M J Sherman
Columnists — Beryl Kitchen, "Sharpie"
Picture Editor — Paulette Blank
Art Editor — Jean Sharer
Copy Girl — Peggy Kay

REPORTERS Dorothy Aberle, Katheryn Aspinwall, Inez Augustine, Jeanne Bagley, Audrey Melba Bach, Barbara Brown, John W Cash, Reginald Cash, Hazel Clarkson, Bob Cooksey, Mary Elizabeth Conant, Carol Coughlan, Lucius Daniel, Doris Love Dorsey, Francine Dunning, Jeanne DuPree, Mary Frances Ewart, Jane Hardacre, Jeani Harris, Alice Haywood, Linda Herold, Dorothy Ann Holland, Mildred Frances Hull, Lois Elizabeth Lovett, Rosemary McCay, Bobbie Annie Meffert, Elizabeth Milton, Anne Moore, Cheryl Muster, Francis North, Christine Puckett, Janice Richey, Charma Rosenvaig, Jackie Story, Charlotte Scott, Mary Charles Skipper, Pat Small, Nancy Stevens, Theresa Sellers, Alice Sharp, Betty Sue Tayloe, Ann Tucker, Betty Wilkinson, Nancy Wright, Joanne Zewadski.

BUSINESS STAFF

Vivian L Scheaffer — Business Manager
Kitty Chaires — Advertising Manager
Nancy Stevens — Assistant Advertising Manager
Jean Lieberman, Milton Flack — Advertising Staff
Terry Sellers, Gladys Clarke, Marjorie Berns — Circulation

Entered as second class mail matter January 30, 1915, at the post office at Tallahassee Fla. under the act of Congress of March 3, 1879.

Member
Intercollegiate Press

It is the policy of the Flambeau to grant equal space and prominence to anyone wishing to present a contrary opinion whenever opinions on controversial questions are voiced in its columns.

Athletes' Feats

By EVELYN SHEA

They say "When in Rome do as the Romans do", so I'll start this year off by welcoming all the new additions to our campus and to the Flambeau staff. Glad to see you Co-eds!

Now that FSC has men it seems only fitting that they should inaugurate a Men's Recreational Association to allow for sports and recreation for the fellas' here at Tally. Many of the boys are physical education majors and consequently will have to referee, coach and participate in sports. I understand that Dean McBride is willing to help this idea along, so Co-eds that's the man to see. Good luck and here's hoping that a good system can be worked out.

STRICTLY FOR THE GALS . . .

With over 1,100 new EVEN freshmen here this year, the girl's athletics should get off to a rousing start. Beginning this Monday, Green and Gold gals will have a chance to show their prowess in archery, modern dance, hockey and soccer. On Tuesday all loyal ODDS will begin practicing for the big Thanksgiving games.

Leaders for the Odd-Even sports this quarter are Elaine Gavigan, soccer head, Virginia Palmer, Odd soccer leader, Marion Floyd, Even hockey captain, Nita (Squatdrop to you) Nord, Odd hockey leader, Sis Myers, Odd modern dance head, Ann Shull, Even modern dance, Pep Stanaland, Even archery captain and the Odd archery leader is to be elected this next week. All these girls are capable and responsible leaders and if they are an indication of how the teams are going to be come Thanksgiving, the outcome will be anybody's guess.

Cheerleaders practice also starts this Monday so all you gals interested in being Odd or Even cheerleaders come on out on Landis green.

JOKE OF THE WEEK . . .

Last Friday when F Club wore their F's some new and uninformed Co-eds accosted several members of the club and wanted to know if they played football or were they Florida cheerleaders. What, no F standing for Flambeau this year?!? And that's thirty for now except let's all go out this next week and help produce a winning team.

Tarpon Tryouts

Training classes for would-be Tarpon Club Minnows were held on Wednesday at 4:30 and Thursday at 5:15, while today's class starts at 4:30 to continue through 5:15.

Saturday night plunge period will be the last opportunity to practice before try-outs, which will be held on Monday and Tuesday at 5:15.

New pins, in the form of silver tarpons with blue sapphire eyes, have arrived and are now being worn by Tarpon members.

Life Saving Corps Gives Pool Show

Marynell Goldman New Head; Corps to Meet Monday

Have you newcomers noticed the girls standing around the sides of the pool in red bathing suits? Those are the members of the Lifesaving corps.

Yesterday afternoon the Lifesaving corps began its activities for this year by giving a demonstration of swimming, elementary forms of rescue, and canoeing for the members of the freshman orientation swimming classes. Other things the corps will be doing throughout the year are supplying senior lifesavers to guard the pool, providing guards for week-ends at camp and various other excursions, providing instructors in water safety to assist the physical education faculty in teaching the swimming classes, and arranging extra-curricular courses for lifesavers and water safety instructors. The various dates for these events will be announced later.

Mary Nell Goldman, captain of the corps for this year, says there will be a meeting of the Lifesaving corps on Monday at 7:30 in the Longmire building. All members of the corps and the lifesavers with the exception of the new fall members, who have not been initiated, are urged to be present. Other officers of the corps are: Joyce Cayce, first mate, Anna Horne, second mate and Grace Bradley, third mate.

Freshmen, Juniors Have Camp Outing

By JANICE RICHEY

The freshmen dormitories are still buzzing with talk about the outing at camp last Saturday. Busload by busload, freshmen and juniors left for an afternoon and evening of relaxation after a busy Freshman Week.

Bopie Whitaker, junior counselor in Bryan, was in charge of the arrangements. Recreation included swimming, volleyball, softball, horseshoe-pitching, and ping-pong. A supper provided by the college dining hall was served buffet-style on tables by the lake.

After supper, the juniors presented a burlesque of freshman week and led the group in singing Dean Dorman, who initiated plans for the outing, was there to welcome the girls, and Dr Katherine Montgomery, head of the physical education department, told the history of Camp Flastacowo.

Co-Eds May Bring Change In Girls' Athletics at FSC

By NANCY WRIGHT

Having boys on the FSC campus will probably bring about a few interesting changes in our sports program. Although soccer, archery, hockey, and modern dancing, the sports for this season, will remain ostensibly the same as far as their playing goes there will probably be some changes in the outward appearance of the players.

Will the players remain bloomer girls or will they take on a more sylph-like appearance perhaps in a silk jersey creation? Alcohol rub-downs will probably be replaced by a touch of Tabu behind each pearly ear.

Besides these and other ingenious changes in physiognomy used at the discretion of the players, there will be more exercising of the eyelashes than the biceps on the playing field.

The prospect of having male spectators brought this comment from Virginia Palmer, Odd soccer leader, "We'll flirt, of course!" Pep Stanaland, Even archery leader, said "We'll shoot a mark that'll put William Tell to shame." This veiled statement could mean that the archers intend to use Tally U targets with apples on their heads.

Briefing the teams on playing tactics at quarters could sound like this.

"Did you see Joe in the third row on the end?"

"Yes, and your mascara is running."

The conventional towel and water bucket will, no doubt, be replaced with elaborate beauty kits and a hair-dresser in attendance at all times. All in all, it can be predicted that this new light which will be thrown on sports will bring out hidden facets in FSC team players.

"This Is Tally" Is Playnight Theme

Dancing to Begin at 8 o'Clock Saturday, October 5

"We have big plans this year for playnight," said Nancy Mac Edwards, chairman of playnight, "and we expect a huge crowd."

Dancing will last from 8 to 9 p m and skits will be given from 9 to 10 p m every Saturday night in the gymnasium. "This is Tally" will be the title of the skit given tomorrow night. The idea of the skit will be to explain and demonstrate all organizations on campus.

Some ideas for future programs are, Sadie Hawkins Day, Truth and Consequences, and a wild west show.

Tot Carter is secretary of playnight for this year, Betty Dixon and Joanne Zewadski, property committee; Mil Vernon, Amelia Pavese, and Leola Blake, light committee; Bebe Parker, Myranell Rogers, Helen Stone, and Betty Strickland, publicity committee; Sis Miller, Lucille Ossenkop, and Joyce Cayce, program committee; Anna Kay Horne, and Barbara Lindsey, chaperone, committee.

Membership Drive Sponsored by IRC

A membership drive will be held by the International Relations Club Monday and Tuesday in lower Westcott, Dee Gardner, club president, announced this week. This drive will be followed on Thursday evening by an informal meeting of club members in the Longmire building at which Dr Marian Irish, professor of political science, will be guest speaker.

Camp Flastacowo Open to Boys Now

Camp Flastacowo is open to the Tally U boys every day in the week, announced B J Gardiner, president of Women's Recreation Association. On Tuesdays and Thursday they may also spend the night there. Bathhouse facilities for the men have not been arranged yet, so they'll have to dress beforehand if they plan to swim. "This is the first of several provisions," said B J, "of a recreation program being planned for male students on campus."

Playnight in the gymnasium tomorrow night is the first joint activity of what will probably be called the Men's and Women's Recreation Asociation. A skit about campus clubs called "This is Tally" will be the main event.

WRA officers and Mr McWilliams, physical education coach for the boys, are meeting today to plan further co-ed recreation activities.

EVERYBODY Comes To
the MECCA!
Regular Meals a la carte Sandwiches
Complete Fountain Service

Welcome pause
DRINK Coca-Cola
5¢
©1946 The C-C Co.
BOTTLED UNDER AUTHORITY OF THE COCA-COLA COMPANY BY TALLAHASSEE COCA-COLA BOTTLING COMPANY

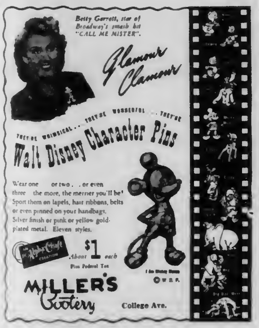
Incredible Captivator
Wreathe yourself in this wholly captivating fragrance. Dry perfume is the fadeless fragrance—the perfume that incredibly reaches its full flower as it clings to warm, glowing skin. Use this gossamer powder the same as liquid perfume. Pat its silky smoothness behind your ears, on arms, neck, shoulders. It will keep you delectable—beyond reckoning!
Six exciting scents ... Night of Delight .. Fleurs d'Amour .. Blue Carnation, Jade, Sandalwood and Violette, priced at $1.25.
DRY PERFUME
ROGER & GALLET



Betty Garrett, star of Broadway's smash hit "CALL ME MISTER".
Glamour Clamour
THEY'RE WHIMSICAL . . THEY'RE WONDERFUL . . THEY'RE Walt Disney Character Pins
Wear one or two . . or even three the more, the merrier you'll be! Sport them on lapels, hair ribbons, belts or even pinned on your handbags. Silver finish or pink or yellow gold-plated metal. Eleven styles.
About $1 each
Plus Federal Tax
© W.D.P.
MILLER'S Bootery College Ave.

Slick Clothes
FOR ON & OFF THE Campus
•
A SMOOTH SELECTION TO CHOOSE FROM TOO!
SUITS — TOPCOATS — LEISURE COATS
SLACKS — SPORT COATS — SWEATERS
FELTS — SPORT SHIRTS — TIES
SHORTS, ETC.
BROWN
CLOTHING CO.
MONROE AT PARK
WE OUTFIT THE MAN FROM HIS FIRST BIRTHDAY

FALL FASCINATION
Sweaters-BRIGHT...WARM...VERSATILE
A LARGE SELECTION OF • PULLOVERS . . .
• CARDIGANS . . .
• AND A FEW SHORT SLEEVES
P. W. WILSON CO.
TALLAHASSEE'S BEST DEPARTMENT STORE
—SINCE 1837—

TENNIS
Headquarters!
Rackets Restrung
Pennsylvania – Dunlop
and Wright & Ditson
Balls
Seabrook Hardware Co.
PHONE 200

Welcome F.S.C.W. Students
IT'S EASY TO FLY!
SEE OUR FLEET OF BEAUTIFUL NEW AERONCAS
● ●
Do You Want a Pilot's License?
We Offer: Students, Private, Commercial, Instructor, and Instrument Courses.
Courses Offered Under G.I. Bill
● ●
Our School Is Approved by:
- F.S.C.W.
- STATE DEPT. OF EDUCATION
- CIVIL AERONAUTICS AUTHORITY
- VETERANS ADMINISTRATION
● ●
Wheeler Flying Service
Call 2570 Dale Mabry Field

Layton's
Men's Wear
114½ E. College Ave Phone 2784-W
Welcomes
THE UNIVERSITY OF
FLORIDA CO-EDS
YOU'LL MAKE A SURE HIT
ON CAMPUS IN
Layton's
Style Distinguished
Clothes

Novelty Parties Entertain Freshmen; Alumnae Back For Rush Week Activities

Sorority activities began this year with rush week parties, which included dinner parties and novelty presentations, to welcome freshmen to the campus of Florida State College. Alumnae and former students are visiting the various houses and participating in most activities.

Alpha Chi Omega entertained Friday night with a formal reception, at which patrons, patronesses, and alumnae were guests of the chapter. Saturday the Alpha Chis presented a "night club" party held in the Carnation room of their house. Sunday at the Cherokee hotel a fashion show set to music and skit entitled "Alpha Chi and Alpha Cholera" were presented to the rushees. Actives who participated in the entertainment include Pat Harrison, voice soloist; the Alpha Chi trio, Jane Arnold, Mary Hart, and Pat Harrison; Dip Brown, dancer; and Jane Arnold and Virginia Der Garry, pianists. Visiting alumnae include Frankie Lewis Ryan, Gainesville; Rosemary Hubbell, Panama Canal Zone; Louise Rampey, Pensacola; Jean Austin, Mary Budd Holmes, and Eloise Steele, Jacksonville; and Jessie McCalla, Orlando.

Alpha Delta Pi had extensive redecorating done during the summer. An alumnae, Mrs Gallaher was the interior decorater. Doris Corry, president and Jean Simon, rush chairman attended the national Alpha Delta Pi convention in Colorado this summer. Tha A D Pi's entertained Saturday with a luncheon at the house, at which they presented a skit on the "Gay 90's", depicting what happened to vaudeville. Sunday at a weiner roast in the back yard the do's and don'ts of what to wear on the campus were shown in a fashion show. Sunday night the entertainment consisted of a pantomine of popular songs. Monday at the Floridan hotel a skit was given on the history of A D Pi.

Alphe Gamma Delta presented their traditional Esquire skit on Saturday with the members as months of the year on the calendar. A spaghetti dinner was served on Sunday at the house, and on Monday the rushees were taken to the Three Torches tea room. Sarah Pepper, an alumna, entertained by playing the piano and singing. Sunday a skit entitled "The Alpha Gam Girl" was presented. Visiting the Alpha Gams during rush week were Betty Blue Stewart, a national officer, and Sarah Pepper Willis of Tallahassee.

A skit was presented Saturday by the Alpha Xi Deltas with the members dressed as song titles. Sunday, talent shows were given. Some of the actives participating were Marian Hopson, pianist, and [illegible] Courtney, and Billie [illegible], singers. A skit based around facts about the sorority was also given. The Alpha Xi's have two transfer students. Betty Tucker from the University of Kentucky who is living at Dale Mabry, and Frannie Michael who was graduated from Iowa Wesleyan and is doing graduate work at FSC. Visiting alums included Mary Lou Sterchi from St Augustine and Betty Godfrey from Shreveport, Louisiana. Mrs Hertwig from Pennsylvania is the new house mother.

The Floridan Hotel will be the scene of the Chi Omega pledge banquet Wednesday night. The pledges will then be presented to the alumnae visiting here.

Alumnae, members and pledges were present at a dinner Sunday night at the Silver Slipper and on Monday night at the Chi Omega house. Alumnae visiting during rush week from Tampa are Margaret Sparrow, Laura Pratt, Dolly Sutton, Nan Rhea Chackleford and Mrs Herman Harris. Kathryn Steed of Orlando and Patty Bates from Jacksonville are also here for rush week.

Delta Delta Delta entertained during rush week with various parties including the traditional reception featuring the Tri Delta quarter, a novelty fashion show a lightflash party presenting a Crescent Night Club, and a skit entitled, Life in a Sorority House. Other entertainment consisted of a Tri Delta legend and a Tri Delta wedding.

Alumnae visiting the Tri Delta house during rush week are Mrs Slanch Spaton from Gainesville, Ruth L'Engle of Jacksonville, Mrs Carl Miller from Orlando, Mrs Emily Morgan Miner, Orlando, Mrs Helen Rudisall and Mrs Babby Beckworth of Tampa, Mrs Marion Berry from Tallahassee, Marjorie Morrison, DeFuniak Springs, Mrs A W Ramsdell of Plant City and Mary Julia Bailey from Tampa.

Delta Phi Epsilon highlighted their rush week activities with a banquet at the Cherokee Hotel last Sunday night. The president, Esther Argintar and house mother, Mrs W E Murr were speakers at the dinner. A sketch book program was presented under the direction of Eileen Murinson for a mixed crowd Saturday night, when all enjoyed an evening of dancing and entertainment.

Present at the formal reception held Friday evening were Delta Phi patronesses Mrs Abe Gross, Mrs Lewis Turner, Mrs Sam Robbins, Mrs Lou Gibbs, Rabbi and Mrs Ernest Lorge, and Mrs Ben Horne. An alumna at the reception was Mrs Harold Mendelson, formerly Lillian Sleet. Also returned this year to complete her college course is an alumna Mrs Anita Gilbert.

Delta Zeta redecorated during the summer in their sorority colors, rose and green. Mrs H G Stewart, and alumnae presented the House with two original oil paintings Among the rush parties were a mother goose party, with members dressed as characters from mother goose rhymes; a southern plantation party, with the hostesses wearing old-fashioned gowns; and a style show depicting a weekend at the Phi Gamma Delta house in Gainesville. A formal banquet was given at the Cherokee Hotel with the traditional rose service in conclusion. Alumnae visiting during rush week include Lorene Nickolson, Amsterdam, Georgia; Sue Hitton, Jacksonville; and Mrs F W Williams, Tallahassee.

Kappa Alpha Theta visitors here to assist with rushing were, Margo Roberts, Miami; Claire Gray, Savannah, Ga; Julia Nell Monticello; Jeanette Leslie, Tallahassee; Marian McEwen, Miami; Ann Avery, Miami; Mary Byron, Pensacola; Phy Thompson, Vocelle, Tallahassee; and Mary McCann, Jacksonville. Entertainment consisted of several skits which were "Theta Through the Ages", "Dr Swing", and "Even Greener" and Songs by Joyce Stroberg, Claire Gray, and Helen McCann. Monologues were given by Kay Harrison

At the Kappa Delta house on Saturday when Nancy Wright was in charge of entertainment, a skit entitled "Oh Woesland or Our Roseland" was presented. Sunday Mary Nell Thrower presented a minstrel, "KD Cotton Gin". Monday Dorothy Martin was in charge of the "White Rose Ceremony" Alumnae back for KD rushing were: Sara Jane McKelvy, Jacksonville; Peggy Grimsley, Columbus, Ga; Ruby Plant, Tallahassee; Mary Shelly Carr, Monticello; Josephine Anderson, Monticello; Jean and Lois Wilson, Tampa; Patty Folsom, Tampa; and Tedy Parker, Pensacola.

Pi Phi alumnae here for the week-end were Jean Yothers, Orlando; Louise Brown, DeLand and Esther Kerr, Jacksonville. Saturday the Pi Phi's presented a fashion show entitled "Dream," with Ann Carter as mistress of ceremonies. Sunday a minstrel, which was a take-off on Spike Jones, was given. A program with the Varga calendar girl as its theme was given Sunday. Monday was "Heaven Night" at the Pi Phi house.

Entertainment during the Phi Mu rush parties last weekend consisted of a skit with Barbara Lanford and Zeane Lanier, a reading, "The Waltz", by Laura Simpson, and songs by Laura and Hazel Clarkson. Alumnae back for rushing were: Mrs Warren Blackburn, formerly Della Rhodes, of Jacksonville; Alene Goodman, of Miami; Mrs W D Hollins, Jacksonville. Hazel Clark, Jacksonville; and Elizabeth Cassels, Plant City.

Sigma Kappa alumnae back for rush week were: Lynette Patton, Jacksonville; Betty Bryson, Tallahassee; Sara Ellison, Doris Dunaway and Fay Hall, all of Tallahassee; Pricilla Clark Seiver, Clearwater, and Beebe Winters Kazanzas, Pensacola. Entertainment by the Sigma Kappa girls consisted of a can-can skit, a fashion show, songs by Dallas Stever, novelty numbers by Drew Gannon and Virginia Sapp, and a progressive room party.

The Zeta Tau Alpha girls had as their alumnae guests during the week-end Mrs Harry Mills of Jacksonville and Myra Pattishall, also of Jacksonville. A skit with a radio serial as its theme was given Saturday. Sunday an amateur program was given, and Monday a candlelight service was held. Calista Hatcher sang.

The banana plant is believed to have originally been native to southern India or the Malay Peninsula.

Stars Fall

The Florida Flambeau

Constitution Stall

Published by the Students of Florida State College for Women

VOL. XXXIII, No. 2 Tallahassee, Florida OCTOBER 11, 1946

Senate Holds Nominations, Discussions

Steering Committee Head Tells of Disappointment In Candidates' Response

Committee For Senior Hall Rules Extension Appointed

A tentative election of dormitory officers, nominations for chairman of the auditing committee, continued discussion concerning the Constitution Committee, formulation of rules governing the Senate meeting, and various reports were on the calendar of the student senate meeting Wednesday afternoon in the Longmire building.

Dalia Santos, chairman of Senate, has called the next meeting of Senate for Wednesday, October 16. Of particular interest to the student body will be discussion of whether Sunday dancing will be permitted. Also on the agenda is the report of the Senior Hall committee.

Constitution

Janice Richey, Constitution Steering committee chairman, stated that student response in applying for candidacy for the constitutional alteration committee was disappointing. Only five seniors, 12 juniors, and 13 sophomores had written the platform which had been designated as a prerequisite for candidacy Because of this, Senate voted against the written platform (in a straw vote), thereby making anyone who applies eligible for candidacy if the steering committee accepts this recommendation.

There is a minimum of 12 needed from each class to serve on the committee, and since there has been an inadequate number to stage the election, Senate decided to take action in the matter and delay the issue until such time as an adequate number qualify. Sarah Lewis, CGA president, read a letter from Dean Olivia N Dorman, chairman of the Faculty committee on Student Affairs, in which the faculty gave approval of the constitutional changes committee and offered any faculty aid necessary to the achievement of the desired ends of the committee.

Dormitory Election

It was necessary that the election of dormitory presidents and vice-presidents be on a tentative basis because names of those elected must first go through the various administrative offices as a check for scholastic and other qualifications.

Those elected for house presidents were Annette Maples, Parkside; Patricia Yates, Campuside and Hillside: Dot Bishop, Dale Mabry freshmen; and Nancy Barber, Dale Mabry upperclassmen.

House vice-presidents are: Jane Carol Levy, Gilchrist; Jo Long, Village. Mary Frances Allen, Parkside; Hazel Clerkson, Campuside and Hillside; and Betty Wilkinsin, Dale Mabry freshmen. Election of the vice-president for Dale Mabry upperclassmen was postponed temporarily for lack of a candidate.

Minor Offices

Martha Burke was nominated

Continued on page two

1946 Flastacowos To Be Distributed

The Flastacowo staff has just received word that the 1946 annual will be ready for delivery some time next week, Louise Sims, editor of that publication announced.

The annuals will be distributed by the sophomore council girls on the bottom floor of the Longmire building. Due to a delay on about 300 of the covers, there will not be enough for each student to receive one at this first distribution. Annuals will be given out on the basis of first come, first served, said Louise.

All annuels should be ready for distribution in the near future, according to Louise, but the staff decided that it would be better to give out the ones they have rather than to delay the whole student body any longer.

Geography Club Has Annual Member Drive

The annual membership drive of the Geography club will be held Tuesday and Wednesday at a booth in lower Westcott.

All students interested in geography and related subjects are invited to join this organization, according to Nicky Sartoris, club president.

The booth will be open from 8:30 to 12:30 before lunch and from 3:30 to 4:30 after lunch.

Speech Clinic ...

Any student who has a speech problem and wishes help in speech improvement, free of charge, contact Miss Elizabeth Thompson in room 108 History at 3:30 on Mondays or 11:30 on Thursdays. In case of a conflict, drop a note, including your schedule card, to the Speech Clinic, box 1024, and an appointment will be arranged.

U of F Branch Plans Self Rule

Intramurals and Shows Discussed at Assembly

"Since we have no traditions to guide the organization of the University branch," said Dr Otis McBride at the second of the weekly men's assemblies, held last Tuesday, "we are going to be guided by experience, creating only such rules as we find necessary."

Conduct in the dormitories has been exemplary, added Dr McBride, the only complaints received so far being about a few radios that were turned on too loud during the hours for study. Dr McBride also emphasized the fact that since the majority of the students at Dale Mabry have been in the service they are old enough to take care of themselves, and interested enough in their studies to make good students without the kind of supervision necessary for high school graduates.

A provisional for student government was offered, including a president for each class and a president for the entire student body. Barracks which had not already elected a student representative were urged to do so as soon as possible, since there was much business for which they were necessary, and which was being held up until all the barracks were represented.

Intramural Sports Planned

A barracks representative will also be elected to head each unit in the prospective intramural sports program. Teams will be formed by each barracks, with the exception of 701, the largest, which will be divided into the two separate floors: and the two smallest, which will be combined in order to give them a fair chance against the larger units.

Day students will be organized into three groups for competition with the other intramural units.

The gym is now open to students who wish to try different sports, with complete equipment available for boxing and other athletics.

Identity Cards to Be Issued

Pocketbook size identity cards will be issued to all male students at Dale Mabry, in order to prevent non-students from using privileges such as the college buses and the Longmire building.

They will also be stamped by the business office for use in the

Continued on page two

Speech Department To Present Comedy

Tryouts for "Arsenic and Old Lace," the first speech department production of the year, were held Wednesday night and last night in the Augusta Conradi theater, but the cast has not as yet been announced. This play will be presented under the direction of Miss Yvonne Cody, instructor in speech, within a few weeks.

The cast for "Arsenic and Old Lace" will include three women and eleven men. This play, written by Joseph Kesselring, has had a long and successful run on Broadway and was made into a motion picture starring Priscilla Lane and Cary Grant. It is the humorous story of two elderly women who poison a long series of lonely old men in order to put them out of their misery.

Two of the five plays to be presented by the speech department this year will be given before Christmas, according to Miss Cody. She also stated that a musical comedy is being considered for the final production of the year.

Stardusters Needed

The "Stardustere," FSCW's all-girl swing band, is in the process of reorganization, it was announced by Betty Jean Allen, who is in charge of the band at this time. Membership for the band is complete except for several players in the saxophone section, and Betty Jean requests that all saxophone playere who desire to join, contact her as soon as possible.

Students Learn Language In New "Casa de Espanol"

Do you know that there now exists on this campus a place where 15 FSC students speak only Spanish? This unique place appropriately called "The Spanish House" and situated directly behind the library, was started only this summer.

The purpose of the new plan is to give girls who have finished Spanish 203 the opportunity to practice and to learn to speak Spanish. These girls are under the guidance of Miss Carmen Rivera, a native Puerto Rican and faculty member, who sets the correct example in her native tongue and no doubt eases the conversation over the "rough spots."

The new venture was a big success during the summer, and the girls enjoyed many social activities including an invitation to Gainesville extended by the club Los Picaros. The girls eat one meal a day at the Spanish table and participate in a social hour afterward, at which they sing Spanish songs, play Spanish games and in general "forget" the English language.

If you are having trouble learning to play bridge, think of the pitfalls involved in trying to make yourself understood in Spanish at the same time. In the complexities of the Spanish language you would find yourself taking a bath in soup instead of soap which would at least present a slightly different twist to the activity set aside for Saturday night

The girls at Spanish House might easily be called the most ambitious gals on campus. A few of the activities that they plan to carry out are a play to be given in the Little Theater, a dance, a radio program to be presented over WTAL, and an Open House. They would also like to form a Spanish club on campus which would be open to all Spanish students. Visitors are welcome at all times whether you would like to carry on a conversation in Spanish or just see the house. Better study your idioms though because its an excellent place to exhibit ignorance as well as knowledge.

Members of the committee in charge of the Spanish House are Dr O L Canfield, Dr Margaret Campbell, Dr Margie Burks, and Miss Rivera.

La Meri to Dance Here

Tickets to Be Distributed For Both Red, Blue Series

Reserve seat tickets for the performance of La Meri, exotic dancer, will be distributed npon presentation of either red or blue season tickets Monday through Friday of next week from 3:30 until 5:30 pm in the basement of the Longmire building. All students, including men enrolled under the Tallahassee branch of the University of Florida, are eligible to attend this performance.

La Meri will appear at Florida State College on Friday and Saturday, October 25 and 26, the first program being for those holding red tickets and the second for holders of blue ones. Dressed in a variety of foreign costumes, she will present the native dances of various lands during her appearance here.

In her repertoire La Meri includes Hindu dances, the Hawaiian "Alekoki", the Arabian cafe dance and the Javanese "Slendang". She also presents a variety of impressionistic dances.

La Meri has appeared in Mexico, South America and the important capitals of Europe. Following study under Tarasoff, Volinine and others, she made her debut as a classical dancer in 1928.

Education Article Published by Vance

"What Schools Can't Teach" by associate professor of English and Journalism Earl L Vance, is the lead article in the autumn number of the Virginia Quarterly Review, which is just out.

Professor Vance has had numerous other articles on education published in such journals as the Bulletin of the Association of American Colleges, The Education Record of the American Council of Education, the American Association of University Professors Bulletin, and other journals. Articles of his on the press have previously appeared in the Virginia Quarterly Review and in other periodicals.

The main thesis of the present article is that schools and colleges are ettempting to teach numerous things, particularly vocational subjects, which they cannot, in fact, teach satisfectorily. Instead of attempting to teach the technical and routing aspects of vocations, Professor Vance suggests that all vocational curricula make education, but education with a special slant, their objective, thus minimizing the strictly technical aspects of their teaching.

Publicity Skit Is Convocation Theme

A joint publicity skit presented by the Women's Athletic Association and the Odd and Even Demonstrations was featured at the first convocation of the year held Tuesday evening. Humorous presentations of the four sports now in season, archery, hockey, soccer and modern dance, were also given at this time.

During the Odd's portion of the program "Tabby the Cat" was sung by a trio consisting of Laura Simpson, Hazel Clarkson and Betty Thones. The Odds also presented a large sign advertising their demonstration.

A classical number sung by Joan Daye featured the Even presentation of talent. Dorothy Butts, as the Lauren Bacall type, and Connie Savage, as the Lucille Ball type, exemplified the characters that the Evens are seeking for their demonstration.

Dr. Irish Defines IRC To New Members

Gardner Announces Goal Of 100 Members Met

"The objective of the International Relations Club is to acquaint students with international news and politics," stated Dr Marion Irish, professor of political science and faculty sponsor of IRC, Thursday at the reception which was held in the Longmire building at 5 o'clock.

Dee Gardner, president of IRC, announced that the goal of a hundred new members was reached during the membership drive which was held last Tuesday and Wednesday in lower Westcott.

"Moreover," Dee added, "a larger percentage than was expected of these new members are boys from the Tallahassee branch of Florida University."

"There have been no definite plans made for the year as yet," continued Dee, "but there will be lectures, debates, programs, and parties throughout the year to make the IRC a more interesting and profitable organization than ever before."

Senior

Dr Elizabeth G Andrews, director of personnel, requests all girls, expecting to graduate the first or second quarter, to report to the personnel office within the next two weeks for a check of their records.

Tally U Boys To Give Dance At Dale Mabry

Sophomores to Be Guests At Student Union

Student Band to Be Featured; Men to Present Floor Show

The first dance to be given by students of the Tallahassee Branch of the University of Florida will be held Saturday night from eight to twelve in the Student Union at Dale Mabry, honoring sophomore girls of Florida State College and all the girls who live at Dale Mabry.

Arrangements for the dance are under the direction of student committees. Special invitations have been sent to Governor Millard F Caldwell, Dr and Mrs Doak S Campbell, Miss Olivia Dorman, dean of students, all school academic deans, and Dr William T Edwards, registrar.

Music for dancing will be furnished by a student dance band formed under the direction of Mr Robert G Smith of the music department. He states that the band has developed into a "solid sending" crew.

At intermission there will be a floor show under the emceeing of Milton Flack, said to resemble Frank Sinatra. A skit, tap dancing number, song numbere by a girl and a boy vocalist, numbers by a song trio, and other acts will be presented. Arrangements are under the direction of Ed Morgan, program committee chairman.

Decoration of the Student Union hall under the supervision of Gordon Higginbotham will display a fall motif.

Transportation by bus will be furnished for the sophomore girls, leaving from the campus at 7:30 p m. The reception committee under the chairmanship of Neill Stanfill, will be the hosts. Buses will return to the campus at 12 o'clock.

James Diffenbaugh will be in charge of committee arranging refreshments.

Tickets are being sold by various men students and only men need them. They may also be obtained at the office of Otis McBride, dean of men, and wil be sold at the door at dance time. Admission price is fifty cents.

Three Classes Meet To Fill Vacancies

Nominations of two senators and a faculty sponsor are on the agenda for the first meeting of the sophomore class today at 4:45 in the Longmire auditorium. Elections will be held on Monday, October 14, according to Polly Tuttle, class president.

The first junior class meeting of the year was held Tuesday in the Longmire building. Nominations for chairmen of the Junior-Senior Prom was the main business.

Candy Jones, Janet Robertson, Franklin Smith, Jeanie Booth, and Dottie Smith were nominated for that position.

The first Senior class meeting of the year was held Monday, at which time two important announcements were made by Jean Cole, president of the senior class.

Continued on page six

Comet Makes FSC Students Star Gazers

"Star light, star bright . . . my goodness, it's red . . . and it's falling!"

"Oh-h-h-h. Look."

As thousands of meteors, shed by the comet Gracobini-Zinner lit up the Tallahassee sky, students at Florida State College took the presented opportunity to do a bit of "star-gazing." The campus took on the appearance of a section struck by the plague. Everywhere prone figures were seen; gazing fixedly into the star-shot sky. Tilted heads watched one of the most brilliant astronomical exhibitions of the century.

Miss Elizabeth Lynn, astronomer at FSC said that although the celestial show began early Wednesday evening, the biggest display came between 10:40 and 10:50 p m. During that time Miss Lynn said she counted more than fifteen meteors per minute.

"They look like they're chasing each other, there are so many falling," one gazer remarked.

"Look at that orange one . . . and that red one. I've never seen anything like this," another gasped.

"The next time I start to wish on a star I'd better be sure it really is a star," was heard as light flashes brought an end to an evening's "star gazing."

Pay Increase Given Student Assistants

Base Rate Now 40c Per Hour, 50c Payed Two Groups

An increase, beginning this quarter, in the basic pay rate for all student assistants has been approved by the Scholarship and Loan Committee, as announced by Dr Elizabeth G Andrews, personnel director.

The basic pay rate is now 40c per hour, an increase of 33 1-3 per cent over last year's wage. In addition, two special rating groups paying 50c per hour have been created for those classed as "A" typists and for juniors and seniors experienced in a special field of work. In order to secure classification as "A" typist the student may take a test given once each quarter, at a time convenient to the Commerce Department, to determine the eligibility of students for the following quarter.

In tha west dining hall this year students in the cafeterias are employed by the hour at the 40c rate instead of by the scholarship plan. Only the freshman dining room now has full time dining room scholarships which are the equivalent of board. The eleven ushers, selected by Miss Annie M Tracy, head dietitian, also receive equivalent of room and board.

Chopin Concert Here

Stanley Fletcher, pianist, will present an all-Chopin request performance at Florida State College Monday, November 4 and Wednesday, November 6, under sponsorship of the Artist Series.

All students who wish to request Chopin numbers for this performance are asked to contact Dean Karl O Kuersteiner of the School of Music by tomorrow at noon in order that these requests may be transmitted to Mr Fletcher.

Varied Facilities Are Provided for Rapid Conversion of Base into College Campus

Boys have often been around construction jobs when they were underway, but for a construction job to get underway around a boy is probably something new in the field of building.

This apparently unique method of building was employed at the Tallahassee branch of the University of Florida when some of the boys arrived before their rooms were prepared.

Dr Otis McBride, dean of men at Dale Mabry, said that "when we first arrived here, carpenters hadn't even begun to work on the men's dormitories. Since that time, thirteen dormitories have been provided to house over five hundred students. All these were reconverted from old army buildings ranging from mess halls and dispensaries to the psychiatric ward."

Dr McBride, who was a major in the air transport command while serving in Africa, is especially experienced in personnel work. As dean of men, he has supervision over personnel problems, discipline, recreation, residence, class attendance, and scholastic achievements.

According to one of the male students, the boys were told to space themselves and their "gear" in the large barracks room and partitions would be built around them.

The two story buildings, which formerly had only one room upstairs and one down, are now divided into 40 or more compartments accommodating approximately 80 students. Contrary to the earlier situation, there are now, reportedly, more than enough rooms to accommodate all the boys and girls living at the former Dale Mabry air base.

Most of the newly built rooms boast of furnishings consisting of double decker bunks, two folding chairs, one portable closet and one chest of drawers. One student cheerfully announced that tables for each room were expected in the near future. Mechanical conveniences consist of one 40 watt light bulb and steam heat for each room. Each of the two floors in the buildings has three showers.

A number of the students have expressed appreciation for the facilities which have already been set up to care for their needs. Among these are a cafeteria, mail distribution center, laundry accommodations, bank and gymnasium.

Those who attend classes at the former army base will, for the time being, write on their laps and warm their toes at a pot-bellied stove. The average sized classrooms, which hold about 30 students, are furnished at present with a table for the instructor, folding chairs for the students and a coal burning stove. Outstanding features of the classrooms, according to one student, are blackboards and good lighting.

Most of the students contacted said they were well pleased with the progress that has been made in converting the base to a college campus. They are even more pleased, however, at the prospect of further improvements, for the future holds promise of bowling alleys, a movie projection room and a recreation room complete with snack bar and dance floor.

One boy summed up what seems to be the prevailing attitude among residents of the new campus when he said, "Just wait till we get fixed up out there! It's really going to be swell!"

Test to Be Given

The English examination for juniors will be given again on Saturday, October 12, at 8:30 a m in the Augusta Conradi theater for those students who missed it previously, announced Dr Hazel A Stevenson, professor of English.

Dr Stevenson explained that this examination is open to all juniors, seniors who have not taken the test, and third-quarter sophomores. This test is required before senior status is officially attained.

AAUW Meet Held Tuesday

November Program Plans, Activities Discussed

The first fall meeting of the American Association of University Women was held Tuesday night, Oct 8, at the Longmire building, FSC.

The meeting was a planning session in which the program for the coming monthe was outlined, newly appointed committee chairmen were presented, and general problems relative to the year's activities were discussed.

The program, set forth by Miss Edith McCollum, vice president and program chairman, will open with a private meeting at Camp Flastacowo, Tuesday, Nov 12, and will include a program of Christmas music and stories in December and a spring reception honoring members of the graduating Senior class. Other program themes will be the Inca collection, legislative information, and announcement of winners in a Creative Arts contest.

Committee chairmen listed by Miss Marjorie S Judy, president, are: education, Mrs Edgar L Morphet; international relations, Dr Marian Irish; social studies, Miss Edna Van Syoc; creative arts, Mrs Sidney Snow; economic and legal status of women, Mrs Herman Kurz; membership, Mrs William Blair and Miss Mary Schornhurst; fellowship, Miss Gertrude Meet; legislative, Miss Dairy Parker; local scholarship, Dr Venila Shores; and hospitality, Miss Grace Fox.

The membership drive, now in progress was discussed, and it was pointed out that national membership in the AAUW is open to Tallahassee women who are graduates of an acknowledged college or university, and associate membership is open to women who have completed two yeare at an acknowledged college or university.

Following the business meeting a social hour was enjoyed.

Interviews Started For New Freshmen

The freshman interviewing program began yesterday morning with 17 interviewers from the senior class, selected by Dr Elizabeth G Andrews, director of personnel, gathering the information to go into the records of each new student at FSC.

Dr Andrews requests that any student who has had her schedule changed so that they will be unable to come at the appointed time, check with the personnel office and have different arrangements made to agree with the schedule.

The program will be carried on for three or four weeks, according to Dr Andrews, and the hours of interrogation were set between 8:30 am and 5 pm at the personnel office in Westcott. The data gathered by the senior interviewers will be enlarged as the student progresses through school.

This program is not to include the male student population of the school, but it was announced by Dr Otis McBride, dean of men, that their interviews would probably get underway within a week.

Freshmen May Join Flunkies Tomorrow

All freshmen who desire to do the important unseen tasks around the campus of Florida State College can sign up for Freshmen Flunkies in lower Westcott starting at noon tomorrow and continuing through the next week.

Freshmen Flunkies is made up of three committees: typing poster making and miscellaneous. The latter consists of decorating and errand running.

In a freshmen meeting, to be held Tuesday, October 22, the general and sub-committee chairmen will be elected. In working with Freshmen Flunkies the freshmen have their first opportunity to become active in the College Government association of FSC.

3081 Students, 506 Men, at FSC This Year

Total Registration Exceeds Other Years at Tallahassee But Less Girls Than in '45

Dale Mabry Women's Dorms Ease Year's Housing Problem

A total enrollment of 3,081 students has been announced for the fall quarter at Florida State College and the Dale Mabry branch of the University of Florida. Of this number, 506 are men enrolled in the U of F branch.

This total registration is larger than that of any previous year, but the number of girls enrolled is smaller than usual. At fall registration in 1945, 2,844 were registered, corresponding to only 2,575 girls here this year.

The housing situation is less acute now than in any past year, since accommodations for 280 girls have been established at Dale Mabry Air Base. Girls there have been given opportunities to move on the campus, although housing on the base is permanent. "Having accommodations at Dale Mabry is proving much more satisfactory than having smaller houses in Tallahassee," stated Miss Edith McCollum, director of residence. "Improvements are constantly being made both for added comfort and to aid in the appearance of the buildings."

Deadlines for changes in room assignments and in registration for students with underloads are both this week. Arrangements for changes in rooms must be made before noon Saturday, October 13. Registration of students taking underloads will be continued through the first of next week.

Band Increases With Male Members

Musicians Still Needed For Many Essential Instruments

"An increase in both quantity and quality of the Florida State College band this year is noticeably apparent," says Annette Vitsky, chairman of band publicity.

For the first time there are men in the concert band; the marching band is still an all girl organization. As one ex- GI phrased it, "We've had enough drilling to last us several life times."

There is still room for latecomers into the group. Anyone interested should contact Owen Sellers, director, or Robert Smith, assistant director, who is beginning his first year on the FSC faculty. Especially needed are oboe, tenor, sax, and bass.

Concert rehearsals are held every Tuesday at 4:30 and Thursday at 7:30. Drill rehearsals are held on Mondays at 4:30.

Several forthcoming trips are being scheduled. One to Panama City to give a concert sponsored by the Lions Club; another to Gainesville sponsored by the U of F band. The dates for these are still tentative.

A party for old and new band members is being held tonight in Landis recreation hall. Emily and Elizabeth Harper, co-social chairmen, will be in charge.

Chinese Display Now in Library

Bright red letters forming the caption "China's Independence—October 10", head the library's current information center this week.

Commemorating that nation's anniversary, a committee from the International Relations Club, headed by Dee Gardner, has arranged a display based on ancient and modern China. The spirit of the display is well expressed by a cartoon bearing the slogan, "God made us neighbors; let justice make us friends."

Fiction and factual books and pamphlets by Lin Yutang, Pearl Buck, Nora Wain and other authors outstanding for their contributions on China fill two tables. In order that the student may grasp China's geographical scope, a map of that country has been posted on one wall.

Also on display is a volume by Kurt Wiese entitled, "You Can Write Chinese." Closely resembling a child's alphabet book, the volume provides illustrations as a means of conveying some of the more common characters used in written Chinese.

Campus Police Work Long Hours at Variety of Jobs

The familiar badge and uniform of the campus policemen may look friendly, but they mean business! This year, with increased population on the Tally campus, the policemen are busier than ever before. Not only does the campus cop execute the usual police duties, but he is fire warden and chief of traffic control. Also, among other tasks, he patrols the campus, locks the buildings, controls the campus lights, and escorts any late-to-arrive co-ed to her dormitory.

At Dale Mabry Field, there are two dozen of the busy blue-clad men who work together 24 hours a day, coming on duty with clocklike regularity every two hours. Their jobs are similar to the policemen's jobs at FSC.

Here on the Tally campus are two deputy sheriffs who perform other jobs during the day on campus, but who are subject to call if needed. There are four night watchmen who work from 7 pm to 7 am.

Perhaps it is the night watch men who have the more difficult job. Theirs is the duty of tact while being businesslike as various goodnights are said by co-eds to their dates. One of the night watchmen was heard to remark sadly, "Light flashes seem to be the most popular times of all." Another chimed in, "Yes, especially the last one!"

Glee Club Adds 90 Members

Virginia Der Gerry Elected President of Group

Ninety members of the Florida State College Glee Club have just been selected from tryouts held Tuesday, Wednesday, and Thursday of last week, announced Etta L Robertson, director of the group.

The following officers were elected: Virginia Der Gerry, president; Daphne Rowe, vice president and publicity chairman; Ann Townsend, secretary and treasurer; and Jeanette Chapman, business manager. Eleanor Bragg of Tampa is accompanist.

Those chosen for the Glee Club are: First sopranos, Alice Wheeler, Mary Jane Kirst, Mary Lois Conn, Doris O'Neill, Paula Teagarden, Sorals Brameister, Bettye Kent, Betty Houlihan, Jeannelle Brown, Dixie Kennedy, Betty Owen, Maurice Wilson, Joyce Stroberg, Nina Craig, Joan Daye, Barbara Marlin, Jacqueline Cox, and Juanita Coleman. Second Sopranos, Anne Daniel, Lois Meriwether, Mary Hart, Artie Flanders, Mildred Mann, Virginia Sewell, Mary Morris, Eleanor Bragg, Sorale Brower, Helen McCann, Celia King, Ruth King, Virginia DerGerry, Virginia Gsllemore, Mary Davis, Marjorie Headley, Hazel Clarkson, Grace Elder, Emmalee Worn, Mavis McMillin, Joyce Williams, Anna Wiggins, June Chyna, Annette McClelland, Cynthia Merrin, Virginia Thompson, Daphne Rowe, Sylvia Meish, Ruth Wilkie, Edith Smith, Mary Ann Hopson, Evelyn Johnson, Merry Beth Knight, Marie Hartley, Elsie Ward, Jackie Ober, Martha V Heyl, Dorothy Wade, Cortlandt Morper, Virginia Cummings, and Helen Bright. First altos: Marna Smith, Doris Musselman, Sorale Lee Williams, Jacqueline Fosdick, Phyllis DeKalb, Jeanne Bagley, Ann Townsend, Marian Welch, Nan Durrance, Dorothy Hewitt, Helen Edminston, Dorothy Crumley, Roberta Dart, Wynonah Zetrouer, Joy Austin, Anna Eddy, Martha Page, and Artye Futrelle. Second Altos: Ruth Ervin, Madge Pilcher, Mary Nichols, Jeannette Chapman, Joyce Carlton, Grace Bryan, Martha Westberry, Laura Simpson, Barbara Fennell, Hilda Howze, Daphne Connelly, Janet McGee, and Joy Long.

Rehearsals have already begun for the Christmas Vesper program which will be given on December 15.

U of F Branch

Continued from Page One

bookstore in place of the schedule cards and for drawing gym equipment.

Odd-Even Shows

Men to help in the traditional Odd-Even shows, to be held at Thanksgiving, were requested by Nancy Wright, for the Odds, and Jo Lee Rentz, for the Evens.

Men are needed for singing or speaking parts, as well as scenery painting, backstage work, and any special work at which they may be talented.

New Bulletin Board

A new bulletin board for the men is to be erected in Westcott hall, the board at the Administration building having proved unsatisfactory for reaching the entire student body, especially the day students.

The new board will carry duplicate announcements of the original board, and will be supplemented by boards to be put up in each barracks at Dale Mabry.

◆

On the larger air lines, planes are checked and serviced on landing, and every 40 and 60 hours they are given a more thorough inspection. They are hauled into a central repair base at the end of 350 hours in the air for a general overhaul of engines and planes.

TEACHERS WANTED

Engineering (all branches)—Numerous Instructorships — Fellowships open for Bachelors. Also heavy demand for those qualified for Professorships, Associateships and Assistantships.

Fine Arts & Sciences—Scores of vacancies in Colleges and Universities in all sections.

Secondary-Elementary—All kinds of positions in locations paying the highest salary schedules. Numerous Pacific coast calls.

For quick placement give phone No., photograph and qualifications in first letter.

Cline Teachers' Agency
East Lansing, Michigan

Senate Holds

Continued from page one

for chairman of the auditing committee, which audits the books of all student organizations that receive money from the student activity fee.

Anne Singleton was appointed by the chair to form a senate association committee to suggest ways to present Senate material to the student body in CGA assembly.

The Senior Hall committee, appointed by the chair, and designated the task of uncovering possible problems which would develop out of permitting all seniors, regardless of residence, the privileges of Senior Hall, reported that no definite progress had been made. Serving on the committee are: Shirley Rodgers, chairman; Herkie White, Anna Hunter, Harriet Kirk, Rachel Chambers and Betty Gardiner.

Barbara Randolph was elected chairman of the handbook committee by unanimous ballot. This committee assimilates, edits and revises the FSC handbook which contains information regarding rules, regulations, and traditions.

Senate Rules

Also decided on were the rules regarding Senate meetings. Regular meetings, to be held in the Longmire auditoruim, will commence at 4:45 and end at 6. Senators must be present during the time stated in order to be counted present. Three cuts on the basis of one per quarter will be allotted each senator. No subs can be used. A fine of fifty cents will be levied upon any senator who overcuts.

◆

A slipping clutch should be taken care of immediately, as plates may become damaged beyond repair

◆

A perception-reaction machine has been designed by the Ohio division of traffic and highway safety. This machine determines how fast a driver can lift his foot off the accelerator and step on the brake when a red light flashes.

Reaction of automobile drivers, based upon time required after becoming aware of a hazard to apply the brakes, slows down with age.

STUDENTS
FLY WITH

TAC

Approved by Board of Control

Phone for Transportation and Further information

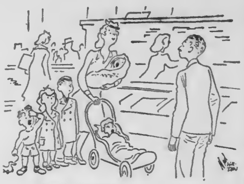
Jeff Lewis
Ivan Munroe
Frank Lewis
Richard Weeks

Tallahassee Aircraft Corp.
Phone 2727
Municipal Airport



"Where will I find the olerm clocks?"

14 Married Veterans Housed In Unit 700 at Dale Mabry

By LAURA LEE BUTLER

The noisy clatter of moving furniture, a "wet paint" sign adorning a shiny, gray door, the faint, lingering odor of burnt toast. These things indicate the air of domesticity that is fast becoming a part of Unit 700, one of the two dwellings which house Tally U's married veterans.

Here 14 couples, overflow from Gainesville's housing shortage, have set up housekeeping in a series of two-room suites. Together with the four couples with children who live in apartments at Unit 600, they represent approximately three percent of Dale Mabry's veteran population.

Former barracks 700 contains no lounge or other sitting room, its suites are tiny and lack plastering of any sort, and its small, antiquated water fountains persistently refuse to work; but despite minor difficulties, a spirit of cooperation and a determination to "make a go of it" seem characteristic of this segment of America's GI students.

Upstairs, in a suite equipped with new, modernistic furniture provided by the college, live Mr and Mrs Charles Tobias, who, alone among the couples in 700, are both attending college.

Helen, a merry-eyed brunette, was also a student at Florida State College before her marriage to tall, blond Charles, who served in the European theater during his two and one-half year army career. Now a junior, she is majoring in social work. Her husband, unlike most veterans in 700, is entering college as a sophomore.

"I cook Charlie's breakfast on a hotplate here before dashing off for those crowded buses and my early morning classes," Helen explained when asked about their daily routine at Dale Mabry. "Because my classes are scattered throughout the day, I seldom get back again before six o'clock, which is just in time to start cooking supper. All in all," she concluded, "it's a pretty hectic life—but we love it."

Downstairs, in a suite ominously numbered 13, are Mr and Mrs Wiley Douglass, as well as two couples from across the hall who had crowded into their tiny, 15-foot room. The Douglasses, both veterans, both former Navy pharmacists mates, discussed the laundry situation.

Mrs Douglass motioned toward the long rows of white shirts flapping gayly in the breeze. "The school provides us with plenty of clothes line," she commented, "but they apparently forgot all about laundry facilities. We have to wash clothes in a bucket."

In a more serious vein, Mrs Douglass explained that she does not plan to take advantage of the GI Bill of Rights herself, but, like many other veterans' wives at Dale Mabry, expects to work either at the college or in Tallahassee. Her husband, who wishes to major in pharmacy, will take his basic general courses at FSC and then transfer to Gainesville.

Saturday Freshman Open House Day

500 U of F Students Attend Receptions, Dances

Three freshman dormitories, Bryan, Reynolds and Jennie Murphree, held open house last Saturday night for the 500 men students from the University of Florida, with other freshman girls from Dale Mabry and the Village acting as co-hostesses. The evening's entertainment began at 7:30 and lasted until first light flash time at 11:15. Punch bowls were provided in each of the three parlors, and there was dancing in the recreation rooms of Reynolds and Bryan, as well as ping-pong, card games, and checkers in Bryan.

In Reynolds hall half of the hostesses were girls from Dale Mabry, and the others were freshmen and junior counselors from Reynolds. The reception room of Reynolds, where dancing was held, was decorated with vines and vari-colored flowers.

Forty students from the Village were co-hostesses with forty from Bryan, enabling them to work in shifts during the evening for the "at home" in Bryan parlor. Committees in charge of decorations and refreshments were also made up of representatives of the two dormitories. Vines and crepe flowers were used to cover the posts, staircase, and mantle, and throughout the recreation room. Dancing was also a feature here during the evening, as were ping pong, checkers, and card games.

In Jennie Murphree parlor guests gathered around the piano to hear everything "from Bach to Boogie" when an unidentified U of F student gave an impromptu concert, of which a feature was "I'm Goin' Back to Jacksonville" Since many of those listening were from that city, this song was quite well received, and encores were granted.

Miss Pope, resident counselor of Bryan, summed up the opinions of the other resident counselors and committee workers in saying that "A great many more attended than had been expected, and all agreed the evening was a great success."

Our Skirts – Plaids and Plain–Are Tops for Smooth Wearability.

We Carry a Complete Line of Curtains, Bedspreads, Cannon Blankets and Home Furnishings

Surprise Store
101-105 E. Jefferson

Contest Rules Announced

Magazine Offers Guest Editor Awards This Month

National collegiate competition for the annual Mademoiselle college board and guest editor contest will be open until November 1, according to an announcement from the personnel office.

Contestants for college board membership must submit a trial report, consisting of approximately two typewritten double spaced pages, on any phase of campus life, academic courses, fashion, fad, activity, organization or trend. A snapshot must be submitted with complete data regarding college and home addresses, class year, college major and minor, other interests and extracurricular activities and any paid or volunteer jobs held. These must be mailed to the College Board Editor, Mademoiselle, 122 East 42 Street, New York 17, New York.

Other qualifications for board membership are: applicant must be an undergraduate attending an accredited college or junior college; must be available to work during the month of June, 1947, in the offices of Mademoiselle helping to put out the August college issue. Students can earn while learning during this month, and Mademoiselle pays railroad fares to and from New York.

The twenty most outstanding college board members will be selected as guest editors for 1947. These girls will attend Mademoiselle's first career forum sponsored by the jobs and futures department, which is designed to help college girls clarify their aims and ambitions and find locations.

The forum will provide students with the chance to evaluate themselves vocationally, there will be interviews with people who are professionally successful, and discussions will be held with career alumnae on the problems of post-college plans.

Fake Snake Scares Four Feminine Fans

A silent terror stalks the streets of Tallahassee. Several groups of girls hurrying down College Avenue to see their dearly-beloved Van last Friday night were victims of the terror.

Gaily swinging down the sidewalk never imagining the underfoot danger approaching the first group of four walked fearlessly onward. Suddenly a terrified scream chilled the already cool air. Three more of the same yells made the temperature drop even lower. For there, slithering across the sidewalk, rattling and hissing menacingly, was a huge snake. Or so it appeared to be until two giggling small-fries darted from behind the shrubbery to claim their rope and rehide it to literally scare the living day-lights out of some more unsuspecting Tally gals. And they did too—as other screams proved.

In the darkness the rope was reported to most realistically resemble a snake, and the fact that it was pulled through crackling leaves accounted for the hissing and rattling. Wonder if the snake crawled across in front of the girl and her date? Might have proved most delightful to the date.

Steffens Stumps Stupid Student

The space of time between registration and the starting of classes drove one girl even to the point of trying to find a good book to read.

The library was open, but books were not to be checked out.

"Does anyone have a good book that I can read?" pleaded one junior.

"I have the Autobiography of Lincoln Steffins that you can borrow. And it's a very good book," offered her companion.

"The Autobiography of Lincoln Steffins?" the junior repeated. "Who wrote it?"

Editor's Note: We are wondering if said junior successfully passed the junior English exemption exam!

Language Classes Learn From Records

Use of Oral Practice, Records Based on Army Experience

The modern language department is for the first three weeks teaching orally all first year modern language classes without the student seeing any of the written language.

"This new method of study is based on experience gained from the Army Specialized Training program," said Dr D L Canfield, head of the Modern Language Department.

Special emphasis is being placed on pronunciation, accentuation, and intonation. "This oral approach is being used to help modern Language students speak the language without confusing the pronunciation of the written language by pronouncing it as one would pronounce English," said Dr Canfield.

Records are placed at listening periods held every afternoon, Monday through Friday. The records played at these listening periods are composed so as to include all the sounds of the particular language being recited. Records are to be put in dormitories and given to students who have their own phonographs so they can study the pronunciation of the language they are studying. "Students can imitate the sound of a language better by hearing it than by seeing it," said Dr Canfield.

There are a good number of veterans taking French and German who learned something of the languages while they were stationed overseas, but Dr Canfield said that only one veteran passed an exemption test.

New Member Gained

The staff of Florida State College publicity office has been increased by one new member, Mrs Harry E Wood. She comes here from Gainesville, where she has had thirteen years' experience in newspaper work. During this time she worked in several different capacities, from the society department to editorials, and her publications include short stories, essays and other journalistic forms.

Critical Book Shortage Faces FSC Student Body

By WINIFRED LANE

Along with boat-cabin residences, greenhouse classrooms and stadium convocations in other colleges over the country, GI students are a little short on textbooks. After just one week of fall session at Tallahassee's Florida State College and new University extension, the situation is summed up when Gordon Wheeler, bookstore manager, says "The campus may be crowded but textbooks don't contribute to the crowding!"

Only 19 copies of Homer's Iliad have yet been received for a humanities class enrollment of well over 500. Some of the deficit is being filled by second-hand soliciting and changes in class schedules, but many students, especially among the 1500 freshman men and women, are bound to face barren desks in the near future.

Wheeler says that a six to nine months estimated delivery date is now the rule, and a promise of "maybe next summer" for textbook orders is not unusual.

In the chemistry and accounting departments of the FSC campus this year many students, 50 percent in the case of one book, are being forced to use paper back "ghost" copies of texts, containing only a portion of the full number of chapters. Orders were placed last June to cover the estimated increase in needs for girls to be enrolled at FSC this fall, but no provisions were made for the unexpected number of men students at the University branch here until just before opening the school session, according to Wheeler.

Textbooks in the fields of biological science, social studies, classic art, and English grammar are especially desired at the present time. In some instances no part of the orders placed for this year have been filled. (The immediate need for a large number of copies of Homer's Iliad and Virgil's Aeneid is sufficiently urgent that faculty requests Tallahassee townspeople to call 872-R if any copies are available).

A branch of the campus bookstore is to be opened at Dale Mabry in approximately three weeks but will carry only such school supplies as paper, pencils and notebooks because of the extreme shortages in all textbooks. Supplies of the other school materials, particularly zipper notebooks, are also to be quite limited.

Difficulties apparently extend throughout the publishing industry, according to one representative of a national textbook publishing company. "Labor and material shortages, specifically paper or wood pulp, may delay orders in the near future even though presses keep running day and night," he said.

BEN GILBERG
108 E. Jefferson St.

Tally Lassies
and
CO-ED'S
Are Invited to Meet
The Gang
at Airways Cafe
AIRLINE TICKET OFFICE BLDG.

Athletes' Feats

By EVELYN SHEA

Sports practices for the Thanksgiving games got off to ıng this week with a large number of girls out for both D and EVEN teams. Both rival sides can boast exper- ed players with the ODDS having the edge in the sports this first quarter.

Looking at the ODD hockey team prospects, Nita Nord, ler, is assured of having an entire team with skilled girls ach position. This is the same hockey team that handed EVEN hockey team a 4-0 drubbing last year.

However, Marion Floyd, EVEN leader, has an enthusias- freshman group which she things can't be beat.

The Odd Soccer team under the leadership of Virginia mer, is in the identical position that the Odd hockey team except that the EVENS triumphed over that team last nksgiving 6-2. Freshmen dominate the girls out for the EN soccer team this year. With these girls Elaine Gav- n, soccer leader plans to mold another winning team. Be- se of graduation many outstanding players from last r's green and gold team will be missed.'

YA' KNOW . . .

That the F Club Outing for Freshmen will be tonight on soccer field around 7:00 . . . That all F Cluh circles will at 7 o'clock from now on . . . That emblem wearer CATH- INE BARRS and EVELYN STUCKEY, former Physical ucational Association president, are hending a mobile berculosis X-ray unit through the state of Florida . . . t SARAH BENNETT also an emblem wearer is teaching Andrew Jackson High school in Miami . . . that the Physi- Education Association changed their name to Health, sical Education and Recreation Association . . .

Ye editor points all of you sports fans to the column, ashin' In," recommending it as good reading in any man's nguage. Here's hoping it will be a permanent feature of s page. Good luck to you, John Cash.

ootball Field' Is elcoming Theme party for freshmen and new ılty members in the physical ation department was the Health, Recreation and Phy- Education association get- ther this quarter. "Football d" was the theme, and the nasium became Tally Bowl the occasion.

The guests were divided into ps of eleven with a captain each "team." Folk dancing ected by Miss Grace Fox, in- ctor in physical education, an the activity. Each group t from one teacher to anoth- for several minutes of recrea- n and getting acquainted.

After refreshments were serv- Dr Katherine Montgomery, d of the department, and Miss a Mowles, president of the as- ation welcomed the new fac- members and physical edu- ion majors. Nita Bowles com- nted, "We were surprised at large number who came and that the party was a big cess."

SC Sends Three elegotes to Meet

The Alpha Chapter of Florida Beta Kappa sent three dele- es to attend the council meet- of the United Chapter of Phi a Kappa at Williamsburg, Vir- a on September 9 and 10.

The delegates were Miss Miriam lson, Presbyterian student sec- ary, Miss Daisy Parker, instruc- in political science, and Dr. nila L Shores, professor of his- y. While the delegates attend- the meeting they were the sts of William and Mary Uni- sity, where they lived in one the college dormitories and at the college refectory.

The shade of green in an apple e's leaves will determine how the apples will be.

Minnows Selected

New Tarpon Club minnows who were selected at try-outs on Monday and Tuesday and who held their first meeting on Thursday afternoon at 5:15, are Helen Hoerger, Bette Barnes, Jane Carol Levy, Rosa Lee Davis, Jane Shirley and Margaret Swanson.

Housing Authority Advises No Buying

Because we are in the midst of as serious a real estate inflation as this country has eevr seen, it is folly to buy or build a home in the present market, according to Miles Colean, former Assistant Federal Housing Administrator.

"Don't build. Don't buy," Colean declares in an article in the August issue of House Beautiful magazine, a publication which ordinarily encourages the construction of new homes.

Recognized as America's leading housing economist, Colean hits straight from the shoulder in his advice to prospective home builders or buyers when he states in the article:

"It's strange for a home magazine to recommend this. But if it's the truth, we should not be afraid to say so. No other advice makes any sense now. Except under the direct necessity, stay out of the housing market. You can't win except on the shortest of deals, and you are almost certain to lose in the long run."

Colean points out that any builder or buyer in the present market only adds to the pressure on prices and thet not only will they lose but they will be forcing others to lose.

"If you buy or build now, you face the grim outlook of losing in dollar value and quantity value," he declares. "Not only will you yourself lose, but you will be helping others to lose, too, for every buyer added to today's prices adds to the pressure on prices. Hole in where you are, if you possibly can, till the storm sweeps by.

"This is hard advice to take after four or five years of waiting and planning. It is particularly hard advice after the fair prospects we could glimpse a year and even less than a year ago. But the discouraging fact is now plain: we are in the midst of as serious a real estate inflation as the country has seen.

"Inflation—dangerous inflation—is here now. Watch, look, and stop. There is an old saying, 'To the starving man all bread is good.' Today's building bread is bad. Be sure that you are starving before you take it."

Evans and Kirlin Receive Fellowships

Provides Two-Year Student-Teacher Career at FSC

The first graduate fellowships that have been offered in the department of physical education have been granted to Miss Lura Beth "Babe" Evans, a 1946 graduate of Florida State College, and Miss Betty Kirlin, graduate of Ursinus College in Pennsylvania. The fellowship provides for the girls to be part-time students and part-time teachers.

"Babe" Evans of Orlando is a former president of F Club and member of Esteren on this campus, and a member of Who's Who in American Colleges and Universities. She was graduated from this college in June with a B S in Education.

Betty Kirlin of Allentown, Pennsylvania, was graduated from Ursinus College in 1944 with a B S in Physical Education. She was president of the student body and a member of Who's Who in American Colleges and Universities. For the past two years she has been Recreation Director for the Miami YWCA.

The fellowship provides for two years of graduate study and teaching. At the end of that time they will receive master's degrees in education.

FSC Cuties Cheer For Florida Teams

History is in the making! FSC's seven campus cuties wearing white skirts and sweaters with orange and blue F's, will be leading the yells this year for the University of Florida team.

Eddie Hill, head cheerleader at Florida, arrived Tuesday to pick the lucky seven from thirty girls competing for positions as cheerleader. From five o'clock 'til seven Eddie racked his brain trying to judge, but, lo and behold, such vim and vigor displayed by Dot Wynn, Ann Shull, Sidney Conner, Hank Trezevent, Charlotte High, Dot Ring, and Rachael McInnis caught his eye . . . and you'll see 'em in action when the Gators and Hurricanes meet.

It'll be the first time in the history of either school to have both boys and girls leading the cheers for the state team. Homecoming, the 19th of October, will mark their first demonstration, and if you didn't hear the screaming and commotion going on in front of Landis when the girls tried out, you're urged to make the game and see for yourself.

Dorm Meetings Held

Designed to set the pace for the year, house meetings this week introduced residence counselors and house officers, who explained their duties and discussed the specific aims of their particular dorms. In addition to this, skits presenting and defining house council were given in all freshman halls.

Concluding the meetings was an explanation of the rules and regulations pertaining to fire drills.

Dripping Downpour; Shining Sun Start Season for Odd-Even Play

The Odd-Even sports season got off to a rather wet start last Monday afternoon. Due to the downpour most of the Even turn-out was limited to pushing a pen to sign the lists for try-outs. However, Elaine Gavigan's soccer team aspirants retired to the little gym to get a few pointers on tactics.

Tuesday afternoon King Sol was shining brightly and a large number of loyal Odds turned out to begin the season's practice.

Since there has been some discussion about how the men would react to the women' sports, the first thing done was to see if there were any masculine observers or or in the vicinity of the fields. We weren't disappointed—ah yes, there was a man out—well a kind of a man—a little boy of about six from the Dem school. He rode his little tricycle around and paid not the slightest attention to the clack-clack of the hockey sticks and the dribbles of the soccer players. The Evens did a little better—late Wednesday afternoon as soccer scrimmage was going on and everyone was quite bedraggled as a result of the afternoon work-out a car full of Co-eds came up and stopped. At this stage of the game the players were concentrating on getting the ball through the opposing team's defenses so they couldn't very well stop to repair their make-up as their womanly instincts demanded. After watching a few minutes the fellas drove off.

A few of the freshman hockey players are relieved to learn that it is a foul in hockey to raise the stick above the shoulder. That decapitated character that walked across the stage the other night in Convocation made them quite dubious about whether to sign up for hockey—it seems thet their heads and teeth are quite dear to them at this stage of their lives.

Some were skilled and others were anxious to learn. Arrows were flying everywhere from the bunkers to the Magnolia Hall. Miss Sitton the Odd archery coach tells us that although she has a lot of new material, she expects to have a crack archery team in a few weeks. The newly elected Odd archery leader for this year is Kit Johnson.

One and two and three and kick and turn and jump—this goes on when the Evens and the Odds seek to express their feelings and moods in modern dance.

So, all in all the season has started out with plenty of interest, even though the elements are trying to out-do the two sides.

Mixed Groups May Make Camp Trips

That mixed groups may go to Camp Flastacowo on Tuesdays and Thursdays from 3 o'clock to 7 o'clock was one of the major policies made when the Committee on Camp Policies met recently. However mixed groups will not be allowed to spend the night there.

The committee also designated all vacant week-ends now on the calendar to be reserved for the men. Although men will not be permitted to go to camp on the weekend when other organizations are there, they may swim on Tuesdays and Thursdays at camp if they wear their suits to and from Dale Mabry.

Members of the camp committee are Miss Anne Pope, Mr Edward Williamson, Dr M W Carothers, Dr Otis McBride, Mr R K Shaw, Dr R L Eyman, and Miss Martha Meifrin, camp director.

Dining Committee Members Appointed

Although it has received little or no publicity, because it was organized at the end of the spring quarter, last year, there is now a committee on campus, headed by Miss Annie M Tracy, chief dietitian, through which students may voice their opinions in connection with dining hall problems.

This committee is composed of one representative from each residence hall who works with Miss Tracy in trying to solve problems pertaining to the dining hall. Students now have the opportunity to talk over "gripes" and to make suggestions for their remedy with committee members. These complaints and suggestions will be relayed to Miss Tracy in committee meetings.

Members of the dining hall committee include: Dorothy Butts, Jennie Murphree; Barbara Farrar, Gilchrist; Judy Freinburg, Broward; Francis Cannon, Village; Bopie Whitaker, Bryan; Dot Cox, Bryan; Marian Hill, Magnolia; and Ruth Geiger, Campuside-Hillside.

Life Saving Classes Are Offered Here

At last what the water-inclined upper classmen (men and women alike) have been waiting for is here—the Red Cross instructor's course in Life Saving and Water Safety. Wouldn't advise everyone rushing at once, however, for there are a few prerequisites for prospective instructors which include: being at least nineteen years of age, holding a current senior life saving certificate and having had this certificate for a year prior to the present time, and being of good health. Old instructors and those who have never completed the instructor's course are urged to participate.

The purpose of this course is to train teachers to instruct Red Cross swimming, life saving and water safety courses.

The classes will be held on Tuesday, Wednesday, and Friday afternoons from 5:15 to 6:15 in the college pool. The first meeting will take place in the second floor lecture room No 202 in the gym on Tuesday, October 15, and all prospective members should be sure to be there and be ready to go into the pool. In case these hours are not satisfactory to the group, adjustments can probably be made.

Journegan Heads College 4-H Club

Clairice Journegan was elected president of the college 4-H Club at a meeting of that organization Wednesday evening in the Longmire building. Newly selected sponsor for the club is Miss Joyce Bevis of the state Home Demonstration Extension Service.

Parties, picnics and camping trips are among activities planned for the coming year. Regular meetings of the club will be held on the first Monday of each month.

Leaders Elected for Intramural Sports

Volleyball Begins Monday Amarene Thompson Directs

Sports leaders for intramural sports were elected yesterday as a plan to increase enthusiasm for intramural games this season. Amarene Thompson will direct volleyball, Rosa Lee Davis will lead basketball, Jeanie Booth will head badminton, and George Pihos will sponsor tennis.

Practice for volleyball will start Monday, October 14, with games beginning the following week. This year, rules limit participation only to girls who are not physical education majors or who do not play on an Odd-Even team in the sport in which they plan to compete.

"We should have a very successful season," said Ann Stanbaugh, intramurals manager, "and we want to urge all dormitories, sororities, and other organizations to participate."

Extra-Curricular Riding Class Added

Horseback Riding Course Offered to Student Body

As a new addition to the curriculum of the Physical Education department this year co-ed classes in horseback riding will be given. Miss Marjorie Martin of the physical education department will be the instructor.

This will be an extra-curricular activity and will cost $11.00 per quarter. The classes will be held on Mondays, Wednesdays, and Fridays and will be limited to five students each hour. There will be only two classes a day which will be scheduled, if possible, in the morning.

Not more than 30 students a quarter can take riding because of the limited number of horses and the limited staff.

The date for classes to begin has not been given out yet as a list was passed around last year soliciting the required number for the riding classes and it has not been checked this year for possible vacancies.

Anyone who is interested should see Miss Martin at her office in the gymnasium and she will let her know about any vacancies that occur.

Americans smoke about 250,000,000,000 cigarettes a year.

Cashin' In

By JOHN CASH

The nation's collegiate sports scene is rapidly becoming a whirlwind of confusion, for some of the supposed football powers have either been humiliated in defeat or outplayed even though winning.

Alabama, the Rose Bowl champions, narrowly squeezed by Tulane and then luckily defeated South Carolina, though the statistics were in favor of the Carolina team. Last year's national football kingpin, Army, has been given some rough moments, too, in their contests with Oklahoma and Cornell.

A new king has picked itself out of the doldrums and moved swiftly to the spotlight, Texas. Winning its opening games by topheavy scores, the Longhorns have stamped themselves as the number one eleven in the nation.

Top Teams

In a poll by Associated Press sports writers the country's top ten football squads are:

1—Texas
2—Army
3—Notre Dame
4—Michigan
5—U C L A
6—Alabama
7—Pennsylvania
8—Georgia (x)
9—Tennessee (x)
10—Northwestern
x—tie

Leading Games

The current week's top pigskin encounter will pit Army against Michigan at Ann Arbor. Both teams are undefeated and rank two and four respectively in the AP poll.

Other leading frays will match Duke and Navy at Baltimore, Georgia and Kentucky at Athens (Friday night), Texas and Oklahoma at Austin, UCLA and Stanford at Los Angeles, and Florida-Vanderbilt at Nashville.

Glorida Gators

The Florida Gators, though making many costly mistakes outplayed Tulane and is rated an almost even chance against Vanderbilt on Saturday. Broughton Williams, Florida end, is the country's leading pass receiver—having caught 12 passes for a total of 229 yards.

World Series

Now we turn away from the football scene and focus our spotlight on America's favorite pastime, baseball and the World Series, between the Boston Red Sox and the St Louis Cardinals.

Both the Red Sox and the Cards have won two games at this writing. Harry "the Cat" Breechen of St Louis has thus far grabbed the pitching spotlight. It was Breechen's magnificent four-hit shutout on Monday that evened the series at one all.

Dave "Boo" Ferias and Tex Hughson each pitched tight games in notching the two Red Sox wins, though Rudy York helped them out of trouble by slamming a home run in each of the two games.

St Louis displayed a terrific batting punch in smashing out a 12-4 win yesterday to deadlock the series at two games apiece.

Howie Pollet and Tex Hughson are the probable starting pitchers in today's game. The two teams move once again to Sportsman's Park in St Louis on Sunday.

Rosalie Oakes Talks At YWCA Program

Regional Officer Delivers Address on Purpose of YW

Rosalie Oakes, Regional Secretary of the Young Women's Christian association, was the featured speaker at the annual YWCA recognition service for new members on Tuesday night at 7:30 in Westcott auditorium.

Also included in the program was a litany on the purpose of the YWCA which was presented by Phyllis Greife, executive director of the association at Florida State College. Joyce Petty, president, gave the meditation and Jimmie Rogers issued the call to worship. Joyce Carlton sang "The Lord's Prayer" and the processional and recessional were played by Edith Smith at the organ. The program was ended with the circle around the fountain singing "Follow the Gleam," the YWCA theme song.

Miss Oakes is making her annual visit to the FSC campus this week during which time she is meeting with the officers and commission chairmen in the YWCA to help formulate program emphasis and projects for this school year.

An elephant's trunk is strong enough to lift a one-ton tree trunk, yet delicate enough to pull a single blade of grass.

You trust its quality

BOTTLED UNDER AUTHORITY OF THE COCA-COLA COMPANY BY TALLAHASSEE COCA-COLA BOTTLING COMPANY

Patronize Your

Campus Beauty Salon

Three T's
Beauty Salon

UNDER NEW MANAGEMENT

Located Across From Education Bldg.

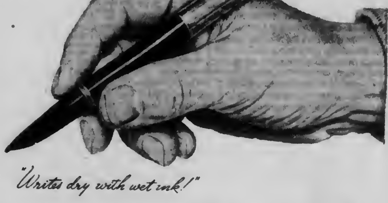
In the hand of Thomas Hart Benton
WORLD-FAMOUS PAINTER OF THE AMERICAN SCENE

"51"...the world's most wanted pen



"Writes dry with wet ink!"

Parker "51"

● Truly remarkable is the preference for Parker 51's. Recently, American pen dealers, by a margin of 3.37 to 1, named Parker the most-wanted pen. More-wanted than all other leading makes combined. ● Today, more 51's than ever before are being shipped. So see your dealer soon. ● Here is a pen made to true precision standards—not just hurried out. The sturdy tubular point starts writing instantly, smoothly. For the tip is a ball of micro-polished Osmiridium. ● Only the "51" is designed for satisfactory use with Parker "51" Ink that dries as it writes! ● Three colors. $12.50; $15.00. Pencils, $5.00; $7.50. Sets, $17.50 to $80.00. The Parker Pen Company, Janesville, Wis. and Toronto, Canada.

SPIRIT OF THE WEEK

HEY CONSTITUTION COMMITTEE
Let's start with a little revision!
J. Sharer

● OPPORTUNITY KNOCKS BUT ONCE

Apparently the memory of the average Florida State College student is shorter than had been supposed. Four months ago the entire campus was united, as it has seldom been, in the common desire for a new constitution or extreme revision of the present one. Last year Senate called numerous special meetings and worked long hours: senators and students discussed the matter not only in the meetings, but wherever students gathered; a special committee—the Senate Steering Committee—was elected to work over the summer months and formulate a plan of procedure.

It was decided that the purpose of the Constitution committee, which was to be elected as soon as possible after the beginning of the fall quarter, was "to seek student opinion by conducting all general committee meetings openly, as: (a) forums to be participated in by the student body, and (b) meetings with discussion only by members of the committee." The second function of the committee was "to serve as a fact-finding board" while the third function was that of proposing constitutional amendments which would be presented to Senate by the Senate Steering Committee.

A few pessimists shrugged their shoulders and said that the matter would be forgotten over the summer, but their opinions were scoffed at. Imagine anyone thinking that the students would forget things like the spring elections and the disqualification of a candidate!! Why, now was the time to accomplish all those things that had been crying for clarification in our constitution. It was utterly unthinkable that the opportunity would be passed up!!

Now, four months alter, the election for the 12 members from each of the senior, junior, and sophomore classes have been postponed twice because of the lack of sufficient interest. Are the changes less necessary than last year? Have the ambiguities of our constitution straightened themselves out over the summer months? Are the evils of our government any less dangerous?

Senate has voted to postpone the elections until such time as enough people are in the running so that a representative cross-section of the student body may be elected to the committee. To date, 20 sophomores, 12 juniors, and 9 seniors have submitted platforms. From these figures it seems evident that although the 12 juniors would fulfill the requirement for that class, they would not be truly representative. And it seems that the seniors should be more interested in guaranteeing better government for future classes and making it possible for those prospective seniors to avoid such things as the election fiasco.

Protestations concerning the necessity of submitting platforms have been heard from many sides. It would seem that some basis of selection would be congruent with the general principle of true representation of student opinion. It is true that many are undecided as to a definite platform and generalities may be stated; however that would seem to be more desirable than the usual voting on Susie Smith because her name has been heard more often than Mary Jones.

Two hours per week has been estimated as the time committee meetings will take out of many already-crowded schedules. But is it not true that the busy person can usually find time to do just one thing more?

This is our chance! An opportunity which seldom comes more than once is knocking at our door. Surely we are interested enough to let it in???

● THE FLOOR IS OPEN

Outlets for public opinion and the expression of those opinions are quite numerous for the interested Florida State College student. There are forums on international affairs; there are discussions that blossom everywhere; there are Student Senate metings which prtain to our college community; there is "or Forever Hold Your Peace" in the Flambeau.

Senate meetings are one of the most important government functions on campus. There we see an actual government in action. We see the people we choose to represent us and the movements they either aid or defeat. To attend Student Senate is a lesson in the functioning of a legislative body. But this is not the outstanding feature of Senate. Th outstanding feature is the unusual privilege of allowing speeches and ideas from he gallery. Any student may be recognized by the chair and present ideas on any problem that may be confronting the legislators. It is up to the students as individuals to attend these meetings and be sure that their government is functioning as thy would like.

Then for the general opinions that should be presented to the student body, is offer "or Forever Hold Your Peace." This column is open to one and all who feel that they have something to say. The only stipulation is that the editor of the Flambeau must know who is writing.

The exchange of opinions on major problems confronting us is the prime factor of forums. These are the planned meetings where ideas brought forth in discussion everywhere are presented. Cardinal Newman said that the exchange of ideas and the process that goes with it is one of the advantages of a university.

There is no reason why ideas should lie dormant. A sleeping idea can never accomplish anything. Let's bring them out into the open where the best of them may survive.

● THE PENDULUM SWINGS

Our college world has opened again, and soon we will be lost in a maze of books, classes, term papers, and weekends. We are both eager and reluctant to get "back into the swing of things."

Many times American college students have been criticized for a tendency to segregate themselves from the outside world and live in an ivory tower of campus activities and gold fish bowls. It seems too easy to lose one's self in the flurry of activity close at hand and too difficult to assume the role of an interested participant in the happenings and affairs that lie beyond the college gates.

Surely an international incident in the Balkans or a political shake-up in Washington is as important as our new student constitution or our Odd-Even spirit. Surely forums on pertinent ideas and events are as important as Wednesday afternoon teas.

As citizens of this state, this country, and this world, we should not lose track of events that may change our destinies and alter our lives. As informed citizens, we must not!

The world has grown smaller through progress, and the college campus must expand to encompass the results of this progress. It is now time for us to assume our responsibilities in the scheme of living.

Sharpie the Fifinella

Attention: Mr and Miss FSC, let's go to press! This is Fifinella, the gal who knows all, sees all, and repeats all.

Now, Kilroy, my boyfriend, dropped into the Sweet Shop the other nite to buy me some gum. And guess what he told me! There on the screen porch, said he, braving the cold wintry winds sat ten little girls huddled over their coffee cups. The warm notes of "South America Take It Away" drifted out into the frigid nite air and chilled the resort of all latecomers. Now, I know how the gal who signs herself "Miss Frigid" felt when she penned this complaint. "Why can't that drafty porch be boarded up for the winter season?" inquires she.

Well, Kilroy tells me that it's because of the infallible law of diminishing returns which means as long as you all take your drinks and sit out thar . . . well, it costs money to buy boards, you know.

Here's a note from a gal who signs herself "A-lert." It reads: "Bein one off yur self apointted spies I hav a bit of juicy news for you're column. I was hanging on a picture wire hihind a pictur in aum peepies room last nite. One off the people wass a senor who was not living on sener hall becas she had not taken thet junor English exam. She was mad becas she had Sat Behind two senors who were living on sener hall when she tuk te exam about ten days ago. She wants to know is thet fare, and I do too."

Deer A-lert: Kilroy was there, too, sittin' right behind her. And was he fuming! "It ain't reet!" said he. Kilroy asked me to tell that neglected senior just to follow him. Believe you me, he kin get her anywhere, even on Senior Hall!

Ah, here's a letter from another senior. Says she: "I decided to go to my class meetin' last Monday afternoon, bein' as I didn't have anything else t'do. When I walked in 303 Westcott, I thought to myself, I must be in the wrong place . . . so many people . . . must be freshmen! But no, they were my classmetes. Seniors are wonderful these days, aren't they?"

Fifinella feels sad this week . . . very sad. The meager amount of platforms turned into her paper by the few who are running for the Constitutional Committee is really pathetic. If you are interested in helping to make your government better, please run in the election of members to the Constitutional Committee. And Kilroy adds a warning. "You'll be sorry, if you don't," says he.

Last hut not least, Embarrassed writes us: "My date and I were out at Dale Mabry the other nite lookin np a friend. We stopped to inquire at one of the barracks housing part of the feminine population. On the porch were girls in . . . ah . . . in very informal attire (namely, pajamas). Now, I ain't conservative . . . BUT . . ."

Fifinella fully agrees. Something should be done to remedy the situation.

COLLEGIATE COMEBACKS

Speak Of Embarrassing Moments

A group of ex-GI's walked into their 201 German class, greeted the teacher in the native tongue, and were exchanging "achs and ichs" in swift manner when a sweet young thing in the back row grabbed her books and while going toward the door screamed hysterically, "I'm in the wrong room."

* * * *

Many's the teacher who has received a masculine reply when he/she called on a Miss Smith.

* * * *

And then there is the poor modern history prof who attempts to teach the vets about the campaigns of World War II. The girls report a disadvantage in learning the European rivers—the fellows do not only know where the rivers are but also how the water in each one of them tastes.

Signs Of The Times

The Garnet and Gold buses that run to Dale Mabry may have the traditional FSCW on the outside, but the inside is elaborately decorated with "FSCW and M" signs. A hit unorthodox, but nevertheless timely.

* * * *

It's a small world and getting smaller all the time. The newest shrinkage is shown in a sign at Dale Mabry which points one way from FSC and in the opposite direction to the University of Florida.

Confusing But Amusing

The male Physical Education major is having no end of trouble wondering where his dressing room should be in the gym or if he should have e gym of his own out at the base.

* * * *

If a voice is heard yelling for the key about midnight, the Dale Mabry-ites can know it's not someone locked out of their abode but just one of the men in the "psychiatric ward" who has to have a key to turn his lights on and off. The fact that there are only a few keys to be had does not make the situation any simpler.

Reconversion Unlimited

There was taik of the marriage rate of FSC students increasing when the co-eds arrived, and it looks like the prophecy might come true. To date there has been one proposal in less than a week. (Don't know whether she accepted or not.)

College Comments

The Sebring (Ala) News tells how the dean of women at a large co-educational college severely criticised the moral laxity of the students, announcing to the student body on Wednesday that "The President and I have decided to stop necking on the campus."

The Lass-O, Texas State College for Women daily, reports that there are 17 foreign students on their campus. They came by an exchange of TSCW students with those of other countries, by personal choice and by scholarship awards. The American Association of University Women sent a student from Greece to the campus, and the Institue of International Education sent one from France. Other countries represented are Mexico, Puerto Rico, Brazil, Cuba, Hawaii, and Italy.

Said a friend to a teacher, "I'm so glad that you are planning to continue your education at the University this summer. Are you working for your MS degree?" Replied the teacher, "Yes, officially for an MS and unofficially for an M-R-S."

An honest coed at the University of Kansas came right back at the "Laws" recently. Instead of scurrying by the horde of wolfish lawyers on the steps of Green hall, she paused at their whistles and whipped out a sign. Printed on it in big red letters were the simple words: "Thank You."

It seems that Texas is another state to be hard hit by the teacher shortage. More than one-seventh of the 36,057 teachers needed in Texas this year will not be found. 4,324 classroom positions are vacant, and that many more are being filled by teachers having substandard requirements.

There's a tale going round the Iowa State campus of a certain English professor who went over to a local apartment house and asked to see the list of people living in it and also the waiting list. He didn't have to go through very many names before he found the one he was king for, and said, 'Put my name down for this man's apartment, please. I just flunked him, and he'll be dropping out f school any day now."

Many a fledgling chemist has to learn the hard way. Fellow students will never forget the look of utter horror that came across a chemistry lab student's face as he watched a neatly-copied-in-ink English theme dissolve in some spilled hydrochloric acid. Humble title of the theme: "The Benefits of Chemistry"

From Minneapolis, Minn. comes the statement that the greatest building boom of all time is approaching for American universities and colleges. Federal government sources estimate that the state appropriations for the academic year 1946-47 will exceed the prewar peak and general expenses may run more than 250 million dollars.

From Albuquerque, New Mexico comes the report that within 150 feet of the Tizeras canyon highway twelve miles out of Albuquerque, students at the sixteenth annual University of New Mexico anthropology field session have spent the past six weeks excavating in a Pueblo Indian ruin which was occupied from 1450 A D until a few years before the founding of Old Albuquerque.

A Native Speaks

Twenty-one girls were tapped into Spirogira and Esteren, Odd-Even clubs, Tuesday night. Spirogira ushered in 14 girls, nine sophomores and five seniors, in convocation at eight o'clock, following the Esteren club by an hour and a half. Esteren had tapped their seven junior "goats" at 6.30 in the dining hall.

Plans have been made by the "goats" of the two organizations to entertain the regular members ofthe clubs wih banquets and parties. The Esteren crew were honored by their "goats" with a banquet for the faculty and student members held Wednesday night in the dining hall, while Spirogira will be given an outing by their pledges Saturday night, October 12, Founder's Day.

The Spirogira entertainment will be organized at the add fountain oin front of Westcott on Saturday night with the "goats" to appear in black and white dresses for "goating". Various pep rallies for the Odd clan are being planned for their members, but as yet no definite date for the rallies has been set.

Spirogira

New odd taps and their activities, according to leader Frannie Myers include: Lucy Harding, Odd Sports, F Club, Sophomore Council, Freshman Carnival, Odd Dem Props, DCC, and PEA: Shirley Palmer, Odd sports, Freshman Talent Program MC, Odd Dem construction manager, Freshman Carnival, PEA.

Marjery Holm, Sophomore Council, Odd sports, Tarpon Club, PEA, and Life-Saving Corps. Marian Lobby, Sophomore Council, ethletic manager-Freshman Class, F Club, Odd sports, WAA Treasurer, Color Rush and Demonstration light committee: Ann Carter, Sophomore Council chairman, Senate representative (freshman class), and Alpha Lambda Delta

Ann Seaward, Sophomore Council, house vice-president of Reynolds, Senate representative (sophomore class), Odd teams, F Club, Odd Dem, Freshman Carnival, and DCC; Helen Looby, Sophomore Council, Judiciary representtative, Freshman Vice-President, Odd sports, F Club, Freshman Carnival committee, and Dem props; Barbara Wickham, Red Cross chairman, Forum committee, Light committee, Script — Odd Dem, Junior Minstrels, Sophomore Council and Mortar Board.

Louise Sims, Editor—Flastacowo, Sophomore Council, Flambeau, and Odd Dem, Light committee, B J Gardner, WRA President, Sophomore Council, F Club, Odd sports, PEA and Odd Dem construction; Virginia Goodell, Sophomore Council, Treasurer (Freshman Class), Judiciary representative (Sophomore class), Odd sports, F Club, and Freshman Carnival.

Laura Simpson, chairman, Poster committee—Freshman Flunkies, Odd Dem, Performance and Script committee, Junior Minstrels, Glee Club, Sophomore Hop Entertainment committee and Junior-Senior Prom Enterainment committee: Elaine Brown, Odd sports, F Club, Odd Dem urer WRA, Sophomore Council, DCC and PEA; Esther "Sis" Miller, Odd sports, F Club, Odd Dem props, Athletic Manager—Sophomore class, Chairman outing committe, Sophomore Council, and PEA.

Esteren

New even taps and their activities as announced by Catherine Sullivan, leader, include: Elaine Gavigan, soccer leader '46, F Club '45 and '46, Secretary '46, Dem prop committee '45, sports, counselor, floor chairman, Freshman Carnival, Sophomore Hop, Treasurer, Sophomore Council, and PEA. Beth Fuhrer, Senate '45 and '46, Freshman Carnival, President-Junior Class, sports, Sophomore Hop, Chairman Senate Codifying committee; Jean Sharer, Art Work, Flastacowo '45 and '46, sports, Flambeau, floor chairman, Dems, Minstrels '45 and '46. Chairman Junior Minstrel '47, counselor, Sophomore Hop, Sophomore Council, Freshman Carnival, and Parliamentarian Freshman Class.

Georgia Jeckel, Chairman, Dem '46, Chairman Sophomore Hop '46, Sophomore Council, Handbook committe, and sports, Alva Ray, Landis Vice-President, Reynolds President, sports, F Club, 4-H Club president, church work; Irma Shepherd, F Club, Judiciary Senate, sports, counselor, Dem '46, Charge of Even feather booth '45, Alpha Lambda Delta, Sophomore Council, Freshman Carnival, and Organizations committee.

Evelyn Shea, F Club, Flambeau, Props, Dem '44, '45 and '46, Props Minstrels '45 and '46, counselor, sports and Secretary WRA.

Tally Ho

by "O. B." KITCHEN

YOU CAN ALWAYS TELL A FRESHMAN:

Walking around clutching e gold book (now red and white) . . . eagerly memorizing and practising Even songs and yells . . . buying new books strictly; never 2nd hand ones . . . investing in large quantities of FSC stickers, stationery . . . fretting over schedules, overwhelmed by the difference between high school and college curricula . . . conducting unofficial "orientation" programs among themselves. . . .

TYPICALLY UPPERCLASSMAN:

Sauntering into the Alum and Sweet Shoppe with an air of one who has done so many, many times before . . . shouting loud greetings across campus to old pals after e summer's separation . . . struggling to work out an "easy" schedule, leaving puh-lenty of free time in which to enjoy all that goes with being an UPPER-classman . . . swapping books and making "deals" on 2nd hand ones . . . e reluctance to get back to the old academic grind of Friday quizzes, term papers, sessions in the library . . . a complete absence of that "naive" look we once had . . . once back, the feeling that we've never left. . . .

EVERYBODY'S DOING IT, Y'ALL:

Painting their rooms, specially in Gilchrist (remember the freshmen last year in Bryan who startled the campus hy brightening up theirs with some fire-engine red paint!) . . . taking note of the men on campus, a hitherto rare sight on week-days . . . coming nown with laryngitis, and this early in the game, too! . . . looking for at least one little loophole in the seemingly foolproof method for checking "convo" this year. . .

FIRST CLASS IMPRESSIONS:

Teachers' difficulties in reading colleague's handwriting on class rolls . . troubles over books . . . a desire to rush madly into the registrar's office, after your teacher has conjured up for you a panoramic view of the year's work . . . the defeatist attitude which descends upon you as homework piles up even in the first few days . . . Education, and its price!

ONE FOR THE BOOKS:

Dale Mabry-ites who complain about having two kinds of running water: both cold! . . . the former sailor who's now planning to have a girl in every class . . . the juvenile freshman bound for the President's reception in an off-the-shoulder formal inquiring hesitantly, "Is there a rule on this campus about the amount of exposure in evening wear?" . . . the boy shocking all comers with an inquiry as to the location of the YWCA (still can't figure out why he was looking for the YW!) . . poor confused students who, during the hectic registration rush, signed up for classes straight through the luncheon hour (well, that's one way to steer clear of the inevitable gaining which goes hand-in-hand with starchy meals) . . . the aggravation of having three years of blood, sweat, and tears behind you only to have some newcomer say, "Are you a freshman, too?" . . . worse yet, the soph who helpfully told a senior that there was a rule against being in the halls after last "light-flash". Imagine! . . . the ex-service man here wondering about the advisability of writing his buddies on Florida State College FOR WOMEN stationery

Magazine Jottings

The Veterans Make Their Choice

It has been a subject of speculation during the last few years as to how the veterans of World War II would organize after the war. The old organizations, the American Legion, the Veterans of Foreign Wars, and the Disabled American Veterans made plans for the prospective new members, while the ideas for the outstanding new organizations, the Amvets (American Veterans of World War II) and the AVC (American Veterans Committee) were conceived and brought into being by fighting men.

Mr Sam Stavisky, honorably discharged from the Marine Corps in 1945, has been covering veteran's affairs for the Washington Post for the past year. In the September issue of Harper's Stavisky discusses these five organizations attempting to explain their present functions and platforms. He cites what he considers the advantages and disadvantages between joining one of the long established veterans organizations or of joining one of the new groups where new ideas may be freely expressed and put into practice.

According to the author the veterans who are joining any organization are making on the whole a conservative choice. Approximately 150,000 GI's in and out of service have joined the two new nationally prominent organizations while 2,000,000 have joined the Legion and more than 1,500,000 the Veterans of Foreign Wars. This is explained on the grounds that "as successful going concerns the Legion and the VFW offer services, clubhouses, experience, legislative leadership, and traditions." But the veteran must pay for this help and guidance by giving up his own ideas and upholding the traditions and established ambitions of the older organizations.

AVC

The American Veterans Committee is officially ignored by the Big Three, who claim that it is not a genuine veterans organization because it violates tradition by accepting former members of the merchant marine. It is leftist but definitely not "Commie", according to Mr Stavisky who states that its members are "veterans who demand a genuine democracy and a decent, abundant life for all citizens rather than benefits and privileges for themselves." AVC is opposed to the bonus, the peacetime draft, to the closed-door immigration policy. "On domestic issues the platform calls for restoration of wartime controls to obtain simple, low-cost housing. . support for organized labor. . ."

According to the author, the recent Des Moines convention was truly democracy in action; the delegates ran the convention and there was unlimited freedom of speech and press.

Amvets

The American Veterans of World War II association has recently been taken in as a little brotner by the "Big Three". It is a mutual association of individual veterans units bound together by participation in the war rather than by ideas. Its course is cautious and conservative. Amvets has not expressed itself on as many topics as the boisterous AVC but its national commander, Jack Hardy, said in a recent speech, "What we want is jobs for everybody and the chance to earn a living. . .This country has to be run for all the people end the only way to do so is for everybody to work" Amvets, like AVC, is behind the Wyatt housing program.

DAV

The membership of the Disabled American Veterans is limited and its influence is used on legislation which affects men who suffered service-connected disabilities.

VFW

The Veterans of Foreign Wars is distinctive in that membership is limited to men who have seen service on the high seas or on foreign soil. During the war VFW championed the men by fighting for a system of stateside furloughs for men overseas.

VFW is for the bonus and like the Legion favors "universal military training, stringent limitations on immigration. . ."

Legion

Most influential is the American Legion which holds its origin in a conversation between Teddy Roosevelt, jr. and a wounded doughboy in France. It uses its influence not only to help veterans but also in the forming of national policy. Its policies are deeply rooted in tradition. But in spite of some of the black eyes which it has received "let it not be forgotten that the Legion has done many good works and is justly proud of them."

There are 15,000,000 veterans coming out of World War II who have not joined any organizations. They and their families will represent one-third to one half of the nation. Mr Staveaky thinks that, "In the latent strength of the World War II veteran, whose full voice is yet to be heard, lies the hope of national security and world peace."

The Florida Flambeau

1946-1947 STAFF
EDITORIAL STAFF

SHIRLEY RODGERS — Editor
BETTY DOWD, B J McLEOD, LOLA ROSE — Associate Editors
JOYCE PETTY — Managing Editor
BARBARA FARRAR — Assistant Managing Editor
LAURA LEE BUTLER, JEAN DOUGLAS — News Editors

Copy Editor — Winifred Lane
Assistant Copy Editor — Eleanor Bayer
Society Editor — Madge Pilcher
Assistant Society Editor — Pauletta Blank
Feature Editors — Alicia Armstrong, Barbara Beckman
Sports Editor — Evelyn Shea
Outside News Editor — Marjorie Clark
Opinion Editor — June Grindstaff
Headline Editor — M J Sherman
Columnists — Beryl Kitchen and "Sharpie"
Picture Editor — Paulette Blank
Art Editor — Jean Sharer
Copy Girl — Robin Hill

REPORTERS: Dorothy Aberle, Katheryn Aspinwall, Inez Augustine, Jeanne Bagley, Audrey Melba Bach, Barbara Brown, John W Cash, Reginald Cash, Hazel Clarkson, Bob Cooksey, Mary Elizabeth Conant, Carol Coughlan, Lucius Daniel, Doris Love Dorsey, Francine Dunning, Jeanne DuPree, Mary Frances Ewart, Jane Hardacre, Jeani Harris, Alice Haywood, Linda Herold, Dorothy Ann Holland, Mildred Frances Hull, Lois Elizabeth Lovett, Rosemary McCay, Bobbie Annie Meffert, Elizabeth Milton, Anne Moore, Cheryl Muster, Francis North, Christine Puckett, Janice Richey, Charma Rosenweig, Jackie Story, Charlotte Scott, Mary Charles Skipper, Pat Small, Nancy Stevens, Theresa Sellers, Alice Sharp, Betty Sue Tayloe, Ann Tucker, Betty Wilkinson, Nancy Wright, Joanne Zewadski.

BUSINESS STAFF

Business Manager — Vivian L. Scheaffer
Advertising Manager — Kitty Chaires
Assistant Advertising Manager — Nancy Stevens
Circulation Manager — Margie Berns
Exchange Manager — Gladys Clark
Billing Assistant — Jean Lieberman

Entered as second class mail matter January 30, 1918, at the post office at Tallahassee, Fla., under the act of Congress of March 3, 1879.

Member
Intercollegiate Press

It is the policy of the Flambeau to grant equal space and prominence to anyone wishing to present a contrary opinion whenever opinions on controversial questions are voiced in its columns.

Sororities Hold Banquets In Honor of New Members

Pledge banquets highlight sorority activities this week, after rush week ended with pledging, coffees, and informal parties.

Alpha Chi Omega held pledging last Saturday for the following girls: Gloria Allbritton, Catherine Nell Austin, Maxine Carpenter, Peggy Ann Clayton, Joyce Coleman, Betty Cook, Camilla DeNisco, Betty Dillard, Jennie Elder, Betty Lou Hardin, Jean Henderson, Mary Mowizer, Jerry Lynn, Frances Riggs, Mary Rosenbush, Dorothy Schoonmaker, Bobbie Strickland, Dorothy Trask, and Barbara Vaughan.

The pledge breakfast was held last Sunday morning at tha Cherokee. Jane Arnold was in charge of arrangements. At the breakfast talks were made by Mrs E B Harrell, housemother, Louella House, president, and Betty Dillard, pledge. The pledges were each presented with a box of sorority stationery. Miss Helen Cate, alumna, was a guest at the breakfast.

• • •

Alpha Delta Pi pledged last Saturday the following girls: Susan Baker, Barbara Breen, Barbara Council, Jean Dobarganes, Nancy Hahn, Sarah Henderson, Jackie Holdstock, Suzanne Kunkel, Kathryne Larisey, Robbie Lee Milam, Frances North, Patricia Rose, Terry Sims, Ruth Sullivan, Beverly Triesback, and Dolores Wynne.

Honoring the pledges were an informal supper given after pledging Saturday and a coffee given Sunday evening. Mary Kathryn Klutz, Sara Routon, and Ann Stinson were in charge of the coffee. The pledge banquet was held last night at the Floridan.

• • •

Alpha Gamma Delta honored these girls at a pledge banquet last Saturday night at the Cherokee: Betsey Abbott, Hilda Akins, Betty Anderson, Joy Ashley, Martha Burdine, Audrey Byrd, Stella Carter, Sarah Gene Floyd, Joan Godwin, Ann Hoffman, Nancy Jones, Wilda Larson, Sally Lyles, Cornelia McCreary, Judy Owens, Jeanette Patterson, Betty Claire Roberts, Margaret Savage, Lucy Shriner, Nina Shuman, Mary Ann Walker, and Mildred Winfield.

• • •

Alpha Xi Delta pledged the following girls: Barbara Brennan, Tex-Ann Carey, Marian Deiders, Helen Edmiston, Martha Ferguson, Barbara Glover, Ann Hatfield, Betty Ann Hawkins, Marilyn Hunter, Mary Kelley, Martha McCann, Shirley Meyer, Christine Parker, Mary Pettit, Martha Powell, Patricia Rogers, Betty Ann Walsh, and Frances Wells.

A coffee will be given this Wednesday honoring the National first vice-president, Mrs Hanna W Schellenbach, Province president, Mrs Lydia Mikell, and housemother, Mrs Marion Hertzig. The date has not been set for the pledge banquet.

• • •

Chi Omega honored the following pledges with an after dinner coffee last Sunday: Carolyn Carleton, Mary Dupree, Margaret Foote, Benna Harris, Patricia Ann Jones, Leila Lane, Shirley McKay, Mildred Mook, Panky Morgan, Betty Myrick, Kate Nunez, Nancy Powell, Joan Scott, Burmah Steed, Shirley Swearingen, Sarah Teylor, Jane Tillman, and Alice Wooten. The pledge banquet was held last Wednesday at the Floridan.

• • •

Last Saturday at two o'clock the Tri Delts pledged the following girls: Anna Woodward Betts, Jeanie Jo Brown, Sally Caldwell, Ann Cameron, Amelia Crossland, Dorothy Crumley, Elenor Foshee, Carolyn Henderson, Clara Howell, Nancy Keener, Martha Helen King, Elsie Mae McCoy, Patricia Merrell, Janet Millar, Deedee Philips, Jo Ann Rackley, Cleona Robnett, Katherine Carroll, Nancy Ann Varn, and Martha Wheeler. Sunday morning the pledges were honored with breakfast. The pledge banquet was held last night at the Cherokee hotel.

• • •

Saturday evening Delta Zeta honored the new pledges with a coffee Mrs Emily Cravatt, housemother, presided at the coffee table. The new pledges are: Joyce Cooper, Dot Crossen, Jewel Dees, Betty Ruth Denman, Carria Dixon, Nency Gonzalea, Betty Hudnall, Martha Vail McDonald, Mildred Jonec, Marjorie Jones, Jana McLeod, Beverly Rentz, Lucille Simmons, Jamie Sumner, Jean Tinney, Dorothy Wade, and Marguerite Wainwright. There will be a hamburger fry given for the pledges Friday night at the home of Dr and Mrs DeGraff. Games and group singing have been planned for entertainment.

• • •

Last Saturday at the traditional ceremonies Kappa Alpha Theta honored the following girls: Bobby Barber, Jane Bennett, Alexa Blount, Barbara Boyden, Dianne Burdett, Marie Chillingworth, Priscilla Dale, Barbara Fosgate, Jackie Geiger, Jean Giedd, Mary Griffin, Betty Hodges, Janet Little, Barbara O'Brien, Jane Wittmer, and Anne Wood. On Saturday October 12, an open house for the boys on campus will be held at the house from 3 to 6 pm.

• • •

Last Sunday evening Kappa Delta honored the following new pledges with coffee: Neal Ayala, Elizabeth Barnes, Shirley Bell, Bettilee Bird, Mary Bunnell, Mary Alice Cooper, Mary Ellen Game, Emily Gunn, Sally Claire Henley, Frances Hopkins, Susan Illingworth, Cinda Kent, Betty Lou Lanier, Rachael McInnes, Eleanor Staples, Suejene Thomas, and Erin Wolcox.

Next Saturday a weiner roast will be given in the back yard of the KD house for the pledges.

• • •

Last Sunday morning Delta Phi Epsilon held the traditional pledging ceremony. The new pledges are: Shirley Baker, Miriam Bucholtz, Barbara Firestone, Lillian Freidman, Shirley Gerstein, Sarita Gold, Edith Golin, Rema Jackson, Shirlee Jacobson, Delores Juster, Zelda Kaplan, Anita Kohn, Mildred Leonard, Gloria Lichenstein, Marcia Sable, Betty Sager, Ann Schwartz, Irma Schwartz, Rosalie Sherman, Shirley Shifke, Doris Singer, Arlene Solomon, Beryle Solomon, Ruth Wolfs, and Mildred Zalka. After the pledging ceremony the girls all went to the Sweet shop for breakfast.

• • •

Pi Beta Phi members pledged Sally Blocker, Betty Jo Brock, Martha Brown, Nell Carter, Joan Dayes, Peggy Gatewood, Dottie Sue Lamb, Martha Ann Maguire, Mary Ann McGinley, Jean Mixson, Barbara Jean Morgan, Natalie Parramore, Sally Simpkins, Margaret Strum, and Mary Jane Teylor. Former members of the local Pi Phi chapter who visited here during pledging were Martha Zewadski, Anna Brice, and Chris Carothers.

• • •

Phi Mu gave a banquet for their new pledges Saturday night at 7:30 at the Floridan hotel. The Pht Mu pledges are: Rita Callahan, Marjorie Chandley, Gladys Clark, Dot Daniels, Pat Dart, Joan Downey, Mary Jo Gwynn, Vina Havens, Frances Helms, Vance Jelks, Mary Marshall, Farrior McCondichie, Margaret Pooley, Regina Tomasello, Beryl Waters and Harmon Wilder. Two alumnae, Sheila Smith and Carolyn King, attended the banquet.

Phi Mu sorority is having a breakfast Sunday morning at their sorority house in honor of new pledge members.

• • •

A banquet was given by Sigma Kappa Monday night at the Cherokee hotel in honor of their new pledges. Doris Dunnaway from Tallahassee and Juanita Gibson from Miami, visiting alumnae, attended the banquet. The Sigma Kappa pledges are: Ellie Ruth Allen, Virginia Bert, Betty Jane Bjornson, Barbara Boling, June Cameron, Muriel Chestnut, Jackie Cox, Betty Deverse, June Grindstaff, Lucie Ann Jernigan, Marjorie King, Saran Lamber, Roberta McAttee, Jo Ann McClanahan, Betty Sue McThaul, Priscilla Pennington, Jackie Sauls, Helen Spatch, Jo Thorpe, Sue Upshaw, Roberta Banbuskirk, Ann Williams, and Jean Winter. The place cards used at the banquet were in the form of the pledge pins and the active place cards were in the form of the sorority pins.

Sigma Kappa sorority is giving an informal party Saturday night from 7 till first light flash for their active and pledge members.

The Zeta Tau Alpha's pledge banquet is scheduled for October 22 at the Cherokee hotel Pledges of the Zeta Tau Alpha sorority are: Betty Collins, Virginia Cumming, Susana Brown, Martha McGahee, Margie Sue Middleton, Patsy Murphy, Margaret Ann Randell, Mary Katheryn Miller, Jean Whitfield Revell, Katheryn Scoggin, Della Sue Decker, Evslyn Nix, Peggy Hodgson, Peggy Mordt, Betty Timmons.

There will be a Sunday morning breakfast at the Zeta Tau Alpha house and also a Sunday night supper.

Sue Walters, Zeta Tau Alpha member will marry Ensign Tom Arnold at her home in Tifton, Georgia, tomorrow night. Celista Hatcher will sing at the wedding. Others attending the wedding from FSC are Martha Abbot, Virginia Summer, Dorothy Peacock, Dana Wilson, Shearer Hines and Mrs W J Dodge, house mother.

With shoes once more so hard to get, you may find the myriad of bows and clips being shown this season a life-saver to last year's footwear. Butterfly bows, tailored buckles and ribbon twists are but a few of the prize assortment of shoe-brighteners now on display. Saddle stitching, contrasting piping and multi-colored sequins contribute a bright note.

★ FASHIONS ★

For the complete look, the fan-pleated gray-and-red-striped dress shown above as pictured in the August issue of Good Housekeeping magazine is ideal.

Coed-Joe Says He Ain't Even He's Just Odd About It All

Yells of, "So it's up with the red and white, down with the green and gold," now fill the campus wave lengths again, pounding to the stiff and competing rhythm of, "Even spirits never die them bones gonna rise again." In the middle of this loyal confusion stands the bewildered coed. Is he Odd or Even? Taking a long view, however, regardless of where his sentiments might lie, he probably feels quite odd about it all. He has evidently not gotten the idea that he must of necessity don either purple trousers and a red shirt or a similar green and gold costume and fight! fight! fight!

This is but one of the numerous perplexities which must confront the scattered coeds at Florida State College for Women. He no doubt appreciates the delicate and artistic salads so familiar to the dining hall, but, in spite of this appreciation, must pass on from the meager course with the desire to sink his teeth into a steak or something of a more solid and bountiful nature. Alas, this is another woe for poor Joe.

What passes through the masculine member's mind as he joggs to and fro in the Dale Mabry buses? Could it be that his thoughts wander back to his high school days? Maybe, however, he thinks he is still traveling around the GI way. It might just seem as though he is engaged in a correspondence course. Joe obviously has various attitudes from which to choose, but it always adds up to the fact that he is a little like a student without a campus.

No tears shed for coed Joe yet. It must be remembered that constantly he is surrounded, enclosed, and suffocated by feminine charms. His luckless brothers in Gainesville can never hope to witness anything like it. Indeed, the ratio is all in his favor, making him the big coed in a woman's college. With such a crop to choose from, he certainly ought to find one who just fits the pattern; that is if he can muster up the courage to tap her on the shoulder, look her in the eye, and then mutter, "Hello."

It is recognized by all that Joe is outstanding, and perhaps that fact compensates for all else that he must endure. This distinction, therefore, is purchased at a price, for with it come other things.

It is not unusual for him to end up in a long line, which is waiting for something, without a buddy to call his own. Often fate places him in a class of fifty or so of the fairer sex, and he, the only one of his kind—how startling. Occasionally he is blessed with seven feminine guests in the dining hall all of whom are chattering on at a staggering rate about Vogue's latest.

Joe's day possibly contains all or only some of the mentioned events, and he may relish it, shrink, or just be getting acclimatized. Whatever his condition may be, however, the coed Joes don't seem to be a very down hearted bunch and are rapidly catching on to the "wheres and wherefores."

Regardless of what FSC might have done to or for Joe, it is quite an established fact that he has done two very definite things for FSC.

He has brought unprecedented spirit and life to the campus and has given it the distinction of having more coeds than any other women's college.

Religious Groups Honor Freshmen; Hold Elections

The social calendar of the various religious groups on campus is crowded with parties and elections.

In honor of the freshman and co-eds, the campus Presbyterian group has planned a Friday night party, the theme of which will be "Gullibles Travels". During Freshman week, the Presbyterian Council members served as hostesses at a tea given to welcome the freshman. The Presbyterians will have as their guest this week-end, Miss Jean Liston, field secretary for the Christian Education Committee.

In recent elections, Margery Holm was chosen social chairman and Margery Potter, president of the Westminster fellowship.

• • •

Since last Tuesday the Methodists have been holding "little sister" supper parties with twenty-five girls attending each function. These festivities, given for the purpose of familiarizing freshman with their Student house, will end Friday night. Last Sunday, students living on the alphabet floor of Jennie Murphree were hostesses at a tea given at the Student House.

• • •

The Baptist girls also have been enjoying "little sister" parties. Monday night Mary Ora Pitt and Ann Lewis entertained their "little sisters" at a popcorn party.

A future event for Baptist girls is the "coke" party which Dr and Mrs Harold Sanders are giving October 17.

• • •

The club room of the Longmire building was the scene of the Newman club's first meeting of the year. At that time Gloria Basila, club president, introduced the officers, who are: Mary Coney, vice-president; Gloria Cummings, recording secretary; Catherine Heitzman, corresponding secretary; Margoria Blackshaw, treasurer; Mary Ann Berry, parliamentarian; Ann Parker, freshman advisor; Pat Haurihan, senior representative; Blanche Weedon, junior advisor; and Natalina Rogolina, sophomore representative.

Dr Paul Coughlin spoke briefly on the history and importance of the Newman club. Special guests of the evening were: Father Joseph Borg, Dr and Mrs Doak Campbell, Miss Martin of the physical eduaction department, and Dr and Mrs Paul Coughlin. Next Sunday a regular meeting will be held during which plans for the activities for the coming quarter will be discussed.

Last May, for the first time in the history of scheduled airlines, the lines of the United States carried more than a million passengers in a single month.

JOIN . . .
Our Convenient
Lay-Away Club

A small deposit, and regular weekly payments will make possible a feminine wardrobe unequalled.

the College Shop
fashion firsts

Fashion Flashes

Four college girls hastily entered the recreation room of the "Alum" and assembled around a table. One of the group started dealing four hands for a bridge game. Another haphazardly tossed a magazine onto a nearby couch.

Although the magazine was worn from many fingers that had flipped through the pages, and the cover was tattered around the edges, it could still be recognized as a recent issue of "Senorita"—the magazine published exclusively for college and business girls.

Suddenly the pages began to flutter and a lovely tall girl with brown hair stepped right off the cover! She wore a black sweater tucked into a brilliant-hued plaid skirt and had a wide red belt fastened around her waist. She yawned as she got up and turned lazily to page twenty-one, where an auburn haired co-ed wearing pedal pushers, with a blazer jauntily tossed over her arm, stepped off the page.

For a moment the two magazine fashion girls stared idly around the room. Their eyes came to rest on the bridge game that was in progress.

Wide Belt said, "How can they read Senorita and still insist on wearing one of those sloppy joe sweaters. Don't they know that they went out of style centuries ago?"

"Maybe they just don't care since there aren't any men around. Remember this is Florida State College for Women," replied Pedal Pushers, with the emphasis on women.

"But it's co-ed now, or partially so. Didn't you know. Oh well, let's go to the soda shop and drown our sorrows in a coke."

As they entered the soda shop Wide Belt exclaimed, "What on earth is she doing?" as she saw a girl eagerly tucking something up underneath the hem of her rain coat.

"Looks like—my goodness she's wearing dungarees under the coat. Why do girls always have to be so sloppy? They could wear these," said Pedal Pushers as she indicated her own trim attire.

After finishing their cokes, the two fashion plates wandered out of the "Alum" and onto the campus, just as everyone was coming from nine-thirty classes.

"Heavens! Will you look at those girls in boys' shirts? Their shirts are so long they don't even need to wear skirts!" shireked Pedal Pushers. "Looks like they could wear a blazer or a cardigan like the one on page thirty-five."

Wide Belt nudged Pedal Pushers, "Will you just look at those ballet shoes? The soles are even coming off!"

"How about those saddle shoes over there—the girl with the green skirt? I'll swear that they've never seen any shoe polish.

"Yeah, and the loafers look just as bad, too. Seems as if the gals could polish them occasionally," groaned Wide Belt.

The girls wandered aimlessly across the campus and finally into the halls of Bryan. "Oh Jeepers!" Pedal Pushers howled, as a girl padded sleepily down the hall in what looked like her father's "P J's."

"Let's go, I can't stand much more of this!"

"We try so hard to show them what to wear and how to wear it. They may read Senorita, but certainly don't practice any of it," the visitors wailed.

The two cover girls walked dejectedly back to the recreation room of the "Alum" and crept into their places on the pages of "Senorita."

The bridge game ended abruptly as the chimes rang. A co-ed snatched up the tattered magazine and tucked it under her arm with her load of books, and trudged onward to class wearing her baggy sweater and greyed saddle shoes.

Sweater Girl

Jury of prominent men selected the sweater shown above as one of the winners at the male tested fashion show sponsored by Cosmopolitan magazine at the Stork Club. Among the judges were Arthur Lake, Sidney Greenstreet, Jon Whitcomb, Walter Huston, Eddie Dowling, Dean Jagger and Charles Cullman.

Reducing Diet Nice for Nell, Bad for Beau

"Oh, my aching stomach!" That's the moanful phrase heard most often by the indulgent listener around Florida State College campus these days.

All of this pain is voiced by the male coeds who don't have the appetite of a canary and who are hesitant about going back through the cafteria line to ask for—not second helpings but—thirds and even fourths.

"And do you know, most of you girls leave half of your first helping on you plate! Do you have to torture and antagonize our healthy appetites by letting us boys sit there unable to do anything but stare hungrily at the food? What we want to do is to clean up every dish, bowl and plate that's anywhere near us!" That came from a 200 pound footballish-looking boy, as he made a grab for his feminine neighbor's last piece of bread.

Passing through the lunch line behind one of the local Greek gods a girl noticed the sizable portion of potatoes and meat which the boy had taken. "That should keep his energy and vitamin content up for at least two days, she mumbled to herself. But, everyone to his own opinion," they always say, for undoubtedly the boy was of a different opinion as was evidenced by the request which followed: "Could I have another slice of meat and some more potatoes?".

The horizon looks clearer for the men who eat at the cafeteria provided for them at Dale Mabry, however. Since the dietitians on FSC campus still have to remain aware that the majority of students they serve are girls, the lighter menus of soup and salad prevail as of pre-coed days. But, every dog has his day.

"I'm getting more and better food than you FSCites out at the men's cafeteria. We may have to pay a little more for our food per week, but I'd rather have that serving of ice cream with real strawberries topping it than just the plain old chocolate you had last Sunday for dinner." One of those, "I told you so."

So, gradually, the men will have those half-empty stomachs filled, and peace and quiet will reign, at least on the food front.

Sulphur is widely and abundantly distributed throughout the world.

Since she donned...
...a
Judy Bond
JUDY BOND BLOUSES ARE SOLD AT BETTER STORES EVERYWHERE

Free booklet: "WARDROBE TRICKS". Write Judy Bond, Inc., Dept. D, 1375 B'way, N. Y. 18

Home Ec Club to Have Tea Tomorrow

The annual tea given by the Home Economics Club in honor of freshmen and transfer students, will be tomorrow afternoon at the home-management house from 3:30 to 5:30. Freshmen and transfer guests will be escorted in groups to the home-management house by members of the Home Economics Club, announced "Sister" Dale, president of the Home Economics Club.

A meeting of the freshmen will be held Monday afternoon in 203 Westcott in order that they may elect their representative to the Home Economic Council.

Club Has Party For New Members

Alpha-Beta-Flo members, residents of the alphabet floor of Jennie Murphree, attended a party given by Ava Ruth Sawyer and Virginia Wilder last Thursday.

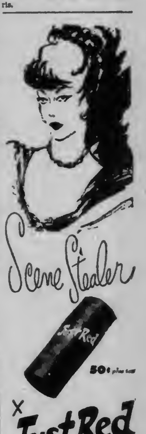
The members, who boast their own song and whistle, swapped tales of summer activities and then were served punch and cake. Those present were:

Nell Latham, Betty Jean McLarty, Dorothy Wells, Mary Margaret Davis, Cheryl Muster, Martha Ambrose, Martha Waits, Ellen Koenitzer, Lillian Walker, Alvyna Sweat, Sarah MacCready, Sarah Woodward, Carolyn Mease, Marie Moe, Angie Lerios, Nell Grey, Peggy Becknell, Frances McLamore, Tobe Ritwe, Judy Fineberg, Carmen Peeples, Angie Castellano, Grace Bradley, Herky White, Bettie Moody and the hostesses.

Many Graduates Wed During Summer

A sharp contrast to the activity of the majority of last year's graduates is provided by Margaret Warren, who left recently for Tokyo to accept a position with the War Department.

Other graduates of last year's class, according to information received from the Alumnae office, are now using the knowledge they won at Tallahassee as newlyweds. Ann Carolyn Allison, who married Walter B Rutland, is now living at Emory University, Georgia. Ruth Bishop of Palm Beach is now Mrs Gordon M Potter; Dorothy Carpenter of Pahokee married Vance G Benton; Della Mae Rhodes was married to Warren L Blackman; Lillian Ergis of Plant City married Thomas H Boland; and Mary Audrey Miner of Crystal Lake married Richard E Harris.



Just Red for Lip Appeal

Steal the show with The Season's RIGHT Red as your color focus! Just Red is so right it's the only shade offered in the lustrous Roger & Gallet lipstick. On the lips, its beauty lasts . . . and lasts . . . and lasts.

LIPSTICK
ROGER & GALLET
Perfume • Dry Perfume • Lip Ade • Toilet Soap

Come to Steyermans for Your Favorite

DRESSES

Exclusive at This Store Are

Carole Kings
Gay Gibsons
Carlyes
Syd, Jrs.
Etta Gaynes
Carolyn Jrs.

Priced at ten ninety-five and up,
Make this store your Monroe
Street headquarters

Steyerman's

Gross Heads Hillel Officers

Rabbi Lorge Outlines Future Activities

The first meeting of the Hillel Foundation at Florida State College was held Tuesday afternoon in the recreation room of Temple Israel when old and new members of the organization were welcomed by Irene Gross, the newly elected president.

Irene introduced other officers for the coming year as: Hascia Levine, vice-president; Ruth Leonard, secretary; Dorothy R Davis, treasurer; Miriam Portnoy, parliamentarian; Sonya Heyman, cultural chairman; Pauline Marks, social chairman; Robert Greenberg, editor of the Hillel newspaper; Sarah Bramister, choir director; and Aileen Miller, social welfare chairman.

Rabbi Ernest Lorge who has recently returned to Tallahassee after serving as a chaplain in Germany was announced as the new Hillel director. Rabbi Lorge outlined plans for activities of the coming year. Ned Miller, president of Temple Israel congregation, spoke to the seventy members present on behalf of members of the Temple and offered the co-operation of the congregation for the forthcoming year.

During the meeting Irene Gross and Leonard Gilberg were chosen as representatives of Hillel to the Temple Council. Plans were also completed for regular Friday night services which will be in charge of Hillel members this Friday night. At the conclusion of services, there will be a social hour at which all freshmen will be honored by the upperclassmen.

All students of Jewish faith who were not notified about Hillel are requested to contact Irene Gross, box 903, campus mail.

◆

DM Commuters Can't Forget Bouncin' Bus

Riding the DMC "special" once is an experience, but when you spend a large majority of your "free" time on it day in and day out, it becomes unforgettable.

Gaily painted in garnet and gold and labelled Florida State College for Women, the bus embarks every quarter hour for the campus. Equally as gay as the new paint job are the occupants, most of whom sing lustily all the age-old favorites as well as the latest in collegiate songs. Some, of course, study, making ample use of the 15 minutes spent in transit. One boy haughtily informed a curious girl, "Sure, I'm studying now. When I git home, I gotta study something else." Still others settle back quietly, eavesdropping and getting a large charge out of the hilarious conversations going on about them.

Occasionally, a hearty "Ho" comes from the rear of the bus (where the boys congregate, tho not by choice!) and "Pop" or "Uncle John" obligingly stop and let off streams of people, comparable to those who come out through those trap doors in circus cars. The number which piles off during rush hours is particularly amazing.

Now that it's an accepted fact that the grind is actually on again, Dale Mabry-ites have resigned themselves to their fate, and are rapidly adjusting themselves to the idea of catching buses "ad infinum". Automatically now they congregate at the bus stops every fifteten minutes waiting for the "bouncin' buggy" to cart them off to higher "larnin' ", and when it arrives they battle their way on with all the finesse of a commuter of long standing!

Variations on a Theme of "Life Can Be Beautiful"

By PAT SMALL

"The Things We Did This Summer" tucked away on the pages of memory, freshmen—I emphasize men—ah, men—took to the green pastures of Florida State College for a first quarter enlistment this week to prove the theory that "Life Can Be Beautiful"

Judging from the ex-B-17 navigators charting courses from the Mecca to the Sweet shop to the Alum and to dating areas—between classes, of course; the ex-pilots flying low on the boogie-beat; and the comment, "Well, the scenery is gorgeous", from 365 of 365 boys interviewed, eyes wandering here and there—mostly there—during our chat, I expect that life at "Tally-U" will be most beautiful this year.

"The chow doesn't compare with our boot camp specials, and it's odd that the same broken record of "Five Minutes More" grinds away at so many places on campus," grimaced some reminiscing navy men who think that double-decker bunks are killjoys in this post-war world, "but at least we don't get a deck court martial if we're late to class."

"And the girls just don't ask us for dates" is a constant wail.

On being told that freshmen girls weren't allowed to ride in cars at night because they didn't know the layout of the town and wouldn't be able to call mother if tha necessity arose, a revolutionary solution was offered by an enterprising young veteran in our midst. He wants walkie-talkies for every girl so that when in difficulty she can be merely pressing a button call, "Come in Dean Dorman, Come in Dean Dorman".

"Our faces are garnet, but our hearts are gold," cried two of the bewildered many from the freshman hordes, embarrassed to learn that they shouldn't have asked. "Where do we buy our "F's" and sign up for Tri Delt sorority?"

"There Have Been Some Changes Made Today" and "That Old Black Magic" really seems to be bubbling, according to glazy-eyed students furiously making crossmarks and mysterious scratchings in a little white book after hearing in convocation an exceptional rendition of "To Each His Own" by Dean Olivia Dorman.

"Accentuate the Positive and Eliminate the Negative" is to be next to "Hail to the Caps and Gowns" on our handbook parade say gleeful freshmen—I emphasize men—ah, men—and upperclassmen strongly convinced that "Life Can Be Beautiful".

MALE EYE VIEW

By LUCIUS DANIEL

WIR SIEGEN DOCH!

Last Tuesday the men's barracks at Dale Mabry were given names. One of the suggestions for the name of barracks 701 was NOT selected. Several of the veterans of the ETO wanted to name their barracks the "Schutzstaffel (SS) House"

They claimed that they had logical reasons for their choice. "After all," one of them said, "We've already got an Army house, a Navy house, a Coast Guard house, and a Marine house. I think that in order to show our desire for friendly international relations we ought to name one of our barracks after friend Adolf's personal bodyguard." . .

BALANCE OF POWER

At least one man taking political science is getting something out of the class. When Dr Catterson mentioned the other day that being in a democracy gives you the privilege to at least regulate the laws that you are drafted by, there was some argument from the back of the class. (Where all the men were sitting, naturally.) In order to prove that disapproval of the draft law was expressed in Congress, Dr Catterson brought the fact that the majority by which the bill was passed was by only one vote.

A stunning thought suddenly hit one of the men cat-napping in the left hand corner.

'You mean that my vote would have changed the whole thing?" he cried, in the voice of a man discovering that he has just missed the opportunity of a lifetime.

Too bad he wasn't in Congress. Little things like that can make all the difference.

TAKE IT EASY, SOLDIER

One Dale Mabryite was explaining to another the reasons which Dr McBride gave in assembly for the buses not stopping outside the campus.

"It's like this," he said, "When the buses stop outside the campus all these civilians get on." . . . Hitch Your Wagon to a Star—bf

One of the sights on the campus last Wednesday night was all the students lying on their backs staring at the sky. Every time one of the young ladies of FSC saw a falling star she squealed with delight.

They sounded so excited that for a while you might have thought they must be catching them.

SHERMAN WAS RIGHT, BUT PEACE IS WORSE

One of the horrors of peace is to be the only man in a class full of girls. If what they teach us in Biology about protective coloration is true, by the end of this year we ought to see some of the men walking around in lipstick and skirts, and probably speaking in a high soprano voice.

◆

Dr Wilder Accepts Infirmary Position

Dr Grace Wilder, new infirmary staff doctor, arrived on campus last Saturday, and the other staff addition, Dr M P Andrews, is expected around November 1. Eight registered nurses, full time, and one part time also augment infirmary facilities to care for increased demands this year.

Two student assistants are doing laboratory work for the infirmary, and one student assists in the office.

A new college infirmary clinic schedule has been inaugurated this quarter because of earlier classes. New hours are at 7:45 a m, immediately after breakfast; 1 p m, immediately after lunch; and 9 p m. Doors are locked at 9:45 each night.

◆

A research campaign by America's aircraft manufacturers to reduce the noise made by airplanes is under way.

"Messiah" Will Be Presented

Mixed Choristers to Give Early December Program

Handel's "Messiah" is to be sung by the new mixed choral group on a Christmas program planned for Sunday, December 8, according to Herman Gunter, director. Music for the orchestral accompaniment has been ordered.

Members of the choral group, composed of students from both Florida State College and the Dale Mabry University branch, were announced this week. First sopranos are Emma Neal Ayala, Ann Bache, Jauniel Irene Glover, Pat Harrison, Esther Howard, Perilie Hunt, Victoria Johnson, Cinda Kent, Doris Lamb, Pat Laney, Rachel McInnis, Ann Selden Nicholson, Doris Stallwood, Bobbie Jean Strickland, Joann Summers, Gloria Jeanne Williams, and Eloise Ziglor.

Second sopranos, Audrey Baird, Marjorie Estelle Booth, Inez Bowles, Lou Jean Crum, Mary Louise Gamble, Joyce Hanson, Billie Kacinski, Marquita Lance, Moira Long, Martha McCormack, Nancy McFarland, Carol Murrell, Mildred Nichols, Evelyn Louise Nix, Jeanne Phillips, Peggy Ann Rainey, Janet Stephenson, Bernice Strickland, Dawn Shirah, Elise Thomas, Martha Elizabeth Waters, and Martha Wheeler.

First altos are: Jane Arnold, Carolyn Sue Bush, Mary Carolyn Curtis, Priscilla Dale, Carolyn Chaires Ellis, Arlia Frink, Mary Frank Grimsley, Glenna Long, Peggy Parish, Jackie Sauls, Sally Slater, Shirley Webster, June Williams, and Lucille Wooten; second altos, Helen Beasley, Mildred Irene Coleman, Margaret Keddie, Myra Long, Imogene Lyons, Mary Sue Michael, Bessie Lou Myer, Suzanne Petit, Peggy Joan Rigell, Dot Jeanne Stalmaker, and Margaret Strum.

Members of the tenor section are: Sandy Boyer, John Sullivan, Donald McDowell, Albert Bradford, Robert Mangham, Preston DeMilly, James Graham, Jesse Burt, and Royce Burt; baritones, Charles W Long, Charles Tobias, Ernest Hollingsworth, Murton Guild, Douglas Knapp, David Duane Wilcox, Arlond Kaunwischer, Newton Sullivan, Leonard Gehlberg, Glen Terrell, and Henry Stevenson; basses, Edward Morgan, James Merrill, Chris Holley, Max Harrison, and Ralph Hartsfield.

Accompanists are Peter Jensen and Lucille Wooten.

◆

3 Classes

Continued from Page One

October 15 and 17 are the last days seniors can order caps and gowns. Any senior graduating before June is requested to report to the personnel office immediately.

Seniors voted to wear caps and gowns and sit in special sections at the monthly convocations, which will start a new tradition.

◆

Production for immediate industrial use of high-precision steel balls half the size of a pinhead has been announced by a manufacturer.

Cupid Is Blamed for Squirrel's Plight

Tragedy struck at noon Monday when two ill-fated squirrels fell from a tree on the south side of Westcott.

A sympathetic crowd watched as one furry creature hobbled into the bushes, leaving his wounded comrade behind.

A boy's well meaning suggestion to put the little thing out of its misery was met with a chorus of female "oh, no's", but it soon became apparent that it was the humane thing to do.

Another male observer, noticing the anguished faces of the group's fairer sex, dryly remarked: "They should have known better than to pitch woo on top of a pine tree anyhow."

◆

Longmire Management Board Increased

Jane Gunn and Doris DuBois, members of the junior class have been appointed to work with seniors Pat Milliken and Henrietta Trezvant and faculty members on the Board of Management of the Rowena Longmire building.

Each year two juniors are chosen to serve for a two year period on this board which sets up the rules and policies of the Longmire Building.

Three Decades Bring Alarming Changes In FSC Campus Rules and Regulations

By LEMOYNE CASH

Fads and fancies seem to change constantly, and so, it seems, do the rules governing the conduct of college students.

If the rules of Florida State College in the 1914 were imposed on students of today, many moans, groans and complaints would surely be heard.

In the 1914 edition of the FSC handbook of rules and regulations appear many "do's" and "don'ts" which would seem strange indeed today. One such was the requirement that all students must attend breakfast except on Monday's. Two absences were equivalent to missing a class, and this was before cuts were allowed

Rules concerning leaving the campus to go to town, were much stricter then than now. Today, it isn't even necessary for a girl to sign out to go to town if she expects to be back on the campus by 7:30 pm. The rule in 1914 stated that: "No students except seniors will be permitted to go down town oftener than once a week and were required to sign out an hour ahead of time and return to the campus by 5:30 pm. Students who went down in the afternoons had to return to the campus between 5 and 5:30 pm, according to the time of year

Dating and dancing were also under strict control. Dancing was not permitted and girls were forbidden to receive gentlemen callers. Juniors, however, were allowed to receive callers once a month. And seniors were permitted to have gentlemen callers once a week. An order prohibiting girls from attending card parties or dances was also included.

At present freshmen may have two dates a week and they must have the approval of the residence counselors to ride in cars. Today students are forbidden to dance on Sundays or to attend dances in town.

Even movie-going was restricted in those rules of thirty-two years ago. Freshmen could attend a matinee once a mooth, sophomores three times a month and juniors once a week on days when chaperones were provided. Lucky seniors could attend any matinee unchaperoned in parties of three or more.

An interesting rule which causes one to wonder what brought it about was the 1914 rule that forbade. "Communications by signs, spoken or written messages with any person loitering on or outside the college premises". None of the present handbook regulations are comparable to it. Then there was the rule which said there could be no "running, screaming, lond talking and boisterous conduct throughout the buildings, and that no student could receive notes or papers through any day pupil or through irregular channels".

TRIPLE SMOKING PLEASURE
Chesterfield CIGARETTES
LIGGETT & MYERS TOBACCO CO.
CHESTERFIELD
A
ALWAYS MILDER
BASEBALL'S OUTSTANDING HITTER TED WILLIAMS OF THE BOSTON RED SOX
B BETTER TASTING
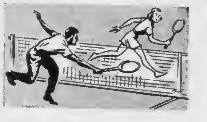
That's Right Ted!
IN OR OUT OF THE BALL PARKS THEY SATISFY MILLIONS
C
COOLER SMOKING
ALWAYS BUY CHESTERFIELD
ALL OVER AMERICA—CHESTERFIELD IS TOPS!
Copyright 1946, Liggett & Myers Tobacco Co.



If Tennis Is Your Game, Yon's

Is the Place to Come

We also have Official Soccer Balls and Footballs

Seek it First
YON'S HARDWARE

Majestic

$5.95
WHITE
NAVY
PINK

Turner's
Doorway to Fashions

Political Sallies

The Florida Flambeau

Published by the Students of Florida State College

Odd-Even Rallies

OL. XXXIII, No. 3 — Tallahassee, Florida — OCTOBER 18, 1946

x 106

lections to ake Place ext Week

allots Will Be Issued hroughout Dormitories; ajority Vote Needed

orum Will Be rst Committee Meeting

The election of upperclass mem- rs of the Constitution commit- e will take place the first of xt week. Ballots will be dis- buted through floor chairmen, d a majority of upperclassmen ust vote in order for the elec- n to be valid, Janice Richey, airman of the Senate Steering mmittee, announced this week.

Although Senate indicated by straw vote that it wished to olish the requirement of a state- ent from candidates, the Steer- g committee decided to keep s requirement for one more eek. Enough statements were omitted within that time to hold e election and are published in s issue of the Flambeau.

The first meetings of the Stu- nt Constitution committee will on Thursday evening, October , at 8 p m in 303 Westcott. will be conducted as a CGA rum with discussion open to the tire student body. A member of e Faculty committee on Student fairs and Robin Hill will re- rt on the work done last spring the Amendment Committee on ticle 13 of the constitution at s time.

During this meeting, volunteers m members of the Constitu- n Committee will be called for serve on sub-committees work- g on specific articles. Whenever se sub-committees are ready present their finished work to e Constitution Committee as whole, a meeting for the pur- se will be called.

The Senate Steering commit- prepared a list of the follow- topics for immediate consid- ation by sub-committees: (1) ticles I, II, III, Name, Purpose d General Association, (2) Ar- e IV, Legislative department, Article V, Judicial department, Article VI, Executive depart- nt, (5) Article XIII, Nomina- ns, Elections, and Appoint- nts, and (6) Article XIV, enments.

As revision on each of the above pics is completed, said Janice, rk on another issue will be en up by the committee, or else mbers may join the discussions another sub-committee.

dds Organize as em Plans Progress

The "efficient machinery" for d demonstration swung into on this week according to B J Leod, publicity manager. Com- tees were formed, and try-outs musical, dancing, and speak- parts were held during the ek.

Speaking parts and the script mittee are headed by Nancy gan, chairman of the dem. acks are falling so fast and ously at script meetings," said ncy, "that I've had to advertise a commerce major who can e dictation a 180 words a min- . We have one girl who takes rthand, but the script is so ny she has hysterics every e she tries to transcribe it."

Directors of the production are ry Lou Norwood, staging and c, Daphne Rowe, chorus di- tor; Sis Myers, dance; Vir- a Wilson and Pat Small, as- ant directors; and Lea Wells, designer.

The chairmen of the commit- s are Barbara Dale, properties; n Parker, costumes; Nancy cEdwards, porgrams; Sis Mil- and Shirley Palmer, stage con- action; Barbara Wickham, s; Polly Marks, tickets.

usic Club Program

With Eleanor Bragg in charge, Music Club of Florida State lege presented a musical pro- m at 5 p m yesterday after- n in Westcott auditorium.

The program consisted of: "Pre- e and Fugue," Bach; Sally ter, organ; "Rondo Capricci- ' Mendelssohn, Perllee Hunt, no; "Lung Dal Caro Beme," chi, Pat Hamilton, soprano; rjorie Haldeman, accompanist; xel Song" from Faust, Paula n Teagarden, soprano; Eleanor gg, accompanist; and "Minu- on Suite Gotheque," Boellman, th Smith, organ.

Newly elected officers of the sic Club are: Lucille Wooten, sident; Edith Smith, vice pres- nt; Dave Wilson, secretary; Peter Jensen, treasurer.

Ticket Distribution

On Monday, October 21, distribution of the reserved seat tickets for the second of the artist series programs will begin on the ground floor of the Rowena Longmire building. These reserved seats will be available from 3:30 pm to 5:30 pm Monday through Friday of next week, and both red and blue tickets will be honored.

Appearing as the second artist series feature will be Stanley Fletcher, American pianist, who will present an all Chopin program on November 4 and 6. Those holding blue tickets will attend the concert on November 4, and holders of red tickets on November 6.

Work Started On Committees

Smoking and Owning Cars Are to Be Discussed

Two committees have been appointed by the executive council of CGA to work on recent proposed changes in college government. Sarah Lewis, president of CGA, has announced that the following girls have been selected to study possibilities and make recommendations concerning smoking in dormitory rooms: Esther Rasmussen, Rosetta Carver, Betty Schwartz, Betty Jo McLeod, Caroline Varn, 'Pinkie' Stewart, and Betty Dixon.

Sarah said that a great deal of informal discussion has been held in several council meetings with interested groups concerning the change of the present smoking rule. The opinions are quite varied as to whether or not smoking in dormitories should be considered, and if so, if it should be allowed in certain dormitories which may not prove to be safe. There are so many ideas on the subject that, according to Sarah, the selected committee might decide to take a student poll on the situation. As yet, however, no definite research or conclusions have been made by the recently appointed committee.

Driving Privileges

Those who will consider the privilege of owning and operating cars on the FSC campus are Betsy Wilson, Emily Sheftall, Elinor Bragg, and Sally Slater. Until now only fifteen students have requested permission to maintain their own automobiles at the college. A condition which this committee will have to consider is the problem of locating an adequate parking center for these cars, which would be accessible and safe but which would not clutter up the campus.

When these two committees reach their final decisions, their recommendations will be sent to the executive council of CGA, which will in turn send them to the executive council of the college for approval.

Tallahassee Gains New Radio Station

Tallahassee now has a new radio station, WRHP, with main studios on the main floor of the Floridan hotel. The station went on the air for the first time Tuesday, October 15, at 8 a m, and at 12 o'clock the Florida State College band played for the official opening. President Doak S Campbell and Governor Millard Caldwell were also present at this occasion.

Manager of the new station is Mr Frank Pepper. The station carries the American Broadcasting company network, which includes such programs as "Breakfast in Hollywood" and the Bing Crosby show. Beginning tomorrow the station will broadcast the Army football games every Saturday, and tonight marks the first of the local broadcasts of Leon High football games.

WHRP goes on the air every weekday morning at 8 a m and on Sundays at 7 a m, broadcasting 18 hours per day during the week and 17 hours on Sundays.

Nord, Jones Elected

Juanita Nord was elected representative to senate over Barbara Wickham in a special senior class election held this week. Candy Jones was elected over Franklin Smith as chairman of junior-senior prom in the junior election.

Finals in the sophomore class election are being held in lower Westcott today. Those nominated for the two vacant senate seats in primaries held earlier in the week are: Jean Furman, Ellen Koenitzer, Shirley Hargraves and Martha Jane Bird.

College Dairy Is Profitable, Raises Cows for Milk, Beef

By BOB COOKSEY

Besides providing gallons of fresh milk for thirsty students, the Florida State College 1,000 acre dairy last year yielded a medium monthly profit of $1,309. Today, the college herd numbers 325 head of cattle. Two hundred and thirty gallons of milk are produced daily by 115 milk cows, and more than 150 cattle are raised for beef purposes.

The dairy, begun in 1917 to solve the school's fresh milk problems, has developed into a remarkably clean and efficient organization in its 29 years of operation. Adequate records as to the daily and monthly output are kept by the dairy office. Each animal is numbered, enabling the dairymen to keep individual records. Numbered also is each division of land to aid in establishing an orderly method of opening fresh grazing lands.

Dairy land being used now contains 400 acres of improved land for the accredited college herds. The grass consists of Bahia, Bermuda grass and clover and is ideal grazing land according to J P Love, superintendent of the farm. The total acreage for the dairy is 1,000 acres.

The dairyman is M C Futch, who returned to the college dairy last January after four years of service with the U S army.

After seventeen years of operation the college decided that it needed more room for expansion of the dairy so a deal was made for the present location, formerly Governor Bloxam's farm. Prior to the transaction in 1934 the dairy had been located on the north side of Tallahassee at Tennessee and Coyle streets.

There are five barns on the premises and six homesteads for employees of the dairy and farm. To protect the barns from a possible outbreak of fire two water valves with 100-foot fire hoses in each box are spaced close to the buildings near the office.

The dairy has eight employes, headed by J P Love, superintendent of farms, and the head dairyman, Mr Futch. Love has been with the dairy for 28 of the 29 years of its existence. One other employee has chalked up 27 years of service and still another has 24 years. The employees have three saddle horses and a one-ton truck at their disposal to enable them

Continued on page two.

Seymour Talks About China

American Policy Backs Conservative Chinese

"In many ways China is as delicate a situation as we may consider now," said Dr Arthur Seymour, former head of the modern language department, in the first formal meeting of the International Relations Club this year. "Although the tendency is to regard European developments as most significant, the United States and China are actually very closely connected, and developments in one country have direct bearing on the other."

The meeting of the International Relations Club, which was held yesterday in the auditorium of the Longmire Building, emphasized the importance of China in international politics pertinent to the celebration October tenth of the Chinese national independence holiday.

"After the Chinese rebellion," said De Seymour," when Dr Sun Yat-Sen headed the first Chinese government, he pledged his government to three objectives for the people of China—national independence, democracy, and a decent livelihood."

Now, he continued, the national

Continued on page two.

YWCA Adds Three To Advisory Board

Miss Betty Kirlin, instructor of physical edncation; Mrs Margaret C Blair, instructor in English; and Mr Herman Gunter, director of the college chorus, are the three new members of the Advisory Board of the Young Women's Christian Association. For the first time, the Advisory Board will count among its members Tallahassee townspeople. These, however, have not yet been appointed.

The Community Service Group of the Y W C A will begin work with the Girl Scout Training Course in the near future.

In order to introduce the campus and community to Miss Phyllis Greife, executive secretary, the Y W is holding an informal reception in the clubroom of the Longmire Building on Tuesday, October 22, from 4:30 to 6:00 p m.

Any students who wish to join the Y W C A and did not do so during the membership drive may come to the "Y" room, second floor of the Longmire building any afternoon between 1:30 and 3:30 and one of the members will be glad to accept their membership.

Mortar Board Will Sponsor Clinic

A study clinic for freshmen and men students has been selected as the Mortar Board project for this year and will begin Monday evening in Room 104 Library. At this clinic, which will be conducted Monday through Friday each week from 7 until 10 p m, Mortar Board members will help students with problems about their class work or about the use of library facilities.

Miss Florence R Tryon, instructor in history, has been selected faculty advisor for the organization succeeding Miss Elizabeth Thomson, instructor in speech. Other Mortar Board advisors are Dr C P Heinlein, professor of experimental psychology, and Miss Lou Miller, instructor in English.

Cut System Set Up For Freshmen Boys

First Quarter Men Restricted To Daily Class Attendance

The new cut system for men, restricting the cuts taken by first quarter freshmen, was announced in the men's assembly Tuesday afternoon by Dr Otis McBride, dean of men.

The ruling forbids first quarter freshmen to cut a single class without sending in a letter requesting permission through Dr Otis McBride to a cut committee, who will judge the reasons and accord permission or refusal. Students affected by this rule who fail to send in such a letter and receive approval before cutting a class will have their credit for that course cut by one-sixth.

In answer to a question raised by the first protest, regarding whether or not Florida State College could regulate students nominally members of the University of Florida, Dean McBride answered, "When you were sent up here your records were processed by the University and sent up here with you, and from there on FSC takes over. You're like a battalion attached to another outfit . . . you come under their regulations rather than those of your original outfit."

"The girls at Tallahassee have been living under these regulations for a long time," continued Dr McBride, "you ought to be able to put up with a little yourself."

Main point of protest by the students was that the severity of the penalty for an unexcused ab-

Continued on page two.

Red Cross to Hold Drive This Week

Membership Accepted In Lower Westcott Monday Thru Wednesday

Various Committees Serve Many Interests

The Red Cross chapter of Florida State College will begin its first year of actual work when the membership drive gets underway next week. A booth in lower Westcott will be open from Monday, October 21, through Wednesday, October 23, for volunteers who wish to sign up for work on the various committees. Students who signed up during registration do not have to sign up again.

"There is a field for any interest. The preliminary registration which we conducted at the end of last quarter to give us an idea of the volunteers we might expect turned out to be successful. We hope all those students who signed up then will sign up again. They are needed to make our first year of work successful," stated Barbara Wickham, president of the organization. The FSC chapter was begun as the first college unit in Florida and as one of the first in the south on May 16, 1946, when a charter was presented to the college by H O Hill, chairman of the Tallahassee Red Cross branch.

The seven committees open for student work and the respective chairmen are: disaster relief, Dottie Hahn; volunteer special service, Flossie Gwen; first aid and accident prevention, Emily Phillips; life saving and water safety, Joanne Zewadski; public information, Pat Yates; Junior Red Cross, Betty Kennedy; and nutrition, Anne MacDonald.

Girls who have worked as Red Cross staff assistants before and who would like to volunteer for service are requested to contact Barbara Wickham, Box 989, or to call at the Alpha Chi Omega house. There is a need for these girls at the Tallahassee office downtown, Barbara reports.

One of the first projects of the year will be knitting sweaters for children overseas. This project will come under the committee for volunteer special service. Complete details will be available at a later date.

Flastacowo Staff Seeks New Members

All freshmen who are interested in working on the Flastacowo staff are asked to send a list of their qualifications to Louise Sims, Box 938, campus mail. Those who are considered best qualified will be interviewed by the editor of the annual.

Louise lso stated that all students who have snapshots which they would like to have appear in the 1947 Flastacowo are being asked to subm them to Nancy Stevens, Box 578, Campus mail. Those who have failed to make appointments for their annual pictures may do so now at the Campus Studio.

Study Activities Continue Despite Blackout Tuesday

"When the lights come on again all over Gilchrist" was the song of the girls living in the west wing of Gilchrist last Tuesday night when the lights went off in the west wing at about 10 p m.

The hall lights were on, however, disclosing unusual activities for a hallway. One bright-eyed lass was getting her laundry ready, throwing clothes onto a sheet which almost covered the hallway floor.

"Lights may come and go, but studying must go on forever." This was proved true by those sitting out in the hall with notes in their hands, a home economics major successfully drawing floor plans, and a girl typing with a portable on her knees.

The general study hall ended at about 10:30 after the electrician had come and replaced the blown-out fuse, which was found by Mrs Melanie Turner, resident counselor, and Marie Moe.

Campbell Speaks About Co-education

Annual Academic Procession Highlights Convocation

"The question of coeducation will depend upon the reaction of the faculty and students to the situation as we now have it on campus," Dr Doak S Campbell stated in his address to the freshmen at the annual academic procession last Tuesday evening.

Dr Campbell expressed optimism concerning the outcome of this venture and praised both faculty members and students for their cooperation in making adjustments for the excess of students this year. He also stated that the boys and girls housed at Dale Mabry have shown excellent sportsmanship concerning the inconveniences at the base.

The theme of Dr Campbell's address was "The Challenge of the World's New Epoch". Dr Campbell said that students must learn to act intelligently and that since the quantity of necessary knowledge has increased, accuracy and precision are becoming even more important to learning.

The convocaton devotion was lead by Dr Robert D Miller. The faculty trio, composed of William Presser, Owen Sellers, and Mary Winslow played Debussy's "Romance".

Former Graduate Is Nurse in Shanghai

Joan B Kennedy, registered nurse, 1941 graduate of Florida State College sailed this summer to Shanghai, China, as an addition to the Quaker team in Honan, which is trying to rehabilitate hospitals.

Miss Kennedy received her bachelor of science degree in chemistry from FSC in 1941 and her bachelor of science in nursing from the Presbyterian Hospital School of Nursing at Columbia University. She is the daughter of the late William Grahm Kennedy who was pastor of the Tallahassee Presbyterian church from 1930 to 1940.

Dr Hay Returns to FSC After Five Years Of Government Service Here and Abroad

Profiting from a background of European travel and a knowledge of foreign languages, Dr Marion J Hay, professor of education, left Florida State College five years ago to fill several vital and very interesting roles in the United States government.

In March, 1942, Dr Hay went to work in Washington for the Censorship Bureau. This led to a position with the Office of Strategic Service, Uncle Sam's wartime intelligence organization. Dr Hay was in charge of one area of political intelligence, and, due to the nature of her work, she was able to keep contact through "underground routes" with friends in the resistance in France

When the OSS was disbanded and its work turned over to the State Department, Dr Hay accepted a position on the faculty at New York University. The Security Council was meeting in New York City at this time, and Dr Hay went to the sessions devoted to Spain and the atomic control.

This summer Dr Hay made her thirteenth trip to Europe with Mrs Mildred Pepper, wife of the Florida senator. She served as a representative of the People's Mandate Committee and attended the plenary sessions of the United Nations conference in Paris.

Dr Hay was invited to numerous diplomatic entertainments while in France, including a reception given by the Brazilian ambassador to the United Nations representatives, a luncheon by the French Minister Plenipotentiary, and a small informal tea given by Madam Bidault at the Quai d'Orsay (the French equivalent of the White House). Dr Hay also inspected medical dispensaries, summer camps and other agencies devoted to child welfare.

"The health of the people in general," she pointed out, "is very poor. There is a lot of tuberculosis. Some of the children have not had milk since infancy. And the price of good foods is high—butter, $3.50 a pound, and eggs, 15c each — all black market, of course."

Dr Hay said that Denise and Michele Dumont, ages 7 and 9, whose father was killed in the French resistance, and their mother, together with another of Dr Hay's French friends, are expected to arrive here in November.

A friend, who died while Dr Hay was in France, had been an active agent in the French underground. In the apartment above him during the war lived some of the German Gestapo. When an aviator hiding in the agent's rooms for several days found this out, he became unusually jittery everytime the doorbell rang—there was always a chance that it might be the upstairs "neighbors."

From France, Dr Hay went to Portugal at the invitation of Ambassador Baruch, and thence into Spain, that being the only easy route by which to enter the country. Dr Hay said that the conditions in Spain are the result of governmental and army graft and mismanagement

In Madrid, for example, there are fine, large apartment houses, unoccupied; while in other sections, whole families are crowding into single rooms, or caves, because they cannot afford to build or rent a small home.

The Spanish people are in poor health, and many are dying from lack of food. Bread, a necessity for human life, is rationed; gasoline, a luxury for the wealthy class, is not. And even though rationed, bread is obtainable only in minute quantities except on the government-controlled black markets. The black market prices are so high, said Dr Hey, that a two-pound loaf of bread, for instance, costs a laborer his wages for one entire day's work.

Upon her return to this country Dr Hay came to her home in Tallahassee and is now teaching Spanish and education as a member of FSC's education department faculty.

Election to Be Thursday For Student Government Of Male Students at FSC

Nominations To Be Made at Tuesday Meeting; Three Major Parties Formed to Nominate Candidates for Class and General Offices

In spite of the slow start during the first few weeks while students were still getting used to the college, the contest for positions on the Tally student government now being formed has now become one of the most important things on campus, with nominations coming up at the usual Tuesday assembly and the elections to be held Thursday.

A strong lead in organization is held by the conventional party, which stands for accurate representation of the student body. This party has already absorbed several other embryo organizations with similar aims, making it the strongest party to date. The candidates for the Tuesday nomination meeting are: John P Sullivan, president of the student body; Milton Flack, vice-president; Dean Wentworth, secretary; Dave Burns, treasurer; Jesse Wilson, social chairman.

Next in importance is the independent party, organized in opposition to the conventional party in order to prevent the danger of party rule, according to its chairman, Lemoyne Cash. The aims of this party include the item that this election be only for the formation of a provisional government to last to the end of the quarter, since the students have not yet had time to get to know each other, and at the end of the quarter the men will have had a chance to judge the office holders and learn which are good and which need to be replaced.

There are at present only a few other organizations, all of which have not reached the naming stage yet. They are formed only for the support of certain nominees for carried positions without a platform or an overall list of candidates.

The first indication of political activity at Dale Mabry was the appearance of a pamphlet on the Dale Mabry bulletin warning of a certain "Pensacola bloc" which, according to the pamphlet, had in mind the control of the student government. The pamphlet also stated that it was issued by the Student Union party, organized to combat the "Pensacola bloc."

Cause of the rumor about the "Pensacola bloc" was a meeting of Pensacola students in order to arrange for mutual transportation for those who wished to go home over the holidays and weekends, stated Dean Wentworth, who was present at the meeting. Pensacola students are now members or candidates of many opposing parties.

Third of the parties formed at present is the Student Union party, which authored the pamphlet warning against the "Pensacola bloc." Their candidate for president of the student body is Fred Boris.

These elections will be for a president, vice president, secretary, treasurer, and social chairman for the student body and other sets for the four classes. There are seven men in the senior class, only one more than the number of offices.

Artist Series To Present Noted Dancer

La Meri to Appear in Interpretive Selections Of Foreign Countries

Program Tickets Must Be Secured by Today

The first Artist Series performance for this year is scheduled for Friday and Saturday, October 25 and 26, when La Meri, exponent of exotic dances of the world, will appear in the auditorium at Florida State College.

Both red and blue tickets will be distributed this afternoon from 3:30 to 5:30 in the basement of the Longmire building. Tickets will also be available at the box office just before the performance. Men enrolled under the University of Florida Tallahassee branch are eligible to attend under the series.

La Meri, star of the first program, left the United States as a young girl to study dances in their native lands. Her instructors have included Farasoff and Volinine of the Cecchetti, Michio Ito and Uday Shan-kar, and Jose Ottero. She brought with her the native costumes, which she uses for her dances, from the countries in which she studied. Her collection also includes a variety of shoes from foreign countries.

La Meri has danced and created roles in Paris, Vienna, London, Berlin, Italy, and the Scandinavian countries. Other appearances have taken her to countries of the Far East and South America.

She is also recognized as a musician and writer. She is the author of two recent books: "The Dance as an Art-Form," and "Principles of the Dance-Art." As a violinist La Meri formerly played in the symphony orchestra in her hometown in Texas. Poems about the life of a Texas cowboy inspired her while she was studying literature at Columbia University in New York.

Initial Tryouts For Even Dem Today

Tryouts for all parts in Even demonstration are being held in Westcott auditorium tonight and tomorrow night from 7:30 until light flash. Georgia Jaeckel, chairman of the demonstration, urged all persons who think they could take either a speaking or singing part to come to the tryouts.

The demonstrations are the musical comedies presented each year for the purpose of introducing the Thanksgiving teams to the student body. The title and theme of the demonstrations are kept secret until the show.

Georgia says that even though the lists for persons to sign up for committees are down from the bulletin board it is still not too late to get on a committee. Those who are interested should contact the chairman of the committee they should like to be on, or send their name and preference to Nancy Harn, box 986, campus mail.

The various committee chairmen are: Connie Savage, financial manager; Anne Shull, Jeani Harris, and Dru Gnann (tumbling), dance chairmen; Jo Long and Dottie Smith, costumes; Evelyn Shea, stage manager, with Betty Kennedy, properties, Jane Bryson, construction, and Lois Narovec, decorations as sub-committees; Audrey Evans, tickets.

Judy Rhodes, programs; Betty La Bree, publicity with Dip Brown, posters, and Joyce Petty, Flambeau, as sub-committees. Madge [illegible] and Virginia Sewell, chorus; Louise Lake, ushers, Marcia Lei Vernon, lights; and Gloria Wells, make-up.

Juanita Krentzman, cast prompter, and Sara Lee Williams, line prompter. The chairmen of advertising and orchestral music are to be announced soon.

FSC Delegates to Attend Convention

Five delegates will represent Florida State College at the Associated Collegiate Press convention, to be held in Chicago Thursday, Friday and Saturday of next week. Those attending this meeting, which is the first such convention held since before the war, are: Shirley Rodgers, B J McLeod and Bee Dowd, Flambeau; May Alexander, Distaff, and Jean Shearer, Flastacowo.

Speakers at this convention will include Howard Blakeslee, Associated Press science editor and Pulitzer Prize winner; Dr William L Young, vice-president of the National Convention of Christians and Jews; and Kenneth Olson, dean of the Medill School of Journalism, Northwestern University. Delegates from colleges throughout the country will be present at these meetings, which are to be held at the Hotel Continental.

Freshman Program To Be Convocation

The annual freshman [illegible] program will be a part of convocation next Tuesday night. Mary Lou White, as freshman advisor and Betty Stewart, as chairman of the program committee, are in charge of the affair. The various acts will be incorporated in skit form.

Seniors to Be Told Investiture Line-up

The Senior class meeting will be Wednesday at 4:45 pm in the Longmire Auditorium, according to an announcement from Jean Cole, president.

Seniors will be informed where their positions are to be in the line up for investiture which is to be October 29 at 8 00 pm, and Dr Shores will talk on correct academic regalia. Also, Senior cheerleaders will be selected at the class meeting.

A list of sophomores will be posted on the bulletin board in lower Westcott for Seniors to sign up for their sophomore sisters.

Dr H L Waskom, professor of psychology, is the new senior sponsor

* * *

A drawing-room originally was called a withdrawing room, and meant a place to withdrew to.

CUT DOWN NICOTINE
Frank MEDICO FILTERED SMOKING
$2 EJECTS THE STUB
- Replaceable filter in new Frank Medico Cigarette Holders, filters the smoke.
- Cuts down nicotine.
- Cuts down irritating tars.
- In zephyrweight aluminum.
- Special styles for men and women.
- $2 with 10 filters, handy pouch and gift box.

S. M. FRANK & CO., INC., NEW YORK 22

Kesselring Comedy Coming Nov 6, 7, 8

Cast Selected for "Arsenic And Old Lace" Performance

The cast for "Arsenic and Old Lace" has been selected this week and the production will be presented November 6, 7 and 8 in the Augusta Conradi theater. The play, which is the first speech department production of the year, is under the direction of Miss Yvonne Cody, instructor in speech.

This Joseph Kesselring comedy is the humorous story of two elderly ladies, played by Elaine Parramore and Mary Ann Cannon, who poison a number of lonely old men in order to put them out of their misery. The romantic relief of the story will be provided by the ingenue leads, Dick Mitchell and Betty Cargill.

The entire cast for this play, which includes three women and eleven men, is as follows: Teddy, Herbert Sessions; Abby, Elaine Parramore; Martha, Mary Ann Cannon; Mortimer, Dick Mitchell; Dr Harper, Jack Richey; O'Hara, Paul Johnson; Klein, Benny Walker; Rooney, D L Middlebrooks; Brooky, David T Burns; Dibbs, J L Falds; Jonathan, Frank Lewis; Einstein, Johnny Folsom; Elaine, Bet Cargill; Witherspoon, Jack Richey. Nine of the eleven male parts in this production are being played by men enrolled in the University branch here.

* * *

Torch Night Will Be Held Next Thursday

Torch Night, the traditional occasion in which freshmen are officially initiated into the fellowship of the campus, will be held Thursday, October 24, on the Westcott balcony. Freshmen, dressed in white, will carry torches symbolizing the three torches of the school emblem.

Committee chairmen appointed at the meeting of Sophomore Council Monday night are: Margaret Swanson, vice-chairman in charge of Torch Night; Betty Nelson and Ann Knight, co-chairmen of publicity; Nancy Jones, properties committee; and Mary Calley, costume committee.

* * *

San Bernardino county, Calif, with an area of 20,175 square miles, is the largest county in the United States.

Seminole Staff Snaps Male Minority In Catastrophic Classroom Closeups

Hold that smile please!

If your Saturday morning class was rather interrupted by a crowd of boys with a camera, they were intent on finding a class in session with one boy to about 25 girls. You might have guessed that they were part of the University of Florida's annual staff . . . but then again, you might have been puzzled.

The Seminole staff decided that since the 'Tally' branch of the University had to pay student fees at the 'home office' they should have representative pictures in the annual. The staff also thought they would attempt to relieve the crowded conditions in Gainesville by increasing enrollment in the Tallahassee branch. Their method was novel, to say the least.

Pictures of classes with one or two boys and bevys of beautiful gals were first on the list. Miss Roberta Akerman and Mr Earl Vance proved most co-operative. But the one or two boys in each class seemed a little on the reticent side midst many blushes and "aw shaws."

Sunday the boys covered Dale Mabry with shots of the barracks, the "mess" hall and a picture (how apropos one never knows) of a telescope pointed ever so slyly toward the girls' campus. The excited "Ah-ha," when the telescope was raised to eye brought electrified attention from the group.

More shots typifying a Gainesville week end in Tallahassee brought the weekend to a close . . . but not without mentioning the good-bye scene taken on the front steps to the tune of a waning autumn moon.

Patron Saint of Campus Spanish House Tells of Early Interest in Languages

Dr D Lincoln Canfield, new head of the modern language department, leaned back in his chair and smiled. His tall frame was relaxed in the manner of an athlete between quarters.

"I first became interested in Spanish when I lived in Nogales, Arizona — Nogales, by the way, means walnut trees—before I was even in high school. I've been interested ever since, and my interest also extends to other languages," said Dr Canfield.

Dr Canfield speaks English, Spanish, French, "some" Italian, and a little German. One of his main interests in languages is the study of dialects, especially of the English language.

Born in the midwest, Dr Canfield spent most of his early life in the real West—Arizona, California and Texas. He received his bachelor degree from the University of Texas. He took his MA and his Ph D at Columbia University, where he also taught for a while.

One of his past occupations was taking groups of "lady schoolteachers" on tours of Mexico. Said Dr Canfield, "Every summer from 1826 to 1941 I made these tours. The last time we went by car along the Pan-American highway. It was very enjoyable."

Continuing, Dr Canfield stated, "I'm very interested in sports, too. For three years during the war, when I was teaching at Rochester University, I rode a bicycle. I had sold my car. The snow and ice were pretty bad, and I fell a number of times."

Among the sports in which he participated during and after his college years are baseball, track and pole vaulting. He is also interested in photography, and prefers heat to cold.

Dr Canfield plans to remain here. He has three children, two daughters and a son. His son is on the football squad at Leon High.

The "patron saint" of the newly established Spanish house on campus said, with a final gracious smile, "And I think Tallahassee is a nice place. We like it here."

Distaff Deadline Set At November First

Contributions may now be submitted for the fall issue of the Distaff deadline for which is November 1, May Alexander, editor, announced this week. Deadline for the Freshman Writing contest, also originally set for November 1, has been postponed until February 1.

All entries for this contest submitted before the deadline for this issue will, however, be considered for publication in the fall Distaff. The winners will be announced in the second issue, and all winning contributions not published this quarter will appear at that time.

Students Cheer As Cards Win Out

Yells, cheers, groans, and moans were audible throughout the lower floor of the Longmire Building Tuesday afternoon as tense students crowded around a portable radio listening to the final game of the World Series played between the St Louis Cardinals and the Boston Red Sox.

The static voice of the commentator continues against a steady din of screaming fans. Students crowd closer to the radio . . . one girl presses her ear against it . . . a boy nervously lights a cigarette from another only half smoked. It is the last of the eighth inning and the score is tied three to three. "Yippee! ! ! ! It's a run! The Cards have scored!" Pencils eagerly go into action to mark this new lead on score sheets avidly kept by the most intense listeners.

It's the beginning of the ninth. "A high fly down left field." "Atta boy, Doerr." The game goes on to its climactic end. The Cards have it, four to three! "Oh . . . oh, there goes ten bucks." "What do you mean? I just won twenty!"

* * *

Geography Club

The Geography Club will hold its first meeting on Wednesday, October 23, at 7:30 p m in the Longmire building, announced Nicky Sartoris, club president.

Immediately after the meeting a reception will be held at which time the guest speaker, Mr W J Jacobs, will be presented. Mr Jacobs is an authority on forestry and has been working with park organization.

Membership Open For Musical Season

Piano Team to Be Presented At Opening Performance

Seasonal membership tickets in the Tallahassee Civic Music Association, which opens its programs on October 29, are still available. College students and faculty who desire season tickets in TCMA, and who were not present during the last membership drive in April of this year, are eligible for membership. Adult and student membership dues are $6.00 and $3.00 respectively, including tax. Membership cards may be obtained from Miss Fae Thompson at the book store.

Miss Isabel McKinnell, chairman of the membership campaign of the TCMA, announced that no individual concert tickets will be sold. Admission will be by season ticket only.

Arthur Gold and Robert Fizdale, a piano duo, are the first performers. The complete schedule is: Robert Hall Collins, baritone, November 18; Benno Rabinof, February 25; the Cincinnati Symphony Orchestra with Eugene Goossens conducting, March 25. All concerts will be held at 8:15 at Leon High School.

* * *

Eleven Seniors Intern This Quarter

Eleven seniors of the School of Education began their internships September 23 in various schools throughout the state. These girls are to return here November 27 and remain until December 6, during which time they will conduct their seminars.

Those interning this quarter and subject or grade each instructs are: Ruth Bethea, grade 2, West Palm Beach; Mary R Cadman, grade 1, Marks Street School, Orlando; Eleanor C Chisholm, English, Avon Park High School, Avon Park; Alice C Crume, English, Deland High School, Deland; Sara Ellen Glenn, history, Leon High School, Gainesville; Frances Lyon, Spanish, Leon High School; Grace E Lindberg, physical education, Hollywood High School, Hollywood; Joe Nell Segree, English, Columbia County High School, Lake City; Alice Summitt, physical education, Leon High School, Betty Jean Thomasson social studies, Sarasota High School, Sarasota; and Ellen Louise Whitman, Spanish, Sarasota High School.

"It will be of general interest to the college public to know," said Dean R L Eyman, "that before a student internes, it is necessary for Coordinator Robert C Moon to hold conferences with the county superintendent, county supervisor, principal, and directing teacher under whom she will work." Mr Moon is at present holding such conferences in regard to the internees for next quarter, as well as visiting girls already interning.

* * *

Students Prefer DMF to Campus

"Just as with any new housing venture, there have been difficulties at the Dale Mabry housing unit," said Miss Edith McCollum, director of residence. "However," she continued, "our problems are being solved with welcomed results." Many girls who have been given the opportunity to move on campus from the field have begged to be allowed to continue living there. A few moves to campus have been made recently when rooms are available, but on the whole the majority of Florida State College students at DMF are quite happy over their place of residence.

To Err Is Human

We regret that an error was made in the registration figures quoted in last week's story on total enrollment. The figure for last year's registration was 2,444 students rather than the 2,844 that appeared in the story.

Reception Honors New FSC, Tally U Faculty and Staff

New members of the faculty and staff of Florida State College and the Tallahassee branch of the University of Florida were presented to the college, and the community last night by President and Mrs Doak Campbell.

The reception was held in the drawing rooms of the Rowena Longmire student-alumnae building, made colorful by arrangements of dahlias and chrysanthemums.

Receiving with President and Mrs Campbell were Governor and Mrs Caldwell, the Hon and Mrs Robert A Gray, the Hon and Mrs J Edwin Larson, the Hon Tom Watson, the Hon and Mrs Colin English, the Hon Clarence M Gay, Dr William T Edwards, Dr Otis McBride, Dr J Broward Culpepper, Dr Grace F Wilder, and Dr D L Canfield.

Assisting at the reception were members of the Legislature delegation: Mr Leroy Collins, with Mrs Collins; Mr Wilson Carraway, with Mrs Carraway; and Mr Payne Midyette, with Mrs Midyette.

Acting as floor hosts and hostesses for the occasion were members of the Chamber of Commerce College Relationship Committee and their wives: Mr and Mrs Charles Ausley, Mr and Mrs Frank Moor, Mr and Mrs Rainey Cawthon, Mr and Mrs James Messer, jr, Mr and Mrs Sidney Steyerman, Mr and Mrs Henry Wrenn, Mr and Mrs Velma Keen, Mr and Mrs George Lewis, Mr and Mrs Guyte McCord, Mr and Mrs Jack Simmons, Mr and Mrs S Teague

Also assisting were members of the College Executive Council, heads of departments, members of the faculty and staff, wives of professors, and student government officers.

Several hundred townspeople and friends of the College called during the evening to meet the honored guests.

* * *

Tea Held Saturday To Honor Students

Freshmen and transfer students in the School of Home Economics were entertained with a tea by the Home Economics Club in the Home Management House last Saturday from 3:30 to 5:30.

In the receiving line were: Esther Dale, president of the club; Mrs H M Glenn, residence director of the Home Management House; Miss Wright, club sponsor, Miss Agnes Brown, a new staff member; Mrs Joyce Windham, student manager of the house.

Guests numbering approximately 150 were escorted on a tour through the Home Management House by the girls living there this quarter. Senior home economics majors make their residence there for a quarter.

Members of the club council were hostesses throughout the afternoon, serving refreshments from the tea table decorated with autumn flowers.

Attention!

Mr W H May, postmaster, announced today that notices dropped in Campus Mail for free distribution will not be accepted unless enclosed in an envelope, or written on 3 x 5 [illegible] should have the name and box number of the student. Notices for general distribution must be signed by a responsible person and cleared with the proper administrative office.

Ex-Red Cross Worker Finds FSC's Coeducation Natural

"It seems natural to have boys around," said Miss Kemper Moore, who just returned to the speech department after three years of entertaining the armed forces overseas. "I'm very pleased to see these boys on our campus," she continued. "I believe they will contribute much to the advancement of the college."

Miss Moore was a club director in the Red Cross and entertained troops stationed in Australia, the Netherlands East Indies and various other places; the Philippines being her last assignment before returning to the United States, where she was an instructor in the Personnel Training section at the Red Cross headquarters in Washington, D C.

In Mareeba, Australia, home of the 19th Bomb Group, Miss Moore saw the base in its early and rough stages. Although she wasn't sent in until the worst danger was over, she experienced air raids and saw Jap planes flying overhead.

She was later sent to Southport, Australia, for 15 months where she was a club director for the officers' rest area which consisted of three hotels located on the beach. The men would come to these rest areas on leave after combat in the Mariannas, the Carolinas and other nearby fronts to relax and enjoy the recreation the Red Cross planned for them, such as beach bathing, games, parties, fishing trips, sight seeing trips.

From Southport Miss Moore was assigned to a submarine base at Perth, Australia. The submarine crews, battle weary, would come to the rest area and since that it was almost like going back home. The Red Cross would try to have the men's favorite food and special things that they enjoyed, trying in every way to give each thing a home touch. One submarine crew liked it so well that they came back on four different leaves.

"A most horrible sight—a city completely devastated — which can't be described in words but leaves a sense of depression after gazing upon such ruin," expressed Miss Moore describing Manila as she moved in a few weeks before it was declared out of combat area.

While in the Philippines Miss Moore was stationed near General Headquarters and was in position to meet many high ranking officers and war heroes. She had the privilege of meeting General MacArthur of whom she said "did a magnificent job and is even more handsome than his pictures."

She also met Commander Buckley, PT boat squadron leader and the hero written about in the book They were Expendable, and who was portrayed in the picture of the same name by Robert Montgomery. Miss Moore said that Commander Buckley "was a charming man who did a job well." She stated that heroes in general are mostly modest about their heroic deeds.

"Fellows who do good jobs overseas are the ones who do good jobs back home," said Miss Moore summing up her opinion by using the words of Dr James Borland of Jacksonville, who was also overseas.

On returning to FSC to continue as an instructor in the speech department, Miss Moore stated "FSC has changed in many ways but it seems wonderful to be back again and to see so much progress."

"While working with the armed forces I learned a lot about teaching," declared Miss Moore. "There aren't too many differences in the directing of the service men and that of directing the college girls, but the armed forces have developed a streamlined way of teaching."

Seymour Talks

Continued from page one

government of China is subject still to direction of its domestic and foreign policies by other nations, the government in power has become military dictatorship under Chiang Kai-Shek, and the people are impoverished by war and inflation.

Dr Seymour lived many years in China, and served as advisor to the Chinese minister of education.

"From 1921 until 1927," he said, "the conservative party and the agrarian socialists worked in cooperation. Now the nationalist party is somewhat in the position of the Japanese when they had control of China, for they hold all principle cities, railroads, and rivers and are supported by the aristocracy, whereas eighty percent of the Chinese people, living in rural sections, are burdened with debt, hounded by usurers, and are unable to secure any real representation."

In the northern parts of China, he continued, where the socialist party has been effective, the socialists have lowered rents, formed schools, and organized cooperatives. The farmer, instead of being forced to pay an average of taxes on sixty per cent of his earnings, now only pays five per cent.

Civil war in China is aggravated by the United States because the American government furnishes supplies to the army of Chiang Kai-Shek by American ships, and American marines are actively combatting communist forces in Manchuria.

Numerous Chinese leaders have protested against this situation. Among these is Madame Sun Yat-Sen, who maintain that the majority of the people suffer under nationalist rule, and that only through the assistance of foreign business interests can the conservative government stay in power.

"The Chinese," concluded Dr Seymour, "are desperately in need of domestic reorganization, but present military influences do not favor such a change. The government of the United States has pledged itself to a policy that supports this situation."

College Dairy

Continued from page one

to cover the vast 1,000 acres under their jurisdiction.

The center of attraction at the dairy is the milking barn with the floors kept in spic and span condition. Electrically charged wire screens greatly cut down the presence of flies in the barn. When milking time comes, the 115 cows who are milked daily are driven through a wading pool and "shower" cleansing the portions of the animals' bodies touched by the automatic milkers. The barn can provide for 30 cows at one time and approximately two hours will find all of the bossies on the way back to the pasturelands.

As is the situation all over the nation the cattle-feed outlook is none too bright. The cost of feed is fifty per cent higher than it was two years ago. However, the dairy has two large 100-ton capacity feed silos to store the grain as it comes in.

If any of the students are curious as to the fate of the table scraps of the college dining hall they may ease their minds as the recipients of the tid-bits are 200 hogs being raised on the college farm. Incidentally the porkers are fed the scraps on concrete floors. This, however, does not improve their table manners as they retain the habits of their ancestors in consuming the scraps.

Besides the hogs and cattle, two mules are kept on the dairy to meet the needs of various odd jobs that cannot be handled immediately by the machines.

* * *

Cut System

Continued from page one

sence, and the difficulty of obtaining permission on short notice. They also pointed out that since Gainesville had found no necessity to limit cuts in this manner, even when the majority of the students were just graduated from high school, it should be even more unnecessary to regulate students was the severity of students who were predominately veterans.

A list of those men affected by the new rule has been posted on the bulletin board at Dale Mabry and in Westcott Hall on the campus.

FEMALE HELP WANTED
Student to Handle The News-Democrat on campus and in girls' dormitories.
Apply by phone or in person to CIRCULATION DEPT.
The News-Democrat

LANIER TRAVEL SERVICE
Mrs. Harry Van Brunt, Mgr.
Room 2, Lewis State Bank Bldg.
PHONE 1240
CONDUCTED TOURS
For Further Information Call or See Us
(no charge)
AIR — STEAMSHIP — BUS — RAIL

Welcome F.S.C.W. Students
IT'S EASY TO FLY!
SEE OUR FLEET OF BEAUTIFUL NEW AERONCAS
● ●
Do You Want a Pilot's License?
We Offer: Students, Private, Commercial, Instructor, and Instrument Courses.
Courses Offered Under G.I. Bill
● ●
Our School Is Approved by:
- F.S.C.W.
- STATE DEPT. OF EDUCATION
- CIVIL AERONAUTICS AUTHORITY
- VETERAN'S ADMINISTRATION

● ●
Wheeler Flying Service
Call 2570 Dale Mabry Field

Everybody Does It! - - - What?
Goes to The MECCA
of Course
FOUNTAIN SERVICE and SANDWICHES OF ALL KINDS
A LA CARTES
Chicken, Oysters and Shrimp
"IN THE BOX"
REGULAR MEALS 60c
111 S. Copeland Mrs. M. Sharkey, Prop.

FOR CAMPUS TOGS THAT ARE SNAPPY - COLORFUL - WARM - SERVICEABLE
"McGREGOR" SPORTSWEAR
Featured At ALFORD brothers incorporated
men's wear

ON THESE PLATFORMS WE STAND . . . .

These are the platforms of e candidates for the student onstitution Committee grouped ccording to classes. Ballots will e distributed in the dormitories onday. Don't forget to vote!

Senior Candidates

As a candidate for the forth- ming constitutional committee ection I have no particular pol- to offer. Rather it is my be- that our College Government sociation is in need of a new nstitution, and, for one that re fully meets the needs of the dent body and will serve both dents and faculty to their best antage. I shall work.

Martha Abbott.

* * *

As s candidate for membership the Constitutional Committee eek a liberalization of the laws d by-lawe of the CGA constiion as well as general, and I l, e very necessary overhauling e document. It should include h provisions as. leaving to e discretion of the student body. d only to this body, whom they all elect as their officers; the ht of the student body to pe- loo the Faculty Committee on dent affaire; restriction of candidate tc run for an of- e unopposed: acceptance of any ice only by securing a majority votes cast. It cannot be stress- enough to say that restrictions d responsibilities of authority students and to the administion should be clarified in the al drafting of this constitution.

Betty (Bee) Dowd.

* * *

, Roberta Friedkin, am a candete for the Committee on Con- tutional revision because I am nfident that such a group of udents will be able to achieve more functional constitution for r school. As a member of the d committee I would keep the elfare of the student body in nd always and in this light nsider each arising question objectively, thus proposing and help- g to steer such changes as would ad to a constitution that will e us a greater share in our llege government, thus giving s more effective college life.

Roberta Friedkin.

* * *

In the revision of the constition I would most like to see me part of it devoted to a law ch would insure against the ising of any situation compar- le to the pre-election dilemma at created so unpleasant an at- osphere between students and culty last spring. It is my be- ef that students and faculty ould and could work out a more asible set of regulations to live to the mutual satisfaction of oth

Certain sections in Article V. ncerning the Judicial Department, need reconstruction, revis- n and some deletion. This ould be done with an attitude eflecting more modern ideas con- erning the treatment of the err- ng

I think most definitely that if les are made that will make r the happiness and success of e most people, little difficulty keeping them will be experi- nced. Violators of the rules hould be interviewed in a friendly anner in the hope of helping nd correcting rather than pun- shing and perverting the atti- de of the erring student.

June Grindstaff.

* * *

I would like to serve on the mmittee for the revision of the nstitution because I am inter- ted in seeing a more liberal rm of government come to this campus. I am particularly interested in a revision of the section which concerns the duties of officers, because I believe that there should be a much greater division of responsibility and duties among the student body.

I would also like to see an improvement in the method of Sophomore Council in selection that would give those persons having the closest contact with the freshman class a larger voice in the choice. I would also work for the improvement of procedure for election of campus officers, and, in general, I would attempt to secure a more responsible position for the student body in all matters pertaining to their college government.

Marion Looby.

* * *

Our present constitution is too long, over-written, and full of ambiguities. It is badly in need of revision, and representatives of the group who lives under the document are those who should write it. I would like to work on this committee as more or less general flunky with a finger in all the pies.

My special interest is seeing that the document turned out by this committee would contain clear, eimple, concise statements that cannot be twisted around to mean whatever the situation demands. We should be able to read the constitution and know what we have!

B J McLeod.

* * *

As a candidate for the constitutional committee my platform can only be as follows: I am intensely interested in seeing that steps be taken toward insuring forthcoming student government on this campus. It is my desire to see that we live under a constitution that is liberal as well as intelligent, adequate in its provisions for unforseen crises, and capable of exact interpretation by the student body.

I am well aware of the task which is before the students of this college and hereby submit my plea to be of help in reaching the goal which we are all seeking.

Juanita Nord.

* * *

It is common knowledge that our existing constitution of CGA direly needs revision. It is confusing in wording and some places extremely ambiguous. In general the changes for improvement of the constitution I think desirable, aside from better wording, stem from the two principles stated below.

1. The powers of government should reside in the student body with specific powers delegated to administrative, executive, legislative, and judiciary departments. (This of course pertains only to matters of government and not to academic matters).

2. There should be a division of powers to eliminate the gross overlapping of the various departments of government.

Mary Lou Norwood.

* * *

I wish to work toward a greater clarification of and division in the legislative, executive and judicial branches of the College Government Association because I believe that there is mnch overlapping and confusion of responsibility at present. In this connection I am particularly interested in a revision of the duties required of major officers who are now burdened with responsibilities ether than those that pertain directly to the positions for which they are elected. Finally, I shall try to help obtain for the student body a larger measure of self government and final responsibility in all matters not applying to the academic field because I believe that only in this way can we learn to accept the duties of citizenship that we shall meet after college life.

Betty Schwartz.

* * *

I have no set platform to give as a candidate for the Constitutional Committee other than my interest in the constitution. I believe that there are many changes which must be made to bring our constitution into line with the changes in the school. The only thing I can promise is hard work.

Barbara Wickham.

* * *

I should like to submit my statement of interest in the Constitution Committee for the study, revision, clarification, and ultimate amendment of the Constitution of the College Government Association. I would like to have the opportunity to help in shaping a new framework of government for the student body with a greater division of power in the executive branch, and a change in the membership of etudent Senate, excluding those who are not elected by the student body as a whole.

Anne McDonald

* * *

Article II of the Constitution of Florida State College for Women states among other things that the purpose of the College Government Association shall be "to increase the sense of individual responsibility" of the student. I believe that the present Constitution does not allow a proper amount of freedom to the students to develop, much less increase, a "sense of individual responsibility . . .". If elected to serve as a member of the Committee for amending the present Constitution, I shall endeavor to increase the freedom of students on this campus by working for greater powers to be granted the student officers of the Association.

Gloria Reed

* * *

I have felt since I have been on this campus that the power to do things lies too much in the hands of too few. This could be partly obliterated by membership on Senate being purely by vote from their classes. This gives more chances for expression to the students, and takes away a responsibility that an already busy office holder is holding.

Mary Nell Goldman

* * *

As a member of the Constitution Committee, I would endeavor to carry out student desires as nearly as is humanly possible. Great clarification and simplification is needed as regards our present constitution so that overlapping of powers may be avoided, interpretation may be clearly understood by all, and such things as last year's election fiasco avoided.

My interest lies in more student government which, in turn, would call for the vesting of greater responsibility in the student body.

Shirley Rodgers.

* * *

My only platform for the Constitution Committee is that of interest—in its function and its purpose. With no startling reforms to offer you at this moment, I can only say how much I'd like to see a greater student understanding of and participation in our College Government Association.

Nancy MacEdwards.

Junior Candidates

If I am selected as a junior representative to the Constitutional Committee, I shall work for a truly etudent government, restricted in scope only by clearly defined limitations (such as those pertaining to the control of diseases, academic matters, etc) which are obviously beyond student jurisdiction. This would eliminate the present concentration of power involved in allowing student officers two votes on all legislation, one in senate and another in closed session of college council, by making final all measures passed by Student Senate.

Moreover, I believe that our student body should be clearly empowered with the rights of petition, referendum, and recall. I also believe that all standing committees, now responsible to College Council, including the group which controls Student Activity funds, should be composed entirely of students and that those regular committee appointments now made by e CGA officer should require the approval of two-thirds of student Senate.

Laura Lee Butler.

* * *

In general, my policy in regards to the constitution is for more student responsibility together with closer harmony between students and faculty.

In particular, I would like to see all members of Student Senate elected, and not there by virtue of holding some other office. I would favor amendments epecifying what would make a student candidate eligible to run, requiring a majority vote to make an election valid, and prohibiting single candidates to run for office.

A simplification and definition of the terms employed in the constitution seems to me also necessary to avoid misunderstanding by students and faculty. The powers of the different branches have become interlocking in some cases, and I would favor a separation of those powers.

Barbara Beckman.

* * *

I wish to work on the new constitution, I have felt for some time that there are many changes that should be made. It seems to me more power should be in the student hands. I realise that faculty and staff opinion is very important as they have years of experience to their credit which is most necessary. We are no longer children when we come to college though oftentimes we act as adolescents. It is my opinion that if the constitution were so worded that it could mean only one thing and not many from wide interpretation it would be a great accomplishment.

Lillian Baker.

* * *

There are three changes I should especially like to see made in our present constitution. First of all, I hope our amendment concerning the eligibility of candidates will be incorporated into the constitution. I also think we should amend the section on elections to provide that a majority of the students must vote to make an election valid. My third hope is for a provision to prevent unopposed candidates. I do not believe any girl should be elected to an office by virtue of being the only one running for it.

In general, my policy is for more student responsibility and the elimination of all ambiguities.

Mary Charles Skipper.

* * *

Why do I, June Chyna, want to be a part of the Constitutional Committee? Being a junior with a memory that does date back farther than yesterday, I think our Constitution needs a general "overhauling". Our school has increased one third in number, not to mention the expansion in our ideas. Our present Constitution, in my opinion, has not grown along with the etudents' ideas and needs. Every constitution, that has ever been drawn up has at sometime been amended. I would consider it an honor to be given the opportunity to be a part of such a committee and would put forth every effort to make our constitution meet the demands and needs of today's students.

June Chyna

* * *

The opportunity to help revise the constitution of this school is an honor. It means severe criticism and discussion. It means awareness of the conditions on campus today.

The provisions as set up by Senate for the etudent body's participation in this work is but the first step. After ballots are cast, the elected group is free to begin work together.

I cannot state specific changes one, two, and which should be made in rewriting the constitution. Such decisions rest not with the individual so much as with the group. I would like to see any changes that are made evolve from the working and etudying of these elected girls as a whole.

Through the close cooperation of an interested group in a vital job, almost anything can be accomplished.

Mary Jane Sherman

* * *

I am interested in working on the Student Constitution Committee as an opportunity for the expression of student opinion through legal channels. I am especially interested in working on the formation and duties of House Council. I believe that the constitution should have a revised statement of the purpose of College Government. Removing the ambiguities in the constitution is one of the most important tasks of the committee, I think. It seems like a bill of rights in our constitution.

Betty Bolles

* * *

Critical analysis—such are two words which describe the action which our Constitutional Committee should and must follow. Critical analysis which will equal necessary and only necessary corrections in our governing mechanisms. If, and only if, such a procedure is followed will we gain the type of constitution that we, the students; that they, the faculty, desire. A constitution which will eliminate overlapping of duties in student offices; which will clearly designate student and faculty responsibilities. This elimination and designation would indeed increase the efficiency of all activities of our college government. Through this reorganization for efficiency further understanding and co-operation should be derived, consequently, a more flexible college government would be possible. I sincerely hope that I may have the opportunity to act as an agent for the students in instigating this policy.

Grace Hays

* * *

Last spring when our constitution seemed to fail us and so shocked our deepest concept of democracy, many students clamored for purely student government. However, I believe in college government, but with a greater emphasis upon students and faculty equally sharing the authority and responsibility of the government.

Basically our share of authority is written into the constitution, but because of certain repetitious faculty controls and through usage this faculty authority has become preponderant over student authority in the participation in College Government. I believe that these problems can be solved by the findings and work of the Constitutional Committee, in which I am very interested and for which I am most willing to work.

Marshall Vernon.

* * *

If I am elected a representative to the committee, I shall endeavor to bring about more separation of power and eliminate the ex-officio members of euch organizations as Senate. (Ex-officio meaning those who are legal members of Senate by being elected to another office.)

I would like very much to have a revision of Article X concerning sophomore council.

Joyce Petty.

* * *

If I am elected to serve as a member of the Student Constitutional Committee, I shall make every effort to see to it that the student body be granted more power to determine its own future. I believe that the college anthorities should specify precisely what powers reside with the students at present.

I believe, also, that before legislation which majority of Student Senate might deem to be of vital importance to the student body, a poll should be conducted and that a two-thirds vote of student approval be required for the passage of such legislation.

If I am elected to serve as a member of the committee, I shall use my vote to carry out, in as far as it is posible, the wishes of the student body a a whole.

Alicia Armstrong.

* * *

If I am elected as a representative to the Constitution Committee I shall etand for:

1. More separation of powers in the sense that more persons will accept the responsibility of CGA.

2. Generally, a liberal form of student government.

3. An effective organizations committee set-up so that activities and organizations may be better regulated.

Georgia M Jaeckel.

* * *

A new constitution—what a job! I know,—I worked on the new constitution at Brevard Junior College last year, and as president of the student body and council there, I was the intermediary for the council and the student body, and believe me, that is a job!

As you have gathered from the above paragraph, I am a transfer student. I have been interested in the constitution campaign that you are now having and the campaign has given me the incentive to write this statement.

Making a new constitution for a small school like Brevard was an experience on all sides, and I know how many times you have to revise after the "rough draft" is drawn up.

Florida State College will have its best constitution drawn up this year and I would like to participate in some small way, with you, in making it so.

Jennie Elder.

Editor'e Notes Jennie'e name will not appear on the ballots Monday because her statement was turned in after the deadline. However, any etudents who wish to write in her name may do so.

* * *

I, Mary Jo Whidden, submit my candidacy for the Constitution Committee of Senate and the student body because of sincere interest in and concern over the seemingly unwieldy document called the constitution of College Government Association. Liberal interpretation is nine points of the law no matter how clear and encompassing a constitution is, but we seem to be stymied before ever reaching this phase because of ambiguous statements as to the powers and limits of student and faculty executives and representatives. I advocate among other things, clarification of powers, duties, and relationship of one subject to another, without becoming wordy, so that uncertainty of legality of action will be abolished and loopholes avoided through which student and senate action may be handicapped and retarded, not only in times of stress, but in normal times also. I advocate student government insofar as possible. I advocate the right of initiative, the power of recall, and more final power in Senate.

Mary Jo Whidden.

* * *

Although I haven't spent all summer avidly studying the constitution and its problems, I have thought of it often and I am still vitally interested in eliminating its loopholes, bringing it up to date, and otherwise adjusting it to meet with the approval of the majority of the student body which it governs.

Doris DuBois.

* * *

I believe that as time goes by changes are brought about in our college society. As the society changes the laws and ideals under which the society exists must also undergo some changes. We are now at the point where some drastic changes must be made. Our constitution, as it now etands, might well serve a college society of some years ago. In the past summer enough changes have been made to advocate a revision of our entire constitution. This revision should come from the student body for whom the code exists. In view of this I should like to submit application to work on the Senate Constitution Committee.

Charlotte Bouland.

* * *

All I can say is that I'm genuinely interested in the Constitution Committee and would definitely like to work with the committee. It is a vital issue, and will take serious consideration. I am willing to give the time and work required to do a really good job

Betty Bolles.

* * *

I am very interested in seeing a careful study of the constitution result in a revision clarifying many of the statements which cause confusion and misunderstanding as was the case in last spring's college election.

I would like to eliminate the word "withdrawal" from Article V, Section 4. as I believe that no matter how severe a violation has been committed, sending a student home in disgrace is admitting failure of our counseling program as well as being detrimental to the student.

In our type of government understanding between etudents and faculty is essential, and any etatements which hinder full co-operation should be eliminated or reworded to avoid ambiguity.

Bruce Flanders.

* * *

Feeling the great need of modification in our constitution I would like to represent the etudents by serving on the Constitution Committee. Since it is our privilege to make our social regulations I feel that we can make these rules to benefit the majority of the etudent body. If these etandards and rules represent the desires and ideals of our student government today, our responsibility to uphold them will be a part of us.

Believing in the democratio way of life, I wish to strive to have freedom in elections, social regulations, and residence rules insofar as you as a group will it within the limits of our code of honor. Certain of our etandards need some strengthening in character and others need modification for clearness and effectiveness.

Understanding the trend of the present time, I shall work for any change that will promote growth in character and power.

Emily Herold.

* * *

My interest in the general revision of our constitution is the platform I present as a candidate for the committee. I advocate separation of governmental responsibilitiee and offices. There should be no "rider" offices in addition to the one to which someone is elected. I think simplification, liberality and change of our document is in line with the growth of our school.

Bettie Basemore.

Sophomore Candidates

Recently, more than ever before, changing conditions have been evidenced on our campus. Some have been in keeping with the policy of Florida State College, while others have been altogether revolutionary. In order to make for social adjustment, and so that we

Continued on page four

ATTENTION SPORTSMEN!
We Carry a Complete Line of Rods and Reels, and Other Fishing Equipment

Seek it First at
YON'S
HARDWARE

Time out for Coke
DRINK
Coca-Cola
5¢
BOTTLED UNDER AUTHORITY OF THE COCA-COLA COMPANY BY TALLAHASSEE COCA-COLA BOTTLING COMPANY

Layton's
Men's Wear

114½ E. College Ave. Phone 2784-W

Welcomes

THE UNIVERSITY OF
FLORIDA CO-EDS

YOU'LL MAKE A SURE HIT
ON CAMPUS IN

Layton's
Style Distinguished
Clothes

OUTSIDE ALTERATIONS MADE

SPIRIT OF THE WEEK

Spirit of the week!!
Red Cross
Sign Here!!
'dip'
Let's all get together and Work!!

● ALERTED

Annually a chance is offered to the students of Florida State College to take an active part in the functioning of the college branch of the Red Cross. This next week a booth is to be opened by this organization where all may sign up for the various committees—disaster relief, volunteer work, first aid and accident prevention, life saving and water safety, public information, junior Red Cross, and nutrition—in which he or she might have some particular interest.

It should not be taken for granted by the students that they are going out of their way to give their time and effort to such an activity, but, rather, they should see that in the information and training which they will receive, both parties will benefit equally. These committees have been planned to fit many different phases of work and interests that the student might have. It is especially stressed that this training will be useful not only for the life here on campus but also for post-college days in which basic, practical knowledge of this type is always an asset in the home and in the community.

It is a sad predicament when a statement comes from such a worthy organization as this saying that there is a desperate need for workers; that editorials and news stories need to play up interest in this sort of work. It should be taken for granted by each individual that he or she would give their time, not reticently, but gladly, to aid in the furtherance of any such endeavor.

Such interest and service is the duty of every citizen of any community, whether college, city, state or nation.

● WITH A GRAIN OF SALT

It's beginning to look like the people of Europe are not the only ones to be seriously affected by the general food shortage. Florida State College is beginning to feel the weighty hand along with the others. We refer to the Sunday night suppers in the dining hall.

Heretofore, Sunday night meals have been served in a picnic style and have not been regularly planned meals. This we could accept—but dry saltines with milk and one apple. It is too much!

We appeal to you, Miss Tracy. Can't we have something to go on the crackers?

● THE CALL TO ARMS

With the present international situation at such a height of interest and with Russia, England, and the United States grappling with high strung words of supposed wisdom, it appears more than likely that the contemporary American college Joe and Jane should face the matter and dig deep in order to create for themselves a true knowledge of the current crisis.

Only by thorough study and research will the college student be able to competently discuss such important matters as: the U S policy toward Russia, the removing of American troops from China, allowing Jews to immigrate to the US, and Henry Wallace's stand on foreign and domestic policy.

Students, as well as adults, are too emotional. One glance at a current newspaper and Joe College is ready to go right out and shoot Premier Stalin personally. Opinion is likewise stirred up over the policy of Henry Wallace. Instead of this, why can't Joe C tie a rope around his emotions and think the issue out?

Objective reasoning and self thought are the basic ammunition which should be common to the American student. Objective study of any problem is necessary to present not only both but all sides to controversies. The individual himself will have to administer the thinking processes which determine the position he will take in any given matter. Objectiveness is, therefore, a substitute for emotional flurries. A challenge, therefore, is presented to the students of FSC to begin thinking in a more liberal, objective manner, or even to "begin thinking."

On These Platforms We Stand. . .

Continued from page three

may advance with the times, there is a need for changes in our governing rules and legislation. We need to bring about whatever revisions in our constitution that serve the well being of the student body as it is caught in growth and advancement. I would not say that the entire constitution be abolished and a new one adopted, for the present one possesses much wisdom and foresight. Rather, I would say that it needs to be brought up to date, modified article by article, according to the needs, desires and welfare of the majority of those concerned, and in keeping with the high standards of our alma mater.

Linda Herold.

• • •

As candidate for membership on the Constitution Committee, I should like to inform you of the ideas which I hold regarding the constitution. In my opinion the student body has in this committee a great opportunity to call for those provisions and amendments which it deems beneficial to the students. Because I am a sophomore, I am interested in what kind of constitution our government will have for the next two years. If it is my opportunity to do so I intend to take my stand and make our constitution one that meets the general approval of the students and their needs for a democratic government. There is one particular article which I think needs careful consideration and then definite action That issue concerns the eligibility of candidates and provisions for elections. I pledge to work democratically and honestly to the best of my convictions.

S Joyce Williams.

• • •

Our college has grown physically as well as in capacity for responsibilities in these past years. Therefore, since our constitution has ceased to fit all our needs and desires we must examine it section by section in order that we may find that which must be changed, expanded, or discarded in order to keep our college government an instrument which will serve the best interests of the students, faculty and administration.

In order that this might be done, the students must choose carefully those who will most capably represent them on a committee which will be the student's voice in this matter.

It would be impossible to enumerate all the corrections and changes which we feel necessary, but this one thing I pledge, and it is that I sincerely wish, along with the student body, to do my utmost in any capacity to make our college government a stronger, more efficient institution which will enable our college to continue in its tradition of being one of the finest in the United States.

Virginia Swicard.

• • •

During the spring quarter of last year the constitution was brought to our minds more than ever before. We began to realize that there are corrections and additions which could improve conditions on campus. Now, while this is still fresh in our minds, is the time to get to work and make the necessary changes. I would like to be one of the committee to work on our new constitution this year. I believe that with the large committee which is being planned, we will be able to get a variety of opinions representative of the student body. We want the new constitution to be the best, and we want it to be drawn up to the satisfaction of everyone.

Betty Dixon.

• • •

This is a changing era! Our campus life is deviating each day in some minute way. And as we have seen happen in other institutions, we must not allow our social life and activities to lag behind and become stagnant. It is up to us to keep our constitution up-to-date and practical. We must not wait until tomorrow, for we are living our lives on the campus today.

I, as a member of C G A would be proud of an opportunity to serve on the Constitution Committee, I feel that is a great honor to be able to revise our by-laws and thus, I would be more than willing to devote two hours a week in such a capacity. Since I was a freshman senator last year, I am familiar with our constitution and very much interested in seeing a successful revision take place

"Kacey" (Katherine) Cooper.

• • •

Last year we will all remember that we had quite an exciting time at the end of the last quarter.

Then, many students wanted to help in solving our difficulties. Now, we have a chance to help in revising our constitution.

We realize that much has already been done in this field in this past year. We can just glance at the "Gold Book" and see the many changes.

I realize that I am a cog in the great chain of our college, but I am willing to give of my time and of my strength to make our college constitution a better one.

I would like to be on this committee because as a member of the student group I can bring to the committee the idea and the ideals of my fellow students.

Martha McCormack.

• • •

Adult life and its responsibilities are out one step beyond the college gate. Secondary school and home training over, college is the last reservoir of formal education which is to prepare us for clear thinking, good judgment and responsibilities in a complete life of our own. This truth, and the old saying, "Experience is the best teacher," make it imperative that we begin to live as adults now. Our constitution is the means by which we can effect this orientation. I hope that this primary purpose will be evident throughout our new constitution.

Clarification and brevity, careful deleting of all ambiguity by clearly stipulated common denotations and connotations of rules and laws in as few words as possible are other main needs of a streamlined and understandable constitution.

It is my hope that I may work with and for the student body for this streamlined constitution for an adult Florida State College.

Pat Small.

• • •

It is my opinion that the final authority in determining the eligibility of candidates should rest with the nominating committee rather than the Dean of Students. I believe it necessary to check the grades, health and point load of the prospective candidates, but I maintain that the members of the nominating committee, by careful evaluation of each petition for office, are capable of making good judgments in determining eligibility. Any information about a candidate which the Dean of Students can offer should be considered, but the final decision should rest with the students through their representatives on the nominating committee.

I also suggest a thorough study of the rest of the constitution to eliminate unnecessary and ambiguous articles.

Terry Johnson.

• • •

Last year I think that all the students of Florida State College came to realize that there was a definite need for a constitution to replace our present out-moded one. Many of that "all" seem to have let a summer's repose make them forget that need. But the necessity is still as great as ever and now that the opportunity to re-do the constitution has arrived persons vitally interested in the job to be done must be chosen for Constitutional Committee.

Because I am so interested in the constitution and the changes that will be made I would like to work on the committee. I feel that from the work of this group will come a "bigger and better" constitution for FSC.

Jane Hardacre

• • •

We cannot afford misinterpretations of our constitution. We must substitute clear terms for vague clauses. Instead of making rules to cover an indefinite statement, I think we should clarify the original source. For example, in Article VII exactly what is included in the power of the College Council to review all legislative proposals, or the power of the Faculty Committee on Student Affairs under Article VIII to review all important Judiciary decisions? Also, I think the college body would like to have stated how long a teacher serves on this Faculty Committee. We need to clarify Section 4 of Article XIII on nominations and elections. Will a candidate's qualifications be determined other than by a vote from the student body and exactly what are all the eligibility requirements and nomination procedures? We need a strong basis for future decisions on these subjects. We need a constitution without loopholes.

Margie Berns.

• • •

I firmly believe that if we can elect a group of students for this committee who will do some clear, sensible thinking, making their own decisions of what they think will be advantageous to everyone—not just a favorite group—that we can revise the constitution in such a way as to suit everyone, as nearly as possible. The group would be made up of people considering all different sides of a question, and with unbiased thinking and common sense we could bring about the changes desired, to the advantage of the student and the college as a whole.

Bertie Loftus

• • •

We, the students of Florida State College, are beginning to realize our opportunities and responsibilities in regard to college government. We are finding that in order to have more privileges we must be willing to take greater responsibilities. We are now ready to accept these.

Our present constitution was written years ago to meet the needs of the students and faculty at that time. When it no longer meets the needs of the group it should be revised. Thus, if a competent constitution revision committee plus all others interested will do some clear thinking along these lines, we should obtain a satisfactory and workable constitution for all.

I believe that the only way to reach this goal will be (1) through cooperation with the faculty, (2) by keeping the interests of the majority before us at all times.

We are ready to work without prejudices for the good of FSC.

Margery Mallard.

• • •

I would like to serve on this committee in order to investigate and help to solve the problems which we the student body have, but to retain the honor system along with the policy that we agree on. I feel that this is an opportune way to serve the students on the campus, and I pray that God's will be done

Mary Philpot

• • •

We are both very interested in the constitution and the Constitution Committee. We will appreciate it very much if you will consider us as candidates.

We will do everything in our power to help to revise the old constitution so that we will have the best constitution possible.

Ruth Adams
Frances Bosenquet

• • •

Florida State College passed through a critical period in its history last year. It was realized by everyone at that time how necessary it was to rewrite the constitution of the college for there was entirely too much disagreement over it and matters pertaining to it. The startling changes which came about at FSC this year make it even more necessary to bring our constitution up to date. It is for these various reasons I would like to be a member of this Constitutional Committee. Although I have had no actual experience in dealing with the constitution, I am very interested in the rewriting of it, for I would like to have a part in bringing about the changes to FSC which are necessary.

Margaret Swanson

• • •

I am interested in serving on the Constitution Committee because I am interested in the students on this campus and I would like to help in solving some of our problems. I believe that out of the work of this committee will grow a constitution which will meet our needs as exactly and simply as possible and I believe that we may do all these things in a spirit of Christian love and tolerance.

Shirley Hargraves

• • •

Last year we decided to change our constitution. This year we are going to change it. It will be a difficult task, requiring much time and thought, for we all understand that there is more to be done than erase a word here and there or add to the constitution as we choose. I believe that the Constitution Steering Committee will work diligently to improve our constitution in accordance with the desires and needs of the majority of students. If elected I, for one, will do my very best to help make our constitution one that we can be proud of.

Sylvia Turner

• • •

As a member of the student body, I am very interested in any changes to be made in our college constitution. I have been among those students who have complained that our constitution needs changes, therefore, I believe that I should do my best to help to bring about the changes necessary. I shall not state any definite changes that I want because I want to hear the discussions of all questions from all points of view by the Constitutional Committee before making any definite decisions.

Arsenia Rodriguiz

• • •

I am, like most girls here, very concerned over the welfare of my school and my fellow students. This chance to modernize our constitution is what we've been waiting for a long time. It's too good an opportunity to let get away. I would feel very honored to be given a chance to work on the committee.

Charlotte Snyder

• • •

The main point of my platform is the immediate carrying through of constitution changes which were started last year during the election rumpus. It seems to me that these changes have been just hanging in the air for too long now Then, too, a lot of good thought is going to have to be given to additional, necessary changes. I would like very much to serve on this Constitutional Steering Committee as a representative of the sophomore class.

Margaret Graydan

In This Our Time

By MARGIE CLARK

NATIONAL AFFAIRS:

All price control went off vegetable fats and oils Wednesday, and butter and other dairy products it was decided would remain free of control following the freeing of meat from OPA control. Although, as announced by the Price Decontrol Board, prices of butter and cheese have risen to an unreasonable amount, they had no choice in the matter as they were following President Truman's plans.

High-price cattle and hogs flooded the market today, as a result of the decontrol action on meat. While it is expected that meat will reach millions of American dinner tables by this week end, it is prophesied that bacon and ham will continue to be scarce for some weeks.

FOREIGN AFFAIRS:

Hermann Goering committed suicide by means of poison contained in a brass capsule, fashioned from an old cartridge, just before the "zero" hour Wednesday night. A secret three-man investigating board, representing the Allied Control Council failed to uncover any clues as to how the poison was obtained by Goering.

The other ten defendants of the Nuernberg trials met their death according to schedule, Wednesday night. The bodies of the 11 Hitler aides were sped from Nuernberg to a secret burial place in concealed vans.

Secretary of State James F Byrnes is flying home today from the 11-week Paris peace conference, predicting that Yugoslavia will sign the peace treaty with Italy. Secretary Byrnes will make a broadcast to the American people tonight. His report to the nation will concern the treaties with Italy, Romania, Hungary, Bulgaria and Finland. He will also discuss current United States-Russian relations.

A final offer in the interests of halting civil war was made by Generalissimo Chiang Kai-shek to the Chinese Communists yesterday. He suggested that a reorganization of China's government be discussed This was evidently an attempt by General Marshall, special envoy of President Truman to break the deadlock that has prevailed since midsummer. No comment has been made by Communist headquarters in Nanking.

U S delegate Herschel V Johnson, at a closed meeting of the United Nations Security Council, expressed confidence that the General Assembly would be given a free rein in handling the Franco dispute. The council unanimously approved a formal notification that the Spanish and Iranian question still were before the council and not subject to assembly action as yet.

Students Speak . . .

Mr and Miss Average Student are going to tell us this week why it was that they came to college, what they are majoring in and what their plans are for the time that they will graduate from college. Perhaps this will help you and me to formulate in our minds what we should be planning to do with our lives when we leave Florida State College.

Mary Lou Kinsler, Junior transfer from the University of Illinois, says "I came to college because I have to get a degree for my father. I'm a speech major and am preparing myself to teach speech correction, though I don't think I'll ever do it. I want to get married. People sometimes think that isn't a worthy objective to aim for when you are in college, but it's what I've always wanted, and I'm just marking time until I get it."

Wayne Koger, freshman, pre-med major, says "I want to be a vetinarian and so am taking pre-med." When asked why in particular he wants to be a vetinary, he said, "Well, because I love animals, I guess, and I think it's a good racket." He wants a good general education background as well, and thinks FSC a good place to get it.

Mory Robertson, junior, history major, tells us that she most of all wants "to get married, but in case I don't meet the right person before I graduate from college I'm planning to go on and get my master's in history at the University of Michigan and teach college history."

Beverly Tresback, freshman, as yet has not decided definitely on her major but says, "I want to do commercial art and probably will major here in art. But before I

Continued on page five

The Kitchen Sink . . . .

(To be conducted according to Robert's Rules of Parliamentary Order. Chairman, B J McLeod; Stooge, M L Norwood.)

This column is to columns what a Zombie is to drinks. As we explained it to "Rodge" it is to incorporate everything from "Sharpie" and Henry McLemore to Westbrook "Anti" Pegler and Walter Winchell—everything but the Kitchen Sink and we'll scoop the dirt into that. (No remarks. Shut your grease-trap!) Being so un-egotistical it only took us eight hours to explain to "Rodge" the sterling qualities that made us capable of all this.

• • •

OLD BUSINESS

"Sharpie the Fifinella" received a letter this week from a mature student who doubts "Sharpie's" doubts about the doubtful morals of FSC girls at Dale Mabry, concerning (and we blush appropriately) pajamas. Because of the labor shortage and an incompetent understaffed staff of secretaries we regret that the letter has gone the way of summer romances—only the essence remains.

The writer feels, as we do, that since this was supposedly a "no-man's" land and the only smoking area at Dale Mabry, our sisters-in-bonds were justified. Besides, if people had kept their eyes where they should have been they wouldn't have known what the girls were wearing.

• • •

OLDER BUSINESS

Jean "Susie Q Smith" Cole's comment after the first CGA assembly was that Dean Dorman was the best "straight-man" to whom she has ever played. DD (Dean Dorman) didn't do so badly in handing out the "punch" lines herself.

• • •

WHISKERS

With bowed heads, humble hearts and deep repentance we wish to make an explanation and have an explanation made to us. We will take the blame for being Charybdis, but someone else will have to take the blame for being Scylla.

It seems there were some pictures. To be exact petures of THE Junior Minstrels. *We (editorial and not royal plural) put some sample pictures on the bulletin board in lower Westcott and collected money for the desired pictures according to the numbers on the samples. Then it happened. Some wretch (we know not who) filched the sample pictures, which act left us holding the list of subscribers, the money, the numbers of the desired pictures and not the slightest idea what the numbers on the sample pictures were.

So if all you good people who paid good money for these good pictures of an EXCELLENT show will get in touch with us we will either refund your money or try to figure out which shots you wanted. The moral of this story is, "Honesty may not be the best policy, but it helps, Scylla".

• • •

BONDED

Half of the column was in the Sweet Shop spending her roommate's half-pence when she stumbled upon the Cauldron Corps enjoying their weekly green tea and "yellow-ing" a new song. This half remarked that getting so many clever Evens together in one bunch must have been difficult. One of the as yet un-initiated affiliates said and we quote (we said QUOTE), "It wasn't easy!" (Rebuttal will be allowed next week, limit two inches).

ATTENTION JUDGE

On the same trip to the Sweet Shop this same half discovered something that the other half is going to investigate immediately. Emblazoned upon the wall in box car letters is an advertisement for "straw-beery" sundaes.

• • •

Ode to DuBarry
eenie, meenie, minie, moe
how I wish that I could grow;
someplaces big, someplaces small,
and someplaces not at all!

• • •

CLASSICAL CIVILIZATION

We've been keeping up with Alley Oop and his time machine. We'd like to borrow it for a one way trip to ancient Greece and spend the rest of our days there. It's not that we wish to delve into philosophy or that we prefer Grecian tunics, but we have just discovered that "work" is the one thing the Greeks didn't have a word for.

IN THE BEGINNING

The first man was walking down the first road when he came to the first pond and looking in he saw his first reflection. And on top of the first head he saw the first cow-lick (patience, Job). Hurrying back to his first home he passed the first olive tree and picked the first olives for it was the first summer. Back at the first house he squeezed out the first olive oil and put it on his first head and there he had the first "Adam Balm"*.

*Thanks, B J.

Tally Ho

By "O.B." KITCHEN

QUOTABLE QUOTES:

"'m, I'm here, but the answer isn't!"—(student to History 101-2 teacher). . . . "Hey, driver. Go back, you missed a bump!"—(male student to DMC bus driver). . . . "Gimme 3 good reasons for get'ing ed'cated pliz!" . . . DMC commuter's chant "There's a strange click-clack in th back of m, sac-ro-il-i-ac Oh, take me away! . . .

PERPETUAL GROANS:

Say, you think you've got it tuff! . . . I really ought not to be cuttin', but . . . Nobody luffs me. I never get any mail. . . . Guess that teacher expects us to move our beds to the library. . . . Rules-Rules-Rules. . . . I'm goin' mad, absolutely mad!!! . . .

NO KIDDIN':

A DMC bus trying to squeeze thru the Landis-Gilcrist arcade didn't quite make it. Result a gaping hole in the roof! . . . The G'ville boys sho did turn up here last week-end "en masse" to see for themselves how their brothers were faring in a co-ed FSC. . . Mighty thankful for the recent addition of hot water to Dale Mabry "dorms." For a while, I fear we were known around campus as "The Unbathed." Even our best friends wouldn't tell us, tho! . . . Didja see the little silver TAC plane taxi-ing down by the Sweet Shoppe t'other day? And with a police escort, no less. . . . Believe it or not, Monday night at the Reserve Room all the parallel books, listed in the History 101 syllabus, were OUT. (It actually happened!) . . . One freshman on the Gold Book test last week produced a unique answer to the question "How many dates are upperclassmen allowed?" She thought it should be "as many as they can get, doggone it!" Amen!

When the sun and moon pull together, we have high or spring tides; when they pull against each other, we have low or neap tides

The Florida Flambeau

1946-1947 STAFF
EDITORIAL STAFF

SHIRLEY RODGERS	Editor
BETTY DOWD, B J McLEOD, LOLA ROSE	Associate Editors
JOYCE PETTY	Managing Editor
BARBARA FARRAR	Assistant Managing Editor
LAURA LEE BUTLER, JEAN DOUGLAS	News Editors
Copy Editor	Winifred Lane
Assistant Copy Editor	Eleanor Bayer
Society Editor	Madge Pilcher
Assistant Society Editor	Paulette Blank
Feature Editors	Alicia Armstrong, Barbara Beckman
Sports Editor	Evelyn Shea
Outside News Editor	Marjorie Clark
Opinion Editor	June Grindstaff
Headline Editor	M J Sharman
Columnists	Beryl Kitchen and "Sharpie"
Picture Editor	Paulette Blank
Art Editor	Jean Sharer
Copy Girl	Robin Hill

REPORTERS: Dorothy Aberle, Katheryn Aspinwall, Inez Augustine, Jeanne Bagley, Audrey Melba Bach, Barbara Brown, John W Cash, Reginald Cash, Hazel Clarkson, Bob Cooksey, Mary Elizabeth Conant, Carol Coughlan, Lucius Daniel, Doris Love Dorsey, Francine Dunning, Jeanne DuPree, Mary Frances Ewart, Jane Hardacre, Jeani Harris, Alice Haywood, Linda Herold, Dorothy Ann Holland, Mildred Frances Hull, Lois Elizabeth Lovett, Rosemary McCay, Bobbie Annie Maffett, Elizabeth Milton, Anne Moore, Cheryl Musser, Francis North, Christine Puckett, Janice Richey, Charma Rosenvaig, Jackie Story, Charlotte Scott, Mary Charles Skipper, Pat Small, Nancy Stevens, Theresa Sellers, Alice Sharp, Betty Sue Taylor, Ann Tucker, Betty Wilkinson, Nancy Wright, Joanna Zewadski.

BUSINESS STAFF

Business Manager	Vivian L. Schaeffer
Advertising Manager	Nancy Stevens
Circulation Manager	Margie Berns
Exchange Manager	Gladys Clark
Billing Assistant	Joan Lieberman

Entered as second class mail matter January 30, 1915, at the post office at Tallahassee, Fla. under the act of Congress of March 3, 1879

Member
Intercollegiate Press

It is the policy of the Flambeau to grant equal space and prominence to anyone wishing to present a contrary opinion whenever opinions on controversial questions are voiced in its columns.

Band Salutes New Station

Marching-Band Has First Drill Under R Smith

The salute program Tuesday ening of Tallahassee's new radio ation, WRHP, featured the Florida State College concert band. ne band, under the direction of wen P Sellers, conductor, and obert Smith, assistant conductor, pened the broadcast with Sousa's Semper Fidelis" march and continued with Bach's "If Thou Be ear." Also rendered was a military arrangement of the ever-popular "There's Something About Soldier."

Monday afternoon on Landis een, Mr Smith instructed the SC all-girl marching band in its itial drill of the school year. The rformance of the girl musicians their first practice gives promise of unmatched entertainment t the Thanksgiving games and so later in the year, stated Annette Vitsky, publicity chairman.

On October 22 the band will ake the first of several convocation appearances in Westcott uditorium.

Band members were entertained s guests of "Robin Hood" last Friday night in the Recreation oom of Landis Hall at their first ocial affair of the year. "Without doubt musicians, long hairs and ort hairs, know how to have a armonious time even when they ave their instruments at home," ates Annette.

College Comments

By Jane Hardacre

George Washington University s no place for anyone suffering rom claustrophobia. In the first ficial reports from unreliable urces it has been determined at no loss of life was experienced during the registration rush. However, these unauthoritative rcles state that the freshmen be indoctrinated into a new em of breathing known as the Half and Half Plan." The male h will inhale while the female frosh exhale. Respiration be done in rhythm to the ne of Kotshki's Third Symphony n Somebody-Else's-Flat.

—The University Hatchet

Going to College—Why?

To great minds the entire universe is necessary. They say, "Let us see what more there is under he sun." Therefore we go to school, for our hearts ache for he wisdom to be received from e who are older and wiser an we. We know that wisdom ll be no cure for the suffering st some day we must know, t it gives us the fortitude to endure it; and, as all the forces of e mind are dependent on one another, the more fortitude we ossess, the more we suffer. The ore we are educated, the more we suffer; for it is only those who re educated who know the conditions in which the world and its people find themselves and being just souls the educated suffer r the poor and ignorant, while he poor and ignorant are happy n their decadence, and their ignorance.

In no class is man devoid of he sense of the beautiful: but his sense needs to be developed y long and continued study. Our ives, to be full and beautiful ust be brought incessantly into e presence of masterpieces of cience, litereture, history, and t. While an education is not the nly means of developing in man taste for the beautiful and the ue, by dint of learning HOW see and HOW to express himself, it is quite possible that the isciple of many masters will do ore than he would do by himself in learning of the things that re good and true. We are young nd know nothing: but we are so vigorous and our energies ust be expended. I have seen ow miserable and terrible is that uthful strength which is not roperly guided; that strength hich carries one where he is unknowingly headed: where the rength in a boy's mind and eart that if properly guided, hat if properly trained could ave built nations: but in his joyful ignorance his strength was wasted upon frivolous things and e himself became bored with the unrealities of his material things nd gradually sank with oblivion, nknown, with no accomplishments, his youthful vigor gone, h no peace of mind—a life asted.

The Stetson Reporter

Down in the Student Club one ute little number was standing the sandwich line, evidently ying to decide what to purchase.

"I feel like a ham sandwich," she murmured to her gal friend.

"You look more like meat and potatoes!" the vet behind her cracked.

The University Hatchet.

Tech's perennial campus night cop came to the conclusion recently that he was getting old. "In my younger years, I used to peek into parked cars on the campus and walk away smiling; now I give a look and break it up, then walk away laughing."

The Technique

The Technique

A philosophy instructor, was trying to explain the various methods of "justifying belief." In the course of the lecture he gave as an example of one of the methods the proverbial absent-minded professors who stroll off moving trolleys while reading a textbook.

"The absentmindedness may appear pretty amusing," said the professor, "but it's really an occupational hazard!"

The University Hatchet

A man is never so weak as when a woman tells him how strong he is.

THINGS WE COULD USE MORE OF:

Dances like the one at Dale Mabry Sattidy nite, with a wunnerful crowd, orchestra, floor show, and even a clever speaker (Dean McBride, for example!) . . . Annuals like the one just out. It's a honey! . . .

Stray Greeks Club

The initial meeting of the Stray Greeks Club will be held Monday evening at 7 pm in room 103 History building. All fraternity men are urged to attend. Organizational set-up, policies and a social program will be discussed at this time.

Two Slick Chicks Shoot College Slang At Campus Hangout

'Tenshun, you BTOs, slick hicks, sad sacks and yes, even you brains; here's your favorite jabberwocky, so get a load off your feet and drool over the drivel.

The time is now, the scene is the local yokel's hangout or to you the Sweet Shop (free ad.), and the characters are two students who have just given their order of "shoot two and poison one" (two cokes, one cherry, to you, square) to the soda jerk. Let's eavesdrip while they let the wind out of their bags.

"Did you cast your peepers on the N M A T (new man about town) at the rowdy pow last night? Ooo-la-la-a a-a. He's a foxey trotter (good dancer) and I'm not just whistling Dixie, but the H2O (another guy) that played Watson was runchy (drippy) but def."

"Yea-ah bot considering the tubba tubba (girl on the chubby side) he was with—, The atomic aroma with the glad rags she was wearing gave me a large charge. She's a plasterpuss (too much make-up) and very paint happy (spotlight seeker)."

"La-de-da. What can you expect of a Cleopatra (gal with bangs)? Got a fag, hag?"

"Natch. Let's do a weed-dead."

"Gimme a pill, here comes a drink of water."

'Feed it and maybe it'll go away."

"What's the beef?"

"I think I shall be forced to shoot her up and hang at her. Last night at the hop her intentions were showing. She cast a wicked eye and my OAO was standing in the line of fire."

"Cut the gab, she's coming into port."

"Hey-lo. Trouble honting? What's brewing? You look like a real Glamoor in person, a sensayshun. An MS (man snatcher) or just hoping?"

"Have a shovel (to help with the flattery), kittens. I've got a date. TMIL (the man I love) is here. He's right in there with his 'hit the sack', 'roger' and 'cup of java'."

"Oh, khaki wacky, eh?"

"Nevah, a real BMOC (big man on campus)."

"Come again, proof please."

'Even the clippers (movie censors) are vague aboot that but he's my dreamboat. What does he have to be, anyhow?"

"Three strikes and the man's doomed."

"Pardon me for living. I'l' get under way."

"Let's ditch the witch."

'Sighted a GGG (grim gruesome grind) at ten o'clock."

Enter Kilroy with his plaid shirt, green corduroy slacks rolled half way up, saddie oxfords, striped socks and that red hat clinging precariously to the back of his shaggy crewcut.

'What goes, dizzy damsels?"

"Us—to class."

"Oh! Brain bags."

"Yea-ah. I got a date to mug with a bug."

"Well slap me down and call me Shorty. Here I am playing second fiddle to Plato. 'Do-wa-ditty' was never like this. That's what I like about the South. Seen Sharpie?"

"She went that-a-way and we're going this-a-way."

"I'll drop anchor."

"We'll beat the feet."

"Well, sail, snail."

That's slanguage in action. Repulsive? That's your yolk. Son, fry it.

MALE EYE VIEW

BY LUCIUS DANIELS

Now Is the Time for All Good Men

Like a Fourth of July rocket, the campaigns for the coming elections started with a slight fizzle, and are now really beginning to roar.

The Conventional Party, first to be organized, is eat in front with various other groups still jockeying for positian. Several barracks have made provisional nominations, while a group of day students are playing both ends against the middle, trying to find the strongest organization and working the deal so that they can jump in two directions.

The different candidates all have approximately the same aims, but what we want isn't a man or party with elaborate political aims . . . this Student Government is a necessary thing. With the right men in office it can be a very good thing, but the main reason that we are here is to learn: Student Government is just a sideline which can give us a voice when we need one, and can provide incidentals like entertainment more efficiently than another system. A man who wants position merely for the prestige or in order to give himself and his friends the feeling that they are running things, is going to do a lot of silly things just for the heck of doing them, and he's going to forget about what the other guys want as soon as the going gets tough.

And involved secret and dirty politicking is a sure sign of that kind of guy . . . a guy who's willing to da anything to get elected, whether the majority af the students want him or not.

Keep your eyes open and think for yourself, don't let anybody talk yoa into voting as a part of a block and look out for that "straight ticket" line.

He's Got a Low Mind

There was one guy at the dance last Saturday who thought he had something . . . he thought he had finally found a place where Kilroy had never been. Filled with enthusiasm, he rushed out of the men's powder room and up to his nearest buddy.

"Kilroy hasn't been here!", he said in tones of awe. His buddy registered unbelief all over his pan. With incisive logic he retorted, "Who do you think you're kidding?"

They wound up with a ten to one bet, and went around the corner so that the second man could make his own investigations. Nothing could be found, not even under the sink. There was only one coat of paint on the walls, so it couldn't have been painted over. The second man was finally convinced. He and his buddy went outside and he prepared to pay off.

But just as they were about to settle the bet a girl heard them talking, and stepped in and said something which changed the whole picture.

"Kilroy was too here!" she said. "He was just in the wrong place."

Are We Men or Are We Women?

"After all", said Dr McBride, answering criticisms of the new cut system in assembly last week," "the girls have been taking these regulations and others even more severe for a long time. You ought not to complain about the comparatively light rule for the men."

That's not the point. Whether or not the women have been living under this rule, (and whether it is necessary for them or not), it's ridiculous to put such Draconian laws on men who have, according to repeated statements by Dean McBride and other responsible faculty members, proved almost in entirety to be the most studious and responsible group on the campus.

It's not the fact that we are merely griping at anything that bothers us, either. We have accepted the living conditions at Dale Mabry, (certainly not the best in the country), with a remarkable absence of good old GI griping, simply because we realized that it was necessary. If anyone is able (or interested enough), to show us that this ruling is necessary, there won't be anymore bad feeling about this one.

• • •

The question we are asking ourselves is this: it's a matter of common knowledge that many of the rules for women at FSC are absolete, antiquated and useless. One rule is nat so bad: there are many af us who are not affected anyway. But if we can be given one rule just because the girls have it too, how long will it be until we have to sign out to leave the barracks, have to be in at a certain time, or have a residence connselor to see that we act like little gentlemen in the barracks?

Society Section

If your girl friend stands you up some day, and you run out of pulp magazines and homework on the same night, if you don't have any letters to write and the beer joints are all closed; if you can't think of anything at all to do, you might drop around to barracks 701 and take a look at the art gallery displayed on the doors belonging to the members of the Beta Thi sorority, (for men only).

Keynoted by pin ups, (in color), each member has an illustrated sign on his door presenting the sorority name, plus clever cards announcing the names and real or fancied talents of the men who live there and colored cartoons of college life, (not forgetting more pin ups).

You Can't Fool All of the People All of the Time

Some amateur Goebbels out at the base is evidently trying to perpetrate Adolf's statement that if yoa tell a lie that is big eneogh people will believe yau. Meaning this bit of mud slinging about the mythical "Pensacola Bloc".

The actual basis for this wild rumor is a meeting held by a group of Pensacola boys last week to arrange for mutual aid in transportation on holidays and weekends for those who wished to visit their homes. This was seized upon and twisted, (either intentionally or without any investigation as to the truth, which is just as bad), in order to use it as a piece of propaganda to scare students into voting for the party which put out that pamphlet most of us read on the Administration building bulletin board.

Special Note

The items in this column represent the opinions of the writer and are based on his own knowledge—anyone who wishes to present an opposite point of view, or bring out facts not known to this author only has to present them in writing at the Flambeau office, and they will be printed here.

Persons desiring to horsewhio this columnist will please send an application in triplicate through channels.

Majority of Men Major in Mathematics and Sciences

What are the men students majoring in at FSC?

The popularity of English and home economics gives way to mathematics and science as many of the 500 men prepare for careers in engineering, forestry, and medicine.

Reece Hays and John Brown are signed up for education; Thomas Burns for English and Johnie Augustine journalism.

They run the gauntlet when it comes to engineering. And most of them think they can get courses which will keep them at Tally for about two years. There is Joe Vara in chemical (he plays a trombone in the band, too) and Lawrence Bule in aeonautical; Robert Brechenridge is taking civil engineering and Robert Shutt ,electrical. G W Barefoot is one of the lawyers of the future and many boys like William Cogburn have selected business administration. Some of the men, who, like Basil Alagood, are taking forestry, may become rangers wearing their dark green uniforms and shining boots. Ernest Burns is going in for animal husbandry and Robert Brown for agriculture.

To be a veterinanian is the future chosen by James Briggs. To earn the title of doctor is the ambition of men like Glenn Atkinson and John Beniert who have undertaken to become pre-medical and pre-dental students respectively.

Now the big question is: "Will any of these men try to crash F Club? Someone might ask Keith MacRay what he thinks about the subject. He is a physical education major.

Edwin Andrews is studying to be an architect on a campus which boasts of a number of picturesque buildings. Joseph Almyda is studying commercial arts, and speaking of arts, there is Gus Adkinson who is a music major and James Livingston who wrote down radio major without designating whether he wanted to become a technician, announcer, or performer.

Books Needed

Will anyone who has a Book of Tables used for Elementary Practical Mathematics please take it to the bookstore to have it rented or sold to students taking this course? There are 35 stndents in need of this book and copies can not be gotten in any other way.

Modern Dance Class Organized for Men

Swimming Pool Open to Male Students Three Days Weekly

The beginning of a modern dance class for men was announced at the meeting of the Woman's Recreational Association Wednesday night in the Longmire building. Miss Nellie Bond Dickinson of the Physical Education Department will be the instructor.

Also referring to males or campus is the swimming pool schedule. The boys have the pool on Monday and Wednesday nights and Saturday afternoons from 3 to 5 o'clock.

A report on intramural sports showed that around 300 people are out for volley ball. Due to the passing of a new rule, graduate students can now play in intramural games but not in Odd Even.

Odd-Even sport season is from October 7 through November 15. The schedule of the games are: hockey class games will be November 18 and 20, soccer class games November 19 and 21, archery finals will be November 25 and 27, and the modern dance final will be held November 23. There will be 18 practices in all and girls eligible must have attended 12. As for Odd-Even cheerleaders they will be voted on in about a week. The Odds will be chosen in the Little theater and the Evens in the gym.

Plans for the Thanksgiving faculty program are also underway. Nita Bowles, Ann Stanbaugh, and Betty Donnally were appointed to the invitation committee.

The new WRA handbooks have been given out to the freshmen and the activities of WRA will now be put on the college calendar.

Students Speak

Continued from page four

do that I would like to work for a year as an airline hostess. I'm hoping to meet a handsome pilot and marry him. I want an education too, though, and that will have to come first."

Great decisions like great inventions cannot be made overnight, and as everyone knows one's major is as apt to change as the weather during the long four years of probing different subjects, and exploring one's own mind. About the only unswerving decision is that of the girls to get married. But that is to be expected. The important thing is that in this time most young people know pretty well what they would like to do with their lives and have made the necessary adjustment toward realizing their aims. Does your burning ambition compare favorably?

Johns Hopkins Grad

Luella Elizabeth Dickerson, a former student at Florida State College, was one of 46 nurses to graduate from the Johns Hopkins Hospital School of Nursing in Baltimore, Maryland, on October 14, it was recently announced by the hospital.

Following graduation, Luella plans to accept the position of general staff nurse in the general operating room at Johns Hopkins.

Junior English Exam

It is hoped that junior English examination papers will all be graded within a week, according to Dr Hazel A Stevenson, professor of English. However, grades will not be tabulated in ranking order for several weeks. It is probable that those students needing extra coaching in English will have to study on their own time rather than in a special class, due to the large number of senior internees who would be unable to attend.

Or Forever Hold Your Peace

Hats In the Ring

G R Higginbotham was born in Arcadia, Florida. He attended the public schools in Arcadia and was graduated from Arcadia. He served in the Army Air Forces for two years; so he has a lot in common with most of us: that of being an ex-GI.

I have known Gordon for eight years. We attended the same schools and were graduated together. I know he is a capable leader because he held class offices during high school, and he was dependable. When he consents to do something, you can consider it done. Gordon is very original and very well-liked by those who have come in contact with him

Gordon was chairman of the decoration committee for the dance out at the base last Saturday, October 12. I think everyone will agree that he and his committee did a swell job on decorating the Student Union. This is a sample of his interest in student affairs.

"Flash", as he is known in Arcadia and Plant City, is interested in the success of this student election. He is going to do all he can for this student government, regardless of whether he is elected or not. I believe you agree that this is the right spirit. It is up to us—you and me—to see that an experienced, dependable and sincere man is elected as our chief representative of the freshman class.

So, do like the majority of the freshmen men are going to do—vote for Gordon R Higginbotham for president of the freshman class!

Robert M Sykes

Dear Editor,

We of the Conventional Party wish to make known our formation, principles, platform and provisional candidates. I think we are all familiar with the meaning of the "Convention." Our party chose that name because we stand for the exact meaning of that word—we conform to your opinion. Our principles are general, we stano for honest, efficient representation—WE SAY REPRESENTATION BECAUSE YOU ARE THE GOVERNMENT.

Our platform is the promotion of your desires, and especially the making of your stay at FSC enjoyable. We believe you are with us on permanent co-education, intercollegiate athletics, enlarged entertainment, and improved facilities. Our men are those which we believe best suited for their respective positions. The nominations and candidates will be made public Saturday and officially nominated Tuesday at assembly. However, we have made provisional nominations which are as follows:

FRESHMEN CLASS NOMINEES

President, Chris Holley of Valparaisa; Vice-Pres, Clint Williams of Tallahassee; Secretary, Jimmy Baird of DeLand; Treasurer, Bud Hendry of Ft Myers; Social Chairman, D L Middlebrooks of Pensacola.

We call your attention to the state-wide distribution of these men which eliminates a sectional bloc.

Our thanks to you, Shirley, as editor of the Flambeau, for the splendid cooperation you've given all concerned.

Clinton Williams

Dear Editor:

William (Billy) Fussell, candidate for the office of freshman president is married, steady, and quiet. A native of Tampa, he was graduated from Hillsborough High school in 1943 where he was vice president of the student body and president of the National Honor Society.

Since there is no issue involved, Billy offers no politics but the student body can be assured of his cooperation in all matters. On the basis of these points, we believe he is qualified for the position and offer his name as a candidate.

Dave Swan

Dear Editor,

This letter is to explain the formation of the Independent party, its purpose and principles.

The Independent party was formed to combat the threat of one party government offered by the Conventional party, which through mergers with the Progressive party and the organization representing barracks 701, (largest barracks on the campus) has become the only real party on the campus until the formation of the Independents.

Our aims are: 1. to prevent one party government, and if another party gains the majority to offer constructive opposition, preventing government by caucus or clique; 2. to make the government now being formed only a provisional arrangement to last till the end of the quarter, in order that we can learn to know each other and find the best men for office.

But the main thing, whether you vote for this party or not, is to make up your own mind, pick the men you like best, and then vote.

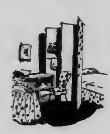
Lemoyne Cash

Amethysts once were worn to prevent intoxication, and the name comes from the Greek amethustos, meaning "not drunken."

CLASSIFIED

ST: Shaeffer Lifetime fountain pen on campus, September 25. Also, pink tortoise shell rimmed lasses in black case marked "Edmunds," October 16. Finder please see Miss Carmen Rogers 301-W or telephone 872-R.

FOUND: Loose bill. Owner please call 871 to identify amount and place where lost.



LIFT YOUR ROOM'S FACE!

It's Easy to Do With Our Curtains And Bedspreads

Crinkle, Jacquard and Chenille Spreads
Ruffled and Priscilla Curtains
Wide Range of Colors and Prices

THE SURPRISE STORE
101-105 E. Jefferson

DIANA (j.g.)*

the sub-deb girdle

$5.95

*Junior girdle

Definitely young . . . and very lovely, is the silhouette this beautiful panty girdle gives you so effortlessly. Plenty of restraint — together with a smoothing, gently slimming action achieves the famed "Diana figure". Of fine rayon satin, with lace lastex side panels. Detachable garters.

THE FRENCH SHOP
PHONE 869-W
106 COLLEGE AVE.

Terrific Tantalizer

Dry perfume makes your favorite Roger & Gallet fragrance go farther. Its tantalizing scent is released gradually when patted directly on warm skin. A dash in the hem of your dance dress fills the air with fadeless perfume. Doused inside your blouse, the effect is really terrific! Use it regularly—in all ways—just like liquid perfume.

Six exciting scents ... Night of Delight ..Fleurs d'Amour.. Blue Carnation.. Jade.. Sandalwood and Violettes, priced at $1.25.

ROGER & GALLET

Cashin' In

By John Cash

Now that the World Series has terminated, football is the center of attraction for sports fans over the nation. Though Army, Texas and Notre Dame appear to be at the head of the heap, their superiority has not proved to be as great as in the past.

Though Notre Dame has hardly blinked an eye in winning its opening games, it will undoubtedly run into stiff opposition when Army comes up later on the schedule. Army and Texas on the other hand found it necessary last week to dig deep into their bag of tricks to defeat stubborn elevens from Michigan and Oklahoma, each by the identical score, 20-13.

Alabama and Tennessee, each winning breathers last Saturday, will match brain and brawn in the South's top game this week Harry Gilmer and company from Alabama will have to play heads up ball to master the Volunteers. Gilmer, who has been called "one of the greatest passers of all time" by sportswriter Grantland Rice, will have a definite chance to prove his mettle in this important encounter.

Undefeated Louisiana State, fast becoming one of the best teams in the South, plays Georgia Tech, beaten only by Tennessee. Georgia meets Oklahoma A & M in what earlier appeared to be one of the year's most outstanding games. Now it looks like the Bulldogs will have an easy time of it.

Barring ties, at least one team will be defeated for the first time when Army plays Columbia and Texas clashes with Arkansas, tied by Oklahoma A & M. The Cadets will probably have much the rougher afternoon. Columbia has beaten both Navy and Yale in the past two weeks.

Florida

Hurricanes and Gators will tangle when Florida meets Miami in its annual Homecoming game this Saturday. After losing three straight, the Gators appear doomed to make it four, though anything can happen when Florida and Miami play. The Orange Bowl champs barely squeezed by the Gators 7-6 last year.

Double Cross

For years southern teams have trekked to Pasadena's Rose Bowl on New Year's Day to compete against the Pacific coast representatives. Maybe the South has won too many of the Rose Bowl games. At any rate, it is now possible that the Western Conference and Pacific Coast Conference are going to vote to match their respective champions in the New Year's classic, leaving the Southern teams completely out for at least a number of years.

This writer believes the Western Conference should permit one of its members to compete in the Pasadena bowl, but it doesn't seem to be quite sportsmanlike to ban all the other teams in the nation from receiving some of the honors which accompany a visit to the California bowl.

Last Gap

With Harry "the Cat" Brecheen winning three of them, the St Louis Cardinals surprised the Boston Red Sox by winning the World Series four games to three. Brecheen is only the ninth pitcher to win three series games. The last pitcher to turn the trick was Stan Coveleskie of Cleveland, who turned the trick against Brooklyn in 1920.

The World Series grand finale turned into one of the most spectacular games in series history. Smart base running by Enos "Country" Slaughter of the Cards and timely hitting by Harry Walker in the eighth inning were the deciding factors in the Red Bird victory.

Brecheen had to pitch superb ball after allowing the first two Boston batters to hit safely in the ninth inning. The southpaw retired the next three batters to end the rally and win the game and series for the Cards 4-3.

Leading batters of the series were Bobby Doerr of the Red Sox with nine hits in 22 attempts for a .409 average, and Harry Walker of St Louis, with seven hits in seventeen bats for a .412 mark. The only pitcher to win more than one game was Brecheen. Other winning pitchers were Ferriss, Johnson and Dobson for Boston and Munger for St Louis.

Sorority Chit Chat

A whirlwind of social activities got underway with pledge banquets and were climaxed with informal parties for the Gainesville "crew" this week.

• • •

Alpha Chi Omega celebrated Founder's day Tuesday. Monday night the chapter held a joint meeting of pledges and actives with Barbara Wickham in charge of the program.

• • •

Alpha Delta Pi pledge banquet was held at the Floridan hotel Tuesday night, and the pledges entertained with extemporaneous skits. Newly elected officers in the chapter were Barbara Mann, Panhellenic representative, and Betty Johnson, new guard.

• • •

Informality marked the Alpha Gamma Delta program the past week-end when the girls were hostesses to boys from Gainesville. Group songs and other entertainment were planned by the chapter.

Alpha Gam pledge officers are: Jo Ann Godwin, president; Margaret Savage, vice president; Sally Tyler, secretary; Martha Burdine, treasurer; Ann Hoffman, breakfast chairman; Audrey Baird, skit chairman; Cornelia McCreary, party chairman; Wilda Larson, chaplain; Stella Carter, publicity manager; Suegene Thomas, intramurals chairman; Joy Ashley, scrapbook chairman; Hilda Akins, project chairman; Betty Claire Roberts, record chairman.

• • •

A coffee honoring the Alpha Xi Delta vice president, Mrs Hannah Schellanhach, and Mrs Hertwig, the new house mother, was held Wednesday night at the Alpha Xi house. The Floridan hotel was the scene of their annual pledge banquet. This week-end Mrs Lydia Mikell, Province president will visit the chapter.

• • •

Sunday night the Chi Omega entertained with a coffee for the boys from Gainesville. Carolyn McCeighen was in charge of the affair. This Saturday the Chi O pledges will give their annual pledge party.

• • •

Post-pledging activities for the Delta Delta Delta pledges included sings, coke parties, and special programs planned by the chapter members. The new pledge officers elected were Ann Teague, president; Nancy Baker, vice president; Cleona Robbnet, secretary; and Nancy Keener, treasurer. Sunday morning the pledges honored the actives with a breakfast A monthly cultural meeting was held Monday night in the form of a quiz program.

To mark the chapter's twenty-first birthday the Delta Phi Epsilon members held a Big-Little Sister party Tuesday night. Chairmen for the occasion were Gladys Atlas and Annette Vitsky. Anna was elected to represent her chapter at the National Convention in Canada in December.

The Delta Phi Epsilon pledge officers are: Barbara Firestone, president; Shirley Gerstein, vice president; Shirley Shifte, secretary ;Ann Schwartz, treasurer; Gloria Litchenstein, publicity manager; Irma Schwartz, parliamentarian.

• • •

Saturday night the Delta Zetas entertained the members and their dates with a coffee at which Mrs Emily Croiatt, housemother, served. Open house was held on Sunday afternoon for the students of Tally U. Coffee and cookies were served for refreshments. On Friday night the active members honored their pledges with a hamburger fry which was given at the home of Dr Mark DeGraff, faculty advisor of the sorority. Among the guests at the hamburger fry were Dr and Mrs T L Wade, Miss Ruth Pyche, Miss Betty Linthicum, Miss Marguerite Dressler, Mrs Hamilton, and Miss Betty Johnston

Kappa Alpha Theta members and pledges entertained men from Dale Mabry Saturday from 3 to 6 p m. The guests were received by President Lucy Brown, B J Singleton, Mrs Brown, housemother, Jean Ann Daly, Bing King, and Vonnie Black. Informal dancing was enjoyed and punch, mints, and nuts were served during the evening.

Sunday night a supper was given for members and their guests at the Theta house. Dot Oetjen pledged to Kappa Alpha Theta Tuesday night.

• • •

Kappa Delta entertained with a spaghetti supper at the house Saturday night. Members, pledges, and their dates were served around a log fire, after which they participated in group singing of sorority songs

• • •

The annual Pi Beta Phi pledge banquet will be held this year on Tuesday, October 22. Chris Carothers from Bradenton and Mary Burrell of Eustis, alumnae, returned home after spending the weekend at the house.

• • •

An informal party will be given by the Phi Mus tonight, honoring pledges and guests.

• • •

On Saturday Sigma Kappa members and dates enjoyed an informal party Music for dancing was supplied by a jook organ and punch and cookies were served. Dallas Stever, a Sigma Kappa member, has been selected as vocalist of the Dale Mabry band.

Life Saving Corps Classes Want Boys

"Boys are invited to come to the instructor and senior life saving classes on Mondays and Thursdays at 7 p m," stated Mary Nell Goldman, Life Saving Corps head, yesterday. Miss Ernestine Troemel of the physical education department will teach the instructor's class, and students enrolled with this group will be able to practice—teach with the senior life saving class.

"Coddster's Last Stand" Is Even Pep Rally Theme

With "Coodster's Last Stand" as their theme the Evens presented a brand new type of pep rally yesterday afternoon out on Jennie Murphree hill. Rose Marie Ferro played the part of "Indieven," the brave warrior of tha Evens who was captured by Coodster's men when engaged in battle on the hockey field. Coodster and his men attempted to force Indieven to reveal the theme of Even Demonstration. After being tortured with typical Odd devices, Indieven was rescued. Six members of the Even band, on horseback dashed to his rescue and scalped Coodster and his men. The skit was followed by an announcement of Even Demonstration try-outs and a short pep rally.

Joyce Cayce was in charge of the skit with "Tot" Carter, Roses Marcoux, Rose Marie Ferro, Dottie Smith helping on the skit.

The first Odd pep rally of the year was given Wednesday night on Jennie Murphree hill with Spirogira goats in charge. Spirogira goats made an Even effigy which was burned with the singing of the Odd dirge after an announcement about Odd Demonstration try-outs was given. Printed pages of Odd songs were distributed by the Spirogira goats. Shirley Palmer gave a short speech about future Odd pep rallys.

Ann Colvin reported the rally to be a huge success.

Fashion Flashes

"The frost is on the pumpkin" and you're knee-deep in chemistry experiments, coke dates, and bang up plans for each minute of the weekend. You scuffle fallen leaves on the way to class, and meditate on last night's math assignment, because you've found that math is your Waterloo this year. It's almost time to help little brother scoop out the biggest pumpkin in the market, and cut a grinning jack o'lantern. New faces at school are old friends, and so is that back-to-school wardrobe, so lately spanking new. In fact, you find you have the what-to-wear worries when Friday night's date rolls around.

You've come to love your clothes with the soft, pretty lines that this season brought. You appreciate most of all those beautifully basic things that change character with the flick of a scarf or a bright, shining pin. And now there's a new dressy jumper that takes to all kinds of dress-up and dress-down shenanegans — that's the perfect pick-up for your wardrobe.

We've sketched one of the loveliest versions of this ever-so-versatile jumper, McCall 6711. It has a flattering rounded collar to frame its pretty portrait neckline, tiny cap sleeves, and a softly draped skirt with an inverted pleat and a bit of fullness on each side. For special occasion glamour, you just add a favorite choker and bangle bracelets. Tie a shimmering sash to cinch-in your waist. You'll like the way this jumper looks in creamy-soft wool jersey. Try it in a glowing tangerine shade, and match it in a striped blouse for casual wear. Or consider making your jumper in bright clan plaid so very new this year for night life Pick a color in the plaid and have a blouse made of that very shade. Find a wide, wide belt of softest leather for your waist.

The blouse and skirt idea is wonderful, too, for new pep in any wardrobe. If you've glimpsed the luscious elegant fabrics this fall, you'll soon realize that it would take only a bit to make a gem of a blouse. Add your gala blouse to any plain-colored skirt, and you'll have an eye-catching date dress. McCall has skirts to suit your every mood. There's a skirt dressed up with a ruffle cascading down its side, and there are sport skirts designed with that eight o'clock dash in mind.

Sports Attracts Record Turn-Out

Flashing legs, gala colors, shouts shattering the still afternoon, and balls zipping over checkerboard nets were all positive evidence of an enthusiastic crowd of some 300 students commencing the first day of intramurals practice. A crowd, which according to Ann Stanbaugh, intramurals manager, was overwhelming.

Intramural sports, as scheduled for the first quarter, include volleyball, basketball, tennis and badminton and are to be played between dorms, sororities and various organizations on campus.

Through a process of elimination, the winning organization is chosen according to the number of points it has won, and is presented at the end of the school year with an intramural cup.

"After tennis intramurals," Ann said, "we hope to work up a tennis tournament which will be open to all FSC students who wish to participate."

STUDENTS
FLY WITH
TAC
APPROVED BY BOARD OF CONTROL

Phone for Transportation and Further Information

JEFF LEWIS FRANK LEWIS
IVAN MUNROE RICHARD WEEKS

TALLAHASSEE AIRCRAFT CORP.
Phone 2727 Municipal Airport

Playnight to Present "Truth and Consequences"

"Come prepared for anything!" said Nancy MacEdwards, chairman of Playnight as she announced that Saturday's Playnight program is to be "Truth or Consequences" with audience participation. The program will start at 9 o'clock in the Physical Education building. There will be dancing from 8 o'clock until the program begins and more dancing afterwards.

Last Saturday at Playnight was "Faculty Talent Night". Dr Hudson Rogers was the master of ceremonies and his first introduction was for Mr Sellars and Mr James, both of the Music Department. Mr James sang "Doin' What Comes Nat'rally" accompanied by Mr Sellars on the bass fiddle with the audience chiming in on the second chorus. Dr Canfield of the language department gave a Spanish-accented lecture on "Beseboll, How She Is Played".

Miss Trawick of the speech department gave Dorothy Parker's monologue "The Waltz". Miss Yvonne Cody of the speech department rendered one of Lady MacBeth's speeches first in the Grand Manner, then a la Heoburn, and finally with a Mae West slant.

An A-B-C skit with Mrs Blair, Dr Becker, Miss Mitchell Colonel Mendenhall and Mr Sellars cast as the alphabet-speaking characters.

Future programs for Playnight will utilize the talent of Sophomore Council, Senior Hall, Spirogira and Esteren. "And these you must see," said Nancy with a chuckle as she thought of what was in store for Playnight audiences.

Tally U to Hold Swimming Meet

Ed Williamson, athletic director of the Tallahassee branch, has announced plans for a swimming meet to be held in the college pool from 6 to 10 pm on Monday, October 28 and on Wednesday, October 30. This will be the first in a series of events scheduled for intrabarracks competition for this fall.

Some of the teams have already begun working out and each barrack group is expected to have an entry by the time the meet takes place.

All students are invited to attend and it is hoped that a large crowd will be on hand to watch the barrack teams compete for honors in the following events; medley relay, 220 yards free style, 50 yards breast stroke, 50 yards free style, 100 yards free style, 50 yards back stroke, 200 yards free style relay, and diving

Touch football will commence immediately after the swim meet and will be followed by basketball beginning the last week in November.

Prospective Cheerleaders Show Stiff Legs as Try-Out Time Draws Close

No, those stiff legged creatures that you see around the campus are not cranes, nor storks, nor even pelicans . . . those are the Odd-Even spirited young ladies who want the privilege of leading the cheers of their respective teams during the coming year.

"There are about fifty eager Evens appearing at practices," said Amelia Pavese, junior class athletic manager, "and a goodly number of Odds also. All the girls are working hard and I have high hopes for a wonderfully peppy group of both Odd and Even leaders," Amelia continued.

Odd-Even cheerleader practices began three weeks ago and will continue until the end of October, when hours of hard work will be climaxed by the election of six girls for each team: three from each class. Each girl trying out must have at least six practice points to her credit, however.

Leading off on October 29 the Even cheerleader try-outs will be held in the gym, while the Odds will hold their try-outs in the Augusta Conradi theater on October 30.

When asked whether the Evens had any new and rousing cheers up their sleeves that were being taught during practices Amelia answered that any new Even cheers would not be practiced until after the leaders were chosen. "We're just doing the old ones now in order to get the feel of cheerleading," Amelia concluded.

So you see, not only "birds of a feather flock together" . . . eager beaver cheerleaders do too.

Tarpan Practice

B J Singleton announces that members of Tarpon will practice every Thursday and the Minnows will practice Mondays starting Monday, October 20.

Spanish House Tea

The Spanish House division of Parkside gave a tea from five to six Wednesday for the honorary house members of the faculty. These honorary house members are Dr D L Canfield, Miss Helen Cate, and Miss Betty Lloyd.

TRIPLE SMOKING PLEASURE
A ALWAYS MILDER
B BETTER TASTING
C COOLER SMOKING
STAN MUSIAL OF THE ST. LOUIS Cardinals TRIPLE KING IN THE REALM OF BASEBALL
Chesterfield CIGARETTES
—You hit it again, Stan...THEY SATISFY!
ALWAYS BUY CHESTERFIELD
ALL OVER AMERICA—CHESTERFIELD IS TOPS!
Copyright 1946, Liggett & Myers Tobacco Co.

✓

T B, or

z 106

The Florida Flambeau

Not T B?

Published by the Students of Florida State College

L. XXXIII, No. 4 Tallahassee, Florida NOVEMBER 1, 1946

SC President nvests Girls n Ceremony

ulpepper Makes Speech o Graduating Seniors Westcott Auditorium

Campbell Officiates Traditional Capping

Investiture, the traditional cap- g of graduating seniors by Dr ak S Campbell, president of rida State College, was held esday evening in Westcott audi- um with Dr J Broward Culpep- . Director of Division of Educa- nal Research and Service, as the aker of the evening.

Present on the stage during the emony were Dr Campbell, mbers of the college Executive ancil, department heads, Dr J oward Culpepper, and Dr Rob- . D Miller, leader of the devo- nal

Dr Culpepper, who spoke to the sembled seniors and sophomores, s recently become a member of faculty of FSC and prior to his rvice in the Navy has worked young people in the state of rida and supervised in the pub- schools of Tallahassee.

"To rally to the challenge of th today" was the tempo of the ech which Dr Culpepper deliv- d to the seniors. Said Dr Cul- pper, "You people have the dis- antage of going into the world ring chaotic times, but they can o be made times of greatness. eat things remain to be done Florida in practically every line public service."

Dr Culpepper went on to point the many fields in which im- ediate attention is needed to ng Florida up into being one the leading states of America. cording to Dr Culpepper, there e important opportunities in the lds of education, public health, dustry and aviation and there is eed at once for competent lead- s to find solutions to the prob- ms which are involved.

Dr Culpepper continued, "This hallenge to young people should the imagination, for no other ate has to its advantage such ast amounts of natural resources such varied fields of opportun- y." In closing, Dr Culpepper alled upon every senior to utilize ery opportunity during the com- ng year to develop and improve erself so that she may measure p to the challenge and be able to sume leadership in helping to lve the problems which stand t on all sides.

Other parts of the ceremony ere the devotional, led by Dr Robert D Miller, a solo "Thou Wilt Keep Him in Perfect Peace" sung by Herman Gunter, the proces- onal "Grand March" from Tana- auser by Wagner and the reces- onal "War March of the Priests" by Mendelssohn which were played by Miss Ramona Cruikshank Beard at the organ.

Odds Receive Parts In Demonstration

Announcement of speaking parts for Odd Demonstration was made yesterday by Nancy Wright, chairman of the demonstration. Students who have received speaking parts in the demonstration are Arabella Allen, Laura Simpson, Patty McColpin, Dutchie Gilberg, Johnny Copeland, Nell Clark, Jean Cole and Brick Bradford.

Teresa Myers, director of dancing, has announced that dancing parts have been given to Violet Waters, Vonnie Black, Lorraine Smith, Jane Carol Levy, Bets Car- ll, Mildred Johnston, Jane Hardacre, Betty Phillips, Clara Wilson, Pat Small, Bertie Loftus, Jerry Allen, Ed Smalie, Sherlee Barrish, Polly Marks, Nancy Gleaton and Sibyl Harrison.

Mary Lou Norwood, who is in charge of the music for the production, says that she is not yet ready to make public any plans for this phase of Odd Demonstration.

Dale Mabry to Give Hallowe'en Barndance

A Halloween barn dance will be given in the Dale Mabry Officers' Club on Saturday evening, November 2, from 8 until 12 o'clock, for all students living at the base.

The hall will be decorated with crepe paper bales of hay and music will be furnished by a real "hillbilly" band. There will be refreshments of doughnuts and cider. The dance is sponsored by the Dale Mabry social committee under the direction of Elizabeth Brower.

Lost Articles Kept Safe and Sound in Longmire Building

"Girls come to us with reports of losses of everything from glassless rims to wool suits, but not one girl has yet reported the loss of her man," knowingly smiled both Mrs Edith Gulick and Mrs Louise Burns, guardians of the official campus Lost and Found department located on the first floor of the Longmire building. "And no one has reported a lost man found, either. In such a case 'finders, keepers' must take precedent."

Men may be missing from the list but a variety of items evidently is not.

Wallets, glasses and fountain pens top the returned articles division. Then there are always pieces of jewelry, books, sweaters and coats. Immediately following any

(Continued on page Two)

Religious Week Is Nov 12-15

Dr John Newton Thomas To Address FSC Students

Dr John Newton Thomas, professor of theology at Union Theologic.. Seminary, Richmond, Virginia, will address faculty and staff members in the Longmire auditorium November 12 at 4:45 in observation of Religious Emphasis Week. An informal reception, at which the faculty and staff members will act as hostesses, will be held in the main lounge of the Longmire building after the address.

His opening speech for students will be on Tuesday evening, November 12 at 7:30 in the Longmire auditorium and informal discussion groups will be held each afternoon of the week at 4:45.

Religious Emphasis Week, which is held by almost all colleges, will begin this year on November 12 and will last until November 15. It is sponsored by the Religious Workers' Council, which is composed of student secretaries of each religious group, the president of the college, the dean of women, director of personnel, teachers of religion, YWCA, secretary, ministers in town, and the student president of each religious organization on campus.

Religious Emphasis Week has been held at FSC for almost 20 years, bringing to the campus outstanding religious leaders of the nation and enlisting the joint planning of all the religious groups on campus.

Each evening of the week an address will be given by the speaker. The last meeting to take place will be at 7:30, November 15.

A committee for planning the week was formed at the last meeting of the Religious Workers' Council. This committee consists of Dalia Santos, chairman, Sarah Lewis, Ann Hunter, Betty Dowd, Ida Lee Rentz, Joyce Carlton, Martha Peacock, Enid Krause, Esther Rasmussen, Patrick Cleveland. A mass meeting of all the religious groups on campus will take place in Westcott auditorium this Wednesday at 4:30 to make final plans for the week.

Members Nominate Committee Heads

Nominations for various committees and for committee heads was the main business of the meeting of International Relations Club yesterday afternoon, according to Alice DeWitt, secretary.

Frances Raney, Kitty Spurgeon, Pat Mounts and Martha McCann were nominated for the office of program chairman which was left vacant by the resignation of Janice Richey. IRC will send a representative to College Government association forums. Names to appear on ballots for this position are: Dixie Kennedy and Bob Deland.

Club members volunteered for work on the committee which will be in charge of the IRC display in the Library Book Corner. Three girls were nominated at the meeting for this committee. They were Ginny Elders, Lillian Baker and Joyce Williams. There were also volunteers for publicity assistance.

Nominations were held open until 11 p m last night for the foregoing committees chairmen.

Recreation Majors

All recreation majors are urged to get in touch with Laura Cason, Box 4, as soon as possible. The list of majors is not complete, and it must be finished right away.

Attention, Please

Any students who have copies of Jones Workbook, No 7, and are not using them in class, are requested to take them to the bookstore, as there is an acute shortage of them which can only be remedied in this way.

Speech Play To Be Comedy

Tickets Will Be on Sale Outside Little Theater

"Arsenic and Old Lace," which is the first speech department production of the year, will be presented November 6, 7 and 8 at 8:30 o'clock in the Augusta Conradi theater.

Tickets for the play will be on sale outside the Little Theater Friday, November 1, from 4 to 6:30, Saturday from 10 to 12, and Monday through Wednesday from 3:30 to 5:30. All tickets are for reserved seats and are priced 50 cents. If all the tickets are not sold out it will be possible to buy them at the box office the night of the performance.

This humorous Joseph Kesselring story is about two elderly ladies who blithely give lonely old men poisoned wine in order to put them out of their supposed misery. More comedy is added by uncle Teddy who imagines himself to be Theodore Roosevelt and is con-

(Continued on page Two)

Faculty Members Schedule Recitals

Gunter and Beard to Perform In Programs This Weekend

Two faculty recitals are scheduled for this weekend. The recital of Herman Gunter, Jr, baritone, is scheduled for tonight at 8:15 o'clock in the college auditorium. Sunday afternoon the American Guild of Organists will sponsor as their first program of the year the faculty recital of Mrs Ramona C Beard, associate professor of orgen, piano and theory. The program will be at 4:30 in the Westcott auditorium.

Mr Gunter will present a variety of numbers including religious, contemporary American and spiritual songs. Two parts of the program will be devoted to old Italian and French songs. Mr Gunter, director of the college choir and assistant professor of voice, has been a resident of Tallahassee for several years. He received his AB at the University of Florida and his Master of Sacred Music degree at Union Theological Seminary in New York City.

Mrs Beard's program will include "Concerto for Organ No 13" by Handel; "Fugue in D Major" by Bach; Franck's "Chorale in B Minor;" "Toccata" by Gigout; "Echo" by Yoo; Sowerby's "Come Autumn Time"; "Elegie" by Peeters; and "Finale from First Symphony" by Vierne.

La Meri Tells Story of Her Travels, Studies and Work

"Commercializing religious dances of the East would be to Orientals as sacreligious as jazzing up a version of 'Nearer My God to Thee' would be to us," stated Miss La Meri, authority on and performer of ethnological and exotic dances of lands all over the world, in an interview wit. Flambeau reporters last Saturday.

Miss La Meri related how she studied the religious dances of India, Java, China. In these countries she had to convinc the people that she wanted to learn their dances so that she could present them truthfully to the world, for appreciation and understanding, not for exploitation.

"After learning a dance in these countries, I always performed it for the natives to pass judgment," she revealed, "to be sure that my interpretation of the spirit and expression of the dance was typical."

Leaning forward to have her cigarette lighted, La Meri expressed the opinion that the dances of the Hindus of Northern India, some of which are over [illegible],000 years old, are the most interesting dances she has studied, since they express the history of these people, their feelings, desires and emotions over the years. Each movement in their dances has a definite meaning and cannot be interpreted individually. "They are so intriguing and fascinating, so complex, I could never learn all about them," she said.

Continuing, Miss La Meri remarked that she believes the dance, not the music of the land, is the foremost reflector of a people. "Dance is a more sincere and freer expression of the innermost feelings and emotions. When people become more educated and cultured their dances become correspondingly less expressive. If a dance typical of America is to emerge, it will undoubtedly come from the Negro race."

"Audiences," Miss La Meri

(Continued on page Two)

Report Given By Lynn, Hill

Amendment Is Discussed At Constitution Forum

No one except the voters is authorized to disqualify a candidate who has met general and specific requirements for her office, and whose court record and justification for candidacy have been published. This is the principle on which changes were made by the amendment committee, according to Robin Hill who addressed Student Forum last night.

The topic for discussion was the work done on Article XIII of the CGA constitution by last year's amendment committee, and the suggestions made by the Faculty Committee on Student Affairs for continued work on this article. Miss Elizabeth Lynn represented the Faculty Committee on the panel, and Robin Hill spoke for the student amendment committee.

Miss Lynn urged the students who are revising the constitution to be careful in phraseology. "Be sure that what you write down is what you have in mind for the article to mean," she continued. The organization and functioning of Senate is one of the main topics to be considered in working on the constitution, suggested Miss Lynn.

The forum was the first official meeting of the newly elected Student Constitution committee. The 36 upperclass members of this

(Continued on page Two)

Day Students Elect

Newly elected day student officers for the coming year are: Jean Thomas, senate representative; Barbara Gilmore, publicity chairman; Jean Dance, athletic manager; and Daphne Rowe, chairman of entertainment committee. Jean Gard was elected to plan for the weekend at camp.

All meetings are compulsory and are held the first Monday of every month at 4:30 pm in the day students' room.

Senate Discusses Dancing on Sunday

Report Given on Late Entrance Privileges for Non-Senior Hall

The possibilities of Sunday dancing on campus were discussed at a meeting of Student Senate Wednesday afternoon and the matter was referred to Martha Peacock, third vice-president of College Government association, for presentation in a student forum.

Members discussed whether this question is a moral issue and suggested that the desire to dance on Sunday would be much less if other forms of recreation were provided. The Social Standards council and the Women's Recreation association were asked to consider possible activities that could be provided.

A report concerning the extension of late entrance privlieges to seniors not living on Senior Hall, which is now being considered by the legislative committee of college council, was also given at this time by Dalia Santos, chairman of senate. Even if it is approved by that committee and by college council, the measure could not go into effect until next year, she stated.

Jean Furman, Ann Singleton and Lea Wells were elected to fill vacancies on the legislative and codifying committee and Pat Dillard was elected as a member of the Senate steering committee, replacing Esther Rasmussen, who resigned because of ill health.

A report concerning the official results of the election of representatives to the Constitutional convention was presented by Janice Richey, chairman of the Senate steering committee.

FSC Campus Is Location Of Convention

State Music Teachers To Attend Meetings November 4 and 5

Colin English Will Speak; Fletcher to Give Concert

Four hundred teachers and music lovers are expected to attend the twelfth annual convention of the State Music Teachers' Association November 4 and 5 on the Florida State College campus. Colin English, State Supervisor of Public Instruction, will deliver the principal address Monday evening at the annual convention banquet.

Lyman P Prior, president of the Jacksonville College of Music and president of the convention, will call the convention to order at 9 a m Monday in the Longmire building auditorium. A series of panel discussions with illustrations by participating members will highlight the Monday morning program. The program will include a presentation of original songs and music under the direction of the Florida Composer's league. In connection with the panel discussion groups, exhibits will be displayed consisting of recent publications in piano literature.

The annual conventio banquet will be held in the college dining hall Monday evening. Following the banquet, Stanley Fletcher, current Artist Series guest, will present an all-Chopin request program. A complimentary block of seats will be reserved for the convention members and associate members. The evening's program will be concluded with a reception honoring Mr Fletcher in the Longmire building.

On Tuesday morning there will be a three hour session of discussion on piano technique. Mr Fletcher will lecture particularly on the music of Chopin and illustrate at the keyboard. All convention members are eligible to play for his suggestions. During the piano class the band, orchestra, and choral clinics will be presented.

The FSC symphonic orchestra will again perform with William Presser conducting when orchestra clinic is presented. Karl O Kuersteiner, Dean of School of Music, will be among the guest conductors for this clinic. Herman Gunter, assistant professor of voice, will be one of the guest conductors at the choral clinic. All persons attending the convention are invited to participate in any or all of the clinics.

The noon session will feature an address by Mrs W C Brooker, president of the Florida Federation of Music Clubs, followed by two organ selections by Mrs Ramona C Beard. A voice interlude by Walter James, a former FSC music instructor, and Herman Gunter, with Mary Esther Win-

(Continued on page Twa)

Stanley Fletcher, American pianist, whose all-Chopin concert will be presented Monday and Wednesday, November 4 and, 6 in Westcott auditorium, as a feature of the Artist Series.

Sullivan Wins DM Presidency

Fifteen Officers Chosen In Two-Day Election

"We want a pleasant situation here," said John R Sullivan, newly elected president of the Dale Mabry student body, when asked about his aims for the present term, "I have full confidence in faculty cooperation."

Milton Flack, vice president of the student body, stated that the students of the University branch are mature people, and that therefore, he is in favor of minimum restrictions. "I intend to block all restrictive measures not absolutely necessary," he said.

Secretary of the student body, Dean Wentworth, said that, while he was also opposed to unnecessary restrictions, he intended to support legislation which would improve conditions here.

"We intend to provide a well rounded social program," stated Jesse Wilson, social chairman for the student body. "The formation of various committees has already begun."

It was impossible to reach Robert Sanders, student body treasurer, in time for him to make a statement for publication.

Defeated candidates for student body offices were Billy Fussel for president; Charlie Campbell for vice president; Charles Hendry for secretary; Keith MacRay for treasurer; and Wayne Koger, Neil Stanfill and Dick Howard for social chairmen.

CLASS ELECTIONS

Newly elected president of the freshman class is Gordon Higginbottom; Joseph Peel was elected vice-president and Charles Dyson secretary. James Adams is the treasurer and D L Middlebrook the social chairman.

James Pavy, Carol Holley, Arthus Cobb and Lemoyne Cash were defeated for president of the freshman class; Donald Jones Fred Drake, Charles Tobias, James Baird and Charlie Dyson were defeated for vice presidential office; while Wayne Adams and

(Continued on page Two)

Fabric on Display In Longmire Bldg

An exhibit of textured fabrics will be on display in the auditorium of the Longmire building until Sunday, sponsored by the department of art education under the direction of Miss Mary Mooty.

The exhibit is of a variety of weaves and colors of decorators' samples from the Scalamandre Silks of New York City.

Miss Mooty announced that two similar exhibitions will be held later in the winter and in the spring. The next one will be of printed textiles and the spring exhibit will be of reproductions of historic textiles and brocades.

Club Reads History

A history of the local chapter of the Pre-Medical club was presented and committee chairmen selected at its first meeting of the year, held Wednesday evening. Plans for the year were also formulated at this time by the organization, which is sponsored by Alpha Epsilon, national pre-medical honorary.

New officers will be elected at a second meeting of the club to be held this week, according to Bopie Whitaker, president. Newly selected committee chairmen are Margaret Parker, program; Marian Turrentine, social, and Ann Teague, film.

Noted Pianist Will Present Two Concerts

Stanley Fletcher to Play All-Chopin Programs Monday and Wednesday

Tickets Will Be Available At Each Performance

Stanley Fletcher, American pianist, will present two all-Chopin concerts on Monday and Wednesday evenings at 8:15 in the auditorium at Florida State College. Students holding blue season tickets will attend the concert on Monday night and those holding red tickets will go Wednesday. Tickets will be available at the box office before each performance.

Fletcher, who was born in England, gave his first public concert at the age of sixteen. Guy Maier, the great American artist-teacher, gave Fletcher a four year scholarship to the University of Michigan, which he finished in three years, meanwhile winning a $1250 literary prize for a series of essays on musical criticism. After graduation Fletcher made a tour of Europe which was interrupted by the war. He returned to this country to win the $1000 Kate Neal Kinley fellowship in fine arts and to make his New York debut.

The two programs to be presented will be entirely different. The program on Monday will include: Berceuse, Opus 27; Three Mazurkas; Sonata in B flat minor, Opus 35, Grave, Scherzo, Marche Funebre, Presto; Four Etudes, A flat, Opus 25, Number 1, E major, Opus 10, Number 3, G flat, Opus 10, Number 5, C minor, Opus 10, Number 12; Waltz, A Flat, Opus 42; Ballade, F minor, Opus 52; Five Preludes, C minor, A flat, D major, B flat, G minor; Two Nocturnes, Opus 27, Number 1, C sharp minor, Number 2 D flat; and Polonaise.

The Wednesday night program will be as follows: Five Preludes, Opus 28, Numbers 15, 23, 4, 3, and 24; Fantasie, F minor, Opus 49; Barcarolle, Opus 61; Four Waltzes, A flat, Opus 34, Number 1, D flat, Opus 34, Number 2, C sharp minor, Opus 64, Number 1, E minor; Polonaise, A major, Opus 40, Number 1; Three Nocturnes, F sharp, Opus 15, Number 2, E flat, Opus 9, Number 2, C minor, Opus 48, Number 1; Four Etudes, E flat, Opus 10, Number 11, F minor, Opus 25, Number 2, A flat, from "Three New Etudes," E minor, Opus 25, Number 5; Fantasie, Impromptu; and Scherzo in B flat minor, Opus 31

Visitors Speak in Journalism Classes

Mrs Teresa Myers and Read Wynn of station WTAL visited the 201 journalism classes Wednesday morning to tell the students about the relation of journalism to radio work.

Mr Wynn traced the production of a commercial program from its beginning to the moment when it finally goes on the air. Other topics included in the discussion were the place of the radio in modern life, its influence on public opinion, its advertising effectiveness, its opportunities for journalism students, its duties to the people at large, its similarities to and differences from newspaper work and the technicalities of radio operation and production.

FSC Soon to Annex Dale Mabry Heights

Florida State College is soon to have access to the property west of the campus, known as Dale Mabry Heights, Dr Doak S Campbell, president, announced this week

The unit is now in the hands of the Florida Housing Projects Arministration and will soon be turned over to the college with the understanding that the veterans who are now housed in the 100 family units will remain there until the housing emergency is over. Until the deactivation of Dale Mabry air base, these units were occupied by non-commissioned officers.

Voting Display

Now on display at the Information Center of the library is material concerning voting. The purpose of this exhibit is to show those of voting age how to use the voting machine and in general to point out the importance of their participation.

Of especial interest is a book of qualifications for voters This exhibit will remain in the library through Tuesday.

An Ounce Of Prevention

By Earl L Vance

(NOTE: The following editorial was written at the special request of the Faculty-student Committee in charge of arrangements for the mass X-ray program of the State Board of Health which is to be on the campus next week.)

Not all of man's afflictions and miseries are avoidable. But a surprisingly large number of them are. For instance, war, hookworm, religious and racial persecution, ignorance and all the miseries that grow out of it.

And now, too, one of the worst scourges man has faced for centuries—tuberculosis—can virtually be stamped out. A century ago some 400 persons per 100,000 died of tuberculosis. Then a German scientist, Dr Robert Koch, identified the bacillus which causes it. This knowledge plus improved methods of treatment plus improved living conditions by 1930 had reduced the death rate from tuberculosis in the United States to 71 and by 1945 to 45 per 100,000—hardly more than a tenth what it had been a century before.

And yet even at the present figure tuberculosis leads all other diseases as a cause of death between the ages of 15 and 40, and it is fifth for all ages. Every year in the the United States about half as many persons dies of tuberculosis as were killed each year in the recent war, and mainly they come from the same age group—persons in the prime of life. Ages 15-25 are particularly susceptible.

Mostly, we are assured, these deaths aren't necessary. If discovered in time tuberculosis can be cured. And by means of the X-ray it can be discovered in time.

Next week, as part of a determined campaign on the part of the State Board of Health to eradicate tuberculosis in Florida, a mobile X-ray unit will be set up on this campus. It has the latest equipment and the trained personnel to discover the tubercle bacillus long before you or I would know we had him or before he has done us much harm. If we find we have him we can get rid of him and live out our normal lives. If we don't get rid of him he ultimately will get rid of us. That is the way he works.

But—there is always a hut—we have to have the picture made. It will take perhaps 15 or 20 minutes of our valuable time. Actually it takes but 30 seconds to make the picture—no removing of clothes, no preparation, you just step up and you're through. It doesn't cost you a penny, and every individual report is held in strictest confidence, being given only to you.

You'd think, after all this, wouldn't you, that no sane person would fail to appear for a test. Well, you're mistaken. In past years the cooperation has been good hut it ought to be much better. As the unit has returned to the campus year after year, the response has tended to get worse, doubtless due to an honest misapprehension on the part of students and faculty that only one test is necessary. Actually tuberculosis has been discovered here in which the individual had been X-rayed only the year before and found free of it. You should be X-rayed even though you were only last year.

All this goes for students, for the faculty, staff, employes, maids, workmen, and their families. The tests are free to all. The unit will be here from November 4-11—a full week beginning next Monday, excepting Saturday and Sunday. The hours are from 2-6 p m and the place is Landis Green, in front of the dining hall.

And let's do this thing. For remember, tuberculosis is like ignorance—it is not only a menace to the one who has it but to everybody else. Being democratic, we want to live with you—but what with ignorance and/or tuberculosis one could become just a bit trying.

SPIRIT OF THE WEEK

● "TO THINE OWN SELF . . ."

The problem of whether students in a state institution should be allowed to dance on Sunday was presented in our Student Senate meeting this week and is to be the topic of a student forum to be held in the very near future. We have been told before that the impression such liberties would create throughout the state might not be favorable that it might offend the religious tenets of many citizens.

We grant that the above two arguments are valid. BUT NOT TO THE EXTREMES TO WHICH THEY ARE CARRIED. It seems that the question as to whether or not one dances on Sunday is a personal issue, one to be dealt with as the individual sees fit. If something is completely foreign to a person's way of life, she or he could not be expected to indulge in any activity which would belie that way. However, if, for instance, dancing on Sunday is a frequent or occasional occurrence in one's life at home, why should that person be deprived of pursuing his natural course of action Those who wish to dance on Sunday should be allowed to do so; those who feel that it is not the proper recreation for Sunday are not obliged to do so.

Recreational facilities on campus are limited as it is due to the increased enrollment, Tennis courts and ping-pong tables cannot accommodate all those interested over the weekend. Golf fees are higher on Sunday, and horses are always hard to find and expensive to ride. It is impossible at the present time for mixed groups to swim either at camp or in the college swimming pool. In short, there are very few ways of spending the extra Sunday recreation hours on campus for a majority of the students.

Movies provide the one alternative, and they, too, are against the religious beliefs of some. Those who do not approve Sunday movies do not attend on Sunday. Bridge games are frequent, but those too are opposed to some religious beliefs and are not participated in hy many. Can not dancing be handled in the same way?

As for the impression upon visitors, would it not be better for them to find a happy, cheerful group of people rather than a listless campus?

After being in class for a complete week, studying in the library and participating in extra-curricular activities, all of which are not only services to the individual but services to the school, we have little time left for recreation.

With all views on such matters so divergent and so conflicting, each person should be held accountable only to himself and the ideals he has set for himself.

● DO WE WANT A CO-OP

OPA prices are off most consumer goods. The cost of living seems to be on the upsweep, and no one can be precisely—or even generally—sure where prices will finally level off. Elliot Roosevelt has been quoted as saying, "We will see bread at $15.00 a loaf."

Although ex-Colonel Roosevelt may have exaggerated the ultimate cost of living in our rapidly changing economy, we are all conscious of a rise in prices that will affect the consumer of text books, chocolate sundaes, candy bars, notebook paper, and other sundry articles, as well as the housewife and business man.

As a group, the students of Florida State College spend a great deal of money in the various business establishments on and about campus. With the college students as the main supporters of these places, and the economic truth that business cannot operate long without showing profit, it is easy to see that money amounting to thousands of dollars are made by the people who operate these places.

As prices rise, more student money will be poured into the pockets of other people down the line. Part of this money could be saved hy the advent of a student co-operative here at FSC.

Off and on for the past four years there have been movements pointing toward the establishment of a co-operative on campus. Students have seen the actual savings to other student consumers in schools where such organizations exist; now when such savings mean more than ever before, it is time to investigate the possibilities of having a co-op here.

● REMINDER

There are only 57 more days until Christmas, and we invite student comment on our editorial comment at any and all times. We invite you to take advantage of our "Forever Hold Your Peace" column with the only price of admission being your signature at the end of your letter.

● WHICH IS YOUR CHOICE?

In an address last week in Chicago at the Associated Collegiate Press convention, Dr William Young, director of the National Conference of Christians and Jews, made a statement which is one of the most important things for a student to retain as a "must": "Think for yourself."

Dr Young's words were more of a challenge to the alert-minded youth of today when he pointed out that in colleges the professor may be wrong: that if the student is not on his or her guard, the professor may well mix him up; that the youth of the present day should cultivate a healthy suspicion of possible fundamental and basic error on the part of those who are supposed to know.

This attitude of complacency is, pitifully, world-wide in its prevalence. We, as leaders of tomorrow, are satisfied with the answers given for yesterday. We too often lack the drive, the free spirit of inquiry which is necessary for a progressive world into which many of us are soon to take an active part.

The question which each of us needs to ask ourselves is: Am I becoming a glorified stooge of the ambiguous word, "education?" Am I making any great progress in a quest on my own for a true education? Have I learned to weigh and recognize true education, or do I have in mind merely a reasonable facsimile?

We are fertile soil in which weeds or fruit may flourish. It is left to us to make the choice between the two. By expressing our thoughts freely, whether it be in constitution forums, in daily class recitation, in informal gatherings or what have you, we may prepare our minds for logical reasoning, not as a Charlie McCarthy, but as an individual thinker. Which do you choose?

In This Our Time

By MARGIE CLARK

NATIONAL AFFAIRS:

Price control was lifted from footwear, hides, skins and leather Wednesday night. The order requiring production of minimum amounts of cotton and textile goods was revoked also.

For the second time within two weeks, the nation's cotton exchange trading was suspended temporarily, as President Truman conferred with government officials on means to boost the sagging cotton prices. President Frank J Knell of the New York Exchange announced that a check would be made of 20 to 30 member firms active in cotton trading

John L Lewis will make demands to Secretary of Interior J A Krug, and Coal Mines Administrator N H Collisson today in regard to the soft coal miners. This will include a demand for higher pay for 400,000 soft coal miners Krug and Collisson made no commitments in regard to reopening the Krug-Lewis contract which ended the strike last spring

Announcement of a newly developed reciprocating aircraft engine, which was described as the most powerful in the world today was made by the Army Air forces This new motor, the X-7, will, according to the AAF, increase the range of giant bombers by 1,500 miles, or increase the payload of similar planes by 50 000 pounds

FOREIGN AFFAIRS:

Russia's stand for world-wide arms limitation was backed fully by the United States. The Soviet Union further stated a demand for effective inspections to safeguard such a program. Warren R Austin, chief of the United States delegation to the United Nations assembly told the delegation that the "United States urges disarmament, and would cooperate fully with other nations towards this end."

The army temporarily postponed its plan for a world-girdling flight of superforts, but officials familiar with the plan predicted that the plan would be carried out in the not-too-distant future. Postponement of the flight was made because of the state department's fear that it would bring fresh charges of "sabre rattling", from other countries, particularly Russia.

The United States and Great Britain have been accused by Yugoslavia of repeated violetions of the United Nations charter. She declared that "certain circles were attempting to use the atom bomb as a means for intimidating the world" Yugoslav Foreign Minister Stanoje Simich attacked the western powers on a dozen counts in one of the most aggressive speeches made to the UNO so far He accused the US of illegally holding Yugoslav vessels on the upper Danube and of refusing to turn over to them "Quislings" now in displaced persons camps.

Lost Articles

(Continued from page One)

deluge of rain there is an influx of raincoats and umbrellas. Formal dances often mean lost evening wraps.

Tally lassies apparently are quite alert in missing their lost treasures because there are calls for the majority of found objects. There are some things, though, which seem to have become permanent additions to the department. Two evening wraps and a black wool suit hold the record for length of stay. The suit has haunted the depths of the Lost and Found closet for at least a year. The two jackets rival its record with a stay of a year each

Perhaps the most ironical incident in the recent history of this much-referred-to department is the one associated with a yellow raincoat.

Week after week last year the same girl approached the desk hesitantly after the first half-dozen times proved fruitless).

"Has a yellow raincoat been turned in?" she would ask.

The answer was always no. The girl must have given up after her eleventieth and one try. She hasn't returned since to the desk.

That's right, you guessed it. Only three or four days after the last request, the yellow raincoat appeared. Incidentally, it is still among the unclaimed items.

"The most valuable of the returned articles at present are two watches and a ring," reports Mrs Gulick. "We will be glad to return them upon proper identification."

Each May and December the Lost and Found department features an auction sale of unclaimed articles in the Longmire auditorium. The more valuable items are not auctioned but are kept in the department in case the owners belatedly call for them.

◆

Illinois ranks fifth among states of the Union in total acreage of crops harvested.

Speech Play

(Continued from page One)

stantly charging up the stairs and off to Panama to dig the canal. Romantic relief is provided by their young nephew, Mortimer, and his girl, Elaine.

The cast for this play, which includes three women and eleven men, is as follows: Teddy, Herbert Sessions; Abby, Elaine Parramore; Martha, Mary Ann Cannon; Mortimer, Dick Mitchell; Elaine, Bet Cargill; Dr Harper, Jack Richey; O'Hara, Paul Johnson; Klein, Benny Walker; Rooney, D L Middlebrooks; Brooky, David T Burns; Dibbs, J L Falds; Jonathan, Frank Lewis; Einstein, Johnny Folsom; Witherspoon, Jack Richey. Nine of the eleven male parts are being played by men enrolled in the University of Florida branch at FSC. This production is under the direction of Miss Yvonne Cody, instructor in speech.

Sullivan Wins

(Continued from page One)

Bobby Varnadoe were losers on the ticket for treasurer. Defeated candidate for freshman social chairman was Bill Graham.

The upperclassmen elected George Croy their president, and Jack Richey, vice president. Mallory Horne is the upperclassman secretary; John Brown, treasurer and Charles Campbell, social chairman.

Defeated in the upperclassman elections were Wilson Roberts and Jack Pease for president; Roy Rhodes and Bill Dearman for vice president; and Melvin Courson for secretary.

◆

LOST: One brown leather case with blue-rimmed glasses and blue Eversharp, gold-topped fountain pen inside. Please return to Audrey Bach since I need the glasses and attach great sentimental value to the pen. Reward if brought to 530 Gilchrist, or dropped into campus mail if the finder wishes to remain unknown.

THE KITCHEN SINK

Chicago, Chicago, Chicago, To Tune of the Same Name

(All McLeod and a Yard Tall)

Five sleepy, excited, and bewildered girls gathered in Bryan hall shortly after midnight, October 21. Burdened with hat boxes, coats, suitcases and books they went to the bus station to catch a bus for Thomasville. But Thomasville was not their destination. Oh, no. There were five delegates—Shirley Rodgers (top woman on the totem pole), B J McLeod and Bee Dowd (chief stooges of this outfit), May Alexander (wielder of the rod), and Jean Sharer who defies description—from Florida State College going to the Associated Collegiate Press convention in Chicago.

After 18 hours of disturbing the tranquil peace of the reclining chair cars of the Southwind and the people who occupied them, our quintet blew into the "Windy City" along with a couple of other refugees from Alabama State Teachers college. The first real blow in the city came when the desk clerk at the Continental (42 floors of friendly hospitality: professed absolute ignorance of any ACP convention meeting this year. We immediately became the helpless flowers of Southern womanhood, and he put the aforementioned motto of the hotel in action immediately by assigning us to a suite that was an exit to the fire escape. There were sleeping places for only four people and a small fifth, viz—you guess who. I was very comfortable practicing Yogi for six hours out of 24.

After pretzeling through the first night, I joined my compatriots, and we went out to gawk around the big city.

The first stop of cultural interest was at the Chicago Theatre where Danny Kaye was making a personal appearance. We stormed the balcony, stopping only long enough to appreciate the beautiful architecture (it really was) that had been wasted in the construction of a mere movie palace. Three shows later we were exhausted from yelling "Anatole of Paris" every time Danny called for requests, and we decided to try to see about tickets for some of the other minor attractions such as "Oklahoma" and "State of the Union."

We found "Oklahoma" as good as reputed, liked the dancing best, and have already written a new version of "Poor Jud." Thanks to Dr Irish we caught many of the scintillating, caustic comments in "State of the Union" that went by many of the other people. I was not one of the favored three who saw Gertrude in "Follow the Girls" because Rodg and I were busy with a couple of Floridamen at the Black Hawk that night.

We were tres chic at Jacques, hungry at the broadcast of the Breakfast Club, and ridiculous when we went ice skating at the arena. We didn't skate much, but as Sharer quipped, "We were on the ice a lot."

We visited Olde Heidelberg, a very nice place which Sharer insisted on re-naming "the Irishman's joint." The outstanding discovery of the trip was those wonderful chain places called "Thompson's" which feed one for a pittance and bring back fond memories of the DH.

We visited the planetarium and spent two wonderful imaginary years travelling over the heavens of the northern hemisphere, and have decided that Dr Richards needs one here for his physical science classes. The same day we found Florida fish amongst all the others at the Shedd aquarium, and visited the Field museum, where we found the Cro-magnon man which bore definite resemblance to Bee Dowd.

The Art Institute was another thing that made working the convention in so difficult. Convention, did I say? Oh, yes, there was a convention. We just aren't mentioning it because it was sponsored by the Tribune, and Mr Vance wouldn't approve.

The last night we were in Chicago, we had an FSC reunion with three girls—Evelyn Ayrault, Louise Cason, and Vee Linton—out in Evanston. As we came back to the hotel and they returned to the University of Chicago, we stood on the corner of Randolph and State across the street from Marshall Field's and sang to the glory of our "alma mammy."

The next morning early, as we left that beautiful city loaded with maps, napkins, matches, menus, pamphlets, time tables and one stein for root beer, Rodg was weeping quietly because we refused to hel her tuck the Merchandise Mart into her tunic for the new Flambeau office.

La Meri Tells

(Continued from page One)

smiled, "vary according to the climate." In places with weather typically bad at night such as London, people enjoy more the artistic performances than in places where the climate is good and the nights are clear and warm. American audiences are different in that they want to be amused. She feels that Americans "are an extrovert people" with a desire to laugh and be happy.

Besides her achievements as a performer of dances from all over the world, La Meri speaks Italian and understands French and Spanish. She also runs her own school of dancing in New York City. In this school she follows her belief in the individual method of learning, that a pupil can learn the way he wishes. "If he wants to start with the finished dance and work back to the beginning, that is all right. The individual interpretation and expression is the thing."

Speaking with what she termed "American, not English," Miss La Meri had a word of advice for students with artistic desires. "We are what we are. Find out what you like and fulfill your desire to express yourself. A person should want to dance, not to be a dancer."

Miss La Meri has a repertoire of over a hundred dances. She has to travel by train because of the several tons of costumes she carries with her. With no immediate plans for future travel she intends to return to New York and the business of running her dancing school. She hopes to go to South America for further study as soon as conditions are near normal again and travel accommodations can be arranged.

FSC Campus

(Continued from page One)

slow as accompanist will also be included on the program.

The final session Tuesday afternoon will include a recital featuring the winners of the Florida Federation of Music Clubs District contests plus representative young artists from other districts. The convention will close with the election of officers for the coming year and the selection of next year's convention city.

The auditorium will be available for any members who may wish to rehearse there in preparation for convention performances between the hours of 7 and 10 o'clock Sunday evening.

◆

As far as scientists have been able to determne, working with stone is man's oldest craft.

Tally Ho

By "O B" KITCHEN

FROM THE MOUTHS OF BABES

The "Ideal Man" is one clever enuf to make money and foolish enuf to spend it . . . She throws herself at him, but he always manages to catch her at it . . Santa Claus is the only one who can run around with a bag all night and not get talked about . . You're inevitably master of the man you don't desire and the slave of the one you do! Sister, you are sooo right!

NEVER A DULL MOMENT:

"Playniter's" intriguing publicity stunt for their circus carnival Saturday night: the gaily be-ribboned horse sauntering around campus the day before with a "Clown Crier" on its back . . . the provocative La Meri at the Artist series (nuff said!) . . . social activities, like Topsy, have "just growed" around hyar (another beeg dance at the DMC officer's club tomorrow night!) . . . Investiture Tuesday night leaving seniors with that "we-have-arrived" feeling. Oh, bliss!

UNMENTIONABLES:

"Bums" who take your last cigarette (when you're broke, to boot!) . . . pompous "proctors", extremely duty-minded and obsessed with their own importance . . . "teachers pets" (see first row in any class) who insist upon monopolizing all discussions . . . antagonists in the Westcott mall rush . . . the preponderance of anti-chivalrists on Dale Mabry torture-wagons . . . Oh, well. To each his own!

DIPLOMA-ADDICT

A college student is one who enters his Alma Mater as a freshman dressed in green, and emerges as a senior in black. The intermediate process of decay is known as a college education. That's all brother!

Report Given

(Continued from page One)

committee met on Monday night with the Senate Steering committee to organize into groups for work on specific articles in the constitution.

The regular business meetings of the Constitution committee will be held on Mondays at 6:45 p m in room 402 Longmire building. These meetings are open to the student body with discussion limited to members of the Constitution committee. In addition, the sub-committees will meet once a week to work on their individual topics in the constitution.

◆

Mayfield, Ky, is the site of the world's largest ceramic clay pits.

Male Eye View

By LUCIUS DANIELS

WHY IS AN ASSEMBLY?

"If more of the students don't start coming to these meetings," said Dean McBride at last week's assembly, "We are going to start checking attendance, making it really compulsory."

• • •

That's one way to do it. Another way would be to follow the suggestion given to this column the other day and eliminate the assemblies entirely.

While the necessity for a weekly assembly for the first few weeks was obvious, in order to form the student government and other things requiring the presence of the entire student body, all it is now is a place for making announcements — a job which could be done easier, better, and quicker by a small mimeographed sheet.

• • •

At one of the first meetings Dean McBride said that since we had no traditions to go on, our rules would be formed according to what was found necessary. Unfortunately, "necessary" can mean more than one thing, depending on the point of view—from the point of view of the desires of the faculty or the needs of the students.

What happens about these assemblies will show us what it means.

FSC RATIONS

When the cafeteria was first set up at Dale Mabry a sigh of relief went up from the students who had been eating the girl-sized meals on the campus. At last a man was able to sit down to a breakfast composed of something more than a lukewarm cup of coffee and a tired slice of half toasted bread.

But there is still one catch. When they planned a breakfast and dinner for us young growing boys somebody forgot about lunch. The other day lunch consisted of two thin cheese sandwiches, a bowl of rabbit food, and a little fruit. It tasted good, but most of us could have used about three times as much of it.

FLASTACOED

At last week's assembly a motion was passed to join with the FSC annual, the Flastacowo. Somebody thought that since we were going to have a part in the annual we ought to have part in the name, too.

Best of the suggested names was "Flastaco-ed," until Dr McBride made his nomination. He thinks it ought to be called the "Flastaco-woo."

The alumnae wouldn't like that.

DALE MABRY MERRY-GO-ROUND

In the student body officers meeting last week Vice President Milton Flack stood up and asked if anything was going to be done about the cut system for men.

The meeting was immediately and rapidly adjourned.

Skeleton in Coffin-Crate Creates Curiosity in Crowd

Arriving at her room after classes Monday, Frances Myers found a curious crowd gathered around a nine-foot box of ominous proportions, which was addressed to her from Rockmart, Georgia. "It looks like a coffin," one of the spectators volunteered. "Maybe it has a cadaver in it," another cheerful soul added. Little did they know!

"It does look like a coffin, doesn't it?" Frances said. Nevertheless, a hammer was found and the boarding was cleared away, leaving the contents exposed to view.

A profound hush fell over the group. Girls looked at one another, half fearfully. A negro man working on the lights in the hall turned pale and clutched his stepladder. For there, grinning up at the astonished group, was a human skeleton!

After the first surprise, excited Spirogira members rushed to Dr Raymond F Bellamy for advice about this grisly gift received by their president. He was called out of class, but at first was as puzzled as anyone about the problem However, when Frances said, "I won't sleep in the same room with that skeleton," several girls picked it up bodily and carried it to the biology department. Dr Ezda Deviney was surprised, to say the least. "It is a very well-preserved skeleton," she said. "I don't know how anyone not in some scientific profession could have acquired it."

The skeleton has all its parts, with the exception of half of one arm. Dr Deviney estimated its worth at about $125.

Spirogira members are still wondering what to do. "I don't even know anybody from Rockmart, Georgia!" Frances keeps saying. "I wonder if we'll be prosecuted."

Faculty Members Go To Annual Meeting

The history department of Florida State College was represented by five faculty members at the twelfth annual meeting of the Southern Historical association which was held in Birmingham, Alabama, Wednesday and Thursday of this week. Those attending from FSC were Dr Robert Cotterill, Dr Ruth Bourne, Dr Mary E Thomas, Miss Mary E Mitchell and Miss Claudia L Salley.

The meeting began Wednesday afternoon, at which time speeches were devoted to Southern and European history. Birmingham Southern hotel was host at a luncheon meeting Thursday. A complimentary dinner, held at Howard College Thursday night, ended the Southern teachers' meeting.

Former FSC Student Goes to England

Miss Evelyn Hammer, who received her AB degree from Florida State College in 1932, is one of the 70 women and four men teachers now participating in an exchange program with the British. Miss Hammer, who is from Dunedin, is being replaced by Miss Mary Hustler of England, who will teach in the Dunedin schools this year.

Miss Hammer was chosen by the Unitd State Office of Education with the aid of the State Department of Public Instruction after the British Ministry of Education broached the subject of exchange teachers with the American Sttae Department. If this experiment proves successful, the teacher exchange program will be extended to other countries.

The Florida Flambeau

1946-1947 STAFF
EDITORIAL STAFF

SHIRLEY RODGERS	Editor
BETTY DOWD, B J McLEOD, LOLA ROSE	Associate Editors
JOYCE PETTY	Managing Editor
BARBARA FARRAR	Assistant Managing Editor
LAURA LEE BUTLER, JEAN DOUGLAS	News Editors

Copy Editor	Winifred Lane
Assistant Copy Editor	Eleanor Bayer
Society Editor	Madge Pilcher
Assistant Society Editor	Paulette Blank
Feature Editors	Alicia Armstrong, Barbara Beckman
Sports Editor	Evelyn Shea
Outside News Editor	Marjorie Clark
Opinion Editor	June Orindstaff
Headline Editor	M J Sherman
Columnists	Beryl Kitchen and "Sharpie"
Picture Editor	Paulette Blank
Art Editor	Jean Sharer
Copy Girl	Robin Hill

REPORTERS: Dorothy Aberle, Katheryn Aspinwall, Inez Augustine, Jeanna Bagley, Audrey Melba Bach, Barbara Brown, John W Cash, Reginald Cash, Hazel Clarkson, Bob Cooksey, Mary Elizabeth Conant, Carol Coughlan, Lucius Daniel, Doris Love Dorsey, Francine Dunning, Jeanne DuPree, Mary Frances Ewart, Jane Hardacre, Jeani Harris, Alice Haywood, Linda Herold, Dorothy Ann Holland, Mildred Frances Hull, Lois Elizabeth Lovett, Rosemary McCay, Bobbie Annie Meffert, Elizabeth Milton, Anne Moore, Cheryl Muster, Francis North, Christine Puckett, Janice Richey, Charma Rosenvaig, Jackie Story, Charlotte Scott, Mary Charles Skipper, Pat Small, Nancy Stevens, Theresa Sellers, Alice Sharp, Betty Sue Tayloe, Ann Tucker, Betty Wilkinson, Nancy Wright, Joanne Zawadski.

BUSINESS STAFF

Business Manager	Vivian L. Scheaffer
Advertising Manager	Nancy Stevens
Circulation Manager	Margie Berns
Exchange Manager	Gladys Clark
Billing Assistant	Jean Lieberman

Entered as second class mail matter, January 30, 1915, at the post office at Tallahassee, Fla. under the act of Congress of March 3, 1879

Member
Intercollegiate Press

It is the policy of the Flambeau to grant equal space and prominence to anyone wishing to present a contrary opinion whenever opinions on controversial questions are voiced in its columns.

Cashin' In

By JOHN CASH

psets are becoming common-ce occurrences in the topsy y 1946 football campaign. is was evidenced last Saturday en previously undefeated Ten-see, Texas and North Carolina wed before Wake Forest, Rice Virginia Tech.

nly Army, Notre Dame, Penn-vania, Georgia, UCLA and Har- remain in the select group undefeated, untied elevens. hwestern, North Carolina and gon, though undefeated, have en once tied.

Barring further form reversals, my and Notre Dame will move o their November 9 clash still eathed by the throes of defeat. e West Pointers tackle West inia and the Irishmen take on -beaten Navy tomorrow.

In games this week that could ly see more unbeaten teams pled. Northwestern bumps into n State, North Carolina faces nnessee, Oregon meets South- California and Georgia vies n Alabama in their traditional ssic. A fray that will pit beaten still formidable elevens will the Georgia Tech-Duke scramhe same old story—lack of re-e strength—was obvious in University of Florida's fifth secutive loss last Saturday. In h Carolina the Gators were ng one of the nation's top ms, but still had enough to re three quarters of the con- with only a 9-point deficit.

Same Old Story

At least Florida had "plenty of stice." The great Tar Heel back, arlie Justice, made two scintil-ng touchdown gallops of 70 90 yards during the course of e game.

Despite the loss of Florida's gy end, Broughton "Brute" liams of Tampa, regained his ional lead in number of passes eived and total yards made via e air waves. Williams added ht tosses to 15 previous catches d 166 yards to a former total 267. Simple mathematical fig-ng shows that the 195-pound phomore has now caught 23 sals for an aggregation of 433 ds.

Florida has an open date this ek before meeting Georgia and arlie Trippi next Saturday in ksonville.

Hurricane Blows On

Once-beaten Miami University ll try to add to its impressive ecord as the Hurricane blows into iladelphia for tonight's game h Villanova. This battle should ovide an insight to the Florida-llanova game two weeks hence. he boys from Miami thumped hattanooga decisively last week-d.

Unsung Glory

Arnold Tucker, Army's great arterback from Miami, is, to his writer, the principal reason r the Cadets' continued success. ainst Oklahoma Tucker grab-bed one of the southwestern team's terals from the atmosphere and aced 92 yards for a score, thus ving the soldiers some probable mbarrassment.

In the Cornell game the Miami peed merchant, who has played cond fiddle to Glenn Davis and Doc" Blanchard for two seasons, made two spectacular dashes for ore than 50 yards. After missing game because of an injury, "Mr Quarterback" took over where Davis and Blanchard failed by ossing three touchdown heaves ainst Duke's Blue Devils, who mply would not be mastered on e ground.

Besides calling the plays and s passing and running ability, ucker is one of the Cadets' best efensive players. Truly, Tucker eserves consideration when the ll-America squads are picked.

Grid Ranking

In the fourth weekly poll of Associated Press sports writers the national ranking of the top ten gridiron powers is as follows: Army, Notre Dame, Pennsylvania, UCLA, Georgia, Northwestern, Texas, Rice, North Carolina and Tennessee.

Two winners, Wake Forest and Rice, were still rated behind their victims, Tennessee and Texas. Other powerful teams not in the top ten, but worthy of mention, are Oklahoma, Georgia Tech and Duke.

Ont on a Limb

Your reporter has decided to take the plank-walk to a watery grave this week by giving his selections on some of the games of national and southern interest. The reader is not advised to wager on the following selections: Georgia over Alabama — Trippi and company will prove to be too much for Harry Gilmer; Notre Dame to best Navy; Army likewise over West Virginia; Tennessee to band North Carolina its first defeat; Northwestern to squeeze past Ohio State; UCLA to wallop St Mary's; Southern California to hand Oregon its initial loss, and Duke to upset Georgia Tech.

Other choices are Vanderbilt over Auburn, Rice over Texas Tech, Texas over Southern Methodist, LSU over Mississippi, Kentucky over Michigan State and Villanova to surprise Miami.

Home Ec Officers Assume Positions

The Home Economics club of Florida State College held its monthly meeting last Wednesday in the lounge of the Longmire building with about fifty members ushering in their newly-elected officers. Esther Dale, president for the coming year, presided over the meeting.

The speaker for the evening was one of the official delegates at the College club division of the American Home Economics association held in Cleveland, Ohio last June. June Holloway, representative for Florida State Home Economics clubs at the national convention, gave a report to the FSC audience on state, national and international club members.

Officers introduced for the year were: Esther Dale, president; Mary Ann Herring, vice-president; Ann Spooner, secretary; Eddie Faye Stokes, treasurer; Ruth Largent, social chairman; Carolyn Flint, publicity chairman; Emily and Elizabeth Harper, co-chairmen of the poster committee; Grace Trice, senior representative for the Club Council; Yvonne Boatwright, junior representative; June Holloway, sophomore representative, and Ann Carlisle, freshman representative.

The meeting was adjourned to the small lounge of the Longmire building after Miss Holloway's report, and after-dinner coffee was served to the members.

Association to Meet

The November meeting of the Florida section of the American Chemistry association will be held November 16, at 8 p m in the chemistry lecture room at Forida State College. Dr J H Simons of Pennsylvania State College will be guest speaker.

Dr Simons, well known for his work on the element flourine, will speak on the "Scientific and Utilitarian Values of Flourine Chemistry."

Under the direction of the American Chemistry association, Dr Simons is making this lecture tour in order to enable the general public to learn more about the uses of flourine in industry and in science.

Three-fourths of the residences in the United States are constructed of wood.

Members From 606 Swim to Victory

Barracks 606 of the Dale Mabry branch of the University of Florida swam their way to a close win in the intramural swimming meet last week by amassing 29 points to 26 for Barracks 701. Third place went to Barracks 505 with 23 points and in the fourth spot was Barracks 609 with eight points.

Winners of the individual meets were: Dick Reed (701), 50-yard breaststroke; John Binkert (701), 50-yard backstroke; David Greenfield (606), 50-yard freestyle; Virgil Allen (505), and Julian Foster (609), tied in the 100-yard freestyle; Virgil Allen (505), 220-yard freestyle; John Gill (606), diving; David Greenfield (606), individual medley.

In the two team events Barracks 505 took first in the 200-yard freestyle and Barracks 701 gained top honors in the medley relay. The 505 relay team was Harold Boyd, Ed Bowman, Virgil Allen and Stan Banaszak, while 701 entered John Binkert, Arthur Knight, Dick Reed and Richard Williams.

Witty Jokes Reign Even Dem Meeting

By ANN TUCKER

Lucky me! The editor of the local press handed me the assignment. "Check on the stupendous, sensational script meeting of Even dem." And me in my bright green dress (with a heart of gold!), made my way up the stairs in search of the famous script committee.

As I approached I could hear the loud chuckles and laughing. With a cheery smile I knocked, and having given the pass word, I plunged into the gay circle, lost with the witty jokes flying with the seconds as a hurried shorthand job by Shea was in rapid process.

"Sully" and Candy were cheering over the wonderful talent they had lined up. I moved a little to the other side of the room in search of a quote from Georgia Jaeckel, who was all smiles. "Wait 'til you see the Dem—it's terrific!" and off she wandered repeating the enchanting words. The Even spirits were really buzzin'. The room was crowded with excited voices when the door opened. There stood Norwood with that red, white and purple expression on her face, who, with a hopeful voice, inquired, "Odd Dem?"

Feeling sorry for the Odd one, Shea led her further down the hall to the morgue where moans and groans could be heard from the sobbing committee of Odds.

Before departing from the happy Even session, I learned since the script had been finished for two weeks, and Georgia was so pleased, she and the committee are planning a week's trip to New York . . . as they have so much time on their hands.

Opening the door, I emerged from the room and beat my way down to the Flambeau office. What a story! What a production! Is Cecil B DeMille listening?

Airways Give Rides

Florida Airways gave courtesy rides last week to Sarah Lewis, president of College Government Association, and Joyce Petty, managing editor of the Flambeau, as the formal opening of their new routes. The girls flew over Tallahassee and the college.

Dr and Mrs Doak S Campbell and the civic leaders of Tallahassee were also invited.

Cagers Hold Tryout In Dale Mabry Gym

Leon High Gives Equipment; Three Games Net 93 Points

Tryouts for aspiring basketball candidates will be held in the Dale Mabry gymnasium Monday night at 8 o'clock.

A cry for new basketball material for the men students has been issued by Ed Williamson, athletic director, and Bill Stephens, student manager.

Difficulty is being encountered in furnishing equipment for the Dale Mabry branch, but temporary uniforms have been obtained from Leon High of Tallahass for use in the games. New candidates are urged to bring their own gear because the equipment shortage is acute. Williamson and Stephens are hoping to latch onto some of the very capable basketeers on the Dale Mabry campus.

At present the regular squad numbers ten players and a student manager, Stephens. Names carried on the DM roster are: Edwards, Pavy, Stanfill and Fillingin, forwards; Godwin and Dickie, centers; Bowers, Schneider, Brown and Wickham, guards.

The managers report that there has been a fine volunteer turnont and the "eager beavers" of basketballdom have given a fine account of themselves on the courts. In the three contests thus far DM has accumulated 93 points against their opponents 67. Of the DM total forward, C O Edwards bas notched 24 points to his credit. Charlie Bowers, guard, rates next place with 23 points to his credit. The only other members on the squad who are near Edwards and Bowers are Jim Pavy and C W Godwin, who have 14 and 10 points respectively.

Regular practices are to be held in the DM gym from 8 till 10 nightly, Monday through Thursday, and it is requested that men interested in turning out for the team, but who have night classes, report for practice as soon as their class is adjourned.

No contest has been set for this weekend, but Williamson is communicating with several schools in this area as work progresses on building an attractive slate for the DM quintet this year. As yet Williamson has not received the official "go-ahead" from Gainesville on the proposed intercollegiate scheule, but there is a loud demand among the students attending the Tallahassee branch of the university for such a calendar.

Victory Dinners To Be Given Teams

Women's Recreation association anounced this week that celebration of Thanksgiving games this year will be climaxed at a victory dinner for all team members Saturday night after the games. This will take the place of the two Odd and Even banquets formerly held.

Tarpon will have three performances during the Thanksgiving holidays. There will be a capacity of 300 spectators for each night. No faculty tickets will be issued this year for Tarpon shows. Tickets for all of the activities will be mailed to students.

Dale Mabry Alleys Open to Students

The bowling alleys on the Dale Mabry campus are now open for use of both men and women students between the hours of 5 and 10 p m, according to Dr Olivia N Dorman, dean of students at Florida State College, and Dr Otis McBride, dean of men at the University branch.

A fee of ten cents per line will be charged to pay for the services of a pin boy. Students may use the alleys without further notice, and anyone interested in other information concerning bowling leagues may contact Mr S L Boggs at the alleys.

The bowling center of Tallahassee Recreation park will also be reserved for students of FSC and the Tallahassee branch of University of Florida every Thursday from 2 to 6 p m, according to Dean Dorman.

Dale Mabry Takes First Cage Game

The Dale Mabry cagers gained six points late in the fourth quarter last Friday night to win a 31-24 decision over the Kappa Sigma basketeers from the University of Florida in a hard-fought basketball game in the Florida State College gym.

Leading the Tally branch to their third straight win was Charlie Bowers, long-loping guard from Blountstown, who dumped in six field goals to rack up twelve points. Forward S O Edwards dropped over nine points worth for DM to gain runnerup honors for the Mabry crew.

However, scoring honors for the evening went to Kappa Sig forward, Watford, who accounted for fourteen of his crew's total earnings. The Gainesville fraternity held a 21-16 lead at half-time, but the men from Dale Mabry held their big brothers from the State U to a total of only three points in the last half as they warmed up for their final fourth quarter outburst.

Can One Live Part Of Corpse in Play?

Has anyone seen "The Body"—the dead one, that is? Lou Shonter has earned herself this title by virtue of her role in the speech department's forth-coming production of "Arsenic and Old Lace." In the comedy, she plays the role of a middle-aged man's corpse.

"The Body," that of one of the lonely old men poisoned by the two leading characters, appears in the play when it is discovered in a window-seat. From that time on, it is shown in and out of the window-seat by various other characters.

It seems that in acting classes aspiring actors and actresses are told to recall past situations which might be applicable to their roles in order to portray the necessary emotion—to practically live the role.

"Well, this is one part I can't live," laughed Lou, "but at least it's different!"

Football Will Begin With Monday Clash

Managers to Attend Meeting To Decide Team Bracketing

Football, in an intramural key, will begin Monday afternoon at 4:30 when two, as yet un-named, teams clash on the field at Dale Mabry south of the Marine House in the opening game of the regular touch football elimination tournament.

The bracketing for the tournament will be decided in a special meeting of the barracks managers tonight in the Dale Mabry gymnasium. Names of the barracks will be drawn and carded against one another and the two teams drawn first will tangle Monday afternoon in the initial tilt.

Rules for the meet will be the same as those enforced at the University of Florida, excep that the arrival of any team ten minutes late for the scheduled kickoff will automatically forfeit the game to their rivals.

Teams entering will be composed of seven players with a minimum of three men playing on the line for the offensive team. Defensive players must line up for play five yards from the regular line of scrimmage unless they are within their own five-yard line. In the place of tackling a ball-carrier is downed by being touched above the knee. Games will be made up of two halves of 12-minute durations with the offensive team given four downs to gain twenty yards. In the event they fail to do so the ball will be relinquished to their opponents.

If a game ends in a tie the number of first downs will determine the winner.

Pi Beta Phi Victor In Volleyball Finals

Pi Beta Phi won the intramural volley ball tournament over the Village team last Friday afternoon to the tune of 40 points to 27.

Those on the Pi Phi team were: Betty Kennedy, Peggy Gatewood, Barbara Jane Morgan, Ysobel Du Pree, Natalie Parramore, Polly Chazal, Pat Dillard, and Betty Jo Brock, and Ann Anderson and Jean Mixson as substitutes.

Tennis intramurals have had practice periods this week. The games start Monday.

Even Spirits High

Even spirit was high Monday night at a pep rally held in front of the dining hall. All the freshman and junior candidates for cheerleaders were there, as the campus resounded with Even yells.

Dr Harold Richards, Miss "Babe" Evans, and the Even "spirit" were the speakers of the evening. The group gathered in the open space just in front of the dining hall and built a bonfire around which the rally was held.

SPECIAL SCENTS

The greatest users of perfume were probably the Greeks, Romans, and Egyptians several centuries B C. They used it on their fingers, furniture, and clothes, and had special scents for every part of their bodies.

Residence Counselor Found To Be Tennis Champion

Miss Anne Pope, residence counselor of Bryan Hall, has had a varied and interesting career in the field of tennis. She has won several championships, including both the singles and doubles championship during her junior and senior years at the University of Tennessee. She was also city champion of Chattanooga during this time. While she was attending the American College of Physical Education in Chicago she became college singles champ.

While reminiscing about her career Miss Pope related what she considered her most thrilling and gratifying experience in tennis. "It started when I began coaching a girl in playing to get her mind off herself and to relieve some of her nervousness. The girl, Virginia Hollingsworth, became very interested in tennis and under the tutorship went on to win the national indoor junior championship."

One of the more amusing incidents in her tennis career came when she was asked to play an exhibition match on the first lighted court in Chattanooga. The lights were so arranged that when she looked up in the air to smash a ball, she was completely blinded by the lights and entirely missed the ball. "This all proved quite embarrassing," laughed Miss Pope.

This tennis champ has not only played and coached tennis, but has also refereed championship matches. She refereed some of Don Budge's games the year he won the national junior championship. She also judged for national junior double champions Budge and Mako.

After a train accident in which her leg was broken, Miss Pope was forced to give up playing tennis.

Her efforts in college sports were rewarded by letters and trophies for basketball, track, baseball, hockey, swimming and tennis.

Miss Pope's interests definitely do not stop with sports. After traveling in 46 of the 48 states she went abroad. During her stay in Europe she traveled in 12 countries, visiting such places as Gibraltar, Algiers, Patri, Greece, and Naples and Venice, Italy.

For a while this Chattanooga born sports leader taught dancing at the Internation House in New York City. This institution houses honor students sent to the United States by various countries for continuance of studies.

"The year I taught there 62 countries were represented. I had a fine opportunity to meet and know people of different nationalities," Miss Pope remarked.

Bryan's residence counselor received her AB degree from the University of Tennessee; BPE from the American College of Physical Education; and MA from Columbia University. She has done graduate work at the University of Wisconsin, where she specialized in dance and sports, and at Columbia. Her freshman year was spent at Cornell, where she was a member of Kappa Kappa Gamma sorority.

"I spent my first year at FSC as counselor in Jennie Murphree, but I've been in Bryan ever since," Miss Pope declared.

Evens to Compete

Freshmen members of the Even soccer team will be divided into separate groups for inter-team competition, Elaine Gavigan, Even soccer captain, announced yesterday. This competition, which will afford experience in meeting opposing teams, will be valuable later in actual Odd and Even games. The freshman groups will compete in a series of games, and the winning team will play the junior Even team.

LANIER TRAVEL SERVICE
Mrs. Harry Van Brunt, Mgr.
Room 2,
Lewis State Bank Bldg.
Phone 1240

Vacation Tours
A SPECIALTY
AIR . . . STEAMSHIP
BUS . . . RAIL

by
MISS SEVENTEEN

You'll pass all figure exams with flying colors when knowing "Power Miracle" coaches your curves. Bi-directional stretch controls with a caress . . . leaves you twistable, turnable, free as a breeze! In girdle, panty, and brief-brief. Black, white, or nude

$5 to $10 at better stores

Miss Seventeen Jr. Foundations
New York 1, N. Y.

Singing in the Rain?

You will be when you're wearing a pair of our rubber rain boots.
All Sizes $3.45

THE SURPRISE STORE
102-105 E. JEFFERSON

- Replaceable filter in new Frank Medico Cigarette Holders, filters the smoke.
- Cuts down nicotine.
- Cuts down irritating tars.
- In zephyrweight aluminum.
- Special styles for men and women.
- $2 with 10 filters, handy pouch and gift box.

S. M. FRANK & CO., INC., NEW YORK 22

QUEEN OF THE HIGH TOWER!
OLYMPIC DIVING ACE, "CORKY" GILISSEN, DEMONSTRATES THE 2½ FORWARD SOMERSAULT...
MISS GILISSEN IS ONE OF THE FEW DIVERS ALLOWED ON THE 30-FOOT TOWER ANY DIVE IS DANGEROUS FROM THAT HEIGHT
SHE'LL NEVER MAKE IT!
SHE'S WON MORE THAN ONE TITLE DOING IT—WATCH HER NOW!
IT'S DIFFICULT! IT'S DANGEROUS! THE 2½ FORWARD SOMERSAULT!
THIS DIVE FROM A 30-FOOT HEIGHT REQUIRES PERFECT FORM, FAULTLESS TIMING. THE SLIGHTEST ERROR CAN CAUSE SERIOUS INJURY.
OVER—AND OVER AGAIN AND—
—SHE CUTS THE WATER LIKE A KNIFE. A PERFECT DIVE!
IT WAS MARVELOUS TO WATCH, MISS GILISSEN
WON'T YOU HAVE A CAMEL?
I'LL ALWAYS SMOKE A CAMEL! THEY'RE EASY ON MY THROAT—AND ALWAYS TASTE GOOD
I STICK TO CAMELS. TASTE OR THROAT, THEY SUIT MY 'T-ZONE' TO A 'T'
CAMEL
TURKISH & DOMESTIC BLEND CIGARETTES
"Corky" Gilissen
AMERICAN OLYMPIC DIVING STAR
R. J. Reynolds Tobacco Company, Winston-Salem, North Carolina

YOUR "T-ZONE" WILL TELL YOU...
T for Taste...T for Throat ...that's your proving ground for any cigarette. See if Camels don't suit your "T-Zone" to a "T."

CAMEL
COSTLIER TOBACCOS

AVC May Have Local Chapter Her eat FSC

Ten Names Are Required To Petition Headquarters For National Membership

Organization Is Working For Liberal Legislation

The organization of a Florida State College chapter of the American Veterans Committee is under discussion and a preliminary meeting date will be set early in November. Names of ten interested ex-GIs are required to petition national headquarters for a charter

The AVC is the leading veteran's group to come out of World War II. With a membership that has grown in a year from 5.000 to 80,000, AVC has been influential far beyond its numbers in matters of legislation. It is credited with leadership in the fight for veteran's housing, cars for amputees, and terminal leave pay. AVC is also on record as supporting the Wegner-Ellender-Taft long-range housing bill Fair Practices bill, Full Employment bill, Anti-Lynching bill, Government Medical Insurance bill, and has campaigned for the retention of a strong OPA to counteract inflation.

The group is working at present to elect as many liberal members to Congress as possible, whether Democrat or Republican, and is championing a resolution to "get a vet to sit in with Byrnes." Definitely progressive in attitude to social legislation and very active politically. AVC takes as its slogan, 'Citizens first, veterans second '

Students who would like to know more about the AVC and help in the organization of a local chapter are requested to leave their names with Lucius Daniels, at the base: graduate students and faculty members may leave their names with Miss Dora Byron, 203 History building.

This fast growing veteran's organization is headed by chairman Charles Bolte, author of best-seller, "The New Veteran." Gilbert Harrison is vice-chairman and other national officers include Franklin D Roosevelt Jr, Oren Root Jr and Michael Straight. Among members are Sterling Hayden, Audie Murphey, Henry Cabot Lodge and dozens of other "names."

Membership in the AVC is offered to the Merchant Marine and combat press correspondents, as well as to the armed services.

Cotillion Resumes Campus Activities

Once again the green jerkins of Cotillion are on duty in the game room of the Rowena Longmire building. Here the members of Cotillion act as hostesses, introduce girls and boys, try to keep the room clean and see that all house rules are obeyed.

Cotillion is a campus dance honorary founded in 1910 Until 1933 boys were not allowed to attend dances held on campus, so the Cotillion girls dressed in tuxedos and led at the College Government association dances

It is traditional for Cotillion to tap its new members for the year at the annual Thanksgiving dance. To help the members select taps there will be a Cotillion "rec" every Wednesday and Thursday at 7:00 p m in Landis recreation room. All interested girls are asked to come down and dance.

According to Mary Lou Norwood, president of Cotillion, plans for the rest of the year include dancing classes second quarter and a play night with an all Cotililon floor show in the third quarter Cotillion also offers its services in helping with any dance on campus.

Dr Rogers Has Coffee For English Department

A coffee honoring the new members of the English department will be given by Dr Carmen Rogers, associate professor of English, for the entire English department at her home Saturday evening.

KDP Makes Plans

Kappa Delta Pi, education honorary, held its regular business meeting October 24 in the office of Ralph D Eyman, Dean of school of education. Plans for the year were discussed and invitations for membership were given out.

As Miss Edna Parker, former president, is on a year's leave of absence, Mr Ernest Cason has taken over her position. The following officers will serve for the coming year: Ida Lula Davis, vice-president: Frances Rutland, recording secretary: Alleen James corresponding secretary: Nell McNiel, reporter and historian: Miss Fannie Shaw, treasurer: Dr M R Hinson, counselor.

Garden of Roses Theme for Dance

The anual rose dance of the Alpha Sigma chapter of Delta Zeta featuring the "Garden of Roses" theme will be given the night of November 2 in the Delta Zeta chapter house from 8 to 12. An informal tea dance will be held on the afternoon of the same day.

The house will be lighted and decorated with roses and a rose trellis through which couples will dance. During the intermission refreshments will be served on the back lawn which will also be lighted and decorated with roses.

Decoration chairman for the dance is Joy Schoedler

Sunday morning the Delta Zetas and their dates will attend the Presbyterian church. A picnic is planned at Wakulla Springs for them in the afternoon

Landis Green Is X-ray Site

A mobile X-ray unit will arrive Monday under the supervision of the State Board of Health and Tuberculosis association to give X-ray tests for both students and faculty. The machine will be operated on Landis green, beginning Monday, November 4, through Monday, November 11

The following schedule will indicate the time X-ray tests are to be given:

UNIT OPERATION NOV 4-11.

Monday—Dale Mabry men, 2 pm through 6 pm.

Tuesday— Laborers, 4 pm through 6 pm

Wednesday— Landis, Gilchrist, Broward, 2 pm through 6 pm.

Thursday—Jennie Murphree Reynolds, 2 pm through 5 pm. Faculty, 5 pm through 6 pm.

Friday—Bryan, Village, Dale Mabry, Magnolia, 2 pm through 6 pm.

Monday—Day students, off campus, 2 pm through 5 pm. Clinical staff, 5 pm through 6 pm.

Last year tuberculosis claimed 700 deaths in Florida and caused more deaths in the college age group than any other communicable disease.

With the new mobile machine, a simple procedure in making tests is used. It takes only 30 seconds, and persons are not required to undress.

Evelyn Stuckey and Catherine Barrs are representatives of the State board of health working with the X-ray unit. Two technicians from the state will be in charge of all tests

Band May Perform At University Games

The Florida State College band may perform at college football games in the future, Mr Robert Smith, assistant band director, stated this week. In spite of the semi-co-educational status of the college the FSC band will remain an all-girl organization, he said.

This group is, Mr Smith explained, one of the few remaining all-girl college marching bands in the United States today. This year the group, composed of approximately 60 members, is directing its efforts toward skill in marching drills and formations.

School Gives Party

A Hallowe'en party was given last night by the junior high school students of the Demonstration school, under the auspices of the Student Council.

Chairman of this affair was Marlin C Sanders, grade seven critic teacher. Among the various activities of the evening a weiner roast was held and prizes were awarded for the best costumes of both boys and girls.

Hester to Speak

Margaret Hester, systems service woman for International Business Machines, will speak on Monday at 11.30 a m to the public personnel administration class.

Miss Hester will demonstrate the technical use of IBM machines in personnel administration. IBM classification cards, compensation schedules and other forms will also be explained at that time.

Standards Council Has First Meeting

Schaeffer Is Made Secretary; Club to Meet Third Tuesday

The first meeting of the Social Standards Council was held in Landis parlor Tuesday night, October 22. A coffee was served during a social period at which time Emily Sheftall, chairman of the council, introduced the new members.

The business for the evening was to outline plans for the year's work. Vivian Schaeffer, representative from Parkside, was appointed as secretary, and the council decided to meet regularly every third Tuesday in Landis parlor.

Social policies of the college were discussed for the rest of the meeting.

Miss Sarah Cloud, social director of the campus and residence counselor in Landis, will be the sponsor of the council for this year.

The Social Standards Council is made up of representatives from groups on campus who are concerned with social affairs and procedures. It acts as a coordinator of all social events throughout the year.

The representatives for this year and the groups they represent are as follows:

Barbara Owens, Landis; Dorothy Crowson, Gilchrist; Patricia Grant, Magnolia; Martha McCormack, Broward; Jean Boucher, Reynolds; Dorothy Butts, Jennie Murph-ee; Carol Deters, Bryan; Vivian Schaeffer, Parkside; Joyce Todd, campuside-Hillside; Elizabeth Brower, Dale Mabry; and Janet Robertson, Village.

Clara Jane Carol, Alpha Gamma Delta; Kathleen Hamilton, Alpha Xi Delta; Anne Rice, Pi Beta Phi, Henrietta Trezevant, Longmire building committee; Betsy Bird, usher committee; Jane Wooten, dance committee; Betty Gardiner, Women's Recreation Association; Dorothea McRee, Young Women's Christian Association, and Elizabeth Green, day students.

Student Vocalists Heard in Recital

A student recital featuring voice and piano was presented yesterday afternoon at 4:30 in the recital hall of the Music Annex.

Two Handel selections, "Lascia ch'io pianga' from Rinalde, sung by Anne Daniel with Virginia DerGerry accompanying, and "Ombra Mai Fu" by Newton Sullivan with Emily Bridges accompanying, were followed by Cinda Kent singing Grieg's "I Love Thee." Betty Kent was her accompanist. Phyllis DeKalb chose "Snow towards Evening" by Eleanor Warren, and "To a Messenger" by Frank La Forge. She was accompanied by Eleanor Bragg.

Jean Doughtry and Ann Wiggins played the piano solos Chopin's "Scherze in B flat minor" and "Waltz in E minor."

Domitory Teas

Gilchrist

A special tea in honor of the Gilchrist sponsors is being planned for the coming Wednesday by that hall. It will be informal. Betty Loy, publicity chairman for Gilchrist, said, "We believe the girls feel more at home in an informal atmosphere."

Following a general policy of one tea each week, the girls have decided to have one special tea in each month. Dorothy Wells has charge of the arrangements in her capacity of tea chairman.

Some type of entertainment, probably musical, will be provided for the teas. As yet Gilchrist has held only routine teas, at which attendance has been fair.

Landis

Landis hall honored their sponsors, Dr Claude Flory, Miss Ernestine Troemmel and Miss Alma Lester with a tea last Wednesday afternoon. An "unusually good attendance" was reported by Miss Ruth Pyche, residence counselor. Background music was played.

Landis will follow the practice of one tea per week and one special tea each month. One member of a social committee is in charge each time, with power to appoint aids.

A Hallowe'en coffee is planned by the social committee.

Magnolia

A special tea has been held by Magnolia hall for their honorary house members, Dr W H Rogers, Miss Lynette Thompson and Mrs E W Miller. There was background music and the affair was "very pleasant," according to Miss Evelyn Bramlett, residence counselor.

The juniors living in Magnolia will be honored at the next tea given by this house.

Once a month an open house is held for the faculty, though teas are planned for each week.

Patricia Grant is Magnolia's social director. Each tea is planned by a different committee under her supervision.

A Hallowe'en party is to be given next Wednesday in Magnolia.

At the last weekly tea in the Village given for honorary house members, Rita Sprankle played the piano and Jimmy Rogers, house president, sang. Sue Ann Bradshaw was the chairman in charge of this tea.

Due to lack of kitchen facilities, only one tea has taken place at the girls' branch of Dale Mabry. It was held in the former Officer's club at the base. Miss Edith Aber, residence counselor, has stated that teas will be planned as soon as proper facilities are installed.

Mount Logan, with an altitude of 19,850 feet, is the highest mountain in Canada.

"Moonlight Mood", "Winter Carnival" are Dance Motifs

A "Winter Carnival" motif was presented by the Chi Omegas at their annual formal dance which was held Saturday night in the Landis hall recreation room. An array of snowmen, icicles, igloos and snowflakes helped carry out the theme and blended with the green and white color scheme.

Fruit punch was served throughout the evening. Over the punch bowl was a placard with the words Winter Carnival in green and white, which accented the whole theme. The music for the dance was provided by Harry Shepherd and his orchestra.

Among guests for the evening were: Dr and Mrs Doak Campbell, Dr and Mrs Harold Richards, Mr and Mrs Frank Miller, Mr and Mrs George Lewis and Mrs O S Lanier. Mrs Frank Miller is the Chi Omega faculty advisor and Mrs Lanier the House mother.

Head of the hostess committee was Mary Groover Holland and heads of the decoratiou committee were Ina Jo Wrench and Nell McNeil.

At the "Moonlight Mood" dance sponsored by Gilchrist students Robert Ripley would have felt right at home, because a phenomenon occurred which would rival any of his revelations. The dance was entirely boy-break, and instead of the usual ribbon of girls along the sidelines, boys were crowded two-deep around the room. With their plentiful supply of men and dreamy music supplied by Curtis Davis' band from Quincy, Gilchrist girls may well have set the pace for future formal dances on the campus of Florida State College.

Their theme was carried out with streamers of blue and white crepe paper, covered with silver cupids and strung from the chandelier The "moon," a blue spotlight behind palm leaves, shone down on dancers and clusters of flowers.

General chairman of the dance was Dorothy Crowson and her committee members were Grace Elder and Dorothy Wells.

Hallowe'en's Here!
Help Make Your Dance
Successful
By Using Dance Floor Wax
From Yon's

Seek it First at
VAN BRUNT & YON INC.
YON'S
HARDWARE

WHITE-WAY LAUNDRY AND DRY CLEANING

ANNOUNCES OPENING OF BRANCH OFFICE MONDAY
AT
DALE MABRY FIELD

BLDG. 442 HOURS: 1:00–5:30

STUDENTS
FLY WITH
TAC

APPROVED BY BOARD OF CONTROL

•

Phone for Transportation and Further Information

JEFF LEWIS FRANK LEWIS
IVAN MUNROE RICHARD WEEKS

TALLAHASSEE AIRCRAFT CORP.
Phone 2727 Municipal Airport

TRIPLE SMOKING PLEASURE
Basil Rathbone
STAR OF "DRESSED TO KILL" another of Universal's Sherlock Holmes Series.
A ALWAYS MILDER
B BETTER TASTING
C COOLER SMOKING
Chesterfield CIGARETTES
LIGGETT & MYERS TOBACCO CO.
CHESTERFIELD
It's Elementary, Mr. Rathbone
THEY SATISFY!
ALWAYS BUY CHESTERFIELD
ALL OVER AMERICA—CHESTERFIELD IS TOPS!

Copyright 1946, Liggett & Myers Tobacco Co.

Votes Are Ayes

z 106

The Florida Flambeau

Published by the Students of Florida State College

VOL. XXXIII, No. 5 Tallahassee, Florida NOVEMBER 8, 1946

Spirit Dies

Constitutional Committee Is Formed at DM

Students Vote Approval Of Twelve Appointees At Regular Convocation

Fussell and Wentworth Are Co-Heads of Group

In the second meeting of the newly-elected officers of the Dale Mabry student body Monday evening an eight-man Constitution Committee, headed by Bill Fussell and Dean Wentworth, was formed. The appointments, along with the appointment of a four-man yearbook committee, were approved by popular vote at the regular Tuesday meeting of the Dale Mabry student body.

The six men named to serve with Fussell and Wentworth on the constitutional committee were: David Burns, LeMoyne Cash, George Croy, Roy Holt, Keith Salter and Henry Ward. Listed for the yearbook were: George Croy, assistant editor; Charles Dyson, assistant business manager; Roy Froom and James Tippin, staff members. These men are to work together in building a male section to the school yearbook.

President John Sullivan announced that a Social Committee had also been formed by combining the three social chairmen of the DM branch into a group for the purpose of avoiding conflicts of various events and meetings, and to gain co-operation between the social chairmen of the student body. Jesse Wilson is the student body chairman, Charles Campbell, upper-class chairman, and D L Middlebrook, freshman chairman.

An announcement was made at the assembly Tuesday evening about Religious Emphasis Week and Dalia Santos, student chairman for the Emphasis committee gave a brief history of the highlighted speaker of the week's activities, Dr John Newton Thomas, noted philosopher.

Dalia invited all of the men who are interested in participating in Religious Emphasis Week to attend the formal address of Dr Thomas at the Longmire auditorium Tuesday, November 12 at 7:30 p m

Otis McBride dean of men, addressed the student body and asked them to co-operate with their newly-elected student government officers in speeding up the program of their government. Dean McBride said "I am sure you have chosen excellent officers and we, the faculty, intend to let you students run your show, so give your officers your full support and see if we can't improve on the already rapid progress made by the officers since their elections."

"You must learn to have faith in your government," continued McBride, "and when you have a weighty problem, or an idea that you believe is for the well-being

Continued on Page 2

Florida Sec of State Lectures at FSC

"Florida's Pattern of Government" was the topic of an address by Secretary of State R A Gray last Friday afternoon in the Longmire auditorium. This speech was the first in a series of lectures on various aspects of government by state and college officials, sponsored by the political science department.

Mr Gray described his personal experiences as a member of the State Senate and outlined organization and procedure in that body. He also spoke briefly on the functions of the administrative branch of government.

In discussing the fall elections, the Secretary of State summarized the proposed constitutional amendments, which concern instituting a state budget direction responsible to the legislature, abolishing continuing appropriations and certain local questions. Mr Gray stated that in his opinion these amendments are unnecessary and in some cases decidedly unwise.

Speech Honorary Pledges Nine Girls

The Upsilon of Zeta Phi Eta, national speech fraternity, pledged nine new members Tuesday morning at 7 o'clock.

The new pledges are: Eugenia Avant Fay Bass, Betsy Bird, Laura Cason, Virginia Green, Betty Shirley, Clair St John, Gloria Wells and Jane Wooten.

Members and the pledge sisters [illegible] 6:30 [illegible] building.

FSC Experiences Fake Bank Crash

"I'm going to miss all those wonderful shows since I can't get my allowance this week!" "I'll starve to death!" "The bank's broke!" Such were the animated cries heard along the second floor of Westcott building early Saturday morning.

Students and teachers alike could not cash any of their checks unless they were for large amounts. Deposits alone were accepted by the harassed tellers.

"Too bad I'm not a millionaire's daughter," said one student on learning that the bank had for exchange only a few twenty-dollar bills in its cash drawer.

Suddenly the long line of waiting, worried depositors began to move. Girls could be seen gratefully folding one—two—five one-dollar bills into their wallets. The shipment of small bills needed for the Saturday rush had arrived from a down-town bank, and the "crash" of the bank was relieved

Poll Favors Dorm Smoking

Dale Mabry Officers Presented at Meeting

Introduction of the Dale Mabry student body officers, explanation of the new fire drill system, and the conducting of a bedroom-smoking poll were presented in College Government Association assembly last Tuesday night.

The results of the poll conducted during convocation to see if the student body is in favor of smoking in the dormitory bedrooms are 73 per cent of the 289 votes polled are in favor of this according to Ester Rasmessen, chairman of smoking in the dormitories committee.

Of the non-smokers 62 per cent are in favor of the smokers, 95.3 per cent. The main objections polled concerned fire hazards and nuisance to the non-smokers.

"We have lots to accomplish this year, such as coeducation for next year" said John R Sullivan, president of the Dale Mabry student body. Also introduced were Milton Flack, vice president; Dean Wentworth, secretary and Jesse Wilson, social chairman. After Jesse Wilson was introduced be extended an invitation to the junior and senior girls for a party to be held tomorrow night in their honor at Dale Mabry.

"The new fire drill system provides for greater individual safety and should be more efficient than any we have used before" emphasized Mickey Chambers, student chairman of fire drills. A head leader aided by an assistant will lead a unit of thirty students out of the building after the group has been checked by two checkers to see that all are present.

"With trained leaders and complete unity the factor of panic, which is so important in fires, is eliminated" said Mickey. A skit was presented to demonstrate the new fire drill system.

Another announcement at convocation was that no decision has been reached about owning cars on campus.

A part of the FSC band under the direction of Mr Owen F Sellers played at the opening and closing of convocation.

FSC Represented at Association Meet

The faculty members of the department of political science left Tuesday for Knoxville, Tennessee, where they will attend the first meeting of the Southern Political Science Association to be held since the war. Dr Marion D Irish is on the program committee and was scheduled to address the association yesterday on "The Minority Rule in the South."

This meeting began November 7 and will continue through November 9 Those attending from Florida State College include Dr Lucretia Ilsley, Dr Marion D Irish, Miss Daisy Parker and Mr Lorace E Catterson, all of whom plan to visit the Tennessee Valley Association project.

Buck not to Appear

"Regret that serious complications results of Frank Buck's recent Chicago taxi accident make it impossible for him to appear in November."

This telegram was received Thursday by Dean Karl O Kuersteiner of the School of Music. Mr Buck was scheduled to appear on the Artist Series November 16 The Artist Series plans to book the famous adventurer for the early part of the second quarter.

Popular Poll Favors Home Thanksgiving

1,817 Students Vote To Cancel, 505 Are Against Cancellation

Further Action Now Awaits Executive Council Review

Unofficial early returns of a popular poll indicate that 1,817 Florida State College students favor cancellation of traditional Thanksgiving activities, with a dissenting vote of 505. Precluding this majority opinion, 2,313 students favored and 34 opposed a recommendation to College Executive Council that classes over the Thanksgiving weekend not be held or that attendance be relaxed to permit cutting.

Further action awaits Executive Council review upon Dr Doak S Campbell's return to campus, expected sometime tomorrow.

Members of the Thanksgiving committee presented two questions to the student body at house meetings Tuesday and Wednesday nights. First, "In view of the previously stated situation, would you favor cancelling Thanksgiving activities, with the understanding that activities of a similar nature would be provided later in the year?"

Second, "If the majority of the student body votes in favor of the previous question, would you favor having the student body recommend to the Executive Council of the college that class attendance on Friday and Saturday after Thanksgiving be relaxed? (That is, that all students be allowed to cut classes on those days, or that no classes be held at that time.)" There was an overwhelmingly affirmative majority on both questions.

These questions were raised, according to official announcement, due to a greatly increased enrollment and the addition of one unit of students completely new to the campus. Although for many years much of the tradition of the college has centered around Thanksgiving and the events which take place at that time these traditions have changed from year to year as the size of the school has increased and placed physical limitations on these activities The current consideration is whether or not "activities usually scheduled for Thanksgiving should be postponed to a later date in the school year."

Coming through official channels, the matter has been referred by administrative authorities to the Thanksgiving committee, which in turn unanimously recommended that certain Thanksgiving activities be eliminated and the week-end be declared open if majority vote decided such.

Miss Edith McCollum is chairman of the Thanksgiving committee, the membership of which includes, among others, the CGA president, demonstration chairmen, class presidents, Esteren and Spirogyra presidents, president of WRA, Cotillion, F Club, Tarpon, and Freshman Advisor, according to Mary Lou Norwood

NY Times Prints Co-Education Story

Florida State College made the news last Snday when the New York Times printed a story on Florida co-education in its Notes on Education. Among 2,583 girls, it said, 507 men are now attending the women's college at Tallahassee, living at an inactivated air base at Dale Mabry

At the University of Alaska there is a sudden influx of GI students escaping from the overcrowded conditions of colleges in the stte. Of the 337 students enrolled in the university, 209 are GI's rapresentina 29 states of the union. Emergency living quarters are being made in quonset huts.

Education for adults and negroes is being sponsored in Nashville, Tennessee, at Fisk university and Tennessee A and M. The program is sponsored by te American Association of Adult Education, the National Conference on Adult Education and Negro and the U S Offiee of Education.

A contest for undergraduates is being held by the Taimiment Social and Economic Institute for essays on "Roads to Industrial Peace." There will be five prizes offered amounting to 3,000 dollars.

Dr Shores Arrives

Dr Louis Shores will arrive from New York tomorrow to assume his duties as new head of the department of library science. Formerly with Peabody college, Dr Shores has been completing an encyclopedia of which he is associate editor.

"And It Comes Out Ping" Says Piano Player Stanley Fletcher

By JANICE RICHEY

"You know, a pianist is really a frustrated singer," said Stanley Fletcher, with just a trace of his native English accent "Instead of being able to make his instrument sing, as a violinist does," Mr Fletcher said, holding under his chin an imaginary fiddle and straining the bow across its sensitive strings, "he must hammer it." Both hands came up and descended forcefully to illustrate this.

"And then," he explained, "the music comes out 'ping.' It doesn't sing. So that's why I play a recorder as well as a piano. Do you know what a recorder is? It's in Shakespeare's plays, 'Enter the recorder,' you know. It's like a flute or an ocarina. You play it that way. And it sings." He smiled his boyish grin, and lighted another cigarette.

Stanley Fletcher grew up in an atmosphere of music. His parents, his cousins, his whole family were musical. "The people in England sing a lot more than they do in our country. Informal, casual singing at home with family and friends," he said. "Oh, I'm thoroughly American," he explained. "I was born in England, but came to Massachusetts with my family at an early age. I returned to England for six months before the war, but my home is America, although in no particular city." Mr Fletcher is now alternating between teaching at the University of Illinois and touring. He came to Tallahassee from New Orleans.

Smiling whimsically, the pianist explained why he had chosen an all-Chopin concert. "Magic is like people. Some people smile sweetly when you meet them, and right away you like them. But pretty soon, you discover it was just a superficial attractiveness. Then there are other people who aren't easy to get along with at first, but after awhile you get to know them and like them. And there is still another kind—those who are good friends to begin with, and whom you like always. In music, this is Chopin. He's everybody's favorite, young and old, and nobody grows tired of his music. It speaks to all of us."

Mr Fletcher admitted that he liked to play for college audiences. "They are so very enthusiastic and spontaneous in their response to music," he said. "I wish more young people could meet music early." He crossed his leg and settled back, smiling with friendly and genuine interest in the conversation. "You know, my theory is that music is made to be enjoyed. Of course, the concert hall is an artificial settina for listening to music. You should be able

Continued on Page 2

X-Ray Unit Moves Monday

Today and Monday Are Final Days for Service

Monday, November 11, marks the last day for the operation of the mobile X-ray unit on campus. All students and faculty members who have not been X-rayed as yet are urged to report to the mobile unit, on Landis green, today from 2 to 6 p m, or Monday between 2 and 5 p m.

A good percentage of people on campus have been given X-rays, but in spite of this cooperation there are still many students who have not received this free service. All reports on individual X-rays will be strictly confidential.

"It must be remembered that tuberculosis is a very contagious disease," stated Dr Bruee Underwood, director of the Leon county health unit. "Moreover," he continued, "it caused more deaths in the college age group last year than any other communicable disease Every person over 15 year of age should have an X-ray at least once a year. This state-wide program provides a free and simple way to check chest condition."

Those already X-rayed have discovered the simplicity and speed of the procedure. It is no longer necessary to remove any part of the clothing except such articles as necklaces, sorority pins, or other jewelry.

Home Ec Association Meets in Miami

The annual meeting of the Florida Home Economics association will be held today and tomorrow of this week at the Floridan hotel in Miami Beach. "The meeting will be a general get-together of home economists from all over the state." states Miss Helen Cate, professor of home economics.

Among those staff members of the department of home economics planning to attend the meeting in Miami Beach are: Dean Margaret Sandels, Miss Ellen Wright, Miss Ina Van Stan, Miss Helen Richey, Miss Helen Cate and Dr Ruth Conner.

Study Clinic Pupils Show Great Increase

Hours for Different Subjects Will Be Shown by Bulletins

"The last two weeks have shown a great increase in the number of students who have come in for help" explained Ann Colvin, president of Mortar Board, in connection with the study clinic being sponsored by that organization every night from 7 to 10 o'clock in 104 Library for the purpose of helping freshmen and University men with their studying.

"However, several students have come for aid on subjects which none of the three regular Mortar Board members present at that particular time had taken, and the atudents were asked to return some other night," Ann continued.

To avoid this inconvenience to the students, a list will be posted on the University bulletin board in lower Westcott sometime next week on which will be named the girls at the clinic each night and the subjects with which each is able to help students. Plans are also being made to have a special assistant in Chemistry at the clinic on Wednesday nights.

The clinic will not open until 8 o'clock next Tuesday instead of the regular 7 o'clock hour.

Life at French University Tough Even Before the War

Students who think life is tough at the Dale Mabry branch of the university should have seen the schools of France even before the German occupation. This is the opinion of Mr Theo de Veer, new instructor in the French department, who came to Florida State College this year after surviving a war-education and various other unpleasantries in Europe.

"All the classrooms in my old Alma mater, Centre Universitaire Mediterraneen de Nice," said Mr de Veer, "were gathered in one building. The rooms were large scarred chambers that showed the marks of age and war-time conditions. We used wooden benches for seats, and if the blackboards were cracked, the instructors tried not to notice.

"There was a shortage of teachers, so instead of the classes changing rooms, we would usually remain in one place and the teachers came to us. I often had to sit in one room for three hours at a stretch", he recalled.

Social activity was not frowned upon, but France before the occupation was under a strain and that did not make for congeniality in the classroom.

"For instanee," commented Mr de Veer, "I spent an entire semester in Latin without knowing the people sitting on either side of me.

"There was no campus life as you know it," he went on. "Instead of living in dormitories we were forced to live in the city of Nice near-by. The only gathering places for students were the little cafes that are so typical of France.

Mr de Veer received his degree, just before the German occupation of his country

"They forced me then, at point of a gun, to take a post-graduate course in trench digging on the Atlantic defenses, thus concluding a well rounded education of the type not available today" he ended wryly.

Slim quiet Theo de Veer was born in Lausanne, Switzerland. When he was only ten months old his family moved to Nice, France where he spent a normal childhood attending school at the Lycee academy and then the university. Upon his graduation from the university the German army of occupation interned him in a work camp in which he remained for two years until freed by the Allied invasion of France.

Next, he was a member of the French underground which led

Continued on Page 2

College Lifts Cutting Ban For Freshmen

Action by Executive Council Is Effective Beginning Nov 16

Cuts Not Allowed For Below-C Average Pupils

Regulations pertaining to the class attendance of first quarter freshmen will be relaxed as of November 16, according to recent action taken by the Executive Council of the college.

The action of relaxing present regulations will also apply to all freshmen entering Florida State College or the Tallahassee Branch of the University at the opening of the second or third quarters.

It has been pointed out that any present first quarter freshman not making a "C" average for the fall quarter is subject to attendance check and automatic cuts during the second quarter.

Further study will be made by the Attendance Committee of the Council so that specific recommendations for a long-range solu- to the problem of reporting class attendanee can be presented for action. The policies and procedures which have been set down are in the nature of an experiment.

Prize Is Offered By Alumnae Group

Fifteen Dollars to Be Given For Best Wedgewood Design

The Florida State College Alumnae association is offering a cash prize of 15 dollars to students who submit acceptable designs suitable for a commemorative Wedgewood plate. The designs are to utilize typical FSC scenes.

Anyone interested in entering the contest may secure entry blanks from the alumnae office. The contest extends from November 8 to December 6 and will be judged by Mrs Beatrice Williams, Miss Ann Kira and Miss Florence Kawa, all of the college art department.

The cash prize of 15 dollars will be awarded to each person whose design is accepted, and the name of the designer will be printed on the back of each plate.

Plates will be sold by the Alumnae Association to students, alumnae and other interested persons. Examples of plates prepared in this manner by other colleges are on display in the Alumnae office. Miss Mary Mooty of the art education department will act as advisor to students entering the contest.

Pen and ink and wash of monotone color is the suggested medium for the designs. The plates will be made from a steel engraving at the factory. Specifications are $10\frac{5}{8}$ inches in diameter with a $2\frac{1}{4}$-inch border or $10\frac{1}{2}$ inches in diameter with a $1\frac{1}{2}$-inch border. The center design should be $5\frac{3}{4}$ inches in diameter. The border design is optional.

Chapter Installs Officers for Year

At the annual business meeting of the Alpha chapter of Phi Beta Kappa, which was held on October 30, the following officers were installed for the current year: Miss Daisy Parker, presidnet; Dr William Barrows, Jr, vice president; Miss Lucretia Ilsley, secretary; Miss Olga Larsen, treasurer; Professor E L Smith, historian.

It was announced that there would be an addition of six members among the faculty and staff members to Phi Beta Kappa. These members will be invited to affiliate with the Alpha chapter: Miss Mary Helen Burns, counselor in Reynolds Hall; Dr Ruth Bourne, lecturer in the history department; Miss Charlotte Harriman, chemistry department; Mr William Lofton Dale Mabry business office; Dr Cleta Robbins, instructor in art; Dr Grace Wilder, college physician

U of F Publication

The Orange Peel, University of Florida student magazine, will resume publication this month for the first time since 1941. This magazine, which will appear much in its pre-war form, will contain fiction, features, poetry, pictorial features, cartoons and jokes.

Subscriptions may be secured at the rate of one dollar per year. All students interested in subscribing to the magazine are asked to do so at once as the first issue is now on te press, according to Jack Doherty editor of the publication.

Dr Thomas Will Begin Series Of Informal Discussions For Religious Emphasis Week

Campus Observance Will Be Next Week; "Beliefs That Matter" Is Theme of Address To Faculty and Staff Members on Tuesday

Dr John Newton Thomas will begin a series of informal discussions on the Religious Emphasis Week theme, "Beliefs that Matter," with an address to faculty and staff members Tuesday afternoon at 4:45 in the Longmire auditorium. His opening address to students will be at 7:30 Tuesday evening.

Dr John Newton Thamas, professor of theology, will speak to the student body in observance of Religious Emphasis Week. He will speak Tuesday evening at 7:30 in the Longmire auditorium. Informal student discussion groups will be held at 4:45 every afternoon of the week.

Religious Emphasis Week will be observed on campus Tuesday through Friday of next week. Miss Miriam Wilson, Presbyterian student secretary, is general chairman of the Religious Workers Council of the college, with Dalia Santos as student chairman.

"All religious organizations on campus are making plans for the occasion, and an invitation is extended to every student, faculty member and sponsor of a religious organization to attend the various functions. The men of the Tallahassee Branch of the University of Florida are especially included among those invited, stated Miss Wilson.

The principal speaker of the week, Dr Thomas, is professor of systematic theology at Union Theological Seminary in Richmond, Virginia. A native of Virginia, Dr Thomas did undergraduate work at Washington and Lee University, where he was prominent in student activities and was elected to Phi Beta Kappa. He took his master's degree at the University of Edinburgh, Scotland, and completed his theological training at Union Theological Seminary in Virginia. Upon graduation Dr Thomas was awarded a fellowship for further graduate work in Europe.

After studying in some of the great European universities, he received his Ph D degree from the University of Edinburgh. Before taking his present position as professor of theology, Dr Thomas was pastor of Grace Covenant Presbyterian church in Richmond, Virginia. He comes to Florida State College campus as a well known teacher and youth leader throughout the South.

The calendar for Religious Emphasis Week is as follows:

November 12
4:45 Address to faculty and staff
5:30 Informal reception for faculty and staff (both events in Longmire building)
7:30 Opening address to students
November 13
4:45 Informal reception in reception room of Longmire building (main lounge) followed by discussion period.
7:30 Address in Longmire auditorium
November 14
4.45 Informal discussion group
7.30 Address in Longmire auditorium
November 15
4:45 Informal discussion group
7:30 Closing address "How to Deal With Doubts"

Play Is Performed Last Time Tonight

Kesselring Comedy Hailed "Success" by First-Niters

The final performance of Joseph Kesselring's "Arsenic and Old Lace," presented by the speech department, will be played tonight in the Augusta Conradi Little Theater.

The Wednesday and Thursday night performances have been hailed by those who have attended as a "great success." Among comments overheard after the shows were "Excellent make-up," "good acting," and "nice setting." The play has held the attention of the audiences throughout.

The plot is built around two elderly ladies, played by Elaine Parramore and Mary Anne Cannon, who through a mental quirk feel it their duty to poison lonely old men as an act of charity. Their nephew (Dick Mitchell) attempts to deal with both the situation and his fiancée (Bet Cargill). Further complications are added by two sinister characters played by Frank Lewis and John Folsom. Teddy Brewster (played by Herbert Sessions), who thinks he is Theodore Roosevelt, is an unknowing accomplice in the Brewster ladies' "charity." He disposes of the bodies by burying them in the cellar.

At length the nephew Mortimer brings some order out of the situation, and the Brewsters are all committed to institutions. Mortimer finds that he is a ward of the family, and not really a Brew-

Continued on Page 2

Sunday Dancing Rule Is CGA Forum Topic

Discussion of the rule prohibiting Sunday dancing will be the topic of the College Government association forum at 7:30 p m Monday in the Longmire auditorium, according to announcement from Martha Peacock, third vice-president of CGA. Panel for the discussion is: Betty Gardiner, pro, and Connie Savage and Anne Carter, con.

"It behooves every student to go to forum and express her opinion," urged Martha, "because reports of forum will have some influence on Senate's legislation." A report of the discussion will be sent to Senate.

A new plan has been made concerning forum representation this quarter Various organizations on campus which serve to tie the campus with the outside are to elect representatives to the forum planning body. This committee of approximately 28 is to work with Martha on a slate of forum topics for the year.

At the forum meeting last week representatives from the three classes were chosen They are Anne Parker, senior, Enid Krause, junior and Jane Hardacre, sophomore.

FSC President Tells Of Expansion Plans

"People thought it was foolish when I first started making plans for the expansion of Florida State College for Women, but now I am wondering if the anticipated expansion will be sufficient," states Dr Doak S Campbell, FSC president.

One new dormitory is under construction now while plans are being drawn for another one. These two dormitories, accommodating approximately 750 girls, will complete part of the quadrangle that is to be found north and west of Jennie Muphree.

Plans are being made for a new Demonstration School to be located north and west of the main campus between Tennessee street and the old Quincy road.

"Also," said Dr Campbell, "the plans for many new buildings, including a music building, another science building, and an auditorium, are under way at present. The further expansion of FSC is inevitable."

Skit Needed

Anyone who has a size 18, maroon skirt is requested to see Owen F Sellers, band director, as soon as possible. The band needs one desperately.

Senator Pepper Predicts "Hard Days Ahead" In Statement Read to Flambeau Reporter

By JOYCE PETTY

"Would I like to go out to Senator Pepper's house?" that's what Dr Marion Hay asked, but I had to repeat it to make myself believe my ears.

A few minutes later I was shaking hands with Senator Claude L Pepper as he sat in his dressing gown working on a press statement about the elections.

The Peppers had arrived in Tallahassee Tuesday afternoon for a brief stay before going to Brooksville for a few days rest, and the senator had been up early that morning listening to the election returns as they came in from over the country.

While we talked of the republican gains in both houses of Congress and petted the honey colored cocker spaniel of the house, he read his statement to us for criticism and approval.

"The republican party captured the government after World War I as they have after World War II and we got inflation, depression and isolation which led to world chaos and war. . . . From my knowledge of the Republican high command and the republican party, I predict there are hard days ahead for people here and abroad.'

He looked up from his notes, and asked Dr Hay's advice. "I want to warn the Republicans and challenge the Democrats. Do you think it does that?"

He began reading again, "Let the liberal forces of the nation forget minor differences and from this day make common cause to rebuild the party. When the people see the real character of the government they get they will turn again to the Democratic party, but the Democratic party must be ready to meet the test and must be without compromise or secret reservation the real voice . . of the people."

We could not finish the statement, for Mrs Pepper had an appointment at the capitol building, and we were going to accompany her: we bade the senator and his mother good-bye and rushed into the waiting taxi.

Mrs Mildred Pepper is an alumna of Florida State College and was interested to learn of its expansion during the last years. She chatted about her trip to Paris this past summer where she represented The People's Mandate—a Western Hemispheric women's organization that is working for "a just and lasting peace".

When the group met last March they drew up a set of principles upon which they thought the peace should be based, then selected four women to take the principles to France and have them read into the peace conference record. Both Mrs Pepper and Dr Hay were in the delegation.

The first work of the committee was to contact the heads of all the delegations, present the principles to them, and interview each one concerning his opinions on them.

"I didn't really expect to get to see Mr Molotov," Mrs Pepper said, "and when he sent word that he would be glad to see me, I rushed over. He was enthusiastic about the objectives when I presented them and said that he thought that was what we all wanted. Throughout the interview he was quite charming and sympathetic to our principles. I was quite thrilled to be the only woman to interview him especially because of his habit of seclusion even from the other delegates.

"I was glad to see that the French women were interested in our work. We went to see Madame Bidault, the wife of the head of the French government, and she immediately suggested that the women of France affiliate with us She arranged for teas and other social affairs where we could meet various personages and get our purpose publicized as much as possible."

The women received statements concerning the principles from many of the delegations. All the men agreed that the peace treaties should be based on justice, but most of them said that it would be hard to put such ideals into the treaties because each country would interpret justice differently just as they would interpret the dignity and worth of individual man, and equal rights of all men and women differently.

Mrs Pepper was particularly pleased with the reaction of Herbert V Evatt, an Australian delegate, and said that he seemed to be one of the most charming men and more liberal thinkers in the delegation. He said, "I was especially impressed with your emphasis on human values. People sometimes speak of nations as though they existed apart from human families This is a dangerous fallacy."

Foreign Minister Bevin of Great Britain was almost as hard to see as was Molotov. He said he was "glad to see the women interested in the treaties, and thought more women should aspire to high positions in government and politics. Not only do I think they should be acquainted with political affairs so they may be able to help their husbands and families see the issues involved"

"I get so disgusted with women who say they aren't interested in politics and don't know much about it," Mrs Pepper said, "I always answer, 'Now let me see. What is politics? My husband is a politician and his duty is to make the laws by which you and your children will live. . . . No, I guess you wouldn't be interested in things like that."

"It was interesting to note the reaction of the common people to the conference," said Mrs Pepper. "One was heard to say, 'we're not getting anything from the conference—it's just costing the French people money; let them go someplace else and meet."

HEADLINES MAKE NEWS

If you're partial to soft, young curls try our shoulder length permanent for a gay novelty note. Scoop it up in the back with a clever barette.

Three Torches Beauty Salon

Vita-Fluff Shampoo

. . . is here again!

Located Across From Education Bldg.

PHONE 858

IS TENNIS YOUR SPORT?

Then Visit Yon's!

We Have Rackets in a Wide Price Range

Seek it First at

VAN BRUNT & YON INC.

YON'S HARDWARE

BOTTLED UNDER AUTHORITY OF THE COCA-COLA COMPANY BY

TALLAHASSEE COCA-COLA BOTTLING COMPANY

Artist Series Tickets

Season tickets for artist series may still be obtained at the artist series office in the Music Annex. Mrs Mary Norwood, secretary, will be in the office Monday through Friday from 9 a m until 1 p m. Students must bring their yellow registration card to the office in order to get their season tickets. Schedule cards and receipts will not be accepted.

New Committee Has Meeting

Members Make Reports, Discuss Revision Plans

The second general meeting of the newly elected Constitutional committee was held Monday night, November 4, in the Longmire building club room. At the first meeting the week before, sub-committees were formed to work on different articles of the constitution. Some of these committees had reports to make. The entire committee discussed all proposed changes.

Articles now under discussion and being considered for revision are those relating to the purpose and name of the College Government association, the judicial section, the executiva section, the section on nominations, elections and appointments, and the article on amendments The latter is to be finished as soon as possible in order to facilitate passage of subsequent amendments. Next on the list in point of time is the article on nominations, elections and appointments, so that if a satisfactory amendment can be completed and passed in time it will go into effect for spring elections.

Several members of the committee have expressed a desire for more student opinion and interest in the committee's work. One representative said, "If, when we have finished our work as best we can, the students do not approve of what we have done, wa shall have wasted both our time and theirs. We would like very much to have students attend our meetings, which are open, especially the forums we are planning. Their opinions are even more valuable now than they will be later."

The sub-committees meet once a week at times most convenient to them. They do the actual work of re-writing, then take what they have done to the general meetings of the committee for discussion and approval. Two-thirds of the members of the committee must be present before a vote can be taken on any measure, and a measure must be passed by a majority vote before it is valid.

The committee passed a motion asking the steering committee to recommend to Senate a request for representation from the subcommitte concerned when an amendment is sent to College Council for consideration.

The next meeting of the committee will be held Monday, November 11, at 6:45 p m in 402 Longmire building This meeting will be open to the entire student body.

Seniors Please Note

Placement registration for first and second quarter graduates is being conducted this week. IT IS NECESSARY FOR EVERY GRADUATE TO HAVE A PERMANENT PLACEMENT RECORD IN THE PERSONNEL OFFICE WHETHER OR NOT A POSITION IN ANY FIELD IS DESIRED.

Seniors who expect to graduate in December or March will be scheduled for twenty minute conferences with Miss Helen B Parker or Mrs Frances H Roberts. Those who do not receive a letter of appointment are asked to come to the Personnel Office not later than today.

Library Has Book Week

Music Books Displayed For Convention Here

"Books Are Bridges" will be the theme of the display on the third floor of the Florida State College library next week to emphasize National Book Week, November 11 through 15.

Students in the Division of Library Training and Service will be on duty each afternoon from 3:30 to 5 p m to conduct visitors around the more unfamiliar parts of the library.

National Book Week, which dates back to 1929, was started by Franklin Matthews, librarian of Boy Scouts of America, for the purpose of presenting the best children's books to the public. The following year, the American Library Association formally added its support and aid to Book Week.

Figurines of the different lands grouped around the books of their various nations have been placed in a show case display by students in the Division of Library Training and Service.

Music Convention Honored—bf

During the past week, the FSC library displayed a large number of music books for the convenience of the delegates to the State Music Teachers convention.

In the reference room is a shelf of music catalogs, encyclopedias of musicians, reference books, dictionaries of musicians, books on the works of the masters, and a selection of reviews of operas, ballets and music of various countries.

Many kinds of children's music books are displayed at the librarian's desk. This display includes folk songs of various countries, illustrated ballads, simplified editions of the lives of great composars and fairy-tale versions of operas.

The foyer is reserved for books that hava been most used in the past and books just off the press. These are to give the music teachers a chance to select books for their own libraries and books that would be most suitable for their pupils.

On the bulletin board is an illustrated chronological list of famous composers ranging from Bach to Gershwin and including the riod from 1680 to 1940.

Besides the music display, the library has in the glass cases two sets of pictures. The first is of buildings in Tallahassee 75 years ago and includes churches, the Courthouse, the capitol building and the home which is now the Dutch Kitchen. Pictures in the second case represent Tallahassee today. They ara of the Courthouse, the post office, school houses and the home of the "Tallahassee girl."

These library displays change frequently and are planned to arouse interest and to be of value to anyone working with the topic represented.

"And It Comes"

Continued from Page 1

to move around more, get up and stroll about the room if the music is particularly stirring. That's why playing records at home is such a good way to meet music."

During his college days, Mr Fletcher was deciding on his career between journalism and music. He almost chose to become a music critic in order to combine the two. "But they're nasty people, you know," his grey eyes laughed, "and why should I criticize music when I could make music." So Stanley Fletcher made his decision to be a pianist—and a recorder-player, too.

Play Is Performed

Continued from Page 1

ster at all. The final touch is added as the sweet old ladies poison the manager of the asylum before they are incarcerated.

Other actors in the play were Jack Leonard, Curtis Proctor, J P Poides, Paul Johnson, D L Middlebrooks and Jack Riehey.

Miss Yvonne Cody of the speech department directed the production. Settings were by Mr Claude Guidroz. The next major presentation by the speech department will be given December 4, 5 and 6.

White-Way

LAUNDRY and DRY CLEANING

Dale Mabry Branch

Building 442 Hours: 1:00-5:00

Gamma Sig's Tap Nine New Members

Gamma Sigma Epsilon, national chemistry honorary, has recently tapped six new members. They are Dr Robert S Leopold, honorary faculty member; Betty Sue Gray, Mary Maude Trowbridge, Marian Floyd, Betty Speer, John Sullenberger, and Iris Johnston, who was tapped at the close of spring quarter last year.

The taps have received their test tubes tied with the ribboned colors of the organization.

GSE officers who were elected last spring are Mary Jane Kirat, president; Anne McDonald, secretary; Jo Dawkins, treasurer; and Juanita Nord, sergeant-at-arms.

Constitutional

Continued from Page 1

of the student body, see your officers and have them present it to the student body for approval."

In concluding Dr McBride said, "I want you men to develop a school spirit in what I believe to be a growing thing—the Tallahassee branch. If it is found necessary to cut out the present weekly assembly it shall be done, but thera must be some method of developing school spirit and I believe this weekly meeting is it. If you prefer to call it a pep meeting, or class meeting, then do so, but find some way in which the student body can meet to discuss their problems and express some of the spirit necessary for tha scholarly momentum of the students."

The Tuasday assembly was brightened by the addition of entertainment from the Pi Beta Phi sorority in which five of their members presented a program for the men. The student body expressed approval of the suggestion by Jesse Wilson, social chairman, that a small program of entertainment be provided for each assembly.

Life at French

Continued from Page 1

him into an association with the OSS branch at Nice. His contacts with American OSS officers caused him to become interested in America, so at the close of the war he wrote to his brother, Frank de Veer of Tallahassee, asking his help in getting to the United States. Mr de Veer discussed it with Doctor Campbell, and shortly after that, Mr Theo de Veer was asked to come here in the capacity of French instructor.

Campbell At Meeting

Dr Doak S Campbell, president of Florida State College, is attending a meeting of the State Board of Control today.

He is expected to return to campus tomorrow following a three-day trip during which he also attended a conference on traffic and highway accidents held in Orlando. This discussion was a portion of the governor's highway program.

Membership of Campus 4-H Club Grows During Twenty-Year Development at FSC

Twenty years ago, in 1926, there was no evidence of 4-H club work on the campus of Florida State College. Now, only two decades later the membership of the club includes 53 girls, the majority of whom have previously excelled in 4-H Club work throughout tha state and the nation.

The original 4-H Club branch on the FSC campus consisted of ten girls whose aim it was to enlist the many unattached 4-H members in organized work and to further their cause while in college.

The four "H's" in 4-H represent Head, Heart, Hand and Health. The club strives to help its members make these four portions of the human anatomy work in unison for the benefit of the individual and her immediate surroundings. It is the duty of each member to train her head so that she will have the power to think clearly, to plan successfully and to reason efficiently.

The work of these 4-H girls includes gardening, caring for and raising livestock, sewing, canning, cooking, baking and, at the same time, accomplishing the above skills at a minimum cost. Many members have attended summer camps, short courses and conventions sponsored by the club and have at these conventions learned valuable forms of recreation and handicraft while at the same time they had an opportunity to display their own ingenuity.

Members of the 4-H Club on campus have proved that they have lived up to the standards of the club for many have been outstanding in both state and national competitions. Among awards held by FSC 4-H Club members are second place in the state Clothing Achievement contest of 1945, winner of the state 4-H Club Garden Contest, in 1944, Grand Championship among fine bred steers in the Southeastern Fat and Sale Show, top ranking awards in the 4-H Club dress review contests and many more.

Former 4-H Club members from FSC have entered such fields as homemaking, teaching, dietetics, nursing, executive positions, Home Demonstration work and service with the armed forces.

Officers of the FSC 4-H Club for 1946-47 are: Clarice Jernigan, president; Mary Ruth Miller, vice-president; Joanne Howard, secretary; and Fay Smith, treasurer

Television and FM radio waves, unlike regular broadcasting waves, travel in a straight line, thus reaching only to the horizon.

Fire Efficiency Tested in Landis

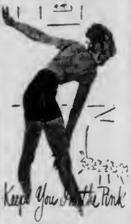
With all the talk of fire on the campus and the new fire drill system, the campus afficiency in these matters would have been tested if some girls had not found the source of the penetrating burning odor which permeated the atmosphere of the first floor of the east wing of Landis last night.

In spite of a burried search into the students' rooms no flame or smoldering fire was found. Some students secured a pass key to the locked rooms and discovered a connected iron burning through an ironing board in Miss Edith McCollum's kitchen. The excitement subsided as the fire was put out by water and the students began to disperse

Espinosa Visits FSC

Dr Francisco Espinosa, supervisor of secondary schools in San Salvador, visited Florida State College last Friday on his tour of Florida schools. Sent by the Inter-American Offics of Education, he is in the United States inspecting tha rural system of education.

Dr Espinosa had lunch with the Spanish faculty in the dining hall Friday, and was later given a tea by the students of the Spanish House. From Tallahassee he will go to Baton Rouge before returning to San Salvador.



Keeps You in the Pink

...or Black
...or White

"POWER Miracle" by MISS SEVENTEEN

Figure-firming to your taste — in petal pink, sophisticated black, or saintly white. "Power Miracle" charms your curves with bi-directional stretch. Slims you, trims you, controls with a caress! in girdle, panty, or brief-brief . . .

$5 to $10 at better stores

MISS SEVENTEEN FOUNDATIONS

New York 1, N. Y.,

He's a Tally-U Student who's just discovered the food at the

SWEET SHOP

Fountain Service, Luncheons, Short Orders, All Kinds of Sandwiches

(We'll even have bacon soon - we hope!)

Bikes For Rent

Sports Round-Up

By BOB COOKSEY

ns Florida Gators have their en opportunity to give their rpretation of the word "upset" n they clash with the nation's d-ranking team, the Georgia ldogs, in Jacksonville tomor- . The Gators will be out to the dynamic wanderings of rlie Trippi, Pennsylvania rgian, who added more lustre his already hallowed football e last Saturday by personally ing the Bulldogs to a 14-0 win well-thought-of Alabama.

However, the Gators will not have to contend with the atile Trippi, but also there is nny Donaldson, Rabbit Smith, nny Rauch, Herb St John and e Chandler, to mention a few. to be overlooked is reservist d Mosely, who is an expert at gging the forwards of the rgia backs. Mosely led the na- in total yardage gained ough pass receiving in 1944 1945 without making the ting lineup for the Bulldogs. d in the place of the 165-lb or in the starting lineups is "Terry" Tereshinski, devas- ng blocker and defensive end ke, but when the Bulldogs t to go through the air they d Mosely down the field.

Broughton "The Brute" Wil- ms. Florida end is going to e the fleet Mosely a scrap on field tomorrow, and it already ns probable that the big Tam- senior will oust Mosely as the on's leading pass receiver. liams has travelled 432 yards 23 passes to outdistance the d and has four games yet to y. If the Gator wingman can erage 97 yards for each of the maining games he will surpass national collegiate record of zona's Henry Stanton, who ed 820 yards on the passes caught in 1941.

With the Bulldogs moving up third place in the national diron standings over the de- ted Pennsylvania Quakers and victorious UCLA Bruins of west coast, we find that the e of footballdom includes five the teams from the South and uthwest. Besides Georgia there Rice and Texas of the South- st conference and Tennessee d Georgia Tech of the South- stern conference in the top ten ams

The complete mythical national andings in the order of their tings include: Army, Notre ame Georgia, UCLA, Rice, Tex- Tennessee, Georgia Tech, nnsylvania and Illinois. Other uthern teams given considera- n last week were: Wake Forest, th nationally; North Carolina, ed with Northwestern for 17th ace; Louisiana State, 19th, and rth Carolina State, 20th. Hon- able mention went to William d Mary, Alabama, Vanderbilt, burn, Mississippi State, South rolina, Arkansas, and Miami.

The Stetson Hatters took it on e chin again last Saturday as ssissippi College took advan- ge of two long scoring plays to m the Hatters 13-0. The Hatters ll seek to regain the victory col- mn against Erskine on the Stet- n field tonight. The Rollins Tars Winter Park will go against e Pensacola Navy team tomor- ow at Pensacola as they seek eir third triumph in four starts is season. The Tars have lost ly to George Washington in eir previous games.

Down South the Miami Hurri- nes meet their namesake from Ohio, the Miami Redskins tonight, they warm up for their rug- ed struggle with the powerful SU Tigers next week. The Ohio am has run up a fine record this season against mediocre competition, but will be facing a team f explosive power when they pile nto the Roddy Burdine stadium t Miami and clash with the Hur- canes. Coach Spike Harding of e Hurricanes is hoping his boys ill not get over-confident and verlook the Redskin game, and the Florida storm-troopers are oing to be out to show their oach that they mean business

The Hurricanes edged Villanova last week 26-21 for their fifth triumph in six games. Their only loss has been a 21-0 affair to North Carolina.

Racial controversy has reared its ugly head again as the University of Nevada athletic board cancelled its game to be played against Mississippi State on November 16 at Starkeville, Mississippi, when they received a request from State asking that Negro athletes Bill Bass, a back, and Horace Gillom, an end, not to appear on the field at Starkeville in violation of "a tradition of the South." Incidentally Gillom is the nation's leading punter, having accumulated an average of 44 yards per boot in Nevada's six games played so far. . .

YWCA Weekends at Camp Flastacowo

"We Are Called" Is Selected Theme for YW Weekend

"We Are Called" is the theme for YWCA weekend at Camp Flastacowo on November 9 and 10, announced Joyce Petty, president of the Y group. Taxis will leave from in front of the Physical Education building at 2 o'clock Saturday afternoon, and campers are asked to bring 50c for transportation.

The theme is taken from the national emphasis of the YW and YM for this fall. Special attention is to be placed on the responsibility of each individual in a cooperative democratic organization.

Dorothea McRee and Annette Nordan are in charge of general arrangements for the weekend at camp. Emily Gahr is chairman of the transportation. Anyone interested in hiking out to camp should contact Jean Helm, Box 692 or room 301 Landis. Members of the food committee are Marion Hill, chairman, Jeanna Bagley, Beti Barton, Betty Sue Jones, Anne Singleton and Shirlay Schroeder

Miss Betty Kirlin and Miss Phyllis Greife will spend the weekend with this group, said Joyce, and the women members of the YW advisory board are invited to the Sunday dinner at camp.

Joyce announced that all YW activities will be cancelled next week because of Religious Emphasis Week and urged all Y members to attend the programs featured during this week.

AAUW to Picnic At Camp Flastacowo

The Tallahassee chapter of the American Association of University Women will hold a picnic meeting Tuesday afternoon, Nov 12 at 5 at Camp Flastacowo, according to announcement by Miss Marjorie Judy, president.

This will be the regular November meeting of the AAUW and is planned as an opportunity for new members to become acquainted with other members of the club. Women intending to attend the picnic are requested to notify Miss Judy, box 1936, Florida State College, and transportation will be provided for those without cars.

The group is beginning an active season of educational and social programs which will close in the spring with a reception honoring the FSC graduating class. The AAUW meets the second Tuesday in each month and membership is open to Tallahassee women who are graduates of an acknowledged college or university. An associate membership is open to women who have completed two years at an acknowledged college or university.

A new electronic device makes visible records of speech sounds. The spoken word is reproduced as a pattern upon a moving belt or upon the screen of a cathode-ray tube. Anyone trained in interpreting the pattern can repeat the sounds aloud.

Gridiron Players Gain 13-7 Victory

Barracks 516 Beat 515, 609 In Touchdown Pass Attack

With Ed Dilsavor of St Augustine scoring two touchdowns Barracks 516 of the Dale Mabry branch romped to a 13-7 victory over the combined forces of Barracks 515 and 609 Monday. Dilsaver snagged touchdown passes from Slick Edwards, Port St Joe, who shared the pitching duties with George Dickie, former Marine from Palmetto.

At the half-time neither team had penetrated into scoring territory, but after the second half was only two minutes old Dilsaver hauled in an Edwards' pass and scored on a play covering 25 yards. A pass for the extra point failed. Holding a 6-0 lead the lads from 515 took the ball from their opponents and again a short pass to Dilsaver from Edwards counted a touchdown. Edwards passed to Bob Cooksey, Winter Haven, for the extra point.

With time running out the 515-609 forces finally got their ponderous running and passing attack moving with precision and with less than a minute to play Donald Grant of Perry skirted his own left end to score for them. Grant raced around left end to convert after the final whistle had blown with the final tally reading 13-7.

Baracks 701 (upper deck) took advantage of the breaks to nose out Upper 700 by a 7-6 score Thursday afternoon, winning under the ruling that in the event of a ti the team with the most first downs is to be declared the winner. 701 had three first downs to their opponents two.

The first touchdown of the game was scored by 701 early in the second half when George Newman of Eau Gallie pulled in a pass from Harry Stafford of Lake Worth in a play covering 32 yards to give 701 a 6-0 lead. Stafford's pass for the extra point was incomplete.

Barracks 700 drove back down the field with the ball shortly after the kickoff scoring on a short pass over center to John Mattmuller of Vero Beach. Stafford batted down an attempted pass play for the extra point.

The game ended with 701 in possession of the ball shortly after making the first down that decided the game in their favor.

In the past week's schedule Barracks 606 and 641 gained the quarterfinals with byes. Games scheduled for next week will find Barracks 505 playing Upper 701 Wednesday, 516 meeting 630 Thursday, and then 701 Lower plays 644 Monday, November 18. No game appears on the schedule sheet for Monday, November 11.

Journalists Visit Radio Station WRHP

Almost sixty students of journalism 201 visited station WRHP in the Floridan hotel Tuesday, Wednesday and Thursday afternoons at 4:30 to observe methods of presenting news over the air.

This trip, arranged through Frank Pepper, station manager, was designed to acquaint students with the journalistic techniques as employed by radio. Until recently classroom work has emphasized newspaper work almost completely.

'Radio," said Miss Dora Byron, instructor in journalism, "is certain to play an even larger and larger part in new presentation. It is important that avery journalism student understand the nature and the significance of this new medium."

Men Given Lounge

Boys from Dale Mabry will be given a lounge room on the ground floor of the Longmire building on Nov 15 when the Flambeau office is moved upstairs. The need for such a lounge room has been felt for some time, and is particularly important now with the proximity of cold weather and winter rains.

The Flambeau office will be moved to the room now assigned to the Flastacowo, and the Flastacowo will move to the office of the YWCA. The new YWCA offices will be in Longmire 403 and 405.

Picture Reminder

Students who have missed their annual picture appointments are reminded that Saturday is the last possible day for any adjustments to be made.

"Pictures will be takan through Tuesday," Louise Sims, editor of the Flastacowo, explained, "but no changes can be made after Saturday."

Playnight Features Faculty Group Skit

The Tally U swing band will play for Playnight this Saturday night in the Physical Education building. Dancing will start at 6 o'clock and at 9 a skit will be presented by the Physical Education faculty

"The Physical Education faculty is being very secretive about their skit," said Nancy MacEdwards, chairman of Playnight, "so it will be a big surprise for everybody, including me."

Last Saturday at Playnight was Sadie Hawkins Night. The Sadie Hawkins skit was given in pantomine with M L Vernon as tha narrator. Joyce Cayce and Lucille Ossenkop sang "Crash on the Highway" with appropriate costumes and action to demonstrate their song. A tap dance by Nancy Gleaton and Anna Lou Rivers was followed by a square dance in which the girls exhausted the boys in preparation for the Sadie Hawkins Day race. When the race took place the female contestants ran into the audience and claimed a man for a square dance. Dancing was resumed as the boys' original dates "Sadie Hawkinsed" them back again.

Next Saturday's Playnight will be put on by Sophomore Council. "You'd better not miss this one as it will really be good!" Nancy commented.

Postpone Tennis Finals Until Monday

Tennis intramural finals in singles and semi-finals in doubles have been postponed until Monday, due to the wet courts yesterday. On Wednesday in the singles contest Pi Phi defeated Alpha Delta Pi and Kappa Alpha Theta defeated Phi Mu. Pi Phi and Kappa Alpha Theta will vie for honors in the finals. In the doubles contest Pi Phi and Magnolia have finished one set of the semi-final trial, as have Kappa Alpha Theta and Chi Omega. The remaining sets will be played Monday and the finals will be held Tuesday.

Practice for basketball intramurals will begin Monday at 4:45. Each girl must earn two practice points to be eligible for a team. All entries should be mada by Thursday, according to Rosa Lee Davis, sports leader.

Dale Mabry Cagers To Play Kappa Sigs

Second Consecutive Win Is Sought by Confident Team

The Dale Mabry cagers will meet the Kappa Sigma five of the University of Florida on the Gainesville courts tonight as they seek to take their second consecutive win over the fraternity. In the first game played here in Tallahassee recently the DM team turned out with a 31-24 triumph.

Making the trip to Gainesville will be Jim Pavy, Slick Edwards, Chuck Godwin, Arthur Schneider, Sonny Bowers, Paul Wickham, George Dickie, Neill Stanfill, Herman Fillingim, Charles Brown and Bill Stephens, student manager.

Coach Ed Williamson announced that 33 men turned out for the first regularly scheduled practice last Monday and that although the squad would not be large in number there would be enough competition to keep the men who have been practicing for the past three weeks on their toes to hold their varsity berths. The practices are to be held nightly from 7 until 9 p m, Monday through Thursday.

Swimming has taken on an intercollegiate aspect when the boys interested in forming a tank team met with Coach Williamson in the Dale Mabry gym and a team was discussed and an invitation was sent to Phi Beta Theta of Gainesville, last year's University swim champs, to engage in a meet to be held on November 23.

Practices for the DM swimming team will be held on Monday, Wednesday and Saturday evenings at the Florida State College gym pool.

New Cheerleaders Elected by Classes

"This quarter the Odd-Even theme is carried into the cheer leading teams," said Amelia Pavese, junior cheer leadar." The Even team has eight newly elected rooters, and the Odds have seven. Odd Even—get it?"

Sis Myers, Hank Trevant, and Vonna Black were elected from the senior class, with sophomores Mary Alice Pitts, Mary Nell Thrower, Floy Jean Pflough, and Wylene Bender completing the Odd cheerers.

For the Even team come Joyce Cayce, Norma Schaffner, Jeanne Booth, and Amelia Pavese as juniors, and Susie Kunkel, Mary Jo Guynn, Mary Ellen Game, and Erin Wilcox as Even freshmen.

"New cheers and ideas will be announced later," Amelia added.

Safety Conference

Miss Fannie B Shaw and Dr Katheryn Montgomery of the Education department are attending the governor's highway safety conference which is being held Thursday and Friday of this week in Orlando.

"Recommendations from this conference are to be used as guides by legislators, public officials and organizations in planning effective traffic control in Florida," said Miss Shaw.

Evens Elect Eight; Odds Choose Seven

"The Odd-Even cheerleaders really live up to their name this year," said Amelia Pavese, junior class athletic manager. "The Odds have seven and the Evens have eight."

According to Amelia, the WRA board decided to have four girls from each class elected this year, but there were only three senior cheerleaders chosen. These senior Odds are Vonna Black, "Sis" Myers and Hank Tresvant. The sophomore cheerleaders for the Odds are Wylene Bender, Mary Alice Pitts, Floy Jean Pflough and Mary Nell Thrower.

The green and gold teams will be cheered on by Jeanne Booth, Joyce Cayce, Amelia Pavese and Norma Schaffner from the junior class. Evens elected from the freshman class are Mary Ellen Game, Mary Jo Gwynn, Susie Kunkel and Erin Wilcox.

"New cheers and ideas for cheers will be announced soon," said Amelia.

Tarpon Club Show Date Indefinite

Dates of the Thanksgiving performances of Tarpon Club are indefinite pending announcement of the results of the voting for cancellation or continuation of Odd-Even activities for that time, announced B J Singleton, president of Tarpons.

If activities of November 28 and 29 are cancelled, the Tarpon performances will be Monday and Tuesday, November 25 and 26. If the voting results in continuation of Thanksgiving activities, the demonstrations will be November 27, 28, and 29, as previously planned. The theme will be kept secret as traditional.

Announcement for the distribution of tickets for these shows will be made upon posting of voting results.

Tarpon members are deciding upon new bathing suits which will be royal blue with white emblems reports B J. The club has sent for a sample Catalina suit to be considered in the choice.

Golf Championship

Dr Claude R Flory, of the English department, was runner-up in the Tallahassee City Golf Championship which was concluded this past weekend. Dr Flory scored a neat 75 in the semi-finals over Tom Gallatin of Tallahassee though he lost to Richard Irwin in the finals.

As runner-up, Dr Flory received a plasti-glass rain coat, "Which is really too big for me," he said. Dr Flory has won previous prizes in Lakewood, Maine; Augusta, Maine and Washington, Pennsylvania, and twice has scored a hole-in-one.

Class Gets Practice

Members of Miss Lillian Travick's storytelling class received practical experience last Saturday afternoon when they told stories during the relaxation period of the Girl Scouts rally held in Lafayette Park

Those taking part were Mary Katherine Klutz, Sarah Routon, Nancy Morgan, Drucilla Gnann and Elizabeth Ann Hoffman.

Layton's
Men's Wear
114½ E. COLLEGE PHONE 2784-W

GET READY FOR THOSE COOL DAYS!

We Have Plenty of Sweaters and Ties on Hand, Fellows

ALL STYLES OF WINTER CLOTHING

Layton's
Style Distinguished Clothes

ALTERATIONS DONE ON THE PREMISES

SKIPPERS BEWARE!
SHE WEIGHS ONLY 98 POUNDS, BUT NATIONAL WOMEN'S SAILING CHAMPION LOIS MACINTYRE IS A KEEN CONTENDER IN ANY RACE!
NO LUCK, LOIS. THEY TACKED RIGHT WITH US!
THEY'RE FOOTING ON US EVERY SECOND
LONG ISLAND SOUND
I'VE GOT AN IDEA—THE TRICK WE USED IN THE NATIONAL—MAKE IT GOOD!
SKIPPER MACINTYRE IS BLANKETED BY THE LEADER IN A RACE OF ATLANTIC (30 FT.) CLASS BOATS...
HARD A-LEE!
SHE'S STILL BLANKETED BY NO. 101—NOW SHE'S GOING OFF ON ANOTHER TACK
OR IS SHE? NO! IT'S A FEINT TACK—THAT MACINTYRE GIRL IS A REAL CHAMPION
R. J. Reynolds Tobacco Company, Winston-Salem, North Carolina
TO GET OUT FROM UNDER BLANKET OF OPPONENT'S SAILS, SKIPPER MACINTYRE(26) CALLS OUT FAKE ORDER TO TACK. HER CREW GOES THROUGH MOTIONS OF TACKING, BUT—AS OPPONENT(101) ALSO TACKS TO KEEP HER COVERED—SHE FALLS BACK ON HER ORIGINAL COURSE AND GETS INTO CLEAR BEFORE OPPONENT DISCOVERS THE TRICK
THEY FELL FOR IT BEAUTIFULLY, LOIS. THEY'LL NEVER CATCH US NOW!
NICE ACTING, GIRLS! WE'RE HEADING FOR THE FINISH LINE!
—AND THE CHAMPION WINS AGAIN!
THAT WAS A WELL-EARNED VICTORY, YOUNG WOMAN
I SEE YOU ALSO SMOKE CAMELS, MISS MACINTYRE
CAMELS ARE FIRST WITH ME ON EVERY COUNT! THEY ALWAYS TASTE GOOD!
YOUR "T-ZONE" WILL TELL YOU...
T for Taste...T for Throat ...that's your proving ground for any cigarette. See if Camels don't suit your "T-Zone" to a "T."
CAMELS ARE EASY ON MY THROAT—AND TOPS FOR TASTE. THEY SUIT ME TO A 'T'
Lois MacIntyre
COSTLIER TOBACCOS
CAMEL

TENNIS
Headquarters!
Rackets Restrung
Pennsylvania – Dunlop
and Wright & Ditson
Balls
Seabrook Hardware Co.
PHONE 200

SPIRIT OF THE WEEK

"You get action when you least expect it."

● ALL GOOD THINGS

It is a sad thing to see traditions go. It is a sad thing to see anything that one has become used to go. It is sad, but it is necessary.

When the time comes that the past is no longer adaptable to the present, then the past must give way. This does not mean that the past should be forgotten for nothing that has ever meant a great deal to someone can be forgotten. So it is with our Thanksgiving activities—our Odd-Even rivalry.

For the past few years because of increased enrollment here at Florida State College and because of our constantly changing world, it has become more and more evident that Odd and Even rivalry is on the wane. With each succeeding year it has become necessary to expend more and more energy in whipping up the rival spirit; each year the demonstrations have departed more and more from their initial purpose—that of introducing the teams. Even the games have been changed from the traditional basketball and volleyball to hockey and soccer.

Why hang on to something that no longer serves its purpose? A society that does not constantly change is not a living society. Surely the students of FSC desire to be part of a living society!

Granted that the suspension of Thanksgiving activities may mean the death of Odd-Even rivalry, why whip the flame of dying embers when bright new flames could replace them. This is the time for the development of class and school spirit! Not only could competition be on a class and other women's collegeshkdcmfwypetaoishrdluounounou basis, but it seems possible and desirable that competition between FSC and other women's colleges could replace and surpass Odd-Even competition.

So there is no need to be sad about the departure of old traditions, for as nature always fills a vacuum, so can new traditions replace the old.

● INTO CLOSER FOCUS

The various religious groups on campus, although separate in their activities, have an ultimate and common purpose at Florida State College—that of bringing Christian doctrines and standards into a closer focus for the students.

For approximately the last 20 years these groups have, through Religious Emphasis Week, established a unifying spirit of fellowship, by bringing to the campus outstanding religious leaders of the nation and enlisting the joint planning of all of the students representing their individual religious centers.

This year the Religious Workers' Council has secured a remarkably outstanding religious leader to be their speaker. Dr John Newton Thomas, professor of theology at Union Theological Seminary in Richmond, Virginia, comes to FSC as a man who is more than fully equipped in helping college students who are confused in their religious beliefs, or who need clarification of problems with which previously they have not been able to cope.

These discussions which will be led by Dr Thomas should not consist purely of student secretaries and student-house councils. This week is planned to function on a college-wide scale. If the student will look twice, he or she will realize that things such as this are a vital part of college training; that it is just as important to attend such enlightening and invigorating discussions (as these will surely prove to be) as it is to go to the various and sundry committee meetings with which all feel they are deluged.

Here is a man who is not only a person described as a "delightful personality," but one who is doubly a capable counselor. Take advantage of such opportunities as they are offered to you in college. Such post-college opportunities present themselves too seldom.

● A TEST OF HONOR

The amount of outraged protest that arises with the mere hint of a suggestion that the students are not completely capable of shouldering all and any type of responsibility seems rather incongruous in the light of the critical situation which has recently arisen in the library.

The problem, specifically, is that of the mutilation and loss of library materials. Almost daily, books, pamphlets, and other materials are taken from the reference room. Reference materials throughout the library are found so badly marked that the printing is almost indecipherable.

Upon more than one occasion, girls have been called into the library to account for books which they have never heard of—books that have been checked out by someone in another's name. The girl whose name appears upon the card is held responsible for the book, regardless, and must pay for it if it is not returned. Incidents of this kind are one of the greatest incriminations which could be made against the members of any student body, for they involve not only stealing something which belongs to everyone in the school, not just one person, but also show cowardliness in the deliberate plan to make some innocent person "take the rap."

It is quite apparent that some of the students, those who consistently refuse to uphold regulations concerning the proper checking out of all books taken from the library—do not realize the advantage which we of Florida State College have in our open library stacks. The convenience of being able to pick and choose personally among books in the stacks is taken for granted without thought of the implications of the removal of the privilege. However, should the existing abuse of this privilege be continued, it is inevitable that the stacks will be closed.

The library has done its utmost to keep the situation controlled. Students are now being allowed to check out six books at a time, twice as many as formerly. The staff is in full sympathy with the majority of the students who have a highly enough developed sense of personal and group responsibility to uphold library policies willingly. The inconvenience of the closing of the stacks would be felt equally by the library staff and the student body as a whole.

It would indeed be a pity for the whole student body to be made to pay for the waywardness of a few. However, the well-worn expression of a chain being as strong as its weakest link can be applied here. Let us hope that the inroads of rust and corrosion upon that chain are not so great that a bit of personal welding cannot prevent the break.

MARY WHITE

Sponsored by the Honor Committee

In This Our Time

By MARGIE CLARK

NATIONAL AFFAIRS:

The GOP took control of both the house and the senate from the Democratic party in the Tuesday elections. This is the first time in 15 years that the Republican party has been in control. The Republicans elected 23 senators, 27 representatives and 20 governors, giving them three more than a majority in the senate, 14 beyond a majority in the house, and a man in most of the state houses of the nation.

Senator J William Fulbright, Arkansas Democrat, suggested that President Truman resign and appoint a new secretary of state, thereby giving the Republicans full government control. Fulbright stated, "I am not asking the president to resign. I am only suggesting that it would be the best thing for the country as a whole."

By appointing a new secretary of state and then resigning, the new secretary, according to the Constitution, would succeed Truman as president. The White House in Washington has made no comment as yet.

Senator Arthur Vandenberg of Michigan is cited as the most likely new president of the Senate. Ohio's Robert A Taft is most likely to be the new party leader.

FOREIGN AFFAIRS:

Russia's parliamentary leader accused the United States and Great Britain of "organized obstruction to the Soviet program." Het told a cheering Moscow meeting that the Russian peace aims would prevail despite "atom blackmailers." Col Gen Andrel A Zhdanov, chairman of the Supreme Soviet of the USSR, spoke at a meeting of the national leaders, on the eve of the 29th anniversary celebration of the Bolshevist revolution. Stalin's absence from this meeting was left unexplained.

Zhdanov stated that both the U S and British delegations to the recent Paris peace conference had attempted to block the Soviet program of "making the United Nations work—unlike the miserable League of Nations."

President Truman announced Wednesday this government's plan to place before the United Nations security council, a suggested agreement under which the United States would take over trusteeship of the Japanese mandated islands.

Mr Truman said, "The United States is prepared to place her trusteeship, with the United States as the administering authority, the Japanese mandated islands and any Japanese island for which it assumes responsibilities as a result of the Second World War."

Or Forever Hold Your Peace

Fellow Students,

One short month ago, this college, the University of Florida branch at Tallahassee, became an actuality, with 508 male students enrolled. In the short space of thirty days miracles have been accomplished. You have much to be proud of. It was only through your patience, cooperation and the untiring work of a splendid staff that so much was done in so short a time. But the job has just begun.

A short time ago you elected student body and class officers. In these elections possibly your man was not chosen for office. It is also possible that because of this some will feel a natural letdown, experience a feeling that now your voice and views will not be heard. Don't you believe it. This is your government; you elected it; if it isn't conducted in a manner that meets your approval start yelling, and continue to yell loud and long until it is corrected. We're going to make mistakes, human beings often do. Things aren't going to mesh right away, it takes time and it's not going to be easy. Anything that is worthwhile doesn't come that way. There will be little room for pettiness here as there is little room for it anywhere in life.

Our ultimate goal, that of permanent co-education in our time, with permanent installations and the all of college life, is larger by far than any individual's personal objectives. Each officer from your busy student body president on down earnestly solicits your opinions, your suggestions, and your utmost confidence and continued cooperation in this undertaking.

Sincerely,

GEORGE J CROY,
President of Upperclassmen.

Editor of the Flambeau:

Perhaps this is a minor point at this time, but I resent being told to bring my pencil to convocation so that I can vote, without being told for what reason I am to vote. I like to know before I go to the polls just what the purpose of an election is, in order to have time to gather as much information as possible and to have a chance to form my opinion carefully. Just what sort of a government would we have if state and national elections were conducted in this manner? Just how fair is an election when the voters have only a few minutes to decide how they shall vote and no oportunity to learn anything about the business in hand?

I merely wish to register a protest at this time against the unorthodox procedure of Tuesday's voting.

Sincerely,

—M. CHARLES SKIPPER.

To the Editor:

It has come to my attention that there is a rumor which needs squelching. The talk at present naturally centers around Thanksgiving weekend, and with this talk has come the false rumor that "F" Club as an organization is attempting to back the faction favoring the continuance of the present type of celebration.

This rumor is without basis—"F" Club makes no moves as a body on such issues. Any opinions expressed by members of this club are purely personal and have no connection with the organiation.

Borbara F Irving
President, "F" Club

Compulsion, which is the essence of a closed week-end, should have been the major issue in the discussion and voting on Thanksgiving week-end.

No matter how important or how good the entertainment and games are this fact does not constitute a reason for keeping the students on the campus when they wish to go home or any place else. Every other week-end in the year is open, and it seems so unnecessary to make this one an exception. I don't think that any student, no matter how much she wants the Thanksgiving tradition continued, would want to keep others on the campus against their will.

If the dems, games, color rush, dance, and other activities connected with Thanksgiving on the campus are good enough, a closed week-end will not be necessary to keep the students here. Other colleges and universities achieve sufficient interest in homecoming week-end to retain a large number of students on the campus who participate in the activities. Of course, the vote Wednesday night will be obvious evidence of the students' sentiments.

In the past, many students have not enjoyed the Thanksgiving celebration as much as they might have because they had no choice in the matter of being here or elsewhere. And, of course, participating in the activities was better than wandering around with nothing to do on a holiday.

The amount of compulsion on the campus is overbearing now; consequently, the lifting of the closed week-end tradition would be another liberal movement marking this year as a turning point in campus policies.

—LOLA ROSE.

Male Eye View

LeMOYNE CASH

Extra Special Dep't . . .

From sources that should be reliable I have information that work is being done to change the cut system for men into something more logical, maybe no regulations at all. Eliminations of the system of lowering grades when classes are missed won't mean marked increase in absences from class. Veterans going to school under the G I Bill know what side of their bread is buttered and just aren't going to take the chance of flunking by cutting classes. . . .

Rumors Are Flying . . .

But the one about there being two thousand boys at Tally U next quarter just had its wings cut off. From all the information that could be obtained at official headquarters, though nothing definite is known as yet, there might be as many as three hundred more males here in January. . . . There goes seventeen hundred fancied men out the window. .

No Letter Today . . .

To G I Bill of Righter's: in a telephone conversation with the head of the Veterans Administration in Tallahassee, no information could be secured as to when subsistence checks will start coming through. We in school under the Bill have to be undergoing the process of education for a month before any work can be started to get the checks to us. So it appears that the money slips will arrive only as fast as government clerks can use scissors of action to cut the red-tape. Patience, me hearties, patience . . . . Meanwhile a loan fund has been set up at Dale Mabry to help those who need financial aid to get over the hump until the checks do start coming in. Full particulars concerning loans can be had at Dean McBride's office.

Lighter Note

Some guys are not satisfied with merely spooning — they want to shovel. . . . Sometimes it takes a shovel to dig a way out of a situation. . . . Then there's the advantage of being a weatherman: he can look into a girl's eyes and tell whether.

Armistice Day

Although there won't be a holiday Monday, there will be many activities going on in Tallahassee. Broward Williams, commander of the American Legion post in the city, has extended an invitation to all veterans who can do so to take part in the events planned. These include a breakfast at the Legion Home at 7:30, a parade to form in front of the Floridan Hotel at 10:15, and a dance at the Legion Home at 9 that night.

Constitution for Tally U

The newly appointed Constitution committee will meet for the first time this afternoon. A constitution governing the men students to be in effect for this year only must be drawn up Some suggestions that have been made are: to form a student senate; this will give more students a voice in the government and make it more democratic. It will also take some of the burden off the student body officers. To allow for a provision in the constitation for amending it whenever necessary. Everything is subject to change. General consensus of opinion sems to be that the fewer rules the better.

Hint

Boys who don't live in sound proof rooms shouldn't play their radios so loudly. Others might be trying to study.

Sharpie the Fifinella

If you've noticed everyone dressed in black these past few weeks, it ain't got nothin' to do with somethin' ending in "gira." It's all because of a nasty rumor flying around about Kilroy. Said rumor said that someone said, "I sure wish someone would Kill-Roy!" What a rash suggestion!

Hearing this, Sharpie was naturally thrown into a state of unprecedented depression and so rushed to the nearest dining hall to crawl under a cabbage leaf (one way of eating worms). Even under this musty shelter, word reached Sharpie that Kilroy was dead, and so that night after you know who had made her rounds, she slipped past a closed sign and went out into the murky night to search for the grave of her lover. After hours of wandering aimlessly about, Sharpie stumbled upon an impressive ivy-covered monument with but three simple words engraved across the red brick—"Kilroy was here!"

A sea of mail awaited Sharpie this week, but she dove (get it?—get the joke?) right in, always willing to give those in need, the advantage of her superior advice.

First letter comes from one who signs herself Odd Eve, and she certainly must be. Says she, "If there is anything worse than traditions, it's the people who believe in them. Oh, that Roosevelt were here now."

Sharpie is amazed to find such an attitude here on campus. She seriously doubts whether our Pilgrim fathers or Roosevelt either one would have started it all, had they known it would cause such confusion at dear old unconfused FSC.

The next letter from "Undecided" asks Sharpie's advice on the new fire drill system. All that Sharpie can say is that "Undecided" better decide quickly whether she wants to file out slowly, efficiently, and burned, or quickly, inefficiently, and unsinged!

Never let it be said again, or at least not within these holy portals, that a straight line is the shortest distance between two points. You might not get the connection, but get this—"The Committee for Allowing Girls to Smoke in Their Dormitory Bedrooms." Seems like "Committee for Smoking in Rooms" is entirely too too uncomplicated—like a lot of other things could be! Hmmm?

Did you hear about the girl who dropped a cat out of her dormitory window one night and managed by some quirk of fate to follow the cat out? She'd never have gotten in again either if it hadn't been for the ivy clad walls. You know, that ivy is pretty old, but it's still pretty darn strong.

Sharpie is pretty tired now (as who wouldn't be after having thought up all these clever quips) and so she leaves you with this thought for the week.

Hail, Democracy!

Students Speak . .

The question put before the students this week is "What is your impression of the Flambeau this year?" Many students who were questioned replied with reference to the change in feature material and the expansion of the staff. Some were in favor of it and some were not. Others had special gripes to air, suggestions to offer and special requests to make. Yet others were full of praise for the Flambeau. The most clairvoyant and striking of these are quoted here.

"A Radical Red Sheet" says Drusilla Gnann, junior. "I think the Flambeau is far too radical a paper for this college. It is based on what happened last year too much. I don't like the prejudiced view taken of physical education, especially since I am a physical education major. The Journalism Department preaches on the evils of physical education as a major and its proteges attempt to incorporate these ideas in our college paper. It isn't fair, and we physical education majors resent it."

"I've only read it once" says Jim Turner, junior, "and that was because I never have access to a copy. But that one copy was very interesting and I especially enjoy the editorials. They reflect both sides of every controversial question as it comes up."

"A great improvement over last year" says Anne Lewis, senior. "I thought it was too serious and dull for a college paper last year but the addition of special feature stories and clever columns has pepped it up a lot. I think it still has a long way to go to come up to being as good as college paper as some others I've read."

"The addition of men to the staff has certainly worked wonders" says Frances Isaac, senior. "The Flambeau is good evidence of the fact that men on th FSC campus have really added a lot. Their work on the Flambeau seems to have brought out keener competition in the writing and more variety in the newspaper items. The improvement of our college paper is certainly one good reason for advocating co-education at FSC."

The Kitchen Sink . . . .

For this week at least we want to be serious. Traditions, like shoes, can be outgrown. In 1776 the tradition of being English colonies was outgrown by our forebears. Last Tuesday the tradition of having a Democratic Congress was outgrown. This year here on campus we are changing some of the traditions in our constitution. From the recent vote by students on the Thanksgiving question it would seem that some of our other traditions need to be changed to meet our new needs. We would like to suggest some traditions which we think are more constructive and more inclusive and more to be desired by the student body in general.

RING OUT THE OLD

With the abolishing of the traditional Odd-Even Thanksgiving festivities, FSC is entering a new era of campus activity. We are putting aside our childish playthings and the barbaric ends which are accomplished thereby, and attempting to establish new traditions which are worthy of college people.

Buried deep in the suggestions for constructive traditions on campus is the one about throwing pennies in the fountain. Already there are few superstitious souls who toss an occasional penny into Westcott fountain for luck in life, love, and satisfactory grades.

If the student body were to perpetrate the idea that a penny in the fountain brings good luck generally and good grades especially, many pennies would fall into the fountain.

Figuring on the average of 2,000 students who wanted good luck on the average of three exams per quarter, sixty dollars would be tossed into the fountain each quarter. Then at the end of the year we would have accumulated one hundred eighty dollars in a year.

The money we collected this way could be placed in a scholarship fund for needy students who would not be able to attend college because of financial reasons. As our school grows, our fund would grow. If the fund were designated as a loan scholarship, we would soon have enough money collected for a full year's work here. Then as the fund increases itself more than one scholarship could be offered by the students in school here to other people.

It might also be used to sponsor exchange scholarships with other nations. We might further understanding of other countries by having our students spend a year in residence out of this country, and having students from other lands study here

There are many educational ventures that the student body of FSC could sponsor if it employed the inexpensive process of believing that a penny in the fountain brings fortune to the donor.

There are disadvantages to this idea, we know. It has been suggested that people would steal the pennies from the fountain, but anyone who has been swimming there will tell you that it takes a hardy soul to venture into such unstable territory, and these difficulties can be solved as they arise.

This is the type of tradition that cannot be legislated or established by an executive decree. It must grow from the student body and their action in either following this suggestion, or forgetting it.

RING IN THE NEW

You can take it from me that there are lots of things about the demonstrations that could be changed for the better. In the first place they take up too much time for extra-curricular activities. They are also done in too big a hurry to have a finished production. However, that is only a small reason for their not being good shows. The main reason is that for the past decades they have had to be based on the same idea, have the same ending, the same climax, and have the same kind of nasty bumer.

A few students who are very much interested in seeing student productions reach a higher level have thought about these drawbecks and present this solution to them — a colossal campus-wide show with the only objective being a good show, and integration with academic subjects so that the committee heads receive scholastic credit. This is not a far-fetched idea. These students have talked the idea over with various members of the faculty including Dean Dorman and received much encouragement. Choose girls whose majors are closely related to the phase of the production they are in charge of and you not only have the people best fitted for the job, but they in turn receive invaluable practical experience.

The theater is the integration point for most fields of knowledge: music, drama, dress designing, dance, stage craft, creative writing, psychology, physics, and chemistry. Nor does this limit the cast and staff to those departments. People with good speaking and singing voices do not necessarily major in speech or music. The various crews backstage would still be open to all and for a bigger show there would be even bigger crews.

Permission has been given to run the proposed show for at least three nights with the public invited and the price of admission raised to fifty cents. With that money plus the money from an afternoon concert and admission to the dance, we could have the production followed by a dance with a name orchestra. This could be made into a very big college weekend that would be excellent publicity for our college and superb for our morale. Other colleges are renowned for their productions and week ends, and with vision and hard work we can do the same thing

Coed Choir to Sing

The coed choir of Florida State College will sing during the state Parent Teachers Association dinner-meeting to be held here November 14 in the east dining hall at 6:30 p m.

The program will consist of a number from a manuscript entitled Oh Lovely Jesu by Gerlock and the Hallelujah Chorus by Mendelssohn. Cymbals will be used during the songs.

The choir will be under the direction of Herman Gunter, instructor in the music department, and will be accompanied by Peter Jensen.

In the automotive industry, the most widely applied use of diamonds is in the truing and dressing of abrasive wheels required for precision and high-finish grinding.

The Florida Flambeau

1946-1947 STAFF
EDITORIAL STAFF

SHIRLEY RODGERS — Editor
BETTY DOWD, B J McLEOD, LOLA ROSE — Associate Editors
JOYCE PETTY — Managing Editor
BARBARA FARRAR — Assistant Managing Editor
LAURA LEE SUTLER, JEAN DOUGLAS — News Editors

Copy Editor — Winifred Lane
Assistant Copy Editor — Eleanor Bayer
Society Editor — Madge Pilcher
Assistant Society Editor — Paulette Blank
Feature Editors — Alicia Armstrong, Barbara Beckman
Sports Editor — Evelyn Shea
Outside News Editor — Marjorie Clark
Opinion Editor — June Grindstaff
Headline Editor — M J Sherman
Columnists — Beryl Kitchen and "Sharpie"
Picture Editor — Paulette Blank
Art Editor — Jean Sharer
Copy Girl — Robin Hill

REPORTERS: Dorothy Aberle, Katheryn Aspinwall, Inez Augustine, Jeanne Bagley, Audrey Melba Bach, Barbara Brown, John W Cash, Reginald Cash, Hazel Clarkson, Bob Cooksey, Mary Elizabeth Conant, Carol Caughlan, Lucius Daniel, Doris Love Dorsey, Francine Dunning, Jeanne DuPree, Mary Frances Ewart, Jane Hardacre, Jearl Harris, Alice Haywood, Linda Herold, Dorothy Ann Holland, Mildred Frances Hull, Lois Elizabeth Lovett, Rosemary McCay, Bobbie Annie Meffert, Elizabeth Milton, Anne Moore, Cheryl Muster, Francie North, Christine Puckett, Janice Richey, Charma Rosenvalg, Jackie Story, Charlotte Scott, Mary Charles Skipper, Pat Small, Nancy Stevens, Theresa Sellers, Alice Sharp, Betty Sue Taylor, Ann Tucker, Betty Wilkinson, Nancy Wright, Joanne Zewadski.

BUSINESS STAFF

Business Manager — Vivian L. Schaeffer
Advertising Manager — Nancy Stevens
Circulation Manager — Margie Berns
Exchange Manager — Gladys Clark
Billing Assistant — Jean Lieberman

Entered as second class mail matter, January 30, 1915, at the post office at Tallahassee, Fla under the act of Congress of March 3 1879

Member
Intercollegiate Press

It is the policy of the Flambeau to grant equal space and prominence to anyone wishing to present a contrary opinion whenever opinions on controversial questions are voiced in its columns.

Sorority Chit Chat

spooks, goblins and witches hlighted the week's activities sorority houses, as a Hallow- e air pervaded the campus of ida State College.

The Alpha Chi Omegas gave a lowe'en party last Saturday ht. The theme was seasonal, traditional activities such as house of horror, apples on a ing, and fortune-telling were oyed. The girls dressed in cos- mes. A buffet supper was served ing the evening by the com- tee in charge of arrangements uding Judy Rhodes, Martha ock and Virginia Der Garry. The Alpha Chi's had an alumna, olyn Stowall, visiting them this ekend.

• • •

The A D Pi's were honored with Hallowe'en party given by Mrs rrell, their housemother, last rsday night. Saturday night actives and pledges and their es enjoyed an informal spa- etti supper and dancing.

• • •

The Alpha Gam's had a Hal- e'en party Saturday night. The s all came dressed representing ular song titles. Marty Brokaw Louis Bell were judged the ners for thei. representation of gy and Bess." Runners up the costume prize included nces McCall and Edwin Smalle. "A Sinner Kissed an Angel," d Isabel Glass and Richard mb as "Don't Fence Me In."

The theme of the party was e House of Blue Lights," and house was decorated accord- y. During the dance at which Mabry and Gainesville boys present, Judy Owen enter- ed by singing "Embraceable " Refreshments of cookies punch were served from a

Peggy Folsom, an alumna from ahassee, visited the house g the weekend.

• • •

ecently elected pledge officers Alpha Xi Delta are: Christine er, president; Shirley Ann er, vice-president; Martha rison, secretary; Barbara Dee man, treasurer; Marilyn Hun- social chairman; Frances chaplain; and Betty Ann kins, parliamentarian.

The Alpha Xi's held their an- l pledge banquet at the Flori- hotel receotly. A toy train as enterpiece and miniature can- filled box cars as favors, served carry out the theme—Alpha Xi ial The guests of honor er than the new pledges in- ed Dr Annie Popper, faculty sor, and Mrs Marian Hertwig, semother. The program in- ed a speech by Juanita Nord a reading by Verna Rogers.

Helen Jones and Polly Porter e honored the morning after r recent initiation with a akfast at the Cherokee hotel.

The Alpha Xi Deltas kept the of Hallowe'en at an informal oration Thursday night. Ap- bobbing and a house of hor- were among the attractions. the biggest contribution to the ertainment was made by sev- costumed youngsters who ndered in to join the fun—and ndered out with apples and

• • •

Thursday afternoon, the Tri entertained their patrons patronesses at a tea.

Saturday Jean Whigham was tmistress at a ceremony with ch the Tri Delts christened r new Bar-B-Q pit. The istening was followed by a ak fry for all members and r guests.

Sylvia Meisch has recently been ated into Delta Delta Delta.

• • •

The Delta Phi Epsilons honored r dates from the University of rida. Emory University, and ksonville at an informal week- of activities Friday night y got together for a dance at house. Amidst Hallowe'en orations of black and orange gave so informal dance at Temple. Sunday morning breakfast at the house was followed by a program of entertainment presented by the pledges. That afternoon, they gathered at the Rosenburg estate for a Sadis Hawkins picnic.

Gladys Atlas and Annette Vitsky were in charge of the social committee, Zelda Kaplan was chairman of the decorations, and Arlene Solomon was responsible for the entertainment.

• • •

On Thursday, October 31, a party carrying out the Hallowe'en motif was held at the Kappa Alpha Theta house. Margaret Marshall, who was initiated recently, and the actives were also honored at this time.

Sunday night supper was eaten at the house with all Theta's and their dates present.

• • •

The Kappa Delta pledge group entertained the actives with a breakfast at the sorority house on Hallowe'en morning Arrangements for the party were under the direction of Erin Wilcoa.

The pledges of all the sororities were entertained at an informal afternoon party Friday November 1 by the Kappa Delta pledges. A Hawaiian theme featuring girls dressed in hula skirts and sarongs was presented by Neal Ayala.

Martha Jane Bard and Renee Settle are being initiated today..

An informal after-dinner coffee was held at the house Sunday evening with members, pledges and guests present. Charlotte Healy was in charge of the arrangements while entertainment was provided by Neal Ayala, Rachel McInnis and Cinda Kent.

• • •

Sigma Kappa is celebrating its Founder's day today with a program including a short history of the founding of Sigma Kappa, skits and songs.

Mrs J O Cosper, Sigma Kappa house mother, returned Tuesday from a week's visit with her daughter and grandson in Birmingham, Alabama.

An initiation breakfast was given in honor of Dallas Stever, Rosalind Almony and June Grindstaff Saturday morning immediately following their early morning initiation.

• • •

The Zeta Tau Alpha pledge group elected officers at their meeting this week. They are: Marjorie Middleton, president; Betty Collins, vice-president; Martha McGahee, secretary; Betty Timmons, treasurer; Mildred Anne Randall, chaplain; Suzanne Brown, social chairman, and Patsy Murphy, publicity chairman.

During the meeting plans were made for the forthcoming Zeta Tau Alpha pledge party.

Religious Groups To Honor Dr Thomas

An informal college-wide reception for all students will be held in the Longmire building lounge at 4:45 Wednesday afternoon in honor of Dr John Newton Thomas, Religious Emphasis Week speaker. Invitations have been sent to all men students at the Dale Mabry branch.

Coline Gunn is social chairman for the reception. Sarah Lewis, Dalia Santos, Ida Lee Rentz, Martha Peacock, Ann Hunter, Betty Dowd, Esther Rasmussen, and Joyce Carlton are on the reception committee.

The council members of the various religious groups on campus will be hostesses. Each group is inviting its own faculty sponsors. Tallahassee ministers, their families and others will be special guests.

Herman Gunther of the School of Music faculty will sing, accompanied by Miss Mary Winslow.

If the value of property lost through fires in the US in 1946 was used to pay for electricity it would buy enough power to supply all electric railway and trolley lines in the nation for 18 years.

Typewriting Test

The typewriting test will be given Tuesday, November 19, at 4:30 p m in the typing room (308 History). Please sign on the bulletin board outside the Personnel Office if you wish to take this test. Students who are employed as "typists" and who make a rating of "A" on the test, may qualify for fifty cents (50c) an hour beginning with the second quarter if departmental funds permit.

The test will not be given again until the latter part of the second quarter, affecting rate of pay for the third quarter.

Campuside, Hillside Houses Have Party

The social committee of Campuside and Hillside surprised residents of the two houses with a Hallowe'en party last Thursday evening. The rooms were decorated with colored autumn leaves and paper jack-o-lanterns.

A Hallowe'en reading was given by Patricia Yates and familiar songs were sung.

Frances Wells was chairman of the refreshment committee, which was made up of Margie Vickery, Minnie Louise Green, and Dorothy Burnham. In charge of decorations were Joyce Todd, chairman, Jonnie Edwards, Muriel Scott and Teddy Pippin.

Music Majors Honored

Freshman music majors were honored at the annual Music Club reception which was held Tuesday from 4:30 until 6 in the lounge of the Longmire building. Members of music organizations, faculty, and music teachers attending the Florida State Music Teachers convention were invited.

The lounge was decorated with varied fall flowers. During the reception hours, background music was provided by the music students. In the receiving line were officers and the sponsor of the Music Club.

Poems Read to UDC

Elaine Parramore, senior speech student, gave a reading of original poems at a meeting of the United Daughters of the Confederacy Tuesday afternoon at the Delta Zeta house.

The first reading was the soliloquy of an old Negro man in his eighties as he sits on the porch of his cabin home smoking a corncob pipe. Elaine also presented a sketch of a Negro woman trying to get the children np so that they could eat breakfast and do the morning chores before she leaves for the field.

Average Little Theater-Goer Oblivious of Humorous Back-Stage Predicaments

"Now take it fast . . . we haven't much time left."

A voice, belonging to Miss Yvonne Cody, director of "Arsenic and Old Lace," spoke from the middle of the twelfth row of the Augusta Conradi theater.

"Come on. If you wait this long during the performance the audience will get up and leave."

And then the curtain parted and dress rehearsal of the speech department's first fall production continued. Teddy kept right on "charging" up "San Juan hill," Aunties Abby and Martha charitably poisoning lonely old men and Mortimer frantically attempting to straighten out the situation.

But what the audience, watching the amusing antics of two pixilated old ladies, does not realize is that many equally amusing antics take place during rehearsals of the play. No one watching Abby's "old lady shuffle" would guess the trouble she had "padding" herself in the proper places. Nor would the average Little Theater-goer suspect the trouble the acquisition of a simple sun-helmet would cause.

In the midst of their task of unloading blackboards two workmen were approached by a worried looking girl. She talked animatedly to the taller of the two and finally receiving an affirmative nod dashed madly into the Little Theater carrying the workman's sun-helmet. And so it appeared painted white atop Teddy's head as he "dug" the Panama Canal.

Yes, and think of the trouble the inguenue and the male lead had in learning the "technique" of stage kissing. The process provided the cast with no little amusement since she is engaged and he is the proud possessor of a six-year-old son.

No, little does one know the "thrills and chills" that are the backbone of the polished performance put on by the cast and crews working on the plays that are presented to Florida State College audiences.

Landis Reception To Be Held Tonight

The Landis formal reception held annually in honor of Mrs Cary D Landis, wife of a former attorney general of Florida for whom Landis hall was named, will be held tonight from 8:30 to 10 p m. Those who have been invited to receive with Mrs Landis are President and Mrs Doak S Campbell, Miss Olivia N Dorman, Miss Sarah Cloud, Miss Elizabeth Lynn and Miss Ruth Pyche.

Other faculty members asked to assist are Miss Edith McCollum, Mrs B F Whitner, Miss Ernestine Troemal, Mrs Beatrice Williams, Mrs Nina Mae Williams and Mr Clande R Flory.

Barbara Owen, chairman of the Landis social committee will introduce guests to the receiving line, and all students residing in Landis hall will serve as hostesses during the evening. Those with special duties are Dorothy McKirnon, Anne Hunter, Sarah Lewis, Rosetta Carver, Ann Parker, Emily Sheftall, Mary Elizabeth White, Ida Lee Rentz, Carolyn Taylor, Betty Ruth Goode, Jeanne Bagley, Catharine Nollman, Evelyn Howell, Gwen Ramage, Mary Monaco, Virginia Allstock, Grace Brown, Mary Rivero, Marie Beverly, Perllee Hunt, Dorothy Luke, Virginia Blanton, Marjorie Christensson, Dorothy Stanton, Betty Jo McLeod, Margaret Hunter, Jacqueline Smith, Nancy Day, Carolyn Pruitt, Marjorie Holms and Janice Richey.

Background music will be furnished throughout the evening by Eleanor Bragg and Sarah Brown.

About 150 faculty members have been invited to attend this reception, which has been a traditional affair upheld by the girls residing in Landis since 1939 when the hall was dedicated to Attorney General Landis.

Hillel to Sponsor Friday Study Groups

The Hillel Foundation at Florida State College will hold study groups each Friday at the Temple for the purpose of discussing traditions and history of the Jewish faith, according to Miss Lois Goldman, sponsor. Discussions of public affairs and events will also be held.

Miss Goldman, who graduated from Wesleyan college, Macon, Ga, was active in Young Women's Christian association work on that campus. While there she held the office of War Activities chairman. At Columbia university, from which she received her MA degree, she continned her work with group organizations She is now counseler in Jennie Murphree dormitory.

Collection of Rare Books Possessed by FSC Library

"Here is Cotton Mather's Ecclesiastical History of New England, which was published in London in 1702. This one's got a Latin title page. It is de Bry's Brevis Narrtio eorum quar de Florida, and it was published in 1591!"

"And this one, Las Casas' Breuissima relacion da la destruycion de las Indias, is written in Spanish and this copy was published in 1552."

"Few people realize the extent of the library's rare book collection or appreciate the McGregor foundation which made this precious collection of American histories possible," stated Miss Louise Richardson, Florida State College librarian.

For six years Mr McGregor contributed $500 annually toward the collection with only the stipulations that the library contribute an equal amount and the money be spent for rare American histories. These books can be used by anybody in the library, but are not in circulation to anyone. They are kept in glassed-in book shelves in Miss Richardson's office.

The books kept behind the deck are there because they are scarce and almost irreplacable, or are kept there at the request of some faculty member, Miss Richardson explained. These books are allowed to circulate freely among faculty and students.

All books in the stacks may be checked out of the library through proper channels by faculty and students, and townspeople are welcome to use the books in the library. Last year, a total of 333,080 books were circulated.

Other libraries borrowed 97 books from the FSC library and this library borrowed, for faculty and graduate students, 38 books. Miss Richardson said that this was the first time we have ever lent more books than we borrowed. Usually, it is the other way around

The Florida State College library has been designated as a depository of the United States Army map service and for aeronautical chart service. As soon as equipment can be purchased to house the material, 50,000 maps and 2,000 aeronautical and hydrographical charts will be filed for use in the library.

When FSC went back to its prewar schedule of classes this year, the library changed its hours to coincide. The library is now open more hours per week than it ever has been, and plans are under way to keep it open during the supper hour. The library will continue to close on Saturday at 5 p m because they do not have the staff to keep it open, and so few people use it Saturday night, Miss Richardson said.

At present, the library has a staff of fourteen full-time workers, including two clerical workers, and twenty-two student assistants.

As of July 1, 1946, the library has 107,429 books, 9267 of which were added during the last fiscal year. In addition to these books are 33,967 government documents, 19,742 pamphlets, and 28,259 pictures.

Of the 571 magazines received by the library, 113 are gifts to the school. Although the library receives 68 newspapers, it subscribes to only six. Most of the papers are sent by Florida towns or churches.

Miss Richardson said that, according to actual count, 182,965 students remained in the library to study and asked 39,124 questions of the library staff which required help last year.

Delta Zeta Holds 'Garden of Roses' Dance

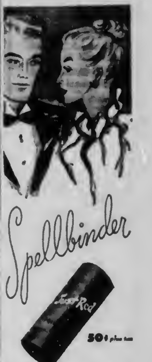
Delta Zeta sorority held its annual rose dance Saturday night featuring the "Garden of Roses" theme.

This theme was carried out with roses used throughout the house and streamers of pink crepe paper covering the lights. In the middle of the floor was placed a rose ring through which the couples danced. Music was furnished by Osco Hughs and his orchestra

Guests for the evening were 30 Phi Gamma Delta fraternity men from Gainesville.

An informal tea dance was given by Delta Zeta in the afternoon of the same day. Decorations used were Kilroy signs and streamers of blue crepe paper covering the lights. Group singing was enjoyed by those attending the tea dance. Jo Ann Long sang a solo.

Designers of supersonic aircraft are learning to think in terms of ballistics formulas since finding that in speeds such as 1000 mph planes are tantamount to winged bullets.



X Just Red
for Lip Appeal

You don't need a soap box . . . leave it to a polished dance floor and The Season's RIGHT Red to win them over! Just Red is so right it's the only lipstick shade Roger & Gallet offer. On the lips, its beauty lasts—and how!

XLIPSTICK
ROGER & GALLET

Perfume • Dry Perfume • Lip Ade • Toilet Soap

JUST ARRIVED!

Genuine Hand-Tooled
Mexican Leather Cigarette Cases

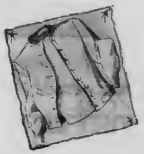
$1.50 plus tax

WE ALSO HAVE INEXPENSIVE GIFT ITEMS
25c—$2.00

THE MEXICAN SHOP
"BETWEEN COLLEGE AND TOWN"
215 W. COLLEGE AVE.

Her Favorite Sweaters!

Find them here in our gala collection! Smooth classics, jacquards, "twins" . . . Excellent size, color range.



Sweaters—Bright—Warm—Versatile

P. W. WILSON CO.

TALLAHASSEE'S BEST DEPARTMENT STORE

English Speaks At Convention Banquet

Association Members Re-Elect All Officers At Annual Meeting

Campbell Gives Address During General Session

The twelfth annual convention of the State Music Teachers' association was held on Florida State College campus on November 4 and 5. An address was given by the Hon Colin English, State Supervisor of Education, at the annual convention banquet on Monday evening.

All officers of the Association were re-elected and, according to Mrs Frances Pemberton, secretary, membership in the FSMTA showed an increase of above 60 per cent.

The general session was called to order at 9 a m in the Longmire building by Lyman P Prior, president of the association. The welcoming address was given by Dr Doak S Campbell, president of Florida State College. The program included selections by the FSC Symphonic Band and quartet, and original songs and musical composition by members of the Florida Composers' League. The compositions of three FSC musicians, Walter Ruel Cowles, Dr C P Heinlein and Miss Daphne Rowe, were among those presented on the program.

In the second session which took place from 11 a m to 1 p m various panel discussions were held throughout the campus. Discussions were held concerning problems common to piano, public school music, instrumental and vocal, organ and theory of composition.

A business meeting at 2 p m opened the third session with President Prior presiding. The reports of officers and of the District Chairman were heard at this time.

The annual convention banquet was held at 6.30 p m in the college dining hall. President Prior, toastmaster, introduced the Hon Colin English, who delivered an address to the members of the convention. A musical interlude was presented by the Florida String Quartet.

Stanley Fletcher's all-Chopin concert composed the fourth session and was followed by a reception in the Longmire building lounge honoring Mr Fletcher.

The fifth session opened Tuesday morning at 9 p m with the piano master class over which Stanley Fletcher presided. At the same time the band clinic demonstration, presided over by V D Sturgisk, was held in Westcott auditorium. Presiding over the orchestra clinic demonstration and the choral clinic demonstration were Gene A Sturchio and H Law Mallard.

At the noon program held in Westcott auditorium addresses were given by Mrs W C Brooker, president of the Florida Federation of Music Clubs; Mrs Eunah Johnson Holden, president of the Florida Education Association; Otto Kraushaar, president of the Florida Music Educators association, and voice and organ interludes by Mrs Ramona C Beard, Walter James, Herman Gunter and Mary Esther Winslow, all faculty members of FSC. Also playing the organ was Claude Murphree of the University of Florida.

Winners of the Florida Federation of Music Clubs district contests were participants in the sixth session district student program at 2 p m Tuesday, followed by the closing business meeting at 3:30 p m, at which time were heard the reports and recommendations of the chairmen of the Panel Discussions and the Clinic Demonstrations. Officers were then elected and Miami was selected as the site of the convention next year.

A tea given by the Music Club for convention guests and music majors in the Longmire lounge needed the two day convention.

Pictured above are the newly-elected presidents of the University of Florida Branch at Tallahassee. Reading from left to right they are Gordon Higginbottom, freshman class president; John Sullivan, Student Body president; and George Croy, upperclassman president.

FSC's Ex-Service Women Tell Of Experiences Overseas

From uniforms of blue and khaki to plaid skirts and saddle shoes, from drab military posts to a sprawling green campus, come 17 ex-service women to Florida State College under the GI Bill of Rights.

Janet Carolyn Varn who was a major in the WAC secured her commission when the corps was first organized. Her work in the Army Air Forces was similar to her previous job at the aircraft spotting station in Jacksonville and she was soon chosen as one of three American women to attend the English staff school for ATS officers at Bagshot.

"All of the British people were kind to us," said Carolyn. "The highlight of our stay was a visit from Queen Elizabeth and the Princess Royal. They stopped and talked with each of us asking about our homes and families and about what we were studying there in Bagshot.

"The 'buzz-bomb' scare was going on while we were in England," Carolyn continued, "but only a few people dashed for the air-raid shelters; the majority went calmly about their work."

When her period of training was ofer in Bagshot, Carolyn was sent to Paris where she spent 16 months doing administrative work on Stars and Stripes, various propaganda leaflets and the allied radio. "Conditions in Paris the first winter were very bad. There was no heat nor electricity, and the French women and children were often so cold that they looked blue. However, the following winter things were considerably improved. Although we frequently were on sea rations—dried eggs and no milk—the French chefs who cooked for us did wonders."

Carolyn went into ecstacies over the Parisian fashion shows where they sat on velvet sofas and were served champagne and pastries. "It was amazing to watch a piece of sleazy material being turned into a really smart looking gown with a deft tuck here and bit of gathers there." Also on her list of amusements while in Paris were the opera, theater and USO.

Another ex-service woman who went overseas was Dorothy Evelyn Rees, lieutenant (senior grade) in the WAVES. After two months indoctrination at Smith and Mount Holyoke colleges, she received her commission as ensign and was sent to the Naval Air Station at Jacksonville where she served in the capacity of civilian personnel officer

"There were 101 officers, 100 enlisted men and I in a 27 acre factory of eight thousand civilian employes. My pay and responsibilities were equal to that of the men, but at that time the Navy was somewhat skeptical of the value of women in service. I did all the hiring and firing of workers and also drilled and looked after the enlisted girls whose number grew from 24 to 550 while I was there."

Near the end of her first year in Jacksonville Evelyn was sent to Hawaii where she came in contact with native Hawaiians, Koreans, Portuguese, Philippinoes, and numerous mixed races.

Mary Virginia Shambaugh was a corporal in the Marines stationed at Banana River She drove and did liaison work for Gen John Marsden. Many of the other girls were in the Motor Transport division and in the Medical Corps. Several of the latter are now studying pre-med at FSC.

The women attending Florida State College under the GI Bill of Rights are: Leah Alice Abel, Anne McCray Barton, Mary Lynn Donnally, Ruby A Ebert, Anna Jessie Eddy, Elizabeth Nell Griffith, Phyllis Norah Johnson, Flossie M McLeod, Ellen P Schallern, Mary Virginia Shambaugh, Marguerite K Scull, Dorothy Evelyn Rees, Gwendolyn M Poucher, Menton Brown, Janet Carolyn Varn, Mary J Livingston and Alice W Waldron.

Dale Mabry Branch To Have Bookstore

Post Office Will Be Opened Under Supervision of Mays

Students of the University of Florida, Tallahassee branch, now residing at Dale Mabry field will have a bookstore and a post office of their own in the very near future.

"Plans for the bookstore to be located in the Administration building at Dale Mabry field are being completed and will be ready quite soon," announced Gordon Wheeler, manager of the bookstore at Florida State College.

At the same time Mr W H Mays, manager of the FSC Post Office announced that a post office at Dale Mabry Field would be open for business next week

For the past several weeks the men have had the use of a stamp window in the Administration building at the base, but plans for enlarging this service into a regular U S post office are nearing completion. Mr Mays has assigned separate letter boxes for the boys and they will also be able to send and receive packages there under a set-up similar to the one now existing at FSC.

The new post office will be under the supervision of Mr Mays, though it will be owned and operated under the auspices of the University of Florida. Mrs Margaret Sessions and Miss Winifred Stoutamire will work as clerks in the branch. Regular office hours will be from 8:30 a m to 5 p m daily, with the window being open from 9 a m to 12 p m and from 1 p m to 5 p m

Using Scissors Is Means of Gaining Friends and Fame

Clip, clip, clip. . .

'It needs to be shorter on this side, don't you think?"

Stop! Stop! . . "There."

The scene could be taken from a barber shop, but the actual place is a room of Gilchrist where Flora Mae (Bordy) McBride is living-up to her standards as a "haircutter."

Her growing fame as a tonsorial artist started a year ago when she was a freshman and several fellow-hall-mates wanted bangs instead of pompadours. As soon as her "customers" left, she wondered if this business of cutting hair was more suited to her future life than teaching English. Now that she is a sophomore, she still wonders, because all of her many customers have never given a complaint and always come back with friends, not enemies.

All of this talent is expended without charging a cent to the lucky girl that wants short hair.

Her room number?

Ah, that wouldn't be fair to the beanticians' union!

Bellamy Stars at Landis Cat's Howl

You've heard of wolf wails and coyote cries—but have you ever heard of a Cat's Howl? Well there was one in the form of a Hallowe'en party in Landis recreation room last Saturday night, and the cat with the loudest and most swooned over "meowww" was none other than Dr Raymond Bellamy, professor of sociology and the "Van Johnson of FSC." He was truly the "beau of the ball" and square danced with all the gals. Special records provided the music, and Laura Cason called the dances.

During the evening games such as pinning the tail on a cat, dunking for apples, and dropping clothes-pins in a bottle were played, and winnera of each contest were awarded horns and noisemakers.

The evening was concluded with lights out and a gruesome ghost story by Gwen Ramage and Jane Thomas in which they told of Kilroy's death and passed around his remains, which consisted of grapes for eyeballs and spaghetti for brains.

Stray Greeks Begin Planning for Raffle

Prizes to Include Free Meal, Airway Tickets, Nylon Hose

The Stray Greeks, newly organized club composed of fraternity members who have transferred from other schools, highlighted their Monday meeting by discussing plans for a big raffle with mention of such wanted items as two airway tickets to Gainesville for the Fall Frolics weekend, a pair of nylon hose, a free meal at a leading Tallahassee restaurant and five theater tickets as prizes. Plans were begun after receiving the go ahead signal from Dean Otis McBride.

George Croy, raffle chairman, indicated that the tickets will be printed this week and ready for distribution early next week. The tickets will be ten cents each, and a student may purchase as many as are desired.

Bruce Bolt, Stray Greeks' president, expressed the hope that "much student interest will be stimulated by the proposed raffle". Each member of the club will take part in selling the raffle tickets. Bolt also announced that plans are being made to sponsor a mid-November dance at which the tickets will be drawn and the raffle prizes awarded. To win a prize one does not have to be present at the drawing.

At their meeting last Thursday, the Stray Greeks elected the following officers: Bruce Bolt, Alpha Tau Omega, president, John Pierce, Kappa Alpha, vice president; Henry Starkes, Alpha Tau Omega, secretary; and Fred Drake, Sigma Alpha Epsilon, treasurer.

◆

It takes six tons of coal in blast furnaces, steel mills, power mills, coke ovens and generator plants to produce one automobile or truck weighing one and three-quarter tons.

Infirmary Doctor Compares FSC With Smith of Vermont

"It's rather odd," mused Dr Grace E Wilder, new physician at the infirmary, "to see girls wearing dresses."

Dr Wilder, who was assistant staff physician for the last several years at Smith College, Vermont, can remember seeing ve few dresses being worn at Smit "Most of the girls," she said, "li in dungarees and sack-s shirts."

"Of course," she added, sm ing. "It was different in winte Since it's too cold there to we dungarees, they wear ski-su The suits are cute, but someho we always had the uncomfortab suspicion that the only thing underneath was pajamas."

Dr Wilder who is in Florida f the first time, received her A degree at Colby, Massachuse and while teaching there in biology department decided to to Johns Hopkins for a medica degree.

Since that time, she has do public health examination wo for high schools, served at Smit and was director of health servi at Hampton Institute.

"It's interesting," she said, "a ter having been at Smith to wat the beginnings of coeducati here. I personally think it's much more normal system," s concluded.

Attention Art Students!

we carry a complete line

of Devoe's

art supplies

WARD'S PAINT STORE

204 S. ADAMS

CLOSING OUT!

ALL LADIES' and GIRLS' SHOES

Every pair in our vast stock must go regardless of its former price . . . Oxfords, Pumps, Sandals, Loafers, Bedoom Slippers, Moccasins, Straps, Tennis Shoes, and many other styles.

ALL AT 1-3 OFF!

The SURPRISE STORE

101-105 E. JEFFERSON PHONE 229

TRIPLE SMOKING PLEASURE
Chesterfield CIGARETTES
Peggy Lee
TALENTED YOUNG SONG WRITER—SONGSTRESS, RADIO AND RECORD FAVORITE
A ALWAYS MILDER
B BETTER TASTING
C COOLER SMOKING
Peggy, you're Right... THEY SATISFY!
ALWAYS BUY CHESTERFIELD
ALL OVER AMERICA—CHESTERFIELD IS TOPS!

Copyright 1946, Liggett & Myers Tobacco Co.

Dance On Sunday?

z 108

The Florida Flambeau

Published by the Students of Florida State College

OL. XXXIII, No. 6

Tallahassee, Florida

NOVEMBER 15, 1946

Cut On Monday!

SC Declares oliday for hanksgiving

Weekend Will Begin 5 O'Clock Thursday; Lasts Through Sunday

Executive Council Makes Change in View of Poll

Thanksgiving holidays will be- at 5 p m on November 27 and tinue through the following iday, announced President ak S Campbell this week. This son was made by the Execu- Council of the College in view the recent student poll favor- cancellation of the traditional anksgiving activities.

Students may leave the campus ter their lastc lass prior to 5 p m the 27th, said President Camp-. He reminded students and ulty members that the general ulation concerning class ab- ces before and after holidays is force. No cuts will be allowed classes either the day before the day after the holidays.

The official announcement from president's office is as follows: ecently the students at Florida ate College for Women voted on question of cancellation of the al Thanksgiving activities with understanding that activities a similar nature would be pro- ed later in the year. For some there has been a growing sciousness among the students the activities of Thanksgiv- week were becoming unwieldy that some change should be . The final vote of the stu- s was 1817 for, and 505 inst postponement.

The students also expressed the that the Thanksgiving holi- be extended to cover the ekend. Many of the students to spend Thanksgiving at me, but under the plan of giv- but one day as a holiday few dents could reach home and in time for classes on Fri-.

"In view of the change of ac- ies for Thanksgiving week, the xecutive Council of the College voted to declare a holiday inning at 5 p m on November and continuing through the fol- ing Sunday. It is understood t students who wish to spend holiday at home may leave campus after their last class or to 5 p m on the 27th. Stu- ts and faculty members are nded that the general regula- concerning class absences be- and after holidays is in ."

an Furguson Will xhibit Paintings

n exhibition of paintings and wings by Van Ferguson will on display November 18 ough 23 in the Longmire audi- um. Both students and faculty invited to the exhibit. This bit represents work done dur- the years from 1937 to 46 Paintings and drawings done in oil, water color, pas- , pencil and charcoal, including th figures and landscapes. Mr rguson uses a variety of real- ic, abstract, and semi abstract roaches.

Some of his more famous paint- s to be shown are "Woman th Pearls," a color sketch in and pastel that is now in the red Barr of Museum of Mod- Art. Another is an oil point- "The Lake," which is in- ded in the American Library of or Slides in New York.

Mr Ferguson was born in Mar- County, Florida in 1903. He perimented with water mixed th chalk at the age of three. 1927 he began drawing and died at Jacksonville Art Acad- y and under Bridgemen at Art dents League in New York. He n first place in Summer Stu- nts Concourse at Art Students ague.

nnual Birthday arty Is Planned

"Happy Birthday to You" is the eme of the celebration by the dents of Florida State College Monday, November 18, honor- g President Doak S Campbell.

A dinner will be held for Dr ampbell in the East Dining Hall 6:15, attended by all College vernment, Judiciary, and class ficers. Following dinner, there ll be singing by the entire stu- nt body, gathered on Landis een. Beth Fuhrer, head of the nior class, will then present a t to the president from the eshmen, sophomores and juniors. Immediately afterwards, the embers of the senior class will company Dr Campbell to his me for a reception, at which an Cole, as senior class presi- nt, will present him with a rthday cake.

Plate Disappears From Alum Lounge

"Where, oh where, has our wedgewood plate gone?" Miss Louise B Gehan, alumnae secretary, is plaintively asking this week. "This plate, picturing scenes of Florida State College, is the only one in existence and for that reason we are especially anxious to have it returned," states Miss Gehan.

For the past five years the plate, secured for the Longmire buildira in 1941 by Mrs Frank Moor, has been resting on a sideboard in the main lounge. Last Monday it disappeared. Anyone knowing the possible whereabouts of this, the one and only Florida State College wedgewood, is asked to please contact Miss Gehan in the alumnae office.

PTA Sponsors Meeting Here

Dr Phillips Addresses Annual Convention

The annual state convention of the Parent-Teacher Association opened Tuesday night in Westcott auditorium with Dr Charles W Phillips as the guest speaker.

An oreanization conference opened Wednesday morning in the auditorium of the Trinity Methodist Church with Miss Katherine Phillips playing an organ prelude. Rev Lawrence I Stell, pastor of the First Presbyterian Church save the invocation, and reports from the convention committees were given.

Participating in a forum, the subject of which was "The Right to Education," were Charles Phillips, second vice-president of the National Congress of Parents and Teachers; Dr Doak S Campbell; Mrs Eunah Holden, president of the Florida Education Association; Colin English, state superintendent of public instruction; and Richard H Simpson of Monticello, representative from Jefferson County. Following an afternoon meeting, an informal tea was held at the governor's mansion. Dr Paul Witty of Northwestern University was speaker at the evening meeting held at the Trinity Methodist Church.

A report made Thursday morning by Mrs Herbert Ingley, director of registration, revealed that 498 delegates and guests had registered for this twenty-third convention at Tallahassee. Mrs J Floyde Griffin of Tampa was elected president of the Florida Congress of Parents and Teachers.

"Our Goal—Fulfillness of Life" was the theme of the annual banquet in the east dining hall Thursday night, which officially closed the convention. Mrs Walter Beckham presided and Mrs Dora Skipper served as mistress of ceremonies. Special music was provided by the Florida State College Glee Club.

Bulletin Publishes Irish's New Article

"Academic Revolution" is the title of Dr Marian Irish's new article that was published in the Autumn issue of the American Association of University Professors Bulletin.

"The article," said Dr Irish, "is a survey of the public service programs developins from the traditional academic political science curriculum. It discusses the patterns of professional preparation for government service, including the internship training programs at the graduate and undergraduate levels. It also tells of the relations between the institutes of the government in the service training programs, particularly in the state universities.

"Academic revolution means, she continued, that the professors and students no longer do all their work in the classroom but go out and learn first hand the nature of political process."

Dr Irish, who is a professor of political science, has written articles for other books and journals, and has made book reviews for the Political Science Magazine and the New York Times. She has also just recently contributed a chapter to the book Twentieth Century Political Thought edited by Roueck.

Watch the Birdie

Male students at Dale Mabry who have not made an appointment to have their pictures made for the Flastacowo are remind that Saturday is the last day to do so. This can be done by going to Adam's Studio, 701 Pensacola street, between 9 a m and 5 p m.

Cuts System Effective at 1 PM Saturday

Below "C" Students Subject to Present Attendance Rules

President Says Roll Call To Continue in Classes

The new cutting system for freshmen goes into effect at 1 p m tomorrow. In essence this means that cuts will not begin until Monday morning, since there are no classes scheduled for Saturday afternoon.

Accordina to President Doak S Campbell, any present first quarter fresman not making a "C" average for the fall quarter is subject to the first quarter attendance rule. That is, "any freshman who misses a class without excuse from the Cut Committee shall lose one-sixth of the credit value of the course in which the absence occurs."

President Campbell said that a list of those freshmen who do not make a "C" average first quarter will be sent to all faculty members. Roll will continue to be called, either silently or audibly, in all classes, the President explained.

The above action was taken by the Executive Council on the basis of information secured during the past year and during the first six weeks of this year. The policy regarding class attendance during this time was in the nature of an experiment, and the council doubted the advisability of continuing the practice as regards freshman students.

The action of relaxing present regulations will apply to all freshmen entering Florida State College or the Tallahassee branch of the University of Florida at the opening of the second or third quarters.

Further study will be made by the Attendance Committee of the council so that specific recommendations for a long-range solution to the problem of reporting class attendance can be presented for action.

Committee Votes on Amendment Motion

Proposals Anent Student Voting Under Discussion

Voting by the Constitutional Committee upon motions made last week by the amendment subcommittee concerning the process of future amendment to the constitution will take place at the next meeting Monday, November 18, at 8:45 p m in 402 Longmire building.

A motion that proposed amendments be first submitted to student vote before being sent to the Faculty Committee on Student Affairs in order that the committee will better know the wishes of the students before making a final decision will be one of those voted upon. Also whether or not to require a two-thirds vote by students on proposed amendments or a simple majority will be decided. All members of the committee are urged to be present so that the amendment may be voted on by a two-thirds quorum.

At the meeting last Monday night the executive sub-committee made a proposal to eliminate the third vice president of College Government Association. She would be replaced by a forum chairman who would be responsible for different groups to hold

Continued on page tuo.

Irish Speaks at Southern Political Science Convention

The fact that the women of the South, a majority group, hava virtually no representation in state and national government was one of the main points brought out by Dr Marion D Irish in her address to members attending the Southern Political Science convention in Knoxville, Tennessee, last week. Her talk, which was featured in a Knoxville newspaper, was entitled "Minority Rule in the South."

"The National Congress, since the ratification of the nineteenth amendment, has had three southern women, including Ruth Bryan Owen, from Florida," stated Dr Irish in her address. "In the eightieth National Congress beginning next January, there will be no women from the South."

In her talk, she save reasons why only a minority of eligible southerners vote. These reasons include legal barriers such as poll taxes and illiteracy tests, the fact that some are discouraged by political principle, and the fact that so many are indifferent, ignorant, and have a general lack of civic confidence.

"The address was prepared on the basis of southern primaries in May and August. Although national elections were on the Tuesday before the convention, on Thursday I was able to give the same paper without revision, except to note that Congressman Andrew May of Kentucky was not returned," commented Dr Irish.

The meeting began November 7 and continued through November 9. Faculty members from Florida State College attending were Dr Irish, Dr Lucretia Ilsley, and Mr Lorace E Catterson.

During the trip they visited the Norris Dam and Norristown, parts of the Tennessee Valley Authority. Guide for the TVA tour was Dr Lawrence Durrisch, public relations director. Dr Irish reports that the group also visited Athens, Tennessee, the site of the veteran election revolution of this past summer.

"We took a four block detour to see the jail, but the only signs of a revolution were marks of bullets on the facade. There was also a sign saying 'visitors welcome', indicating that it is already a center of attraction."

She went on to say that the town itself appears peaceful and small, not revolutionary at all.

Dr Catterson will give a detailed account of the trip to those interested Tuesday afternoon at 4:30 in the Longmire auditorium.

Panel Argues Dancing Rule

Rasmussen Gives Con, Savage, Carter, Pro

Arguments for and against relaxing the present regulation which prohibits dancing on Sunday were presented by three student speakers at a College Government Association forum held Monday evening in the Longmire auditorium. The panel for this discussion included Esther Rasmussen, who spoke against abolishing the present rule, and Anne Carter and Connie Savage, who presented arguments for allowing Sunday dancing.

Connie Savage contended that dancing is a wholesome recreation and that, if it were wrong, the college should not sanction it on weekdays any more than on Sundays.

"If a certain group does not wish to participate in Sunday dancing," Connie said, "they need not do so, but a minority should not establish standards for the entire college."

Speaking in opposition to relaxing the Sunday dancing regulation, Esther Rasmussen argued that such a rule is needed to protect the rights of a minority. "The feeling of the group which believes that Sunday dancing is wrong must be considered before the enjoyment of the majority," Esther stated.

The influx of boys on campus has brought a demand for more forms of recreation and Sunday dancing would help to meet this need, argued Anne Carter, second speaker in favor of allowing dancing on Sunday.

"The minority who oppose Sunday dancing probably also object to card playing and attending movies on that day," Anne said. "Why, then, does the college forbid one activity and not the others?" she asked.

Dalia Santos and Esther Rasmussen maintained, in reply to this, that if certain students feel that activities other than dancing interfere with their spiritual growth and concept of sacredness for Sunday, they have the right to propose that these activities be forbidden.

That the basement of the Longmire building might be set aside for Sunday dancing while the student houses, dormitory rooms and other parts of the campus would provide places for students who want meditation and quiet on Sundsy was the contention of B J McLeod. She then asked why students who do not believe that

Continued on page two.

Men's Meeting Held Tuesday

Compulsory Assembly Discussed by McBride

The future of compulsory assembly attendance for men, the announcement of new swimming pool hours, Flastacowo appointments, and the prohibition of firearms were discussed at the Tuesday afternoon assembly for the men.

Otis McBride, dean of men, stated on this occasion that it was "entirely up to the men" as to whether they held assembly or not. He said, "I hope you men will continue having assemblies because they tend to promote school spirit and cooperation between the student body and their officers."

John Sullivan, president of the student body, called for a motion as to whether assembly should be held next Tuesday. The motion was unanimously carried to have assembly next Tuesday. John said, "I wish you men, in the meantime, would give me your opinions on the subject. From your opinions we will decide next Monday, at the meeting of the student officers, what to do about assembly."

Recreation

New swimming pool hours were announced by Ed Williamson, director of physical education. The pool will be open for boys on Friday nights in addition to Monday and Wednesday in order to accommodate those boys who have their chemistry classes at night. There have also been improvements of the bowling alleys at Dale Mabry.

Flastacowo

George Croy, associate editor of the Flastacowo, in urging the

Continued on page two.

French Teacher Tells of Experiences As Interpretor for U S Army in Europe

Whether or not supplies and equipment got through to American troops in France during the Battle of the Bulge was partly dependent on the success of Henry M Kopman, new French instructor, in his job as interpreter between the French and Americans in seeking billets and cantonments for the U S forces.

For 15 months Kopman served in the army in France and Belgium. Interpreting for an occasional court-martial and in the transaction of supplies, he was there when General Patton's divisions were slowed down because of the gasoline shortage. "Had it not been for this," he said, "I believe the war with Germany would have ended sooner."

When asked about the attitude of the French people toward American soldiers, Kopman replied: "The French were glad to see us when we arrived, but their enthusiasm and friendship decreased little by little. There was fault on both sides. The French appreciated their liberation but they didn't like it when supplies were slow in getting through to them." Kopman went on to say that 95 per cent of the American soldiers conducted themselves well and even went out of the way to be kind to French children. "However, the French people judged all Americans by the other five per cent who made trouble," Kopman stated.

"During the spring of 1945 when both countries should have been rejoicing together over the victory of the war with Germany, relations hit their lowest," the new FSC faculty member continued. "On the whole, however, they cooperated with us fairly well."

"The talk about German planes bombing civilians was not propaganda," Kopman pointed out. "Often they shot at civilians in the woods or those traveling on civilian trains. Once I was traveling on a train to Paris when planes came low and shot at us. A few of us were hit and wounded, including a woman sitting next to me," Kopman said as he told of the methods the Germans used in terrorizing the people.

A native of New Orleans, Kopman received his AB degree from Tulane University, did post graduate work at the University of Paris, and later taught at St Johns Military Academy in Wisconsin.

Kopman believes a better type of language student would result if languages were not required, but offered as electives. When asked his opinion of the best method of teaching a language, he answered: "I think the best way is to combine the oral direct method with the use of formal grammar."

Kopman has written an account of his activities and work during the war and hopes to have his book published soon.

Dr Joseph H Simons, professor of physical chemistry at Pennsylvania State College, will speak tomorrow at a joint meeting of the Tallahassee branch of the Academy of Sciences and the Florida Section of the American Chemical Society.

Simons to Be Guest Speaker

Subject of Talk Will Be Fluorine Chemistry

Dr Joseph H Simons, professor of physical chemistry at Pennsylvania State College, will be guest speaker at a joint meeting of the Tallahassec Branch of the Academy of Sciences and the Florida Section of the American Chemical Society tomorrow, November 16, at 8:15 p m in the chemistry lecture room, 307 Science building. The subject will be "Scientific and Utilitarian Values of Fluorine Chemistry."

Dr Simons, a world anthority on fluorine chemistry, has spent many years teaching at the University of California, Northwestern, Pennsylvania State College and in Puerto Rico. Since 1935 he has been very active as a civilian consultant to the Chemical Warfare Service of the U S Army and has been in charge of important wartime research. Dr Simons specializes in the chemistry of fluorine, and other halogen compounds; in thermodynamics, kinetics and ion scattering.

An informal dinner will be held in honor of the speaker at the Three Torches Tea Room at 6:30 p m tomorrow. Anyone wishing to make reservations should contact Miss Isabel McKinnell, assistant professor of chemistry who is in charge of local arrangements, or Miss Mary Noka Hood not later than noon today.

Tally-U Boys Hold Sadie Hawkins Day Dance Tomorrow

A Sadie Hawkins Day dance is to be given tomorrow night in honor of all freshmen girls and Dale Mabry freshmen, with the Tally-U student body as hosts. The dance will take place in the officers' club and will last from 8 p m to 12 midnight.

Chaperones for the dance will be Miss Anne Pope, Bryan Hall counselor, Miss Dorothy Brown, Jennie Murphree Hall counselor, Miss Leila Allen, Reynolds Hall counselor, and the Misses Aber, McCoy, and Tinney, counselors from Dale Mabry. The refreshment committee includes Chris Holley and Bob Burns, Charles Campbell is in charge of entertainment, and Dave Middlebrook is chairman of the receiving committee.

"All you freshmen and Dale Mabry gals don your blue jeans with patches, street clothes, or even bathing suits, and come to this man-snagging event tomorrow night," is the enthusiastic invitation from Dave Middlebrook, representing the Dale Mabry student body, sponsors for the dance.

YW Appoints New Members of Board

The advisory board of the Young Women's Christian Association met Monday in the "Y" room. The Personnel committee reported that Miss Daisy Parker, instructor in political science, was elected secretary; Anne Singleton appointed Forum chairman; and Georgene Pihos and Carol Ellis were appointed representatives to College Government Association assembly.

The "Y" has moved to rooms 403 and 405 in the Longmire building. A radio has been secured for use in the rooms and it is hoped that members will listen to special broadcasts of current interest, according to Joyce Petty, president of YWCA. The "Y" rooms will be open all hours of the day so that persons may use them for reading or lounging when there is not a meeting in progress.

Thomas Relates Religion To Education in Opening Religious Emphasis Speech

Informal Discussion Periods Have Covered God, Man, Sin, Christ, Future Life, The Bible; Today Will Mark Conclusion of Addresses

"The basis of liberal education," said Dr John Newton Thomas in his opening address to faculty and staff in the Longmire auditorium November 12, "lies in the religious conception of man as a person and creation of God. Without this conception, man is reduced to a biological automaton, and education to a mere fitting of this automaton to the material necessities of life."

Dr Thomas, professor of systematic theology at Union Theological Seminary in Richmond, Virginia, is the principal speaker during Religious Emphasis Week here on campus. In his opening speech he emphasized the relation of religion to education.

"There are several ways in which man can be viewed," he said. "He may be looked upon as an economic unit, as by many modern economists, or as a natural product of biological phenomena, a 'piece of animated scum.' Or he may be viewed as a son of God, infinite in capacity for good and evil, placed 'a little below the angels and crowned with glory and honor.' It is from this last conception that our belief in democracy and education arises."

"After all," he continued, "I would like to think that every child, every dirty-faced little boy, is entitled to the same opportunities to develop his understanding and reasoning. What reason would there be for such development without faith in its significance, or in man's ability to exercise it?"

"The danger in modern thought," he concluded, "is in this toppling of man from his high station. It is the general philosophy of Americans today that man is a natural phenomena, very little more important, though more complex, than animals and plants. In this philosophy is endangered our entire democratic structure."

Following this address, an informal reception for faculty and staff was held in the Longmire parlor, and an opportunity for meeting Dr Thomas afforded.

The opening speech for students was presented Tuesday evening in the Longmire auditorium at seven-thirty. Dr Thomas spoke on the nature of God.

"What do we mean," asked Dr Thomas, "when we speak of God? First of all, God is a person—a conscious entity, though non-material, with a moral sense. Secondly, He is not merely a person in our finite human sense, but an infinite person. And third, He is the perfect infinite person."

After concluding his address, Dr Thomas held an informal discussion, particularly stressing the religious concept of predestination. This topic was continued during the discussion held Wednesday following the informal tea for students in the Longmire parlor at 4:45.

Dr Thomas' talks were planned for the entire week to cover God, Man, Sin, Christ, the future life, and the Bible. The nature of sin was the subject for discussion in the meeting held Wednesday night. Informal discussion periods were planned every afternoon, Nov 12 through Nov 15, at 4:45, and an address every night at 7:30 in the Longmire auditorium.

The concluding talks will be offered today, 4:45, and tonight at 7:30. Both of these will be in the Longmire auditorium.

Collins to Sing Here Monday

Baritone Presented by Civic Music Association

Robert Hall Collins, baritone, will present a concert at the Leon high school auditorium Monday night at 8:15. Mr Collins is the second artist to appear in Tallahassee this year under the auspices of the Tallahassee Civic Music association.

Among the selections on the program for Monday night are "Je Suis Trahi" from Roland by Lully; "Automne" by Faure; "Der Ton" by Marx; and "Eri tu che Macchiavi" from Un Ballo in Maschera.

Robert Payson Hill, Mr Collins' accompanist, will play Griffes' "An Old Song Resung," Williams' "Silent Noon," Golde's "O Beauty, Passing Beauty," and Malotte's "Upstream."

A quirk of fate brought the baritone into the concert world. While pursuing his art studies in San Francisco, his voice was heard by August Heckscher who immediately arranged an interview for Mr Collins with John Charles Thomas. Since then Mr Collins has been alternating between singing on Broadway in the production "The Boys from Syracuse" and on the radio. This season marks Mr Collins' second national concert tour.

The association plans to present Benno Rabinoff, violinist, February 25, 1947, and Eugene Goossens conducting the Cincinnati Symphony Orchestra, March 25.

Dale Mabry Field Opens Post Office

670 Boxes to Accommodate Male Students and Faculty

"Post office boxes should be ready for the boys at Dale Mabry today or tomorrow," Mrs Margaret Sessions, who is in charge of the new post office, announced this week.

There are to be 670 boxes, the first 160 to be used by faculty members and the remaining 510 by students. For the past few days it has been necessary for students to call for their mail at one of the post office windows.

In order to relieve the rushed condition the post office has employed Miss Winifred Stoutamire, clerk, and Ed Morgan, student assistant, in addition to Mrs Sessions.

The new post office, which is owned and operated by the University of Florida, opened for business last Wednesday morning. Located in the Administration building at the base, it is under the supervision of W H Mays, who is also manager of the post office at Florida State College.

Stamp and mail windows at the post office are open from 9 until 12 in the morning and from 1 until 5 in the afternoon. Students may purchase stamps and money orders, send air mail and registered letters and insure parcels. Packages will also be handled soon. At present the post office is handling Dale Mabry laundry and dry cleanings, but this duty will be transferred to the bookstore when it opens.

Students are urged to include their box number on return addresses to avoid delay in delivery.

Bellamy to Speak

Dr Raymond Bellamy, professor of sociology, is scheduled to speak on the subject, "The Educational Situation in Florida" at a banquet to be held this evening by the Florida State College alumnae of St Petersburg. The banquet will be at the Pennsylvania hotel in St Petersburg.

Dr Bellamy is planning to go from St Petersburg to Miami for a visit and conference with Mr and Mrs John Victor Carter, the donors of the FSC Peruvian Museum. The Carters are coming from the Panama Canal Zone for a week's visit in Miami.

Modern Liberalism To Be Panel Topic

Advanced students in political science are invited to hear a discussion of "Modern Liberalism" led by Dr Lucretia Ilsley, associate professor of political science, and Lorace E Catterson, instructor in political science, next Tuesday at the home of Dr Marian Irish.

This discussion will follow the pattern panel "Christians of the Twentieth Century" given by Dr John Hottowell of Duke University at the political science convention recently held in Knoxville, Tennessee, which faculty members of the political science department attended.

On Tuesday November 19 at 4:30 p m Mr Catterson will give a report on the convention in the Longmire auditorium. Another address sponsored by the political science department will be "The Florida Institute of Government" by Bryan Willis, state auditor, which will be presented Wednesday afternoon at 4:30, also in the Longmire auditorium.

Local AAUP to Hold Meeting Thursday

Business Will Consist of Planning Year's Activities

The second meeting of the year for the local chapter of the American Association of University Professors will be held Thursday at 8 p m in the clubroom of the Longmire building. The purpose of this meeting will be to plan activities for the coming year, and all new members are asked to attend, said Mrs Margaret Bristol, president of the local chapter.

A person is eligible for election to active membership if he holds a position of teaching or research with the rank of instructor or higher in an institution on the association's eligible list. His work must consist of at least half-time teaching or research for a stipulated period of time.

The purposes of the association are to bring about more effective cooperation among the members of the profession in the interests of higher education and research in America, to promote discussion of problems relating to education in the institutions of higher learning, to create means for the expression of public opinion of the body of college and university teachers, to make collective action possible, and to maintain and advance the ideals and standards of the profession.

◆

Attend Conference

Miss Sara Krentzman, director of the curriculum laboratory, and Miss Agnes Gregory, instructor in library science, are attending a Library Planning Conference this week in Nashville, Tennessee.

The meeting is being held at the Peabody College and representatives from library schools all over the South and library superintendents of the southern states will make up the conference.

One of the main issues to be discussed will be changes in the school curricula. The meeting started Tuesday, November 12, and will last through Wednesday, November 20.

Strategy for 50-Yard Line "Dash"

"POWER Miracle" by MISS SEVENTEEN

Planning to score with your favorite quarterback? Plot your curves carefully with wondrous "Power Miracle". Better than hours of exercise! Whittles waists, tapers tummies—controls with a caress. Girdle, panty, and brief-mal, fashioned with bi-directional stretch Black, white, or nude

$5 to $10 at better stores

Miss Seventeen Jr. Foundations

New York 1, N Y.

STRETCH YOUR SHOE WARDROBE

BY HAVING US DYE YOUR OLD SHOES ANY COLOR YOU LIKE.

Henley's Shoe Shop

213 W. College Ave.

Capital Shoe Fixry

118 E. Jefferson

PHONE 765

Campus Cupido Cares for College Crypts; Mac Moves Musty Manuscripts in Manor

By CATHARINE NOLLMAN

His name is Alphonso Harold McFadden, but he is known to everyone simply as Mac. "I like the name Mac", he said to me, "because it is short." Yes, short like he is himself—four feet eleven inches of black intelligence.

The first time I saw him I thought of Edna Ferber's "Cupido". He had the face of a man in his thirties, but when he passed me as I stood at the desk I could see that his head would just about reach my shoulder. He had short black hair and a very man-size mustache. His brown eyes were large and bright. For three years I had watched him moving on soft catlike feet about the library, his presence generally becoming known by the squeaking sound of the windows as he opened or closed them. Then one day I met him. Miss Florence Bethea, assistant head librarian at the library of Florida State College, called him and told him that I would like to talk with him.

We went into the musty storeroom to talk. Mac pulled up a desk chair for me and another for himself. I noticed that when he sat back in the chair his feet did not touch the floor. His clothes were clean and neat though a little wrinkled. He had on a short-sleeved blue shirt which was neatly buttoned at the throat, light colored trousers and dark shoes and socks. He leaned forward earnestly and began to talk to me in well-spoken English. He is a native Floridian having been born near Panama City in Bay county. After he left college he worked for the Middle Florida Ice co for six years before coming to the library on the FSC campus.

Mac's eyes shown with pleasure when I asked him about his college education. In 1934 he graduated from the Florida Agricultural and Mechanical college at Tallahassee. He majored in agriculture and is qualified to teach chemistry and English. Only recently he was offered a position teaching in DeFuniak Springs, but he prefers his job at the library where he has worked winter and summer for the past five years.

I had been told by some girls that Mac was working on his master's degree so I asked him if he were planning to go back to college. He flashed an even row of shining white teeth, sat up straighter in his chair, and said emphatically, "I do." He claims that he wants to study more because he is interested in brushing up on his agricultural courses. "But if in the course of study I run up on another degree, I wouldn't mind", he said as he slightly raised one eyebrow. Mac had been using his right hand to gesticulate as he talked. Now he reached to the floor and, picking up one of several small pieces of paper that were lying there, began to fold it in orderly rectangles

Mac explained that he stays in Tallahassee because his father is old and dependent upon him. His house is just a few blocks from the A and M college Here his father spends most of the day sitting on the porch. "He wouldn't be happy anywhere else", explains Mac. With them alternately live Mac's two sisters who are teachers They take turns living at the house and doing the cooking for Mac and his father. Mac also has one brother who is working on his master's degree at Ohio State university. He was a lieutenant in the field artillery during the war and is, incidentally, taller than Mac.

Mac did not go into service because of his height, although he appeared several times before the local board whose members simply could not believe that a man could be that short.

I looked at the shelves which surrounded us on three sides and framed my next question. "Yes," he replied, "I like to read", and then sensing my thought, "but I don't have much time to do any reading around here The hours are long, but I like it." In answer to my question as to just what his job is he grinned broadly and drawled, "I'm Jack-of-all-trades. If nobody else wants to do the job I'll do it. For three years I've watched him doing odd jobs, darting into the library with a shoulder load of mail, newspapers and magazines, or marching around closing windows and holding the pole straight up beside his shoulder like a knight-errant with his lance. Others who work with him say that he has the strength of two ordinary sized men.

Mac has many friends. He was delighted when I asked him what his hobbies were and is quite proud of his card collection which contains cards that his friends have sent him from all parts of the world. Another way he has of keeping up with his friends is a scrapbook. In it he keeps newspaper or magazine clippings about, or written by, his friends.

When it comes to animals Mac's love is horses. He doesn't have any now because of the difficulty in obtaining feed, but he plans to have in the future not only horses but turkeys, pigs, and chickens.

I find that when I speak of Mac to other people, girls and teachers on the campus, they usually smile. Perhaps they think as I do of Edna Ferber's Cupido, and then make some complimentary remark. Many of those for whom he works feel as Miss Bethea did when she said to me, "I don't know what we'd do without him in the library."

Magazine Jottings

By CATHARINE NOLLMAN

How Did We Vate?

On the first Tuesday in November, 1946, the American people went to the polls for mid-term elections. The stake in the game this time was control of the House of Representatives. And the result is a fairly indicative sign of how the forthcoming presidential primaries will go. In the November issue of the Atlantic Monthly, Arthur M Schlesinger, Jr. associate professor of history at Harvard, discusses the approaching elections in an article entitled "How Will We Vote." It is interesting to see how his predictions have been working out.

Mr Schlesinger begins by commending our two-party system. He says that the maintenance of a two-party system, which is indispensable to the workings of a free society, is the philosophy of government upon which we rest. And it is in opposition to the philosophy of government championed by Mr Molotov. While we as a nation watch with anxious scrutiny the elections of foreign countries and clamor for them to be free, we at home are preparing for our first presidential election since Roosevelt left the stage after 12 years. Mr Schlesinger says that wars have always tended to product administrations characterized by moral indolence and indulged by a people undone by compulsion toward taking it easy. It was his belief that the people were approaching the November elections with a deep and widespread apathy.

He cites as some of the causes for this apathy the depression, followed by the New Deal, and then the war. Then Mr Schlesinger goes on in his article to show how the Republicans statistically stood a chance of winning the 26 seats necessary to give them control in the House. Recent years show that Democratic votes usually fall off in mid-elections while the Republicans tend to vote steadily. The author said that counting on a decline in the Democratic voting the 30 districts ot the Union which are most evenly balanced would give the Republicans control of the House.

The returns from the Tuesday elections show that the Republicans have succeeded. With this Republican victory in mind the public attention shifts to the presidential primaries of 1948, which are yet to come.

Bloc Influence

Mr Schlesinger believes that economic, racial, or religious blocs do not generally influence the voters as much as their own personal judgment or their pocketbooks. However, the labor blocs carry considerable influence and the nationality blocs are to be considered. Among the foreign nationality groups the ones which make the greatest political clamor are the Polish societies. There are about three million persons of Polish origin in the U S. This group voting as a unit could have considerable impact. It is traditionally Democratic. During the 1944 elections the Republican strategists tried to detach the Polish bloc from Roosevelt by playing upon the evident incompatibility between the Atlantic Charter and the designs of the USSR on Poland. However, says the author, the Poles in the long run voted on terms of American issues rather than their old homeland. Mr Schlesinger predicts that there will be little prospect of any bloc desertion by the Poles from the Democrats in the coming elections.

The Italian vote is more formidable There are 4½ million persons of Italian stock in the U S. The proposed peace terms for Italy are a great cause for dissatisfaction among Italian-Americans, but Mr Schlesinger still does not believe that they will change many votes.

The Germans constitute the largest single foreign-nationality group. These were turned against the Administration in 1942 and have remained that way. Nevertheless James Reston of the New York Times has recently reported that the second, third, and fourth generations are voting their pocketbooks, not their origins.

On the whole Mr Schlesinger reports that recent elections tend to show that the Republican party is becoming more conservative and the Democratic more liberal. What we have done this week and what we will do in the coming elections will present to much of the world an exhibition and testing of democracy in action.

◆

Committee Votes

Continued

forums. It was also suggested that executive council meetings be open to any student who would have some discussion or contribution to make at the meeting.

These Constitutional Committee meetings are open to the entire student body and the members would like to see more students take interest in the committee's work.

◆

Panel Argues

Continued from Page One

they should dance on Sunday object to others doing so.

In reply to this Esther Rasmussen presented the views of a student with whom she had discussed the problem of Sunday dancing This student stated that because of the present regulation on one day in the week an activity which she found morally objectional does not take place.

Former WAC Lieutenant Is Now "Chow Chief" at DM

"Look, my piece of chicken doesn't have any feathers on it!" exclaimed one Dale Mabry ex-GI. "And my ice cream doesn't taste like gravy either," marvelled his companion. "The food's good" they both chorused.

The speakers of these and other similar phrases will be surprised to learn that these meals are supervised by former WAC 1st Lieutenant Edith Manford, head dietition at the Dale Mabry cafeteria. Miss Manford did dietary work for thirty months in the army, twenty-five of which were spent in the European Theater of Operations.

The ex-WAC officer is well-experienced in the preparation of balanced meals. She graduated from Florida State College in 1937 and did post graduate work at Indiana University. Later she was with the University of Florida dietary staff and with Johns Hopkins in Baltimore, Maryland.

Miss Manford entered the army in June, 1943, at Fort Jackson, South Carolina. After a week and a half she was called to headquarters and asked if she had requested a transfer. "What is a transfer?" asked the new soldier. For an answer she was sent to Fort Bragg, North Carolina, to join a hospital unit that was being activated for overseas shipment. The unit was sent to Camp Kilmer, New Jersey, where preparations for embarkation were made. On September 12 the hospital group sailed for New York harbor aboard the liner Mauratania.

The unit arrived in Liverpool, England, on September 19 and immediately set up a new hospital on the estate if the Marquis of Bath, near Bath and Warminister, Wilshire County. About six months later the unit was given three weeks training for D-Day preparations and was sent to a new area twenty miles from the English Channel coast. Here the outfit was under constant danger from German V-2 rockets and bombing raids.

Following D-Day the harbor of Brest fell to the American forces, leaving many German prisoner patients to be fed. "They came in looking like dehydrated toothpicks but went out looking like lister bags," said Miss Manford.

After the job was completed at Brest Miss Manford was sent to a hospital that was caring for patients in the Lorraine district. She was in this unit a short time before being sent to the United States for rest in St Augustine and discharged in December of 1945.

Two capable assistants help Miss Manford with the work at Dale Mabry, Mrs Pauline Edwards of Plant City, who spent nine months as a Red Cross worker setting up canteens in the Manila area, and Miss Barbara Wheelock from Miami. Miss Wheelock graduated from FSC in 1945 and is a member of the American Dietitics Association.

◆

The flow of the Mississippi river may vary from 100,000 cubic feet per second to more than two million.

The One Perfect Gift For Your Loved Ones

A PORTRAIT

From

TOOLEY-MYRON STUDIOS

"Foremost Photographers of the South"

120 E. College Ave.

Workshop Members Hold First Meeting

Committees Set Up to Be Under Moore's Direction

Students selected for the Radio Workshop by the radio speech class, under the direction of Miss Kemper M Moore, met together for the first time Wednesday night.

Chosen to work on the production committee are Lois Watkins, Betty Snirley and Claire St John. Joyce Harper was selected for sound effects; Lou Shonter, Lucius Daniel and Lemoyne Cash, script committee; Newton Sullivan, Jane Arnold, Gloria Wells, Peggy Futch, Jack Madigan, Jackie Allen, Bet Cargill and Kay Harrison, dramatics.

The radio speech class announces that more auditions will be held from time to time to fill vacancies which may occur. The class also invites members of the journalism and English classes to submit scripts to the script committee, which is headed by Patricia Yates.

No radio shows will be planned by the group until they get better organized.

Men's Meeting

Continued from page one

men to make their picture appointments said, "It is important that all of you have your pictures taken this week because this will be the first time in the history of Florida State College that men students will have their pictures in the Flastacowo. We will be setting a precedent for those who come after us."

Firearms

James Carr, director of housing for the University of Florida branch, made the announcement that firing would not be permitted on the base and all firearms should be turned in to the business office. He also remarked on the slovenliness of the rooms in barracks 700, 701 and 606. He said, "If you men want to live in pig sties we will see if it can be arranged."

The entertainment for the afternoon was presented by a group of Delta Zeta girls. The skit was presented as a radio program Those participating in the program were: Paula Teagarden, who sang "Night and Day" and "My Hero"; Martha Page who gave a reading entitled "A Day at the Country Club". Joe Long, accompanied by Ruth Wilkes, sang "That Man I Love" and Gloria King acted as announcer.

Sally Caldwell, FSC Freshman, Tells What It's Like to Be a Governor's Daughter

By THERESA SELLERS

"Though I'm accustomed to my father's participation in politics, being a governor's daughter is an unusual situation. I'm enjoying it thoroughly, however," says Sally Caldwell, Governor Caldwell's elder daughter, who is attending Florida State College as a freshman.

She has toured Florida and attended governors' conferences and centennials in Louisiana, Oklahoma and Texas. "I was greatly impressed by the University of Texas, but the thing that really amazed me was the oil well in the back of the governor's mansion in Oklahoma," Sally said when asked about her impressions of these states.

"I've met many interesting people while traveling, and not a few were surprised when they learned I was the governor's daughter," she remarked. Sally lived in Washington when her father was a congressman, but for the past five years she has lived here in Tallahassee where she attended Leon high school. "In my childhood days," Sally remembers, "I lived in Milton but I really considered Tally my home"

FSC, understandably enough, is not new to her, as she has often attended Artist Series, loafed in the soda shop, or played tennis here with her friends. When asked how she liked the campus Sally replied, "I'm having a wonderful time. The food is delicious, much better than I had expected."

The governor's daughter, a tall brown-eyed girl with matching long brown hair, is taking the required freshman curricula with journalism as her elective. "I'm majoring in journalism because I feel that it will give me a well-rounded education," was her reply to a question regarding her particular field of interest. "I've never really enjoyed studying before, but I am enjoying it now because I am taking courses which I like. I feel that there's some reason for studying."

Sally feels her social responsibility and enjoys the functions at the mansion where she's privileged and glad to entertain. She, her sister, her mother and occasionally the governor, when he feels he can take time off for a hunt with his setters, spend quite some time on their farm which is located a few miles out of Tallahassee. Here Sally spends much of her time horseback riding, though elsewhere she enjoys social dancing (no jitterbugging for her), ping pong and most other sports. Dogs, too, rank high with her, "especially the Scottie at the mansion"

Sally's younger sister Susan plans to enter FSC next year.

Male Eye View

Traditions of FSC

There has been some base rumor around the campus that the coming of the men to Florida State College has been breaking down the traditions which are such a valuable part of college life here. Nothing could be further from the truth.

Actually, we have brought many new traditions to this college, traditions which in time will be among the most important here. Take, for instance, the buses which run between the campus and Dale Mabry. These buses are one of the oldest traditions in Tallahassee. They are the only buses now in operation in the United States which were built before the invention of round wheels.

Then there is the tradition connected with the road which these buses take out to the Base. This is an old Indian trail, one of the first roads to pass through what is now Tallahassee, and it has been preserved all through the years in its original condition. . .

• • • •

By next year we can hope to see a completely new set of traditions springing up on this campus. One of them will undoubtedly be based on the fact that Dale Mabry students are always late to class . . . we will probably see the day when, if a student comes into class half an hour late, he can just tell his teacher that he lives at Dale Mabry, and he was just keeping the traditions of the college.

Founding Fathers

Work on the Constitution Committee has already begun, but plans are still in the tentative stage. The suggestion of "The Student Body Government" as a name for the proposed legislative body has been made.

Information received from the Committee is that the constitution will be based on the Constitution of the United States and similar documents.

One thing which may come up before the committee is the establishment of a judicial branch of the student government: that is, an Honor Court to take care of those students accused of cheating or other like offenses. Such an institution would have the advantage of placing those guilty of offenses against their fellow students under the judgment of the students, which is where they belong. However, careful consideration should be given to the method of selection of the student judges by a definitely democratic method, since there is a danger of this court being constituted of only those students who are controlled more by faculty rather than student opinions

Lounge Lizards Department

A new feature for the men on the campus will be the men's lounge to be situated in the Longmire building. Since the room to be used has been used as the office of the Flambeau, this column believes that in tribute to the college newspaper the lounge should be called the Red Room. . . .

School Spirit

The strongest point in favor of continued weekly assemblies seems to be that they are instrumental in increasing school spirit. The question about this is whether anything into which students have to be forced against their will could possibly help create this spirit. It seems logical to believe that such coercion would have the opposite affect.

The position of the majority of the student body on this question has not yet been established, but those students to whom the writers of this column have spoken have been unanimously against the assemblies.

This point can only be cleared up, however, by seeing the final results of the petition now being circulated among the men in regard to continued assemblies If the majority of the men sign this petition for fewer or completely eliminated assemblies, it should be obvious that these assemblies cannot foster school spirit. If they refuse to sign, the proponents of the assemblies have an excellent point in their favor.

◆

Newman Club Initiates

Newman club will hold initiation on November 24 at 8 a m Mass in Blessad Sacrament church to be followed by a coffee that evening.

The Catholic Woman's club gave a reception and tea for Newman club members at the rectory on November 3.

Under the direction of Dot Brinkman, a choir of 20 members has been formed to sing at 10:30 Mass. The club is again taking an active part in intramurals with Tot Carter as athletic manager. The Newmanites have also organized a nursery committee which takes care of children while parents are attending 9:30 or 10:30 Mass.

Gloria Basila, Newman club representative, and members of the Catholic Woman's guild went to St Augustine recently to make plans for a Catholic student house.

◆

Alpha Lamba Delta Holds Annual Party

This year's members of Alpha Lambda Delta, freshman honorary, gave a party last night for those members of the year before at the home of Dr Dorothy L Hoffman, sponsor of the club. The party was an informal wiener roast and the guests were provided transportation by a special bus there. Dr Venila L Shores, also a sponsor, was present.

In charge of invitations was Dorothy Martin; refreshments, Margery Norris.

It's Easy to Fly!

DO YOU WANT A PILOT'S LICENSE?

We Offer: Students, Private, Commercial, Instructor and Instrument Courses.

Courses Offered Under G.I. Bill

SEE OUR FLEET OF BEAUTIFUL NEW AERONCAS

Our School Is Approved By:

- F. S. C. W.
- State Department of Education
- Civil Aeronautics Authority
- Veterans' Administration

Wheeler Flying Service

CALL 2570

DALE MABRY FIELD

Athletes' Feats

By Evelyn Shea

With the Odd-Even games coming up next Saturday, h Odds and Evens are working hard to get in top form class games which begin Monday. Your reporter believes from the results of these class games an idea of how BIG GAMES will turn out can be secured.

The class games should prove exciting for from all prac- games which have been held this year, the hockey and cer teams were pretty evenly matched. On Monday two een" hut scrappy freshmen teams will take the field to tle with experienced sophomores. I'll not venture a guess o the results but this reporter won't be surprised if some ets are scored. Let's see all you Odds and Evens out to er your side on to victory.

hids To . . .

CONNIE SAVAGE, and NATALIE PARRAMORE for ting on such an excellent exhibition of tennis in the intra- rals tennia matches this week. This game had some of steadiest playing in it that we've seen around here in a time. . . NANCY MacEDWARDS for putting on such d playnight programs. . . ANN STAMBAUGH for do- grade "A" work on her intramurals activities this year.

ophomore Council Will Give laynight Show Saturday night club skit by Sophomore ell will be the feature attrac- for playnight tomorrow night, ounced Nancy MacEdwards, rman.

charge of the program, which include both singing and ng numbers, is Jean Furman. sophomore council girls are various committees headed Jane Carol Levy, dance; Hazel kson, music; Jane Nightin- props; and publicity, Martha Bird Lou Shonter will act mistress of ceremonies.

esponsible for the script are sie Norris, Pat Yates, Maggie n, and Jean Furman. Jean e Daly, Jeanne DuPree, Ellen ntzer, and Mary Ann Berry the roles of cigarette girls. Skevakis will do fortune-tell- and Pat Yates and Valda will portray visiting celebri-

Dance chorus for the skit and specialty numbers include: Faith Adams, Pat Small, Violet Walters, Mary Cailey, Catherine Cooper, Betty Wells Nelson, Jeanne Zewadski, Virginia Goodell, Lucy Harding, Betty Loy, Dorothy Martin, Sis Miller, and Maggie Swanson.

In the music department, Patsy Crosby and Joyce Stroberg will sing solos. Phyllis DeKalb, Nancy Jones, Ann Seaward, Joyce Williams constitute a quartet.

Music for the dancing at playnight last week was furnished by Robert Smith'e ewing band from Dale Mabry. Members of the band are Wayne Rogers, drums; John Stubbs and Joe Vara, trombone; Bob Cole, Henry Ward and Gus Adkinson, trumpet; Walter Jurrell, Jack Langford and Chuck Henderson, saxophone; Maurice Arnow, bass and Mac Mangham, piano.

Layton's Men's Wear

114½ E. COLLEGE PHONE 2784-W

We have a smooth collection of Ties . . . Sweaters . . . Slacks

LAYTON'S

STYLE DISTINGUISHED CLOTHES

Attention Art Students!

we carry a complete line
of Devoe's
art supplies

WARD'S PAINT STORE

204 S. ADAMS

Class Games Begin Monday Afternoon

Hockey and Soccer Games Feature Class Events

The Odd-Even sports program has been shifted due to the Thanksgiving holidays, according to B J Gardiner, president of the Women's Recreation association.

The Odd-Even hockey and soccer games will be held Saturday afternoon, November 23 on the athletic field. The soccer game will begin at 2 o'clock and the hockey game will start about 3:30.

The class games will be played off from 5 to 6 o'clock next Monday and Tuesday. On Monday afternoon the freshman teams will play the sophomore teams and on Tuesday the junior teams will play the senior teams.

All the sports leaders report that their teams have been working hard and are in fine shape for the big games.

Betty said that there would be no color rush this quarter but that perhaps it would be held next quarter in connection with the homecoming weekend which is planned for that time.

Color Rush

The traditional color rush usually held Thanksgiving morning will be postponed until the morning of the second day of the volleyball and basketball games which will be played second quarter. Practices for the rush will be held four weeks ahead of games.

Marion Looby, co-chairman for color rush, asks that those who came out for it before come out again. The dates will be announced later.

FSC Professor Is Helping Collier's Edit Encyclopedia

"I am helping to edit an eight million word encyclopedia for Collier's" answered Dr Louis Shores, part-time director of library training and service at Florida State College. "It would not be exaggereting to say eight million words," continued Dr Shores. "The new Collier's encyclopedia is to replace the old National Collier's encyclopedia."

"Dr Louis Shores left last Monday night to continue his work in New York on Collier's encyclopedia after working furiously over the weekend with the library department," said Dean Otis McBride, manager for Dr Shores. "By the end of sprina Dr Shores should be finished with his work on the encyclopedia and should be here et least by the eummer session," continued Dean McBride.

Receiving his BS in Library Science at Columbia university in 1928 and his Ph D at George Peabody college in 1934. Dr Shores was director of the Library School at Peabody from 1933 until 1942 when he entered the Army Air Corps. He served as an Air Corps communications officer in the China-Burma-India theatre. After his discharge from the AAF in May, 1946, Dr Shores was director of the Library School at Peabody until June 15, 1946, when he became a member of the Crowell-Collier staff to edit the new encyclopedia.

In 1935, Dr Louis Shores wrote "Origins of the American College Library 1838-1800"; in 1938, "Bibliographies and Summaries in Education"; in 1937, "Basic Reference Books," second edition; and articles for Library Journal, Educational Forum, School and Society and New York Herald-Tribune books.

Reclaim Art Work

Art work from last year's art classes will be left on the cabinets outside room 312 Westcott for one more week. Students who wish their work back should get it before then or it will be thrown away.

SPORTS CALENDAR

All hockey and soccer games will be played on athletic field

Monday, Nov. 18 4:45 p m	Hockey and soccer class games between freshmen end sophomores
Tuesday, Nov 19 4:45 p m	Hockey and Soccer class games between juniors and seniors
Wednesday, Nov 20	Even hockey and soccer teams practice
Thursday, Nov 21	Odd-Even Archery tournament, 4 45, on archery field. Odd hockey and soccer teams practice
Friday, Nov 22 6 p m	Odd-Even modern dance exhibition, Little Theatre Odd-Even Archery tournament, 4:45
Saturday, Nov 23	Odd-Even hockey end soccer games First game begins et 2 o'clock.
Saturday Night	Playnight, 8 o'clock
Monday and Tuesday Nov 25 and 26 8 p m	Tarpon Club, Thanksgiving performance in the pool.

Football Holds Interest; Bowling Alleys Open For Use

In an intramural football game played yesterday afternoon Barracks 518 ran roughshod over Barracks 818 by a 23-0 score as George Dickie, Palmetto; Slick Edwards, Port St Joe, and Rufe Jefferson, Tampa combined to run and pass 516 to their second consecutive win. Ed Dilsaver, St Augustine and Henry Daniels, Tampa also were outstanding on the offense.

Scoring touchdowns for 518 were Daniels on a short pass from Dickie, Bob Cooksey on a pass from Edwards and Dickie on an end around in the final half from seven yards out. An Edwards pass to Dilsaver after the first touchdown gave 518 their only extra point. Dilsaver and Daniels are credited with a safety each as both trapped Jim Kinsey behind the goal once.

Kinsey bore the brunt of the 618 attack for the losers.

The football schedule for next week will find Barracks 606 meeting Upper 700 on Monday, Barracks 505 clashing with Upper 701 on Wednesday, and Barracks 630 tangling with Lower 701 Thursday. All games are to start at 5 o'clock.

Advancing last week through a forfeit was Barracks 701 Lower when 644 failed to show up for their scheduled game. The game yesterday was the first game of the quarterfinals.

The basketball front is idle, but nightly practices are still being held in Dale Mabry gym. A last minute wire from the Gainesville Kappa Sige caused cancellation of a scheduled game with the university fraternity last Friday night.

The Dale Mabry bowling alleys are now open to the public with games at 13 cents per line. The alleys have just been completed, according to manager Sam Boggs, and are going to be open from five until ten o'clock during weekdays and from three o'clock Sunday afternoon until ten. There are six alleys in use and students and faculty are invited to indulge in the pastime of thousands.

Coach Williamson also announced that handball courts are now open in the Dale Mabry gym for use and stated that hours to be put into effect will be from three p m on weekdays and equipment may be checked out on Saturdays for weekend use.

Miss Hilda Tinney, student director at the Dale Mabry officer'a club, will issue equipment to any students desiring to check out shuffleboard equipment. Four sets have been furnished and the courts are located immediately in the rear of the officers' club.

Coach Williamson is expecting ping pong tables to arrive soon and plans to put four in the officers' club and four in the Dale Mabry gym for the use of the students and their friends.

College Publicity Manager Must Know All; Job Incudes Answering Varied Requests

Miss Betty Ann Taylor riffled through the papers on her desk. "So you want to know what a publicity manager does," she said, smiling. "Well, here I have a letter from Life magazine asking about Florida State College'e Inca relics, and a request from Southern Railway for pictures of FSC. You see, it's interesting work."

Besides answering requests, the duties of Miss Taylor and her staff include the sending of newe releases to 198 newspapers and radio stations.

Most of the information now sent out is for publication within the state, but Miss Taylor, who has been head of the department for the past three weeks, plans a more widespread publicity program in the future. "A suggestion has even been made," she said, "for an international exchange of students, but that is not in my hands."

A graduate of FSC, the young publicity manager was editor of the Flambeau in '41 and '42. She holds a high opinion of this college and its institutions, and enjoyed her Flambeau work especially.

After graduation, she accepted a position as a postal censor in Miami. About this work she said, "It was great fun, but even reading love letters can get very dull."

So she joined the WAVES and became a cable censor. Much of her work was in Washington, where she wrote citations. Laughing gayly, she told of the time a batch of citations was sent back from the Pacific because they did not adhere closely enough to the rigid form laid down by the Navy for such writings. "Citation writing isn't very original," was her succinct comment.

While in the Navy, she toured the Queen Mary as it lay in dry dock in New Jersey. It was then being used as a troop ship.

The bobby Miss Taylor enjoys most is art, especially working with water colors. She has a variety of interests, however. In her college days she was a student assistant in botany.

A resident of Tallahassee, the talented publicity department head took over her duties three weeks ago. Her predecessor was Miss Bertha Bloodworth.

* * *

Expensive cattle, horses, or other animals sometimes are X-rayed like humans to diagnose diseases or to discover incipient causes of lameness.

THERE'S AN AGE OLD THRILL . . .

in archery. It's a sport that will fascinate you from the time you shoot your first arrow. If you're already expert, you'll find expert's gear here . . . as well as a stock for all others.

Seek it First
YON'S
HARDWARE

Cage Intramurals Begin Monday

Pi Beta Phi Captures Tennis Intramurals Crown

Basketball practices have been held this week, but those who have been attending Religious Emphasis Week functions will not be required to have their two practice points and may play in the basketball intramurals beginning Monday, announced Ann Stambaugh, intramurals manager.

Pi Beta Phi, represented by Natalie Parramore, won the tennis singles finals over Kappa Alpha Theta's Connie Savage. The scores for the match were 6-4 and 12-10.

Betty Kennedy and Olive Fleming playing for Pi Beta Phi defeated Magnolia Hall's Evelyn Breedlove and Ann Holloway 11-9, 8-6, in the semi-finals for the doubles championship. Also playing in the semi-finals run-off were the Chi Omegas, represented by Georgia Jaeckel and Maggie Flynn, who were defeated by Lucy Brown and B J Singleton playing for Kappa Alpha Theta with a score of 10-8 and 8-6.

In the doubles finals the champions are the Pi Beta Phis, who defeated the Chi Omega team 6-2 and 6-1.

* * *

Students Visit State Institutions

Classes in clinical psychology, social work, and juvenile delinquency spent yesterday on an observation field trip to the Florida Industrial School for boys at Marianna, and the State Mental Hospital at Cnattahoochee.

The students were conducted on tours through both institutione and clinics were held immediately following these tours, at which time inmates and patients of the school and hospital respectively were interviewed by supervisors in the presence of the students and teachers.

Among faculty members present on the field trip were Dr Hugh L Waskom of the psychology department, and Mrs Margaret C Bristol, Mr T H Monahan and Dr Coyle E Moore of the sociology department.

* * *

After thawing, frozen foods are subject to the same spoilage and toxin developments as other similar foods.

Cashin' In

Though the University of Florida has as yet to record its first win of the 1946 football season, Saturday will offer the Gators an excellent chance to halt their current six-game losing streak when they meet the Villanova Tigers, who have done no better than break even in eight games this Fall.

A check of the two teams in their games with the Miami Hurricanes shows them to be evenly matched. Miami defeated Florida 20-13 and two weeks later subdued Villanova 26-21.

The Georgia Bulldogs had more than enough of the Gators during the first half of their game at Jacksonville last Saturday, Florida leading at intermission, 7-6. Only during the final two periods could the Bulldogs and Charlie Trippi make any marked headway in the direction of the Florida goal, finally wearing the Gators out and winning 33-14.

Army—Notre Dame

Whereas the Georgia-Florida game received much interest from fans in Florida, it was the Army-Notre Dame struggle at New York that provided most of the national gridiron interest. The only thing this game proved, however, was that the Cadets and Irish are more evenly matched than the grid prognosticators had realised.

Arnold Tucker, great Army field general, and John Lujack, Fighting Irish quarterbeck, lived up to all advance notices as they directed their respective teams in a scoreless duel. Time and again Tucker's pass interceptions and Lujack's alertness saved their teams from such embarrassment. Tucker also made the longest run of the day, a jaunt of 80 yards on the last play of the first half.

National Ranking

The Associated Press sports writers, numbering 144, ranked the nations top ten football powers in the following order: Army, Notre Dame, Georgia, UCLA, Pennsylvania, Texas, Georgia Tech, Tennessee, Illinois and Michigan.

Georgia and UCLA are the only unbeaten, untied teams in the group. Rice, in fifth place a week ago, dropped out of the select group after being upset by Arkansas, 7-0. Pennsylvania climbed from ninth to fifth place by routing Columbia 41-6. The contest between the Quakers and Army this week could provide an astounding upset since the Cadets will be down after their grueling game with Notre Dame and the Pennsylvania eleven will be out to regain a little of the prestige which she lost by her defeat at the hands of Princeton two weeks ago.

Much Chatter

Army's gridiron machine may receive a bid to play in the Rose Bowl game since the War Department has given the green light leaving the acceptance of a bowl bid up to Major General Maxwell D Taylor, Superintendent of the U S Military Academy. . . .

The Big Nine Conference has voted 7-2 to form an agreement with the Pacific Coast Conference to the effect that over the next few years the champions of the two conferences would mee: in the Rose Bowl . . . this agreement would exclude such Pasadena aspirants as Georgia and previously mentioned Army. . . .

Should the University of Miami defeat Louisiana State University tonight the Hurricanes would stand a better than even chance of receiving their second consecutive Orange Bowl bid and perhaps even a nod from the Sugar Bowl . . . the Hurricanes have lost only one game—to North Carolina—while winning six. Last week they defeated Miami of Ohio 20-17. . . .

Georgia appears certain to go undefeated this year. However, the Georgia Tech-Georgia struggle late in November looms as a sterling attraction: one in which both teams will be "out to solve the meat shortage". . .

Counting the game with Villa- just three more chances to regis- nova, the Florida Gators have ter a victory during the 1946 grid campaign. Auburn and NC State are still on the menu.

Games this week

Outstanding games of the week include: Northwestern-Notre Dame, Ohio State-Illinois, Army-Pennsylvania, Tennessee-Boston College, Southern Methodist-Arkansas and Tulane-Georgia Tech.

Though the writer only failed on three of fifteen predictions in his last column two weeks ago, one, and only one will be made this week: Florida will beat Villanova.

IN THE HAND OF ALFRED LUNT

Noted actor of the American stage

"51"...the world's most wanted pen

"Writes dry with wet ink!"

● People everywhere know and cherish the Parker "51". American pen dealers have named Parker the most-wanted pen—rating it ahead of all other well-known makes combined. ● Today, although still scarce, a few more 51's are being shipped than heretofore. You should see your dealer soon—and early in the day. ● Here is a pen made to highest standards of precision. Its unique hooded point starts writing instantly, smoothly. For the tip is a ball of micro-polished Osmiridium. ● Only this pen is designed for satisfactory use with Parker "51" Ink that dries as it writes! ● Three colors. $12.50; $15.00. Pencils, $5.00; $7.50. Sets, $17.50 to $80.00. The Parker Pen Company, Janesville, Wisconsin and Toronto, Canada.

Parker "51"

TENNIS
Headquarters!
Rackets Restrung
Pennsylvania – Dunlop
and Wright & Ditson
Balls
New Rackets From $5.00 to $19.50
Seabrook Hardware Co.
PHONE 200

SPIRIT OF THE WEEK

and then there were classes...

● THE PRO . . .

The Monday night forum brought out two points to which those opposing Sunday dancing hung tenaciously—that laws are made to protect minorities, and that dancing on Sunday would disturb the sacredness of the Sabbath for those who wished to observe it as a day of worship and rest.

Foremost among the reasons of those who favored Sunday dancing was the argument that facilities for employing leisure time have not been enlarged and improved to meet the demands of an expanded student body. It was pointed out that adequate recreational facilities in town and on the campus were limited even before the recent expansion.

It was also argued that outside of campus it is personal discretion which decides for an individual whether or not he dances Sunday—or any other day—and that dancing is a wholesome, socially-recognized form of recreation.

Many questions were asked. Questions such as:

(1) Is it not as fair for the majority to ask the minority to give them (the majority) the privilege of Sunday dancing as it is for the minority to ask the majority to forego that pleasure that they might observe the Sabbath with the knowledge that dancing was not being indulged in on campus?

(2) Since there are student houses on campus where the various religious groups may observe the Sabbath in quiet and meditation and which are utilized by those who wish to use them, why can there be no designated place on campus, ie, the Longmire recreation room, for those who wish to dance?

(3) If the people who do not wish to dance on Sunday are not forced to do so, why should those who do wish to dance be kept forcibly from doing so?

These questions, along with many others, all met with the same answer—"Dancing should not be allowed because it disturbs the Sabbath for those who oppose dancing."

This answer is not a valid, logical reply to the questions it supposedly answered. And with the statement as the pivotal point, the forum went in nothing but circles.

Since this is a ruling that affects each individual on campus—be be pro or con dancng—it seems that the general concensus of campus opinion on the matter is necessary. It would seem that a student poll would be the method for this, asking such questions as: Is Sunday dancing against your religious beliefs? Would the knowledge that some people on campus are dancing keep you from a full observance of the Sabbath? Although Sunday dancing would annoy some people, are you in favor of it to improve Sunday recreation? During church? During the hours when church is not in session?

The answers to those questions would indicate the reaction of the majority of the student body. With such a poll as a basis for discussion, some sort of constructive adjustment can be made, either in changing the rule or in maintaining it.

● . . . . AND THE CON

"Dancing is not permitted on Sunday" says our "gold" book on page 49. And is this ruling fair? We have heard cries of protest against this restriction by girls who see no reason why they should not be permitted to dance on Sunday if they so desire. But many questions have arisen in our minds as the pros and cons of the issue have been faced.

The college, by permitting dancing on campus on Sunday would be putting its official sanction upon "Sunday dancing." Has our college the statistics to prove that the taxpaying citizens of the state of Florida wish the administrators of its state college to put their official sanction on Sunday dancing? Is it the majority of students in this college who desire to dance on Sunday, or is this group perhaps smaller than we have been led to believe? Is it posible that many who would vote to permit Sunday dancing would be voting to give the privilege to those who want it rather than demanding the privilege for themselves?

Sabbath observance is a basic issue. It has been a fundamental of law as long as laws have existed. There are two general grounds for believing that something is right morally—(1) what society through the ages has found to be true and (2) what God has set forth as true. Sabbath observance obviously stands the test on both grounds so it follows that we can not very well place "Sabbath observance" on trial. (Nor can we, on the other hand, place "dancing" on trial in this issue since it is sanctioned on the other six days of the week).

It must be, then, that those who object to Sunday dancing object because they feel it is the right of even a minority to have what is held sacred to it protected above the pleasure of the majority. Just as the noise outside a church building is "kept down" during a church service (not because noise-making is sinful in itself, but because worship of the few would seem more important than the amusement of those outside), just so they feel that Sunday should be protected from activities that detract from its air of reverence; that Sunday is to the rest of the week, what the church is to the space around it—something to be protected for those who desire its benefits.

But what right, you say, does the group who wish their Sunday unmarred have to ask that the rest of us, who do not believe as they do, give up our pleasure when we can not see how we disturb their Sabbath? Perhaps this may show why they oppose it so strongly—it is a principle of education that something which we see constantly becomes a part of us. Perhaps those who oppose Sunday dancing feel that were they constantly exposed to Sunday dancing on their campus—which is, after all our college home and where each of us has a right to spend his or her Sunday—that in such a case, Sunday dancing would become less and less obnoxious to them until they would be dragged into re-writing one of the commandments to read (as they feel many of us have already re-written it)

"Remember the Sabbath to keep it amusing.
Six days hast thou labored and done thy works.
But the seventh day is the Sabbath of Fun, thy god.
In it thou shalt dance, play and catch up on all back work."

ESTHER RASMUSSEN.

● OUR EVERYDAY WEAPON

"There is an important distinction between thoughts and ideas," writes Herman Kantorowicz, professor at the University of Berlin. "Men possess thoughts, but ideas possess men."

The distinction between the two words in themselves is not so important as the probable meaning in back of the distinction. In the light of this statement the whole intellectual realm seems to fall into two phases.

The rational or reasoning phase occurs when men possess thoughts and can put these thoughts to use in clarifying and subjecting to order their worlds and problems which confront them.

The other phase, the irrational or emotional side, occurs when big sweeping ideas like racism, individualism, Nazism, communism, and democracy are in possession of men.

Everyday on this campus, as everywhere, we are confronted with both phases. For one thing, ideas are, as conditions, ever changing; what is a rational thought today may, with the advent of new evidence and information, be an irrational idea tomorrow.

We may meet one phase more than we meet the other; we may personally recognize the two phases, accepting the one and rejecting the other. But the fact is that both phases remain and our contact and resultant acceptance or rejection are personal matters in which we close our minds to the one which is less appealing. It does not get rid of the supposed undesirable phase.

Our job is to recognize these two phases, to know that they exist despite our thoughts or ideas on the subject, and to attempt to make use of this knowledge.

One of the strongest weapons in the world today is ever growing and developing, as are rocket ships and atomic power.

Ideas are weapons, too.

● 'TIL THEN

Because of the recent voting on Thanksgiving holidays, some people, and a precious few, I believe, are of the opinion that Odd-Even spirit and traditions are dead and that there is no need for spirit any longer. Fortunately, I cannot agree that Odd-Even spirit is dead and I do not believe that it will die or should die until something else takes its place—such as co-education. When co-education comes there will be new traditions and new means of perpetuating spirit and enthusiasm. Until that time, we must have something else. Odd-Even activities have furnished that spirit, and should continue to do so. Activities of almost any nature function better when there is a feeling of competition behind them. The Demonstrations are a good example of that point. Each and every year they have improved and have become more entertaining and one of the main reasons is due to a desire to try and put on the very best show possible. Competition and SPIRIT are the fundamental contributing factors.

There are also those who believe that no spirit is needed at all on a campus. About 99 percent of the colleges and universities of America would disagree wholeheartedly with this theory, otherwise why all the pep rallys and intercollegiate sports. Unfortunately we don't have co-education yet, and consequently do not have intercollegiate competition.

Because so many people on campus expressed a desire to see Odd-Even activities continue and because they believe that Odd-Even spirit and traditions are not dead, the Women's Recreation Association board in their last meeting voted unanimously to go ahead and carry out every single Odd-Even activity possible. Consequently we have a sports calendar this week filled with events to provide extracurricular entertainment and spirit for the entire student body.

Until co-education comes, I do not believe that one "stupendous, colossal school production" can provide the morale and spirit building element that this campus needs.

EVELYN SHEA,
Secretary of WRA.

● A PLEASANT SITUATION

"We want a pleasant situation." This oft-repeated refrain is one we girls would like to harmonize on, but we find it a little difficult to stomach the accompanying chorus, namely, that the men on this campus are God's gift to women. They may be, but we are firm believers in the subtle approach and prefer to observe rather than to be told.

For the past several years we (and that means "us girls," too) have been interested in getting co-education at Florida State College and at the University of Florida, not because we felt that men were indispensable to an adequate and satisfactory system of education, but because we felt that a mixed group on campus would be not only more normal but also more stimulating. This has indeed proved true.

However, our desire for more stimulation does not necessarily imply that we had been quietly stagnating prior to co-education. We feel that most of our traditions, which are spoken of by some of the University students in such disparaging terms, are worthwhile and serve an excellent purpose on our campus. Some, it is true, must of necessity be altered because of the changing size, not exclusively the changing sex, of our school. Traditions here have been modified before without throwing them all out the window, and they will be modified again.

But it is not in the University students' attitude toward traditions that our chief grievance lies. Our prime concern is their attitude in regard to our relative positions on campus. When they arrived we put out the welcome mat in all sincerity; we were anxious, even eager, to make them feel at home. Imagine our surprise when they developed the "at home" spirit to the extent that they wanted to wash our dirty linen and tell us when and where to clean house. Some of us, especially the seniors who have been here four years, feel quite capable of continuing without masculine direction. Many believe that they are better equipped than the men to decide which of the rooms need cleaning. It had been our wish to include the University students as additional tenants. We were somewhat taken aback to discover in our midst a new crop of landlords.

For a number of years the student half of the college government has been carried on entirely by women and though the result may not have been perfection, it has been more than adequate and steadily progressive. The rules, which seem so pointless and trivial to some of the men, are in reality considerably more liberal than those at most other southern colleges and are on a par with those of many colleges throughout the United States. We do not ask the men to keep our rules; we only ask respect for them. Where we had hoped for constructive criticism we have received, in so many instances, only blanket condemnation. To a large extent the spirit of equal cooperation we had hoped for has not materialized.

We feel sure that under a co-educational set-up the men will gradually assume the positions of responsible leadership. This is as it should be. However, during this period of transition we would appreciate the opportunity to make a graceful exit rather than to be dismissed as though we were irresponsible children. And we think it would be nice if both men and women could have a voice in shaping student policies.

Lest someone misunderstand the tone of this editorial we hasten to assure any readers that we are still heartily in favor of co-education—with an accent on the "co." After all, we, too, want a "pleasant situation."

NELL CLARK
ANN COLVIN

Sharpie the Fifinella

Sharp as a tack in the back of your sac (ro-iliac) — that's Sharpie!

First thing on the agenda this week—Sharpie would like to retaliate! The Flambeau and its various sidekicks do not, to quote from a statement of last week, "preach against the evils of physical education as a major." The Flambeau does not preach: it merely points out facts!

A letter from "Curious" asks Sharpie's opinion on the offer that a faculty committee be appointed to assist and advise the Student Constitution Revision Committee.

Sharpie is pleased to know that the faculty and administration is in back of this committee and its work. She only hopes that they stay there, (way back!)

"Wondering" writes that this week she was reading in the "Browsing Room," when she stumbled upon a word she didn't know. Going into the next room to jot the word down for future reference (pencils, pads, notebooks etc must be left outside), she was accosted by the person on duty and told to refrain from doing this. She wants to know if Sharpie can tell her why!

Sharpie consulted the head man who said that the Browsing Room is for relaxation and pleasure reading only. Seeking the meaning of a new word comes under the separate classification of "study." In other words, park your intellectual curiosity with your books in the anteroom, and you will come out unscathed!

Prize of the week: To Executive Council, Sharpie gives a garnet flavored lollypop, wrapped in gold cellophane. This was purchased by the donations from the freshman class upon the relaxation of the no cut rule for their group.

One who signs herself "Respected Wallflower" asks if the boys at Dale Mabry think we juniors and seniors too aesthetic to indulge in the mundane art of dancing! She says, "At the dance Saturday night they absolutely refused to cut on us, and the room was just automatically divided into two separate groups—them and us!"

Dear Wallflower: Sharpie can only recall these words—"Femina perfecta, that's what they used to say of me. Now can you see what FSC has done to me!"

Executive Council has given us an additional reason for giving thanks—and we do mean Thanksgiving!

The problem of the week seems to be that of dancing on Sunday. Seems like there will be those who would be offended at such a procedure. Sharpie suggests that perhaps if the aforementioned will turn their backs and not look, they will survive uncontaminated!

Rumor has it that freshman proctors have taken to calling their junior counsellors on the carpet for things they think they shouldn't do. Back up now chil-lun'—it ain't up to you! Sharpie, too, hates to think that you are getting drunk with power at such an early age. That's not supposed to happen 'til you're a sophomore!

And now Sharpie comes to the end of her broadcasting frequency. Tune in same time, same station next week, when Sharpie will give a dissertation entitled "Art of Killing a Turkey." or "There's More Than One Way of Getting the Bird."

Attention Seniors

All students who are graduating on December 18 should turn their names in to the Book Store as soon as possible so that their senior announcements can be ordered. The deadline is November 20.

Or Forever Hold Your Peace

To the Editor:

The Women's Recreational Association board has expressed a unanimous wish to write you concerning Odd-Even activities, for they feel that the Flambeau is presenting its own opinions concerning this matter and is failing to take into consideration many other points.

You stated in last week's Flambeau that "the suspension of Thanksgiving meant the death of Odd-Even." This is not necessarily true. There are many students who will continue to enjoy those activities. The hockey, soccer, modern dance and rachery activities will continue this fall and be played before Thanksgiving. In the opinion of many, Odd-Even spirit did help develop class and college spirit and will in the future.

As for competition between colleges for women, some of the better known authorities in physical education will be glad to enumerate the evils of such a plan:

1. It makes for emphasis on one small group (Odd-Even takes in a great number).

2. It takes out of games much of the fun and enjoyment when it magnifies the importance of winning.

3. It is detrimental to health and class work in that long trips must be taken and overnight absences made.

The WRA feels it their responsibility to promote a program which will reach the largest number of students, so that their personal experiences will be enriched through particular participation rather than through vicarious experiences.

Sincerely,
Betty Gardiner,
President, WRA.

Dear Editor,

I'm sorry to say I had to miss the forums on Sunday dancing, but I'd like to put in my two cents' worth.

Why not dance on Sunday? As we all know, around here there are three big forms of entertainment. Dancing, bridge and movies.

And then comes Sunday—which presents the problem—these all-day dates. As much as you like the guy or gal, both of you are usually bored stiff by Sunday night. When the shows are exhausted, this leaves only bridge, and so many people don't play bridge.

What I'm wondering about is why this one activity among so many is curtailed. As entertainment, dancing is no more nor less entertaining than going to the show, card-playing, joy-riding, or park-benching. And why only on Sunday? If dancing were really the sin it seems to be, should it not be curtailed on weekdays too? Leave us not be contradictory!

Robin Whitfield.

To the Student Body:

From time to time there will appear statements or announcements from the Social Standards Committee concerning the general behavior and appearance of the student body. This council, which was created by and is responsible to the Student Senate of the College Government Association, has as its primary purpose the coordination of social activities and group living within the dormitories and on the campus.

It is greatly interested in seeing that all students attend as many plays, concerts, teas, dances, lectures and sports events as possible without neglecting their academic pursuits. Such participation tends to enrich a student's personality and add to her social well being on the campus and in later life.

The council wishes to promote qualities of general kindness, friendliness and constant consideration for the feelings and property of all students, people connected with the school and all visitors.

The general appearance and behavior of the student body are an expression of the social qualities of moderation, self-respect and consideration. This council does not pretend to be a dictator of social etiquette or an authority on fashions. We merely wish to emphasize certain phases that we feel are definitely accepted and practiced by all who consider themselves socially well-bred.

Each year the question of where and when to wear blue jeans, slacks or shorts gives rise to much debate. The Social Standards Council, which is fairly well representative of this student body, has agreed that the above-mentioned can be worn to the athletic fields, camp, picnics, to help with props or sets for any student production, to the dining hall for Sunday night supper, behind the dormitories and anywhere within the dormitories except in the offices and parlors. The council would like to encourage the wearing of raincoats or coats of a similar nature over the blue jeans, slacks, or shorts to and from these various destinations. The wearing of the aforementioned anywhere else, front campus, Sweet Shop, Mecca or the Longmire building is considered in poor taste and quite unnecessary. We do not wish to carry on a campaign against this as we feel that there are many things of more importance that deserve our attention.

We trust that the unattractiveness, masculinity, climatic conditions and carelessness all point to the limitation of this habit. The designated times and places herein stated are certainly adequate.

Emily Bayard Sheftall.
Chairman,
Social Standards Council

Editor, The Flambeau

The current post-war boom in education is paralleling a similar expansion in Florida's cattle industry and, paradoxically enough, retarding to a measure the growth of the latter. Few people are aware that Florida's is one of the fastest growing cattle industries of the southeast. Famed chiefly as a tourist mecca and citrus producer, Florida receives little recognition of her $160,000,000 cattle industry. Even less cognizance is made of the fact that the continued growth of this same livestock business is seriously threatened by a shortage of veterinarians.

The fault lies not with Florida students. Many young men, including a large number of ex-GIs have indicated an interest in veterinary medicine as a career; but unless something is done immediately to provide educational facilities for those would-be vets they will be diverted to other channels and Florida will have lost the bumper postwar crop of veterinarians so urgently needed by our cattle industry — to say nothing of the fine horses and household pets in Florida.

And here is the rub: in all of North America there are only thirteen schools of veterinary medicine, three of which were inaugurated this year. Of these, only three will even go as far as to accept applications for admission from non-residents of the state

Continued on page five

The Florida Flambeau

1946-1947 STAFF
EDITORIAL STAFF
SHIRLEY RODGERS — Editor
BETTY DOWD, B J McLEOD, LOLA ROSE — Associate Editors
JOYCE PETTY — Managing Editor
BARBARA FARRAR — Assistant Managing Editor
LAURA LEE BUTLER, JEAN DOUGLAS — News Editors
Copy Editor — Winifred La
Assistant Copy Editor — Eleanor Bayer
Society Editor — Madge Pilche
Assistant Society Editor — Paulette Blank
Feature Editors — Alicia Armstrong, Barbara Beckman
Sports Editor — Evelyn Shea
Outside News Editor — Marjorie Clark
Opinion Editor — June Grindstaff
Seadline Editor — M J Sherman
Columnists — Beryl Kitchen and "Sharpie"
Picture Editor — Paulette Blank
Art Editor — Jean Sharer
Copy Girl — Robin Hill
REPORTERS: Dorothy Aberle, Katheryn Aspinwell, Ines Augustine, Joanne Bagley, Audrey Malba Bach, Barbara Brown, John W Cash, Reginald Cash, Hazel Clarkson, Bob Cooksey, Mary Elizabeth Conant, Carol Coughlan, Lucius Daniel, Doris Love Dorsey, Francina Dunning, Jeanne DuPree, Mary Frances Ewart, Jane Hardacre, Jeani Harris, Alice Haywood, Linda Herold, Dorothy Ann Holland, Mildred Frances Hull, Lois Elizabeth Lovett, Rosemary McCay, Bobbie Annie Meffert, Elizabeth Milton, Anna Moore, Cheryl Muster, Francis North, Christina Puckett, Janice Richey, Charma Rosenvaig, Jackie Story, Charlotte Scott, Mary Charles Skipper, Pat Small, Nancy Stevens, Theresa Sellers, Alice Sharp, Betty Sue Taylor, Ann Tucker, Betty Wilkinson, Nancy Wright, Joanne Zawadski.

BUSINESS STAFF
Business Manager — Vivian L. Scheffer
Advertising Manager — Nancy Steven
Circulation Manager — Margie Bern
Exchange Manager — Gladys Clar
Billing Assistant — Jean Lieberma

Entered as second class mail matter January 30, 1915, at the post office at Tallahassee, Fla. under the act of Congress of March 3, 1879.

Member
Intercollegiate Press

It is the policy of the Flambeau to grant equal space and prominence to anyone wishing to present a contrary opinion whenever opinions on controversial questions are voiced in its columns.

Sorority Chit Chat

The Georgia-Florida game and er activities in Jacksonville last ek-end cut short sorority par- s, but the pledges had infor- l suppers. This week-end will alumnae coffees and more in- rmal parties at the houses.

Visiting the Alpha Chi Omega use last week-end were: Helen water from Pensacola; Martha water, Gainesville; and Anne ustaine, Ft Pierce.

Tomorrow night there will be supper party at the Alpha Chi use for members, pledges and eir dates.

• • •

Alpha Delta Pi pledges gave eir party for other sorority edges on Thursday, November An informal "jeans" party, it atured the reading of Uncle n-Hellenic's will with appropri- e gifts given to his sorority ees. Robie Lee Milam read the ll and all the A D Pi pledges rticipated in the general pro- am. Refreshments of punch and nger snaps were served.

• • •

Last Sunday night members and ests of Alpha Gamma Delta had fish fry with a general "sing" ewards.

eanne Dudley, an Alpha Gam mber, will be married this ek-end in Orlando.

• • •

Members and pledges of Chi mega gave a coffee Wednesday ning for alumnae, members of College Executive Council and ends of chapter members.

Last Saturday the Chi O pledges ertained themselves with a pper party in the back yard.

• • •

Delta Zeta pledges gave a cof- Saturday night at the house

• • •

Miss Nina McAdams, dean of men st Miami high school and arter member of the local chap- of Kappa Alpha Theta, visited Thetas this week.

In Jacksonville last week-end Oetjen gave a party for Thet- Friday night, and on Saturday ey attended a party given by rbara King.

Sunday night, members who e here enjoyed a supper party

• • •

Mrs Maurice Davis was a guest the Kappa Delta house while attending the Florida State Music Teachers convention.

Miss Floreoce Tryon honored the K D pledges with an informal coffee at her home last night.

• • •

Members, pledges and guests of Phi Mu enjoyed an informal party Saturday night at the house. Laura Bentley was in charge of arrangements.

• • •

Last week the Pi Phis entertained Florida Alpha chapter of Phi Delta Theta with an informal party at the house Saturday afternoon. A skit with a night-club theme, "House of Blue Lights," was presented. Dinner and a dance were enjoyed Saturday night, and Sunday they had a barbecue at LaFayette park.

Newly elected Pi Phi pledge officers are: Martha Ann Maguire, president; Barbara Jean Morgan, vice-president; Neil Carter, secretary; Natalie Parramore, treasurer.

• • •

Sigma Kappa pledge officers recently elected are: Josephine Thorpe, president; Jackie Sauls, vice-president; Helen Spach, secretary; Bobbie van Buskirk, treasurer; Priscilla Pennington, social chairman; Marjorie King, scholarship chairman.

• • •

Lucy Stapleton and Artie Futrelle were recently initiated into Zeta Tau Alpha, and a banquet was held for them November 1 at the Cherokee hotel.

Kappa Delta Pi To Initiate New Pledges

Alpha Delta chapter of Kappa Delta Pi, education honorary, will hold its first general meeting of the academic year Monday evening at 8 o'clock in the clubroom of the oLngmire building. Members-elect, who were tapped two weeks ago, will be pledged and initiated. They are: Virginia Galemore, Ruth Jones, Beatrice Lewis, Julia Nesius, Mary Louise Perfect and Mabel Ruth Pope.

There will be an address by Dr J Broward Culpepper, director of Division of Education research and service, followed by a social hour.

Sigma Kappa Dance Will Be Tomorrow

Sigma Kappa members and pledges will hold their annual formal dance tomorrow night for their dates and friends, featuring the Dale Mabry band with Dallas Stever as soloist.

"Sentimental Memories" is the theme, which will be carried out by favorite songs depicted by silhouettes against pink walls with each song caption above the scene.

"Night and Day" will show night and day scenes in black cardboard. A silver boy and girl placed against a black background with stars and a moon in the sky will represent "Dancing in the Dark." For "I'll See You in My Dreams" there will be the silhouette of a young girl at a window. A boy and girl in an embrace depicts "Temptation." "My Reverie" will be portrayed by a boy and girl standing on either side of the fireplace in the formal parlor.

The front door of the house will be decorated with silhouetted heads of a boy and girl.

The punch table in the date room is to be decorated with a lace tablecloth, pink candles and pink roses. Punch will be served during the evening.

Following Sigma Kappa tradition there will be a picnic Sunday for members, pledges and dates at Lafayette park.

Edna Earl Baker is in charge of the dance committee and decorations. Charlotte Thorpe is in charge of dance bids which have been sent to members of Phi Gamma Delta, Pi Kappa Alpha, Sigma Chi, Sigma Alpha Epsilon and Phi Delta Theta.

Campus Is Haven Of Cats, Dogs and Other Animal Pets

Oh, where, oh where can my little dog be?

Probably on the campus of FSC!

Dogs have always roamed Tally's campus, but this year there are more than ever. Number one girl in the breakfast line always finds the pups there ahead of her At noon they make mad dashes around the files of students waiting for their lunch.

Pity the poor canine who gets confused in the mad clamor between classes at the post office! Sometimes he escapes this dreadled fate by walking pertly into classrooms, moseying up and down the aisles, and disappearing as suddenly as he came.

Not only are dogs attracted to the campus. Cats, often encouraged by some students, wander into the dining hall, and are chased frantically by girls in white coats.

Heading the honor roll of FSC's most celebrated pets of the past are Jimmy Joe, Earl of Squirrel, who was the best of the flying variety, and Mortimer, who met his sad end last year and now lies under a pecan tree near the Chi Omega house.

Whiskers wandered around campus until he argued with a truck, and Dammit, the little canine with the big tail, was a friend of all.

Honorary Initiates Six New Members

Six new members were initiated into Gamma Sigma Epsilon, national chemistry honorary, last Sunday afternoon.

Those initiated were Dr Robert S Leopold, honorary faculty member; Betty Sue Gray, Mary Maude Trowbridge, Marian Floyd, Betty Speer, John Sullenberger, and Iris Johnston.

Following the ceremony, the new initiates were honored with a banquet at the Cherokee hotel. At this time, two delegates, Josephine Dawkins and Marian Floyd, with Iris Johnston as alternate, were elected to attend the honorary's national meeting at the University of Mississippi.

To remove mildew from washable material without fading, soak garment in a strong solution of clorox and water. Be sure the solution has been stirred before placing the garment in the tub.

Or Forever Hold Your Peace

Continued from page four

in which they are located. This is understandable in view of the present overcrowded conditions of all colleges and universities. The fact remains, however, that Florida, since it is not one of the thirteen, is left out.

Fortunately, not all of the prospective veterinarians are content to wait the three or four years necessary to gain admission to a college outside this state. A movement has been started by a Tampa ex-GI to organize the pre-vet-med students of the state into a group to lobby for a veterinary school in Florida. In the event that this plan proves unfeasible, a counter measure has been proposed. It will be suggested to the legislature that suitable arrangements be made with Auburn or some other veterinary school to provide for the admission of a quota of Florida men.

There are a number of pre-vet students on this campus who because of their proximity to the Capital are in a key position to promote action. Early next week, we will call a meeting of interested persons on this campus for the purpose of appointing a committee to approach members of the cabinet and board of control in an effort to start the ball rolling before the next session of the legislature.

The support of the Flambeau and the Florida Alligator as well as that of every other newspaper in the state will be of vital importance to the success or failure of this movement, and on behalf of the citizens of Florida, I request your cooperation. Anyone else who would like to help outline a plan of action is urged to contact either the writer (phone 2577) or Francis Coune, 3008 Sitios st, Tampa, 6, Fla.

Respectfully yours,
BOB GREENBERG

Dear Shirley and Fellow Students,

In a past editorial in the Flambeau there was a hint as to the dire needs for a co-operative on this campus. With the higher cost of living still going up, and the small value of the dollar, we should and need to be careful how we spent our money.

College students are supposed to be the example of what our future citizens will be like—why can't we show Florida that her citizens-to-be will be as economical and progressive as the students from the University of Alabama, University of Illinois, Prince ton, the University of Michigan, University of Florida, University of Missouri, and other colleges who new have large, successful co-ops on their campuses. How about a book store co-op on our campus, fellow students?

Arlyne Siegel.

To the Editor:

Why should we be taken advantage of in the Sweet Shop, Book Store and other places around here when we could have lower prices? I'm infavor of a co-op, and the quicker the better!

Georgia Shearu.

To the Editor:

I' heartily in favor of a co-op for this campus and can't see any reason why we don't have one. It would be one way of saving money when the dollar has so little value. Every other prominent campus has one—why can't we?

George King Jr.

Dear Editor,

I am definitely in favor of having a co-op on our campus. When almost any item, except a cup of coffee, costs more at the Sweet Shop than it does down town, then it is time for our students to take action. Co-ops have proven very successful on other campuses—why not ours?

Rita Gandzier.

Dear Editor,

Are we in favor of the high prices in the book store and Sweet Shop? I think our school needs a co-op of students like most large colleges have. I understand Gainesville has one. Are we going to let them get ahead of us along the progressive economic lines?

Sara Culbitt.

I am really a fervent advocate of starting a genuine Co-op book store on our campus. I can see no reason why this Co-op store could not be founded since we all realize that at a state school students need the opportunity to purchase text books at a non-profit price. As it is, we have no opportunity. If any student would like to do so, I wish he would join me in "talking up" this idea of a campus Co-op.

Dixie Ruth Kennedy.

Editorial note: We called attention to this problem in our editorial column. These letters in the most part only echo our views. To you, the writers of these letters, and to you who agree with them, we can only quote the old French proverb: "We may give the advice, but we cannot inspire the conduct."

To whom it may concern:

At the risk of losing my head by sticking out my neck too far, I feel the need of expressing myself regarding the heated controversy concerning the Thanksgiving situation generally, and the demonstrations specifically.

I would like to say that none of the people to whom I have spoken have raised any objections to a continuation of Odd-Even sports. The argument seems not to be that anyone is apprehensive about a halt being made in sports activities but that in dispensing with the demonstrations a goodly portion of Odd-Even spirit will be lost.

Now the climax of Odd-Even rivalry has always been reached at Thanksgiving which is highlighted by such traditions as the games, color rush, the dinner, Odd-Even nights outs, as well as the demonstrations. Each of these is an important and integral part in its own right of the traditional Thanksgiving weekend. And, as yet, I have heard no comment involving the entire classes of Odds and Evens. Then why so much furor concerning the demonstrations, especially in view of the fact that a more constructive program has been advanced to take its place?

Originally the identity of the team members was a closely guarded secret and the sole purpose of the demonstrations was to reveal the players who made the teams. In recent years conditions have eliminated the possibility of concealing the teams' identity, and in consequence the aim of productions has altered. Since this marks my fourth year as a participant in demonstration script writing I feel I can speak with reasonable authority when I say that the team presentation has been a constant source of trouble to script writers. Fired with an idea, enthusiastic over the sudden flow of "snappy" dialogue, there is a pause when someone says, in the middle of the third act, "But y'all, how are we going to bring in the team?" The poor souls groan—in the throes of creation they'd forgotten the team existed. Now begins the travail of giving birth to an introduction.

Last year and this we attempted to build the dems up to a climax in which the teams could be brought in dramatically and logically—not thrown in as an afterthought. But it is not always easy. And it is a handicap in the production of a good show. Since the dems have long since become useless in regard to their original purpose, what is the need of them? "To foster Odd-Even spirit", I am answered. Then why not try to increase game attendance and interest, and since the teams are already known, shift the emphasis back to where it was originally—the games. Why not a concentrated effort on the part of those organizations whose purpose it is to foster Odd-Even spirit to build spectator enthusiasm back up to its old peak? Why throw the burden of maintaining Odd-Even spirit in the lap of demonstrations?

There are some who have longed for an opportunity to present itself in which it could be stated that the tone and caliber of these productions has been weighted down by the necessity of diluting a good script with low puns at the expense of the opposing class and with stale jokes that have been reworked and reworded for so many years that they are the despair of a script writer. Why continue two productions whose humor is frequently adolescent and sometimes vindictive when a combination of the two, minus any need for corn, could result in a show that was both entertaining and a reflection of more mature work?

It is my contention that if the funds for the three shows—Odd and Even demonstrations and Junior minstrels—could be combined, the result would be a worthwhile production in which a school could take pride The increase in funds would permit a more extravagant outline that could include many more students than have been included previously. And for those who have worked on the dems and not on the minstrels and vice-versa would come the added satisfaction of working with others from the entire school, not just two classes. Instead of those inadequately financed, mediocre shows, one production of superior merit should result, to be sure a finished, professional production cannot be expected the first year, but it is a goal toward which to work.

And to those who protest that a striving for a polished, professional finish would tend to discourage timid souls who feel they have no talent, let me say that I worked for two quarters this summer with Carolina Playmakers who not only strive but frequently achieve quite well-finished production. It was there that I found no special talent is needed to scrub paint off dirty flats or patch torn muslin. And frustrated Sarah Barnhardts can find a certain amount of satisfaction in manipulating a rachet screw driver.

I have worked on demonstrations each year since I first wandered into Jennie as a freshman and every year has been more enjoyable than the last. But the need for demonstrations is over and I don't believe in hanging on to a tradition, dear as this one is to me, when it impedes the progress of a new and better plan.

I've spoke my piece—my head is on the block—and here's the axe.

NELL CLARK

Esteren

Esteren will meet on Tuesday nights at seven o'clock instead of on Monday nights as heretofore, announced Catherine Sullivan, president, this week.

Book Week Is Theme Of Library Exhibit

The colorful display found on the third floor of the library this week centers around the theme "Books are Bridges" in celebration of National Book Week, November 11 through 15. The exhibit was prepared by students in the Division of Library Training and Service. Some of these students are on duty every afternoon from 3:30 to 5 p m to conduct visitors around.

The individual exhibits depict different ideas which books convey to the reader. As people, books walk into the past: they make alive the world of nature: they introduce friends in other lands: they become the magic carpet for flights of fancy; they open realms of new experience; they are a source of knowledge of the present paving roads into the future.

Also on display are the new books purchased this year.

Members of the Tallahassee Parent Teacher's Association have been invited to view the exhibit and all students are urged to attend.

Parkside Feted

Campuside and Hillside residents entertained Parkside girls at tea frm 5 to 6 o'clock Wednesday afternoon.

Entertainment for the large group present consisted of a song by Hazel Clarkson and a reading by Patricia Yates.

BSU Formal Banquet To Be November 23

The annual formal Baptist Student Union banquet will be held Saturday, November 23, in the East dining hall. Two hundred and twenty faculty members and students are expected to attend Dr and Mrs Doak S Campbell will be present. This banquet will be the most outstanding activity of the year for the Baptist Student house.

The guest speaker will be Dr Wallace Rogers, from the First Baptist church, Pensacola. Susan Illingsworth, BSU president will preside throughout the banquet.

The thema of the banquet will be nautical with place cards, napkins, favors, menus, programs and table decorations carrying out this theme. The co-social chairmen are Pep Stanaland and Sara Lou Wells.

The Baptist faculty and staff will meet at 6 o'clock in the parlor of the Longmire building and go from there to the dining hall.

The invited guests are: Dr and Mrs Doak S Campbell, Miss Olivia N Dorman, Miss Marion Wilson, Miss Alpharetta Leeper, Mrs Fran Luce, Mrs Katherine B Whitner, Miss Phyllis Greife, Dr Otis McBride, Mr and Mrs Truit Farmer, and Dr John Maguire, executive secretary of Florida Baptists.

Bach Selected for Mademoiselle Board

Audrey Bach has been chosen as a college board member for Mademoiselle. This membership will entitle her to compete for guest editorship on the college issue.

Audrey, a sophomore at Florida State College, wrote about the differences caused by men on campus. "I was so excited when I saw that pink letter from Mademoisele. It's the first time I've ever won anything except a pair of nylons," she said.

Every year Mademoiselle sponsors a contest to choose guest editors for their August issue. First, a trial report is submitted and girls are chosen by these reports. They then have to submit four assignments, from which the guest editors are chosen.

Kuersteiners' New Son

A son, Jonathan Daniel Boone, weighing ten pounds two ounces, was born to Dean and Mrs Karl O Kuersteiner on Friday, November 8. This was one of the largest babies to be born in Baptist Memorial hospital.

More becoming than a convertible . . . and you'll really go places! Doris Dodson means smooth streamlining for juniors . . . whether it's a date for an 8 AM class or an 8 PM clambake.

More males per gal . . . means Doris Dodson Junior Original!

Sizes seven to fifteen . . .

From 00 to 00 dollars.

Doris Dodson
JUNIOR ORIGINALS

ZIPPER COMPACTS
in Western Style

Washable plastic powder-tray . . . powder leak-proof . . . Individually boxed . . . Saddle tan leather

The Mexican Shop
"Between College and Town"
215 W. COLLEGE AVE.

It's Stewart's for All Shoe Repairs!

WE HAVE Rain Boots Shower Clogs
In All Sizes

STEWART'S SHOE REPAIR
At the Corner of Adams & E. Jefferson Sts.

Fluttering Hearts
that push penpoints like Diesel engines have inspired another box of WITS END note paper—

Love Notes No. 2

It's an Encore Box to the Love-pink one that's written its way 'round the world more than a million times.

Ask to see the 16 designs in this new box. . . . Some are Sane, some Flip, and all extremely Hearty and U!Rsy.

MARTIN & DALTON DEPT. DRUG STORE
210-212 S. ADAMS ST.

Incredible Captivator

Wreathe yourself in this wholly captivating fragrance. Dry perfume is the fadeless fragrance—the perfume that incredibly reaches its full flower as it clings to warm, glowing skin. Use this gossamer powder the same as liquid perfume. Pat its silky smoothness behind your ears, on arms, neck, shoulders. It will keep you delectable—beyond reckoning!

Six exciting scents . . . Night of Delight . . Fleurs d'Amour . . Blue Carnation . . Jade . . Sandalwood and Violette, priced at $1.25.

ROGER & GALLET

Since she donned...
...a Judy Bond

JUDY BOND BLOUSES ARE SOLD AT BETTER STORES EVERYWHERE

Free booklet: "WARDROBE TRICKS". Write Judy Bond, Inc., Dept. B, 1375 B'way, N. Y. 18

HEADLINES MAKE NEWS

If you're partial to soft, young curls try our shoulder length permanent. For a gay novelty note, scoop it up in the back with a clever barette.

Three Torches Beauty Salon

Vita-Fluff Shampoo
. . . is here again!

Located Across From Education Bldg.
PHONE 858

Dale Mabry Honors Junior-Senior Girls

Officers' Club Decorated, Bob Smith Provides Music

The formal dance sponsored by the Tallahassee branch of the University of Florida in honor of Florida State College junior and senior girls was held last Saturday night at the Dale Mabry Officers' Club. Robert Smith's college orchestra furnished music for dancing. The room was decorated with green and white crepe paper streamers radiating from the center of the ceiling.

Jesse Wilson, student body social chairman, was in charge of the dance. During the evening he introduced Miss Hilda Tinney, director of the FSC student union.

Sandwiches, grape punch, and cookies were served at the refreshment bar. Assisting with the serving were Mary Philpot, Betty Jo Bozeman, Jessie Forbes, Betty Jean Walker, Virginia Bardee, Roz England, Bobbye Bell, Thyrza Wilcox, Eloise Zeiglar, Marie Dozier and Tiny Clavel.

Present at the dance were Dr and Mrs Doak S Campbell, Dr Otis McBride, Dr and Mrs M W Carothers and Miss Sarah Cloud.

IN THIS OUR TIME

MARGIE CLARK

NATIONAL AFFAIRS:

Approximately 115.000 Civilian Federal government workers are slated for dismissal by New Year's Day, James E Webb, Budget Director, ordered 93.400 Army and Navy civilian employees cut off the rolls by January 1, making a 1.000.000 reduction in that field since V-J day.

Coal Parley

Secretary of Interior Krug met with the coal operators and John L Lewis in regard to formulating a plan whereby the threatened coal strike November 20 could be avoided and the government could retire from the coal business. The members of the conference were tight-lipped as to the progress they had made, but Krug told newsmen that he would probably meet with Lewis again very soon.

Will Rents Go Up?

The suggestion of a 15 percent rent increase was made by OPA's Rent Industry Advisory committee, which presents landlords' views to the price agency, to the OPA yesterday. Though the OPA had previously pledged to stand pat on rents, they announced that they would take the recommendations "under advisement."

FOREIGN AFFAIRS:

Russian Foreign Minister Molotov began his fight yesterday to alter the statute for a Trieste international zone, submitting 14 separate amendments to the present draft. Molotov's amendments included an attempt to strip the governor of Trieste of the broad powers proposed for him, and to get British and American troops out of that area as soon as possible. Thirteen amendments were submitted and the text of the 14th, which outlines Russian views on a proposed free port regime for Trieste, will be given today.

Africa

The Union of South Africa declared defiantly that if the United Nations Assembly turns down, which is almost probable, the Union's proposal for annexation of the former German colony, it would retain the Southwest Africa mandate.

Foreign Policy

The continuation of the United States' foreign economic program was urged yesterday by President Truman, the State Department, and spokesman for American business, as the best safeguard against war. Undersecretary of State William L Clayton told the National Foreign Trade Council's convention that abandonment of this program now would be "unthinkable", and that we would be taking "a step backward with serious consequences for the peace of the world." The United States has already invested $20.000.000,000 in this program.

Infirmary Shows Class Favoritism

It seems only natural to see the ever-faithful Odds garbed in dresses, or skirts and sweaters of the typical red, white, and purple, and Odd caps.

"But Odd loyalty can be carried a little too far," wailed a certain sophomore lass the other night who, upon returning from the dactor's office, found that her vitamin pills were red, white, and purple.

That, gals and guys, is patriotism!

Association Grants Free Scholarships

Competition Begins Now, Will End in January of 1950

The International Association for Correspondence and Change has granted 1.000 free scholarships to American students with the competition starting in November, 1946, and lasting until January, 1950, according to Dr Elizabeth G Andrews, director of personnel and placement bureau.

The "Competition for Student's Triennium" contains the exchange of study and vacations among the students of all nations; scholarships for study abroad; scholarships for educational trips to foreign countries; free mutual visits in different countries; and free summer and winter (mountain and sea) international rest and recovery centers for students who are delicate of health and financially unable to finance their own trips.

All students wanting to compete for these study-grants are urged to send their applications with postage immediately to INACC, Rome, Casella Postals 321, for the detailed program of the Student's Triennium and for the joining application and the questionnaire.

The term of the applications for the year 1946-47 had to be in by November, 1946; for the year 1947-48 by January, 1947. Students failing to apply by the above dates, can apply only for the year 1948-49.

Further application may be secured from Dean Elizabeth G Andrews in the personnel office.

Music Recital Held

A student recital given yesterday by the school of music consisted of two voice and two piano presentations. Jacqueline Cox sang "Ah! Mio Cor" by Handel, accompanied by Pat Wallace.

The second number on the program was Alice Wheeler singing Grieg's "Ein Traum", accompanied by Peter Jensen.

Rose Marie Numarn played Debussy's "La Plys que Lentte", and Eleanor Bragg played "Jeaux D'eau" by Ravel.

Robert Hall Collins, baritone, will present a concert Monday night at 8:15 in the Leon High School auditorium. Mr Collins is appearing under the auspices of the Tallahassee Civic Music Association.

The Kitchen Sink . . . .

(To be conducted according to Roberts' Rules of Parliamentary Order. M L Norwood, chairman, B J McLeod, in absentia per usual).

SHOCKING . . . .
SIMPLY SHOCKING

It has been brought to our attention recently that in various labs on this campus, several capricious cadavers, otherwise known as skeletons, are representing the epitome of strip-tease. We are deeply moved and think that the other 3038 students of this institution should take up a collection to secure suitable shrouds so that our innate modesty will not be offended.

• • •

Speaking of skeletons, "Dead Ernestine," the bony remains recently sent to Frannie Myers by an anonymous friend (?), had a busy weekend. The accustomed activity of falling out of so many closets on so many unsuspecting souls in the depths of night has left poor "Earny" all unstrung. Anyone finding the other hand please return it to the owner who looks quite stupid without it.

• • •

It has come to our attention that it might be desirable to comment on the unsightlyness of students sprawled out on the campus in prone positions. However, we feel that this is but temporary, and as soon as the weather turns a little bit cooler the situation will take care of itself.

• • •

INSULTING . . . .
SIMPLY INSULTING

This has been an historic week on campus. Freshmen have been allowed to cut except on Saturday afternoon, Thanksgiving has been made a holiday, and The Kitchen Sink received a can of Drano from an unknown admirer. In fact our rosy column has received much comment both pro and con. If you are surprised to see that we are still well preserved we will tell you the secret. Each morning with our coffee we drink a glass of formaldehyde.

• • •

The "Andy Gump" Norwood half of this team was extremely hurt when the annual photographer asked her to please raise her chin.

• • •

A student went over to the infirmary last week and asked to be put on a diet. The nurse asked what kind of a diet she thought she needed and the bright child coyly replied, "A balanced diet."

• • •

This week-end the Flambeau will move, or rather be promoted, to the second floor of the alum. It has been suggested that it raise itself to meet its new position.

• • •

It has also been suggested that the Sweet Shop move to a two story building and tear out the middle floor to accommodate their high ceilings.

Letter Contest Is Open to Veterans

A letter contest on the subject, "Problems of the College Veteran," is being sponsored by Salute, produced by the former editors of Yonk and Stors ond Stripes. The contest offers college veterans cash prizes for their views and suggestions concerning the current educational set-up.

The letters are limited to 250 words and should be mailed to the Contest Editor, Salute, 19 Park Place, New York, 7, N Y, postmarked not later than midnight, January 10, 1947.

Cash prizes amounting to $750 are being offered to the writers of the ten most outstanding letters. First prize will be $250; second prize $100; and eight other prizes will be $50 each. Additional details will be found in the latest issue of Salute.

Investigations have shown that freezing and cold storage of foods destroy bacteria but do not sterilize.

FSC Freshman Wins Acclaim As Theater Guild Actress

Have you heard about the outstanding young actress who is attending Florida State College?

She is Miss Jacqueline Allen from Fort Myers, Florida, and a freshman at FSC this year. She was awarded first prize at the National Theater Guild Magazine contest in Chicago this summer for being the best actress.

Jackie has always been interested in dramatics but never had the chance to use her talent until last year. The Ft Myers little theater was organized a little over a year ago, and Jackie entered into the group and was chosen to play the part of Emily, the feminine lead in "Hello Out There" by William Saroyan, a one-act play.

In Chicago, Jackie competed against actresses in other theater guilds from New York and Chicago. She won first prize for her diction, speech and characterization, which were the basic requirements.

At FSC Jackie is majoring in speech and hopes that in the future she will be able to play with some other theater guilds. At present, she is awaiting the good word from Metro-Goldwyn-Mayer and Warner Brothers talent scouts who are helping her to play with the New England theater group next summer.

Effective Study Aid Recommended

Do you know how to study? Examinations are coming soon. Are you prepared? If you are not prepared, Studying Effectively by C Gilbert Wrenn and Robert P Larsen, which can be bought at the bookstore, is recommended by the Personnel Office.

"Not only freshmen but also upperclassmen are finding this book helpful," according to Mrs Margaret Blair, assistant director of personnel.

Studying Effectively contains suggestions on how to improve your reading ability, your memory and your ability to concentrate; how to take notes; and how to prepare for and take examinations.

Pre-Med Club Elect Whitaker President

Bopie Whitaker was elected president of the Pre-Medical Club at a bi-monthly meeting held Wednesday evening. Also elected at this time were Betty Hill, vice-president; Marian Turrentian, secretary and Paul Thomas, treasurer.

A planned address by Dr P J Coughlin, local physician, was postponed due to unforseen circumstances. Dr Coughlin is now scheduled to address the club at its next regular meeting, to be held December 4.

Committee heads also selected at this time include: Ann Teague and Jerry Thomas, publicity cochairmen; Marian Ferraro, social chairman; Betty Hill, program chairman.

White Way Laundry
Sanitary Dry Cleaning
119 N. MONROE ST. PLANT
Dale Mabry Branch Office
Dry Cleaning and Dye Work By an Expert
Bldg. 442 Hours: 1:00-5:00

A dashing shoe . . . reflecting the gaiety and color of California's famous Barbary Coast. Its soft leather hugs your foot for that trim look. Sizes 2½ to 10, in slim, narrow or medium.
$7.95
Turner's

CLOSING OUT
Tallahassee's Greatest Shoe
SALE
Every Pair in our vast stock must go regardless of its former price - - - Oxfords, Pumps, Sandals, Loafers, Bedroom slippers, Moccasins and many other styles
1/3 off
THE SURPRISE STORE
201-205 E. JEFFERSON

Copyright 1946, Liggett & Myers Tobacco Co.

Nominate Queen

z 106

The Florida Flambeau

Published by the Students of Florida State College

OL. XXXIII, No. 7 | Tallahassee, Florida | NOVEMBER 22, 1946

For Fall Frolic Dream

ale Mabry ssemblies re Curtailed

Meetings May Be Called By Student Government For Special Occasions

Transferees to U of F Must Drop Out This Quarter

nnouncement that beginning t quarter assemblies will be only once a month was made the weekly meeting of the s assembly held Tuesday eve- This measure was taken as sult of a vote by the men stu- ts Tuesday and also provides attendance at these meet- will become optional at the nning of the second quarter.

udent officers will, however, the right to call special as- blies at any time they deem ssary For the remainder of quarter assembly will continue e weekly and compulsory.

Transfer

R S Johnson, registrar of the ersity of Florida, announced all men desiring to transfer ne University next semester have to drop out this quar- He said that these men should e application before Decem- "I don't recommend this," ed Mr Johnson, "because those g so will lose some hours of t in the transfer." He stated application blanks may be ned in Dr Coyle E Moore's ce r Johnson also announced Mr B W Ames, special as- ant registrar for veterans, will at Florida State College next day, Tuesday and Wednes- for the purpose of evaluating credits received by veterans ervice schools. "An announce- t will be made later as to re students can contact Mr es on these days," said Mr nson. He also informed the that when they see Mr Ames must have their certificates ischarge and a certificate from school they attended.

Cafeteria

Dr Otis McBride, dean of men, nounced that the cafeteria will closed from the Wednesday ore Thanksgiving until the nday following the holidays. He ded, however, that during this e period buses will run on an ry schedule

Banquet

Louise Illingworth extended an tation to all members of the ptist church to be present at faculty and student Sunday hool banquet Saturday night. e said that tickets may be ob- ned from Buford Simms at racks 700

eams Introduced uring Convocation

Presentation of newly-chosen mbers of the Odd and Even key, soccer, archery, and mod- dance teams and the tradi- al drawing for dates of Odd d Even, "Nighis Out" were held convocation Wednesday night. e Swing Band, directed by Bob th, was a special feature play- at the beginning and close he assembly.

Introductions of the teams were de by the team captains: Odd key leader, Nita Nord: Even key, Marion Floyd: Odd soc- Virginia Palmer: Even soccer. ame Gailgan; Odd archery. therine Johnson; Even arch- Peggy Stanaland; Odd mod- dance, Sis Myers: and Even dern dance, Ann Shull. Even d Odd cheerleaders drew for dates of Odd and Even Nights the Evens securing Friday ht and the Odds, Thursday.

Announcement of wool avail- e for Red Cross knitting was de by Barbara Wickham, airman of the campus Red Cross . Nancy MacEdwards an- nced that Senior Hall members presenting the Play Night skit Saturday night at 9 o'clock

eruvian Museum eceives Artifacts

Dr Raymond Bellamy, who re- ly returned to the campus er visiting in St Petersburg and ami, has brought with him some w artifacts for the Peruvian seum.

These relics, carved stone im- s and clay pots of various sizes shapes, were presented to Dr lamy by Mr and Mrs John tor Carter from the Panama nal Zone, who are the donors the Peruvian Museum.

While Dr Bellamy was in St ersburg he addressed a group Florida State College alumnae on the subject "The Educa- nal Situation in Florida" at a nquet held Saturday night in Pennsylvania hotel.

Required Tests

By decision of Executive Council the grades of all new students who have not taken the Psychological tests will be withheld until this requirement is filled. These tests include the American Council on Education Psychology examination, the Iowa silent reading test and the Minnesota personality scale

Those who have not taken the tests will have an opportunity to do so the first week in December. The psychological test will be given Tuesday, December 3, at 4:30 p m in 303 Westcott: the reading test (which transfer students are not required to take) Wednesday, December 4, at 4:30 p m in 303 Westcott; the personality test on Thursday, December 5, at 4:30 p m in 303 Westcott.

Girls to Knit For Red Cross

Students May Obtain Yarn Early Next Week

The Florida State College chapter of the American Red Cross will distribute wool yarn and the instructions for knitting sweaters for the children overseas next Monday and Tuesday, according to Barbara Wickham, president of the organization. This yarn will be checked out to the students from 4:30 to 6 p m on both days, in room 401 of the Longmire building.

All students who know how to knit are urged by the Red Cross to do their part for world relief by contributing their time and labor to this cause. When finished, the sweaters will be distributed by the Red Cross to the children of war-torn Europe and the Eastern hemisphere. Since Monday and Tuesday will be the only days for the distribution of the wool until after Christmas, those who are interested are requested to get their quota now so that they may work on them during the holidays.

The list of members of the Red Cross Disaster Relief group has been lost, and all members who signed up to be on this committee or those interested in becoming members are requested to notify Dottie Hahn, Box 1009, campus mail.

Cast Announced for Shaw's Pygmalion

"Pygmalion," by George Bernard Shaw, is the next production to be presented by the speech department under the direction of Miss Yvonne Cody, instructor in speech. The cast has just been announced and the date for performances of the play set for January 16, 17 and 18.

Mary Anne Cannon will be assistant director and Eugenia Avant is in charge of publicity. The cast, which includes four men and seven women is as follows: Joy Fleming as Liza; Herbert Sessions as Higgins; Gloria Wells as Mrs Pierce; Katherine Moore as Mrs Eynsford-Hill;

Claire St John as Miss Eynsford-Hill: Evelyn Johnson as Mrs Higgins: Custis Proctor as Colonel Pickering; J P Folds as Doolittle; Mallory Horne as Freddie; Mary Anne Cannon as a bystander, and Pat Yates as another bystander.

State Auditor Gives Lecture On Government

Bryan Willis Addressed Students Wednesday

Institute of Government is Subject of Speech

Bryan Willis, state auditor, in an address sponsored by the political science department, spoke on the "Institute of Government" Wednesday afternoon in the Longmire auditorium. "The purpose of the Institute of Government is to bridge the gap between government as it is taught in schools and colleges and as it is practiced, Mr Willis stated. "It also coordinates the overlapping units of city, county, state, and federal governments and bridges the gap between outgoing and incoming officials and between the people and the government," he continued.

The Institute is non-partisan and non-political. It will not lobby for any bill, whether good or bad, according to the speaker. The basic idea of the Institute of Government is to create a central laboratory where administrative techniques can be collected and studied before they are presented to citizens and state officials, according to the speaker.

The men who study these techniques are an advisory committee, made up of administrative representatives from the state, county, district and municipal localities, an attorney and specialists in finance and public administration. "This committee is under the supervision of five state board members, who serve without pay, but who are reimbursed for their expenses while traveling."

The idea for an Institute of Government was, Willis explained, really born 18 years ago when

Continued on page two

Vance Addresses Dem School PTA

Current Teacher Problems Was Topic Discussed Friday

"The emphasis placed on everything except good teaching has sometimes made it look as if teachers might be abolished entirely from the educational system," said Mr Earl L Vance, professor of journalism, in a speech before the PTA meeting at the Demonstration School last night.

Speaking on the subject "Should Teachers Be Abolished?" he said everybody agrees education in the United States is in "none too healthy a state" but few seem to see that the only real cure is more good teachers.

"We have paid little attention—and of course less money—to teachers, then tried to atone for the sorry results by employing additional supervisors and functionaries," Professor Vance said. "We have gone to seed on this matter of educational functionaries, who get the only living wages in the teaching profession — and don't teach. If you have good teachers you don't need an army of supervisors—and if you don't have good teachers all the supervisors in the world can't make poor teachers do good teaching. Good teachers are much harder to find than good office keepers but at present the only way a teacher can get the top salary is to stop teaching and keep an office."

Sarita of Havana Teaches Latin Dances And Learns "The American Way" at FSC

By Miriam Portnoy

"Take back your rhumba, aye, your rhumba, aye, your conga, aye, aye, aye," sang Latin-American born Sarita Gold who is attending Florida State College as a freshman. "But don't get me wrong," said gay young Sarita. "For the large number of students who come to me to learn the rhumba, it seems that you are not really ready to give back these dances to South America."

"So many of my fellow students both boys and girls alike, have asked me to teach them the rhumba the way we do it!" said blond-haired, blue-eyed Sarita. "American boys just can't compare to Latin dancers. They don't seem to have that smooth technique. For dancing, I mean!" she laughingly exclaimed.

Sarita, who hails from Havana, Cuba, intends to work in the diplomatic field upon graduation from FSC. She said, "I am truly glad to have this opportunity to study in the United States, but my worst difficulty now is trying to catch on to the big words of my professors."

This new resident of FSC is very interested in learning as many languages as possible during her college career. However, aside from her Portuguese class, Sarita is quite enthusiastic over her other courses. "I think the Spanish department at this college is very grand, especially the technique now employed in teaching the language," she replied when questioned about a good way to learn Spanish. "I've enjoyed talking to many Spanish majors and I think they are doing excellently," she concluded.

While speaking about the difference in customs in the two countries, the smiling Cuban seemed quite perturbed over a difference in the weiners! She explained by stating, "I can't get used to calling them 'hot dogs' instead of 'dog hots'!" She definitely has noted the lack of chaperones when girls in the states go out with young men.

"One thing more," she exclaimed, "In Cuba the boys treat you more like a queen, but here you're just a date!"

Next Year 270 FSC Students Will Live In Newly Built Air-Conditioned Dormitory

By Catharine Nollman

The 1946 dormitory. That is what it is called on the contractor's plans. To the students on the Florida State College campus it is "that huge frame structure which is being erected at the back of Jennie Murphree hill."

A feature of the new dorm which is outstandingly different from anything else on the campus will be the heating and cooling system. In cold weather hot air will be blown into each room through a small grill on the side of the wall and will leave the room through another small grill on the floor across the room. In hot weather cold air will be blown in, thus making this dorm the first on campus to have air conditioning.

Students who live on the north end of the campus will remember when the construction was started in the spring of 1946. The huge machines which were used to level the ground woke many students early in the morning. The permit to begin construction was issued on May 8, 1946. The contractor's plans call for the completion of the dormitory on September 1, 1947.

Collegiate-Gothic is the way Mr Herbert D Mendenhall, resident engineer on the FSC campus, titles the architecture of the new dormitory. This style was originated at Oxford in England and has been followed by many universities in the U S. The plans for the building were drawn by the architectural division of the University of Florida.

The dormitory is being constructed in the form of a square with a completely enclosed outdoor court in the center. It will be divided into two entirely separate sections, on the west side by a fire wall through which there will be no passage and on the east side by folding doors which will ordinarily be closed, but which can on occasion be thrown open.

The parlors for the two sections will be on either side of these doors so that when the doors are opened there will result a parlor which will run the whole length of the east side of the building. Each section will be administered separately except for the house director. The front of the first section will face toward the dining room, while the front of the second section will face toward the street generally known as Commons road.

The estimated capacity is 270 students, which means approximately 135 students to each section. There are to be five floors including the basement. The basement will not be divided into sections. In it the plans call for recreation halls, kitchens, a laundry receiving room, trunk storage spaces, steam and electric vaults, express room, the house director office, servants rooms and a servants' lunch room.

On the first floor will be the parlors, the administrative offices and the counselors' suites. The counselor's suite in the second section will be in the small projection which is being built onto the north side of the building. On the second, third and fourth floors rooms will be constructed similar to those in Landis. Contrary to the rumor, which is prevailing in some corners of the campus, there will be no suites. The group showers and rest rooms will be on the east and west sides and will face inward toward the court. In each section there will be one elevator

Continued on page two

FSC Will Nominate Royal Candidate

Election Will Be Held Tuesday in Lower Westcott

Nominations for a Florida State College "queen" to represent this campus in the statewide beauty contest which is being conducted by the University of Florida yearbook, the Seminole, may be made by sending the name of the nominee and an attached picture to the Flambeau through campus mail by five o'clock Monday afternoon.

The selection of the Seminole Beauty Queen of 1947 will be part of the annual Fall Frolics program at the University. The representative of FSC will automatically be entered in the final judging which will take place at Les Brown's band concert on Friday, December 6, where she will be in competition with the other finalists — winners in similar contests in other Florida colleges, plus the contestants who won through photographs submitted to Ronald Reagan and Jane Wyman.

General election of the "beauty queen" will be held Tuesday in lower Westcott in order that the FSC representative may be entered in the contest in time.

According to a letter from the Seminole, if the contestant is unable to appear in person but submits a suitable portrait, she will be eligible to have her picture in the beauty section of the annual although she can not be chosen as the Beauty Queen.

The "Queen" will reign over all dances and fraternity functions in addition to being featured in the yearbook. The Les Brown concert at which the queen will be crowned will be broadcast locally by Mutual.

"Everyone is urged to send in nomiantions for those whom they deem sufficiently beautiful to best represent our college," says Shirley Rodgers, editor of the Flambeau which is conducting the Tallahassee contest.

Six Attend Meet

Several faculty members from the modern language and English departments will attend the annual meeting of the South Atlantic Modern Language Association, to be held in Birmingham during the Thanksgiving holidays.

Those in the English department who plan to go are Dr Laura Jepsen and Dr Carmen Rogers: from the modern language department, Dr D L Canfield, Dr Margaret Campbell, Dr Dorothy Hoffman and Miss Myrtle Dolbee.

Co-op Book Store

Any student interested in working on the committee investigating the possibility of a student co-operative bookstore on this campus is asked to get in touch with Arlene Siegel, Box 764, campus mail.

"We want those who are willing to work," said Arlene. Persons having any information or experience regarding co-ops are also asked to see Arlene.

Richard Baker To Give Talk

"Orient in Transition" Is Topic of Address

Dr Richard T Baker, journalist and educator, who recently returned from a six-months visit to Japan, China and the Philippines, will speak to Florida State College students at 12:30 p m Monday, December 2, in the Augusta Conradi Theater. His topic will be "The Orient in Transition."

In the summer of 1945, Dr Baker returned from two years spent as a teacher and acting dean of the Post Graduate School of Journalism in Chungking, China, an institution sponsored jointly by Columbia University and the Chinese government. He was loaned by the Methodist Board of Missions and Church Extension for this wartime work. After a few weeks in America last summer he was sent back to the Orient on a journalistic assignment.

At present the speaker is on a tour of Florida for the Methodist Board. He will be sponsored on this campus by the Young Women's Christian Association and Wesley Foundation; the Methodist group.

He is the author of two books on youth and the world community, has served as a war correspondent in the China theater, has been employed by several religious journals such as, The Christian Century, The Christian Herald, The Epworth Herald, and is at present the assistant editor of World Outlook.

Dr Baker has traveled twice around the world. In 1937 and 1938 he visited 32 foreign countries on the terms of a Pulitzer fellowship awarded by Columbia University. He holds a master's degree from the Columbia University Graduate School of Journalism, and an honorary doctorate from Cornell University where he did his undergraduate work. He has also studied at Union Theological Seminary.

He was one of the first correspondents to go back into Japan after the war. Recent articles have dealt with conditions of schools and villages in Hiroshima and Nagasaki, and he has been especially interested in the attitude of Japanese youth concerning the future of Japan.

Marion Hay Speaks To IRC Today

Dr Marion Hay, associate professor of education, will speak at the International Relations Club meeting this afternoon at 4:45 in the Longmire auditorium.

Spanish politics during the last war and the following post-war period will be the primary theme of Dr Hay's speech. The United States and Britain's foreign policies toward Spain will be included in the "Spanish problem" speech. The United Nation's question on whether to break diplomatic relations with Spain because of Franco's remaining in power will also be considered by Dr Hay.

Announcement of the newly elected officers will be made at the meeting.

The new books in the IRC library are Perpetual Peace by Immanuel Kant; Peoples Speaking to Peoples by L White and Robert Leigh; The United Nations Economic and Social Council by Herman Finer: and The Soviet Union Today, political handbook of the world 1946, edited by Walter H Mallory.

Parker to Lecture

Miss Daisy Parker, instructor in political science, will give a lecture Tuesday afternoon, November 26, at 4:30 in the Longmire auditorium. The topic of Miss Parker's lecture will be "The Analysis of the Congressional Elections of 1946."

Bookstore Opens At Dale Mabry

Stocks to Include Grocery Line and School Supplies

The new bookstore which opened Tuesday at Dale Mabry is still in the experimental stage but requests for new stock will be filled as soon as possible.

Mr Wheeler, manager of the bookstore at Florida State College will be manager of the Dale Mabry branch also with Mrs Ann Hobbs serving as his assistant there with Mrs Ruth Pace as clerk.

A grocery line may be put in to fill the needs of the married veterans and a questionaire has been sent out to the families for a suggested list of needed products for daily purchase.

The business office will determine the price range and all purchasing will be done through the college bookstore since the new store does not as yet have facilities for purchasing.

A candy counter has been installed to date, and school supplies, stationery, milk and bread are being sold.

If the grocery line is carried there will probably be no meat or fresh vegetables but canned goods, sandwich spreads and similar articles will be sold.

Band Plans Varied Activity in State

Mr Owen F Sellers and Mr Robert G Smith, have announced that the marching band is planning various activities throughout the state, including both marching and playing demonstrations.

There will be both moving and still pictures taken at the game tomorrow to publicize the fact that we have the only all-girl marching band in the state of Florida.

Mr Smith added that a maroon skirt, size 18, would still be greatly appreciated.

A cut committee to regulate attendance has been set up for the bands, both marching and concert. "The purpose of the committee will be to determine whether absences are excusable," announced Chris Morrison, chairman.

Myra Jean Bates is in charge of another new committee whose purpose is to revise the constitution.

Meal Schedule

According to Florida State College dietitians, the dining hall will remain open through the Thanksgiving holidays. Students are welcome to bring guests to the dining hall but are requested to purchase their guest tickets in advance. Tickets for Thanksgiving dinner are $1.00.

Hours during which the dining hall will be open are:

November 28—
  Breakfast—8:18 a m-8 a m
  Thanksgiving dinner—12:30 p m-2 p m
  Buffet supper, east dining hall—6 p m-7 p m
November 29 and 30—
  Breakfast—8:15 a m-9 a m
  Lunch—12:30 p m-1:30 p m
  Dinner—5:30 p m-6:45 p m

Five to Form Committee

New Group Will Discuss Constitution Principles

A committee of five to formulate basic principles upon which the constitution is to be reorganized was appointed at the Constitutional Committee meeting Tuesday, November 19 in the Longmire auditorium. These basic principles are to be discussed and changed, if necessary, at the next regularly scheduled meeting which will be held Monday, November 25 at 6:45 p m in 402 Longmire building.

Betty Schwartz, Nita Nord, Laura Lee Butler, Grace Hayes and Marion Looby constitute this committee.

The purpose of the newly organized committee is to form basic principles on which the entire constitution may be based. It was thought that this was necessary so that as each section of the constitution was completed it would not be found that the underlying principles conflicted.

Two changes to the Amendment article were proposed. It is hoped that this amendment article, which changes the way the constitution can be amended, together with the article on nominations, elections and appointments can be presented to Senate before the end of the fall quarter.

Campus Celebrates Campbell Birthday

Dinner Given for President; Senior Class Presents Cake

The students at Florida State College joined in the celebration of President Doak S Campbell's birthday Monday, November 18, at which time Beth Fuhrer, junior class president, presented him with three volumes of Lee's Lieutenants from the freshmen, sophomores and juniors. Jean Cole, senior class president, presented him with a birthday cake at the reception held at Dr Campbell's home.

To begin the celebration a dinner was given for Dr Campbell in the east dining hall at 6:15 p m, attended by members of Judiciary, the Executive Council, class officers and faculty guests.

After the dinner students gathered in Bryan-Reynolds arcade and sang to the president. At this time Beth Fuhrer, head of the junior class, presented the gift to Dr Campbell.

Immediately after the sing, members of the senior class, dressed in caps and gowns, accompanied Dr Campbell to his home. The seniors helped Dr Campbell eat the birthday cake and Mrs Campbell served punch and hot chocolate.

After Thanksgiving the seniors will begin plans for the traditional Christmas party and caroling.

Pre-War Prices Plus Pre-War Quality Is Maintained by College-Owned Soda Shop

Price hikes have been taboo in our college owned and operated Soda Shop," said Mrs Mary Parker, manager for the past two years. "Despite the inflationary trend of today, ham is the only item on which we've raised the price. Here, students can still buy a variety of tasty clean sandwiches, milk, and goodsized servings of ice-cream of the old pre-war quality and at the old pre-war prices!" said she.

The College Soda Shop is operated on as near a non-profit basis as is possible and still avoid complaints of competing merchants. Although cosmetics have been sold in the past, this has not been the practice during the past four years. The shop is operated simply for the convenience of the students and faculty. It's gold-fish, juke-box, smile-filled atmosphere comes as a welcome relief after class-room formality.

Any week-night, long lines of none too patient students, are greeted by red-headed Jack's 'Hello ugly! What you want?" as he mixes one of those extra special good rich double milk shakes.

With the increase of the college population, it is impossible to serve everyone satisfactorily and promptly in such limited space. Mrs Parker pointed out the possibility of expanding the Soda Shop by extending it to include all of the North East Section on the ground floor of the Longmire building.

State Cabinet Votes Money For Expansion

300 New Men Students Are Expected at DM For Second Quarter

Purchase of Residence Is Approved at Meeting

Expansion of facilities at Dale Mabry to accommodate 1,000 men students was approved by the Florida state cabinet in a meeting last Tuesday. The sum of $150,000 was voted for the work, the remainder of the $300,000 requested by the state board of control last August.

President John J Tigert of the University of Florida has indicated that applications for admission there may reach 8 000 by the second quarter, or 1,000 in excess of facilities. However, according to Dr Milton F Carothers, director of the Tallahassee branch, not more than 300 new men students are expected here second quarter. Approximately 100 of these are men now at the U of F who have expressed a preference for the branch here.

The cafeteria in operation at Dale Mabry is equipped to provide meals for additional students. Miss Edith Manford, head dietitian at the base, gives the information that the dining hall wing of the cafeteria which is not in use now will be opened next quarter.

The cabinet in its Tuesday meeting also approved purchase of the residence at 121 North Copeland street for the Florida State College to be used as a home for faculty members. The house, bought for $9,500 will be operated on a "prevailing rental" basis to avoid any possibility of objectional commercial utilization.

The residence is located directly across the street from the Home Management house run by the home economics department. Faculty members have been living in the home since September but the official purchase had not been official purchase was not closed until the cabinet meeting Tuesday.

Dale Mabry heights, housing project built by the government during the war to house families of enlisted men stationed at the Army air base has been recently acquired by FSC but will not be taken over until the housing shortage in Tallahassee is eased and all veterans now living in the houses can find other residences.

Single Men to Have Barrack Monitors

Each of the single-men's barracks at Dale Mabry will have a student monitor by the first of next week, Mr James Carr, director of residence at the Tallahassee branch, announced this week. The two largest barracks, 700 and 701, will have monitors for both upper and lower floors.

These officers will serve as representatives in the barracks for liaison work between the students and the dean of men.

This system, which will allow one monitor for every 30 or 35 men, has been used successfully at Gainesville. The small barracks at Dale Mabry field necessitate the use of monitors because individual dormitory matrons, as are in use in other places, would be impractical.

When the system is completely organized, a council of monitors will be formed for the purpose of airing suggestions and ideas for improving conditions at Dale Mabry.

Student Organists To Meet Today

The organ students will meet in the tower organ room today at 4:30 p m for a short recital and discussion on organization of a College American Guild of Organists' chapter. All organ students of the Florida State College organ department are eligible for membership.

The program will include "Prelude and Fugue in A minor" by Bach and "Deep River" by Gillette, played by Peter Jursen; "Prelude and Fugue in D Major" by Bach, played by Neil Duncan and "Fanfare Fugue" by Bach, played by Sue Petit. Sally Slater will play "A Lovely Rose Is Blooming" by Brahms and "The Maid With Flaxen Hair" by Debussy. Esther Brinkman will play "Butterfly" by Grieg; Marjorie Holderman, "Pastorale" by Bach and Edith Smith, "Prelude and Fugue in C Minor" by Bach. The program will be concluded by Fawn Trawick playing "Scherzo from Sonata V" by Guilwant.

FSC Faculty Attend Meet

Spanish House Gives Dance for G'ville Boys

A meeting of the South Atlantic division of the Modern Languages association will be held in Birmingbam, Alabama, on Friday and Saturday, November 28 and 29. Florida State College delegates to this convention are to be Dr D L Canfield, head of the modern languages department, Dr Dorothy Hoffman, Miss Myrtle Dolbee, and Dr Margaret Campbell, all instroctors in the modern languages department.

During the convention Dr Canfield will deliver a talk entitled "Rubrica" on the Hispanic culture pattern.

Delegates from Spanish, French, German, Portuguese English and other modern language departments from the southeastern states will make up the convention

ETCHINGS PRESENTED

It was announced by Dr Margaret Campbell that Dr Arthur L Seymour, recently returned head of the modern languages department, presented an etching of Cervantes and a coffee table inlaid with tiles to Casa Cervantes, the Spanish house, at an afterdinner coffee last Friday evening.

The etching was made in Spain, and the tiles, which are inlaid in the top of the coffee table, came from Triana, a suburb of Seville, and depict scenes from Don Quixote.

Guests of the evening were received by Miss Carmen Rivera, director of Casa Cervantes. Miss Rivera introduced Dr Seymour who made the presentation. The gifts were accepted by Annette Maples, president of the Spanish house, and Dorothy Bush gave a brief summary of the life of Cervantes. Those invited were: President and Mrs Doak S Campbell, Dr Olivia N Dorman, Dr and Mrs Seymour, Dr and Mrs D L Canfield, Dr Margie Burks and Dr Margaret Campbell.

LOS PICAROS VISIT

Dr Campbell also announced that "Los Picaros," a club of Latin-American boys from Gainesville, are to be the guests of Casa Cervantes, the Spanish house. They will be accompanied by Dr Franees Hayes of the University of Florida, who is a specialist in Spanish gestures, and who has been consultant in Hollywood on movies of Latin American subject.

A dance will be held in honor of Los Picaros, in Landis recreation room on Saturday evening.

Music Teachers Attend Convention

Florida State College was represented at the Florida Music Educators Association meeting in Tampa last Monday and Tuesday, November 18 and 19 by five delegates from its School of Music.

Those attending were: Miss Zadie L Phipps, assistant professor of public school music; Miss Mary E Winslow, associate professor of piano; Mr Walter James, assistant professor of voice; Mr Herman Gunter Jr, assistant professor of voice; and Mr Owen F Sellers, associate professor of cello and director of the band.

Miss Winslow, Mr James and Mr Gunter presented several vocal solos and duets, for the members of the association.

CUT DOWN NICOTINE
Frank
MEDICO
FILTERED SMOKING
$2
EJECTS THE STUB
• Replaceable filter in new Frank Medico Cigarette Holders, filters the smoke.
• Cuts down nicotine.
• Cuts down irritating tars.
• In zephyrweight aluminum.
• Special styles for men and women.
• $2 with 10 filters, handy pouch and gift box.
E. M. FRANK & CO., INC., NEW YORK 22

Upward and Onward Progress Is Theme Of Organization Movements in Longmire

Organizations in the Longmire building are progressing upward and onward. Yes, literally. The Florida Flambeau moved from the basement to the former Flastacowo offiee on the second floor last week. The Flastacowo remained on the second floor but progressed down the hall to the former office of the Young Women's Christian association, and the "Y" moved up to the fourth floor.

The purpose of this mass migration was to make room for a boy's lounge on the basement floor. Already the old Flambeau habitation is feeling radical effects of reconversion. The floor shines with wax, overstuffed sofas adorn the side walls, plenty of tables are in evidence . . . and, of course, there are men lounging, talking, and studying instead of reporters banging away on typewriters.

Last Saturday afternoon the second floor of the Longmire building was a scene of vigorous activity when the Flambeau editorial staff threw a party for reporters with the advice that they wear jeans and old shirts. Pertinent indeed! Slips of paper were handed out on which specific jobs were designated such as: straighten files, clean out desk drawers, hang bulletin boards, and sweep floors. An hour of colossal industry ensued after which the new Flambeau office appeared bright and shining, a model of efficiently organized newspaperdom. As reward for labor, cake and ginger ale were served. Associate editor B J McLeod had thoughtfully brought her portable juke and records to which everyone danced. Mr Earl L Vanee, associate professor of journalism, and Miss Dora Byron, instructor of journalism, were also present sharing in the fun.

The Flastacowo staff moved last Friday. Books, files, tables, and chairs were carried into the vacant YWCA offiee. During this process many old editions of the Flastacowo were discovered dating as far back as 1910. Work stopped temporarily while all present leafed through these old books and laughed at the strange styles and funny hair-do's of 36 years ago.

"Y" members had moved all their paraphenalia on Wednesday to rooms 403 and 405 where they are now comfortably settled.

Council Discusses Student Behavior At Artist Series

General behaviour of students at concerts and lecture programs was discussed at the Social Standards Council meeting Tuesday. Certain resolutions were adopted as to dress, time of arrival and applause, according to Emily Sheftall, chairman.

Students are reminded that they must dress formally for all Artist Series programs except when sitting in the balcony. To eliminate confusion, students are asked to arrive at least five minutes before the opening of the program. The door will be closed promptly at the appointed time and no one arriving late will be admitted until intermission. Students should remain seated during the whole program except for intermission. Anyone wishing to leave may do so at this time.

It was also suggested that students carefully study the program during a musical event and applaud only after a complete piece is played. This is not to discourage applause, but to control it.

The Usher Committee is cooperating with the Social Standards Council in enforcing these rules. The Council hopes that the student body will also cooperate wholeheartedly to present a courteous and attentive audience to visiting artists at Florida State College.

State Auditor

Continued from page one

Professor Coats, a teacher of criminal law at the University of North Carolina, realized that law as taught from the statute books and case records did not give a full enough picture of law in every day action. Accordingly, he took a position on the local police foree. In this position he studied the inefficiency in the governmental system and tried to devise means of correcting the faults.

Returning to Chapel Hill he called meetings of government officials and students. From their discussions grew a guidebook to aid in the correction of existing problems, the speaker explained.

"For the establishment of an Institute of Government in Florida the 1945 legislature appropriated $15,000." According to Mr Willis, the Institute is authorized to: "conduct studies upon various subjects relating to public finance; study existing methods of administering units of government in Florida and other states; to prepare manuals and guidebooks for use of state, county and municipal officers and their employees; and to conduct short courses to train these officers and employees in the best methods of performing their duties"

"Other duties of the organization will be the publishing of a monthly magazine and the creating of a legislative reform bureau," said Mr Willis. The Institute of Government will also assist county groups with annual meetings and hold weekly, quarterly, or annual meetings for the discussion of public affairs.

Mythical Miss Experiences Thanksgiving, 1946, at FSC

This little episode might aptly be entitled, "The Tally lassie who wasn't a soul there. Not one green who read Rip Van Winkle once too often."

Sally Tally deliberately went to bed early that Wednesday evening—at I o'clock, that is—because she did want to be up in time for Color Rush. Color Rush, in case you don't know, is an Odd-Even race to pin the winning colors on various building doors on Thanksgiving morning.

It was a sleepy, hazy-eyed girl who crawled from beneath the covers at 6 a m into the northern weather which somehow found its way south. It was even a more sleepy gal who dashed madly down four flights of stairs jumping almost a half-flight at a time, and out to the gym from which the first race was scheduled to begin.

Gasping for breath, she skidded halfway across the Landis green to come to an amazed stop. There wasn't as oul thre Not one green feather, nor one red, white and purple cap did she see gracing the icy morning atmosphere.

"My heavens," she thought to herself, "somebody done me dirty! Must've set my alarm back. Anyhow, I'll be right on the front row when the show begins."

Half an hour passed; forty-five minutes passed. Then an hour, but still no enthusiastic Odd and Even yells pierced the dead calm hovering over the campus.

Walking slowly across the campus, she was confronted by a pair of traditional rivals—"Bones" and the "Spirit"—Odd and Even for those who haven't caught onto the Tally lingo yet.

"Say! Just what's going on around here," Sally slyly questioned. "Here I am. I summon up all my loyalty and come out for the big event. And nobody shows up. Whatsa' matter anyhow?"

Whether it was the tone of Sally's voice or just fond remembrances which "bones" and "spirit" recalled, it is not known, but, anyhow, before Sally was through talking the two burst out in sobs which would have made the fountain goldfish turn green and gold and the iron gates rattle like a skeleton.

"Haven't you heard?" they sniffed. "It's a free weekend. Everybody's gone home. The games are all played and there's not anything to do. Didn't you go to the games last week?"

Sally alternately turned all the traditional colors, then said, as she also burst into tears, "No! I've been so busy doing homework. But gangway. I just have an hour to catch a bus for home."

And, so we leave the spirit of '45, a skeleton of a traditional past.

Next Year

Continued from page one

which will be handy to the street entrance

The plans for the interior court show promise that the place will be delightful to look upon. The landscaped grounds will be approached from the stone terrace which will open out on the east side of the court. The terrace will have entrances from both sections of the dorm. At present a connecting arcade with Jennie Murphree is not being built, but an opening will be left so that it may be put in later.

Beer's Construction Company of Atlanta, which also built Landis, holds the contract. The final contract price rests at $733,000. Mr A L Henderson, head superintendent, explained that the greatest trouble at present is labor. The common laborers and brick layers are the hardest to get, he said. There are 125 men on the job now and Mr Henderson would like to have more. The company has been able to secure the necessary materials, and, although nails have been scarce, they have not actually held up construction.

The tall wooden structure which can be seen from many points on campus is in no way indicative of the height of the building. It is merely a temporary scaffold by means of which cement is hoisted up and poured into the frames. The building is reinforced concrete frame with brick and tile walls. The interpartitions are plaster on clay tile. Because of the clay tile partitions Mr Mendenhall says the building will be more nearly completely fire resistant. The floor will be square blocks of asbestos tile similar to those used on the floor of the new History annex. The floors in the kitchens will be linoleum.

And, less it be said that the students had no part in the building of the beautiful new dorm, the workmen have one little story to tell. It happened during summer school in the summer of '46. Several students were wandering around the site of the new building, and before they left they had aided in its construction by crawling up on a ladder and helping to nail the roof onto the cement storage house.

Workshop Presents Program Friday

Florida State College will present their first radio program of the year over WTAL, November 29, from 7:45 to 8 p m.

This program is sponsored by the radio workshop class and will include a dramatic sketch directed by Miss Kemper Moore, the sponsor. Joe Hosford will be in charge of the production, Robert Kohler, engineer, Edgar Hare, sound effects, Kay Harrison, casting, and Milton Flack, Martha MacCann, and LeMoyne Cash, script.

Two other programs have been scheduled for this quarter and they will be presented December 6 and 13.

Club Has Breakfast

The annual Home Economics club breakfast was held last Sunday, November 17, in Game's woods. After hiking to the woods the group ate breakfast and sang around an open fire.

Ruth Largent, social chairman, was in charge of refreshments. Thirty-three members were present including Miss Ellen Wright, club sponsor.

The One Perfect Gift
For Your Loved Ones
A PORTRAIT
From
TOOLEY-MYRON STUDIOS
"Foremost Photographers of the South"
120 E. College Ave.

XMAS BELLS
WILL RING MERRILY . . .
If You Start Your Xmas
Shopping Now!
We have a complete assortment of Xmas Cards, and wrapping paper, seals and ribbon.
MARTIN & DALTON DEPT. DRUG STORE
210-212 S. ADAMS ST.

Magnolia, Village Were "At Home" to Faculty Members

Magnolia and the Village held "At Homes" for the faculty Wednesday afternoon.

At Magnolia Floy Jean Pflough and Esther Rasmussen received the guests at the door and introduced them to Pat Grant, social chairman, and Neva Delgado, house president.

Miss Olivia Dorman, dean of women, Mrs B F Whitner, assistant dean of women, and Miss Edith McCollum, director of residences, assisted the hostesses in receiving. Presiding at the coffee table were: Mrs Lou Miller and Miss Lynette Thompson, honorary house members; and Dorothy Martin and Renee Settle, house vice-presidents.

Roses and chrysanthemums decorated the main living room which was centered with a mantelpiece display of red poinsettias.

Lillian Baker, violinist, and Dot Wynn and Virginia Crews, pianists, provided background music.

The village guests were received in the parlor of Cockrell by Mrs Pauline Mansfield, residence counselor, Miss Phyllis Greife, who is in charge of the social program of the Village, and Janet Robertson, who is the chairman of the social committee.

Floor hostesses were Miss Olivia Dorman, Miss Edith McCollum, Miss Anne Pope and Miss Sarah Cloud. Two honorary house members, Miss Betty Linthicum of the botany department and Miss Emily Crow of the English department, poured coffee.

Background music was provided by Rita Sprankle, Virginia Joslin, and Mary Rosenbush, who played the piano at different intervals.

Managing hostesses, who helped to introduce the guests, were Camilla DeNisco, Sue Ann Bradshaw, Clara Harley, Anne Moody and Janet. Approximately a hundred guests attended.

School of Music Presents Recital

The School of Music presented its weekly student recital at 4:30 p m yesterday afternoon in the recital hall of the Music Annex. The program featured piano and voice solos.

Included on the program were: a piano solo by Esther Howard; "Bourse" (from 3rd suite or cello) by Bach; a voice solo by Sara Brameister, accompanied by Helen Edmonston; "Nina" (Tregiorni) by Pergelesi; a voice solo by Pat Harrison, accompanied by Cortlandt Morper; "Del Mio Core' by Haydn; a piano solo by Sidney Conner; "Prelude" (from Holberg's Times) by Greig; a piano solo by Marilyn Morgan; "Polonaise C minor" by Chopin; a piano solo by Joan Wadsworth; "Fanitul" by Olsen; a voice solo by Doris Lamb, accompanied by Sue Pettit; "Le Chiffonier" by Ladmirault; a voice solo by Bernice Strickland, accompanied by Margie Booth; "May, the Maiden" by Carpenter; two voice solos by Joyce Stroberg, accompanied by Mary Rosenbush; "The Musical Snuff Box" by Liadoff and "Rencontre" by Faure.

Faculty Member's Review Published

In the October issue of the South Atlantic Bulletin there appears a review by Dr Carmen Rogers, associate professor of English, of the new book, Ben Johnson: Poet.

Dr Rogers comments, "In George Burke Johnston's study of Ben Johnson: Poet, new doors are opened to casual readers, and valuable material is brought together for the scholar's use."

"His opening chapter," she continues, "neatly summarizes critical opinion and sets the lines of his own study. . . Primary concern is subject matter and Johnson's connection with English literary tradition."

Cattle may develop nutritional diseases because of lack of phosphorus in their feed.

Ingenious Girls Design Ways To Brighten Drab Dorm Rooms

Interior decoration on an unlimited scale seems to be the order of the day in the dormitories wherein dwell the ingenuous lasses of Tally. Dull rooms have been transformed into unusual and interesting habitations by dint of the skill and industry of their different occupants.

Coats of glowing new paint, brightly colored drapes, homemade rugs of all varieties and other innovations have played a big part in the revivifying of rooms that were formerly commonplace and monotonous to live in. Every girl seems determined that her room shall be the most exclaimed at and looked over.

Black profile cut-outs, mounted and hung on a background of turquoise walls, are one unusual feature of a lovely room in Gilchrist. One of its occupants started her interior decorating career last year when she painted her room in Broward in bright shades of pink and red.

In the room further down the same hall a fiber closet has been painted and the upper section has been papered with a lovely floral design. This provides an interesting addition to the furnishings of the room besides adding the much-needed closet space.

Speaking of space, which is one of the current shortages around here, some of the girls have found that the last two or three shelves of their bookcases make a dandy cabinet if covered with a gathered curtain of some bright material. Some go in for the straight, tailored effect, while others go real feminine with ruffles and big satin bows.

Bulletin boards seem pretty popular as wall decorations in a number of rooms. Some are covered with the latest pictures of the swoon guys, and others are smothered in snapshots and cartoons. Lena (you know her) is the central figure on many of them though the occupants do complain of nightmares occasionally!

Bedside tables and catch-alls are made from camouflaged boxes and packing cases. These are painted and covered with gathered skirts which completely fool the observer as to their lowly start in life.

Recognition of some sort should go to the girl who has rigged up a device by which she can turn her light off when she is in bed. The light switch is way across the room so she has tied a cord to the switch and draped it across the ceiling. Not so decorative she admits, but very convenient!

Tour Scheduled for Spring Vacation

Chance to See Washington, New York, Again Offered

The opportunity to visit Washington and New York during spring vacation is again offered to students at Florida State College by Dr Carmen Rogers of the English department. The cost will be $200, not including meals, said Dr Rogers, and transportation will be either by plane or by train, as the individual student prefers.

"A sightseeing tour of both cities is being planned," Dr Rogers said. "In Washington we shall visit places of national historic and contemporary interest. In New York the emphasis, of course, will be upon the theatre and the opera, but we shall also visit the famous museums, churches, and such sections as Harlem, Chinatown and Fifth Avenue."

According to Dr Rogers, the plays which will be showing at that time are numerous and varied. They will include such well-known dramas as Shakespeare's "Henry VIII," Sheridan's "School for Scandal," Wilde's "The Importance of Being Earnest," and O'Neill's "The Iceman Cometh." Among the other stage productions which it may be possible to attend are the Ballet Russe, the Ice Follies, "Carousel," "Showboat" and other musicals.

"Because of the difficulties in chartering a plane and in getting theatre tickets," explained Dr Rogers, "I should like to know as soon as possible if anyone is interested, preferably before the Christmas holidays."

Students may contact Dr Rogers by telephoning 872-R, or through campus post office box 1077.

Flastacowo Plans To Publish Calendar

The Flastacowo is going to publish a calendar for engagements, for the first time in the history of this school. This will be a week by week, day by day, engagement and memorandum book for the year 1947.

The calendar will be in book form with a spiral back, so that it will lie flat on the desk when in use. Interspaced throughout the calendar will be pictures of twelve Florida State College campus scenes. These may be removed after the calendar has served its purpose.

Sale of these calendars will begin December 14, and the cost will be one dollar per booklet. Only a limited number will be on sale, so the students are urged to make their purchases early. Watch the Flambeau for further announcements concerning this matter.

Alumnae may purchase a calendar by writing or contacting the business manager of the Flastacowo.

Avey of Ohio State To Teach at FSC

Dr Albert E Avey of Ohio State University will be at Florida State College for Women second quarter as visiting professor in the departments of philosophy and religion, announced Dr Anna Forbes Liddell, professor of philosophy.

As part of his departmental teaching, Dr Avey will offer a course in the Platonic Tradition in European Thought, which is part of his regular work at Ohio State. He will also give a course in Religious Questions which will carry no pre-requisite.

Dr Avey is listed in Who's Who in Philosophy and has written books and articles on religious and educational subjects. He received his B A, M A, and Ph D at Yale University.

Stevenson Reports On Remedial Work

Remedial work for juniors and seniors with deficiencies in English is progressing very well, announced Dr Hazel A Stevenson, professor of English, who is in charge of this project. However, she announced that there are still some seniors who have not taken their English tests, which must be passed before graduation.

The special English clinic, now in its third year, is divided into ten classes which are held once a week for those in need of instruction. Since a majority of the cases are spelling and mechanics deficiencies, a syllabus has been prepared which may be used outside of class. Students stay in the clinic only long enough to be able to pass the test.

STUDENTS
FLY WITH
TAC
APPROVED BY BOARD OF CONTROL
Phone for Transportation and Further Information
JEFF LEWIS FRANK LEWIS
IVAN MUNROE RICHARD WEEKS
TALLAHASSEE AIRCRAFT CORP.
Phone 2727 Municipal Airport

Dining Hall Conduct Policy Is Stated

The Social Standards Council has drawn up a policy in regard to the conduct practiced in the dining hall.

Keeping orderly lines, being considerate and respectful to ushers, coming to meals well groomed, observing good manners at all meals, only taking fresh fruit from tables and refraining from chewing gum in the dining hall are the main points of the policy drawn up by the Social Standards Council.

Mimeograph copies of this policy will be distributed through the dormitories to the student body. "If each student will maintain these rules, a much more pleasant situation will exist," said Emily Sheftall, chairman of the Social Standards Council

FOR THE PERFECT GIFT
Ray Jewelry Co.
104 EAST COLLEGE AVE

FLORIDA
NOW - TOMORROW
"Three Little Girls in Blue"
June Haver & Vivian Blaine
SUNDAY & MONDAY
"COURAGE OF LASSIE" with LASSIE
(In Glorious Color)
TUESDAY - WEDNESDAY
Margaret O'Brien in
"THREE WISE FOOLS"
Lewis Stone, Edward Arnold
Lionel Barrymore
THURS. - FRI. - SAT.
28-29-30
"GALLANT JOURNEY"
Glenn Ford - Janet Blair

STATE
TODAY - TOMORROW
CHARLES STARRETT in
"HEADING WEST"
"WILD BEAUTY"
with Don Porter
SUNDAY - MONDAY
"SWAMP FIRE"
Johnny Weissmuller
—and—
"SHADOWS OVER CHINATOWN"
(Charlie Chan Series)
TUESDAY - WEDNESDAY
BETTE DAVIS in
"A STOLEN LIFE"
THURSDAY ONLY
"THE HURRICANE"
—and—
"CENTENNIAL SUMMER"

RITZ
TONITE ONLY
FRED ASTAIRE in
"ZIEGFELD FOLLIES"
SATURDAY
Double Feature
YOM YYLER in
"BROTHERS OF YHE WEST"
—Also—
"DRESSED TO KILL"
with BASIL RATHBONE
SUNDAY - MONDAY
DOUBLE FEATURE
GINGER ROGERS in
"HEARTBEAT"
—also—
"INSIDE JOE"
with PRESTON FOSTER
TUES. - WED. - YHURS.
DOUBLE FEATURE
TYRONE POWER in
"JESSE JAMES"
—also—
"TOO YOUNG TO KNOW"
with JOAN LESLIE

Sports Round-Up

By Bob Cooksey

The Florida Gators, still seek- their first victory of the aging tball season, will try again to- orrow at Tampa as they go ainst a rugged North Carolina ate Wolfpack. The Gators will into the contest definitely the derdog against one of the ngest teams of the south.

However, Florida shows possi- ities of entering the State game the best physical condition of e season and with nothing to and everything to gain they be gunning for the highly- arded Wolfpack. Broughton lliams, fine Gator end will not a chance to jump back into running for national pass ching honors after being forced of the Villanova game last ek in the second quarter with a enched knee after snagging one pass for ten yards. With Parker and Doug Belden ound to do the flipping, Jimmy mes and Joe Chesser will be on e receiving end the down-trod- Gators might resume the ial route that has been the one ght spot in an otherwise dismal ason

One More Chance

After the contest with State to- orrow the Gators will have only e more chance to break into the tory column this year with a me against Auburn on Novem- 30 presenting two teams with ual opportunities for victory uburn has been pushed around some of the southern grid pow- this season, but led by Travis dwell, one of the nation's top ound gainers, they will be out Gator blood one week hence.

Little Hal Griffin, Tampa back, ave Florida fans last Saturday encore to a 98-yard sprint ainst the Miami Hurricanes eral weeks ago by taking one Villanova's Romeo Capriotto's ird quarter punts on the Gator and careening 87 yards down e sidelines to tally the second uchdown for Florida making e score read 14-13. Villanova ored soon after, however, to nch the contest and a late orida score was anti-climax.

Rollins, Miami Play

There will be action on the ami front tonight as the Hur- anes, toppled by LSU 20-7 last eek, will be seeking a win against ashington and Lee.

The Rollins Tars meet Ohio Wesleyan tonight, fresh from a 19-0 triumph over Stetson last eek. Wesleyan smashed Denison turday by a 39-0 margin.

Other Games

Other games throughout the ation tomorrow will find Ten- essee-Kentucky, Illinois-North- estern, Michigan-Ohio State, emson-Auburn, Alabama-Bos- n College, Harvard-Yale, North arolina-Duke, Princeton-Dart- outh, Rice-Texas Christian, and urdue-Indiana. Georgia and eorgia Tech warm up for their ash November 30 with the Bulldogs from Athens meeting Chattanooga and the Engineers from Atlanta meeting little Furman.

Army Still Tops

The eleven battering rams from West Point still rule the national mythical grid standings edging past Notre Dame by a 80-vote margin. The Irish have to be content with a close second for at least one more week. Georgia and UCLA hold down the third and fourth positions, respectively, while Illinois jumped from ninth last week to fifth place currently. The other five teams according to their standings are: Georgia Tech Tennessee, Michigan, LSU and Southern Cal.

Tally-U Boys Start Yearly Game Hunt As Season Opens

"—The bird is on the wing." And hunters are training their sights on the bird. Hunting season is underway.

Men students of the Tallahassee branch plan to join in the trek to field, forest, lake and other places where game is found over the Thanksgiving holidays. The Florida hunting season on quail, turkeys, doves, deer and squirrels opened November 20, and tomorrow the huntsmen can train their barrels on duck, geese and coot. Shells are still scarce but many boys had a stock laid up in anticipation of the hunting season.

The Tallahassee boys have gotten the jump on their fellow nimrods as many have been out in the fields and wooded areas this week in search of game. George Eubanks, George and Jack Croy, John Patterson, and Al Thorpe were among these early hunters. Reports from them are that birds are plentiful in Leon county, especially dove. Some of them have bagged the limit on this wild fowl in their early hunts.

Bill Merritt and Buster Jackson of Sumterville in Sumter county say they have a goodly supply of shells and expect to spend most of the holiday time in quest of game. They plan to leave home early Thanksgiving morning with a hunting party, which will include some University of Florida boys. The group will take their guns and dogs to Ocala National Forest to hunt deer. One unique feature of this hunt is that Merritt plans to use a captured .25 calibre Japanese rifle, souvenir of his service in the Navy, for which he has only four shells. Later in the day the hunters will seek quail and dove.

John Parker and Ernest Cox of Perry plan to go into Taylor county's tide swamp, famous to Florida huntsmen for its abundance of turkeys and deer, after this game. John says that most of his time will be spent hunting quail and dove.

Also planning to hunt these birds while home for the holidays is Norman Walther from Milton. Ammunition won't be one of his worries as he already has a supply of shells.

Squirrels and birds will be the quarry of Max Register whose home is near Graceville in Washington county. As Max lives in the country he won't have to go far from home seeking game.

Since Florida is divided into conservation districts and laws in each district differ slightly, each hunter should acquaint himself with the hunting laws of his area. Along with the game there may be game wardens. They have their hunt, too!

Odd-Even Archery Meet Ends Today

The Odd-Even archery tournament began yesterday and will be completed this afternoon. Four girls on each team competed yesterday, and the remaining four on each team will shoot today, according to "Kit" Johnson, Odd archery leader.

The Columbia round is the method used in the tournament, said "Pep" Stanaland, archery leader for the Evens. This means, she explained, that each contestant shoots a certain number of arrows at several specified distances from the target.

Shooting for the Evens are Martha Carter, Emily Chancey, Lois DeLavan, Mary Griffin, Mary Petit, Anna Lou Rivers, "Pep" Stanaland and Lois Snyder.

The Odd archers are Nita Bowles, Coral Charles, Betty Dixon, Bert Friedkin, Margaret Harley, Kit Johnson, Betty Sweet and Marilyn Till.

DM Cagers Plan College Games

There now exists the probability that the Dale Mabry basketball squad will play a man-size cage schedule, according to Ed Williamson, athletic director. Feelers have been sent to several college and service teams.

The University of Tampa, Florida Southern and Stetson are among the schools which have been definitely scheduled. Norman Park Junior College in Georgia, the Jacksonville Naval Air Station, Eglin Field near Pensacola and several additional smaller schools and service teams have also been contacted.

Plans are being made to play games on a home and home basis. This means that one game would be played in the opponent's locality and the other game here. No high school teams will be scheduled.

New uniforms with the FSC colors of garnet and gold have been ordered.

Naval Reserve Unit Begins Operations

Recruiting for members of the Naval Reserve has started at the University branch this week. All interested veterans both at college and in Tallahassee and all who now have a V-6 classification are asked to contact Commander Ralph Carter, recruiting officer for Tallahassee, at phone 2109.

No definite appropriation for a local reserve has as yet been made by the Seventh Naval district, but as soon as 200 men from Gainesville and the Tallahassee branch have been enlisted, the group will be formally organized and an appropriation requested.

All members of the Reserve will receive base pay at the rate of their former rank in the armed services for each meeting of the group once it is officially operating. Members will not be subject to call into active service except in case of a national emergency.

"Essence of Grace" Is Tarpon Theme for Water Pageant

A water pageant entitled "Essence of Grace" will be presented by the Tarpon club of Florida State College on Monday and Tuesday nights at 8:30 in the gymnasium pool. There will be no tickets issued this year for the annual Thanksgiving performance. "It will be a case of first come first served," remarked B J Singleton, president of the Tarpons.

The theme "Perfume" which is original with the Tarpon club will be carried out in four water formations by the active Tarpon members and two by the uninitiated "Minnows." The accompanying music will be suggestive of the moods and names of various perfumes. Also included in the program are a duet number and a clown act.

The decorations which will follow out the perfume theme are under the supervision of Nancy MacEdwards and Sarah Ellen Glenn. Miss Troemel, faculty advisor has been present at all rehearsals and has acted as a consultant for matters of a technical nature.

The Tarpon club which was founded in 1936 had for its original purpose the exhibition of swimming skills. Since that time the club has risen to national fame through a number of movies that have been made of them. Tarpon swimmers have appeared from time to time in movies filmed by Fox Movietone, Metro-Goldwyn-Mayer, and Grantland Rice. The movies have been taken at Wakulla Springs with the exception of one which was taken by Paramount during a homecoming week-end in Gainesville. According to B J, the Tarpon club received many letters during the war from boys overseas who had seen the movies made at Wakulla Springs.

Said B J, "The present aim of the Tarpons is to further interest in swimming and to develop the techniques of swimming formation."

Senior Hall to Feature Playnight Show Tomorrow

Yes, Senior Hall is going to take its collective hair down at Playnight this Saturday night in the physical education building. They are taking their wisdom of Four Ages to present a Senior Hall of Fame. The skit will be based on the adventures of Soclear Lewis, the famous novelist, who in her search for material for her latest book wanders into an art gallery and learns how each member of the Senior Hall of Fame earned renown.

The first celebrity will be Jean Cole Porter followed by Red Skeleton and Herky White and her Scandals of 1946. There will also be dancing horses, French opera, modern dancing, can-cans, tap dancing and bubble dances.

"There's going to be a stupendous unveiling, too," said Nancy MacEdwards, chairman of Playnight, "and of what you must come see."

Gloria McVey is in charge of the skit. Ann Nicholson is chairman of the prop committee and Roberta Friedkin is handling the publicity.

Evens Have Night Out Tonight at 11

The celebration of Odd Night Out Thursday evening will be followed by Even Night Out which will be held tonight.

The Evens will meet at 11 o'clock in front of Westcott and will bring sheets. After the procession around the dormitories they will go to the north end of Landis green where their pep rally will be held. Even cheerleaders and guest speakers will be present.

The Odds assembled at 11 o'clock last night in front of the music annex with their lanterns. The procession ended in front of Westcott for a pep rally at which the cheerleaders performed. Dr Raymond Bellamy, professor of sociology, was the guest speaker.

Odd Night Out is sponsored by Spirogira, Odd honorary. Even Night Out is sponsored by Esteren, Even honorary.

FOUND

FOUND on campus: Pair of glasses with pink plastic rims; not bi-focal lens. Owner may obtain by phoning 320.

Corps Initiates New Members

Initiation for the new members of the Life Saving Corps was held Tuesday night in the clubroom of the gymnasium. The ceremonies were led by Mary Nell Goldman, president of the corps.

A splash party in the pool immediately followed the initiation. Mr Robert ("Uncle Bob") Zubrod, Southeastern field representative for the National Red Cross, who has been here for the past week giving instructor's tests in life saving and swimming, demonstrated the newest trends in these fields. Miss Martha Heifrin, the newly elected sponsor of the corps, was also present. Games and relays were featured at this time.

Kappa Sigma Meets Dale Mabry Cagers

The Dale Mabry basketball team will play their fourth practice game of the season tomorrow night when they meet Kappa Sigma fraternity from Gainesville. Game time is slated for 8 o'clock and the clash will be on the Dale Mabry hardwoods.

The game is strictly a practice session, according to Coach Ed Williamson of Dale Mabry, and he is hoping to further experiment with combinations prior to the opening of the basketball season.

Previous activity scheduled for the gym at Florida State College caused the game site to be changed to the Dale Mabry gym.

Dale Mabry holds an earlier 31-24 win over Kappa Sigma this year.

Odd-Even Modern Dance Is Tonight

Performance to Be Given In Augusta Conradi Theatre

The Odd-Even Modern dance performances will be held tonight at 8:15 p m in the Augusta Conradi theater.

"The themes of the dances are to remain a secret until tonight," said Sis Myers, Odd dance chairman and Anne Shull, head of the Even dance team.

"All the girls have worked hard and are expecting to put on a wonderful performance," remarked Sis Meyers. And from Even dance chairman Anne Shull came a quote, "These girls have what it takes to make a winning dance group, so I feel confident in saying that the Evens will come out on top again this year!"

Odd dance teams are made up of Lorraine Smith, Vonnie Black, Bet Cargill, Jane Hardacre, Jean Headley, Claire Wilson, Betty Barbston, Violet Walters, Valda Mock, Jane Carrol Levy, Dot Wells, Betty Loftus.

The Even team consists of Dorothy Butts, Joyce Cayce, Doris DuBois, Rubye Lois Duke, Marie Chillingworth, Andrey Evans, Jackie Geiger, Virginia Hatton, Enid Krouse, Avanelle McNair, Sarah Lee Williams and Anne Shull.

DM Bowling Alleys Open to Students

Bowling enthusiasts are missing a fine opportunity for brushing up on strikes and spares at Dale Mabry's new bowling center, according to Ed Williamson, athletic director of the Tallahassee Branch. The six new alleys have just been reconditioned and are in excellent shape. Also, several new light-weight bowling balls for use by women players have just arrived.

Sam Boggs, manager of the alleys, announced that bowling hours are from 5 p m to 11 p m during week nights and from 3 p m to 10 p m on Saturdays, and the charge is 13 cents per line.

As yet the dates for the intramural tournaments have not been announced, but there is a possibility of holding match play among independent teams if enough pin setters can be obtained.

A cordial invitation is extended to students and faculty members to visit the new center located directly across from the Dale Mabry tennis courts.

Odd-Even Hockey, Soccer Teams Play Tomorrow at 2; Soccer Teams to Clash First

Athletic Field Is Site of Traditional Games; Florida State Band Will Perform at Contest; Odds Rule Pre-Game Favorite in Hockey

The Odd-Even hockey and soccer teams will clash tomorrow afternoon at 2 o'clock on the athletic field in what promises to be two of the most exciting games held in several years

The Odd hockey team will go into their contest with the green and gold eleven, pre-game favorites because of the drubbing they gave the freshmen and juniors on Monday and Tuesday. In the Monday game the soph-senior combination defeated the freshmen 4-0 and on Tuesday took the juniors into camp, 3-1. However, Marion Floyd, Even leader declared yesterday that the class games were no indication of the way the Even team would play when it took the field. "We have a few surprises in store for the Odds tomorrow and I think we'll win," Marion declared.

On the soccer front, first game to be played, the Odd and Even teams will square off on even terms with the Evens getting the initial kickoff. In the class games the freshmen defeated the sophomores 4-2 and the seniors eeked out a 1-0 victory over the juniors after battling over three quarters in a tied up game.

However, the Odds will be hampered by the loss of three of their outstanding players. Shirley Palmer, sophomore fullback, suffered an injured foot in the freshman-sophomore game. Jane Satterfield and Enid Sandler, seniors will also be out of action.

Bleachers owned by the college will be erected tomorrow morning to take care of a capacity crowd on the athletic field. The Florida State College band will give a "half-time" performance between the soccer and hockey games.

Members of the Odd hockey team are Ines Augustine, Emily Dawkins, Catherine Gallagher, Nancy Gleaton, Mary Nell Goldman, Virginia Goodell, Lucy Harding, Mary Jackson, Nancy MacEdwards, Mae Manning, Esther Miller, Nita Nord, Dottie Patrick, Marli Richardson, Clarice Trueblood, Nancy Ward, and Mary White.

Carrying the green and gold hockey banners are Claire Smith, Mary Cawthorn, Bobbie Hayes, Anne McInnis, Rosa Lee Davis Gracie Whiddon, Mary Jane Taylor, Vera Cone, Charlotte Bouland, Amelia Pavese, Joyce Garman, Amarene Thompson, Mary Jo Whidden, Mickey McQuaig, Snooks Lipe, Marion Floyd, leader, and Pinky Simmons.

Elected to the Odd soccer team were Betty Gardiner, Joy Harper, Mary Calley, Ethel Clann, Betty Schwartz, Sarah Lou Wells, Elaine Brown, Peggy Becknell, Mickey Chambers, Shirley Hargraves, Twirp Barry, Joan Zewadski, Marion Looby, Betsy Zurwella, Lea Wells, Polly Tuttle, and Virginia Palmer, leader.

Playing for the Even soccer team will be Catherine Sullivan, Bopie Whitaker, Katherine Aspenwall, Betty Stewart, Barbara Randolph, Frances Rihert, Betty Kennedy, Mary Rountree, Ellen Schallern, Flossie McLeod, Mary Lois Conn, Candy Jones, Jean Lumpkin, Anna Horne, Ruth Dix, Evelyn Shea, and Elaine Gavigan, leader.

PEA Goes to Camp

Approximately 50 members of the Physical Education Association and invited non-majors of physical education spent last weekend at the college camp on Lake Bradford.

"We did the things usually done at camp," Nita Bowles, president of the group, commented. Physical education instructors who went with PEA were Miss Mary Jane Lloyd, Miss Laverne Sitton, Miss Betty Kirlin and Miss Babe Evans.

A regular meeting of PEA was held Monday night.

Layton's Men's Wear
114½ E. COLLEGE PHONE 2784-W
We have a smooth collection of Ties . . . Sweaters . . . Socks
LAYTON'S
STYLE DISTINGUISHED CLOTHES

White Way Laundry
Sanitary Dry Cleaning
119 N. MONROE ST. PLANT
Dale Mabry Branch Office
Dry Cleaning and Dye Work
By an Expert
Bldg. 442 Hours: 1:00-5:00

Hospitality in your hands
Serve
Coca-Cola
at home
5¢
1946 The C-C Co
BOTTLED UNDER AUTHORITY OF THE COCA-COLA COMPANY BY TALLAHASSEE COCA-COLA BOTTLING COMPANY

WATCH CHAMPION BUDDY BOMAR
BOWLING IN THE CLUTCH
BUDDY'S GOT TO STRIKE OR ELSE!
THERE IT GOES!
IT'S THE 10th FRAME OF THE LAST GAME OF A BIG 29-GAME MATCH. THE SCORE IS TIED! THE CHAMPION'S OPPONENT, ROLLING FIRST, BLASTS ANOTHER STRIKE. WITH THE PRESSURE ON, BOMAR MAKES HIS TOSS...
IT'S A STRIKE FOR BOMAR!
AND THE MATCH IS STILL TIED UP! NOW WATCH!
R. J. Reynolds Tobacco Company, Winston-Salem, North Carolina
THE CHAMPION'S OPPONENT ROLLS AGAIN. NINE PINS GO DOWN—AND HE PICKS UP A SPARE! AGAIN THE PRESSURE IS ON BOMAR.
BLAST 'EM, BUDDY!
ANOTHER STRIKE! AND THE WINNER IS BUDDY BOMAR!
MAN, THAT'S WHAT I CALL COMING THROUGH IN THE CLUTCH!
JUST A FEW PUFFS OF THIS CAMEL FIRST, BOYS—UM-M—HITS THE SPOT!
BUDDY'S A CAMEL FAN FROM WAY BACK
ME TOO. CAMELS ARE TOPS
I'VE SMOKED CAMELS FOR NINE YEARS. THEY SUIT MY 'T-ZONE' TO A 'T.' THERE'S JUST NOTHING LIKE A CAMEL!
1946 National Match-Game Champion. All-American selection for 2 years. Thirty-one 300 games rolled in different cities.
Buddy Bomar
YOUR "T-ZONE" WILL TELL YOU... T for Taste...T for Throat... that's your proving ground for any cigarette. See if Camels don't suit your "T-Zone" to a "T."
COSTLIER TOBACCOS
CAMELS
CAMEL

SPIRIT OF THE WEEK

thanks, thanks very much-but, no Thanksgiving!

● COOPERATION PLUS!

A few weeks ago it was hrought to the attention of the student body that it was not only possible but was urgent that we have a cooperative store on Florida State's campus. Talk has been going fast and furious on the subject, and a gallant few have even tried to figure out some way to get such an enterprise working here for the students. None of us need to be told that this movement has worked out beautifully at other schools.

At our brother institution over Gainesville way the boys have initiated their first cooperative store. Financed by a $6,000 grant from the State Cahinet, this co-op already has more than 425 members, with plans being made to extend the cooperative movement. In a little more than n month a hranch store will be opened at the local air base to accommodate the 107 married couples and single men who live there. They even see a possibility of having a co-op service station. Regulations for the G'ville co-op follow established principles of this movement. Membership is open to all students. Although an initial fee of $15.50 is charged to provide original capital for the enterprise, students will be refunded practically the whole amount when they leave college.

We, persistently human, have taken the attitude that has come to be expected of us—that of waiting for the other fellow to work out all of the details and then if the road seems smooth, we will consent to collect dividends on whatever it may be. Well, the details are being investigated at present hy a committee on campus which welcomes any person who feels that he or she can be of any help in organizing the machinery of a co-op at FSC. Those interested may get in touch with the committee through Arlene Siegel, Box 764. It would seem that, as people who hope to show some semblance of education when we graduate from this institution, we would become ashamed of allowing monopolies to force us into paying sky-high prices not only for the small luxuries but also the essentials which we need. We should, through active participation on this committee, demand a change. Are we third grade morons who can have anything pushed off on us and give a grateful nod?

Or, are we interested citizens who take a share in the progress of what is at present our little world?

● WHO'S WHO ? ? ?

The University of Florida has taken a forward step in eliminating unprofitable traditional practices. In the November 1 issue of the Florida Alligator there appeared an article headed "No More 'Who's Who' Selection" with the information that the University has "discontinued entering men in Who's Who in American Colleges and Universities because, . . . 'It has ceased to hold the significance it once did.'"

The main purpose of Who's Who, according to an article addressed to personnel managers of the publication, is to bring the names of the outstanding students of America before the business world and before others who annually recruit students. This is a worthy aim, but does the publication fulfill its purpose?

With the limited number of entries that can be made from each college and the over-capacity enrollment in the schools today, it is natural that the question arises as to whether the students whose names appear in the book are better equipped occupationally and educationally than those who were not listed. Are there not numerous others besides the maximum 20 who are as fully prepared and as capable but who have not received the backing of a popularity vote?

In the foreword of this annual college publication, the editor states: "Believing as we do that extra-curricular activities are the best index to a student's ability, we have placed the emphasis of selection on that phase of college life and not on scholarship alone." He also states that the students in Who's Who have such qualities as character, scholarship, leadership in extra-curricular activities and a possibility of future usefulness to business and society. These terms and phrases are universals that have such a wide variety of connotations that they become semantic blabs with no cognizant meaning.

Here at Florida State College the selection for Who's Who . . . has become a popularity contest with certain qualifications as to grades and classification. Each year there are many efficient students who, because of their inactivity in our highly organized campus life, have not made the list. It has been found that contrary to student superstition, the person who excelled in scholarship will earn a larger salary throughout his whole career than will the student who was equally active in campus affairs but lower in scholarship

J R Tunis made a study of some one hundred Harvard graduates in Was College Worthwhile and found that the Phi Beta Kappas led the list in earning power, clubmen came next, the average college student was third and the athletes last. Consequently, there seems to be no valid reason why the students participating in a large number of extra-curricular activities should be spoken of as the best for the future business positions.

In the spring of this year we will vote for the FSC entrants in Who's Who in American Colleges and Universities. That is, of course, unless the administration of this college should decide to follow the leadership of our hrother university.

The University of Florida should be commended for its step in this matter. It would be an excellent idea for the students and faculty of FSC to give much thought to the plausibility of discontinuing this tradition on our campus.

● THE PRICKLY PEAR

What exactly are social standards? No one can put his finger on the exact elements that go into making up the social standards of this campus or any other. Social standards are only those customary group hahits that have grown up with an institution and that cannot be added to or detracted from without the consent of the group that abides by them. Just as Benedetto Croerce in Politics and Morals has said laws are valid only so long as they are upheld by the people they govern; our social standards are valid only so long as they have the sanction of the student body.

Our Social Standards committee of the College Government Association is now working overtime to set forth a list of advisory principles directed at the student body in regard to their social conduct. These advisory notes will not be effective unless they conform with the general campus opinion of what proper conduct should be.

By now each individual on campus should have a personal social code set up for himself—a code which encompasses his idea of what he believes the right conduct for every event. These personal codes, not advisory lists, are the standards students will carry out into the world with them when they leave campus, and some of the personal codes will be altered to fit the situations in which we then find ourselves.

As an example, one of the items under fire hy this committee is the wearing of jeans on campus. We have been told how, when and where we should wear jeans with the approval of our contemporaries—and we have been told pointedly. Now there are many individuals on campus who feel that they know the proper places and times to wear their beloved blue jeans. And unhappily, their opinion does not conform with the opinion of the single group setting forth the standards by which the students as a whole should abide.

Blue jeans and plaid shirts have become not only the style for Tallahassee girls but for college girls throughout America. In some places—schools as large and equally as high in rating as Florida State College—blue jeans are worn to class and even to the sanctuaries such as the library where we cannot even wear a feminine sun-back dress.

If our Social Standards committee are really interested in doing constructive work on campus, they should make some attempt to find out what the students themselves feel are the proper standards for our campus. Then they will have the sanction of the majority behind the advisory notes they hand out, and they can further the progrés of student thought. This, and this alone, could make the students realize the value of social pressure which is really the only implement to be used in setting forth social standards!

● IT AIN'T NECESSARILY SO

It has become evident that the time is ripe for a definite statement of Flambeau policy as regards guest editorializing. There are several reasons for printing guest editorials, the primary one being the desire on the part of the Flambeau to present both sides of a controversial issue.

In an attempt to carry out the stated policy on the staff head, ie "It is the policy of the Flambeau to grant equal space and prominence to anyone wishing to present a contrary opinion whenever opinions on controversial questions are voiced in its columns"—we sometimes solicit and at all times encourage editorial opinion from students other than those on our editorial staff especially when the beliefs to be expressed are contrary to the beliefs of the staff.

Then, too, when an opinion has been voiced by a number of the student body, since the reason for any paper's existence is the expression of puhlic opinion that opinion must be expressed. Editorials in this vein are accepted despite the fact that they may be contrary to our editorial belief.

The difference between guest editorials and letters to the editor lies in the fact that the editorials are frequently invited for controversial reasons or printed at the special request and under the auspices of some organization or group of individuals on campus. Also, editorials are more detailed and better constructed than the ordinary letter to the editor.

All in all, the publication of guest editorials is an attempt to provide an additional means of expression for students other than the limited editorial means of expression for students other than the limited editorial staff of the Flambeau. The views presented in these guest editorials are not necessarily the views of the editors.

Or Forever Hold Your Peace

To the Students:

It is not only the duty, but to the benefit of the students of Florida State College to do their part in preventing inflation by organizing a co-op here.

Recently, the state cabinet appropriated a loan of $6000 to the University of Florida for the purpose of establishing a co-op for the students there. If the state is willing to do this to help the boys save a little money, surely, if we here at FSC would work hard enough, they would do the same for us.

It's rather disgusting to have to pay seven cents for a candy bar which has "5c" printed plainly on the wrapper. If you're a member of a co-op, you are not only able to buy things at their usual retail price, but since it is a non-profitable organization, the surplus money will be divided equally among the consumers when the books are balanced, thus enabling you to buy at almost wholesale prices.

So when it's time to work for or against a co-op, be sure to give it your support. Remember, the only interest of the co-op is to protect you, the students.

Jackie Story.

Dear Editor:

I am In Favor of a "co-op" on campus. I believe it would do much to relieve this situation of monopolistic competition here. This business of paying 7 cents for a 5 cent nationally advertised candy bar is "redic."

More power to the "co-op."

Olivia Letton

Dear Editor:

At the last meeting of the Social Responsibility Committee of the YWCA, we discussed, among other things, the possibilities of forming a cooperative bookstore on this campus.

Everyone present expressed similar sentiments in favor of such a student enterprise. A student cooperative, we feel, would benefit the students by affording them textbooks at a lower cost. Too, we believe that cooperatives are democratic in the truest sense of the word. In such an enterprise, students would learn to work together for the common good. Since there is no substitute for practical experience, we believe that a cooperative would give us an invaluable education in democracy and at the same time help to lessen our living costs here.

We as a group pledge our support to any movement which might achieve the formation of such a cooperative on our campus.

Members of the Social Responsibility Committee, YWCA.

In This Our Time

Margie Clark

NATIONAL AFFAIRS:

A third of the Nation's soft coal miners are off of the job as a result of the general shutdown ordered by John L Lewis. Several hours before the deadline, the stop work movement which started Monday in Pennsylvania increased to include 11 more states. Word came from President Truman in Key West, Florida, that he had instructed the Justice department to charge Lewis with contempt if he does not move to halt the walkout of more than 400,000 soft coal miners.

A three man Senate subcommittee held their first session today in regard to inquiring into the relations between Senator Bilbo of Mississippi and a group of contractors who built Army fields in his home state. Col Douglas McKay, retired, and Col J L Person from the office of the chief of Army engineers, told reporters that they were present to testify about the building of Keesler Field at Biloxi, Miss, and Kay Field at Meridian. They made no other comment about the case however.

The monthly government checks of more than half a million veterans in school or job training will be reduced, eliminated or temporarily held up according to the Veterans Administration. They will include those who failed to report their earnings by Nov 5, and those who are affected by the GI Bill limiting amounts in accordance with size of earnings.

FOREIGN AFFAIRS:

Further progress on the future of Trieste was blocked by Russian Foreign Minister Viacheslav Molotov as he insisted at a meeting of the Big Four foreign ministers on the establishment of a customs union between Trieste and Yugoslavia. Russia's satellite, Yugoslavia, would by this plan gain powerful advantages in the proposed Trieste international zone. Because of this new issue brought out by Molotov, the foreign ministers reached no new agreements on the proposed statute for Trieste.

That American-Filipino relations were improving, and that the maintaining of United States bases in the Philippines was necessary for the mutual protection of both nations, was the view expressed by President Manuel Roxas in an interview Wednesday. He stated also that the major Filipino problems would be solved when their people could produce enough in their factories and on their farms to meet the needs of the United States.

Czechoslovakia allied itself with Western Nations in regard to supporting American trade policy Wednesday, easing strained relations with the United States. Czechoslovakia in an exchange of notes made public by the State department formally pledged its willingness to abide by American-championed plans for expanded international trade.

Sharpie the Fifinella

Are you suffering from college fatigue? Do your muscles rustle when you hustle? Does your brain crane in vain?

If so, don't despair! Just enclose three library fees stamped paid, along with the wrapper from a seven cent Hershey bar, and you too can receive Sharpie's latest novel entitled, "The Sons Are Our Undoing," or "To the Victors Belong the Goils."

Unpaid adv.

Sharpie noticed the statement of reasons against inter-school competition in sports. They were:

1. Impairs student's health
2. Makes for emphasis on one small group.

To the first statement, Sharpie reminds everyone that other schools have done such without producing physical wrecks! To the second, Sharpie can only say—mmmmmm! (and she does mean mmmmmm).

First letter in this week's mail comes from "Distressed" and Sharpie, being a woman, (or didn't you know?) can sympathise duly with her. Distressed writes that every night she is disturbed by a mouse who manages to weave its way into her wastepaper basket and raise holy heck. What to do, is the question!

Sharpie of course was right there with a solution! Everything (yes everything) has some excuse for existing in this world. Such is true of even the Ladies Home Journal which fits exactly over a wastepaper basket and is thick (get it?) enough to shut out all sound!

"Griped" writes Sharpie that she is having trouble in the library. (Ed. Note—doesn't everyone!) It seems that they start slamming books around and closing windows about fifteen minutes before closing time. She wants to know if Sharpie knows what to do in such a case.

Dear "Griped!" Sharpie knows what to do in every situation but that one! That is a problem that would stump Mr Anthony himself. Rumor has it that the librarian even keeps a gun under her desk which she will fire thricely if things don't move along fast enough. She's a poor shot too—so don't tarry!

Sad news has come to our ears. Most regrettable news! Oh, unlucky us! Sharpie is in the depths of despondency and can only relate the tale in verse.

"Frank Buck, he was coming here
But Frank Buck is no more
What Frankie thought was an ancient Moose
Turned out to be a flashy Caboose!"

Oh, sob!

Sharpie will close with a concensus of opinion on what the ideal boy must have!

1. Good personality
2. A Car
3. Good Looking
4. A Car
5. Good Dancer
6. A Car

Note: Numbers 1, 3, and 5 may be omitted if he has a car.

Bookplates Shown

Bookplates of humorous, armorial, abstract, symbolic, collegiate, special interest, and personal designs are the theme of the library exhibit in the center display case this week.

These bookplates represent a variety of sources: colleges, Dartmouth and Columbia; libraries: Florida State College faculty members, Dr Liddell and Dr Irish; and various well known persons, Edward M House, Sir Edmund W Gosse and Frederick Sessions.

Miss Frances F Haines is in charge of the displays. She states that many of the plates are taken from books bequeathed to the library. Others have been given by individual collectors.

Male Eye View

By Lucius Daniel

Ain't Gonna Study War Ne More

In sharp contrast to the last few weeks of this column, the poison pen is going to be laid aside while we take a look at the good side of things at the Tallahassee branch. When Dean McBride said at the beginning of this term that the regulations of the Dale Mabry students were going to be based on standards of practical necessity, he was expressing an idea which has been carried out to the last decimal place. The only violations of this idea, the cut system for men and the threat of compulsory weekly assemblies, have already been discarded, the former to a large degree by the efforts of Dean McBride.

At present the men at Tallahassee have a degree of freedom which is not equalled by many other colleges in the South, and the prospective student government is being formed with much less interference and direction from above than was true of the majority of older institutions. What is more, we have every promise that we will continue with the present minimum of restrictions until some future group of students proves that they are not mature enough to take care of themselves.

In order to keep up this atmosphere of sweetness and light, we are even going to add a few good words about the chow. Few students at Dale Mabry today can fail to remember meals in the service which were practical demonstrations of what can be done with food to turn it into something unfit for human consumption—something only barely good enough to be given even to soldiers. And most of us can contrast that with the fact that the dining hall here takes much inferior material and turns it into something fit for an Officer's Mess.

Any criticisms of the food which have appeared here were criticisms of quantity and not of quality—and we agree that the quantity is limited by the low prices we paid for the meals. However, most of the men we have met have said that they would be willing to pay a slightly higher price in order to receive the kind of meals we young growing boys need.

Man's Best Friend—

The other day in zoology we got around to discussing man's best friend, and the discussion reminded me of a dog I used to have named Gus.

Gus was a peculiar kind of dog: his mother had been a cocker spaniel, while his father had been an old hound dog who went by the name of Joe. When Gus was born he was shaped like a spaniel, with a short, squat body and floppy ears, but his hide was just plain hound. The only part of his skin he got from his mother were three black, worried lines between his eyes.

As a matter of fact, Gus went around looking so worried all the time that it began to bother me; so one day I asked him, "Gus, why is it that you worry so much?"

At that Gus gave me a disgusted look and said, "Dan, it's this human race that's got me worried. The jerks are going to the dogs, and I'm darned if I want the responsibility for them."

Citizens Association

It is an unfortunate but inescapable fact that the majority of student governments tend, sooner or later, to be more sensitive to conservative faculty opinion than to the ideas of the students who elected them. Assurance that this is a situation which is unlikely to arise in Dale Mabry is provided by the new organization created this week among students of the University branch—the Citizens association.

This association, formed of those students who are most interested in the government of our student body, has as its aims merely to observe the operation of the student government and to act as a means of acquainting the student government with the opinions of the majority of the students by means of polls and petitions in such cases as shall seem helpful.

"Our purpose is not to interfere in the machinery of government" says Association President John Nicholson, "but to make sure that it runs smoothly. In a democratic government the final responsibility rests on the voters, and we feel that it is the responsibility of the voters to keep themselves informed."

At the meeting of the Citizens Association held yesterday, a motion was passed that the president of the organization attend the weekly officer's meeting in the capacity of an observer, and report on them to the body of the association.

Tally Ho

SO THEY SAY:

My interest is in the future, cu I'm gonna spend the rest of my life there . . . Some guys aren't content with giving you a dirty dig. They go on and excavate . . . a yawn may be bad manners, but it's an honest opinion . . . You don't like the Tally weather. Be patient, it'll change in 10 minutes!

ODE TO AN 8:30!

Determination grips my soul
At break of every dawn;
I wrap the covers round me,
And determinedly sleep on!

HAVYA NOTICED?

The ever-increasing number of pin-ball machine addicts . . . the appropriated ex-AAF chairs scattered throughout the classrooms . . . the way fire-drills invariably pop up on the first cold night . . . the Dale Mabry dances, best ever on this campus . . . the football-mad FSC-ers . . . (Those who didn't join the exodus to Jax for the Georgia-Florida game or to G'ville for the Villanova game are now ready to take off for Tampa and the N C State-Florida game there, accompanied by a whirl of parties and dances they would stagger even the most seasoned weekend-er. Those in on the know assure me that they will continue 'til the WHEE hours of the morning!)

SUPERB SUBJECT MATTER:

The impossibility of educatio . . . knowledge for what? . . . Don shoot the Professor (read it and find out why not!) . . . The Disadvantages of being educated These would make excellent titles for anyone's treatise, but they've already been taken. For confirmation, consult Harper's and Atlantic Monthly.

BRIGHT IDEA GIRL!

The one who said, "I send my homework to Information, Please If they can't do it, you get 2 bucks!"

Easter Island in the Pacific has been a place of sepulchre for centuries as is evidenced by gigant edifices to the dead.

The Florida Flambeau

1946-1947 STAFF
EDITORIAL STAFF

SHIRLEY RODGERS	Edito
BETTY DOWD, B J McLEOD, LOLA ROSE	Associate Edito
JOYCE PETTY	Managing Edito
BARBARA FARRAR	Assistant Managing Edito
LAURA LEE BUTLER, JEAN DOUGLAS	News Editor

Copy Editor	Winifred La
Assistant Copy Editor	Eleanor Bay
Society Editor	Madge Pilche
Assistant Society Editor	Paulette Sla
Feature Editors	Alicia Armstrong, Barbara Beckma
Sports Editor	Evelyn She
Outside News Editor	Marjorie Clar
Opinion Editor	June Ortndsta
Headline Editor	M J Sherm
Columnists	Beryl Kitchen and "Sharpie"
Picture Editor	Paulette Slan
Art Editor	Jean Share
Copy Girl	Robin Hi

REPORTERS: Dorothy Aberle, Katheryn Aspinwall, Inez Augustine, Jeanne Bagley, Audrey Melba Bech, Barbara Brown, John W Cash, Reginald Cash, Hazel Clarkso Bob Cooksey, Mary Elizabeth Conant, Carol Coughlan, Lucius Daniel, Doris Lov Dorsey, Francine Dunning, Jeanne DuPree, Mary Frances Ewart, Jane Hardacre Jeani Harris, Alice Haywood, Linda Herold, Dorothy Ann Holland, Mildred France Hull, Lois Elizabeth Lovett, Rosemary McCay, Bobbia Annie Meffert, Elizabet Milton, Anne Moore, Cheryl Muster, Francis North, Christine Puckett, Janic Richey, Charma Rosenvaig, Jackia Story, Charlotte Scott, Mary Charles Skipper Pat Small, Nancy Stevens, Theresa Sellers, Alice Sharp, Betty Sue Tayloe, An Tucker, Betty Wilkinson, Nancy Wright, Jeanne Zewadski.

BUSINESS STAFF

Business Manager	Vivian L. Scheafle
Advertising Manager	Nancy Steven
Circulation Manager	Margie Berr
Exchange Manager	Gladys Clar
Billing Assistant	Jean Lieberma

Entered as second class mail matter, January 30, 1915, at the post office at Tallahassee, Fla under the act of Congress of March 3 1879.

Member
Intercollegiate Press

It is the policy of the Flambeau to grant equal space and prominence to anyone wishing to present a contrary opinion whenever opinions on controversial questions are voiced in its columns.

Sorority Chit Chat

Parties ranging from after-din-r coffees to hay rides and iener roasts made up the so-l activities for the Greeks this st week. And more are still to me. . . .

• • •

Skippy" Corry gave a hayride d wiener roast at her home in ancy Friday night in honor of e Alpha Delta Pi pledges.

At a coffee Sunday night the edges entertained the members th skits.

• • •

Sunday night at supper at the pha Gamma Delta house was a ener roast for Alpha Gams and eir dates. Aileen Sayers was in arge.

Jeanne Dudley,a freshman here st year, was married to Edmund en in Orlando Sunday at the esbyterian church. Frances Mc-l and Marty Brokaw were two her attendants and Betty Dot lbraith helped at the recep-n Betsy Bird, social chairman, will in charge of a supper to be en Sunday night. The pledges entertain the members with skit which will be directed by drey Baird, skit chairman.

• • •

The annual Thanksgiving party en by the Alpha Xi Delta edges for the active members l take place next week. Two thdays were celebrated with rties at the Alpha Xi house s week. The party on Sunday ht was in honor of Billy Ka-ski and on Monday, Martha rell.

• • •

Miss Louise Richards, national veling secretary, is visiting the lta Delta Delta sorority this ek The Tri Delts held an in-mal supper for her on Tuesday ht and a coffee in her honor Wednesday.

On Saturday afternoon the Tri Delt pledges gave a party for the edges of the other sororities in form of a fashion show. A tball theme was used, and the orations included silver, gold, blue ribbon-trimmed goal ts and pennants with the var-s sorority initials on them. Sal-Caldwell was in charge of the ty

• • •

Last Saturday afternoon the ges of the Delta Phi Epsilon re busy fixing up the general earance of their house and m. They were rewarded that ning when many of the big ters took them out to dinner.

• • •

Last Monday night the Pi Beta Phi had Dr Claude Flory as their st speaker for their monthly Phi Night." Dr Flory read ous selections from the works d William Dunsany. Coffee ookies were served following reading.

Miss Helen Lloyd, member of physical education department who recently graduated from the University of North Carolina where she was a Pi Phi, was present for the Florida Beta function.

• • •

Thetas and their dates were entertained at their usual Sunday night supper with a short skit put on by Jane Bennett, Janet Little, Bobbye Barber, and Marie Chillingworth.

• • •

The KD's had as their guest last Thursday, Mrs Harry Blanchard of Pensacola, an alumna and a delegate to the music convention being held here.

Sunday evening there will be an informal coffee for the actives and pledges.

• • •

Phi Mu pledges entertained at a tea Thursday afternoon and tomorrow night there will be an informal get-together at 8.00 for both actives and pledges.

Regina Tomasello was in charge of decorations, Mary Jo Gwynn and Vance Jelks, entertainment, Gladys Clark, food, and Dot Daniels, invitations.

• • •

Delta Zeta pledges elected their officers at a meeting last Tuesday. Dot Crowsin was chosen president; Carrie Dixon, vice-president; Dot Wade, secretary; and Beverly Bentz, treasurer.

"More China" was the title of the skit presented by the Delta Zeta pledges at their party Tuesday afternoon. The girls introduced the various sororities with sayings from Confucius.

Betty Parker, alumna and member of Phi Kappa Phi honorary, was married to Dr Elmer D Holland November 12 in Thomasville, Ga.

• • •

Redecorating has been going on all week at the Sigma Kappa house. Furniture is being replaced and re-upholstered, new drapes are being hung and a new rug has been purchased for the sun parlor.

Alumna Cleo Loches was a visitor this week at the Sigma Kappa house and Lynette Patton, national officer, is a guest at the house this week-end.

• • •

The Alpha Chis held a spaghetti supper and party Saturday night for members and dates. The house was decorated with a collegiate theme and the theme was carried out in the skit presented during the evening. Jane Arnold, Sally Slater, and Pat Harrison were in charge of arrangements.

Recently elected pledge officers of Alpha Chi Omega are Jennie Elder, president, Dot Schoonmaker, secretary, and Camilla DeNisco, treasurer.

Monday night a joint chapter meeting with a cultural program was held for actives and pledges.

• • •

Zeta Tau Alpha actives will entertain the pledges at a party Monday afternoon.

MAKE YOUR XMAS
APPOINTMENT NOW!

New Shipment of Frames Just Arrived

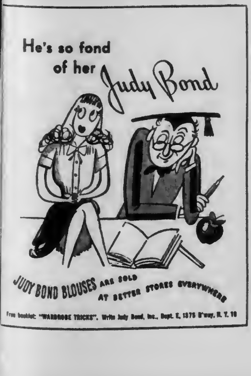
PIKE STUDIO



He's so fond of her Judy Bond

JUDY BOND BLOUSES ARE SOLD AT BETTER STORES EVERYWHERE

Free booklet: "WARDROBE TRICKS", Write Judy Bond, Inc., Dept. E, 1375 B'way, N. Y. 18

Frilly Curtains Add the 'Feminine Touch' For Girls Living in Dale Mabry Barracks

Servicemen who might return to Dale Mabry now would never recognize the bachelor officers' quarters that they left behind when they were discharged from active duty.

Outside, painters are busy at work changing the olive drab to a bright cheerful white. Inside, the rooms are gay and comfortable with the frilly curtains, scatter rugs and boudoir dolls which the new feminine inhabitants have added.

As Nezzie Bowles, a freshman in the Army house put it, "We girls have enjoyed fixing our little homes, and now we take great pleasure in the results of our efforts to improve the situation out here."

Recent additions furnished by the administration are book cases, towel racks and window shades. Some of the girls have invested in tables and chairs from the neighborhood stores. Sara Bowser, a sophomore in the Marine house, purchased a raw-wood table from Sears and has painted it with white enamel. Necessity is the mother of invention. Neal Ayala, a junior living at the base, gives this recipe for an emergency typewriter table: "Empty an overnight suitcase and set it upright on the floor with the two sides open. Next, put the shipping case your machine came in over the top of the suitcase to support the typewriter and place a chair in front of the entire structure."

The girls at the base have shown a great deal of originality in their interior decoration. Jayne Mills has a unique center-piece in her room—a robin's nest filled with flowers. Colleen Martin has posted a bulletin board for the sake of convenience.

The influence of collegiate style predominates throughout the four buildings. Evelyn Ouse and Bobbie Glover demonstrate this trend exceptionally well, for their room sports a colorful display of pennants, athletic and band letters o the wall. They also have a cigar and an orchid pinned to the wall to represent outstanding "dates," and a Hawaiian lei adorns their bed-lamp.

Nearly all the girls have their walls plastered with pictures and photographs, and the dressers and shelves take on a new personality with the addition of perfume bottles, cosmetics and sewing kits. Teddy bears, dolls, dogs and other stuffed animals occupy places of importance on the upper and lower bunks, now covered by lovely spreads.

Iris Shuler has put her skill at handwork to good advantage. She has embroidered delicate doilies and scarves and above her bed is an example of her subtle humor. She has a framed motto which she made herself that reads "Home Was Never Like This."

Some ideas are repeated over and over in the majority of rooms, such as pictures of Cornel Wilde and other favorites, but a few of the girls have added personal touches which reflect their own individuality. Carolyn Ellis has maracas from Cuba on her bookcase and Heinrich, a wooden alligator constructed by a German prisoner of war from whom he got his name, helps make it "just like home" to her roomate.

Leopold and Manville are a little horse and rider which ride the light cord in the room of Helen Penn, a freshman in the Navy house who says, "With each new improvement, I am getting to like it here at Dale Mabry Field more and more. Even the line strung across the room with last night's laundry drying on it is an integral part of my room."

Culpepper Speaks To Kappa Delta Pi

Six New Pledges Presented To Educational Honarary

Mr J Broward Culpepper, director of the division of education, addressed the members and pledges of Kappa Delta Pi, educational honorary, at their meeting Tuesday night in the club room of the Longmire building. At this time six new pledges were presented.

Taking as his subject "Teachers Are People," Mr Culpepper advised the students on how they could be well-balanced individuals —teachers who are human beings —with a fresh, excellent point of view. "Be alone and relax," he counseled. "Think about yourself as an individual in society. Find time to be with your equals and exchange ideas with them in order to stretch your mentality.

"Look over the world and see what's there," he continued. "Keep the things of today by keeping abreast of current news and being interested in the arts and music. Participate in some way to make the world a better one; contribute to life in the community, but don't become involved. Be selective in your activities," he concluded.

New Kappa Delta Pi pledges present at the meeting were: Virginia Fran Gallemore, Ruth Jones, Beatrice Lewis, Julia Nesius, Mary Louise Perfect and Mabel Ruth Pope.

Erin Poythress was in charge of the program and Nell McNeil, Margaret Harley and Ida Lula Davis were responsible for the decorations and refreshments.

100 Upperclassmen Make Field Trip

Correctional Homes Visited By Students and Teachers

Approximately 100 psychology and sociology students with their instructors made a field trip to the Florida State Institution for Boys at Marianna and the State Hospital in Chattahoochee last Thursday, November 14.

The group, which traveled in two chartered buses, left the Florida State College campus early Thursday morning and arrived in Marianna before noon. At the FSI they heard an address given by Mr Ralph Dossier, superintendent of the school, and then made a tour of the buildings, athletic fields and the classrooms.

Superintendent Dossier explained that the general system of the school is the same for both the delinquent white and negro boys. He stated that the classes for the students are arranged so that each boy has his own individual, progressive work; although those of the same classification meet in one classroom where an older student serves as assistant instructor. The academic classes meet every other day, while vocational studies such as shop work, painting and plumbing fill the alternate days.

At the State Hospital in Chattahoochee, four of the doctors there gave illustrated lectures on various types of mental disorders. The doctors interviewed some of the patients at the hospital in the presence of the students, so that they could see how a mentally deranged person would react to various types of questionings. While in Chattahoochee, the field group did not make a tour of any of the wards or buildings, but attended the lectures in the large recreation room.

Dr Hugh L Waskom, Mr Pearls, Mrs Milton R Charles and Miss Margaret C Bristol were among the faculty members making the trip which, although open to members of any sociology or psychology class, was limited to students of junior or senior standing.

Most birds have four toes, but some have three, and ostriches have only two.

Articles to Be Sold

Mrs Edith Gulick, director of the Longmire building, announced this week that an auction sale of the unclaimed articles of the lost and found department will be held on December 4 in the Longmire auditorium.

All the articles that have been unclaimed for 60 days will be offered for sale except the more valuable articles, which will be kept longer in case the owners call for them.

Mrs Gulick also stated that the Wedgewood plate which was reported missing last week from the main lounge of the Longmire building has not yet been returned to the lost and found department.

HAPPY
Thanksgiving
THE MECCA

Banquet, Freshman Party Featured by Religious Groups

A faculty-student banquet, a coffee, a housewarming and a party for the freshmen living at Dale Mabry highlight the activities of the student religious groups on campus this week.

The Baptist Student Union will have their annual faculty-student formal banquet this Saturday at 8 o'clock in the East Dining Hall. Members of the faculty and students attending will meet before the banquet in the Longmire building lounge. Speakers will be Dr Doak S Campbell, Dr John McGuire, executive secretary of the Florida Baptist Convention, Mrs Ernest Cason, and Dr Wallace Rogers, pastor of the First Baptist church in Pensacola. Louise Illingworth, president of BSU, will be the mistress of ceremonies.

The Canterbury club students honored the Right Reverend Frank A Juhan at a supper Sunday night at Ruge Hall.

Pat Laney, president of the Methodist freshmen, is in charge of a party to be given for the freshmen living at Dale Mabry Friday night at 8 o'clock at the Methodist Student house. The program is to be based on an Intercollegiate sports-meet theme.

The Newman club has planned a coffee on Sunday night at 7:30 in the clubroom of the Longmire building. The freshmen members are in charge of the entertainment.

The Presbyterian students gave a housewarming party for Reverend and Mrs Lawrence I Stell in their new home. Special guests were the faculty sponsors, Dr and Mrs Hudson Rogers, Dr and Mrs Milton Carothers, Miss Elizabeth Lynn and Miss Sarah Herndon.

Report of Tests To Be Mailed Soon

2946 Receive Free Service; Unit to Return Next Year

The reports of the tuberculosis tests have been developed, and as soon as the radiologist and State Health department can interpret and record the findings, the results will be mailed to their owners, according to Miss Fannie P Shaw, who was in charge of this program on campus.

Miss Shaw also announced that 2,946 persons were X-rayed at Florida State College. This number includes the whole college population which encompasses faculty, students, clerical workers, maids, cooks, dairymen, farmers, and all other personnel employed by Florida State College, which is estimated at approximately 4,000.

"I was very enthusiastic when I first learned that almost 3,000 persons had been Xrayed," announced Miss Shaw, "but when I found that this constituted only 75 per cent of the entire population, I realized that our greatest concern is why the remaining 25 per cent did not accept the opportunity of receiving free X-rays. There's still a big job to be done in health education on all levels.

"This free service will be offered again next fall," continued Miss Shaw, "and it is hoped that we will have 100 per cent cooperation, and make up that lag of one-fourth of our population."

"I wish to thank the student-faculty committee and all of the sub-committees for the splendid services they rendered during this program," concluded Miss Shaw.

POLAR TEMPERATURES

Peary, the explorer, reporter below zero temperatures ranging from 11 to 30 degrees Fahrenheit at the North Pole. Amundsen reported a temperature of about 18 below at the South Pole.

Soda Shop "Casanova" Gives Views on Feminine Customers

By Beryl Kitchen

"Van Johnson with black hair" —That's how Jack Keston, Casanova of the Soda Shop, is described by his co-workers behind the Alum's soda fountain counter.

Jack is in himself a campus institution, almost as much a part of this place as the ivy-clad walls, for, after four months of working at the Sweet Shoppe and a year and a half in the service of the Alum, this young soda-jerk knows everyone. Because of his friendliness, Jack is beloved by students and faculty alike, despite his devilish insults, flippant air, and the practical jokes to which no one is exempt!

Always ready to do a "buddy" a favor, Jack consented graciously to this interview, while muttering something under his breath about "I really oughta be studying my chemistry instead." Never let it be said, though, that this young man would be one to put work ahead of feminine companionship, or, to be more exact, companionship, period. His seeming reluctance was just one small part of that unpredictable personality of his that keeps everyone guessing—and liking it.

Jack, having been exposed to life at Florida State College for so long, is as well-versed at the age of 18 in The Ways of College Women as most "men", five years his senior, like to believe they are. Little escapes Jack's eagle eye, and from his shrewd observations he has evolved quite a philosophy about women.

Always a diplomat, Jack claims that he likes "all the girls," embellishing this by adding, "The law of averages says that one outta every 100 girls is good-looking, and it looks to me like they all came here." See what we mean about Jack's irresistible charm? Moments later, of course, he spoiled this by admitting that there are "some goons, but not too many."

Ready to share his "heaven" with the 508 new males on campus this year, Jack said "I like girls' schools, natch, but having some men around doesn't hurt things any." One phase of co-education, though, which has proved perplexing to Jack is that he often sees a gorgeous gal with an Ugly Chile. "Be derned if I know why" was Jack's short frank answer to the problem, as he shook his black wavy head solemnly.

When he finishes at Leon high school in June, 1948, Jack is considering the University of Kentucky for his next stomping grounds, because, he added with a wicked gleam in his dark eyes, "It's noted for whiskey, women and horses." After 2 years of merry-making, Jack plans to turn serious and become a pilot in the Air Corps—though that is no guarantee that he'll be serious!

Suddenly, at this stage in the interview, Jack's buddy-in-mischief, red-headed Doug Grider called a temporary halt to the discussion by yelling "Chemistry interesting tonight, chum?"

Jack dismissed him hurriedly. "Aw, be quiet, you dope. I'm helping this girl outta a jam."

"Hmmm, she'll be in a jam if you help her, Jack" commented Mrs Louise Burns.

Ignoring Doug's desires to make further "rude" interruptions, Jack busied himself putting us "in the know" about his extra-curricular activities . . . well, some of them, anyhow. He was perfectly willing to reveal to us that he liked to fish, hunt (he's a crack shot, incidently, in the Junior Division of the National Rifle Association), ride, and swim, but as to what he did on dates, Jack drew the line sharply. "That's personal business, girl", he said.

"Love don't make much difference to me," he staunchly affirmed, adding that he was probably destined to be a bachelor.

Doug reared his red head once more, shattering Jack's plans. "Aw, you can't be a bachelor. You ain't old enough!"

"Aw, tell me. How'd you manage to get so ugly in just fourteen years?" Doug, properly squelched, was now silent except for the volley of paper daggers and airplanes which buzzed us from behind the counter during the remainder of the chat.

Bored with out delving into his life and affairs, Jack left us long enough to make a "deal" on a coming Leon game. The question of odds finally settled to his satisfaction, Jack returned to impart to us further bits of irrelevant information, such as: He likes to read "nothing but the comic books", but occasionally breaks down to read Treasure Island or The Gold Bug. He no longer attends Boy Scout meetings because a "mob of youngsters and upstarts" have succeeded his gang. He claims that he cares little for the title of "lady-killer", but incriminated himself with the comment that the color of a gal's hair matters not to him. It's the face that counts! "Their figures attract me, too. I'm interested in math," he says. Amen, you little devil.

Further dissertations on the subject of the fair sex eventually led Jack to a disclosure which startled us from our complacency —but fast! His favorite hobby, he announced, (if it were possible) would be "collecting good-looking gals." Calmly he added, "I've already got a few in my room." . . . pause . . . Finally, "Varga gals, I mean." Whew! Taking us even deeper into his confidence, Jack whispered, "I've got about 50 in my room, but I gotta hide some of 'em from Momma!"

Upon this, we left—taking with us more confusion than ever about Jack's unique personality and reams of shorthand notes which were about as baffling as Jack himself.

His boss, Mary Parker, business manager of the Soda Shop, expressed our feelings best when she declared, "Jack gets away with murder around here, but we couldn't get along without him." And she is so right! Jack's sparkling personality keeps many of us going when we come down with one of those inevitable "Oh-what's-the-use?" moods. Here's to Jack!

Class Schedules

Class schedule bulletins are expected off the press by the second week in December. Miss Eva May Atwood, assistant registrar, has announced that they are now in the hands of the printer.

Dale Mabry Will Hold Date Dance

Tomorrow night from 8 to 12 an informal "Date Dance" will be held at the Officer's Club at Dale Mabry. This dance is for students of the Tallahassee branch of the University of Florida, students from Gainesville here for the weekend, their wives, sweethearts and dates, according to Jesse Wilson, social chairman, in charge of arrangements for the dance.

Music will be supplied by Bob Smith's swing band. Chris Holley is in charge of refreshments.

Specially invited faculty guests are L E Catterson, Halley B Lewis and Miss Sarah Cloud.

Scene Stealer

50¢ plus tax

Just Red
for Lip Appeal

Steal the show with The Season's RIGHT Red as your color focus! Just Red is so right it's the only shade offered in the lustrous Roger & Gallet lipstick. On the lips, its beauty lasts . . . and lasts . . . and lasts

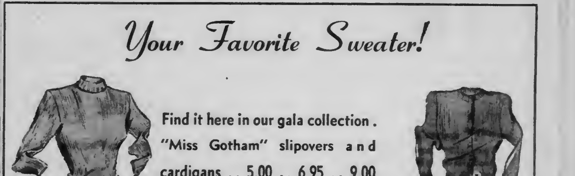
LIPSTICK
ROGER & GALLET

Parfums • Dry Perfume • Lip Ade • Toilet Soap

HI TEEN AGERS!

We have a newly arrived shipment of 'Seventeen's" meant just for you. Sizes 7-15.

THE FRENCH SHOP



Your Favorite Sweater!

Find it here in our gala collection. "Miss Gotham" slipovers and cardigans .. 5.00 .. 6.95 .. 9.00

P. W. WILSON COMPANY
TALLAHASSEE'S FINEST DEPARTMENT STORE
—SINCE 1837—

Catterson Speaks On TVA Experiment

Accomplishments Aided In Atomic Work at Oak Ridge

"The power supplied to Oak Ridge, the home of the atomic bomb, was made possible by the Tennessee Valley Authority," declared Lorace E Catterson, instructor in political science, in an address Tuesday afternoon in the Longmire auditorium.

"Among accomplishments of the TVA are the increased navigability of the Tennessee river, excellent reforestation and the drop in unemployment in the area. Three-fourths of its power went into war industries, and it furnished chemicals to the armed forces," he continued.

Mr Catterson outlined his speech by relating the philosophy of the TVA, what it is, and the accomplishments it has made. The philosophy behind the TVA program was agricultural and social reform bringing about large scale employment, he stated. This 750 billion dollar construction was first inaugurated under Roosevelt's New Deal program. The TVA as an experiment in decentralization with which local agricultural agencies, farmers and colleges aided, was quite effective.

"Included in this social and economic reform project," Mr Catterson stated, "are the TVA's 26 dams. Seventeen of these dams are storage dams from which waters flow into five major tributaries. Nine more are for lock and navigation use. Ninety-eight per cent of the power in Tennessee is generated through the TVA"

Dr Richard T Baker, journalist and educator, will speak on the "Orient in Transition" December 2 at 12:30 in the Little Theater.

Civil Service Exams To Be Given Soon

Seniors Ara Eligible For Junior Assistant Rating

Examinations for junior professional assistants will soon be given by the United States Civil Service Commission to all seniors who wish to take them, Dr Elizabeth Andrews, director of personnel announced this week. The basic entrance salary for the various positions is $2,644.80.

Applications for the positions must be in Washington by December 3. At the college personnel office, forms 5000-AB are available for this purpose as well as sample questions which will appear on the examination.

In general the duties of junior professional assistants consist of analyzation and appraisement of records, figures and documents. The assistants also do research and investigation work in such fields as archives, chemistry, economics, geography, mathematics, metallurgy, physics, statistics and textile technology.

General requirements for the positions are a four-year college course with a specific number of hours in various subjects depending upon the particular department in which work is being done.

by
MISS SEVENTEEN

You'll pass all figure exams with flying colors when knowing "Power Miracle" coaches your curves. Bi-directional stretch controls with a caress . . . leaves you twistable, turnable, free as a breeze! In girdle, panty, and brief-brief. Black, white, or nude

$5 to $10 at better stores

MISS SEVENTEEN FOUNDATIONS
New York 1, N. Y.

CRITICS ACCLAIM!

Judy 'n Jill "Botany Brand" wool crepe swathed round the hips and finishing in a flirty bustle. Red, blue or green. Sizes 7 to 15.

LISTEN TO JUDY 'N JILL 'N JOHNNY

$29.95 Every Saturday at 12 Noon E.S.T. over Mutual Station W T A L

"BOTANY" BRAND FABRIC STYLED BY Judy 'n Jill

Sponsored by

The Vogue

Boys' Recital Will Be Given 8:15 Tonight

Public Invited to Attend Music Performances

The School of Music of Florida State College will present its annual boys' recital under the direction of Mary Reeder and Rebecca Rodenberg at 8:15 tonight in the recital hall of the music annex. Compositions by Beethoven-Hodson, Schumann-Schaum and Liszt-Bendel will be featured.

The program will consist of the following: "The Metronone," Beethoven-Hodson, by Freddie Parker; "Fossil Parade", Maler, by LeRoy Collins; "Knight Rupert", Schumann-Schaum, by Royal Mattice; "Ding Dong Bell", Swift, by Bobby Bryson; "Etudiettes", by Richard West; two folk songs, "Tambourine", Rameau-Thompson, by Byrou Block and "Old Chief Metatakwa", Mokrejs, by Bair Boggs; "Laughing Fingers", Nevin, by Warren Dixon; "Procession of the Seven Dwarfs", Long, by Sandy Proctor; "Contra Dance in G", Beethoven, by Bobby Leslie.

"Two Finger Tommy" and "Old Man Accent", Greene, by Dickie Kuersteiner; "Come and Play", Frost, by Jack Holland; "Heigh! Ho! Jack Frost", Bentley, by Edward Jones; "Haunted House", Aaron, by Drew Boggs; "Minuet", Boccherini, by Edwin Jones, violinist, with Bobby Leslie accompanying; "Rider's Story", Schumann, by Larry West; "Ouitar Serenade", Gaynor, by David McCullough; "Three Blind Mice", Thompson, by Gene Sellers; "Hungarian Rhapsody", Liszt-Bendel, by Ryan Edwards.

The boys' recital has been an annual presentation for the past six years. The public is invited to attend.

◆

Of 65,000.00 Protestants on the continent of Europe, 40,000,000 live in Germany.

College Comments

Silence please; station FSC is on the air, giving you the news from colleges all over the south.

Flash—Students at Agnes Scott are trying to get a three-day Thanksgiving holiday. If this does not succeed, already the question of a holiday for next year has been put on the discussion slate and will be voted on by the students.

Flash—The University of Dubuque is getting underway with its Christmas plans. One hundred fifty students have signed up to sing in "The Messiah", which will be presented December 15.

Flash—Students of Florida Southern will hear Hubert Agar, Pulitzer Prize winning author and former editor of the Louisville Courier, speak on the problems of world collaboration. This will mark the beginning of this season's Town Hall series which will run through March 21.

—Humorous Verse—

Dedicated to the ex-service men:

God gave the pig
A mighty snout to dig
And root about.
And claws like iron
He gave the mole
With which to burrow
And dig his hole.
But God forgot
In the human riggin'
To provide a hoe
For foxhole diggin'.

R R Jeck

And then there was the intellectual:

As I was laying on the green,
A small English book I seen.
Carlyle's Essay on Burns was the edition,
So I left it laying in the same position.

Anonymous

Of, for the life of a poet!
Here lies John Bun,
He was killed by a gun.
His name was not Bun, but Wood,
But Wood would not rhyma with gun,
But Bun would.

Flash—During the Alumnae Seminar week-end at the Woman's College of the University of North Carolina, two very distinguished visitors were present: Max Lerner, widely known author, editor and now chief editorial writer for the newspaper PM; and Dr J T Cleveland, preacher at Duke University and member of Duke University school.

Flash—Stetson receives gift of $54,000 from C E Merrill, alumnus who attended the University on borrowed funds in 1901. This gift is in the form of common stock of Safeway Stores, Inc.

—Quotable Quotes—

"Life has a value only when it has something valuable as its object."—Helgel

"I benefit myself in aiding him."—Socrates

"True love is like ghosts, which everybody talks about and few have seen."—La Rochfoucauld

Just tweddling in

There was a divinity student named Tweddle
Who didn't want his degree.
He didn't mind the Tweddle
He just hated the Tweddle-D-D.
That's all folks—

Sullivan Sees Bright Future Ahead If Two State Colleges Are Co-Educational

By Joho Sollivan

Johnny Sullivan, president of the boys' student body at Dale Mabry, was born in Tallahassee 28 years ago. "And I plan to stay here," the six-foot-four Southerner drawled. "I think there's a big future ahead for Florida, not only for the University and the College, but for the whole state."

In 1937 Johnny got started in politics as president of the student body at Leon high school. He was an outstanding athlete in football, basketball, track and baseball; and when he graduated that year, several southern schools tried to get him for their eleven-man team. Johnny was loyal to his home state though and accepted a scholarship to attend the University of Florida.

"I was plenty busy that year," said Johnny. "And to make it worse, I hurt my knee in spring practice. You see, I was planning to be a physical education coach, and the knee injury was too bad for me to keep on at that." Johnny finally decided to come back to Tallahassee and get a job. He worked five years for the government with the United States Engineers.

"Then in March 1943 I went to Camp Blanding," Johnny smiled, and continued, "I guess that part of my life is just like every other boy's. I was, at different times, in the air corps, the quartermaster corps and the infantry. I was a buck sergeant when I went overseas, and I was a buck sergeant when I came back. That was in December of '45," he explained.

Johnny, the civilian, decided to take up his college education again, and went to summer school at the University of Florida. "But I sure was glad they made Florida State College co-ed, 'cause now I can go to school right in my hometown. You know," he began, and his expression grew serious, "a lot more boys and girls in Florida would go to school and go in their own state if there were a co-educational college here at Tallahassee, one at Gainesville and another somewhere in the southern part of the state. There's an attraction in having a co-ed school near home," stated Johnny.

The boys' student president said that he had wanted to take a group major in government, psychology and speech, but since such a thing isn't offered in the curriculum at FSC, he is taking political science and a speech course. "I haven't any definite plans about what I want to do after college," he said, "but I think I might like government work of some sort."

Johnny said he is already busy at his new job on the Dale Mabry campus, and that he hopes the "faculty and boys and girls will plan and work together for a bigger and better state school."

◆

Spirogira Party

Tonight the Spirogira goats are giving a party for members of the honorary. At this time the goats will give a skit and present original gifts made for the members.

Saturday night after Playnight, Spirogira and Esteren are giving a party for the team members.

The Early Shopper

Catches the Gift!

Start doing your Xmas Shopping now at Yon's—Your Sporting Equipment Center.

Seek it First
YON'S
HARDWARE

DM Upperclassmen

All upperclassmen students living at Dale Mabry who have not as yet had the opportunity to vote on selections for the feature section of the 1946-47 Flastacowo may do so in lower Westcott Monday afternoon and Tuesday morning. A booth for this purpose will be open from 2 until 4:30 on Monday and from 10:30 until 12 on Tuesday.

Christmas Program To Be Presented

On Sunday evening, December 8 at 8:15 p m, in Westcott auditorium, the music department will present its annual Christmas program. It will be the "Christmas Portion" of Handel's "Messiah."

Soloists for the evening will be Paula Jean Teagarden, soprano; Phyllis DeKalb, alto; Walter James, tenor, and Herman Gunter baritone; Peter Jensen will perform at the organ. The 100-voice college choir and the orchestra will also participate under the direction of William H Presser.

Although this is a standard work, it has never before been presented at this university.

Man on Roof Fools Expectant Crowd

"Is ha going to jump?"

One minute passes.

The man continues to stare down at the people from his position on the roof of Westcott's auditorium.

Two minutes elapse and each is filled with suspense as students look up and wonder what the man's intentions might be.

With a jerk he moves back gnd draws from his pocket a handkerchief to wipe his face.

Is he afraid? No. Quite leisurely he picks up a scaffold and begins to repair a column. Work is his reason for being 50 feet up in the wide open spaces.

Publisher Speaks

Mr Henry Wrenn, publisher of the Daily Democrat, spoke at the 201 journalism classes Wednesday morning on the practical side of journalism.

Mr Wrenn stated, "Greater opportunities than ever before are now open in the newspaper field" He atressed the fact that journalists should learn to write briefly and simply in words that the average newspaper reader understands. Moreover, he pointed out the advantages of a liberal and well-developed background as preparation for a journalistic career.

HOLIDAY TOURS TO HAVANA
VIA PAN AMERICAN WORLD AIRWAYS
Christmas Tour—New Year's Eve Tour
Rates $102.50 Plus U. S. Tax $4.50
Includes Transportation, Hotel and Meals, Sightseeing Trips
3 Days—2 Nights at Hotel Sevilla Biltmore

LANIER TRAVEL SERVICE
MRS. HARRY VAN BRUNT, Mgr.
Room 2, Lewis Bank Building Phone 1240

Copyright 1946, Liggett & Myers Tobacco Co.

Term Papers Are Due

. Z 106

The Florida Flambeau

Published by the Students of Florida State College

Merry Christmas to You

VOL. XXXIII, No. 8

Tallahassee, Florida

DECEMBER 6, 1946

Motion Fails Before Group Of Senators

Vote of 15-16 Defeats Suggestion of Faculty Advisory Committee

Senate Votes in Favor Of Sunday Dancing

A motion to establish an advisory group from the Faculty Committee on Student Affairs to assist in senate consideration of the new constitution was defeated in senate last Wednesday afternoon by a vote of 16 to 15. This committee was planned to function in purely advisory capacity at the request of the senate.

The plan to form a similar committee to assist the Student Constitutional Committee was rejected by this group during its last meeting, November 25.

Several members of senate felt that such a committee would place senate under obligation to carry out its suggestions, as well as to request its opinion on all issues.

However, the actual intention of having such a group, said arah Lewis, would be merely to offer the opinion of faculty members on such matters as senate might wish advice. She added that it would also serve to indicate what might be possible for the students to accomplish in drafting the oew constitution.

One disadvantage, suggested arbara Irving, would be in the unfavorable effect the formation of such a committee would have on student body morale. Students feel, in general, she said, that influence by faculty members would result in loss of original aims.

Moreover, a sub-committee from the larger faculty committee, would not truly represent its entire body, but would offer, in the final analysis, only individual opinions of a few faculty members. At present members of the constitutional committee are continuously asking advice of faculty members, particularly political science teachers, and so have the advantage of their help without official connection.

It is necessary, however, said rah Lewis, that the faculty committee be acquainted with the problems of the students to arrive at any real understanding of their aims. The constitution must eventually be approved by the Faculty Committee on Student Affairs, and it would be very discouraging to the students who have worked on the new constitution so long, to have it rejected when it is finished. It would therefore be better to shape it now so as to meet approval not only from the students, but also from the faculty.

A motion was made by Betty Hunter that the faculty committee be formed, but this proposal was defeated by a 16 to 15 vote.

Other business considered dur-

(Continued on page two)

Editors Resign at Faculty Intervention

—Three editors of the Wooden Horse, St Petersburg Junior College student publication, resigned yesterday in protest to faculty censorship of the newspaper as a result of the printing of two student letters to the editor.

Dr Roland Wakefield, president of the college, stated that the faculty censorship was brought about not by the letters but in an attempt to keep profane and obscene matter out of the publication. The editors deny that such matter has ever been printed.

One of the letters which have caused the difficulty at St Pete Junior College was written by a war veteran against the college authorities "pushing the veterans around."

The other letter reportedly criticized the barring of cigarette sales from the College Union building.

Calendars on Sale Friday in Westcott

Engagement calendars being published by the Flastacowo will be on sale Friday, December 14, in lower Westcott, according to Louise Sims, editor of the annual.

Blanks on which students are asked to indicate the number desired will be put in the post office boxes. Alumnae wishing to obtain a calendar are asked to get in touch with the business manager of the Flastacowo. The calendar will consist of a day by day memorandum and twelve campus scenes which are detachable. The price is to be $1.

In the event of an earlier release date, notices and announcements will be posted.

Class Schedules

The Registrar's office is distributing the Winter Quarter Schedule of Classes bulletin, which is just off the press.

Two additional classes, not listed in the new bulletin, will be offered by the Spanish department. These are: Spanish 201-1, on Monday, Wednesday, and Friday, at 3:30 p m, 325 History building, taught by Mrs Nellie Kannwischer; and Spanish 201-2, on Monday, Wednesday, and Friday at 2:30 in room 223 of the History building. This is taught by Dr Margaret Campbell.

Dr McConnell Talks Tonight

FSC Faculty Consults Minnesota Professor

Tonight at 7:30 in the Augusta Conradi theater Dr T R McConnell, dean of the college of science, literature and the arts at the University of Minnesota, will speak to faculty members of Florida State College and the University hranch.

As a special visitor on FSC campus this week, Dr McConnell has offered consultation on many significant problems of general education, based on his outstanding experiences in educational organization at both small and large universities.

On the subject of "Specific Problems in General Education" he addressed faculty members Tuesday evening. He gave a first hand account of the organization of a "general education" course on the Minnesota campus, entitled "Humanities for the Modern World." His group of faculty and advisers have eliminated the "string of beads" technique commonly used in survey courses, and have substituted studies taught in a specific and clearly outlined social frame. By its own merits the course has attracted a 2,000 enrollment from the student body of 10,000, according to Dr McConnell.

Dr McConnell was scheduled to meet with various committees on campus Wednesday, Thursday and Friday mornings and discuss problems of organization, curriculum and integrated courses. This afternoon he will meet with the faculty College Constitution committee.

While commenting on his experience in planning for general education at Minnesota, Dr McConnell described his policy as that of "finding young men with ideas" and giving them opportunity to prove their value, as opposed to a policy of mere academic efficiency.

When asked if he was here to aid in revising our school system for co-education, he replied, "My being here at the time when co-education has just begun to invade the college is purely coincidental. I am here to aid if possible in problems of organization and general college education." He went on to say that the size of the college and the efficiency with which the administration runs the school has impressed him.

Council Acts To Permit Keeping Cars

Dorman Requests That Students Get Forms For Home Permission

Action Is Experimental, Says Executive Council

"By action of the Executive Council, women students may keep cars on the campus, provided parents or guardians have filled out and signed the required permissions. These forms may be secured in the offices of the residence halls and must be filled out, signed, and filed with the residence counselor before the cars are brought to the campus. This action is for an experimental period."

This notice comes from W T Edwards, Secretary of Executive Council, and was released from the office of Dean Olivia N Dorman late yesterday afternoon.

Dean Dorman has requested that all students planning to keep cars on campus next quarter get the necessary forms from the office in their residence hall before the holidays so that they can have them filled out and signed by their parents or guardians while at home.

The proposal that students be allowed to keep cars on campus if a feasible plan could be worked out was brought forth in Convocation at the beginning of this quarter by Dean Dorman. A student committee was chosen to work on this recommendation and to present a plan to the Executive Council. Members of the committee are Betsy Wilson, chairman, Emily Sheftall, Sally Slater and Eleanor Bragg.

The major problem confronting the committee was parking. It has now been decided that there is enough space on campus for the cars without making a special parking lot. Certain areas will be designated as no parking, other areas for faculty cars, with the remaining and largest portion of space left free for anyone to park.

Rules and regulations concerning student use of cars will be exactly as stated in the Gold Book, pages 51 and 52, with the exception of rule 2 which states that "students are not permitted to have cars in Tallahassee."

Press Association Is to Elect Queen

The Miami Press Photographers Association invites the Florida State College student body to participate in the competition for the "Queen of the Press Ball" who will reign at the second annual Miami Press Photographers Ball on February 7, 1947.

Students who wish to enter are required to submit an eight by ten inch photograph of themselves, and must include their age, height, physical measurements, and educational background. Send this information and the picture to Miami Press Photographers Association, 600 Biscayne Boulevard, Miami 36, Florida. The contest will close at midnight December 15, 1946.

"Everything Comes at Once" Is This Week's Theme at FSC

"Everything comes at once" is one saying that is personified on the campus of Florida State College. Leisure is a word that has passed into oblivion as far as the students are concerned.

As "Dead Week" rounds the corner, exams and Christmas holidays are on the horizon. Along with the long awaited holidays comes the problem of Christmas shopping—horrible thought!

Girls and guys arrive up town in swarms with well filled wallets that long list of presents to buy makes it bulge.

"It's best to shop early," said Doris Darsey with a knowing air, "but more fun to shop late." Yes, she was dashing madly from store to store laden with bundles.

The letters to Santa have taken a new slant this year, especially since the guys have arrived on campus with their problems of Dale Mabry. Bill Dunnavant swears that all he's interested in is a pogo stick or a pair of roller skates. Santa might not understand the transportation problem or hills in Tally, bnt all the students will sympathize with Bill. "The last place I inquired about a pogo stick they looked at me rather peculiarly," Bill concluded.

The girls are eagerly swapping ideas about what they are going to tuck into the Christmas stockings for their current beaus. It seems that the cigarette lighters and plaid skirts are leading the shopping list.

Roommates present another "present-problem." The main trouble is the fear that the gift will be something that she'll add to her overflowing collection of junk and take up some more of your precious drawer space.

Miss Dora Byron, journalism instructor, smiled a triumphant smile as she said, "My shopping worries are over! I just bought some of those cards which provide a pocket for a crisp green bill. Of course I'll find them, but my friends will have to 'Post Christmas' shopping and fight the mobs that are exchanging presents."

John Cash hasn't decided what he's going to give his girl because at present the chief problem is deciding on who is going to be HIS girl.

Winter winds will blow and the pages will fly from the calendar as "everything comes at once"—but Santa will work overtime to put gifts under the tree for the FSC students.

FSC Girls Look to the Future During Present Exam Despair

New Year's bells may not be tolling yet, but no one can say the girls at Florida State College haven't got their eyes on the future. As this final quarter draws to a close with exams just around the corner, resolutions for starting the New Year with a bang are in full swing.

The general sentiments voiced by the students concern turning over a new leaf in scholastic matters. Everyone is sure that if she just manages to pull through this quarter she is really going to burn the midnight oil next quarter. One of the more ambitious ones, Miriam Portnoy by name, states that she intends to do all her studying next quarter in the first three weeks, thus not having to cram at all for any of her exams.

At any rate, everyone seems to be thinking of some way in which to improve her lot next year. Monetary matters appear to head the list. Some of the girls are thinking of keeping an account book of their expenses in order to budget themselves more strictly. Fran Ewart was heard to say, "I'm really going to cut down on movies next year, and also on those high-priced pieces of pecan pie."

A few students have made very unusual resolutions. Trudging wearily up to her abode on the fifth floor of Gilchrist, Bobbie Meffert was heard mumbling, "Staring next year, I'm going to start running up these 72 steps instead of walking and maybe I'll get there sometime."

Cheryl Muster, with a humorous twinkle in her eye, declared that she had resolved to spend a little more time over in the Longmire building for recreation rather than shut herself in with her studies as she had done this quarter.

So, ring out the old bells! Ring in the new! The Tally girls are prepared to make the most of their opportunities when 1947 rolls around. Let no one dare to defy their will-power.

Distaff Ready Next Week

Freshman Articles Appear in Fall Issue

The fall issue of the Distaff, campus literary quarterly, has gone to the printers and is expected to be ready for distribution next week. Featured in this issue will be articles expressing contrasting views on the current Russian problem and the winning contributions in the Distaff's annual Freshman Writing contest.

Copies of the Distaff will be distributed to students at a table in lower Westcott. Faculty members will receive their copies through campus mail.

Winners of this contest will be announced only in the Distaff, and these freshmen will be asked to join the staff. Prizes will be awarded in the fields of fiction and poetry, but no article award will be given, according to May Alexander, editor of the Distaff.

Two articles, collectively entitled "Student's Look at Russia," are contributions from Aitcta Armstrong and Lucius Daniel. Their articles are "With Hopes of Peace" and "With Fears of War" respectively.

Those students who contributed material to the fall issue of the Distaff may obtain their manuscripts in the Distaff office tonight from 6 until 10.

Deadline for the winter issue of the magazine will be February 1.

FSC Participates In State Drive

The state community chest drive which began December 1 and extends through December 7, has attained its most concerted phase on the campus of Florida State College this week. Mr Jerry B Kelly of FSC's science department is heading the drive on campus, assisted by Martha Peacock and Alice Gehan for students in residence and day students.

In three previous years, college faculty and students have beeu generous in their response, contributing nearly $1700 to the fund last year, it was announced by Mr C D Davenport, campaign director. Faculty members have been urged to contribnte one day's pay to the drive. The contributions of students will be in proportion to their ability to give and their interest in seeing the goal met.

Mr Amos Godby, Leon County superintendent of public instruction and Dr Doak S Campbell, FSC president, are co-chairmen of the division of public schools and colleges. Betty Dowd, representing the Flambeau, is student member on the publicity division of the campaign of which Mr Tom Van Brunt is chairman.

"Council agencies improve the health, happiness, and welfare of our people. They help build good citizenship and character among our youth. They help make our town a better place in which to live," commented Mr Davenport. "For this reason we should give."

Strike Affects FSC

Heat is to be turned off in the classroom buildings from Saturday noon until Monday morning, and at 5 p m in the afternoons on other days, as the soft coal strike of the United Mine Workers begins to touch Florida State College. Mr R K Shaw, business manager, issued the order in an attempt to save the present supply of coal.

If there is to be a meeting in any of the classroom buildings that makes it necessary to have heat at night, it has been requested that the business office be notified before 4:30 p m the day of the meeting so that the heat may be kept on.

Christmas Vespers To Be Presented

Glee Club to Sing Sunday In Westcott Auditorium

The traditional Christmas vespers by the College glee club will be presented Sunday, December 15, at 5:30 p m in Westcott auditorium under the direction of Miss Etta Robertson. Accompanists will be Eleanor Bragg, piano; Miss Mary Reeder, harp; and Edith Smith, organ.

The first group of selections will include "Holy Lord God", antiphonal by Noble Cain; "Cherubin Song", a capella by Bortniansky-Treharne; "Carol of the Bells", a capella by Leontovitch-Wilhousky; and Garth Edmundson's "Light", a capella sung by Alice Wheeler, soloist, and the glee clnb.

For the second part of the program the glee club ensemble will sing "Lo, How a Rose E'er Blooming" by Praetorius-Shand; "Christmas Snows of Sweden", a carol arranged by Riegger; and "A Celtic Lullaby" (Irish air), a capella, arranged by Robertson. Miss Emily Bridges, mezzo-soprano, will present Lehmann's "No Candle Was There and No Fire".

Included in the last group will be "List the Cherubic Host", by A R Gaul, presented by Paula Teagarden, soprano, and Phyllis DeKalb, alto; "From Heaven High the Angels Come", a traditional 14th century piece arranged by Clarence Dickinson, presented by Anne Daniel, soprano soloist. Gruber's "Silent Night" by the entire Glee Clnb will conclude the vespers.

McCollum to Lead Christmas Program

The American Association of University Woman will hold its third meeting of the quarter Tuesday, December 10, at 8 o'clock in Jennie Murphree parlor on campus. A Christmas program will be presented under the direction of Miss Edith McCollum, vice-president and program chairman.

At this time, an ensemble from the college choir directed by Mr Herman Gunter will render several numbers, and Miss Elizabeth Thomson of the speech department will read a Christmas story, "The Littlest Angel." Miss Grace Fox is in charge of refreshments.

Meetings of the association are held every second Tuesday of the month. The November meeting was held at Camp Flastacowo and plans are now being made for a spring reception to be given in honor of the graduating senior class in May.

A Creative Arts contest open to FSC students will be sponsored by the AAUW this winter.

President of the Tallahassee chapter of the AAUW is Miss Marjorie S Judy.

Dr Irish Makes Trip

Dr Marian D Irish, professor of political science, visited Washington, D C, this week to attend the national board meeting of the American Association of University Women. Dr Irish is the Associate in Social Studies on the national board. The board meeting, for which she left Tuesday, was called to discuss social legislation. Dr Irish was scheduled to return last night.

Group Passes On Proposals Of Revisions

Amendment to Be Sent For Senate Approval First of Next Year

Principles for Revising Discussed at Meeting

The proposed revision of the article on amendments was passed by a unanimous vote of the Constitution committee members present at a meeting Wednesday in the Longmire auditorium. The amendment will go to Senate for approval at the first of the year.

The general principles to be followed in revising the entire constitution were discussed at a recent meeting of the committee and embodied in the proposed amendment. These principles were adopted by the unanimous vote of a quorum.

According to these working principles, if student Senate and College Council fail to agree on legislative proposals, final authority will rest in an absolute two-thirds vote of student senate. In carrying out this idea of limited student government, final anthority in passing constitutional amendments will rest in an absolute two-thirds vote of student senate and also of the student body.

In judicial matters the Faculty Committee on Student Affairs will act as an advisory body to the student judiciary.

The proposed amendment to Article XIV of the CGA constitution, concerning amendments, follows:

The Constitution and By-Laws of the Association may be amended by the following procedure.

1. An absolute majority vote of Student Senate for the proposed amendment.

2. Approval of the faculty committee on student affairs within 10 weeks after presentation of the amendment by its proponents. When five or more amendments are presented at once the time limit may be extended by Senate. If no action is taken within the time limit the amendment will return to Student Senate and be considered as not having the approval of the faculty committee on student affairs.

3. An absolute majority vote of the Association provided that:
a. The amendment is presented and explained at CGA Assembly and then posted for three days.
b. Voting is held within one week after presentation. Amendments not approved by the faculty committee on student affairs shall be returned to student senate with written objections.

Upon consideration of the report of the faculty committee on student affairs, Student Senate may do either of the following:
a. Revise the amendment and return it to the faculty committee on student affairs. A revised amendment approved by the facnity committee on student affairs shall follow normal procedure.
b. Pass it unchanged by an absolute two-thirds majority vote. An amendment passed by Student Senate over the disapproval of the faculty committee on student affairs shall require an absolute two-thirds vote of the Association become becoming valid.

Botany Students Experiment With Plants in Greenhouse

There are all sorts of unusual things found in the greenhouse and laboratory of the botany department. For instance Dr Herman Kurz, professor of botany, keeps his collection of various rare orchids in a specially constructed box which adjusts the humidity to a certain degree of moisture. There are all sorts of mysterious beakers and jars of plant cuttings which are being artificially stimulated to grow or which are treated with hormones to form odd varieties of their species.

One of Dr C S Nielsen's advanced botanry classes is at present conducting an experiment in which the growth of plant roots on cuttings is artificially produced by the use of growth stimulating acids. The acid is placed in a solution in the beaker in which the cuttings are kept and a record is kept of the amount and rate of root production.

This advanced class is also experimenting with the effect of longer days on the growth and maturation of plants. The "longer day" is produced by the aid of artificial lighting during a specified number of hours at night.

Among the unusual varieties of plants produced through the ingenuity of the botany classes and instructors was a seedless tomato. Just after the plant blossomed, certain parts of the flower were removed and a speck of hormone was added in its place. The plant was covered and carefully tended until it fruited. The product was a tomato antirely free of seeds.

More advanced students and those who desire special instruction in botany meet in the laboratory which is equipped with microscopes, slides, fossils and other equipment for special and research work.

The sunny, well-lighted greenhouse is located on the third floor of the history building. There are full-length windows around three sides against which there are shelves holding a great variety of young and mature plants, flower settings, and quantities of material such as corn and beans for use in the classrooms.

Due to the present coal shortage, the greenhouse is kept at a favorable temperature between 62 and 98 degrees Fahrenheit by electric heaters during the cold nights. This duty and that of watering and cultivating classroom plants is the task of one of several laboratory assistants.

Christmas Message

"I wish all the college family a most happy and satisfying Christmas, and extend congratulations on a pleasant and successful quarter," President Doak S Campbell said this week as the quarter is drawing to a close.

"Despite enlargement in student body, which has presented many problems, this has been one of the most successful quarters this college has ever experienced," he continued. "There has been splendid cooperation and an excellent spirit has prevailed."

Dr Campbell expressed conviction that such a spirit of cooperation and achievement could not fail to bring about a pleasant and inspiring atmosphere for both students and faculty.

"All are to be commended for cheerful adaptation and for the accomplishments which have been achieved during this fine quarter," he declared.

Men Students To Hold Vote

Ratification of New Constitution Is Issue

Men of the Tallahassee hranch of the University of Florida will vote Monday for ratification or rejection of the proposed constitution drawn np by the student constitutional committee.

Balloting will take place in Westcott building and the Administration building at Dale Mabry. The polls will be open from 8:30 a m till 5:30 p m and voting will be hy aye or nay.

The results of this voting will be announced at a special assembly next Tuesday at 5 p m in building 442, Dale Mabry. "The new constitution and next quarter's elections will also be discussed at this meeting," said Bill Fussel, co-cairman of the constitutional committee.

John Sullivan, president of the male student body, has gone on record as favoring the proposed document. He said, "I am in favor of adopting this constitution but, whether you vote yes or no, let's all exercise our privilege as a student and vote!" Copies are posted on various bulletin boards on campus and at the base.

The voting decision was made at the meeting of student body officers last Monday when the constitutional committee headed by Dean Wentworth and Bill Fussel, placed their final document before the officers. In order to be adopted as the basis of the student government a two-thirds majority of the votes must favor the document.

Election of new student body officers was discussed at the meeting. Arrangements were tentatively made to hold these elections January 17. A committee headed by Jack Richey was appointed by president Sullivan to handle these eletion details. With Richey were appointed George Croy, Bill Fussel, and Dean Wentworth.

In the men's student government meeting of November 25 a motion was passed to provide for two suggestion boxes to be set np for students wishing to put forth their ideas on how the government should be run.

Graduation Will Be Held December 18

Families and Friends, Faculty and Students Are Invited to Attend

Campbell Has Reception For Graduating Class

The commencement exercises of the fall graduating class of in the Augusta Conradi theatre, Florida State College will be held Wednesday, December 18, at 4 p m, according to Dr Doak S Campbell, president of the college.

Plans for the program are as yet incomplete, but it will be informal and the families and friends of the 16 members of this graduating class, and the faculty and student body of FSC are invited to attend the graduation exercises.

A reception honoring the members of the fall graduating class of FSC was held last night at the home of Dr and Mrs Doak S Campbell at eight p m.

The graduation class, by college divisions, is as follows:

College of Arts and Sciences,
Bachelor of Arts:
Dorothy Louise Bush, Elinor C Chisholm, Robin Marshall Hill, Elaine Keller, Mary Elizabeth Knight, Gwendolyn M Poucher.

Bachelor of Science:
Mary Frances Fulford, Calista Marian Hatcher, Betty Lou Henneke, Christine Stone Jacobsen, Sarah Helen Wiggins.

Bachelor of Science in Commerce:
Ruth Georgiana Haddox, Doris Agner Lewis, Janet Caroline Varn.

School of Education, Bachelor of Arts in Education:
Alice Carulyne Crume, Annie Mae Hatchett.
Bachelor of Science in Education:
Grace Linberg.

School of Home Economics, Bachelor of Science in Home Economics:
Gladys Walker Reams.

Sylbia Meisch to Be Beauty Candidate

Varga Will Judge Seminole Beauty Queen at Fall Frolics

Sylvia Meisch as "Miss FSC" will represent Florida State College today when Varga will select the Seminole Beanty Queen of 1947 during Les Brown's concert from 5-6 p m which is a part of Fall Frolics at The University of Florida.

Five hundred and twenty five votes were cast for Sylvia Meisch from Sanford, a sophomore art major and a member of Delta Delta Delta sorority. Winning second place Shirley Rodgers is from Savannah, Georgia, editor of the Flambeau, a senior journalism major and a member of Alpha Gamma Delta sorority. Mary Nell Thrower and Ruby Grace Daniel tied for third place. Others nominated were Elaine Dorfman, Amelia Crossland, Mary J Jones, Norma Chalker, Sarah Ann Davis, Nancy Keener, Betty Shirley, Peggy Jean Pegues and Joy Simpson. The submitted pictures may be obtained by calling for them in the Flambeau office.

The selection of the Seminole Queen will be a part of the annual Fall Frolics program at Gainesville which begins today and lasts through Sunday. Sylvia Meisch will be in competition with other finalists—winners in similar contests in other Florida Colleges plus the contestants who won through photographs submitted to Ronald Reagen and Jane Wyman.

Election Schedule

It has been announced that freshman elections will begin officially on Tuesday, December 7, with final voting to be held on Tuesday, December 14. Publicizing of election candidates may not begin until the candidates are introduced in a freshman convocation which will be held on Thursday, December 9. The calendar for elections follows:

Tuesday, December 7—Petitions must be in by 10:45 p m.
Thursday, December 9 — Introduction of candidates in freshman convocation, after which publicity may go up.
Saturday, December 11—First primary from 9 a m to 6 p m in the junior counselors' rooms.
Tuesday, December 14 — Finals held from 9 a m to 5 p m in the junior counselors' rooms.

Baker Talks To Students

"Orient in Transition" Is Journalist's Topic

"The only hope for the world today is Christianity, belief in the brotherhood of man, and the willingness to lose one's self in order to lessen some of the friction between the power blocs today," declared Dr Richard T Baker, journalist and educator, in an address to the students of Florida State College last Monday, in the Augusta Conradi theatre. Topic of his talk was "Orient in Transition."

Dr Baker, who was one of the first correspondents to return to Japan after the war, stressed the fact that although many of our men saw the world during the war, too few saw it with sympathy and understanding. American prejudices, he said, over things such as lack of plumbing, made them close their minds and hearts against the realities and feelings of the native inhabitants of other countries.

"We beat them but we got licked," continued Dr Baker. "Our costly victory has done little to settle things, as the conditions in the Orient are little better than they were in 1942. War is a highly inefficient means of settling disputes since it not only creates great problems which necessitate the organization of a world security council, but it also builds up such powerful single nations that they defeat the purpose. Our young blood won victory, now we must guard it."

The fact that today if a man, party, or nation strives to save it's life, it must first lose it, was also stressed by Dr Baker. From individuals to nations, all try to attain their own ends. China needs peace today as never before, yet the parties strive against each other.

"The same conditions exist here," he announced, "and we are approaching problems in the same way. The people of America have been trained, through love of freedom, to come to think that each group is separate, and sovereign, and that there is no way to settle problems except by strife between the various power blocs."

In conclusion he added, "If more people in the world today would give Christ a leading hand in settling disputes, and consider the welfare of others instead of putting themselves first, universal good-will could be attained sooner and more effectively."

Dr Baker was sponsored on campus by the Young Women's Christian Association and the Wesley Foundation, the Methodist group. At present he is on a tour of Florida for the Methodist board.

Put the Blame on Mamie; It Wasn't Mrs O'Leary's Cow

"Hello, Mrs Nold. Campuside is on fire."

"What? Who is this calling?"

A nervous voice belonging to Joan Peters, Campuside resident, hastily explained that the house was actually on fire—flames were coming from an unused flue in the kitchen.

At noon Wednesday Campuside was deserted except for three girls and the maid. Joan heard a knock at her door and there stood the maid who asked in a trembling voice: "Could you come here a minute?" She led the bewildered Joan to the kitchen where flames were coming from one corner.

"What can we do?" was the unasked question as Joan ran upstairs and downstairs in the house searching for someone who could help. Another student came to her aid, but they were unable to determine the proper procedure in putting out the fire. The maid, laughing at their excitement, calmly suggested that they call the head house manager, Mrs Marie Nold.

Soon Mrs Nold and three men came tearing to the rescue. But too late—the fire had gone out. Because the furnace had been overly fired, the intense heat caused the board covering the flue to burn. Now a piece of metal takes its place, and though they say metal doesn't burn, precautions are being taken so that the furnace will not be over-stoked again.

Revised Examination Schedule

A revised schedule for examinations has been announced by William T. Edwards, acting registrar. This schedule will affect exams formerly scheduled for Wednesday afternoon, December 18.

The chemistry 201-203 examination, originally scheduled for Thursday night, December 12, will now be given Friday morning, December 13, from 8:30 until 10:30.

Examinations will end at 1:15 pm Wednesday, December 18, after which there will be a faculty meeting at 2:30.

The revised examination schedule is as follows:

Biological Science & Physical Science

Chemistry 201-203	Friday, December 13	8:30-10:30
T, Th, S 11:30 One or two-hour courses meeting at 11:30 12:00 classes meeting T, Th, S at the Base	Friday, December 13	10:40-12:10
T, Th, 3:30 One or two-hour courses meeting at 3:30	Friday, December 13	12:20- 1.20
Biological Science and Physical Science Biological Science 101 in Little Theater; Biological Science 102 in 307 S Physical Science in W Aud in case of conflict go to Biological Science 205 on Friday, go to Physical Science 3:45 on Friday, 303 W Home Economics 466 and 466x	Friday, December 13	2:05- 3:35
Humanities and Social Studies In case of conflict go to Humanities at 3·45 on Friday. Go to Social Studies at 2.05 on Friday 408 H	Friday, December 13	3.45- 5:15
M W F 8:30 M, W, F, S 8:30 Five-hour courses meeting at 8.30; 9.00 classes meeting at the Base	Saturday, December 14	8:25- 9:55
History 101 and 102 Clothing and Taxtiles 107 In case of conflict go to History at 10:05 and to C & T at 3:55, Saturday in room 107S	Saturday, December 14	10:05-11:35
M, W, F, 3:30 M, T, W, Th, 3.30 Five-hour courses meeting at 3:30; 4:00 classes meeting at the Base	Saturday, December 14	11:45- 1:15
Freshman English 101, 102, 103 English 005	Saturday, December 14	1:45- 3:45
Speech 101-102 Economics 201-202	Saturday, December 14	3:55- 5:25
Second Year Languages	Monday, December 16	8:25- 9:55
Phy Education 121, 122, 241, 103	Monday, December 16	10:05-11:05
T, Th, S, 8:30 One or two-hour courses meeting T, Th, S, 8:30; 9:00 classes meeting T, Th, S, at the ase. T ,Th, 8:30; M, W, 9:30	Monday, December 16	11:15-12:45
First Year Languages	Monday, December 16	1:15- 2:45
M, W, F, 2:30 T, W, Th, F, 2:30 Five-hour courses meeting 2:30; 3:00 classes meeting at the Base	Monday, December 16	2:55- 4:25
Journalism 101	Monday, December 16	4:30- 5:30
M, W, F, 9:30 T, Th, F, S, 9:30 Five-hour courses meeting at 9:30 10:00 classes meeting at the Base	Tuesday, December 17	8·25- 9.55
T, Th, 2:30 One or two-hour classes at 2:30	Tuesday, December 17	10.05-11:05
M, W, F, 1:30 M, T, W, F, 1:30 Five-hour courses meeting 1:30 2:00 classes meeting at the Base	Tuesday, December 17	11:15-12·45
T, Th, S, 9:30 10:00 classes meeting T, Th, S at the Base. One or two hour courses meeting at 9.30	Tuesday, December 17	1:15- 2.45
M, W, F, 12:30 Four and five-hour courses meeting at 12:30	Tuesday, December 17	2:55- 4.25
Special exams for those having a conflict in schedule	Tuesday, December 17	4.30- 6:30
M, W, F, 10:30 M, W, F, S, 10:30 Five-hour courses meeting at 10:30; 11:00 classes meeting at the base	Wednesday, December 18	8 25- 9:55
T, Th, S, 10:30 One or two-hour courses meeting 10:30; 11:00 o'clock classes at base on T, Th, S T, Th, 10:30; W, F, 11:30	Wednesday, December 18	10:05-11.35
M, W, F, 11:30 M, T, Th, S 11.30 Five-hour courses meeting 11:30 12·00 classes meeting at the base	Wednesday, December 18	11.45- 1:15

In case of conflict, go to the examination which is first on the schedule. It is also possible that a special arrangement can be made for a student who has four examinations on the same day provided that the request is made in writing to the Registrar's Office by December 10.

Choir to Sing Handel Work

FSC College Orchestra To Accompany Group

George Frederick Handel's Messiah will be presented by the mixed choir of Florida State College students Sunday evening at 8:15 in Westcott auditorium under the direction of Herman Gunter, assistant professor of voice in the school of music.

For the first time the college will have the privilege of hearing this difficult oratorio sung by students. Accompanied by the college orchestra which is directed by William Presser, the choir will present the Christmas sections of the Messiah with solos being rendered by Phyllis DeKalb, alto; Paula Teagarden, soprano; Walter James, tenor; and Herman Gunter, bass.

The college choir began officially this fall under the direction of Mr Gunter who has had wide experience in conducting and singing the Mesisah. Unofficially, it started the summer of 1945 in the summer camp chorus and has developed into the group it is today.

"This performance is shaping up into one of the best in which I have had the privilege of appearing," remarked Mr Gunter on the return of the choir from its first public performance in Jasper last Wednesday night. "The audience seemed most appreciative and some remarked how much FSC is doing to increase music appreciation throughout the state."

Those singing in the choir are: Jane Arnold, Emma Neal Ayala, Anne Bache, Joe Ann Barnes, Audrey Beard, Helen Beasley, Marjorie Booth, Inez Bowles, Sue Bush, Mildred Coleman, Joyce Cooper, Lou Jean Crum, Mary Curtis, Priscilla Dale, Carolyn Ellis, Arlia Frink, Mary Louise Gamble, Irene Glover, Mary Grimsley, Patty Hamilton, Joyce Hansen, Effie Hargrova, Pat Harrison, Esther Howard, Perilie Hunt, Victorine Johnson, Billie Kacinski, Margaret Keddie, and Cinda Kent.

Others are Doris Lamb, Marquita Lance, Pat Laney, Glenna Long, Moira Long, Imogene Lyons, Martha McCormack, Nancy McFarland, Rachel McInnis, Mary Sue Michael, Carol Murrell, Bessie Myer, Mildred Nichols, Ann Nicholson, Evelyn Nex, Kate Nunez, Peggy Parish, Suzanne Pettit, Jeanne Phillips, Peggy Rainey, Peggy Rigell, Jacqueline Sauls, Dawn Shirah, Sally Slater, Jeanne tSalnaker, Doris Stallwood, Janet Stephenson, Bernice Strickland, Bobbie Strickland, Margaret Strum, Joann Sumers, June Taylor, Elise Thomas, Martha Waters, Shirley Webster, Martha Wheeler, Gloria Williams, June Williams, Lucille Wooten, Eloise Ziglar.

First tenor is sung by Albert Bradford, Don McDowell and John Sullivan. Second tenor sung by Sandy Boyer, Jesse Burt, Royce Burt, Bill Darman, Preston DeMilly, James Graham, Billy Ketcham, and John Madigan.

Those singing bass are: Leonard Gilberg, Merton Guild, Max Harrison, Ralph Hartsfield, Peter Jensen, Arnold Kannwischer, Charles Long, Dana Scruggs, Henry Stevenson, John Stewart, Newton Sullivan, Glenn Terrell, Charles Tobias, David Wilcox, Chris Holley, Ernest Hollingsworth, Douglas Knapp, Edward Morgan, and Victor Nasrallah.

Teachers to Sing

Herman Gunter, assistant professor of voice, and William James, assistant instructor in voice, will appear in the Jacksonville Civic Chorus Wednesday, December 11 singing the solo parts of the Christmas sections of the Mesiah.

House Mother and Long-Time Resident Of FSC Recognizes Need for Changes

In room 203, Reynolds Annex, there lives an elderly, slightly stooped retired house mother, Miss Mamie Andrews, who has lived on the Florida State College campus for 33 years.

At first notice one would know that "Miss Mamie" is dainty. A fair, rosy complexion, soft grey hair, and small hands accompany her slight statue. Her eyes sparkle with merriment. Active, regardless of her years, she loves to talk and is very direct with her opinions.

When asked how she had liked being a house mother, she quickly replied, "Loved it! It was most interesting to watch the growth and development of the girls."

About co-education for Florida State, Miss Andrews commented, "It looks good and it looks natural. It is a state of advancement. There are, however, some things which I do not like. It will all have to be worked out. Time and experience alone can do it properly."

She believes that we have outgrown the "Even and Odd tradition" as we out-grew the "Weddings" and hall carnivals.

According to Mrs Susan Sanders, a former house mother, Miss Andrews used to be constantly "on the job."

"She was up all hours of the night seeing what 'that noise' was. . . . We used to wonder if she ever got any sleep," remarked Mrs Sanders.

Former students who were here when Miss Andrews was a counselor say that she had a way of knowing everything that went on. Some seemed to think that she had a supernatural ability which enabled her to "know all."

Miss Andrews says of herself, "I used to know everyone in Tallahassee and his family history. Now I know only the very old families. I knew all the girls I worked with, their names, addresses and family life. My main interest is people. I wish I could know them all."

Expressing her appreciation to FSC for providing her a home, Miss Andrews said. "The people of the college are very nice to me. They let me live on here. They take good care of me. I never want to live anywhere else."

Recalling humorous incidents that occurred during the time that she was a house mother, Miss Andrews laughingly said of the girls who lived in the former East Hall: "What East Hall didn't think of doing wasn't worth doing." She went on to relate some of the things that happened.

There was one girl, Mae, who was always playing jokes on the others.

Mae, it seems, had a knack for original pranks. One night she took a white night gown, put it on a hanger, and lowered it out her window, letting it dangle outside the window below. By pulling the string, Mae could make the ghostly figure flutter about. The frightened girls in the room below screamed and rushed from the room.

To repay Mae for their scare, these girls went one night into Mae's room and hid, one behind the old-fashioned bureau and one behind the dresser. Later Mae went in and began studying. After awhile she looked up to see the bureau and dresser "walking" towards her. Screaming, she dashed for the door. It was locked. She became frantic. The girls could no longer conceal themselves and they all sat down and "laughed it off" together.

These East Hall girls called themselves "Miss Mamie's Pests."

When "Miss Mamie" was still a young girl, she moved with her family from Bainbridge, Georgia, her birthplace, to Florida. Since 1897 she has lived in Tallahassee. In February, 1913, she became a house mother—she prefers the title "house mother" to "counselor"—at Florida State College, a position which she held until she retired in April, 1941.

Norway ranked fourth among the nations in merchant shipping before the Nazis overran the country in 1940.

Motion Fails

(Continued from page one)

ing the meeting was of abolishment of the rule forbidding dancing on Sunday. A report was given by Sarah Lewis upon the attitude of President Doak S Campbell on this issue.

"Dr Campbell," she said, "does not feel that it is a moral issue, nor one in which his personal opinion need enter. But the college policy is unfavorable to dancing on Sunday because of the belief of parents and other citizens throughout the state that it is undesirable. This regulation is similar to the ruling against girls wearing jeans on the street. It is not that it is immoral, but that it is not the socially accepted thing to do, and, therefore, is not a college policy."

In order for this ruling to be changed, it would be necessary for public opinion to favor the change, Sarah continued. In this case Dr Campbell would, she believes, carry the question to the Board of Control for their decision.

It would be desirable, suggested one member, that at least Dr Campbell know student opinion on this matter. We as representatives of the student body should, she said, take a vote as to its attitude on this matter.

A motion was made by Ann Hunter that a resolution be sent to Dr Campbell expressing the senate's opinion, and a motion in favor of dancing on Sunday was carried by a vote of 24 to 7. The resolution formally stated, "We as members of senate by vote of 24 to 7 are in favor of Sunday dancing."

An addition was then incorporated into the resolution that the senate express its knowledge of Dr Campbell's position, but that they felt that perhaps public opinion had changed. Therefore they wished him to request the board of control to reconsider their previous decision.

Opera Is Cancelled

The Chicago Popular Opera January 14, 1947 will not be able to appear due to the coal shortage and the company's inability to find auditoriums to practice in.

Dean K O Kuersteiner is trying to replace this company with another opera company and will announce the results of his effort as soon as possible.

Rotary Club Gives Year Subscription

The Rotary Club of Tallahassee presented Casa Cervantes, Florida State College's Spanish house, with a one year subscription to the Spanish magazine, Revista Rotaria, last week.

The purpose of this gift, as stated on the card which accompanied the subscription, is a "token of good will and sympathy" with the hope that its reading will be not only pleasant and interesting, but that it will "contribute towards establishing firmer inter-American relations."

Miss Rivera, director of the Spanish house announced that the first copy, containing articles pertaining to national and international problems and activities, has already been received.

PBK Celebrates Founder's Day

The Alpha chapter of Phi Beta Kappa honorary celebrated Founders' day last night with a dinner meeting at the Cherokee Hotel. Dr Guy L Diffenbaugh, Dean of the College of Arts and Sciences, addressed the meeting on the topic, "The Scholar to the Watchtower Cama."

Dean T R McConnell, Dean of the College of Sciences, Arts and Literature at the University of Minnesota, and a member of Phi Beta Kappa, was among the guests.

The committee in charge of arranging the dinner was composed of: Dr Ruth O Schornhurst, professor of botany, chairman, Miss Lynette Thompson, instructor in classics, and Miss Marguerite Dressler, instructor in psychology.

VISIT
SAM
Robbin's
DEPT.
STORE

MAKE YOUR CHRISTMAS GIFT A SERENADE!
Record Albums, Classic and Popular Records, Portable
Radios, Record Players
JENKINS MUSIC COMPANY
123 S. MONROE PHONE 1269

STEWART'S
FOR Immediate and Expert Shoe Repair

Accredited Flying!

Starting January 1st YOU can take a course in Aviation and Get Credits for it Toward Your Degree.

AVIATION needs trained personnel and pays well for their services

Our Courses Are Approved by the C.A.A., The Veterans' Administration, and the Board of Control

Enroll Now!

GIVE US A RING AND WE WILL COME OVER AND EXPLAIN THE COURSES

TAC

Jeff Lewis
Ivan Munroe
Richard Weeks
Frank Lewis
"All Veterans"

TALLAHASSEE AIRCRAFT CORPORATION
PHONE 2727 MUNICIPAL AIRPORT

DISTINCTIVE DRY CLEANING
SUB AA CLEANERS STATION
AT COLLEGE PARK GROCERY
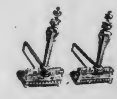
528 West Jefferson Street
Prompt and Courteous Service Assured
YOUR EVENING DRESSES A SPECIALTY



Andirons will make the yule log burn more beautifully. Constructed by skilled craftsmen in highly finished and polished brass. Reduced for Christmas shopping.

Seek it First at
VAN BRUNT & YON INC
YON'S
HARDWARE

Cashin' In

By John and LeMoyne Cash

On New Year's Day seven of the top ten football teams of the nation will compete in major bowl games. They are Georgia, UCLA, Illinois, Tennessee, Louisiana State. North Carolina and Rice.

Georgia, voted the number three grid machine in the final poll of Associated Press sports writers, collides with ninth place North Carolina in the Sugar Bowl classic at New Orleans. The Bulldogs were co-champions of the Southeast Conference along with Tennessee, whereas the Tarheels have a claim to the Southern Conference title. This tilt should provide the outstanding match of the day as the two great Charlies, Trippi of Georgia and Justice of Carolina duel for personal honors.

UCLA, holding the fourth spot, goes with fifth ranged Illinois in the Rose Bowl at Pasadena, California. The Uclans and Illini are winners of the Pacific Coast and Big Nine Conferences respectively. They will be fulfilling a contract made recently which sends the champions of those two leagues to the Tournament of Roses Tennessee, seven, and Rice, ten, will journey to Miami as opponents in the Orange Bowl. Both schools tied for honors in their conference play, the Vols in the SEC with above-mentioned Georgia, and the Owls with Arkansas in the Southwest.

The Razorbacks will furnish the opposition for Louisiana State in the Cotton Bowl in Dallas January 1. Arkansas is rated 16 in the AP poll. LSU, the eighth ranked team nationally, rounds out the list of bowl-bound players from among the top ten teams of the country.

Notre Dame and Army, ranked one and two respectively in the sports writers' poll, will not play in a bowl extravaganza. Both teams received tentative bids from bowl selection committees but in keeping with their customary practice, turned all bids down. Far each of these teams the season is ended. With the Irish winning first place mostly through Army's loss of prestige with a narrow 21-0 win over Navy last week, the Cadets' three year reign at the top of the national football heap was ended. This possibly was an advance indication of how Army will fare in future years. With the graduation of Davis, Tucker, Blanchard and most of the other Cadet standouts Coach Earl (Red) Blaik will have to dig way down into the magic hat to come up with a top ranking team next year.

Here in Florida the up-and-coming Gator Bowl in Jacksonville may well present one of the better games on New Year's day with the matching of North Carolina State and Oklahoma. State, with a record of eight wins and two losses (to Vanderbilt and Virginia Polytechnic Institute) is rated 15 in the national poll. Howard "Touchdown" Turner, All-Southern Conference back, spearheads the Wolfpack attack. The 14th ranking Sooners from Oklahoma are led by halfback Joe Golding, who made All-Big Six Conference and is one of the leading ground gainers in the nation.

With the football season over except for the bowl games and a few late season tilts attention of sports fans has turned for the moment to the All-America teams. The AP team chosen this week placed two Florida boys, Arnold Tucker, Army's great quarterback from Miami, and Herbert St John, Georgia Bulldog guard from Jacksonville, on their third string All-America selections. Broughton "Brute" Williams, University of Florida's bruising end from Tampa, was given honorable mention.

Minus the services of the "Brute," the Gators wound up a perfect season with no wins and eight defeats last Saturday with a 47-12 loss to Auburn and "Traveling Travis" Tidwell. As in recent years, in fact as far back as these young writers can remember, the words of Florida fans and alumni are again "Just wait till next year." Maybe that "next year" will come someday and Florida will field a team that can win one game.

Male Eye View

Can Forida Become a Threat in Southeastern Conference Competition?

By CLINT WILLIAMS

The Florida system of higher education has recently taken, on a temporary basis, the broadest step yet to remedy the condition which places it far below par as compared to other southeastern schools That step was the co-educationalizing of Florida State College for Women. This step, though taken through necessity, has the earmarks of permanency. The final action as to its life or death depends entirely upon the State Legislature of 1947.

I believe that co-education is the only answer to the question, "What's wrong with Florida football, basketball, and baseball teams?" Each year we find around four hundred students leaving the state to obtain their higher education elsewhere. There are numerous reasons for their leaving, but the dominating cause is our segregation of males and females. It is estimated that approximately 50 to 75 per cent of these students leave because of athletic attractions, co-education, and dislike for general college. The remaining number go elsewhere, following their parents, and for other reasons I wish to call your attention to the fact that most leave due to conditions which could, with the aid of administration and legislation, be corrected. We have no immediate way of determining the exact number of these students who participate in athletic functions of these scools, but a quick look around the country will give an idea of "what got away," either through the stupidity of Florida scouts, the lack of the long green to attract them, or for the simple reason that they wanted to go to school with the girls (which is a plausible reason in anybody's book). We find that Jimmy Nelson, All American halfback of Alabama, was a Live Oak boy Arnold Tucker, star back of Army the past three years, is from Miami: Pist'l Pete Williams, regular halfback for Navy this season also is a Miami boy. Florida produces men of that caliber every season, but is never able to hold them. Now is the time to act to bring permanent co-education to the state, and start organizations which at least resemble athletic teams. This season Florida duplicated its record set in 1916 by not winning a single game of its schedule. On the other hand we have in the state a high school team which has dominated state high school ball the past two years, and is recognized as one of the outstanding high school teams of the south. This team will appear in the Shrimp Bowl of Biloxi, Mississippi, tonight. Three of the four backfield men of that team have been offered athletic scholarships by several outstanding universities of the South. These men will make outstanding college players, yt they have expressed the desire to attend FSC if it remains co-ed and fields a ball team. These are the type players Florida is losing each year to teams which defeat them on the gridiron, hardwood, and diamond.

Furthermore, the graduating high school students and returning veterans are kicked in the teeth before they get started by the prescribed curriculum handed down by both state schools. Two years are spent studying Hector running around the walls of Troy three times before he gets killed and or whether it is better to have a bird's eye view of the bull or a bull's eye view of the bird, along with similar crap. This evil can best be described as a two year prescription of patent medicine by a quack doctor. I fully realize such curses are endorsed by so-called educators, but who wouldn't endorse such procedure when they are dragging down $2100 up per annum, and working only 15 to 20 hours per week. The average student of today is an ex-service man, well developed physically and mentally, and is lookig for a means to increase his ability to make money: not a mess of first class foolishness some people call a well-rounded education. I can see no reason on earth why a student planning to be a lawyer should be forced to take the same curriculum for two years as the student studying medicine, engineering, education, music, or any other field for that matter. That's what this general college amounts to. I attended an out-of-state university for one year before enrollment conditions forced me to return to Florida to continue my education. I found no such rigid requirements facing me as I have found in Florida. This factor is another big reason why Florida is losing it's high school graduates to out-of-state schools.

My hat is off to Governor Caldwell and his assistants for the splendid efforts they are putting forth to awaken the too long overslept Florida system of higher education.

(The views and opinions of this article do not necessarily reflect the views and opinions of the Florida Flambeau or its staff).

Odd Hockey Team Wins, 4-1 Over Evens

Nancy Ward Is High Scorer for Odd Team Soccer Teams Tie, 2-2

FSC Marching Band Gives Show Between Games

With the Odd-Even soccer teams battling to a 2-2 tie and the Odd hockey team scoring a 4-1 victory over the Evens, the traditional Thanksgiving games were held Saturday, November 23, on the athletic field.

First game to be played was soccer with the Evens getting the opening kickoff. A surprise play at the kickoff by the Evens put them deep in Odd territory where the red, white and purple goal was threatened repeatedly. Fullback Joanne Zewadski pulled the Odds out of danger by kicking a hard ground ball to center Ethel Clann. Moving quickly down the field on their first offensive play, the Odds tallied on a field goal by Virginia Palmer, wing.

In the second quarter, the green and gold team evened the score when Kathryn Aspinwall, wing, kicked the ball through the Odd uprights. At half time the score stood as it did at the end of the game, 2-2. During the second half both teams fought up and down the field vainly trying to break the tied score. Late in the fourth quarter Mickey Chambers, Odd center forward, missed an opportunity to break the tie when she lost the ball on a penalty kick. The game ended with the Evens again knocking at the Odd goal trying to score.

In the second contest a highly favored Odd team lived up to their followers expectations by handing the Evens a 4-1 shellacking. Early in the first quarter, Nancy Ward, Odd, drove down the field for the first goal of the game. In the first part of the third quarter, Rosa Lee Davis, Even center forward, scored the only goal for the green and gold eleven. Taking scoring honors for the game was Nancy Ward, who accounted for two Odd goals in the first half and one in the second. Nita Nord tallied the other Odd goal. The Evens unsuccessfully threatened to score several times in the game but never was able to muster enough punch to drive the scoring marker in.

Officiating in the soccer game were Miss Grace Fox and Miss Babe Evans. Officials for the hockey match were Miss Mary Jane Lloyd and Miss Laverne Sitton.

In the starting line-up for the Odd soccer team were Virginia Palmer, Joy Harper, Mickey Chambers, Shirley Hargraves, Betty Gardiner, Betty Schwartz, Polly Tuttle ,Lea Wells, Peggy Becknell, Joan Zewadski, and Elaine Brown.

Starting out for the Evens were Catherine Sullivan, Elaine Brown, Betty Kennedy, Bopie Whitaker, Betty Stewart, Mary Roundtree, Ellen Schallern, Candy Jones, Jean Lumpkin, Anna K Horne, and Evelyn Shea.

Starting players for the Odd hockey team were Nita Nord, Mae Manning, Nancy Ward, Mary Jackson, Virginia Goodell, Clarice Trueblood, Sis Miller, Mary Nell Goldman, Dottie Patrick, Nancy Gleaton, and Catherine Gallagher.

Beginning for the Even hockey team were Claire Smith, Mary Jo Whidden, Rosa Lee Davis, Mary Jane Taylor, Anne McInnes, Amelia Pavese, Amarene Thompson, Joyce Garman, Snooks Lipe, Pinky Simmons and Marion Floyd.

AGO Board Meeting

Mrs Ramona Beard, associate professor of organ, and Miss Rebecca Rodenberg, music instructor, attended a state executive board meeting of the Florida chapter of the American Guild of Organists Monday. This meeting was held in the Angebilt hotel in Orlando.

A Very Merry Christmas

Our entire organization joins in a wholehearted wish for your happy holiday. And may your every dream be realized in the New Year.

THE MECCA

Turn in Snapshots

Louise Sims, Flastacowo editor, requests students to turn in their favorite snapshots at the Flastacowo office, second floor of the Longmire building. The snapshots play an informal and entertaining part in the annual, and the staff is anxious to have as many as possible.

Barracks 701 Takes DM Football Crown

Wins 7-0 Over Upper 700; Howell Scores Touchdown

Led by the hard-running of Howard Kelley, Miami halfback, and the smooth ball-handling of quarterback, Wayne Howell, Monticello, Barracks 701 tallied in the last half of their championship game yesterday afternoon to take the Tally Branch intramural football title with a 7-0 win over a scrappy team from Upper 700.

Upper 700 had advanced to the finals with a 6-0 win over Barracks 516 Monday.

The winning score was counted in the last half on a drive mixed with one short aerial and four brilliant running plays. Kelley took the ball on three of the running plays driving through the center of Upper 700's line, then with the ball resting on the 12-yard line Howell held the ball and eased around left end to count the touchdown. An aerial from Howell to Bob Schirmer, Orlando end, notched up the extra point to give 701 a 7-0 lead.

With Bill Parker and Joe Palumbo doing most of the flinging Upper 700 fought back in the dying moments of the struggle and one pass from Palumbo to Lonnie Burt, St Petersburg, almost resulted in a score, but the struggle ended with the ball going over to 701 when their rivals failed to make a first down on the 37 yard line. Both teams made two first downs.

The champions are: Dick Williams, left end; John Dixon, center; Bob Schirmer, right end; Wayne Howell, quarterback; Dan Golden, left halfback; right halfback, Howard Kelley and Tillman Burks.

Barracks 701, Lower deck, is currently leading the Tallahassee Branch of the University of Florida intramurals in tournament points with 300 points accumulated.

Walls of Building Resound to Roar Of Broken Machine

"It's happened again . . . quick, phone Mr Rogers!"

Amid appalling sounds which resembled screams, this hurried exclamation was heard for the umpteenth time in the testing office in the Education building.

The cause of all this commotion was the automatic grading machine which is supervised by Dr Mark DeGraff. The machine breaks continuously at the oddest hours and can be repaired only by "Mr Rogers," International Business Machine representative in town.

"Flunkenstein, Jr." as this grading machine is tenderly called by the four student assistants who operate it, is in the midst of grading fifteen thousand examinations for the Citizens Committee of Florida. The original "Flunkenstein" is now located in a similar department at the University of Florida.

All machine examinations, such as the General Educational Development tests given by the Tallahassee branch of the University of Florida, the freshman psychological tests, and the junior cultural tests are graded by this special grading mechanism at Florida State College.

With this interesting information released, need further explanation be given as to why the machine is called "Flunkenstein?"

Even Modern Dance Team Defeats Odds

"Stephen Foster Suite" Is Even Theme; Odds Choose "Street Scene"

Two Separate Exhibitions Given for Capacity Crowd

The Evens, winners of the modern dance competition, presented a "Stephen Foster Suite," and the Odd dancers gave a number called "Street Scene, New Orleans." Both groups performed before two separate audiences in the Augusta-Conradi theatre, due to the large crowd attending the exhibition.

The judges, Mr Van Ferguson, Miss Louise Gehan and Mrs Lou Miller, scored the dances on (1) choreography, (2) execution, and (3) costumes, lights and music.

Music in the "Stephen Foster Suite" was arranged especially for the dance by Helen Edmiston. In the Largo movement, Dorothy Butts, Doris DuBois, Ruby Lois Duke, Audrey Evans, Anne Shull, Even leader, and Sarah Lee Williams expressed in modern dance patterns the lament of "Old Folks at Home."

The Andante movement was a graceful, dreamlike solo dance by Anne Shull to the music of "Beautiful Dreamer."

Dancers Joyce Cayce, Mickey Chillingworth, Jackie Geiger, Virginia Hatton, Enid Krouse and Avonelle McNair brought the suite to a climax in the Scherzo movement. This was the expression of a gay celebration to the tune of "Camptown Races."

The action of "Street Scene, New Orleans" centered around the arrival and departure of a Mississippi River steamboat. The music was from the Mississippi Suite of Ferde Grofe, played by Margie Booth.

The wharf wolves, Bet Cargill, Jean Headley, Bertie Loftus and Dot Wells, appeared first to welcome the steamboat, accompanied by the belles of the town, Vonnie Slack, Jane Hardacre and Violet Walters.

When the riverboat arrived, the stage cleared for a duet by the ship's officer, Clara Wilson, and the Creole girl, Betty Brobston.

Providing the comedy in this number were the drunken sailors, Jane Carol Levy, Vaida Mock and Lorraine Smith, who stumbled up to the belles of the town and were promptly put in the background by the wharf wolves.

The Odd dance leader was Sis Myers, Mary Lou Norwood and Laura Cason had charge of the lighting effects for the Odd performance. M L Vernon was chairman of this duty for the Evens.

Faculty sponsor for the Odds was Miss Harriet Wolter, and for the Evens, Miss Nellie-Bond Dickenson.

Dr Liddell to Write On Ancient Authors

Dr Anna Forbes Liddell, professor of philosophy, is collaborating with a group of scholars under the auspices of the American Council of Learned Societies, the American Philosophical Association and the Medieval Academy of America in compiling studies dealing with Greek and Latin authors who wrote before 600 A D.

The work will illustrate the history of classical scholarship in the Middle Ages and Renaissance and will trace the contributions of individual authors during those periods. Each collaborator will be in charge of one or several articles, each dealing with a seperate author.

In Kenilworth, Illinois, hens that wish to cackle must step 200 feet back from any residence.

Odd Archery Team Winner Over Evens

Windy weather favored the Odds as they took the honors away from the Evens by a score of 250 to 208 in the archery clash held on th archery range Thursday and Friday, November 21 and 22.

Both teams played a Columbia round with eight girls on each side. The FSC Robin Hoods were refereed by Miss Leverne Sitton, physical education instructor, acting as Lady Paramount.

Numbers were drawn for the targets in order that neither team was favored with the better targets.

Pep Stanaland was leader of the Even team while Katherine Johnson, head of the Odds, led her archery group to victory.

Life Saving Corps Hears Zubrod Talk

Mr Bob Zubrod, Field Director for the American Red Cross, spoke to the Life Saving Corps last Tuesday night at their meeting which was held in the gymnasium.

Mr Zubrod gave a short talk about swimming and explained some new changes in various strokes. At the completion of his talk he demonstrated these methods to the girls.

Plans are being made to entertain the charter members of the Life Saving Corps sometime during the second quarter in honor of the 25th anniversary of the corps.

Miss Martha Helfrin, the newly elected sponsor, was introduced to the club and she spoke to the girls for a few minutes. Following this the new members were initiated and a splash party completed the evening.

The new initiates are: Em Turner Nickenson, Gay Sanders, Jean Booth, Constance Bezant, Betty Pierce, Martha McGahee, Dot Edmundson, Catherine Aspinwall, and Leah Abel.

Tarpon Club Holds Election; Initiation

Tarpon Club initiated fifteen new members and elected officers at their meeting held yesterday afternoon in the club room of the Longmire building.

The new initiates are: Faith Adams, Betty Barnes, Joan Boucher, Charlotte Bouland, Polly Shazal, Rosa Lee Davis, Sarah Ellen Glenn, Barbara Irving, Ellen Koenitzer, Jane Carol Levy, May Manning, Dorothy Martin, Jane Shirley, Margaret Swanson and Marilyn Watson.

The new officers are: Carol Claus, president; Joanne Zewadski, vice-president; and Margaret Swanson, secretary-treasurer.

Following initiation the Tarpon club members had a banquet at the Three Torches. A gift was presented to their sponsor, Miss Ernestine Troemel, associate professor of physical education.

COMPLIMENTS OF

BEN GILBERG'S

ROLLER SKATES

TENNIS RACKETS & BALLS

DUCK AND GOOSE DECOYS

FISHING TACKLE

SEABROOK HARDWARE CO.

PHONE 200 & 19

Tarpon Members Present Pageant

Perfume Theme Carried Out In Six Water Formations

The Tarpon club members and "Minnows" presented their annual Thanksgiving water pageant entitled "Essence of Grace" last Monday and Tuesday nights at 6:30 in the college pool.

The theme "Perfume" was carried out in six water formations with accompanying music which was suggestive of the moods and names of various perfumes. A duet number by B J Singleton and Carol Claus entitled "Taboo" was also included in the program.

The water formations were as follows: "Opening Night" to the music of "Strike Up the Band" by Mae Manning, Docey Martin, Polly Chazal, Faith Adams, Charlotte Bouland, Joan Bouches, Marilyn Watson, Barbara Irving, Sarah Ellen Glenn and Ellen Koenitzer; "Romance" to the music of "Amedo Mio" by Sarah Ellen Glenn, Ann Richardson, Norma Shaeffner, Joan Zewadski, Barbara J Lindsey, Myra Long, Moira Long and Amelia Pavese; "Sleeping Beauty" to the "Sleeping Beauty Waltz" by Margaret Swanson, Helen Hoerges, Jane Carol Levy, Rosa Lee Davis, Jane Shirley and Bettye Barnes; "Indian Summer" to the "Dagger Dance" by Carol Claus, Margery Holm, Anna Horn, B J Lindsey, Silvia Meisch, Camille Batten, Myra Long, Moira Long, Nancy Mac Edwards and B J Singleton; "Lady in the Dark" to the song "Dancing in the Dark" by Margery Holm, Pat Millican, Amelia Pavese, Anna Lou Rivers, Joanne Zewadski, B J Lindsey, Nancy Mac Edwards and Doris DuBois; "Evening in Paris" to the music "American in Paris" by Carol Claus, Camille Batten, Anna Horne, Silvia Meisch, B J Lindsey, Myra Long, Moira Long, Amelia Pavese, Anna Lou Rivers, Norma Shaeffner, Doris DuBois, Joanne Zewadski and Ann Richardson.

The decorations which followed the perfume theme were under the direction of Nancy Mac Edwards and Sarah Ellen Glenn. Miss Ernestine Troemel, associate professor of physical education, was the sponsor.

Stray Greeks Raffle Winners Announced

Many prized items were given away at the Stray Greek raffle held in the Longmire building last night. The prizes and the winners are: Virginia Budd, two airway tickets to Gainesville for the Fall Frolics; Virginia der Garry, a pair of nylon hose; Peggy Moss, a free meal at a leading Tallahassee restaurant, and Jean Furman, five theater tickets.

A "first Thanksgiving" was celebrated in Maine, not Massachusetts, 15 years before the Pilgrims.

Two Girls Awarded F Club Emblem

Betty Schwartz and Virginia Palmer are to be awarded F Club emblems by Women's Recreation Association sometime this week, announced Betty Gardener, president of the organization, at a meeting Wednesday night. Betty and Virginia have won their emblems on the basis of having earned a letter and five stars each.

Only one or two girls each year usually earn this emblem which represents Odd-Even team competition during all four years of college. Sarah Bennett and Catherine Barrs were the only ones to receive the F Club Emblem last year. Betty has participated in basketball, soccer, badminton and softball. Virginia has made the teams in volleyball, soccer, badminton, and softball.

At the meeting Herky White was elected Odd basketball leader, and it was announced that next quarter sports would be volleyball, basketball, and swimming.

Nancy MacEdwards, chairman of playnight, announced that there will be no playnight tomorrow because of dead week. Spirogira-Esteren hockey which was scheduled for tomorrow night has been postponed until second quarter.

LOST: A Parker "51" fountain pen with black and silver top. Has sentimental value. Please return to Elizabeth Golden, 315 Gilchrist.

AIR CONDITIONED
FLORIDA
PHONE 186

NOW - TOMORROW
"NO LEAVE NO LOVE"
Van Johnson

Sunday - Monday
"IF I'M LUCKY"
Vivian Blaine

Tuesday - Wednesday
"NO TIME FOR COMEDY"
James Stewart

Thursday - Friday - Saturday
"NOTORIOUS"
Cary Grant

STATE
PHONE 150

NOW - TOMORROW
"BAMBOO BLONDE"
with Frances Langford
"FRONTIER FEUD"
with Johnnie Mack Brown

Sunday - Monday
"THE RED DRAGON"
with Charlie Chan
and
"ONE EXCITING WEEK"

Tuesday - Wednesday
"TWO SISTERS FROM BOSTON"
with Kathryn Grayson

Thursday Only
"THE HOODLUM SAINT"
James Gleason
"O. S. S."

COOL WASHED-AIR
RITZ
PHONE 887

NOW - TOMORROW
"FLAMING BULLETS"
"Condemned to Devil's Island"

Sunday - Monday
DOUBLE FEATURE
"Our Hearts Were Growing Up"
Diana Lynn
"Yolanda and the Thief"
Fred Astaire

Tuesday - Wednesday - Thursday
DOUBLE FEATURE
"IT ALL CAME TRUE"
Humphrey Bogart
"DEADLINE FOR MURDER"
with Paul Kelley

Friday - Saturday
"EVERY MAN'S LAW"
Johnny Mack Brown
—also—
"JOE PALOOKA"
with Joe Kirkwood

BOTTLED UNDER AUTHORITY OF THE COCA-COLA COMPANY BY TALLAHASSEE COCA-COLA BOTTLING COMPANY

SPIRIT OF THE WEEK

from term capers —
to term papers in one short quarter

● SPECIAL DELIVERY, PLEASE

Dear Santa,

Gee, we bet you've been getting just lots and lots of letters from all sorts of important people this year, and maybe you won't even be able to fill our requests what with all the shortages and strikes. But please do your best, Santa, 'cause we really need the things we're asking for.

Say, we heard that one of your workers—believe his name is Johnny Lewis—is striking again and you haven't been able to get anyone to keep the fires going. We certainly do hope you will discipline him severely enough to make him learn his lesson this time.

Santa, we accidentally ran into Mr World the other day. You knew he had been in a serious accident recently, didn't you? Well, anyhow he's still not in particularly good shape so he asked us to write you for him. First of all, he wants to know if you have some good will towards men available this Yuletide—we sort of missed out on it during the year, you know.

Then, too, he said to ask if you had something he could give his daughter "China." Maybe an olive branch or two would do—one for her boyfriend "Red" and one for her other one, "National". Looks like those two boys will never stop fighting over her. Seems to us that one of them would give up sooner or later; if they don't watch out someone else is liable to take their place.

Mr World's son "Yugee" has broken his anti-aircraft guns and wants to know if you have some more or if you have some other kind of artillery he can play with.

"Francie" has been hard at work reconstructing her cities and her government. Mr World doesn't know whether she's written you or not, but he'd like to ask if you wouldn't please see that she has a merry Christmas and that the Fourth rench Republic doesn't go the way of its ancestors.

Say, Santa, just between you and us, we think Mr World as forgotten to ask for something which he needs pretty adly. We sure would appreciate it if you and your workers ould figure out a new toy to counteract one we've just inented down here. We're afraid some of the kids don't know ow to use it and they may get hurt while playing. We alls ours the "Atomic Bomb"; maybe you could call yours e "Atomic Bomb Control."

And you knew about the new playhouse Mr World has en planning for his children, didn't you? Well, he hasn't ecided just where to build it yet so the whole family is in ew York for the time being discussing possibilities for it nd also trying to help Mr World back to his feet again. aybe you could help them out on this, huh?

Mr World said that his son "Russ" had already asked r everything he wanted. We just thought we'd sort of elp "Russ" along and ask you if you wouldn't pay a little ore attention to him than other people do. He's a growin' y, you know, and awfully big for his age.

Well, Santa, I guess that's just about all Mr World nted to ask you for with "peace on earth, good will towards men" incorporating most of his requests. Now we'd e to ask a few things for ourselves.

Seems like nearly every year we ask you for some coucation. We see that you managed to put a little in stock is summer and we certainly do thank you. Yep, looks as ow if you and your workers—we believe you call these paricular ones "legislators"—try just a little bit harder this ear, you can probably store up enough co-education to atisfy everyone.

You remember, Santa, that last year we asked for a new onstitution? We don't have one yet, but we're working on t and any help you can give us—in an advisory capacity, of course—will be appreciated. Say, you know, you might sprinkle a few grains of that new type of government—the kind in which the final decision lies in the hands of the students with the faculty in an advisory capacity only—in the toes of the faculty stockings. We think they'd like it if they got a good taste. You might also put a few more senior privileges in their stockings.

And Santa, we need some new dancing shoes—some we can wear on Sunday. You see, there's not much for us to do on our campus on Sundays and we thought maybe if we had pretty enough shoes and some that weren't too noisy, we might be allowed to dance on this day.

We guess this about all, Santa, except that if the output from your mint has been pretty good, our budget committee certainly neds some money—there's just not enough to go around!

Well, Santa, this will be all for another year. We know we've asked for a lot, but we hope it's not too much. We know you'll do your best to fill the bill. We've all been very good little girls so we're looking forward to stockings just crammed full of nice things.

'Bye, Santa, and lotsa love.
The Girls at FSC.

P S: Santa, if you think you might get hungry on your Christmas Eve trip you better bring your own food. Miss Tracy gives out every once in a while especially if you have classes up until 15 minutes before the dining hall closes. And you'd be awfully uncomfortable in the Sweet Shop. since it doesn't have a ceiling . . .

● WE, THE PEOPLE

The constitution for the Tallahassee Branch of the University of Florida has been completed this week. It has been posted for students to read and is on its way through the proper channels to be approved by the Board of Control. It has already gotten the approval of the Tally-U administration, and the students are voting on December 9 so they can start the wheels rolling as soon as the final decision comes through.

It is interesting to note that this constitution has been drawn up to last as the supreme governing document of the men at Tally-U as long as they are here at Florida State College. It took little over a month for the constitutional committee to draw up this document, similar in length and general organization to the Agreement that College Government Association and the faculty here have been operating under for many years and which takes a year to amend.

The tragic truth of the situation is that the entire men's constitution will probably be approved and go into effect before the amendments proposed by our student senate last spring gets back to the FSC students for a vote.

The large constitutional committee chosen by the FSC students has been working as long as the committee of Tally-U, but as yet they have been able to get only one amendment as far as Student Senate—which should prove something about the red-tape and obstacles that lie in their way in the form of the old Agreement and different approvals that must be obtained before they can be sure of any work they present. The idea of revising our present "constitution," which is really an agreement and not a constitution, completely through amendments is one of the main stumbling blocks that will hold up the progress of any student committee working on improved government.

We are watching the progress of the men's constitution with much interest, and we will be eagerly waiting for its official okeh. The men who are responsible for the speedy action in constructing it should be commended, and we hope that their method of presenting a complete document will be adopted by the FSC constitutional group if it proves successful.

● THE LOST SUNDAYS

The proverbial stone wall has again borne the brunt of the beatings of numerous heads. After discussions in Senate meetings, a forum, and among the student body, the question of Sunday dancing, it is now disclosed, is not within the jurisdiction of the students—it is an administrative problem.

In its capacity as mediator between the tax-payers and the students the administration has deemed it necessary to establish and maintain regulations on those matters which, in its opinion, are not socially accepted by the populace. Into this category, it seems, the recent action taken by Senate has fallen.

We have no quarrel to pick with the administration, but it seems that they are assuming a lot in regards to the rules which govern our actions. We believe that the parents of most of the students here would rather have them participate in properly chaperoned Sunday dancing than have them wander around aimlessly most of Sunday.

As far as the administration's considering whether the laws of the college are or are not socially acceptable, may we point out that the majority of the tax-payers in the state have voted to make the selling of liquor legal in their respective counties. Yet we do not advocate a repeal of our college regulation that forbids college girls attending FSC to drink. We hold that this, which has been approved by most of the Florida tax-payers to be acceptable, is not acceptable to the situation in which we find ourselves.

Now when it has been proved that we need additional Sunday recreation, and that dancing is one of the easiest ways of providing that necessary part of college life, there is no reason to assume that the people of the state are automatically against it. As yet they have not found it necessary to pass laws forbidding Sunday dancing.

It is true that a small portion of the parents of the students would object to Sunday dancing, but it is also true that the majority of the parents would not object, and even more of them would not object if they knew the limited recreational facilities we have for the number of people who use them.

A form letter could be sent to the parents of each student in school at the present time requesting that they indicate whether or not they would find Sunday dancing on campus acceptable. This would solve the problem for both the students and the administration and leave no doubts in anyone's mind.

The Kitchen Sink

(Guaranteed not for years, not for life, but guaranteed . . . Keeper of the Dutch Cleanser, M L Norwood: Holder of the Sponges, B J McLeod.)

Winter has at last begun, term paper dead-lines are fast approaching, and the Thanksgiving Holiday has gone by. Thanksgiving Holiday . . . that's a term meaning the four days you either stayed here and worked like a Trojan on your term papers or went home and spent four days worrying about them. Term paper is a phrase which in our case means too little, too late, too often. The same definition applies to the attendance of members of the Constitution Committee to meetings.

• • •

The cold weather brings to mind again a scheme we've been harboring for a long time. It is a source of wonder that someone hasn't tried it before. We want to cross silver foxes with kangaroos and get fur coats with built in pockets.

Along with heavy coats the weather has brought out stocking caps which are really nothing but tams with a two way stretch.

• • •

The secret of how much mending college girls don't do on clothes that don't show was almost disclosed last week. As one of our friends was dragging classward she was stopped by a member of the male faction who asked her name. Quickly seeing that the situation demanded a clever answer she told him her name. He said, "That's what I thought Some of your laundry came home in mine." When her breath returned after four minutes of horrified thoughts she sagaciously inquired, "What?" Ducking his head he replied, "A handkerchief."

• • •

We noticed several of the newly initiated Esteren members weighed down by life size teapots in appropriate colors dangling from their often protruding necks. Upon inquiry we learned the trinkets were presented to them by their goat mothers. Our only comment is that their goat mothers must have been scared by a Saint Bernard dog. Brew about it a while, girls.

• • •

The poll taken in CGA assembly Tuesday night, which by the way was supposed to be a vote as set up by the Traditions Committee, was so close we ate through out mortar boards and dusted off the crumbs with our tassels in our nervousness. In the results, 137 more people voted to have one big show than voted to hold the three different productions. The closeness of the vote certainly makes the action of the Traditions Committee difficult no matter at what decision they arrive.

The Traditions Committee, we believe is one of the best moves yet made to bring our campus up to date. Its work is parallel in traditions with the Constitution Committee's work on the constitution. The purpose of the committee is to investigate, evaluate and improve on our existing traditions which, like our rules, become out-dated and no longer fulfill a useful purpose. Therefore we would like to send an orchid to Dr Campbell for appointing such a committee, roses to the committee for the work they have plunged whole-heartedly into, and a stink weed for McLeod who has not appeared this week to help with this column.

• • •

This week there's been a lot of talk about what to do with the Student Activity Fund. The Flambeau could certainly use some petty cash to buy not typewriters (we wouldn't ask for anything like that even though two of ours refuse to work) but typewriter ribbon. Our ribbons have been used so long that the reporters have to hit the keys with little hammers to make the indentations of the letters deep enough for the copy readers to read it by the braille system.

• • •

This is the last issue of the Flambeau and therefore of this column until second quarter. Issue happy? We wanted to do something nice for not only ourselves but for our readers who have been faithful during this monumental quarter which has witnessed our birth and adolescence. Along with our hilarious humor we have tried to give little hints and advice to all undergraduates and so we can truly say that the old, old adage now reads: "A girl's best friend is still her mother." To ourselves and our readers we give a four weeks vacation—and a wish for a Merry Christmas and a see you in the New Year.

Tally Ho

A UTOPIAN FSC!

And I'm referring to the past week-end, enjoyed by the "select few" who deemed it best to remain on campus. For the other 3,000 of you irresponsibles, here's a picture of FSC last week-end, Utopian style: no lines at the dining hall . . . no injuries sustained in the usual mail rush in lower Westcott . . . choice of seats on DM buses (when they ran!) . . . no place around campus to waste money or gain weight on pecan pie and coffee (the Sweet and Mecca locked and bolted the doors after Wednesday night!) . . . no trouble checking out books in the libe . . . no mob to fight in order to see Glenn Ford's "Gallant Journey" at the Florida . . . no blaring radios in the dorms, nor proctors, nor noisy neighbors with 6:30's every morning . . . no confusion . . . nothing, in fact—but plenty of peace and quiet!

CAUSTIC COMMENTS:

She has a very even temper—she's always MAD! . . . Well, I guess you'd call us friends. We have the same enemies. . . . Gossips have a keen sense of rumor. . . . Since women carry little cases designed for making up their faces, I wish they'd have some other kinds designed for making up their minds . . . (pome!) . . .

TAKE HEART, FELLERS

Though term papers may be stacked up; tests which necessitate cramming (nahsty word!) are forthcoming; parallel, play-reading, and book-reporting has more or less been lost in the shuffle, never fear. Maybe you're smarter than you think. Maybe you'll even PASS this quarter's work when Judgment Day comes.

After all, didn't Albert Einstein's teachers classify him as a "dunce"? And even his parents (usually a child's most appreciative and understanding critics) thought dear Albert a bit backward.

And then there was Thomas A Edison who was always at the foot of his class in school because he couldn't remember his three R's. His teachers called him Stupid.

And then there's—us!

BEST GO!

One of the freshmen, home over the week-end, brought back this evidence of her wit (or lack of it), supposedly a parting scene with her date.

She: Sometimes my father takes things apart to see why they don't go!

He: So what?

She: So you'd best go!

The Case of the Lost Landis Turtle

"Mary is lost! Wonder where she is? Did you look in your laundry bag?" Two girls in Landis Hall searched in despair for Mary for two weeks.

Finally, one day she wandered out from under a bed and stood in the middle of the floor wagging her tiny tail at them.

"There's always excitement with one turtle, but two of them to watch really make life interesting," declared one of the owners of the two tiny pets.

Solving the food problem for the pets was a difficult thing. Fish food was ignored, and when the proud owner killed an ant and put it in the water, the turtles just looked at it curiously and then nonchalantly swam away. One of them has learned to like raw hamburger and lettuce, but Mary, the other, is still on a starvation diet.

When asked what she was going to name the other turtle, the possessor said, "I don't know yet. I'll have to watch his personality to find out."

Library to Display Dickens Selections

Climaxing the Christmas theme in the library and continuing an old college custom, Miss Kemper Moore, speech instructor, will read selections from Charles Dickens' Christmas Carol in the browsing room of the library, December 17 at 8 p m.

Several Christmas displays have been placed in the lobby of the library. One of the bulletin boards is arranged upon the theme "Heralding Christmas Traditions Around the World," which, in conjunction with informative booklets, explains the various customs in foreign countries.

In a special book trough noted by the sign "So hallowed and so gracious is the name," there is a collection of books and stories about the life of Christ. A group of famous paintings, ranging from the works of Sandre Botticelli to Masha, depicting the Christ Child in art are being exhibited in the glass display cases.

Tea Postponed

Because of the interruption caused by the Thanksgiving holidays the Hillside-Campuside at home which was to be held Wednesday was postponed until the second quarter.

Although the college calendar had it listed to take place on December 4, its postponement has already been decided upon by the office of the Dean of Students.

Students Speak . .

By JUNE GRINDSTAFF

With Thanksgiving holidays over, students at FSC could presumably and not illogically be expected to settle down to some last minute learning before those dreaded exams begin. But Christmas is in the air, and studying will have to take a back seat while plans for the holidays are made, and dreams of the celebration of Christmas are indulged in.

This year young men as well as young women in colleges everywhere are looking forward to spending Christmas at home with their families under the familiar richly decorated evergreen tree. Last year at Christmas time, however, things were not quite so rosy for a number of the boys who share our erstwhile feminine campus this year. Many of them were waiting around at discharge centers for that precious scrap of paper that would make them free men again, and some less fortunates were still overseas. Most of FSC's former GI's will be spending their first Christmas at home in several years.

L W Summerland, a freshman at FSC this year, was a radioman in the Navy for two years and didn't receive his discharge until June of this year. When asked where he spent last Christmas he replied, "At Pier 91 in Seattle, Washington." L W's home is in Daytona Beach, and this year he will spend his first Christmas at home in three years. "We had Christmas dinner aboard the ship," he says, "and it was pretty good, but nothing to compare with home. I was luckier than some though, he admits, "because I had some friends in Seattle and spent most of Christmas day with them.

One of his close friends Fred Honour, also a freshman, started out with L W from their home town in Daytona Beach as radioman in the Navy. Fred, however, spent his Christmas in Shanghai, China. He was stationed there on the repair ship Sierra A D. His Christmas, he remarks, "was particularly dull because we were the only ones celebrating Christmas. The Chinese, of course, do not." It had been two years since Fred was at home. "Since we were the only ones celebrating Christmas and didn't receive any of our packages from home until months after Christmas it just seemed like any other day to us, except for the extra special dinner they had for us," Fred continued. He added that to complete the irony of last Christmas he had just received a letter addressed to him in Shanghai that should have been received at Christmas time. Fred was discharged from the Navy last August and is looking forward to "two wonderful weeks of holidays this year with the folks."

Arthur Cobb, freshman, was in the Army Air Corps with the Fifth Air Force for three years and spent his second year away from home at Yuletide time in Irumagawa, Japan. He reports a gala celebration at the base complete with six course Christmas dinner, Christmas tree and party for the exchange of presents.

In addition to that he states that "the Red Cross gave all the boys a present and even the Japanese made a pretense at celebrating Christmas for the benefit of the GI's stationed there." Arthur had some friends in town whom he called on Christmas day for tea. "The family," he remarks, "had lived in the United States for about 12 years and the mother had studied and received her degree at Vassar. They lived in New York and operated a little grocery store before they returned to Japan." Arthur returned to his home in Pensacola last February when he received his discharge.

Clyde Daniels, freshman, served three years with the Army Air Corps as an aerial engineer on a B-24. "I spent last Christmas at Hamilton Field near San Raphael, California and a very dull one it was too," Clyde says. "We went into Berkley for the day with a bunch of fellows from the base but all of us were wishing we could be at home. I hadn't been home for a year," Clyde reports. Discharged in February of this year, Clyde plans to go home to Sebring this year to spend Christmas with his family.

Jack Ketner, freshman, says "I was in the middle of the Atlantic ocean last Christmas." Jack spent three years with the Coast Guard before he was discharged in June and sent back home to Tampa. "We were on the Monticello, AP 61, near the Azores, which is some distance off the coast of North Africa and I had to work all Christmas day," Jack remarks. "We had a good Christmas dinner, but our packages from home didn't come until we got back to the states in January." Jack hadn't been home for 17 months and admits to a slight case of homesickness experienced while working in the laundry last December 25. "We made up for it Christmas night though," he counters, "with a big celebration in the ship's laundry. There were some Army nurses aboard and they helped us to celebrate."

It seems that all of the boys interviewed about their celebration of Christmas last year conclude that there's no place like home, but all seem to have been capable of making the best of an unfortunate situation when it was necessary. All have indicated that when they go home for Christmas this year they will appreciate it more than they ever have before and will most certainly make the best of every minute of it.

Or Forever Hold Your Peace

Letter to the editor

The adoption of the proposed constitution to be voted on Monday by the student body of the Tallahassee branch will mean essentially this to the students:

(1) That student government will operate legally under a document approved by the students.

(2) That the existing student government will cease to function upon the election of the officers provided for in this constitution and upon their assumption of office.

(3) That there will be set up the time honored system of tripartite government with each department serving as a check and balance of the others.

As members of the student body and having assisted in the framing of the proposed constitution, we are aware of the time and effort to draw up a document of this nature.

We believe that adoption of the proposed constitution, drawn up with an eye to the future will serve the interests of the student body now, and then.

Signed
Members of the Constitution Committee.

There are 378 waterfalls in Brazil, 164 of which have a potential power of at least 8,000,000 horsepower.

The Florida Flambeau

1946-1947 STAFF
EDITORIAL STAFF

SHIRLEY RODGERS — Editor
BETTY DOWD, B J McLEOD, LOLA ROSE — Associate Editors
JOYCE PETTY — Managing Editor
BARBARA FARRAR — Assistant Managing Editor
LAURA LEE BUTLER, JEAN DOUGLAS — News Editors

Copy Editor — Winifred Lane
Assistant Copy Editor — Eleanor Bayer
Society Editor — Madge Pilcher
Assistant Society Editor — Paulette Blank
Feature Editors — Alicia Armstrong, Barbara Beckman
Sports Editor — Evelyn Shea
Outside News Editor — Marjorie Clark
Opinion Editor — June Grindstaff
Headline Editor — M J Sherman
Columnists — Beryl Kitchen and "Sharpie"
Picture Editor — Paulette Blank
Art Editor — Jean Sharer
Copy Girl — Robin Hill

REPORTERS: Dorothy Aberle, Katheryn Aspinwall, Inez Augustine, Jeanne Bagley, Audrey Melba Bach, Barbara Brown, John W Cash, Reginald Cash, Hazel Clarkson, Bob Cooksey, Mary Elizabeth Conant, Carol Coughlan, Lucius Daniel, Doris Love Dorsey, Francine Dunning, Jeanne DuPree, Mary Frances Ewart, Jane Hardacre, Jeani Harris, Alice Haywood, Linda Herold, Dorothy Ann Holland, Mildred Frances Hull, Lois Elizabeth Lovett, Rosemary McCay, Bobbie Annie Meffert, Elizabeth Milton, Anna Moore, Cheryl Muster, Francis North, Christine Puckett, Janice Richey, Charma Rosenvaig, Jackie Story, Charlotte Scott, Mary Charles Skipper, Pat Small, Nancy Stevens, Theresa Sellers, Alice Sharp, Betty Sue Taylor, Ann Tucker, Betty Wilkinson, Nancy Wright, Joanne Zewedski.

BUSINESS STAFF

Business Manager — Vivian L. Schaeffer
Advertising Manager — Nancy Stevens
Circulation Manager — Margie Berns
Exchange Manager — Gladys Clark
Billing Assistant — Jean Lieberman

Entered as second class mail matter, January 30, 1918, at the post office at Tallahassee, Fla., under the act of Congress of March 3 1879

Member
Intercollegiate Press

It is the policy of the Flambeau to grant equal space and prominence to anyone wishing to present a contrary opinion whenever opinions on controversial questions are voiced in its columns.

Temperamental Chimes Have Tolled a Decade of Time

The ringing of the chimes is as much a part of campus life as the 9:30 struggle in the post office or the after-class trip to the Soda Shop for a coke. This fact was evidenced by the general concern expressed last year when the chiming system was out of order for a time.

Not only the students, but also the nearby residents depend on these chimes. One man even complained that they were not loud enough to be heard at his home several blocks away and wanted something done about it.

The system of chimes, which was presented to the school by the class of '36, has quite a history behind it, and has more than once caused the electricians grave anxiety. In the beginning the chimes were placed in the top of the library but this turned out to be far from satisfactory. Miss Richardson, the head librarian, was the first to protest, and also also Dr Raymond Bellamy, who had classes in the History building, complained that the chimes "rang so loud and so often that they disturbed his napping students."

At that time the chimes played every fifteen minutes. The system was soon moved to the Westcott tower where it has been ever since.

Another problem of the electricians is that of keeping the system in working order, especially during the war and post-war months when it was difficult to get new parts. The chimes sound like the ringing of a huge bell but actually the ringing is produced by a small gong with an amplifier. It works on the order of a radio.

Two minutes before the hour and the half-hour it starts warming up and then is ready to strike on time. The prompter is the clock in the information booth on the second floor of Westcott. But everything doesn't always go so well. If the system doesn't chime properly at, say, 10 o'clock one morning, an electrician has to be on hand at 10 the next morning to see if he can find the trouble. If he misses it he has to wait around until the next morning and try again.

The system is arranged so that any program can be sent out through the amplifier, such as speeches, transcriptions, or organ music. On V-E day a program of music was ordered by the officials. The whole system promptly broke. No one knew what to do until a soldier from Dale Mabry decided he could fix it. Then they could find no turntable for the records — the records which they didn't have. They finally found the turntable in town and the records in the music department so the program was held.

All went well on Monday, Armistice day, however, when at 11 o'clock "America" and "The Star Spangled Banner" were played.

Spanish Caballeros Entertained at FSC

"Buenas noches, senores," chorused a dozen girls of Florida State College's Casa Cervantes Saturday before last as they opened the door to greet twelve caballeros who had just arrived from the University of Florida.

The dance given by the girls living in the Spanish House for "Los Picaros," a Spanish honorary, was held in Landis recreation room.

Beneath the flags of the twenty-one Spaish republics, the senores and senioritas danced to both American and Spanish music. The tempo of a slow American waltz was followed by the quick rhythm of the South American rumba and by the even quicker beat of "The Coffee Song," as the Spanish speaking boys gaily jitterbugged the American way with their laughing companions.

One of the girls, Vivien, was called "Bibien" all evening until she finally taught her dancing partner how to pronounce the English "V." Since he was just learning the English language, they spoke first in her native tongue and then in his, for she is eager to learn how to speak Spanish. "Surprisingly enough", the boys spoke slowly and distinctly, and we could easily understand them," she said.

On the end wall was a huge outline map of South America. As each picaro entered he was given a little colored flag with his name. This flag he placed on his native country outlined on the map. Among the countries represented were Colombia, Costa Rico, Guatemala, Ecuador, Peru, and Cuba

The next day, Sunday, the boys toured the campus and visited Dale Mabry.

"Look at the beer!" cried one as he pointed toward a pigeon perched atop the music annex. "Or, no—the English word for your Spanish pajaro is b-i-r-d—bird," she explained hurriedly to him. Of course, the mistakes the girls made in Spanish will never be disclosed.

The unanimous opinion of the girls was that these soft-spoken Spanish "hombres" are just like American boys, gay and humorous.

The girls of Casa Cervantes are thinking of organizing a chapter of the fraternity here, and looking forward to the next visit of the Picaros.

Chaperones at the dance included Miss Carmen Rivera and Miss Ruth Jones of the modern language department and counselors at the Spanish House, and Dr D L Canfield, Dr Margie Burks and Dr Margaret V Campbell of the modern language department.

FSC to Offer Aviation Class

Curriculum Committee Approves New Course

A course in aviation has been added to the curriculum of Florida State College beginning next quarter, according to Dr Doak S Campbell, president of the college. This course has been approved by the faculty and curriculum committee of the college, and approved by and in cooperation with the Civil Aeronautics Association.

For those taking elementary aeronautics, physics 244 is required. The course comprises 24 lecture hours, 40 laboratory hours, and includes the elements of aerodynamics, meterology, air navigation, servicing of aircraft, and Civil Air Regulations. Laboratory work comprises 22 hours dual and 15 hours solo flight in 65 hp airplanes. After successful completion of this course, the student is prepared to take the Civil Aeronautics examination for private pilot's certificate. Candidates for this course must have a valid CAA medical certificate.

Students with private pilots certificate and one hundred hours logged flying time may quit elementary aeronautics course and substitute advanced aeronautics which is physics 245-6-7.

Those having commercial pilots certificates are qualified to take the physics 248 course which is advanced aeronautical training. Upon completion of this course the student is eligible to take the examination for Instructor Rating.

The last aviation course to be offered is Physics 249, which is the use of aeronautical instruments. This consists of 60 hours laboratory, including 10 in Link trainer and 20 hours blind flying. Completion of this course prepares for examination for the CAA Instrument Rating.

Aviation was at one time before the war included in the curriculum of FSC for a short time. It is hoped that it will be more successful this time than before.

Both the Tallahassee Air Corporation and the Wheeler Flying Service are accredited flying schools in cooperation with this program on campus. They offer training in Taylorcraft, Ercoupe, Aeronca, Cubs, and other light aircraft.

Late-Comers Arrive In Early Morning

Bryan hall sat up and blinked its weary eyes last Sunday night when it saw a crowd of weary coeds straggling in its doors after the hour set for the return of students after holidays.

It seems that they all got home all right, but when the time came to catch a bus for college—there just weren't enough buses there! Those that were there were so crowded that they made very slow progress and turned up a trifle late.

Worried students felt a lot more comforted when they pulled up in front of Byran to find they had the company of a lot of other late-comers. "Well, I'm glad to know that I'm not the only one that got fouled up," sighed one weary sophomore.

The boys on the buses couldn't understand why the girls were in such a hurry to get back until it was patiently explained over and over to them that they couldn't come in late at night as the boys have the freedom to do.

Browsing Room Is a Little Used, Seldom Opened Portion of Our College Library

A little-used, seldom-opened portion of the Florida State College library. That's the Browsing room.

"Our chief regret is that so few students come to the Browsing room," Miss Louise Richardson, head librarian, stated. "We try to open it an hour each day at a time when we think the most students are free."

A small sign is placed in the foyer of the library to announce when the Browsing room is open, according to Miss Richardson.

Comfortable chairs with ottomans and sofas are grouped about the room facing the large window overlooking Bryan. Books of all kinds are placed casually on the numerous tables. This is one spot on campus where a person can be sure of finding the latest copy of New Yorker.

"Everything in the Browsing room is a gift," Miss Richardson confided. "It all started when the class of 1929 gave $650 to be used for furnishing a room in which the students could relax and read for pleasure.

"Then, in 1930, Carnegie donated $5000 to be spent for purchasing books of a type that the girls would like when they want to get away from studying," Miss Richardson continued. "As you know, no text books, pencils, notebooks or pens are allowed in the Browsing room. We want to encourage the girls to use this room for extra-curricular reading and not for studying or reading parallel."

Also in 1930, the College Government Association gave $250 for books, and the class of 1926 voted that $450 be donated by their alumnae association towards buying books for this room. Then, the class of 1932 gave $500 for additional furniture, Miss Richardson found in her report reviewing FSC library features.

"The books in the Browsing room, which include classics and moderns in fiction, travel, poetry, art and drama, were purchased over a period of a year by a faculty-attendant committee," Miss Richardson explained, "and each year we try to add a few new ones. Many students and some faculty members have donated books to be used in this room only."

Miss Richardson said that the Browsing room isn't opened any more than it is because so few students make use of the room that the expense of keeping it open is not worth it.

Boys at Dale Mabry Stand in Long Lines To Get Mail From "Chicken Coop" Boxes

"What are all the chicken coops for?" queried a Tally University student as he surveyed the new post office at Dale Mabry.

This might sound a bit preposterous, but it is true. There are boxes row upon row fenced over with wire and under each is a number. Yes, because of the shortage of locks, there are the boxes you get mail in at Dale Mabry.

At first you might think it would be much simpler to carry around a pair of wire cutters than to remember a combination to your box, but the Tally U boys have no such luck. They have to stand in one of the lines that Florida State College is famed for and wait patiently for their turn to ask the postmistress for their mail.

There is a terrible rush in Westcott for the 8:30 mail, but it is nothing compared to the long wait in line that the boys endure. Instead of being pushed and jammed out of reach of your box you get your mail by that unbearably long line.

During lunch hour the post office remains closed but the boys still come through to see if they have any mail. "It boosts my morale to see a letter in my box, even though I can't get it to read. I wish they would leave the boxes open, or something," said Robert Shutte. In a way those Westcott "battles" aren't so bad. You can usually fight your way through and get your letters, but at Dale Mabry, no, you wait until the P O opens.

There is one complaint that seems to be common in both the Tally U and the FSC post office, and that is, "There just isn't enough mail." It seems as if the men look forward to getting mail more than the girls do.

One boy wanders out looking very disappointed. "No one's box could collect as much dust as mine does, though," he said. That seems to be the opinion of the girls as well as our co-eds.

◆

THEIR SISTER WAS FIRST

The Wright brothers were the first to fly a heavier-than-air power-driven machine, and the Wright brothers' sister was the first woman to go up in such a machine.

CGA Assembly Held Tuesday

Student Senate Gives Exhibition Meeting

A poll was taken by the Traditions committee, about Junior Minstrels, and Odd-Even demonstrations, as to whether the students favored one production, three productions or none at all at the last CGA meeting for this quarter which was held Tuesday night in Westcott auditorium. The one production won by 134 votes.

Sarah Lewis, president of CGA, announced the Dead Week officially began last night at midnight and would last through the following Friday. Also that during this time no activities are to be scheduled.

Herkie White, freshman advisor, said that freshman elections for president, vice-president, secretary, treasurer, parliamentarian, athletic manager and five representatives to senate would be held January 6-15.

An announcementwas also made of a forum on "Better Distribution of Activity Fees" which was held Wednesday night at 7:30 in room 402 of the Longmire building.

Unclaimed Article Sale Is Postponed

The auction of unclaimed lost and found articles which was to be held Wednesday has been postponed until after Christmas, announced Mrs Edith Gulick, director of the Longmire building.

All items unclaimed after 60 days will be offered for sale after Christmas except the more valuable ones which will be kept longer in case the owners call for them.

Mrs Gulick also reported that the Wedgewood plate, which had been missing from the main lounge of the building, was returned by mail.

◆

There are 105,056 tractors on the farms and ranches of Texas.

Dr C P Heinlein Has Article Published

A paper on "The Validity of Personality Questionnaires" written by Dr C P Heinlein of the psychology department has been accepted for publication in the January issue of the Psychological Bulletin, official journal of the American Psychological association.

Said Dr Heinlein, "Many mental testers have blindly adopted statistical methods of evaluation which fail to diagnose human personality." Dr Heinlein expressed the view that it is practically impossible to predict the nature and course of a person's social adjustments from his score on a personality questionnaire.

In the conclusion of his article Dr Heinlein recommends that mental testers re-examine a number of questionable assumptions on which much of test construction and validation are based.

Buyer To Be Here

A book buyer will be on hand at the bookstore December 14 16 and 17 to buy used books All textbooks that are to be used next quarter will be bought and, since the need for them is urgent, students are urged to take advantage of the offer.

Merry Christmas

Pikes Studio

The Perfect Gift

Layton's Men's Wear

114½ E. COLLEGE PHONE 2754-W

We have a smooth collection of
Ties . . . Sweaters . . . Socks

MERRY CHRISTMAS FROM

LAYTON'S

STYLE DISTINGUISHED CLOTHES

SPECIAL OFFER TO ALL COLLEGE STUDENTS
One Year's Subscription to

THE CHRISTIAN SCIENCE MONITOR

An International Daily Newspaper
$6 a Year Instead of $12

Subscriptions will be taken by the Christian Science Organization

Box 837, or 141 Landis

Christmas With A Mexican Accent!

Check your gift list - - - then make a bee-line to our holiday-wise MEXICAN SHOP where it's not too late to be thoughtful! We've a wonderful collection of gifts for everyone on your list.

THE MEXICAN SHOP
"Between College and Town"
215 W. COLLEGE AVE.

Our Gowns and Dresses
Will Make Her Xmas
A Merry One

The French Shop

SHE'S FOR US...SHE WEARS DORIS DODSONS!

Rushed off your feet by the best sororities . . . dashing out to the gayest parties . . . always looking super special—that's a picture of you in your smart Doris Dodson Junior Originals . . . styled to dramatize your personality.

Sizes seven to fifteen.

Doris Dodson JUNIOR ORIGINALS

From 10.95-14.95

Linden's

SWING STAR OF THE BIG TOP
PRESENTING LALAGE WHO HAS THRILLED MILLIONS OF CIRCUS FANS WITH HER DARING ONE-ARM GIANT SWING
SHE MUST BE UP 40 FEET—AND NOT A SIGN OF A SAFETY NET!
SWINGING OUT BY HER RIGHT ARM, LALAGE STARTS HER MARATHON OF BACKWARD SPINS.
SHE'S TRYING TO BEAT HER RECORD OF 75 TURNS
I'D HATE TO TRY ONE TURN—EVEN WITH A NET!
WHILE THOUSANDS WATCH IN BREATHLESS AWE, THE PRETTY STAR CLICKS OFF TURN AFTER TURN UNTIL SHE IS SPINNING AT THE RATE OF A FULL TURN PER SECOND.
YOU'D THINK HER ARM WOULD BREAK—OR SHE'D LOSE HER GRIP
I'VE COUNTED 90 TURNS—91-92-93-THIS IS TERRIFIC!
101 COMPLETE TURNS!
ARE YOU SURE YOU'RE ALL RIGHT?
HERE—HAVE A CAMEL
GRAND! A CAMEL WOULD SUIT ME TO A 'T'
I ALWAYS SMOKE CAMELS. THEY SUIT MY 'T-ZONE' TO A 'T' CAMEL
Lalage

R. J. Reynolds Tobacco Company, Winston-Salem, North Carolina

YOUR "T-ZONE" WILL TELL YOU... T for Taste...T for Throat... that's your proving ground for any cigarette. See if Camels don't suit your "T-Zone" to a "T."

Camels

COSTLIER TOBACCOS

Aerial star of Ringling Bros.-Barnum & Bailey Circus

Sorority Chit Chat

December 14 seems to be the most popular day on the social calendar for the sorority groups and the Christmas parties they have planned to provide a few minutes relaxation between exams. Pledge parties and skits still hold their own among Greek social functions with after dinner coffees helping to climax the social season for this quarter.

• • •

Jean O'Steen, Kay Harrison, and Barbara King were in charge of a spaghetti supper at the Kappa Alphe Theta house last Sunday.

On December 14, Christmas festivities will be held at the house. The pledges will give their skit and original song afterwards.

• • •

Last Sunday night Kappa Delta gave a picnic at Games Woods with vesper services afterwards led by Mac Cooper.

• • •

The Phi Mus are having their annual Christmas party also on December 14. Mary Jane Lassiter is in charge of the festivities with co-workers Frances Taylor, Betty Jean Giberson, Margaret Tooley and Mary Ann Berry. A surprise Santa Claus will be there and gifts will be exchanged.

• • •

Delta Zeta pledges are giving a Christmas party for the members December 14. Nancy Jo Gonzales is in charge of the activities. Later in the evening "little" and "big" sisters will exchange gifts and the pledges will present their program.

• • •

Sigma Kappa members and pledges will give their annual Christmas party next Tuesday at which time pledge "mothers" and "daughters" will exchange gifts. Pledges will sing their pledge songs after the festivities of the evening.

• • •

Alpha Chi Omega pledges gave a night club party for the members the first of last week.

On Sunday of last week, patrons and patronesses enjoyed a coffee at the house with Jane Arnold in charge of arrangements.

A Christmas party will be given by the members for the pledges December 14.

• • •

Mrs Dodge, house mother of Zeta Tau Alpha, gave an informal party last week for three bride-elects, Sue Walters Arnold, Dorothy Peacock and Dana Willson.

Nicky Sartoris honored Dorothy Peacock with a shower last Wednesday evening. Thursday night patrons and patronesses were entertained at an after dinner coffee at the house.

On Sunday, December 15, members, pledges and guests will enjoy their annual Christmas party.

The ZTA party for other sorority pledges was held Tuesday, November 26 with a Thanksgiving theme carried out by favors and a skit. The setting for the latter was a fourth grade classroom where the "professor" and several "pupils" related Columbus's discovery of America and the founding of the 13 original colonies (the 13 sororities represented by pledges).

• • •

The annual Christmas party held last night headed the Tri Delta social calendar for this week. A brightly decorated tree centered the jook room of the house and the evening's main event was the singing of original songs by the pledges.

• • •

The Pi Phi's were honored this week with a visit from Mrs John Tyler, their Zeta province president. Mrs Tyler was entertained by the respective classes and pledges for breakfast, lunch and dinner.

• • •

Delta Phi Epsilon honored their housemother, Mrs Murr, and their faculty advisor, Miss Lucille Wagner, at a coffee Tuesday evening at the house.

• • •

Last Tuesday evening the A D Pi's entertained Tallahassee alumnae and patrons at a coffee. The pledges presented a short skit in which they sang their original songs.

• • •

Last night the Alpha Z's held an informal program with Mr David Avant as guest speaker.

The Alpha Z's will exchange gifts at a Christmas get-together on the Sunday during exam week. The actives will present a skit for the pledges and there will be the traditional singing of Christmas carols.

• • •

The Alpha Gams have also chosen December 14 as the date for their annual Christmas party. Betsy Bird, social chairman, is in charge of all arrangements and names have been drawn for exchanging gifts. As is their custom, the gifts which the Alpha Gams present to one another will be toys which later will be sent to the children in the two summer camps sponsored by the sorority. Also at the Christmas party, the pledges will entertain the members with their original songs.

FSC Nursery School Children Expect Good Santa Claus

"I want a tricycle, a wagon, a little jeep and a Shetland pony" said 4-year-old Mickey of the Florida State College Nursery School as his eyes lit up like an electric Christmas tree cherub's. "And I want a piggie that plays the piano," beamed 3-year-old Dee Anne in response to the same question as to what she had asked Santa Claus to bring her for Christmas.

The colorfully wrapped presents from Santa to little blonde 3-year-old Sherry will not be much of a surprise, because, she confided, "I dreamed I went to the North Pole, and I saw Santa Claus making all my toys, and I'm gonna have a baby-doll that says 'Mama'."

Kitty, 3-year-old daughter of John and Vivian Sherlock, History and English Fellows in those departments on this campus, said excitedly, "I want lots of things—but not everything," she added after a moment's reflection. Kitty went on to say quite generously that she wanted Santa Claus to bring her older sister, Ellen, a tricycle and that she wanted a "velocipede" for herself.

David, 4-year-old son of Mrs Harry Nicholson, student at FSC, is confident that Santa Claus is going to bring him an electric train that he can ride in all the way to Jacksonville." Electric trains are high on the lists of many of the nursery school children with pianos and footballs as runner-up items.

The nursery school, with Miss Betty Hatch as director, is run by Florida State College for 2-year-old to 5-year-old children of working or student mothers. At present there are about 60 children enrolled. The school cares for the children from 6 o'clock in the morning until 5 o'clock in the afternoon for the convenience of the mothers.

Areo Club Elects Cone as President

Vera Cone was elected president of the newly organized campus Aero club at the first meeting of the organization, held last night in 104 History building. Mr Ivan Monroe was selected adult sponsor for the club at this time, and tentative plans for the club charter were drawn up.

Other officers also elected at this meeting were: Jackie Story, vice-president; Margaret Barnett, secretary, and Betty Sue Gray, treasurer. Faculty sponsors for the group will be selected at a later meeting.

All students, including men enrolled at the University Branch, who are interested in aviation and in becoming charter members of the Aero club must be present at the second meeting, according to Jackie Story, vice-president of the organization. This meeting will be held on January 9.

KDP Has Party

Alpha Delta chapter of Kappa Delta Pi, education honorary, held initiation services and a Christmas party last Tuesday afternoon in the Rowena Longmire Lounge.

The following girls were initiated: Virginia Fran Gallemore, Ruth Jones, Beatrice Lewis, Julia Nesius, Mary Louis Perfect, and Mabel Ruth Pope.

Following an annual tradition, Miss Martha Chapman, English professor, conducted the Christmas party. The members sang carols and enjoyed refreshments.

Out of the 4300 varieties of flowers grown in Europe, only 420 have agreeable perfume.

Religious Groups Plan Convention, Initiation, Play

Plans for a Hillel convention, Newman club initiation, and a play to be presented by Methodist students are foremost on the calendar of events for religious groups.

The regular meeting of the Hillel Foundation was held Tuesday afternoon at Temple Israel. At the meeting, Irene Gross, president, announced that members at Florida State College have been invited to attend a Hillel convention in Havana, Cuba, during the Christmas vacation. The convention plans were outlined and discussed during this meeting.

Plans for a supper celebration of Chanukah, the Feast of Lights, were announced by Polly Marks, social chairman. This supper will be given December 14 in the Temple vestry, at which time a play portraying the spirit of Chanukah will be given by Sonya Heyman, cultural chairman. She will be assisted by members of her committee.

Rabbi Lorge, Hillel director, announced that the University of Miami foundation is sponsoring a debate tournament for Florida Hillel members next quarter. It was decided at this time to send several members to Miami to represent FSC in the tournament.

• • •

Between 70 and 60 members of the Newman Club were taken to the Catholic church in a special chartered bus November 24, Newman Club Sunday, for the initiation of its 49 new members.

Father Joseph M Borg, moderator, presented each candidate with the Newman club colors and a Miraculous medal. Ann Parker, freshmen advisor to the club, pinned them on each new member as Gloria Basila, president, pronounced the official words of enrollment.

At 7:30 that night a coffee in honor of the new members was held in the clubroom of the Longmire building. Many of the parishioners and faculty members, including Dr and Mrs Paul J Coughlin, club sponsors, were present. Entertainment was given to more than a hundred guests by Mary Baxter and Olga Vega playing piano solos; a sextet of girls sang a number of popular tunes; by Gloria Basila; and the new Schubert's "Ave Maria" was sung. Male members of the Newman Club sang "I've Been Working on the Railroad".

The initiates were: Ann Barton, Jan Clark, Marguerite von Reeden, Beatrice Oblesby, Aileen Murphy, Ellen Bossidy, Ruth Fiezl, Olga Vega, Marie Berry, Muriel Perry, Marion Marotta, Dina Di Fabrizio, Angelique Vocelle, Helen Burch, Mary Agnes Parker, Mary K Murray, Mary Baxter, Catherine Colonneso, Juanita Muller, Sarah Sanders, Kathleen Park.

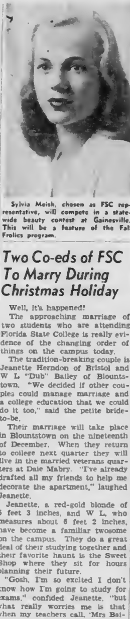
Anna Fernandez, Violetta Sosin, Rose Marie Nunnari, Jeanne Erickson, Angel Lappington, Nina Shuman, Marguerite Myers, Joan Downey, Edith Clark, Amante Semmes, Doris McLeod, Frances Williams, Violet James, Thyrza Wilcox, Jean Dobarganes, Mary Theresa Sims, Patricia Roache, Helen Hobbs, Anna Holden, Roberta McAtee, Catherine Austin, Lois Brinkmann, Margaret Braun, Leonard Brooks, Thomas Kane, Ross Schwelm, Basil Vocelle, Maurice Arnow.

• • •

A play entitled "No Room in the Hotel" will be presented at 6:30 p m in the Methodist student house on December 15 by the Methodist young people.

Characters in the play are portrayed by Garth Bower as the Man, Grace Trice as the Woman, Francis McLamore, who takes the part of the Reporter, Mary Jane Lassiter playing the part of the Clerk, John Cash as the Traveling Man, Evelyn Johnson as the Scrub Woman, Lemovne Cash who plays the Senator, Jackie Fosdick who is the Senator's Wife and Bruce Flanders as the Bellhop.

After the play there will be a Christmas party at the student house at which time the usual exchanging of gifts will be dispensed with and in its place gifts for overseas relief boxes will be given.



Sylvia Meish, chosen as FSC representative, will compete in a statewide beauty contest at Gainesville. This will be a feature of the Fall Frolics program.

Two Co-eds of FSC To Marry During Christmas Holiday

Well, it's happened!

The approaching marriage of two students who are attending Florida State College is really evidence of the changing order of things on the campus today.

The tradition-breaking couple is Jeanette Herndon of Bristol and W L "Dub" Bailey of Blountstown. "We decided if other couples could manage marriage and a college education that we could do it too," said the petite bride-to-be.

Their marriage will take place in Blountstown on the nineteenth of December. When they return to college next quarter they will live in the married veterans quarters at Dale Mabry. "I've already drafted all my friends to help me decorate the apartment," laughed Jeanette.

Jeanette, a red-gold blonde of 5 feet 3 inches, and W L, who measures about 6 feet 2 inches, have become a familiar twosome on the campus. They do a great deal of their studying together and their favorite haunt is the Sweet Shop where they sit for hours planning their future.

"Gosh, I'm so excited I don't know how I'm going to study for exams," confided Jeanette, "but what really worries me is that when my teachers call, 'Mrs Bailey', instead of 'Miss Herndon'.—I won't remember to answer them!"

Chair Makes Trip

The Florida State College mixed choir, under the direction of Mr Herman Gunter, presented a performance of Handel's Messiah in the Jasper High school auditorium last Wednesday evening at 8:00. The coed orchestra, directed by Mr William Presser, accompanied the choir to Jasper.

The bass solos of the Oratoria were sung by Mr Gunter, and tenor solos by Mr Walter James. The soprano and alto solos were omitted from this performance.

The Christmas oratorio, which is to be presented on Sunday evening at FSC, was not presented in costume. Girls wore black dresses, and boys were dressed in dark trousers and white shirts with maroon neckties. During the performance at FSC, singers will be dressed in white.

The approximately 100 members of the mixed choir and the approximately 25 members of the orchestra were entertained at a dinner in the High School cafeteria as guests of the school.

The singers and musicians made the trip to Jasper in special buses, leaving campus at 3:30 in the afternoon and returning late that evening.

French families are growing smaller. In 1835, the average was four children, now it is only two.

Former CGA President Returns to FSC To Become Assistant English Instructor

"My return to Florida State College two years after graduation has proved quite enjoyable," stated Miss Jere Turner, assistant instructor in English and former president of College Government Association on campus.

Miss Turner, who is getting accustomed to her status as a teacher and not as a student, believes that FSC has become a very different college as far as the students are concerned. "The effects of co-education are quite noticeable, plus the fact that the faculty and student body is much larger since I returned," she said.

"The most amusing incidents have occurred now that I am on the other side," exclaimed Miss Turner. "Imagine the uncomfortable feeling I experience during meal times when students who happen to sit with me begin to pour out their troubles concerning their teachers and professors! It is rather difficult for me to console them," she continued.

The library presented a difficulty which Miss Turner had to conquer at the beginning of the year. It took a bit of persuasion to convince the reserve room employes that, being on the faculty, she could reserve books for her classes. "They are now acquainted with me, and I have at last been accepted as a teacher!" laughingly exclaimed Miss Turner.

At the first faculty meeting of the year, Miss Turner was quite astonished to see many of her former classmates introduced as new faculty members also. "Having these faculty friends here causes me to look for other familiar faces which I used to see on campus several years ago," she stated.

After graduating from FSC Miss Turner attended the University of Virginia in Charlottesville, Virginia, where she worked on a master's degree.

Spirogira Initiation Climaxes Activity

Breakfast Honors Goats Party Given for Members

Following a week of various activities, 28 goats were initiated into Spirogira, Odd honorary, the weekend of November 22.

The new Spirogira members are: Eleanor Bragg, Anne Hunter, Chris Morrison, Nancy Wright, Barbara Mann, Pat Dillard, Shirley Rodgers, Mary Lou Norwood, Lea Wells, Nita Nord, Polly Tuttle, Ann Parker, Catherine Gallagher, "Bookie" McMichael, Betty Jane Gardner, Margery Holm, Marian Looby, Louise Sims, Barbara Wickham, Ann Carter, Ann Seaward, Lucy Harding, Sis Miller, Elaine Brown, Shirley Palmer, Laura Simpson, Helen Looby and Virginia Goodell.

After the initiation one of the new members, Anne Hunter, solved a mystery that has baffled the Spirogira members since October 28 by confessing that she sent the coffin-shaped box containing a skeleton to Frances Myers, Spirogira president, as a joke. The cadaver that caused so much consternation is now in the biology department.

Sunday, November 24, a breakfast was given at the Sweet Shop by the Spirogira members in honor of the new members. Other activities included a party given by the goats Friday night, November 22, for the members and a party for the team members given by Spirogira and Esteren after Playnight, November 23.

Traditianal Dinner

A Christmas dinner will be held for all the seniors in Gilchrist dining hall Saturday, December 14, at 6:00 p m. They will all attend in their caps and gowns. After the dinner, they will go caroling to the governor's mansion and various faculty homes.

Helen Stone and Sarah Ellen Glenn are in charge of the decorations and Ruth Ervin the caroling.

Students Organize State Horn Society

Six students at Florida State College have organized the Florida State Horn Society, the first of its kind at the institution.

The sextet includes Jean Elden, Ralph Hartsfield, Peggy May, Wanda Miller, Annette Vitsky, and Kitty Wagner. They will play in recital for the first time when they are featured in the Band Concert second quarter under the auspices of Owen F Sellers, director of the band. They hope to branch out into professional activities in the future and will accept offers to play for other groups.

This group is analogous to a chamber music ensemble. It will specialize in chorales, arrangements of symphonic selections, and other types of music appropriate to horn renditions.

Anyone who can qualify for admission to the society is welcome to attend the meetings which are held in Westcott 113 on Tuesday afternoons.

Organists to Have Christmas Party

The Tallahassee branch chapter of the American Guild of Organists will hold a Christmas party and program at 4:30 p m, Sunday in the tower organ studio of Westcott building. The Trinity Methodist junior choir, under direction of Walter James of the Florida State College faculty, will present a program of varied selections at this time Mrs W R Latham and Nell Duncan are in charge of refreshments for this occasion; Fawn Trawick, decorations; and Miss Rebecca Rodenberg, program. The following organ selections will be included: Pachelbel's "From Heaven High to Earth I Come" played by Eleanor Caldwell; Brahins' "Lo, How A Rose E'er Blooming" played by Sally Slater; Bach-Brigg's 'Fanfare Fugue" by Sue Petit; Bach's "Pastorale" by Margy Haldeman; from The Guest, Gillette's "Behold There Came Wisemen" by Mildred Marm; and Guilman's "Processional March" by Irene Coleman.

Juniar Bazaar

Junior Bazaar, the new young woman's fashion magazine, has because of publication difficulties, restricted its circulation to high school and college students. Mr Jack Gaddy will be in the Flambeau editorial office, second floor of the Longmire building, on Monday afternoon from 1 to 6 o'clock to receive subcriptions from students. Subscription rates are three dollars for one year, five dollars for two years.

A seat urchin annually produces as many eggs as there are people in the city of New York.

Christmas Means Home Gifts
COMPLETE HOME FURNISHINGS
Philco and Zenith Radios
COLLINS FURNITURE COMPANY
105 S. MONROE PHONE 575

Christmas CHEER
It takes too long to say all we'd like to about the pleasure it's been serving you this year so we'll just say, "MERRY CHRISTMAS"
MARTIN & DALTON DEPT. DRUG STORE
210-212 S. Adams St.

MILLER'S Bootery

- Locally Owned
- Locally Operated
- No Connection With Any Other Store

Hand Sewn Moccasin

You've never known barefoot freedom and ease of action unless you've worn true hand-sewn moccasins. And when they're Sportsters, they're tops

In Brown Calf . . . 6.95

Exclusive With
MILLER'S Bootery
College Ave.

Spellbinder
50¢ plus tax
xJust Red
for Lip Appeal
You don't need a soap box . . . leave it to a polished dance floor and The Season's RIGHT Red to win them over! Just Red is so right it's the only lipstick shade Roger & Gallet offer. On the lips, its beauty lasts—and how!
xLIPSTICK
ROGER & GALLET
Perfume • Dry Perfume • Lip Ade • Toilet Soap

SING A SONG OF CHRISTMAS,
OF PEACE AND GLADNESS
It's Christmas . . and we're hoping it will be the best one you've ever known . . . with happiness for you and yours that will last throughout the year!
DEVOE'S PAINT SUPPLIES
WARD'S PAINT STORE
204 S. ADAMS

YOU'LL FIND THE PERFECT GIFT FOR THEIR HOME
AT
GRANT FURNITURE COMPANY
"TALLAHASSEE'S OLDEST FURNITURE DEALER"
125 S. MONROE PHONE 100

cBride Plans or 300 Men

Male Students to Be Housed in New Dorms

About 300 new male students are pected to enroll for the second arter beginning January 3, 1947, cording to announcement made Dr Otis McBride, dean of men r the Tallahassee branch of the niversity of Florida. Several new ildings at Dale Mabry are being rtitioned into rooms for use as en dormitories.

Purchasing of these buildings is rt of the program to expand e facilities at Dale Mabry to commodate 1,000 men students. he sum of $150,000 was voted for e expansion program recently the Florida state cabinet. This the remainder of the $300,000 equested by the state board of ontrol last August.

New students will find an almost mplete unit next quarter, said r McBride. The Dale Mabry afeteria has been equipped to rovide meals for additional stu- ents. Miss Edith Manford, head etitian at the base, stated that e dining hall wing of the cafe- ria which is not in use now will e opened next quarter.

A bookstore has been installed the administration building and equests for new stock are being led as soon as possible. A new st office, in operation for the ast several weeks, offers complete stal service and is equipped with ndividual boxes for students and aculty members residing at Dale Mabry.

Another convenience is a small rocery line recently added to fill e needs of married veterans. he stock of groceries is being ncreased daily as demands for eeded products are received by e store. Most needs, with the xception of fresh meats and egetables, can be met.

At present the purchasing is be- g done through the bookstore nce the new store has not been et up for purchasing facilities.

Teeth are completely formed in sums at the time of a child's

Student Has Flighty Ambition For Girls and Boys of FSC

Have you noticed a small Piper cub being flown over the campus of Florida State College? The pilot is Jackie Story, a sophomore at FSC from Lakeland, who has 34 solo hours and 20 dual hours of flying to her credit.

Jackis started taking flying lessons in Tallahassee last March, flying whenever she could find time to leave her studies for a few hours. She [illegible] the smaller type of plane and has flown a BT-13, which is a larger plane. In order to get her pilot's license, Jackie had to fly to Jacksonville from Lakeland, the longest trip that she has made.

"My mother is responsible for my interest in flying," Jackie said. "She had hoped that I would know how to fly before I could drive an automobile, but that was impossible as I started driving at the age of 12," she continued. "I was not able to start my lessons before last year because there was no one in Lakeland who taught flying. Since I have gotten my own license I have not been able to fly on long trips because I haven't my own plane," she added.

Jackie's ambition is to have a Republic Sea-bee. It is a four passenger plane and is equipped to land in water and on the ground. Jackis said that it won't be much longer before she will be able to get her plane as they are starting to deliver them for the first time since the war.

"A club should be organized at FSC for all those students who fly," Jackie stated. "Through this club other students interested in flying could obtain some information about the lessons and the general requirements to fly."

Jackie said that the opportunities for every one to learn to fly are increasing and those who already fly should help others to get started. "Airplanes are here to stay," said she.

Players Produce Shaw's Pygmalion On FSC Campus

"You cawn't do it, old boy!"

"I'd jolly well like to know why not?" answers Higgins, who is Shaw's modern version of Pygmalion.

Out of a London tenement comes Eliza who wants a job in a flower shop but can not speak proper English. She goes to Higgins to take lessons in diction, and on a bet, Higgins undertakes to pass her off as a duchess in six months time.

The result is "Shaw on a Holiday," says Time. "Some of the funniest scenes in modern theater," says the speech department.

The playmakers are busy on British stage diction, on Cockney accents, and on elaborate settings using three complete scene changes under the aegis of Miss Yvonne Cody, instructor in speech, and Mr David Avant.

With the production in its third week of rehearsal, many girls who tried out are still grieving over the lost part of Eliza Doolittle. During those crucial tryout days the director, Miss Cody, was showered with cockney accents from morning till night by ambitious students.

Some desperate "Cockneys" who wished to get rid of their rivals were seen looking around for the arsenic left over from the last play.

In spite of the contest, everyone took it good-naturedly when Joy Fleming won the coveted role of Eliza. Co-starring is Herbert Aldous as Higgins.

The supporting cast includes Gloria Wells as Mrs Pearce, Evelyn Johnson as Mrs Higgins, Katherine Moore as Mrs Eynsford-Hill, Claire St John as Miss Eynsford-Hill, Curtis Proctor as Freddie, Herman Gunter as Doolittle, Mary Anne Cannon and Pat Yates as bystanders and Barbara Pennell as a parlor maid.

YW Cabinet Draws Quarter to a Close

The cabinet of the Young Women's Christian Association held its last meeting of the quarter in the clubroom of the Longmire building Tuesday night at 9:30. After the business was completed, refreshments were served by the social chairman, Dorothea McRea, and the group sang carols. The party was in honor of Dixie Kennedy, Willardeen Pulliam, and Betty Lee who will be interning next quarter. A Christmas present was given Miss Phyllis Greife, executive director of YWCA, at this time.

The YWCA will be in charge of the Christmas chimes this year which are to be played over the amplifier from 5 to 5:30 the last five week-days students are on campus from Wednesday, December 11, through Tuesday of exam week. Dixie Kennedy and Jane Ranson will take charge of arrangements.

Mrs Coyle E Moore was elected as the chairman of the advisory board last week.

Classified

LOST—
Lost . . . I have lost my beautiful, new, Parker "51" fountain pen and I am very sad about the whole thing. Please let me know if you've seen it around. It has my name engraved on the top and it is black with a silver top. Thank youa muchly. Betty Nelson, 112 Magnolia.

LOST—
Solid gold mechanical pencil. Initials MEN on side. Sentimental value. Lost in Longmire building, Monday, November 25. Please return to Lois Newark, 307 Broward.

'FLEET'S'

The Ideal Christmas Gifts!
Monogrammed Stationery, Napkins
Matches and Other Personalized Items
AT
THE BOOK CORNER

A Gift from Turner's Will Please Him

HICKOK

Initial Buckles

Monogram Jewelry is a mark of distinction . . . he'll cheer your choice of a smart Hickok Initial Buckle on handsome leather Belt. Illustrated sets $3.50. Other sets to $10.00

Turner's
Doorway to Fashions

Keeps You in the Pink

...or Black
...or White

"POWER Miracle"
by
MISS SEVENTEEN

Figure-firming to your taste — in petal pink, sophisticated black, or saintly white. "Power Miracle" charms your curves with bi-directional stretch. Slims you, trims you, controls with a caress! In girdle, panty, or brief-brief . . .

$5 to $10 at better stores

Miss Seventeen
JR. FOUNDATIONS
New York 1, N. Y.

Holiday Gift Thrills!

Compacts
Cigarette Cases
Powder Mitts
Perfume Atomizers
Herb Farm Soaps
Panties
Belts
Scarfs
Hand Bags
Wallets
Coin Purses
Hair Ornaments
Handkerchiefs
Jewelry
Dormitory Bootees
Fur White Bunny Mittens
Sachets
Woodhue Cologne
Tigress Cologne
Lingerie

Our Twenty-Fourth Year of Christmas Service in Tallahassee

All Purchases Gift Wrapped
Without Cost

The Vogue

Library Opens Mabry Branch

Opening Set for Today, Lynn Will Supervise

The Dale Mabry branch library is scheduled to open today according to Miss Louise Richardson, head librarian at Florida State College. It will be under the supervision of Miss Nell Lynn, a graduate of Emory University's librarian school, who comes here from the Albertson Public Library at Orlando.

At present only a limited number of books are available. The general basic reference books, including dictionaries, encyclopedias and other research material, will be on hand as will special reserve books. Only books that are of use in, and pertaining to, subjects being taught at the base will be kept in reserve. A number of fiction books and popular novels have been secured and a large order has been placed for more, but the shipment is not expected to arrive for some time. The greatest portion of the books for the new library were taken from the FSC library, and in addition to the ones that were ordered and bought, faculty members donated many.

An effort is being made to collect a large list of magazine subscriptions. These will deal chiefly with science and mechanics. The only out-of-state newspaper subscribed to is the Sunday New York Times, but from 20 to 25 Florida newspapers are contributing their subscriptions.

A heating plant has been secured to replace the proposed pot-bellied stoves, and flourescent lighting is being installed.

"We are making every attempt to have a comfortable place in which the men at the base may etudy and read. Of course, the auxiliary at Dale Mabry cannot hope to ever match the FSC library which has been growing for the past 50 years, but it will be kept as up to date as possible," Miss Richardson stated.

A staff of three will be maintained until Christmas. It will consist of Mrs H F Becker, Mrs Eloise Dillon and Miss Lynn, who will be in charge

Organ Students Stort AGO Chopter

Organ students of Florida State College met November 22 to form a petition for a college chapter of the American Guild of Organists. The Tallahassee branch of AGO is the first college chapter of that organization to be formed in the state.

The group chose the following officers, who are awaiting ratification: Edith Smith, chairman; Sally Slater, secretary; Nell Duncan, treasurer; and Courtland Morper, librarian. The chapter will be under the direction of Mrs Ramona C Beard, head of the organ department. Meetings will be held in the tower organ room et 4:30 p m on the third Friday of every month. Programs will be announced.

SHELL MONEY

Cowrie shells, belonging to a species of mollusk, have served a greater number of human beings as a medium of exchange than any other money devised by man.

LOOK RECORD REVIEW

TOPS IN WAX—Vol. 2 King Cole Trio. Capitol'e album release of their top-flight trio provides nearly thirty minutes of today's best record entertainment. Nat "King" Cole (pieno-vocals), Oscar Moore (guitarist), and Johnny Miller (bass) dip into the song hits of the past and produce memoreble song end instrumental stimulation. The album offers four 10-inch discs with these titles in standout: I Don't Know Why and I'm In The Mood For Love, both with King Cole vocals; and, as instrumentals: To A Wild Rose eod I Know That You Know. Here is music with inspired arranging and a jazz beat . . . it's King Cole Trio Time!

Nat "King" Cole

* * *

VOCAL ALBUM—Decca has The Andrew Sisters in a five record album containing the songs that made them famous and kept them et the top. All sides are in the effervescing and vivacious style typical of the Andrew gals. Some of the best remembered: Bei Mir Bist Du Schoen, Apple Blossom Time, Pennsylvonio Polka, Joseph! Joseph! and Beat Me Doddy.

* * *

VOCAL STANDOUTS—Columbia issues Dinah Shore's hit selection, Two Silhouettes, from the Walt Disney production Moke Mine Music. Thie goes down as one of Dineh's best. On the reverse, she singa Thot Little Dream Got Nowhere. Liltin' Martha Tilton sings You Make Me Feel So Young, an effective rhythm tune, and Somewhere In The Night, a ballad (Capitol). Eddie Howard and Trio make a superb recording of the hit that is currently sweeping the country—To Each His Own; then be with band reverses to Careless (Majestic). For a good femme vocal of To Each His Own: Trudy Irwin on a 4-Star label

Dinah Shore

* * *

EFFECT MUSIC—Boyd Meets Stravinsky. Boyd Raeburn, who has the most talked of band in the country, waxes his best of the year. Raeburn produces effects, not moods. In Stravinsky, Boyd does e subtle three-part descriptive: Part One introduces the band as it might be in a pre-Stravinsky cycle—fast, with tricky effects, as any modern type band might play it. The cycle closes with a drum break which also introduces Part Two. This represents the epic meeting of Boyd and Stravinsky. The part closes with another drum break to open Part Three. Here is the modernist Raeburn of post-Stravinsky influence, whose defiance of tradition has excited nationwide attention. The reverse, I Have Only Eyes For You, has a David Allyn vocal (Jewel).

* * *

DANCE—Woody Herman and his combo from within the band play a fast jump—Fon It. Featured are the vibes of Red Norvo, Woody'a vocals, and solos by tenormen "Flio" Phillips, Bill Harria (trombone) and Sonny Berman (trumpet). Backing this up, Woody and band play Blowin' Up A Storm. Solos on this side that rate special mention: Woody on clarinet; Chubby Jackson, bass; Billy Bauer, guitar, and Bill Harris, trombone (Columbia). Capitol makes a scoring with their second Billy Butterfield release: Sharp Scarf, an adaptation from Chaminade Solo honors are divided between Butterfield and Bill Stegmeyer (clarinet). Both eugment the effectiveness of other'a passages. On the reverse—Rumors Are Flying, with e Pat O'Connor vocal.

Billy Butterfield

—Sam Rowland

NEW AND WORTHY IMPRESSIONS IN WAX

THAT'S MY HOME—Gene Krupa, dance (Columbia)

NIGHT AND DAY—Russ Case, dance (Victor)

TO EACH HIS OWN—The Ink Spots, vocal (Decca)

AREN'T YOU KIND OF GLAD WE DID—Vaughn Monroe, dance (Victor)

HANGOVER SQUACE—Ray McKinley, dance (Majestic)

Stewart Receives Omicron Nu Cup

The annual presentation of the Omicron Nu scholarship cup was awarded this year to Doris Stewart at the meeting of the Home Economics Club last Wednesday in the Longmire building at 7:45 p m. Honorable mention was given to Margaret Phipps.

Miss Mary Devers, instructor in the home economics department at FSC and member of Omicron Nu, spoke on the "Aims and Purposes of Omicron Nu and activities of local Pi chapter. President of the club, Esther Dale, made the presentation at the close of the meeting. Afterwards a reception was held in the club room honoring the winner.

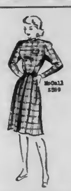
The cup is awarded to the sophomore home economics major who maintains the highest average during her freshman year. Doris Stewart is accredited with an average of 2.77. The holding of this honor cup was begun in 1926 and has been awarded each year since that time.

Trovelers Note

Anyone who would like a ride to Mississippi after exams via Montgomery and Tuscaloosa, Alabama: and Columbus, Mississippi: may contact Mr J G Wheeler at the bookstore.

Books Due Mondoy

All library books will be due in tha library by closing time Monday, December 16. However, the library will be open during the regular hours until 1 p m Wednesday, December 18.



Christmas Fashions

These days your bead is in one dizzy whirl, and you have the hours and minutes counted till that glorious Christmas holiday. It's all going to be one breathless round, and you know full well that'a the only way to live. You have Christmas dances on your mind, and plans for winning stag lines. There'll be afternoons full of fun, too—skating, skiing, and movie dates galore. And there'll be a towering Christmas tree showed with tinsel, and just what you've been yearning for wrapped up in shining packages under the tree. Of course all this makes that geometry theorem just twice as hard to learn, and the corollary next to impossible.

And then you're reminded of your very own "corollaries"—those dresses now hanging in your closet, waiting tot ake you gaily through all the flurry of this Christmas fun. You've reviewed your dresses one by one, and you know by heartw hich one you're wearing where. But you're pining for just one more holiday dress, and the minute Mother says "yes" you know exactly what you're going to choose. Your new dress will be a bold and beautiful toast-warm plaid, designed for curling up in front of open fires, and for looking just right among your cousins and your uncles and your aunts on Christmas Day. Such a dress is the one we've sketched. You'll treasure its smooth simplicity, its high throat-hugging collar,a nd its minuescule middle You'll hunt for a kitten-soft wool plaid for this dress, and it will be a plaid with lots of bright, bright red in it. When it's done, you'll add your favorite leather belt. Or choose a two-piece wool, and you'll have a skirt htat can go places with any sweater as well as with its own topper. This is a light-hearted two-piecer with the new long-line sweater over-blouse, and generous box pleats all around the skirt. It, too, has a high little collar, and lines that will do the most for a precious plaid. Choose either design, and you're ready to meet each and every moment in your holiday whirligig.

FSC Groduote Is Technician

Virginia Kinner, the first Florida State College graduate to receive the graduate Fellowship of Medical Technology, is now a certified medical technician from Saint Vincent's hospital in Jacksonville.

Two other FSC alumnae, Mery Shelley Carr and Jacqueline Partin, have recently taken the examination given by the American Registry of Medical Technology, but the results of these tests are still unknown.

In February another fellowship of this kind is to be available and elong with it $1000 will be given. Any graduate in medical technology who is interested is requested to go to the personnel office.

Tumbling Belles Win Campus Males

"Gosh, you're cute, what's your name?"

"Wouldn't you like to be my girl?"

The two blushing girls had been surrounded by n group of entranced admirers before they were aware that they were being observed by the boys who were waiting for the bus.

This doesn't sound like the usual scene on this campus, but it happened the other day over in front of Bryan when two pert young misses decided to try out their favorite sport of rolling down the hill beside the sunken gardens of Bryan Hall.

Only five short years of experience with the problems of this world hadn't quite prepared them for all the sudden masculine attention they were attracting—so they ducked their heads and ran as fast as their short legs would allow them.

But wait until they are old enough to go to college!

The southern part of the Gulf Stream moves at a speed of four miles an hour, according to estimates.

Workshop Program To Feature Carols

Spanish House Will Present WTAL Radio Show Tonight

Christmas carols in Spanish will be sung on the radio workshop program tonight at 7:45 over WTAL. The program is presented by the Spanish house under the direction of Miss Carmen L Rivera, residence counselor.

The four carols to be sung are "Silent Night," "Hark the Herald Angels Sing," "Las Posadas", a Mexican carol, and "Los Reyes de Oriente", a carol from Puerto Rico.

Mr Herman Gunter, assistant professor of voice, worked with the group in preparing for the program. The continuity was written by Martha MacCann and will be announced by Joe Hosford, both members of the workshop.

The students at the Spanish house who will sing the carols are Mary Frances Allen, Dot Bush, Shirley Colley, Mary Evans, Lilia Fernandez, Lou Hargis, Ondina Lorbardero, Frances Lyon Annette Maples, Jean Olsen, Elizabeth Pierce Natalina Rogolino, Vivian Schaeffer and Sarah Shriver.

The first broadcast of the radio workship last Friday night was put on by members of the radio class, said Miss Kemper Moore, professor of speech and sponsor of the workshop.

Dem School Band To Have Concert

The first concert of the Demonstration School band will be held on December 13, announced Dr R L Goulding, principal of the school. The band, consisting of approximately 35 students, is under the direction of Mr R G Smith, assistant director of the college band. Also participating at this same time will be the tonette band, composed of 25 student players.

Among other pre-Christmas activities will be the annual Winter Formal dance which the junior high school will hold on December 13 at the school

Dr Goulding also etated that the school will close for the holidays at 3 p m on December 18 with Christmas assembly programs. The classes will be divided into three groups, the primary, elementary and junior high. Each group will present its own special program which will consist of Christmas music and plays.

She used to pay $15 for a permanent—

Phyllis Kenney of New Milfo

Now she gives herself a toni wave at home

Give yourself a Toni! Lovely, long-lasting. Quick, and easy to do

ONLY $1.25

toni home permanent

CREME SALON WAVE

THE SWEET SHOP

TRIPLE SMOKING PLEASURE

A ALWAYS MILDER

B BETTER TASTING

C COOLER SMOKING

OUR OWN Jo Stafford STARRING IN THE CHESTERFIELD SUPPER CLUB ALL NBC STATIONS

ALWAYS BUY CHESTERFIELD

ALL OVER AMERICA—CHESTERFIELD IS TOPS!

Copyright 1946, Liggett & Myers Tobacco

Styled Specially For You

This fashion-wise Miss wears a shoulder length coiffure styled by us . . . to make the rounds from shopping to holiday parties with such pretty savoir faire!

Three Torches Beauty Salon

ACROSS FROM EDUCATION BUILDING

Your Favorite Sweater!

Find it here in our gala collection. "Miss Gotham" slipovers and cardigans . . 5.00 . . 6.95 . . 9.00

Gifts for the Entire Family

P. W. Wilson Co.

TALLAHASSEE'S FINEST DEPARTMENT STORE

—SINCE 1837—